I saw him next in the coffin. His features had assumed a regular and even youthful cast; his lips were evenly closed; and the whole face beamed with a mingled expression of dignity and goodness. The glow of an approaching heaven had left its impress upon his clay.

It was the Bishop's request that his funeral sermon should be preached by Bishop Pierce, whom he always loved as a son. The services, therefore, which were had yesterday afternoon at the Franklin Street church were shaped by this request. We could not wholly forbear paying our tribute to his honored remains; but in view of the more elaborate embalming we hurriedly wrapped him in spices for the present. The order of the funeral ceremonies was as follows:

1. The reading of the introductory service and the hymn 729,
"Why do we mourn departing friends,
Or shake at death's alarms?"
by Rev. J. C. Keener.

2. Prayer by Rev. J. C. Spence.

3. The reading of the ninetieth Psalm and fifteenth of First Corinthians by Rev. H. R. Urquhart.

4. Address by Rev. J. C. Keener.

5. Address by Rev. A. S. Andrews.

6. "I heard a voice," etc., and the collect, by Rev. J. E. Foust.

7. Hymn 739, first and last verses,
"Servant of God, well done; Rest from thy loved employ," etc.,
by Rev. A. S. Andrews.

8. Benediction by Rev. J. C. Keener.

It was the request of Bishop Andrew that he should be buried in Oxford, Georgia, by the side of his first wife; and on last night his remains, accompanied by Rev. A. S. Andrews, Rev. J. W. Rush and Bro. Wm. Otis, left Mobile for Georgia.

I inclose you the substance of my remarks upon this occasion. The very interesting address of Rev. A. S. Andrews should accompany this letter, but he left Mobile so soon after that I did not get it. It is to be hoped that he will furnish the address for publication immediately upon his return. K.

In accordance with the wishes of our venerated father in God these funeral rites take their present form. This company of weeping relatives, friends and sons in the gospel, as the two Marys sitting over against the sepulcher, represent a great sorrow; for all through this wide land there are tens of thousands whose hearts are in unison with the ceremonies of this hour. No servant of God in this country was better known or more universally respected. A ministry of sixty years must develop all the qualities of a man, both official and personal. And in these two lines of the history of this prince in Israel I would now briefly accompany you.

His official life began in 1813, at the age of twenty, when he was received on trial and appointed to the Sultketcher circuit, South Carolina Conference, as assistant preacher. His name was presented by Dr. Lovick Pierce. His presiding elder that year was William M. Kennedy, a man he greatly esteemed. The following year he was sent to Pee Dee district, and young Andrew was appointed to Bladen circuit, in that district, as preacher in charge. In 1815 he was appointed to Warren circuit; in 1816 to the city of Charleston. In 1815 he was ordained by Bishop McKendree to the order of deacon, and two years after to that of elder. In 1817 and 1818 to Wilmington. While there many were added to the church. Year before last, when the Bishop was in much financial perplexity, he received a check for $1,000 from a gentleman living in New Jersey, who announced himself as the son of one who was converted under his ministry at Wilmington, South Carolina, and requesting that his name might never be divulged. In 1819 he was appointed to Columbia, where the Bishop recounts that the "parsonage parlor was furnished with one long bench and two split-bottom chairs," and other accommodations correspondingly narrow. In 1820 and 1821 to Augusta, Georgia; in 1822 and 1823 he was at Savannah, where he passed through the yellow fever; in 1824 he was appointed presiding elder of the Edisto district, South Carolina; in 1825 and 1826 to the Charleston district; in 1827 and 1828 to Charleston station; to Athens and Greensboro, Georgia, in 1829; and in 1830 to Athens and Madison, Georgia. The next year the Georgia Conference was set off from the South Carolina, and he was appointed to Augusta. In 1832, in the thirty-eighth year of his age, after having received twenty appointments, he was elected a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church by the General Conference which met at Philadelphia. Immediately upon his election the churches of Philadelphia offered to give him a house upon the condition that he would reside among them. This and subsequent offers from Missouri, and from Texas and Florida, he declined, believing that the good of the work required that he should reside in Georgia. He continued in the general superintendency of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in company with Bishops Soule, Hedding, Waugh and Morris, until 1844. At the General Conference of that year, upon the division of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Bishops Soule and Andrew chose to remain in the Southern half of the church; and accordingly their names appear in that year as the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Bishop Andrew continued to preside regularly over the Conferences of our church until 1866. At the General Conference which met in New Orleans that year he asked to be relieved from an effective relation, believing that he was no longer physically able to endure the labor of the general superintendency. He was accordingly superannuated, with the request that he would attend and preside at such Conferences and at such times as his health might permit. Since that he has seldom appeared in the chair of an Annual Conference, but the impulse and habit of his soul, long schooled to the work of an itinerant, frequently moved him to visit the churches, and to finish his course amid the gracious refreshings of Christian fellowship. Wherever he went he preached, or, as he styled it, "talked," of the Saviour, urged upon the church the maintenance of sound doctrine, wholesome discipline, and an adherance to the Wesleyan features of Methodism. He attended class meetings whenever opportunity presented. He delighted greatly in talking to Sabbath schools, and had the art of interesting the youngest classes, generally concluding with an affectionate wish that they would pray for him. This he did so earnestly that he has enlisted many children who pray for him when they offer their daily prayer. His last sermon was preached in Felicity Street church, New Orleans, on the nineteenth of February—"He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?"—Mic. vi, 8. On the following Tuesday, about half-past four o'clock in the morning, he was struck with paralysis, and the entire left side became helpless. He was moved to Mobile on the following day, to the residence of Rev. J. W. Rush, his son-in-law, where he died. He retained his mind perfectly to within twenty-four hours of his death, which occurred at twenty minutes after eleven o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, the first day of March. I was present with the Revs. A. S. Andrews, H. R. Urquhart, J. E. Foust, R. M. Powers, J. C. Spence and N. Morris, and with other brethren and sisters beloved, besides his two daughters, his son-in-law, the Rev. J. W. Rush, and grandchildren, as they stood around his bed and saw him breathe his last. He expired without pain or convulsion. That composure and simple dignity of soul which had marked him throughout life now left its impress upon his features as they settled in death.

I next call your attention to his personal history. Jas. Osgood Andrew was born in Wilkes county, Ga., on the third of May, 1792. His father, John Andrew, was a native of Georgia; an itinerant and afterward a local preacher, and for many years supported his family by teaching a country school — a man of much prayer and faith. His mother's maiden name was Cosby—a woman of fine natural taste, strong intellect, fond of flowers and poetry, and deeply pious. She once said to him: "Andrew, I had rather see you a faithful preacher of the gospel than emperor of the world." "And O how she looked when she said it!" The Bishop inherited from her his broad common sense, poetic command of language and lively fancy. She taught him many passages from the poets, which he could repeat to the close of his life, though he had never seen them in any book. In early childhood she molded him into her own cheerful, happy nature. There were about fifty volumes of various sorts in his father's library—the wonder of the neighborhood. These young Andrew read over and over on the way to mill, and at every spare moment in the field, delighting much in the Children of the Abbey, Roderick Random, etc. He here acquired a taste for reading, and continued to be a great reader all his life. He was converted about the age of twelve. He was licensed to preach after being an assistant class leader for one year. When he was about to leave for his first work his mother threw her arms around his neck, kissed him and said: "And now, my son, remember that I live if you stand fast in the Lord and continue faithful in the work of your Master." He had "beat about," as he said, among the colored people and got along very well; but the first time he preached to a white congregation was from the text: "We have left all and followed thee; what shall we have therefor?" On his way to his horse, after the sermon, a prineipal official of the society accosted him and said: "Well, James, if I had heard that sermon before quarterly conference I would not have voted for your license." Young Andrew replied that he thought he was about right, and then mentally resolved to preach no more. But shortly after an old negro — the servant of the official brother—told him that he had been very much blessed under his preaching, and this determined him to continue. During his after-life, no doubt, he often, while preaching to the slaves, felt that he owed them much for that earliest encouragement. Everywhere he went, as minister or Bishop, he attracted the colored race to him, and some of the most eloquent passages of his greatest sermons were a tribute to the simple-hearted piety of the negro. His speeches on missions abounded in incidents that displayed the power of the gospel in the cabins among the plantations of Carolina.

In the same Conference with William Capers, these great spirits mutually admired and developed each other in the work of the ministry and in the sublime art of preaching the word. They both eventually became Bishops. The parents of young Andrew had brought him, when a babe, for baptism to the Rev. Hope Hull, of Georgia. That man of God and of power took him in his arms and prayed with more than usual fervor that God would bless the child and make a Bishop of him. This prayer was answered, as we have seen, in the thirty-eighth year of his age.

The first time I ever saw the Bishop was in 1840. He was then presiding in the General Conference assembled at Baltimore. He was in the midst of elements which already indicated the yet greater tempest of 1844. But few men could have so held in command that excited body. His voice, his eye, his equable temper, his readiness, his decision and admirable judgment all conspired to constitute him one of the ablest presiding officers the church or country ever produced. The memorable events of that subsequent General Conference at New York, while they made Bishop Andrew notorious throughout the country as the occasion of the division of the Methodist Episcopal Church, brought out in strong light the best traits of his great soul. He was deeply grieved that he should have innocently given opportunity to those who seemed bent upon arraigning before the fanaticism of New England the whole social status of the South and of Methodism, as it had been developed, during three-fourths of a century, in the midst of a slave-owning population; and he feared lest the personal love of his brethren might unduly influence their judgment or induce them to adopt a policy they might afterward regret. He accordingly proposed to the Southern preachers that it might be better for the cause of God that he should resign his position in the church. This proposition the delegates from the Southern Conferences promptly refused to entertain. They believed that an issue was upon them which for years had been coming slowly but surely, and which could not be put off to advantage or be longer averted; which must eventually end in ruin to the church if not now met and finally disposed of. And the results have confirmed the wisdom of their decision. But during the whole of this trying period no word or act of Bishop Andrew was other than such as became an elder in the church of God. His good sense, meekness and piety shone conspicuously from first to last. No harsh speech or bitterness of spirit has been charged against him even by his most violent assailants. Always self-possessed, always ingenuous, always jealous for the church and the honor of his Master, he came through these fierce conflicts as gold through the fire. These qualities of Bishop Andrew were of the greatest moment at this important crisis in the history of the church. The peaceful and thorough division of so large a body of Christians and of so great an interest is without a parallel either in Church or State history. The cleavage was without a fragment—so clean and whole were the two parts that the part in the South remained, territory, churches and members, in its original integrity, without the loss of more than two local preachers. And this vast movement turned upon James O. Andrew. Doubtless the providence of God raised up a man so balanced in his powers of mind and heart as to command at once the respect of the one side and the full support of the other. His brain and soul, his common sense and faith were equal to the great pressure put upon him.

He had a large brain and a large heart, and these, working together, gave him a mind of strong common sense. This was his unfailing resource. He could not be induced to take an extreme view of any question, nor would he suffer himself to be controlled by prejudice. He was sound in his estimate of men, yet overflowed with charity toward all. How precious and important these qualities were to the church may be estimated by the fact that the office which he filled required him to give cast annually to the labors of hundreds of our ministers, and to the service of thousands of our societies. So great was his solicitude to discharge those high responsibilities well that he declared his whole physical system had been permanently deranged by the care on his mind, ever since his election to the episcopal office. He knew the preachers by name, and carried the churches on his heart, and made appointments with much prayer as just from the mount of God. His preaching was highly spiritual, full of living themes and attractive in manner to all classes of hearers. He had not only the right word, but an easy flow of rich, strong speech, which captivated the ear and made him "the master of assemblies." He had at times the full inspiration of the orator, with an unction from the Holy Spirit, which worked together upon his audiences and swayed them at his will. God was often with him. And no marvel, for he was a man of constant prayer and a diligent student of the Holy Scriptures. The flood of natural pathos which at times gushed up in his soul from the home-fountains of his youth, filled with memories of his mother, and the struggles of early life, made him the most powerful of preachers.

His death was but a continuation of his life—to the last vanishing point of his career the same repose of character, the same spirit of prayer, the same tender thoughtfulness, the same unwavering faith in the cross and the same nice appreciation of God's word. Heaven was so much the settled expectation of his whole life that the approach of death could not disturb the pillars on which it rested, nor could the long lines of the coming glory increase in him that full certainty of its rising. Just before removing him from New Orleans, when he was surrounded by preachers and brethren, and we all had prayers with him for the last time, while I was reading the fifth of Romans, he remarked at each verse: "What a delightful promise! what a glorious truth!" When I came to the verse, "If when we were enemies," etc.: "That," said he, "was a favorite text of Dr. Olin's;" and afterward added: "The doctor said that though the death of Christ was inexpressibly precious, yet if possible the thought of the life of Christ was to him even more so." One of the preachers repeated the lines,

"Jesus can make a dying bed," etc., when he immediately added:
"While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there."

From the time he was first taken to the last breath he never uttered one word that indicated either discomfort or impatience. When told the doctor had given his opinion that this attack would prove certainly fatal, he only replied: "God knows what is best, I reckon." He sent a message to the Board of Bishops, "to maintain that harmony and love among themselves which had always existed among them;" and a message specially to Bishop Pierce, who was to him as a son. He sent word to the preachers, his brethren, "to take especial care of the children of the church, and to put away levity of speech." He sweetly spake to his own children and grandchildren, and blessed them. Then as the Saviour went up without angelic attendants or any unusual drapery of glory, a man, as far as the eye could see him—so, as far as we could discern our beloved father, in the midst of death he was in life, unabated life, and with a faith that did not waver, and a hope not ashamed, he was moving steadily heavenward.

Bishop Andrew was married three times. His first wife was Miss Ann E. McFarland. By her he had nine children, three of whom survive him—one son and two daughters. His second wife was Mrs. Ann L. Greenwood. His third wife was Mrs. E. W. Childers, of Summerfield, Alabama. She still lives, but in advanced age and in great feebleness. He was all that a husband or father should be—tender, affectionate and delighting in his honor. He leaves them the inheritance of a name universally revered and the memory of the just.

MISSIONARY DEBT.

Received of Rev. John Wilkinson $75 to pay the Shreveport quota of the missionary debt.

Can we not send in all the Louisiana subscriptions by the first of April? The necessity is pressing.

R. J. HARP.

DEATH OF WERNER FORSS.

Bro. Forss went to Mobile on last Saturday morning on a visit to his children. He had contracted a severe cold during his wife's last illness, which was much increased by exposure on Friday evening. He sent for a physician as soon as he arrived in Mobile, but grew worse during Saturday night, and was threatened with strangling. He sat up in a chair in the parlor as the only position in which he could find any relief. At six o'clock on Sabbath morning he was coughing, and began to spit blood. Mrs. Riley, his sister-in-law, ran to him and heard him say, "I am gone;" when in an instant the blood poured from his mouth and he was dead! He had broken an artery. He was sent up to Montgomery on Sabbath evening, to be buried beside his wife, who died in this city but seven weeks ago. He leaves two children—a babe and a daughter of eight years.

A suitable tribute will be hereafter paid to the memory of this most excellent Christian gentleman.

FOR BRO. LAMBUTH'S SCHOOL.

The following letter, inclosing a $10 bill from one of our subscribers in the State of Maryland, speaks for itself. It illustrates the effect of example and the influence of the religious press.

Rev. R. J. Harp—Dear Sir: It was a pleasure to read, in a late number of the N. O. Christian Advocate, of the personal interest taken in foreign missions by the children of the Sabbath school of Felicity Street church. May I trouble you to hand them the inclosed $10 as a small donation to add to their contribution for Mr. Lambuth's school in China? Would not their noble example be followed by other Sabbath schools in the Methodist Episcopal Church South if missionary intelligence was more frequently imparted to the children?

Do you think the pulpit and the press give sufficient regular information of the daily workings of missions throughout the world to create a deep, heartfelt interest in the cause?

The people lack knowledge and need instruction.

Yours respectfully,

A Friend of Missions.

February, 1871.

The firemen's turnout on the fourth instant was very fine. The procession was long and the display imposing. This is one of the grandest of our yearly pageants, and is well worth seeing. The music, the hundreds of gayly uniformed men, the burnished engines decorated with flowers, the magnificent horses and the scarfs and banners, and the throngs of spectators, make up a scene never to be forgotten. Our fire organization is celebrated for its efficiency and good order, and its members deserve the cordial and enthusiastic ovation which is annually accorded them by the people of New Orleans. The fourth of March, the anniversary of the firemen, is practically a holiday, and almost entirely given up to their entertainments.

Death of John H. Gerding.—This old member of the Dryades street German Methodist church died March 1, in great peace. Bro. Gerding was a steward and president of the board of trustees of the church to which he belonged. He was a good and faithful Christian, and he will be long regretted and missed by his brethren. He was a native of Prussia, and had entered his sixty-third year.

State Fair.—We have received a handsomely printed pamphlet containing an account of the arrangements for the fifth grand State fair, which commences April 8, proximo. Matters to be exhibited are classified in tabular form, and the premiums are announced in connection with every article. The treasurer and the Association has our thanks.

[illegible] that hath given up all things, [illegible] net himself, hath forsaken [illegible]ing. He that sets not his heart [illegible] at he possesses forsaketh all [illegible], though he keep his possessions.—Quarles.

[illegible]NTERS who use it estimate one [illegible]urfee's Subsoil plows worth [illegible]han a ton of commercial fer[illegible].

On the Death of Little Children.

BY BISHOP M'TYEIRE.

We make the following extract from an article contributed to the St. Louis Christian Advocate. It will be a source of comfort to many.

The death of little children is a great fact in providence. Let us consider some things that may help to reconcile us to God's ways and to our losses.

In St. Louis hundreds of children die every year, of the age, and under the age, of Bertie. The statistics of the most healthy cities and countries show thousands and scores of thousands. Indeed, it has been estimated that, on an average, not one-third of the human race born into the world ever attain to the age of six years. The lines of our Christian hymn are literally true—

"Millions of infant souls compose
The family above."

In the light of such facts, and upon the sure basis of the atonement, we see a special force in the words of our Saviour: "For of such is the kingdom of heaven."

The political economist will exclaim: What a waste of life! The man of ambition will say: These all lived in vain.

Not so, in the economy of grace. They have not lived in vain. Their life, though short, was not a failure. Yours may yet be, and mine; but theirs was not. You and I may fail of our mission, and of us it may be said: Better that they had never been born. But this can never be said of them.

They are safe. Whether the glory of the world to come is developed by the endurance of trial in this, and how these afflictions enhance those delights, are not in question now. But it is something to be safe, and safe forever. It means the same as to be saved. Think of life's conflicts, and how many mighty have fallen. Think of the temptations on every hand, and how the longest life is beset by them, to the end. Is it nothing, oh weeping parents, that your beloved is safe?

Ere sin could blight or sorrow fade,
Death came, with friendly care.
The opening bud to heaven conveyed.
And bade it blossom there.

Satan—that adversary of God and man—can never be chargeable with the death of children, unless it is instigated for the sake of involving older persons in sin. All his snares are prevented in the case of the little child that dies. The prey is put beyond reach, and he never can devour. This salvation is assured, and he cannot frustrate it. Heaven receives its own, and hell is forever disappointed.

A new grave is seen on earth—it may be a very short one. The stranger passing by says idly, and to a parent's ear heartlessly: "Ah, it is only a child!" But there is a mortal and a higher history. You see not all. There is joy in heaven. The angelic company is increased. There is a new voice, if not a new song, among them.

There's many an empty cradle,
There's many a vacant bed,
There's many a lonely bosom
Whose light and joy are fled;
For flitch in every graveyard
The little hillocks lie,
And every hillock represents—
AN ANGEL IN THE SKY.

The ministry of little children is to be taken into account among God's means for saving a sinful world; and it is not the least of them. When judgments are abroad the people are rebuked and they are in fear. The anointed servants of truth reason with men and persuade them. But how often do the most earnest and eloquent plead in vain? The man is bent upon his schemes of gain or ambition; the woman loves pleasure and fashion. These hearts of ours are incrusted all over with worldliness. The little child comes, and does the work that mightier agencies have failed to do. Never so strong as in its sickness; never so lovely as when leaving us; never so prevailing as when the dimpled hands are crossed upon the breast. Then we begin to find out that we had entertained angels unawares. We call to mind their sayings and their songs, and see something of the deeper meaning, and we say, like the patriarch, awaking out of his dream: "Surely God was in this place and I knew it not."

The parting comes. The last look is taken; the beautiful form passes into darkness; the grave covers it. Nature must shed tears, and religion does not forbid them. What now, stricken ones! Are you never to see your child again? Must you part forever? Heaven is brought close to you. You have a treasure there that comes nearer taking the heart with it than any other treasure can. Like the bereaved king of Israel you say: The child cannot return to me, but I shall go to it. You find it not so hard as it was to be heavenly-minded. Strong attraction has been fixed in the skies. And every association and every memory is of purity and innocence and love.

Long, and with tender power, this ministry lingers. The tones of the voice, the sound of the footstep, resound in our hearts by day and by night. The still small voice survives the great tumult and noise of this busy, selfish, outside life. The broken toy, the lock of nut-brown hair, the half-worn shoes—everywhere we meet memorials of our loss, and they renew the lesson. They touch chords peculiar.—Strong men, amused to tears, bow themselves and weep. O, little prattlers, how eloquent you are! We take you by the hand and teach your feet to walk in earthly paths. You teach us to walk in the heavenly.

Often do we hear a Christian experience begin with acknowledgment to this ministry. At the grave of their children the pilgrimage of many parents began. And when our feet grow weary this ministry has quickened them; and when they wandered it has brought them back. A great multitude are to-day on the way to heaven, through this vale of tears, and a little child doth lead them.

Not lost, but gone before. They all live before God. By his love they have been crowned victors, without the peril of the strife. We yet buffet the waves, and how the voyage will end with us is not known; but they have reached the bright shore. So much of their life is to be spent in heaven, it will seem to have been their native place.

Sorrowing parents everywhere, kiss the hand that chastens you, to save both you and them. Gird up your loins and follow on.

DEATH OF BISHOP ANDREW.

At a meeting, numerously attended, of the ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Nashville and vicinity, and members of the Board of Missions and of the Book Committee, convened at the Publishing House, March 3, 1871, in consequence of the death of Bishop Andrew, Bishop McTyeire was called to the chair and R. A. Young was appointed secretary.

An appropriate and fervent prayer was offered by the Rev. R. K. Brawn.

The chairman, in setting forth the object of the meeting, paid a suitable and affecting tribute to the noble character of the deceased Bishop.

A preamble and resolutions were then submitted, and brief addresses, embodying interesting facts in the Bishop's life, were made by Drs. Summers, McFerrin and Redford.

The preamble and resolutions were then unanimously adopted, as follows:

Whereas, The sad intelligence has been received of the death of Bishop Andrew, which took place in the city of Mobile, Alabama, March 2, 1871:

Resolved, 1. That we, ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Nashville and vicinity, and members of the Board of Missions and of the Book Committee, assembled at the Publishing House in Nashville, March 3, 1871, express our great sorrow at the intelligence of the death of the Rev. James Osgood Andrew, D. D., senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the oldest Methodist Bishop in the world.

Resolved, 2. That in the death of Bishop Andrew the church at large, and our own communion in particular, have sustained a serious loss; but we bow with chastened resignation to the will of the great Head of the Church, who buries his workmen, but carries on his work.

Resolved, 3. That the pure and disinterested character and unsullied reputation of Bishop Andrew, his able, faithful and successful labors, as a minister of Christ and a general superintendent, for more than half a century, entitle him to the veneration and love of all good men, and that his memory should be cherished and held in high esteem by every lover of our holy religion.

Resolved, 4. That we earnestly request the surviving Bishops of our church, at their meeting in Nashville, in May next, to hold such a memorial service for Bishop Andrew as they may deem appropriate.

Resolved, 5. That our sympathies be and are hereby tendered to the bereaved family of our deceased Bishop, with the assurance of our earnest prayer that they may continue to realize the care and protection of the great "Shepherd and Bishop of our souls."

Resolved, 6. That the secretary of this meeting be instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the family of Bishop Andrew, and to furnish a copy to each of our church journals for publication.

J. B. McFerrin.
Thos. O. Summers.

On motion of the secretary the meeting adjourned with the benediction by the Bishop.

R. A. Young, Sec.

It is an illustration of the value at which the different kinds of service are estimated, that the salary of the president of Harvard College is but $3,000, while that of the chief cook at the Parker House, one of the principal hotels of Boston, and distant from Harvard about forty minutes' ride by the horse-cars, reaches the handsome figure of about $4,000.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The Southern Farm and Home for March is to hand, and freighted with good things for planters and housekeepers. This number contains an engraving of Hon. Ben. C. Yancey, ex-president Georgia State Fair. The Farm and Home is published at Macon, Georgia, by J. W. Burke & Co., at $2 a year.

Essentials of Good Health and Mental Bliss is the title of a new periodical, published in New Orleans, and edited by Thomas Nicholson, M. D., Ph. D. It will be devoted, as we infer from the salutatory and contents of the first number, to the popular presentation of information in reference to medicine, physiology and kindred subjects. The number for March contains some valuable items, and the object contemplated is no doubt a worthy one. Price, $3 a year. No. 490 Magazine street, New Orleans.

From N. P. Boyer & Co., Parksburg, Pennsylvania, we have received samples of imported Alsike clover, Chester county mammoth corn, genuine white Norway oats and genuine black Norway oats.

We are indebted to Mr. Albert Eyrich, 130 Canal street, for a copy of the Southern Magazine; and also for Mad Moukton and Other Stories, by Wilkie Collins.

The Great Want of France.—Father Hyacinthe says: "One thing is not impossible—God forbid it—that France should descend to an inferior rank in Christendom. If so, those great countries—that Germany, which fasts on the eve of battle and carries the New Testament in the shakos of her soldiers—that England, which offers her common prayer on the day of humiliation and keeps her Sabbath rest, the glory of her industry and civilization—that America, which at the very crisis of her national life proclaims faith in God as the foundation of her greatness and strength—if to these nations we have nothing to send but the echo of an abject skepticism and a still more abject immorality, what is to become of France! You may prate of liberty and democracy, but you are surrendering yourselves to a most degraded slavery."

The killed and wounded on the railroads of the United States during the year ending October 31, 1870, were: Killed, 168; wounded, 484. Kansas leads the slain, with 27 killed; New York comes first in the wounded list, with 68. The largest number of persons killed at one accident was 21, being upon the Mississippi Central railway, near Buckner, February 25, when the train broke through a trestle bridge, and 15 were wounded. New York had 14 accidents by which lives were lost. New Jersey had several. In Maryland not a person was killed by a direct accident during the time named.

Do not be troubled because you have no great virtues. God made a million spears of grass where he made one tree. The earth is fringed and carpeted, not with forest, but grass. Only have enough of the virtues and common fidelities, and you need not mourn because you are neither a saint nor a hero.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received at the Branch of Southern M. E. Publishing House, 712 Camp street, for the week ending March 6, 1871.

A—T Y Armstrong, P Allen, C Armitage, Alexander & Frost, Applegate, Pomsford & Co.

B—R Babbington $10, J Baldwin, J C C Black, W E Ballard $2.85, H P Bowen, J L Borden $14.30, B F Bunting, E L Blanton, J Bancroft.

C—C W Calhoun, A J Coleman $2.85, J T Curtis, H C Clarke, R E Cary, C B Collins, W H Connor $88.25, M Calloway, B Clegg 3 lets $5.25, L H Crumb.

D—R B Downer 2 lets $11, P Dieffenwierth $12, J B Drake, W B Dennis $1.

E—J A Ellis, E A Enochs, C F Evans, L Ercombrack $10.

F—L W Fairchild, T J Fullilove.

G—M M Graham, J T M Gregory, W P Garrison, C LeG Goodrich $16.61, J H Griffin, G M Gilmore $3.85, Griffin & Hoffman.

H—A P Howard, H J Hunter 3 lets $12, A C Harper, E J Hale, J D Hays $3, W C Halsip $15, E L Hallberg, Hurd & Houghton.

J B Jones $60, H F Johnson 2 lets, P James $5.

K—J C Kilfrell, P H Kyes.

L—M J Law, W M Lovelady $5, H P Lewis 2 lets, G M Livermore $65.

M—J D Murff $31.82, M J Matthews, M Mims $2.75, J F Markham, W H McDaniel $5, J H Mims, J B Magruder, D Morgan $1, J Moore, Manly & Co, A H Moss, H B Magruder, S E Morse, J M McKee.

N—J L Nabors, W B Norris, J Nicholson, J A Norsworthy, M Nicholson.

P—M Padgett, U B Phillips $3, A M Proctor $3, R F Perdue $3, M C Parker & Co, W Price $10.

R—J D Roberts, T Reed, J K Randall.

S—J W Sandall, W R D Stockton, A Stephens, W H Scales $38.78, S W Book and Pub Co, B S Snodgrass, W T Sutherland $5.

T—C H Turner.

W—H S Woodward, W Wadsworth, M H Wells $11.25, D Woodruff, R W Wells $1.50, J B Walker $138.50.

Y—N B Young.

Married.

At the residence of Dr. Sam. Williams, on Deer creek, Issaquena county, Mississippi, February 6, 1871, by the Rev. Henry P. Bowen, Mr. Evan Shelby to Miss Emma Wright, all of Issaquena.

Obituaries.

Miss Julia E. Johnson was born March 3, 1850. In November, 1867, she experienced the religion of Jesus Christ, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of which she lived a faithful member until her death, which occurred January 2, 1871.

From the time she was converted she was faithful in the discharge of all her religious duties. For three years I have been her pastor, and during that time her seat in the house of God was always filled, unless providentially prevented. Being of a delicate constitution, she was frequently deterred from social and church privileges which she otherwise might have enjoyed. During her last illness, which lasted from September to January, her sufferings were intense; but all the time she realized the comforting influence of the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ. She often spoke of death, and urged her friends to meet her in heaven; and as her feet passed down into the chilly waters of Jordan her faith grew strong in God, and she urged her weeping mother to make haste and delay not, that they might be united again in the land of eternal rest.

S. M. Thames.

Bro. Milton Jenkins was born February 22, 1830, and died January 8, 1871, fully ripe for bliss immortal.

On the twenty-third of September, 1858, he was united in holy wedlock to Miss Fannie, daughter of the Rev. T. Moody, of the North Alabama Conference. To her he was a true and good husband to the day of his death. The year after their marriage he was powerfully awakened to the importance of being religious. He earnestly sought and found peace in believing in the virtue of Christ's death, and at once connected himself with the Methodist Protestant Church, in which he sustained, at Camden, Alabama, a good moral and religious character until 1869. He removed to Gadsden, Alabama, where he immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church South. For several years before his death he suffered much bodily affliction; yet he always exhibited great patience and Christian fortitude.

He was a very social, genial spirit. This, combined with correctness and integrity of character, won for him many ardent friends. He was by profession a lawyer. Early in life he was admitted to the bar. In the practice of law he succeeded admirably well; and because of his correct and unswerving principles of truth and justice he ever commanded the highest regard of his associate lawyers.

In November last he went with his family from this place (Gadsden) to Wilcox county, Alabama, to spend the winter, hoping to recover his health. But all in vain. He only had to suffer a few weeks after arriving at his brother's house—Dr. L. Jenkins—when the messenger of death came, and he ceased to work, to suffer and to enjoy among men, and his spirit was borne by seraph wings to the bosom of Abraham, to live and enjoy with Christ and angels on high.

His body was interred with Masonic honors in the old family grave-yard, by the side of his father and mother and four brothers, to await the resurrection morn, when Christ will come to gather his faithful people to himself. "Peace to his ashes."

He leaves behind an amiable wife and three interesting little boys, and many other relatives, to mourn after him. But they mourn as having hope of a glorious reunion at the last day.

R. A. Timmons.

Nashville Christian Advocate please copy.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

J. A. PERKINS,
DEALER IN
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
CANES, UMBRELLAS
AND FANCY ARTICLES,
120.....CANAL STREET.....120
Under Crescent Billiard Hall,
oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,
BOARDING,
CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,
NEW ORLEANS.
Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.
fe4 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.
Office—254 Carondelet St., N. Orleans.
Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.
Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 6 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW BOOKS
ADDED TO THE
American Educational Series,
PUBLISHED BY
IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,
138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of contemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple, concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF
Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,
The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	91 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra	1 50
New University Algebra	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

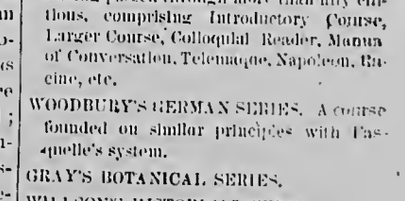
☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it can have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,
New Orleans,
General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 1f

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL
AND ITS



CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.
Nearly Doubles Crops.
GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.
FACTORY, DEPOT:
E. H. MURFEE,
11 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N B.—Trade open to all merchants at the retail discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de7 3m

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,
37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,
are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address
NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,
fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Child's Corner.

A FANCY.

I suppose if all the children
Who have lived through ages long
Were collected and inspected,
They would make a wondrous throng.
O the babble of the Babel!
O the flutter of the fuss!
To begin with Cain and Abel,
And to finish up with us!

Think of all the men and women
Who are now and who have been,
Every nation since creation
That this world of ours has seen;
And of all of them, not any
But was once a baby small,
While of children, oh! how many
Never have grown up at all!

Some have never laughed or spoken,
Never used their rosy feet:
Some have even flown to heaven
Ere they knew that earth was sweet;
And indeed I wonder whether,
If we reckon every birth,
And bring such a flock together,
There is room for them on earth?

Who will wash their smiling faces?
Who their saucy ears will box?
Who will dress them and caress them?
Who will darn their little socks?
Where are arms enough to hold them?
Hands to pat each shining head?
Who will praise them? who will scold them?
Who will pack them off to bed?

Little happy Christian children,
Little savage children too,
In all stages, of all ages,
That our planet ever knew!
Little princes and princesses,
Little beggars wan and faint,
Some in very handsome dresses,
Naked some, bedaubed with paint.

Only think of the confusion
Such a motley crowd would make!
And the clatter of their chatter,
And the things that they would break!
O the babble of the Babel!
O the flutter of the fuss!
To begin with Cain and Abel,
And to finish up with us!

Good Words for the Young.

FIVE STEPS TO THE GALLOWS.

A man had committed murder, was tried, found guilty and condemned to be hung. A few days before his execution, upon the walls of his prison he drew the figure of a man hanging on a gallows, with five steps leading up to it.

On the first step he wrote: Disobedience to parents. Solomon says: "The eye that mocketh at his father and despiseth to obey his mother, the ravens of the valleys shall pick it out, and the young eagles shall eat it"—that is, he shall perish by a violent death, he shall come to a miserable, wretched end.

On the second step he wrote: Sabbath-breaking. God, in his command, said: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." Visit your prisons and jails and you will find that nine-tenths of its inmates have begun their downward course by breaking this command.

On the third step he wrote: Gambling and drunkenness. The late Dr. Nott, for more than fifty years president of Union College, having been a close observer of human events, truly says: "The finished gambler has no heart. He would play at his brother's funeral, he would gamble upon his mother's coffin."

Several years ago a boy was hung for killing his little brother. When on the gallows, the sheriff said: "If you have anything to say speak now, for you have only five minutes to live." The boy, bursting into tears, said: "I have to die. I had only one little brother; he had beautiful blue eyes and flaxen hair, and I loved him. But one day I got drunk, for the first time in my life, and coming home I found him gathering strawberries in the garden. I became angry with him without a cause, and I killed him at one blow with a rake. I did not know anything about it till the next morning when I awoke from sleep, and found myself tied and guarded, and was told that when my little brother was found his hair was clotted with his blood and brains, and he was dead. Whisky has done this. It has ruined me. I never was drunk but once. I have only one more word to say, and then I am going to my final Judge. I say it to young people: Never, never, never touch anything that can intoxicate."

On the fourth step he wrote: Murder. God's command is: "Thou shalt not kill." To prevent man from unlawfully taking the life of his fellow-man, God has annexed an awful penalty: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed."

On the fifth step he wrote: The fatal platform. It is impossible for us to form a correct idea of the thoughts that must rush through the mind of a man under such circumstances—the disgrace and ignominy attached to his name; the pains and agony of such a death; the want of sympathy in the community around him; the fearful forebodings of his guilty soul before the bar of a holy God.

I was called in the early part of my ministry to write the confession of a murderer, and attend him on the gallows. His name was Moses Lyons. He, when drunk, murdered his wife. Being maddened by liquor, he seized her by the hair and jammed her head on the hearth until she was dead. Two men who were passing by, hearing her shrieks, rushed in and caught him in this murderous, brutal act. I visited him in jail, from time to time, with a view of leading him to Christ. In his confession he said: "She is dead. I must have done it, but I know nothing about it." His mind was so stupefied by rum that under the evil spirit he committed this brutal, this horrid deed. Alluding to his parents, he says: "The advice of my dear parents to serve God I did not listen to. Oh, had I done so, I should not have come to this shameful end. They have gone to their graves—peace be to them. Could I visit the spot where they lie buried, I would bathe their graves with my tears." He had two daughters; when he spoke of them he wept aloud. After a long pause he said: "I hope the world will not visit on them the iniquity of their father. Parents, bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord; set a good example before them; do not to them as I have done to mine. Children, obey your parents in the Lord; listen to their counsel and advice; look at me, and see my fate for not walking as my parents directed me."—American Messenger.

"PLEASE, SIR."—"Sir, do you want to know how I was converted; I, an old gray-headed sinner?" said a good old man to a minister.

"Yes, tell me," answered the minister.

"I was walking along one day and met a little boy. The little boy stopped at my side. 'Please, sir,' he said, 'will you take a tract? and please, sir, will you read it?' Tracts? I always hated tracts and such things, but that 'please, sir' overcame me. I could not swear at that kind-spoken 'please, sir;' no, no. I took the tract, and I thanked the little boy, and I said I'd read it; and I did read it, and the reading of it saved my soul. I saw I was a sinner, and I saw that Jesus Christ could save me from my sins. That 'please, sir' was the entering wedge to my old hickory heart."

The Farm and Garden.

WORK FOR MARCH.

LUCERNE.—This is the best month for sowing this most profitable and useful crop. Two or three acres of first-rate land—the best on the plantation—cannot be used for a better purpose than for a lucerne patch.

It is useless to sow lucerne on poor, unmanured land. The soil must be deeply plowed, thrown up into low beds about two feet apart, and sown evenly in drills. About six or seven pounds of seed are sufficient to sow an acre.

DRILLED CORN.—This is a most useful crop. Sow thickly (between three and four bushels to the acre) in drills just wide enough to admit an ordinary sweep between them. The soil should be as well prepared and as rich as for any other crop.

SWEET POTATOES.—Be sure to prepare land enough for a heavy crop of sweet potatoes, and prepare it well, so that the ridges may be deep and friable.

FORAGE CROPS.—This year, when very few of us have laid up forage enough to carry us through the year, and the condition of our bank account will not allow us to buy much Northern hay, we would advise that attention be paid to forage crops generally, and thus secure for our mules, horses, cows and hogs plenty of good food during the summer and fall. The rat-tail millot is an excellent crop, matures rapidly, yields abundantly, giving on good land as much as three or four cuttings.

IRISH POTATOES.—If you have not already planted Irish potatoes, do so at once, and we would advise you to plant "right smart" of them, for there is no better esculent for man or beast.

SPRING OATS.—It is not too late yet to sow oats. If you have not done so already, or if you have only sown on a small scale, go to work at once and "go in" for a good crop. But don't sow them in the usual slovenly manner. Plow thoroughly, manure liberally and sow thickly.

DITCHES AND DRAINS.—See that the ditches and drains on the plantation are cleaned and in good order. If there are not enough of them made to carry off the water from the "wet spots," make them. Thus you can plant those wet spots earlier and have more certain returns. There is no work which is so much neglected, and the value of which is so little appreciated at the South, as ditching and draining.—Southern Farm and Home.

SHEEP IN LARGE FLOCKS.—In answering the queries propounded recently by Dr. Randall, as to the leading qualities of long-wooled sheep, Hon. Norton S. Townshend, of Avon, Ohio, one of the oldest and most extensive breeders in the United States, states that his sheep have usually been kept in small flocks, though in winter time as many as one hundred and fifty have been kept in one shed, and the same number occasionally pastured together during the summer. "The largest lots together have not manifested disease from crowding, but they have not uniformly kept in good condition." In pasturing never more than two sheep to the acre with other stock have been kept. The gentleman, whose views are entitled to great weight, sums up as follows: "Long-wooled sheep are, all of them, mutton sheep—that is, the mutton is of primary importance as regards profit, and the wool only secondary. If mutton sheep run in large flocks, in correspondingly large pastures, every sheep must travel over more ground to obtain his food than where small flocks are kept in small pastures. Every unnecessary rod that a mutton sheep travels for his food is attended with loss, and therefore the subdivision of the flock and the smaller the pastures, so that water can be secured in each, the better. In conclusion, I am not prepared to say that long-wooled sheep cannot profitably be kept in large flocks, but I am persuaded that the smaller the flock the larger will be the profits per capita."—Southern Farmer.

EGGS OF SITTING HENS.—It is good management to set several hens the same day, and with chalk mark the day of the month on the front of every nest box; and at the expiration of about ten days take the eggs out of each nest carefully, one by one, and examine them, to see if they are addle, by covering the eggs with the hand, except the two ends, holding them up to the sun in close contact with your eye, and all addle eggs will allow the light of the sun to pass through them, while those that will hatch will be very dark. All the light ones should be thrown away, and when so many are addle as to allow a hen to be "broken up," as it is called, do so by placing her good eggs under another hen, when you have found a portion of her eggs addle. Thirteen eggs are the most that any hen, no matter how large, should be allowed to cover. The chickens, too, when hatched, may be put with other hens, hatching at the same time, when any one has less than eight or ten, giving to each from thirteen to fifteen chickens to care for. The hens "broken up" should be confined in a coop or yard from three to four days, to wean them from their nests or chickens. Here allow us to say that the usual expression, setting hen, is wrong. It should be sitting. A hen sets, implies that she sets something down, as to set a chair; but sit means the act of sitting, as on a nest or otherwise.—Rural American.

ORANGE PUDDING.—Take four good sized oranges, peel, seed and cut into small pieces. Add a cup of sugar and let it stand. Into one quart of nearly boiling milk stir two tablespoonfuls of corn starch mixed with a little water and the yolks of three eggs. When done let it cool, and then mix with the orange. Make a frosting of the whites of the eggs and half a cup of sugar. Spread it over the top of the pudding and place it for a few minutes in the oven to brown.

SALT FOR ASPARAGUS.—As a top-dressing salt is very beneficial to the asparagus bed. From a pint to a quart may be scattered evenly over every square yard of the bed. It acts both as a fertilizer and a destroyer of weeds.

VIGOROUS OLD MEN.—Most of the leading writers of the daily papers of New York are very old men. Bennett, of the Herald, is seventy-five, though the "American Cyclopedia" states his age at four years less than this. Greeley, of the Tribune, is over sixty, and his literary coadjutor, Ripley, is also over sixty. "Old Joe" Howard, of the Star, is nearly sixty, but is yet quite active. Bryant, of the Post, is seventy-eight. Dana, of the Sun, is between fifty and sixty. Jones, of the Times, has turned seventy, and the combined age of the three venerable Englishmen whom he employs as writers is over two hundred years. The youngest of the leading writers are Marble of the World, and Hastings of the Commercial Advertiser, the former of whom is not yet forty, and the other is forty-six.

TEMPTATION.—When a founder casts a bell he does not immediately fix it in the steeple, but tries it with the hammer, and beats it on every side to see if there is any flaw in it. Christ does not, immediately after he has converted a man, convey him to heaven; but suffers him to be beaten upon by many temptations, and then exalts him to his crown.

THE heart is, as it were, the pasture in which multitudes of thoughts are fed every day; a gracious heart diligently kept feeds many precious thoughts of God in a day.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.
Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taugh by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.
TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.
The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.
For circulars address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

Soule's
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
The Commercial Athenæum of the South,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
STORY BUILDING,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.
Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.
For College Journal, containing full information, address
GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,
FLORENCE, ALABAMA.
W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.
The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.
Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.
For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER,
Jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

HOMER COLLEGE.
The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. COBB, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.
J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.
——, Professor of Civil Engineering.
A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.
The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.
Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.
Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.
For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.
It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.
For further particulars address
W. F. MORELAND.
m20 1y

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.
The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo., $10 to	20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.
Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.
au13 O. F. CASEY.

PORT GIBSON ACADEMY.
A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.
Rev. B. Jones, President.

Faculty full and efficient. Buildings commodious and comfortable. Boarding department home-like.

TERMS.

Board, lights, fuel, washing, English tuition, English text-books and school stationery, per term of 20 weeks $130 00
Fall term opens SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.
au27 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.
The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.
Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.
For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.
Manufacturers of all kinds of
Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s
Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kenucklan and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.
We are also Agents for the
Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,
OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,
The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,
COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES
Challenge competition in price and appearance.
ZABLE & DALTON
OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!
THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by
G. W. W. GOODWYN,
Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware. Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.
Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,
No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.
Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.
The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.
Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.
H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
Je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.
J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168..... CANAL STREET 168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings,	Curtain Damasks,
Lace Curtains,	Window Shades, etc

—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.
This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.
ly2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

DR. N. P. GODFREY,
DENTIST,
May be found during business hours at
No. 183 Canal Street,
The third door west of Christ Church.
ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,
A Purely Vegetable Compound
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF
RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

WE TAKE PLEASURE in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these diseases. But experience has demonstrated the fact that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.
The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. Let all those, then, who are suffering from these complaints send for a bottle of JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR, and give it a trial. It is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, and can do no harm, whereas my unparalleled success in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Brierley, would I refer those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies me in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.
2. From two to twelve bottles, according to durat on of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.
3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and further information address
N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN ANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of BINNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, physical weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, Prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.
These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often effect cures where medicine can only mitigate, more than it can cure a hernia or dislocated joint.
He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.
These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms moderate. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet. It is better to call.
Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. je11

NOTICE..... NOTICE
DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy
FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the direst Rash to the most inveterate sore. Leprosy, Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Boils, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney, Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Mouth Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers, all yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people unequaled with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Salve
FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, and gives the buyer will apply the Salve but three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.
For sale by all Druggists, and at DR. BING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Bienville and Magazine streets.
General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, the office of A. Boucbard, New Orleans.
For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.
Country orders promptly attended to.
je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that
DE BING'S PILE REMEDY
fails to cure. It is prepared expressly for the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

Do Bing's Via Fuga is the purest Herb Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for CONSUMPTION,
Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and complaints of the Urinary Organs in male or female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which generally terminate in Consumptive decay. It purifies and enriches the blood, the glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular system. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.
LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland.

RUPTURE CURED.
With an experience of more than twenty years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of patient or length of time afflicted.
Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.
Call on or address, with stamp for reply, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 5 Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK. Former Ch.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counsellors and Solicitors
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

654 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and extended knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

FELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Daigleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $1. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $15. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $45

PEACE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. Animals of all Climates. II. Nations Flags.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

my21 1y

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....COMMON STREET.....186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
C. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

H. BEAUMONT, Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET.....77

no6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

de3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

T. K. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

de3 1y

P. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

au18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. MAURY, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By CHARLES S. VENABLES, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DEVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, ETC.,

By M. SCHELE DEVERE, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. GILDERSLEEVE, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. CARTER, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LECONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LECONTE, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. JOHNSTON, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. au12 1y

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

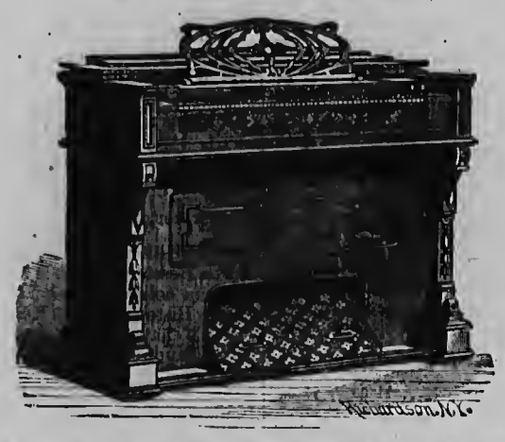
80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, ETC.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 ty

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

fe23 1y

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among Instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by

de1 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND HULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

Scientific.

DO BIRDS CATCH BUTTERFLIES?—Mr. Scudder, the entomologist, says that in fifteen years' experience he has never seen a butterfly in a bird's bill. Per contra, a correspondent of Nature avers that he has often seen the common sparrow capture butterflies, though the chase is apt to be long and exciting, as the insect is good at dodging.

THE sulphite of lime, which has come into common use in the making of wine and cider, is said to be injurious to health. Those who find themselves affected with pains and the loss of appetite on drinking cider will have good reason to suspect this ingredient, which is often present, dissolved in the liquor in very appreciable quantity.

THE velocity of nerve communication from the brain to the muscles has been determined to be at the rate of from two hundred and sixty to two hundred and ninety-two feet per second. Some new observations by Helmholtz indicate that increase of temperature accelerates the motion, so that the time between an impulse of the will and the muscular movement to correspond is less in summer than in winter.

AT DIGNE, in Germany, several butts of wine were lately shattered by lightning, and their contents passed along the floor into a cistern beneath. It was found that, from having suffered by the accident, the wine was improved so as to sell at sixty instead of ten cents per liter. Subsequent experiments tend to show that a current caused by the immersion of two platina electrodes, in connection with a galvanic battery, have a similar effect on wine. Even poor wines seem to assume an agreeable flavor through the process.

GUARANA is used in Brazil as a nervous stimulant and restorative. It is made from the seeds of a tropical tree which belongs to the same order with our horse-chestnut. The seeds are roasted and ground, and the powder is mixed with water, producing a drink similar in effects to coffee and tea. The active principle is an alkaloid which is said to be identical with theine; only the guarana has twice the strength of tea in the proportion of this active principle, which is everywhere so highly valued by man.

GAS WELLS are assuming considerable importance in some districts. Some, which were opened in Ohio, near Kenyon College, in 1866, and were then visited by Prof. Newberry, he asserts in the Chemist to be still flowing with undiminished volume. One of these at that time spouted an intermittent column of salt water to a height of one hundred feet. Gas was mixed with the water, and also poured out in the intervals. The derrick over the well became encased in ice, and the effect when the gas was ignited, especially at night, was something grand, as the column of mingled water and flame was shooting up to a height of one hundred and twenty feet through the transparent chimney of ice.

NEW METHOD OF LIGHTING CITIES. An English inventor, Mr. Silber, proposes to distribute petroleum oils through pipes, instead of gas, for lighting towns and buildings. He has invented self-regulating burners, which were recently exhibited before the Society of Arts in London, and, it is said, met with general approval from the members present. They are said to give an excellent light and to emit no odor. They are lighted by turning a tap similar to those now in use for gas, and, it is stated, give no more trouble than gas taps. If this plan proves practicable the superior cheapness of petroleum oil lights will greatly aid in its introduction. There are, however, the difficulties of pressure to be overcome, and underwriters will hesitate somewhat before consenting to allow these inflammable fluids to be distributed as proposed.

THE oil of sassafras is obtained by distilling the bark of the roots of the tree, which yield from one to two per cent. of oil. The roots are gathered and washed with great care, cut into small fragments, put into a kettle and boiled until the oil is driven out of the bark. Oil of sassafras, unlike most other oils, is heavier than water, and of a yellowish color, becoming reddish by age. It has a pungent, agreeable, aromatic taste, and is used medicinally. For domestic uses the root itself is more commonly employed. It is a frequent article in the composition of small-beer, and in some sections the "sassafrax tea" runs a sharp competition with "store tea." It forms a healthful beverage, especially in the spring of the year. Much boiling should always be avoided in the use of sassafras, as the oil might all evaporate. The pith of sassafras is sometimes used as a mucilage, but it is weak, and is much less effective than the other gums. Sassafras loses its properties by long keeping.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.	Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
JAN	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	JU.							1
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14		2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21		9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28		16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	29	30	31						23	24	25	26	27	28	29
FEB				1	2	3	4		30	31
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	AU.			1	2	3	4	5
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18		6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25		13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	26	27	28						20	21	22	23	24	25	26
MCH				1	2	3	4		27	28	29	30	31
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	SEP						1	2
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18		3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25		10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	26	27	28	29	30	31			17	18	19	20	21	22	23
APR							1		24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	OCT	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15		8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22		15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29		22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	30								29	30	31
MAY		1	2	3	4	5	6	NOV				1	2	3	4
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13		5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20		12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27		19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	28	29	30	31					26	27	28	29	30
JNE.					1	2	3	DEC						1	2
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10		3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17		10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24		17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	25	26	27	28	29	30			24	25	26	27	28	29	30
									31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Our happiness and misery are entrusted to our conduct, and made to depend upon it.—Bishop Butler.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has been without any material change since our last report. We still notice a fair business in most branches of the wholesale trade, in filling orders for spring goods and to replenish broken stocks, but the movement in other departments has been of limited extent. The receipts of sugar have been to a fair amount, and prices have ruled more in favor of buyers. Molasses has been dull, without any material change in rates. Flour has been in fair request.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the third instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	42,631
Lake.....	611
Florida.....	6
Arkansas.....	6,723
Mobile.....	836
Texas.....	261
Total.....	50,828

On Saturday prices were depressed by the tenor of the Liverpool and New York telegrams, and the demand was slack throughout the day, but factors were unwilling to submit to any quotable reduction, although the advantage was generally on the side of the buyers. The sales were confined to 6,200 bales. On Monday the news being still more unfavorable, and the receipts heavy, factors were compelled to give way about ⅛c. in low middling, and ¼c. in good ordinary and the lower grades, while middling and the higher grades also ruled more in favor of buyers, but these concessions failed to impart any spirit to the movement, and the business embraced 7,100 bales. Good ordinary closed at 11⅛ to 12c., and low middling at 12⅝ to 13⅛c. On Tuesday the market opened dull and drooping, and only a limited business was done during the morning, mostly at figures leaning to Monday's inside rates. Later in the day, after the receipt of the Liverpool telegrams, prices were still more unsettled, and exhibited such extreme irregularity that our quotations must be regarded as nominal. The general result, however, may be stated to have been a falling off of ⅛c. in low middling and the better qualities, ¼c. in good ordinary and ¼ to ⅜c. in the poorer descriptions. The sales summed up 7,700 bales.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 21,000 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,047,990 bales, against 859,609 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 738,128 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 636,812 bales to Great Britain, 217,659 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 181,682 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary.....	9¾ to 10⅛
Good ordinary.....	11¼ to 11⅝
Low middling.....	12⅛ to 13
Middling.....	13⅞ to 14¼
Strict middling.....	14⅛ to 14⅝

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales		20,696
Arrived past three days..	50,828
Arrived previously.....1,057,403—		1,108,231
		1,128,927
Exported past three days.	22,099
Exported previously.....	811,775—	833,874
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		295,053

SUGAR.—The market has continued in good supply and dull since our last review, and prices have ruled in favor of buyers. The supplies on Saturday and Monday were partially sold at 4¾ to 5¼c. per pound for inferior, 6 to 6⅛c. for common, 7 to 7½c. for good common, 7¾ to 8c. for fair, 8¼ to 8½c. for good fair, 8¾ to 9c. for fully fair, 9¼ to 9½ for prime, 9¾c. for strictly prime, 10¼ to 10¾c. for choice, 11 to 12c. for yellow clarified, and 12 to 13c. for white.

BACON has been dull, though 40 casks sold on Saturday at 12⅜ to 12¾c. for clear sides, and 15 tierces sugar-cured hams at 16½c. per pound. On Monday 10 casks clear sides sold at 12⅜c. per pound.

DRY SALT MEAT.—The market is firm, with a fair demand.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111⅛ to 111¼.

American silver half dollars, 108¼ to 108¾, and Mexican dollars at 1½ to 2 per cent. premium in gold.

The only sales of bonds reported are $5,000 State Levee 8s on Tuesday at 83, and $20,000 new City 7s at —.

Nothing has been reported in warrants, except $2,500 new State on Saturday at 65, showing a heavy decline.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 21 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 7, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head.....$40	to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross.....	8 to 10c
Sheep, first quality, per head.....	$7 to 9
Sheep, second quality, per head...	4 to 6
Sheep, third quality, per head....	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head....	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head.....	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves.....	to 60
Calves, per head	to 10
Yearlings, per head.....	10 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	0 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	23	23½
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs	1 30	1 35
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	....
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake	8 00	16 00
English fire	.. ..	47 00
American fire	37 50	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	.. ..	50
Tallow	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine	13	18
Star	12½	17½
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel	11 00	12 50
Anthracite	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl	75	85
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	.. ..	21
Russia	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl	3 65	3 75
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton	13 00	.. ..
In sacks	16 50	17 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	20	23
Feathers, ₩ lb	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod	1 40	1 50
Herrings	60	65
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra	7 25	7 37½
Superfine	6 30	6 62½
Fine	6 00	6 25
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5	6
Currants, new	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer	2 90	3 00
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats	60	65
Corn, shelled	70	72
Beans, ₩ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western	25 00	28 50
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint	10	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto	.. ..	..
Dry salted	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	14
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₩ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western	1 75	2 50
Shell lime	1 75	.. ..
Rockland, etc.	2 25	2 50
Cement	2 25	3 25
Plaster Paris	3 50	3 75
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	17 00	18 00
Boards, cypress	40 00	45 00
Oak lumber	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	10 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	17 00	20 00
Weatherboards, dressed	19 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	17 00
Scantling	14 00	16 00
Shingles, ₩ M	4 25	4 50
Laths	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba	.. ..	.. ..
Refinery reboiled	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Grny country	.. ..	.. ..
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	10
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gall	45	50
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 20	1 22½
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	90	1 00
Sperm	2 75	3 00
Whale, refined	1 00	1 10
Cotton seed, crude	48	58
Cotton seed, refined	65	75
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated	27 00	30 00
C. S., undecorticated	.. ..	25 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, dried, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, prime mess	.. ..	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb	15	16
Hams, canvassed	16½	16¾
Shoulders	14	15
Green shoulders	8¼	8½
Lard, prime, in tierces	12¾	14
Butter, Northern	25	44
Butter, Western	10	27
Cheese, American	10	17
Potatoes, ₩ bbl	3 00	4 50
Onions	5 00	6 50
Apples	3 00	5 00
Cabbages, ₩ crate	6 00	10 00
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana	5½	6¼
India, (gold, in bond)	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina	8¾	9½
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Meridian Dist., Mississippi Conference.

SECOND ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Meridian	Apr. 1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba	8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope	22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union	29, 30
Wayne	May 6, 7
Clark	13, 14
Paulding	20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion	27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night	31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside. WM. B. HINES, P. E.

Columbus Dist., North Miss. Conference.

SECOND ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Aberdeen	Mar. 11, 12
West Point	18, 19
Columbus	Apr. 8, 9
Columbus circuit	15, 16
Vinton	22, 23
Athens	29, 30
Houston	May 13, 14
Chickasaw	20, 21
Line Creek	27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama. THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

Seashore Dist., Mississippi Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Handsboro ct., Handsboro	Mar. 4, 5
White Plains mission, at White Plains	8
Pascagoula and Bay Shore, at Antioch	11, 12
W. Pascagoula, at Red Hill	18, 19
Green ct., at Cross Roads	25, 26
Enon, at Hebron	Apr. 1, 2

Address: Brandon, Mississippi. W. W. HURST, P. E.

Minden District, Louisiana Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

South Bossier, at Bellevue	Mar. 4, 5
North Bossier	11, 12
Cypress colored circuit	11, 12
Lake Bisteneau, at Kennon's chapel	18, 19
Mt. Lebanon, at Mt. Lebanon	25, 26
Mt. Lebanon colored ct	25, 26
Sparta, at Sparta	Apr. 1, 2
Louisville	8, 9

S. S. SCOTT.

Union Springs Dist., Alabama Conference

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Greenville station	Mar. 4, 5
Ft. Deposit ct., at Ft. Deposit	11, 12
Rocky Mount ct., at Athens	18, 19
Rutledge ct., at Mount Ida	25, 26
Elba mission, at Bethel	Apr. 1, 2

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Alabama.

Brookhaven Dist., Mississippi Conference

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Brookhaven station	Mar. 4, 5
Wesson and Beauregard	11, 12
Martinsville circuit, at Bahala chapel	18, 19
Crystal Springs station	25, 26
Jackson circuit	Apr. 1, 2

If there be any mistake in reference to the places mentioned for holding the Quarterly Meetings the preachers will please correct and notify me. As a full attendance of the official members is very important, the pastors will please announce their Quarterly Meetings as soon as possible. GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

Shreveport District, Louisiana Conference

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

at Pleasant Hill	Mar. 4, 5
Caddo ct., at Greenwood	11, 12
Mooringsport, at Mt. Zion	18, 19
Shreveport station	25, 26
Anacoco ct., at Knsatchie	Apr. 1, 2
Springville ct., at Springville	8, 9

The district stewards will please meet at Mansfield, February 18, to assess and distribute the presiding elder's claims, etc. JOHN PIPES, P. E.

Ouachita District, Louisiana Conference,

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Lisbon colored circuit	Mar. 2
Homer	4, 5
Homer colored circuit	6
Hayneville	11, 12
Middle Fork colored ct	14
Trenton	18, 19
Monroe	25, 26
Castor	Apr. 1, 2

SAMUEL ARMSTRONG, P. E.

Summit District, Mississippi Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

St. Helena circuit	Mar. 4, 5
Holmesville circuit	11, 12
Arcola circuit	25, 26
Livingston circuit	Apr. 1, 2
Bogue Chitto circuit	8, 9

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Tangipahoa, Louisiana, January 21. The pastors of the charges left blank will please send me names of pieces. Address: Tangipahoa, La. JOS. NICHOLSON, P. E.

Opelousas District, Louisiana Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Opelousas	Mar. 4, 5
Grand Chenicro	11, 12
Franklin and Pattersonville	18, 19
Calcasieu Pass	25, 26
New Iberia	Apr. 1, 2
Plaquemine Brulee	15, 16

J. D. ADAMS, P. E., Vermillionville, La.

Lake Providence Dist., La. Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Delhi and Tulula	Mar. 4, 5
Floyd circuit	11, 12
Lake Providence circuit	18, 19
Richland circuit	25, 26
Bastrop circuit	Apr. 1, 2
Lind Grove circuit	7, 8

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E., Waterproof, La.

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES,

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no20 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans,

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je20 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats; Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette. mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

J. H. MUSE AND

G. F. F. THOMPSON,

Attorneys and Counselors at Law,

NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,

fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GROCERIES.

S. W. CLARK. H. MEADER.

CLARK & MEADER,

Successors to H. H. Hedden & Co.,

BUTTER AND TEA DEPOT,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Fancy & Choice Staple Groceries,

Cor. Common and Carondelet Sts.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

ENGLISH BISCUITS.

Pearl, Gem, Picnic,
Fancy Nic Nack, Fruit,
Gingernut, Eugenie, Albert,
Napoleon, Mixed, Royal Dessert,
Dessert Rusks, Maccaronis, Ratafia, Cracknels, etc.

PRESERVES.

Shaker, Baltimore,
New York,
French and Havana.

ENGLISH JAMS.

Raspberry, Strawberry,
Gooseberry, Green Gage,
Plum, Damson,
Red and Black Currant.

CHEESE.

Stilton, Cheshire,
Cheddar, Gruxere,
Parmnzon, Sapsago,
Holland, Limburg,
Pinenpple and
New York Cream.

SUNDRIES.

Fresh and spiced Salmon, large Codfish, extra Mess Mackerel, Green Corn, Tomatoes, French Peas, Asparagus, Mushrooms, Truffles, English Pickles and Sauces, Italian Macaroni and Vermicelli, Canned Fruits of All Kinds,

Fruit Jellies of all kinds, Dried Prunes, Apples and Peaches, White and Red Beans, Split Peas, Barley, etc. fe11 1m

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Porce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 tf

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Valrin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.

Henry V. Ogden. fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, General Agent.

fe4 6m

MISCELLANEOUS.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

fe11 tf

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK.

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank," in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

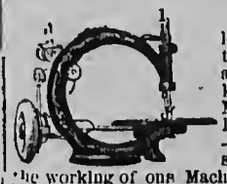
In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.

No. 1773. fe11 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES



The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

B. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand.

M. S. HEDRICK, Proprietor.
159 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.
Branch Office, 150 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.
Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6m

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., JANUARY 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb, Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds prepaid by mail, with directions for culture. Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds; Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc.; Grass Seeds; Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale Lists to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

B. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 2m

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, tradesmen, professions, and the like, before country residents, as is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1871. NO. 9.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

St. Louis, March 8.—At half-ast two this P. M. the sky grew ddenly dark, followed immedi-ely by a terrific storm, with rain, sting twenty-five minutes, causing eat damage and loss of life, prin-pally in East St. Louis. The Alton d Chicago depot is a complete ock.

The steamer Mollie Able, lying at e bank just above, received the me fate—chimney torn down, roof d cabin blown off, and now lying twisted mass. The leaf folding e east pier of the bridge was eled with the water. The ferry-at America was completely dis antled, the ferry landing destroyed d burning. The Ohio and Mis-sippi depot had the top blown off, d taking fire, four men were killed d many hurt and wounded.

The elevator roof was blown off d the contents received consider-e damage by rain. The wharf-ts of the St. Louis and New Or-ns Packet Company and Mem-is Packet Company had their stern s parted and were blown a hund-feet from shore. The steamers bicon, Belle St. Louis and Marble y, lying just below the barrel fac-y, were blown into the river and ted a considerable distance be-they could be landed.

The Memphis Packet Company d the Belle St. Louis to Captains ke and Grisom for $27,000.

iver falling eight inches per day.

r Louis, March 9.—A terrific rm came visited St. Louis yesterday ning. The railroad depots were troyed, and nearly all the der-s and appliances for the con-ction of the bridge over the sissippi river were destroyed.

thirty-ton engine with a train ars was blown forty feet into a gh. Another train of thirteen loaded with grain was thrown the track.

ven persons are known to have killed and thirty seriously hurt. here is scarcely a tree or build-standing in the path of the m. Steamboats lying on the rn side of the river were dam-

ASHINGTON, March 10.—Senate.—Anthony has been chosen ker pro tem.

r. Sumner declined to serve on Committee of Elections and leges.

e change in the chairmanship e Committee on Foreign Rela-was discussed all day. Mr. e, in answer to a question, said s because Mr. Sumner refused ve social intercourse with the dent or Secretary of State.

e debate was entirely confined e Republicans, and was bitter personal. Finally at six o'clock ote was reached, and the com-committees confirmed by the e. This finally places Mr. Cam-at the head of the Foreign Af-Committee.

SHINGTON, March 10.—The Out-Committee reported, summing follows: Ku-Klux does exist, composed of members of the cratic or Conservative party; s a political purpose, and to carry its purpose by mur-whippings, intimidation and ce against its opponents. It its members to carry out de-of crime, and protects them st conviction.

minority report is also quite nd concludes: The number of outrages, detestable and wick-hey are, is, nevertheless, grossly ildly exaggerated, and this no n doubt who will examine the ony, and has any knowledge credulity and inaccuracy of eat characteristic of our well-ng colored people. North a is one of the largest States, ridly, in the Union, and is d into eighty-seven counties, early one million five hundred nd people. No act of lawless-s actually proven to have been itted excepting in one or the of six, or perhaps eight of counties, and it is proposed to y violent and stringent meas-of coercion and repression to maining nine-tenths of a State t which no breath of evidence of lawlessness has ever been ed, but which, on the contrary, ts a condition of quiet almost sting the insensibility of des-What can be alleged? What cation to the American people urged for this renewed and invasion of a peaceful com-y? The statement that an-there exists is absurdly un-nd the testimony now laid be-e Senate overwhelmingly es-es its untruth. If aggressive re to be enacted let all dis-guise be cast off and the true reason avowed; it will not be less violent or wrong, but it will not be hypocritical and will be more manly. To any fair-minded man we confidently commit the proofs contained in the testimony now presented by the committee, and aver that in the face of such wrongs as have been inflicted upon our unfortunate and crushed people by the rulers placed over them, not by their own consent, but by the exercise of despotic powers by the Congress of the United States, no example of equal submissiveness and patient endurance can be found in history as is now presented by the people of the State of North Carolina.

This is the truth in a nutshell: that Holden and his official supporters have failed to maintain themselves by any means, foul as well as fair, in their State. They have appealed to popular elections, and have been rejected with something near to unanimity by every taxpayer in the State, and now Congress is asked to step in and force North Carolina down under the feet of her Radical masters, and we fear that Congress will attempt to do this unwise and wicked thing. Will the people of the North, free as yet, see this thing done and sustain its promoters? We hope not, we pray not. When will the men now in power learn the truth of what the great statesmen of our country said so wisely and well, when similar attempts were made to govern British India. It is the nature of tyranny and rapacity never to learn moderation from the ill success of first oppression. On the contrary, all men thinking highly of the methods dictated by their nature, all refute the frustration of their desires to the want of sufficient vigor; then they redouble the efforts of their impatient cruelty, which, producing, as they must produce, new disappointments, they now initiate against the objects of their rapacity and their fury a malice implacable because unprovoked; recruiting and reinforcing their avarice, their vices are no longer human. From cruel men they are transformed into savage beasts, with no other vestiges of reason left but what serve to furnish the incentives and refinements of ferocious subtlety for purposes of which beasts are incapable and at which fiends would blush.

FRANK P. BLAIR.
T. F. BAYARD.

Mobile, March 11.—A severe rain and thunder storm here to-day lasted five hours. A negro woman was killed by lightning. The eastern and western portions of the city are completely overflowed. Bridges were washed away and stores flooded. The heavy losses to the merchants by the overflow is due, in a great part, to the new track of the New Orleans, Mobile and Chattanooga railroad. The loss by the overflow in bridges and merchandise will amount to $10,000.

New York, March 13.—Captain McDonald, first officer, and Davis, third officer, were washed overboard from the steamer Europa, on the fourth instant. A fearful sea prevented the launching of a boat to rescue them.

Secretary Fish, in a letter to the Post, denies the reported interference of the English diplomatists in Mr. Sumner's removal.

Princess Leopoldina, daughter of the Emperor of Brazil, and wife of the Duke of Saxe, is dead.

Washington, March 14.—The joint committee caucuses recommend substantially the adoption of Mr. Butler's Ku-Klux bill; authorizes the President to employ troops to suppress disorders, without a requisition of the State governments. It establishes an elaborate code for the trial and punishment of Ku-Klux by the Federal courts. Any one of a disguised band is made punishable for the acts of undetected members, with damages from such bands, payable by the counties wherein the damage occurs. Jurors shall take the ironclad oath.

The report was discussed three hours in caucus. There was strong opposition to both the military and judicial features of the bill in the Senate caucus, which adjourned to ten o'clock to-morrow, without action.

The House caucus meets to-night to consider the report.

It is believed the Senate caucus will order the bill to be put on its passage without any material modification.

Washington, March 14.—Private dispatches from Little Rock report Governor Clayton's election to the United States Senate.

Private dispatches received here to-night say the Democrats have swept New Hampshire, electing Governor and all Congressmen.

Press dispatches through regular channels confirm the private advices of the election of Governor Clayton as United States Senator from Arkansas.

Concord, N. H., March 14.—An election in the State of New Hampshire for Governor, railroad commissioner, three Congressmen and members of the Legislature took place to-day. The Republicans supported James Pike, and the Democrats James A. Weston for Governor. Up to six P. M. the election returns show a large Democratic gain, and the election of Weston is possible if not probable.

Bell (Democrat) is elected to Congress in the third district.

FOREIGN.

Paris, March 8.—The city is calm, but it is difficult to say whether it is calm before a storm or a collapse of the revolutionists.

The National Guards resist disbandment; they pile their arms on the boulevards, and gather in angry groups. Belleville and Montmartre districts show no signs of revolt.

London, March 9.—The Times has a Madrid letter announcing that Duke de Montpensier had been banished for refusing to subscribe to military oaths in support of Amadeus.

The Post affirms that a secret treaty had been concluded between Russia and Prussia about the time the war broke out. Among its provisions was intervention, should French successes threaten Poland, and should Austria demonstrate Russia would demonstrate upon the Austrian frontier. Should any European power combine with France Russia would combine with Prussia.

The Russian loan has been withdrawn.

In the House of Lords Earl Granville denied that the government had any knowledge of a secret treaty between Russia and Prussia before the war.

Napoleon has addressed a communication to the president of the French Assembly, protesting against the vote by which that body declared that his dynasty had forfeited the throne as unjust and illegal. The Assembly, he says, was created only to make peace, and has exceeded its powers. The foundation of public right is the plebiscite; to that he is ready to bow, and to that alone.

Paris, March 10.—Thiers will soon dissolve the Assembly, and appeal to the people to decide a future government.

Ducrot, Chanzy and Faidherbe are working for the empire.

Changarnier is seriously ill.

The navy has been greatly reduced and the docks have been rented to private companies. Foreign squadrons have been recalled.

The Montmartre insurgents have erected immense barricades in Rue de St. Pierre. An attack is expected to-day.

Paris, March 11.—The Reds propose the formation of a new republic, with Victor Hugo as president, Garibaldi as minister of war, and Blanc and Rochefort at Florence as ministers.

The Belleville battery is a complete earthwork, with glacis embrasures, platform, scrap trenches, sharpshooters, angles and mitrailleurs. Embrasures containing guns pointed at Paris were unmasked yesterday.

Anarchy prevails among the insurgents. A number of regiments of the line have been sent to Versailles to protect the Assembly. M. Thiers' influence is waning.

Berlin, March 11.—The South German elections resulted in the election of fifty liberals, ten conservatives and fifteen clericals.

Bonapartist intrigues are rife in Brussels and elsewhere.

London, March 13.—In the House of Lords, to-night, Lord Granville announced that the conference on the Eastern question had closed. The treaty was signed at the foreign office. It abrogated the restriction on admission to foreign men-of-war into the Dardanelles and Bosphorus. The Porte, in times of peace, may admit into those waters navals of friendly powers whenever needed to inforce the treaty of 1856. The Danubian commission is prolonged twelve years. The protocol expressly declares that no power can release itself of the obligations of the treaty without the consent of all the signatories.

Emperor William has set out on his return to Berlin, accompanied by a large and brilliant staff of princes and officers of the army and representatives of the German governments. The party reached Epernay at noon to-day, and were received with great enthusiasm by the returning troops, with whom the city was crowded.

Marshal McMahon has returned to France. The Black sea conference were in session to-day. All were present, including Duc de Broglie. All matters have been arranged; this will probably be the last meeting.

London, March 13.—Hoping to strengthen the government against impending disaster, Gladstone proposes to introduce into the cabinet two radical members, viz: Holmes, member from Hockney, other's name unknown.

Berlin, March 14.—The government demanded an immediate reply whether the decree expelling the Germans from France had been annulled. Favre asked time to reply, which was granted.

Herr Fabrici has been appointed chief of administration of the occupied French provinces.

St. Petersburg, March 14.—The existence of a secret treaty between Russia and Prussia is officially denied.

Brussels, March 14.—The returning French prisoners leave their arms in the hands of the Belgians.

Paris, March 14.—The Paris and Lyons railroad will be placed in the hands of the former managers to-morrow.

Several policemen have been mobbed. The press urge stringent measures.

THE TROUBLES AT MERIDIAN.

FIRE, RIOT AND MURDER.

On Saturday evening, the fourth instant, about seven o'clock, a fire broke out at Meridian, Mississippi, in the store of T. Sturges, resulting in the destruction of the entire block on Front, between Lee and Johnson streets.

There was considerable plundering by negroes during the fire, and a turbulent negro, named Billy Clopton, who has a gang of so-called negro militia at his command, who was parading them in arms on the street previous to the fire, expressed great exultation at the sight of rebel property burning. The Gazette says:

About this time, while the fire was raging, and our citizens struggling to arrest it and save a little of their property, the bell at the African church pealed forth the usual signal for the negroes to repair there. This was more than our people could stand, and a company was at once formed and marched to the residence of the sheriff, where a tender was made of the posse, and a request made for the arrest of Billy Clopton. The sheriff sent his deputy, Mr. Belk, in charge of the posse, and arrested Clopton and placed him under guard in the court house. The turbulent threats of the negroes and their white allies called the citizens together again on Sunday afternoon and evening, when one hundred men volunteered to vindicate the majesty of the law and crush lawlessness, no matter from whence it might come.

A squad of armed negroes were dispersed and sent home, and on Monday morning a large meeting of the citizens was held in the interests of good order. In the afternoon the examination of Clopton and two others, Aaron Moore and Warren Tylor, came on before Justice Bramlette, and the evidence showed that violent incendiary threats had been made at the negro gathering on Saturday. Tylor insultingly contradicted the testimony of a Mr. Brantley, who threatened him with his cane and advanced toward him within eight or ten feet.

At this juncture, says the Gazette, General Patten, city marshal, caught Brantley and held him. While he was thus held, Tylor drew a pistol and commenced firing at Brantley. At the first fire Judge Bramlette was shot through the head and instantly killed. The room was crowded with white and black, who were attending the trial, and as great excitement was prevailing, an indiscriminate firing commenced, in which William Clopton and a negro, named Gus Ford, were killed, and several persons, white and black, wounded. After firing several shots Tylor jumped out of the window and ran up the street. As soon as it was known that he had killed Judge Bramlette he was pursued, and, on refusing to surrender, was instantly killed. Tylor fired a number of shots at the parties in pursuit of him, and resisted his capture until the very last.—Picayune.

Let friendship creep gently to a height; if it rush to it it may soon run itself out of breath.

THE METHODIST WAY.

At a recent meeting of the Brooklyn Methodist Union (composed of the pastors and official brethren of that city,) the principal speaker stated that the Methodist Church, though by no means lifeless, was not relatively as strong and aggressive as it should be. Various explanations of this state of facts were offered. During the animated discussion which followed, one brother attributed it to a lack of systematic missionary work; another to a want of liberality on the part of the purse-holders; another to the short term of pastoral service; another to "paper sermons," and another tracing it to a "too rigid adherence" to old Methodist customs, especially that of inviting penitents forward for prayers, and "advising them to humble themselves before God." Most of these attempted explanations are merely restatements, in another form, of the same general fact as to the lukewarmness of the church; but the position of the latter brother gives us an opportunity to allude to the practice (far too common among modern Methodists) of sinking Methodist peculiarities, and attempting to engraft upon our simple and effective forms and usages the modes and methods of other churches.

Now that all other churches are beginning to recognize the wonderful efficiency of our once favorite methods, and to adopt them, it seems a pity that we should reject them. The only way for the Methodist Church to thrive is to be Methodistic. We can gain the respect of our fellow-Christians, and, what is better yet, acquire and retain a hold upon the masses, only by living up to our principles. The mission of the church is not only to preserve Christians from pollution, but to save sinners from perdition. But in too many cases the highest ambition of an "official board" is satisfied when a costly church is erected and paid for, its comfortable seats well hired, and the rent is punctually paid. Then, in order to compete with their neighbors, the aid of "artistic" music is invoked. Now, we are no opponents of refinement and culture, but it does seem to us that we are entirely too generous to art and artists when we give them the cream of our religious exercises. The churches we attempt to imitate do not do this. The Episcopal and Catholic churches, with their long liturgies, can give the "hired singers" abundant opportunities for display, and yet leave much for the people to do and say when assembled to worship. Having but three hymns in our service, and these hymns being emphatically our only liturgy, it is as great a mistake to take them from the people as if an Episcopal choir should insist upon intoning the whole of their service.

But singing alone will not save us. The French have (or used to have) a saying that "nothing succeeds like success," so it may be said, "nothing will revive us like a revival." And the way to secure this is for our official men to return to the old paths; to stop their ears to the protests of Mrs. Grundy; live so consistently as not to feel awkward and embarrassed in a Methodist prayer meeting; going to the class room as gladly as to a director's parlor; bestowing alms not grudgingly, but cheerfully; acknowledging that sin is worse than fanaticism, and enthusiasm better than stagnation; being as patient amid the fervor of a prayer meeting as in the din of a stock board; being less shocked by excessive earnestness in the work of saving men than in carrying a primary; being not high-minded, but condescending to men of low estate; living simply and giving freely; praying in secret and serving God openly, even as our fathers did. There may be better ways in other churches, but this has been, and we hope may long continue to be, the Methodist way.—Methodist.

Searching Question.—An old legend represents on the one hand the arrival before the throne of God of the penitent souls whom his pity admits into heaven; on the other Satan, who says: "These souls have offended against thee a thousand times—I only once." "Hast thou ever asked forgiveness?" replies the Eternal.

We are ruined not by what we really want, but by what we think we do; therefore never go abroad in search of your wants; if they be real wants they will come home in search of you; for he that buys what he does not want will soon want what he cannot buy.—Colton.

THE WORK ON THE PACIFIC.

The Spectator of San Francisco gives encouraging accounts of the church in that region. The editor says:

We are greatly encouraged by the revival intelligence coming up from different parts of the work. An aggressive movement is demanded; the demand is recognized and being responded to; and in answer to earnest prayer and faithful effort careless slumbering souls are awakened, converted and added to the church. The grand purpose of our mission is the salvation of souls. And when the divine blessing so rests upon and accompanies our labors as to make them successful in turning the people from "darkness to light, and from the power of satan unto the living God," then we are accomplishing the object for which we were sent forth. These cheering reports of souls saved and added to the people of God, sent out to every part of the work through the columns of the Spectator, have a quickening influence upon the whole church. The class leader speaks of it to his class, the pastor tells in the weekly prayer meeting how in certain charges God is visiting the church with reviving power, and every pulse beats quicker, and every heart is thrilled by the joyful tidings, while the united prayers of the whole body ascend as the petitions of one heart: "O Lord, revive thy work." Thus the revival spirit is diffused through the entire church, a gracious work at one point being shared by all.

In surveying the field we find much cause for heartfelt gratitude to the Giver of all good. While there are special outpourings of the Spirit at various points, there is a quiet, healthy, steady advance throughout the whole work, as evinced by reports from the various districts, peculiarly gratifying to every lover of Zion. But this is only the beginning—a few drops before the plentiful rain—the first fruits before the abundant harvest. Occupy and use the vantage ground already gained to press the battle with more vigor, and to plant the church deeper and more firmly in the hearts of the people among whom you labor. Drill and train your membership for a full measure of usefulness. Build churches and parsonages where they are needed. Improve those already built. Pay old debts where they exist. Attend to every interest of the church, and put your charge in an active, healthful, vigorous condition. Labor in faith. The divine arm is still mighty—the gospel still has saving power.

The American Colonization Society makes a very satisfactory exhibit of the economy with which its work has been carried on and the amount accomplished. From January 1, 1865, to January 1, 1871, six years, it colonized in Africa two thousand five hundred and eighty-eight emigrants, averaging four hundred and thirty-one and one-third per year. The sum disbursed by the society during the period named was $381,355.83, making only $147.35 per head for the people colonized. The disbursements cover not only the cost of transporting the emigrants to Africa, and their support for six months after their arrival, the amount expended for education, improvements and agencies in Liberia, but the total expenses of sustaining the institution at home.—New York Observer.

Remedy for Cancer.—Colonel Ussery, of De Soto, Louisiana, says that he fully tested a remedy for this troublesome disease, recommended to him by a Spanish woman, a native of the country. The remedy is this: Take an egg and break it, pour out the white, retaining the yolk in the shell, put in salt and mix with the yolk as long as it will receive it; stir them together until the salve is formed; put a portion of this on a piece of sticking plaster, and apply to the cancer about twice a day. He tried the remedy twice in his own family with entire success.

It has also been tried in two cases in Rhode Island, with perfect success. Such a remedy is within the reach of every one, and should be known to the whole world.

Those who work Murfee's Subsoil and its cultivating attachments save the expense of bull tongues, shovel plows, scooters and sweeps.

We often omit the good we might do in consequence of thinking about that which is out of our power to do.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1871.

For the Advocate.

HEAVENWARD.

INSCRIBED TO MY FATHER.

The sacred light of love divine,
A priceless boon, to thee was given;
Its radiant beams thy soul refined,
And taught the way to heaven.

The spirit, weary with its clay,
Basks in the light, and upward tending,
On trembling pinions soars away,
To heavenly courts ascending.

Then, nearer as she wings her flight
To fairer climes and fields Elysian,
She, upward gazing with delight,
Beholds a beauteous vision.

A numerous host on shining wing,
And with holy radiance beaming,
Invite thee, while they sweetly sing,
Where bliss for aye is streaming.

Then near the white and glorious throne
Of Him who bought these joys for thee,
Thou will, while countless ages run,
Rest in eternity.

LAURA.

PAY YOUR DEBTS.

BY REV. TIM. TITUS.

Mr. Editor: I said I would "tell your readers how it all turned out"—I meant to say how they succeeded in collecting and paying over the money to the preacher. Well, after they had "sung" and prayed for that "gracious revival"—for you see that was one of the main items in the preacher's part of the contract, that he must get up a "rousing revival on the work"—they separate and wend their way home, to think over, and probably grieve over, the rash promises made. The preacher, with a cheerful heart, at once enters upon his arduous labors. He enters upon his work in good faith, and he labors and toils faithfully. He feels now that he can be a pastor to his flock without hinderance. He visits and prays with the people, holds class meetings and revives the long-neglected and almost forgotten prayer meeting. He "notices" the children, buries the dead—in a word, he does all the work of an itinerant Methodist preacher. The work is in a bad condition, spiritually and financially. But the brethren have assured him that he shall be sustained and supported, and he bends all his energies to the building up of the church and advancing his Master's cause; and he is abundantly successful. His labors are owned and blessed of God, and a gracious revival follows his untiring, faithful labors. It has spread all over the work, and scores of precious souls are happily converted and added to the church; and the loud, glad hallelujahs tell the genuineness of the work. The church is increased and wonderfully built up by the many new recruits to the army of Immanuel. The faithful pastor has done his part—fulfilled his part of the contract—but through much hard labor, and many sore trials, heartburnings and misgivings. But as an honest man he feels his obligations must be met at all hazards. The year is fast closing. He received a mere "pittance" during the year. His family have suffered for many of the substantials of life, to say nothing of the luxuries. He has no income, and must of necessity depend upon the church he is serving for a support. But having confidence in the honesty of his stewards' pledge, he lives in hope. And he finds a friendly merchant and grocer who kindly furnish him with supplies. He goes in debt.

Well, here comes the winding up scene—for all things have an end. The fourth quarterly conference is here. The business of that important occasion proceeds. The pastor's report is read. "I came here and found the work so and so. The prospect for a support was very bad indeed, but the brethren came forward and nobly pledged themselves to raise $1,000 for my support if I would do the work. I went to work, and have labored hard and faithfully, giving my whole time to the work, and left the matter of support entirely in the hands of the brethren, feeling confident they would bring it all up according to promise. Here are the facts and figures of what I have done. The times have been a little hard, I know. Cotton has declined one-eighth of a cent, and of course money has been a little tight. I have been waiting patiently. I have received so little I have been compelled to go in debt some, and these debts must be paid." Well, the preacher takes his seat, and the presiding elder says: "Brethren, your preacher has done a good year's work, and you must make some shift for him, and not let him leave you unpaid." But there comes up from a dark corner somewhere a groan and a grunt, that sounds a little as if somebody had said: "The times are mighty hard on us just now." However, the important question comes: "What has been collected for the support of the gospel, and how has it been appropriated?" Well, did you ever see such breathless suspense? and silence as profound as the dead-house at midnight. But it is broken, at last, by the recording steward reading out the assessments, and then calling over the roll of those who have paid anything. "Bro. A., $50, paid;" "Bro. B. promised $50, paid $25—just half;" "Bro. C., $50, paid;" "Bro. D., $25, paid $35—$10 more than he promised;" "Bro. E., $50, paid $35;" "Bro. F., $50," paid in the store, in goods, at from fifty to one hundred and fifty per cent. profit. "Bro. G., $50, and promised to raise $250 from his church." But Bro. G. thought "best to collect on certain preaching days." So he collected a little from others; "may be" he paid something himself.(?) And so on to the end of the list; and when it was ended it was found that the preacher had received less than two-thirds of his promised, pledged assessment. But after a stirring exhortation by the presiding elder they promise to raise at least another hundred dollars. In a few weeks Conference comes on, and with a heavy heart he calls upon the stewards for some money to carry him to Conference, but is informed that not a cent can be collected; and he is compelled to leave the work in debt, and scarcely a dollar in the world. A board of stewards, rich and full, suffer their preacher to leave them, and justly indebted to him $300 or $400, to get to Conference and to his next field of labor as best he can. Now these brethren, honestly and in all justice, owe him this money for labor performed. They owe it as much to this faithful man of God as if they had purchased a horse and given their joint note for it, one day after date. Every man of them should feel that it is a moral and religious duty to pay every cent they promised to pay. I am satisfied that by so doing they would rest easier, sleep sounder and enjoy more religion. "Pay that thou owest." O brethren, don't you feel bad when you think about that faithful, self-sacrificing, laborious, good man that you let go away from you unpaid? Think about his dear wife and precious children, whom you denied so many of the necessaries of life, and all the luxuries. Now, brethren, hunt up your former preacher, and you that paid one-half or one-third what you promised to do, find out where he is, and send him his money. You owe it to him, and ought to pay it. And now in conclusion, brethren, don't let your preachers go in debt for supplies, or starve their families, or have to borrow money to get to Conference at the close of this year 1871.

And now if any brother is curious enough to know what preachers have such claims against his charge, let him write to every preacher in the connection, and he will be able to find out to his heart's content.

FIDELITY IN LITTLE THINGS.—Great virtues are rare; the occasions for them are very rare; and when they do occur we are prepared for them; we are excited by the grandeur of the sacrifice; we are supported either by the splendor of the deed in the eyes of the world, or by the self-complacency that we experience from the performance of an uncommon action. Little things are unforeseen; they return every moment; they come in contact with our pride, our indolence, our haughtiness, our readiness to take offense; they contradict our inclinations perpetually. It is, however, only by fidelity in little things that a true constant love to God can be distinguished from a passing favor of spirit.

THERE is often more love in a frown than in a smile. "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten."

EAST ALABAMA COLLEGE.

AUBURN, ALA., March 4, 1871.

Mr. Editor: I am requested by the curators of the East Alabama College to bring the present condition of the college building to the attention of the ministers, members of the churches and friends of the college of that portion of the Alabama Conference hitherto attached to this institution. One thousand dollars expended at once in repairs would save the building. To show how urgent is the necessity, I will state that the most serious damage is caused by the leaking of the roof, and extensive repairs are necessary before this can be stopped. Large quantities of the plastering have fallen, caused by the heavy rains which have flooded the building. The exposed wood-work needs painting to preserve it from decay. Two hundred panes of glass need to be replaced, and a few window frames repaired. The fences around the campus is in a dilapidated condition. The grounds ought to be protected and beautified. Neglect in this matter will work irreparable damage, and over $80,000 of church property will run to waste and ruin.

Who will help us? The present faculty get barely enough to support their families. Working with all their energies, poorly compensated, yet they have generously consented to teach free of tuition one young man, as a normal scholar, from each county of the State. Some of these are at present receiving full instruction here, preparing themselves to be teachers, and some for the ministry; while ministers' sons are here on the same basis. We have thus extended our generosity far beyond our abilities, and have awakened expectations that we cannot meet for the want of funds. Who will help these young men struggling for an education? The students are endeavoring to fit up the two society halls, and want $500 each for this purpose.

Let the friends of this institution rally to its support, and form in each community committees for college repairs. Let the young ladies give concerts, entertainments and fairs for this object, and in addition to contribute to the education of poor young men who are knocking at our doors for admittance. Let the ministers especially interest themselves in this matter, collect immediately all they can and forward it, to start the workmen at once. The last session of the Montgomery Conference ordered a collection to be taken up for this college, but this order never was executed in a single instance. There are some wealthy members of our churches who could send us each $100 without injury to themselves, and thereby help on a great and good work. Some of them have sent their sons to other colleges, and in this way damaged us no little. They can repair these damages, in part, at least, by sending us a liberal contribution. Let the friends of this institution do for us what those of Wofford and Florence are doing for their respective institutions. We are making a desperate effort to sustain this college, and only need a hearty, undivided co-operation of the members of our churches to meet with success.

Who will cheerfully respond to this urgent call? If those who promised to contribute $10 each toward endowment will send us these amounts at once the college will be greatly benefited. We have no agent, for the reason that the money paid for the support of an agent would be sufficient to meet our present necessities. Every preacher is an agent, and we call upon him to aid us and save this magnificent building, encourage the hearts of the toiling professors and gratify the friends of the college. I would respectfully suggest that the presiding elders take this matter in hand and urge the brethren of their respective districts to do something toward this matter. A. D. McVoy.

P. S.—There are certainly more than two thousand members within our bounds who are able to give fifty cents toward this object.

A. D. McV.

IT is every way better to do what God intends for us than what we intend for ourselves.

LETTER FROM KEACHIE.

KEACHIE, LA., Feb. 11, 1871.

Mr. Editor: The providences of God, like the phenomena of the physical universe, are ever varied and changing in their appearances and their effects upon the general interests of mankind. Unless it be the word of God, which "endureth forever," mutation is written upon the face of everything "beneath the throne of God." The stars in vast processions roll along the midnight heavens, and the sand-grain courses down the little brook. Life, an ever-varying scene, a chain of providences, clothes each moment with some new joy or sorrow, which, though gone in a moment, has either a pleasure or a lesson for us. Providence is the outward expression of the hidden wonders of the divine mind. If life on earth be so grand, what is it in heaven? Providence has placed us among new acquaintances, and torn from us the fast, firm friends of other days. The power of faith—we "have never needed a friend" but God has always supplied one. The promise is: "Lo, I am with you alway." The little rural village of Keachie is our home for 1871. Kind words, earnest looks and prompt actions seem to say: "We welcome you." May servant and Master both be entertained by all these kind people!

We have been to the Crescent City lately. It is a great place for good eating, fine ladies and clever gentlemen. In spite of certain whisperings about "forms and fashions," we thought we saw some signs of vital piety. Why cannot you city people realize just as much of God's love as we country brethren? Some "curious" things happened in Conference. An alarming discovery was made, viz: "Special legislation annihilates fundamental church principles." The grand scheme of evangelization reaches too far beyond such trivial subjects as temperance for us to deal specially with them. It is time that grandiloquent harangues should cease. This is not an age to show off principles, but one that demands practicalities. Doubtless the speech-makers had drunken members. Grant the position claimed by them, and by a parity of reason we can no longer name "special evils" in our sermons. The same "lofty views" will, among the masses, ostracise the practices of sound morality. "Special evils" deserve attention according to their magnitude. Grape-cuttings are soon to overrun our lands, the poor piny woods being suggested by many leading agricultural papers as the future reservoirs of fermented death. Five million dollars are spent yearly in advertising whisky, while trees, walls, fences and even logs by the wayside, are made sign-boards for pointing out to the drunkard the high road to hell. Drinking places dot our cities, float on our rivers, and stand out prominent in every village and at cross-roads innumerable. The rivers flow on to the ocean, bearing the freightage of death. From the Crescent City it flows back to fill our land with mourning, making it a vestibule of final despair to countless thousands. "America a nation of drunkards," and we idle? The opposition are divided among themselves. Various reasons are given by them against legislation, but they are either unsatisfactory or sophistical. The foxes they have caught are not competent to the task of setting the enemy's fields on fire. Meantime the drinking men agree with the "anti-legislation" principle as the safe (?) one. In 1866 this same principle drained class meetings at a single blow. Certainly the salient points of the argument are in favor of legislation. May our Conference be a standard-bearer for temperance. May our banner, though torn by a thousand battles, be thrown to the breeze from the loftiest battlement of the enemy, amid the loud anthems of millions redeemed from sin and death by temperance. Then will the church be no longer pregnant with wine-bibbing members and preachers. Then will the "smoke" of King Alcohol's "torment ascend up forever." Mr. Editor, in this crisis may your trumpet give no uncertain sound.

Yours in love, joy and temperance,

PRAIRIE.

THE BIBLE COMMENTARY.

Since the translation of King James' version of the Bible no similar undertaking in England has called forth the talents of so many eminent scholars and divines as the forthcoming "Speaker's Commentary," which will soon be issued in London by the well known publisher, John Murray, and in New York by Charles Scribner & Co. It has long been known that such a work was in preparation, and the announcement of its speedy appearance will be read with interest by Bible students everywhere, and, indeed, throughout the whole literary world.

The popular title of the new commentary in England is owing to the connection with the work of the speaker of the British House of Commons, who was one of the committee by whom their particular parts were assigned to the various co-laborers. The Archbishop of York was also early interested in the scheme, and these two, with the Archbishop of Canterbury and other high dignitaries of Church and State, constituted the committee who assigned their parts to the scholars selected for the various portions of the work. The general editorship was intrusted to Rev. F. C. Cook, Canon of Exeter, well known by his "Commentary on the Acts of the Apostles," etc.; and among the thirty-six distinguished names on the list of contributors we find those of the historians Rawlinson and Thirlwall; Dr. Howson, of Conybeare and Howson's "St. Paul;" Dr. E. Harold Browne, Bishop of Ely, and author of "Exposition of the Thirty-nine Articles," "The Pentateuch, in Reply to Colenso," etc.; Bishop Hervey, author of "Inspirations of the Holy Scriptures;" the famous commentator, Dr. Lightfoot; Dr. Westcott, who has nearly completed a critical edition of the New Testament; and others whose studies have especially fitted them for these important labors, and who have in volumes of their own preparation already won positions of authority as commentators.

The design is to furnish a commentary acceptable alike to the learned and unlearned, but especially adapted to the purposes of the ordinary student and reader. Important critical points will not lack proper attention, but the explanations will be given as far as possible in such a manner as to be easily understood by those not familiar with the original languages, or with the technicalities of criticism. The fuller discussions of mooted questions will be reserved until the close of the chapter or book, while the running comment will present the ripest results of biblical research and scholarship in the most readable and concise form.

It is under the auspices of Church of England scholars; the idea having not taken hold of the church-mind of England that the scholarship and piety of the age have burst the bonds of sect, and absorbed the energies of all who are in fellowship with Jesus Christ. The commentary will be a grand addition to the literature of the church, and if it had been constructed on the broad basis of the whole church of God it would have become the commentary for Christendom.

The American edition will be printed from plates duplicated from those used by Murray. The Pentateuch will shortly be issued simultaneously on both sides of the ocean; in England in two parts, in this country in a single elegant volume of some one thousand pages, costing $5, (less than one-half the price of the English edition,) and the entire work will be completed in eight or ten volumes, which will be issued at regular intervals.—Observer.

BENEFITS OF LAUGHTER.—Probably there is not the remotest corner or little inlet of the minute blood vessels of the body that does not feel some wavelet from the great convulsion produced by hearty laughter shaking the central man. The blood moves more lively—probably its chemical, electric or vital condition is distinctly modified—it conveys a different impression to all the organs of the body, as it visits them on that particular mystic journey, when the man is laughing, from what it does at other times. And thus it is that a good laugh lengthens a man's life by conveying a distinct and additional stimulus to the vital forces. The time may come when physicians, attending more closely than they do now to the innumerable subtle influences which the soul exerts upon its tenement of clay, shall prescribe to a torpid patient "so many peals of laughter, to be undergone at such and such a time," just as they do that far more objectionable prescription—a pill or an electric or galvanic shock; and shall study the best and most effective method of producing the required effect in each patient.

THERE is no use of money equal to that of beneficence. Here the enjoyment grows on reflection, and our money is most truly ours when it ceases to be in our possession.

THE CHENEY CASE.

It was rumored in private circles, we do not know how correctly, that last week Bishop Whitehouse sent a note to Christ church, informing them that Rev. C. E. Cheney was deposed, and that, therefore, they were without a rector. The same report says that the Bishop very considerately offered to send them a rector pro tempore. The offer, if thus made, was declined, for Mr. Cheney officiated last Sunday, as usual. He had, however, with him in the church Rev. Dr. Powers, a sympathizing Low Churchman, who was thus at hand to assume Mr. Cheney's duties, if anything unforeseen had occurred to incapacitate the rector.

After the morning service the rite of infant baptism was administered. The subject was an infant son of a Mr. Fuller, brother to attorney Fuller, who has in courts, ecclesiastical and secular, so lately and so ably defended Mr. Cheney. After the baptism "the minister" did not "say" the words whose omission has brought him into all this trouble. The forms in dispute are as follows, the words which Mr. Cheney persists in omitting being in italics and brackets:

"Seeing now, dearly beloved brethren, that this child is [regenerate and] grafted into the body of Christ's church, let us give thanks," etc.

And in the following prayer:

"We yield thee hearty thanks, most merciful Father, that it hath pleased thee to [regenerate this infant with thy Holy Spirit, to] receive him," etc.

The continued omission of the words evidently was indorsed by the church in whose presence the sacrament was administered. Rev. Mr. Powers, however, who was present in the church during the previous service, took occasion to be absent from the church during the baptism.—Northwestern Christian Advocate, March 1.

REAL CHILDREN.—There are certain old fashions that never go out, and of them is the fashion of loving a real child. Men and women cut down to a small pattern are plenty enough; but what is becoming of the children? The spirit of the age is against them. Families without them are wanted by landlords, by boarding-house keepers and in hotels; families with them are looked upon with suspicion, as though girls and boys were contraband goods. Except in the Sunday school and the day school, they seem to be considered in the way, and the mother of many children is regarded by her friends with undisguised pity. Nobody seems to want them, while yet a genuine child is the joy of everybody, and a home unblessed with children is only half a home. Missing this wealth, all other gold is but dross.—Christian Union.

CHINESE METHOD OF PRESERVING GRAPES.—Travelers inform us that the Chinese have a method of preserving grapes so as to have them at their command during the entire year; and a recent author gives us the following account of the method adopted:

It consists in cutting a circular piece out of a ripe pumpkin or gourd, making an aperture large enough to admit the hand. The interior is then completely cleaned out, the ripe grapes are placed inside, and the cover replaced and pressed firmly. The pumpkins are then placed in a cool place, and the grapes will be found to retain their freshness for a long time. We are told that a very careful selection must be made of the pumpkin, the common field pumpkin, however, being well adapted for the purpose in question.

THE BEST FRIEND.—"What do you do without a mother to tell your troubles to?" said a child, who had a mother, to one whose mother was dead.

"Mother told me who to go to before she died," answered the little orphan. "I go to the Lord Jesus; he was mother's friend, and he is mine."

The other replied: "Jesus Christ is up in the sky; he is a great way off, and has a great many things to attend to in heaven. It is not likely he can stop to mind you."

"I do not know about that," said the orphan; "all I know is, he says he will, and that is enough for me."

This orphan was right. God's ear is as open to babes and sucklings as it is to divines and senators. Pity that all children were told as much and believed it!

PROF. HUXLEY dresses elegantly. He is tall, strong and gracefully built, but has none of the dogged solidity, begot of beer and beef, that is characteristic of modern Britons. His head is rather square than oval, his hair thick and straight and black. The forehead is perpendicular and dogmatic; the nose not turned up, but turned into the air; thin, firm, shut lips, above a chin mercilessly firm, and small eyes that sparkle in their sockets.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1871.

THE E'EN BRINGS A' HAME.

Upon the hills the wind is dark and cold,
The sweet young grasses wither on the wold,
And we, O Lord, have wandered from thy fold!
But evening brings us home.

Among the mists we stumbled, and the rocks
Where the brown lichen whitens, and the fox
Watches the straggler from the scattered flocks;
But evening brings us home.

The sharp thorns prick us, and our tender feet
Are cut and bleeding, and the lambs repeat
Their pitiful complaints—oh! rest is sweet
When evening brings us home.

We have been wounded by the hunter's darts;
Our eyes are very heavy, and our hearts
Search for thy coming—when the light departs
At evening, bring us home.

The darkness gathers; through the gloom no star
Rises to guide us. We have wandered far—Without thy lamp we know not where we are:
At evening bring us home.

The clouds are round us, and the snow-drifts thicken;
Oh! thou, dear Shepherd, leave us not to sicken
In the waste night; our tardy footsteps quicken—
At evening bring us home.

Shadow of the Rock.

THEATERS.

During the French revolution, the age of infidelity and ungoverned passion, the theaters of Paris increased from six to twenty-five. Either the spirit of the times cherished them, or they fed the fires which involved millions of people in unparalleled crime and suffering.

Bulstrode, a learned and observant judge of Middlesex, England, in a charge to the grand jury, used these striking words, which many will indorse: "One play-house ruins more souls than fifty churches can save." Most of these who live in cities, where these soul-destroying nurseries of vice are generally found, can no doubt call to mind numerous instances where the brightest prospects have been blighted and the deepest degradation encountered by a fatal introduction to this region of the shadow of death.

"I called," said a minister, "to see a mother. She was in distress. She not only wept, but she wept aloud. 'What is the matter?' I inquired. She wept and cried: 'Oh, my child!—oh! my child is committed to prison!' And again she wept. 'Oh my child is just committed to prison, and I fear he will never, never return to his father's house!' and she wept again, and with all my firmness I could not forbear weeping too. I was afraid to ask the cause, but she said: 'Oh, that theater. He was a virtuous, kind youth till that theater proved his ruin.' This was her testimony and the young man's." Is it not better to go to heaven with the few than to hell with the multitude?

"Not one of my young friends," said Amos Lawrence, "was the better for going to the theater, and most of them are ruined. It is no better now. Liquor and licentiousness generally go together; and any young man who will go only a little wrong, will ultimately and inevitably go a great deal wrong, and reap ruin as the harvest of his sowing."

Archbishop Tillotson called the play-house "the Devil's chapel," and did not see how any person pretending to sobriety and virtue, and especially to the pure and holy religion of our blessed Saviour, can without great guilt and open contradiction to his holy profession be present.

We do not speak of what the theater may be made, but what it is. Has not every attempt to purify it been a failure? Mr. James, of Birmingham, England, said that "a catalogue of authorities against the stage was made in the time of Charles the Second, which contains every name of eminence in the heathen and Christian worlds; the united testimony of Jewish and Christian churches; the deliberate acts of fifty-four ancient and modern general, national and provincial councils and synods of the Eastern and Western churches; the condemnatory sentence of seventy-one ancient fathers, one hundred and fifty modern authors, Popish and Protestant; the hostile endeavors of philosophers and even poets, with the legislative enactments of pagan and Christian States, nations, magistrates, emperors and princes;" and adds: "May not this be presumptive evidence of its immoral tendency? Does it not approach the general opinion of the moral world?"

The infidel Rousseau did not defend the theater on its morals. He said: "You have nothing to do with morality here; this is not the place in which to learn it; the stage was not erected for the promulgation of truth, but to flatter and amuse."

If the theater be an engine of morality or handmaid of genuine religion, as some have said, where are the religious fruits? What improvement would the placing of a theater in one of the most debased portions of cities be to the morals; or, if placed where property is valuable, how soon will it depreciate that around it?

Another writer says: "Indeed, when the moral dangers with which this species of entertainment is surrounded are weighed; when the company with which it brings the young into contact, the scenes with which it tends to familiarize its votaries, and the nature and tendency of the moral principles it inculcates, are seriously considered; and when the dire experience of thousands who have traced their ruin to their having formed an unhappy attachment to this species of entertainment is taken into the account, is it going too far to say that there is one short word of three letters employed to designate a portion of its accommodations that may be viewed as not inaptly descriptive of the whole, or that the satirist exceeded the bounds of truth when he spoke of the inscription on one entrance as applicable to the entertainment as a whole—the way to the pit? Tell me not of those who have indulged in this amusement and yet have escaped its demoralizing tendency. What of that? Because some constitutions resist the plague, is the plague innocuous, and ought all men recklessly to expose themselves to its virulent influence? Young men, if you have any respect for consistency of Christian character, if you have any desire for the enjoyment of spiritual good, if you have any regard for the value of time, if you would aim at being conformed to him who was not of this world, you will never cross the threshold of a theater."

Have we abandoned the test which the Saviour gave to his disciples (Matt. vii, 16–20:) "By their fruits ye shall know them. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?" If all the testimony is evil and no good; if immorality, licentiousness and every kind of evil is encouraged and often taught; and if the young are led by these flatteries and amusements to wander more readily, more rapidly and more vigorously into ways of sin and death, they cannot be enemies to the young who warn them to flee from the way to the pit. Like the hense of the strange woman, it is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death. It will be time enough for Christian people to lend their influence to help on the theater when it is shown by its friends and defenders that it is a means of salvation to those who attend upon it, or an improvement of their morals.

Having been an observer of these who frequent the theater for nearly fifty years, having particularly noticed the young with whom we associated, we know, as Amos Lawrence said, of not one benefited in any way by going; but we do know of many, and some of them among the most promising young men of our city, who have been led on from one step to another until they have brought the gray hairs of their fathers and mothers with sorrow to the grave, and themselves to ruin of character, place and substance, some of them to the State prison; and many, we fear, have lost their souls, dying without hope, without repentance. We have for that length of time been also observant of the churches and those who have been concerned on the subject of religion, and have noticed that if concerned about their souls they gave up the theater and abstained from it. We know of no exception among those who held steadfast in following of Christ; on the other hand, of any who, having been concerned on the subject of their soul's salvation and still frequented or went back to the theater, they went back to the world; and of many of such it might truly be said their last state was worse than before.—W. D. S., in Baltimore Christian Advocate.

ONLY BELIEVE.—Toward the close of a life of devotedness to God, that eminent minister, Dr. Payson, observed that Christians might avoid much trouble and inconvenience if they would only believe what they profess—that God is able to make them supremely happy in himself, independently of all circumstances. "God has been depriving me," he wrote, "of one mercy after another: but as one was removed, he has come in and filled up its place. Now when I am a cripple, and not able to move, I am happier than ever I was in my life before, or ever expected to be; and if I had believed this twenty years ago I might have been spared much anxiety. If God had told me some time ago that he was about to make me as happy as I could be in this world, and then had told me that he should begin by crippling me in all my limbs, and removing me from my usual sources of enjoyment, I should have thought it a very strange mode of accomplishing this purpose. And yet how is his wisdom manifest even in this."

AN APPEAL TO PAPAL BISHOPS.

Father Hyacinthe has made an appeal to the bishops of the papal communion in regard to the schism existing among its members on the question of the dogma of papal infallibility, dated "Romo, Absent in Body, Present in Spirit, Christmas Day, 1870." He expresses his strong "affection for his church and his determination not to be severed from it 'by excommunications which, being unjust, are therefore invalid;'" he also speaks freely in regard to its condition. The following are extracts from his address:

"Let me be permitted in the presence of the misfortunes of my country and the misfortunes of the church, to address myself to the Catholic bishops throughout the world—to those especially who see the situation as I see it myself, and who are, I well know, not a few. I am nothing, that I should speak to them so freely. But was it not the bold saying of the illustrious Gerson, that in times of crisis even the humblest peasant may convoke a general council and save the universal church? It is this right which I use; it is this duty which I discharge in conjuring the bishops to put an end to the latent schism which divides us down to a depth more formidable in proportion to its being less acknowledged.

"Before all else we require them to tell us whether the decrees of the recent council are or are not binding on our faith. In an assembly in which the first conditions ought to be the entire freedom of discussion, and the moral unanimity of the votes, it is well known that bishops, considerable by their numbers, by the authority of their learning and their character, have complained loudly and repeatedly of restrictions of every kind imposed on their liberty, and have refused to take part in the final decision. Is it possible that on returning to their dioceses, as if awakening from a long dream, they have acquired a retrospective certainty of having actually enjoyed during their sojourn in Rome a moral independence of which at that time they were not conscious? The very supposition is an insult. There is no question here of a mystery above human reason, but simply of a fact of personal experience; and a change of opinion in such a case is not to submit reason to authority, but to sacrifice conscience itself.

"If it be so, we remain free, after as before the council, to reject the infallibility of the Pope as a doctrine unknown to ecclesiastical antiquity, and resting only on apocryphal writings, concerning which criticism has pronounced its final judgment.

"We remain free to declare openly and loyally that we decline to accept the recent 'Encyclical Letters' and the 'Syllabus,' which their most intelligent champions are constrained to interpret in opposition to their natural sense and to the well known intentions of their author, and of which the result, if these documents were treated seriously, would be to establish a radical incompatibility between the duty of a faithful Catholic and the duty of an impartial student and of a free citizen.

"Such are the most salient points on which the schism exists. Every Catholic who has regard for the integrity and dignity of his faith—every priest who has at heart the honesty of his profession—has the right to interrogate the bishops on these points, and the bishops are bound to answer without reticence and without subterfuge. * * *

"Behold, yo bishops! the bride of Jesus Christ, who is also yours, the holy church, pierced, like him, by five wounds.

"The first wound, which we may call that of the first hand, the hand which carries the light, is the darkening of the word of God. The sacred volume, open to the world to enlighten and fertilize it, why is it shut up in the obscurity of the dead languages, and under the seal of most severe prohibitions? The bread of doctrine and of life which God had prepared for the little ones as well as for the learned, how has it been withdrawn from them? It is vain to urge as a pretext the abuses of heresy and of unbelief. Place the Bible in its true relation to science by an intelligent exegesis, and neither will have any cause to fear the other; place it in its own true relation toward the people by a religious education worthy of it and of them, and it will become the surest guide of the life of the people, the healthiest inspiration of their worship.

"The wound of the other hand is the oppression of the intellect and the conscience by the abuse of hierarchical power. Doubtless Jesus Christ said to his apostles, 'Go and teach all nations,' but he said to them no less, 'The kings of the nations exercise authority over them; let it not be so among you.' Successors of the apostles, hasten to remove from our shoulders the burden which neither we nor our fathers have been able to bear, and restore to us that light and easy yoke to which the love of our Redeemer has called us.

"What shall we say of the wound of the heart? I will venture to call it by its name, because those who suffer most by it are those who dare the least to speak of it—it is the celibacy of the clergy. I do not speak of a voluntary celibacy, the more agreeable to God in proportion as it is free and joyous, as the love which impresses it, the lot of a few souls who are called to it and maintained in it by an exceptional grace. But when it is extended without discrimination to natures the most diverse and least prepared; when it is imposed as an eternal vow on their experience; and on their enthusiasm, celibacy becomes an institution merciless, and too often immoral. Nations who believe that they see in it the exclusive ideal of perfection fail to recognize the sanctity of domestic life, and degrading the family in the interest of the cloister, make these the refuge of common-place, or at least of earth-born souls, and thus the hearth and home cease to be the altars of God!

"And now come the last wounds of the church, as it were, the unstable hold which the feet have upon the earth. I speak of her worldly policy and of her superstitious devotion. It is true that the church must have a policy, because she is of necessity in relation with the powers of this world; but its most complete expression is in the words of her Master: 'When I shall be lifted above the earth I shall draw all men to myself.' Is this that policy of a temporal power and of a secular arm which regards the possession of some provinces in Italy and some privileges in Europe as the essential condition of the empire of souls, and as the pivot of the whole spiritual edifice? It is a policy as disastrous to the church and to the world as the revolution which she serves in seeking to combat it—a policy which in its impotent and blinded obstinacy is now attempted to be raised to the level of a dogma. And yet there is no lack of spiritual force in the Catholicism of our day; it counts by thousands devoted souls, and it sees flourishing in its bosom the most admirable virtues and noblest works. Why is this piety, so touching and so true, too often delivered over to the seductions of a mysticism without depth and an asceticism without austerity, very different from those which made the greatness of the old ages of Christendom? External, I had almost said material, devotions are multiplied without measure; the veneration of the saints, especially of the blessed Virgin, is developed in a proportion, and yet more with a character, foreign to the true sentiment of Catholicism; and we feel among us the diminution of that worship of the Father which Jesus has made the soul of his religion. This is the condition to which our sins have reduced the body of Christ upon earth; the sins of the clergy as much and even more than the sins of the people. Bishops of the church, have you no pity? Will you not apply an effectual remedy? 'Is there, then, no balm in Gilead, and is there no more a physician?'

"I pause with a heart too heavy to pursue. I knew not what will come of my feeble words in the midst of the shock of empires and of the voice of blood which cries aloud from the fields of carnage. But this I do know, that if my words are not sufficiently strong to hasten the accomplishment of the design of Providence, they are sufficiently true to announce it."

A Coal Pit on Fire for a Hundred Years.

One of the most curious phenomena in connection with coal mining is exhibited at the Bank Colliery, near Rotherham, the property of Earl Fitzwillian. The pit caught fire one hundred years ago, and all efforts of the workmen at the time and subsequently have been quite ineffectual to extinguish it. A short time ago it was ascertained that the flames were approaching the bottom of the shaft, and it was then resolved, if possible, to stay their progress, so that they might not extend to other parts of the workings. At length the superintendent of collieries, Mr. T. Cooper, conceived the idea of building a wall to shut in the fire, and in order to ascertain the best site for this wall, several of the officials crept on their hands and knees, through the dense stifling smoke, as far as possible into the workings. Their efforts were successful, and the wall is now completed nearly one thousand yards in length, and varying from nine inches to five feet in thickness. At a distance varying from thirty to fifty yards metal pipes have been inserted in this wall, which are securely plugged at the end, so that at any time, by removing the plugs, the state of the air on the side of the fire, and even the position of the fire itself, can be ascertained. So intense is the heat arising from this fire that people possessing gardens above the colliery declare that the growth of plants is materially affected, and that they are enabled to obtain two and three crops every year.—London News.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH was opened in Rome, now the capital of Italy, on the eighth of January. It has been erected at a cost of about $15,000, and will accommodate three hundred persons. The pastor is the Rev. James Lewis, formerly a minister of the Free Church of Scotland in Leith.

THE Episcopalian Bishop of Florida has ordained Mr. J. Robert Love, the first colored man ever episcopally ordained in the South. Mr. Love was complimented for his sound scholarship and manly sense, and is going to New York, by invitation of Dr. Haight, to obtain funds for building a church and school in Florida.

JOHN MURRAY, of London, has published in two volumes, crown 8vo, with one hundred panoramic and other views from sketches and photographs made upon the spot, the New Testament, with a plain, practical commentary by Archdeacons Edward Churton and W. Basil Jones. This illustrated commentary is highly commended by the English press.

AFRICAN METHODIST.—The Board of Bishops of the African Methodist Church have just held a meeting in Washington. The next General Conference will meet at Charlotte, North Carolina, on the third Wednesday in June. The statistics show a membership of one hundred and sixty-four thousand six hundred and ninety-four preachers, five bishops and fifteen Annual Conferences. Two entire Annual Conferences have been organized since 1868.

THE Observer "Year Book" gives the list of deaths of American clergymen, 1870, with their ages. The average age is sixty-one years—a much higher average than could probably be found in any other class of men. Twenty-one had passed eighty years, fifty-two died between ages of seventy and eighty, thirty-seven were between sixty and seventy, twenty-three were between fifty and sixty, seventeen were between forty and fifty, twenty were between thirty and forty, six were between twenty and thirty.

AT THE sixth session of the company for the revision of the New Testament, in the Jerusalem Chamber, London, the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol presided. The attendance was good, as many as twenty-one members being present. Great feeling was shown by all present with reference to Dean Alford, and a warm and deserved tribute paid to his memory. His loss is much felt by the company, as the dean had endeared himself to all, not only by his learning, but by his geniality, courtesy and candor.

THE Methodist State Convention of New York, a year ago, resolved that $500,000 be raised to found the new university at Syracuse. Half the amount was pledged at the time, and Syracuse agreed to give the last $100,000. It is now stated that the sum is completed, and that the first building is to go up at once, so that the university can open in the autumn of 1872. Dr. J. T. Peck, the president, has the chief honor of this success. He is now going to Europe, to examine the most famous educational institutions and learn what measures are valuable for introduction here.

THE American Tract Society has recently completed an arrangement with Messrs. Hurd & Houghton by which that firm undertakes the manufacture and sale of books from the stereotype plates of the society, the latter continuing to provide a good class of books, and to make grants. The society is thus freed from the labor and expense of conducting a department for the publication of books, and will give its attention entirely to the free distribution of religious works, prepared under its direction, by means of the funds placed at their disposal by persons for this purpose.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Boston Transcript writes from Geneva of one of the methods which the Pope has resorted to for replenishing his treasury. In 1865 France, Italy, Belgium and Switzerland agreed upon an equal coinage, which should be current alike in each country. The Pope, although invited, declined to come into the agreement; but soon adopted a similar coinage of his own, which obtained ready currency, until it was discovered that nearly all the coin in Switzerland was that of the Pope. An examination was then made, and it was found that the Pope's coin was twenty per cent. below par in value. The Pope made at least $800,000 by the swindle!

AN extraordinary work of grace, says the Congregationalist, is in progress in Bristol, New Hampshire, which began on the first of January, when fourteen young ladies were received into the Congregational Church. First, Christians began to pray and labor; then the young became interested, then older people, till all classes were reached. The pastor writes: "Every merchant, every doctor, the lawyer, the hotel keeper, every rum seller, every drunkard but two, every business man in the place but two, are rejoicing in Christ. Whole families, again and again, were seen coming together to ask for prayers." At present upward of four hundred are indulging in hope. Three-fourths of the inhabitants of Bristol of responsible age are seeking or have found Jesus.

THE celibacy of the clergy can no longer be enforced in any part of Italy. Another case has just been decided by the Court of Appeal of Cagliari in the following manner: "According to the civil code of Italy, the fact of a person being in holy orders is no impediment to his legal capacity to contract matrimony." The same judgment has been so often pronounced by courts of appeal in all parts of Italy, that no doubt can exist as to the meaning of the law, and the censures of the church are now the only obstacles to a priest marrying. On the first of February the civil law is to be introduced into the papal States.

SEVENTY PERSONS (fifty-five of them adults) were baptized and forty-eight confirmed the past year by the American Episcopal missions in China, a greater number than in any one previous year. Over two hundred children are under daily Christian instruction in the different schools, most of the teaching being done by Christian natives. "Thousands" are every year treated successfully, and without charge for medicines or medical attendance, at the hospital located at Shanghai. Two "kind physicians," who went out to practice among the resident foreigners, are in daily attendance. No less than five hundred of the wretchedly poor and starving of that city were fed morning and evening by the Episcopal missionaries in that city during the unusual severity of last winter. Funds were obtained for it from English and American merchants.

THE GREEK CHURCH IN NEW YORK. A daily paper contains the following item: "Rev. Mr. Bjerring, of the Greek chapel on Second avenue, has translated the liturgy into English, and is now about to form a quartette choir to assist in the services. Subscriptions for the building of the new Greek church in this city are progressing rapidly in Russia, and as soon as a sufficient amount has been collected, the plans of the structure, which are now in the hands of the Russian minister at Washington, will be acted upon. The Greek consul here has received three magnificent sets of priestly habiliments, which were sent by the Empress of Russia for presentation to the priests of the Greek Church in New York, New Orleans and San Francisco. They are of the finest gold texture, richly embroidered. Accompanying the robes are superb altar cloths."—New York Observer.

THE Presbyterian "Synod of China" held its first meeting on October 20. The session lasted ten days, and twenty-four members were present, namely: nine foreign missionaries, seven native pastors, seven native elders, and one foreign, and representing three presbyteries—those of Canton. Two others were constituted. But these three comprise nearly all the churches and members of American Presbyterian missions in China. The churches number eleven; communicants over six hundred. About twenty candidates are preparing for the ministry. In the interesting and deeply important discussions, extending through much of these ten days, four dialects or languages were in use, delaying the proceedings for translation. The "minutes" were recorded, and are to be printed in English and Chinese. But the Mandarin dialect will probably be adopted as the common medium. Should the other missions agree in making it theirs, Christianity in the end may also bless the Chinese with removing their multiplicity and confusion of tongues.

GENERAL VIEWS.—If we look to Europe, or Asia, or Africa, or the islands of the sea, we find everywhere the tokens of the steady onward march of the kingdom of God. The gospel is taking hold of the world in the right way to insure its certain triumph. Its progress proceeds from a center and basis of preparation never before attained. Provision has been made, through the circulation of the Bible and the intelligent culture of the people, under God, for keeping what we have won, and going forward to greater triumphs. The employment of the native element in promoting evangelization, the native Christians being trained to preach the gospel to their own countrymen, is a feature of modern missions, as philosophical and necessary as it is apostolic. Let the work be pressed forward with energy and liberality, with much prayer and with the Holy Ghost, with unwavering faith and unshrinking and cheerful self-consecration—and "He whose right it is, shall take to himself his great power, and reign"—and who can tell how soon?—Examiner and Chronicle.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

MINISTERIAL SUPPLY.

The following resolutions were passed by the Louisiana Conference at its recent session in this city:

Resolved, THAT IN VIEW OF THE GREAT DESTITUTION OF LABORERS WITHIN OUR BOUNDS, WE SET APART THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL AS A DAY OF FASTING AND PRAYER, THAT THE LORD OF THE HARVEST MAY SEND FORTH MORE LABORERS INTO THIS FIELD.

Resolved, THAT THE PREACHERS BE REQUESTED TO PREACH IN THEIR SEVERAL CHARGES ON THE CALL TO THE MINISTRY, ON THE SABBATH FOLLOWING THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL, OR AT SUCH OTHER TIMES DURING THE YEAR AS MAY BE MOST SUITABLE.

POST OFFICES.

As changes are being made in the post offices of the preachers, they will greatly oblige us by furnishing their addresses as early as possible. Don't forget to give the post office from which your paper is to be changed, as well as that to which it is to be sent.

REV. DR. ANDREWS, of Mobile, who, with others, accompanied the remains of Bishop Andrew to Georgia, says in a brief note:

We carried the remains of the Bishop to Oxford, Georgia, where they were buried. They were followed to the grave by a vast concourse of weeping friends. Bells tolled as we passed through Montgomery, and all the way demonstrations evincing the profoundest respect for the Bishop, and the deepest sorrow on account of his death, were made. Bishop Pierce was not present. A few short funeral addresses were made in the church in Oxford by preachers from three Conferences—Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama—all vying with each other in their respect and veneration for the noble dead.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

At a meeting of the stewards of Felicity Street Methodist Episcopal Church South, held March 14, 1871, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the death of our venerated Bishop James O. Andrew, so recently with us in the Sabbath school and pulpit of our church, fills us with the deepest sorrow; and while we realize that the entire church has suffered a serious loss, we desire to express our gratitude to God that our beloved Bishop has been so long spared to the church, to fill up the measure of a long and useful life, as a devoted and faithful minister of Christ and Bishop of our church.

Resolved, That we join the quarterly conference of the Carondelet Street church in their request to Bishop Keener to hold memorial services, and accept their invitation to join them in the memorial services at the Carondelet Street church on Sabbath evening, March 19.

W. H. DAMERON, Sec.

REVIVAL AT ORAPS STREET.

Bro. Ahrens, the pastor of this interesting German charge, informs us that about thirty conversions have taken place during the last three days. The altar is still thronged with seekers, and the prospect is good for an extended revival.

WE ARE INDEBTED to the general agent of the Southwestern Bible Society, Rev. Dr. Dorenus, for a copy of the twenty-first annual report of this excellent institution. It is a handsome pamphlet of thirty-two pages, and contains the able addresses delivered at the recent anniversary, besides a full exhibition of the work and condition of the society.

ADDRESS OF A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

DELIVERED AT THE FUNERAL OF BISHOP J. O. ANDREW, IN MOBILE, MARCH 3, 1871.

I met Bishop Andrew for the first time at the North Carolina Annual Conference, held in the town of Washington, in the year 1846. He was then in the glory and splendor of his manhood. As we saw and heard him in the Conference and in the pulpit we hardly knew which most to admire, the power of his intellect or the warmth and tenderness of his heart. In him were happily blended the highest endowments of both. His nature was in perfect equipoise; in him there were no drawbacks. The impression continued and deepened as we learned more of him in after life. He made as few mistakes and blunders as any man of his age. But enough has already been said concerning his public life as a preacher of the gospel and a Bishop in the church of God. My purpose is to contemplate him for a few moments as a Christian, friend, husband and father.

His religion was genuine and pure. His sainted mother taught him to read the word of God and pray. From his cradle he imbibed from her sentiments of truth and piety. The more he followed her advice and example the stronger did his faith become. He tested all the promises of God in Christ Jesus, and found them to be yea and amen. While yet a youth he was called to the work of the ministry. When the voice of God reached him he "conferred not with flesh and blood," but was "obedient to the heavenly calling." He was poor, and the Methodist itinerancy held out to him no monied inducements, but the course of duty was plain and he followed it. In subsequent life, as he grew beyond the early hopes of himself and friends, munificent offers were made to him, such as would have led to ample provisions for himself and family, but he would not receive them; he dared not to trifle with the vows that he had made by entangling himself in worldly business. His work was to preach the gospel, and to this he devoted all his time and resources. He spent his whole life in teaching others how to find the same precious faith with which he was blessed. He believed that God would take care of his family and sustain him if he continued faithful, and he lived up to his convictions of truth and duty.

His head did not grow dizzy when greatness was attained, nor did his brain reel when he was placed in the highest office of the church. He did not lose the Christian in the minister. His heart was ever pure, his eye single, and his life "hid with Christ in God." He could say, in the midst of his greatest successes and fame: "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." He read his Bible, fasted and prayed. The vestal fires of love and gratitude to God, kindled upon the altar of his youthful heart, never went out. They were fed daily with fresh fuel, and went on with increasing flame until quenched in the cold waters of death. During his latter years, as the infirmities of age came over him, his habit was to pray early. At four o'clock in the morning, whether at home or abroad, he awoke and began his devotion. On my way from the late General Conference, held in the city of Memphis, it was my privilege to be with him. We spent the night together at Corinth, occupying the same room. I was aroused from sleep in the morning by the voice of prayer—the good Bishop, the Christian father and the aged patriarch was on his knees before God! His supplications on these occasions often became deep and earnest. He would forget where he was, and pray aloud, his pathetic pleadings becoming audible in every apartment of the house! Those whose privilege it was to entertain him knew his habits of this kind. On the morning that he was attacked by the fatal disease that carried him away, he was heard to groan in his bed about four o'clock in the morning. Dr. Moss and his wife, in whose house the Bishop was lodging in New Orleans, supposed that he was praying. But his groans continuing, the doctor fearing something unusual had taken place, went into his room and found him fatally ill! The first premonition of death that our beloved father had was that he could not rise and kneel before God as usual. I often prayed with him during his sickness—found him ever devout, his mind clear, and his heart perfectly stayed upon God in Christ. I shall never forget his hearty responses and the willing tones of his voice, powerful and musical to the last! When the summons came he was ready. When told that he must die, he replied: "God knows best!"

Few truer Christians have lived in this age. "He was a good man, full of the Holy Ghost and faith," and through him much people were added to the Lord!" As a friend Bishop Andrew was earnest and sincere. He never forgot those who had been kind to him, and never failed to show his love and admiration for that which was virtuous, noble and good. He offended no one intentionally, was courteous and respectful to all persons, but he was especially warm and ardent in his attachment to his friends. He loved all men for whom the Saviour died, but the wealth and fullness of his great heart were poured to an unusual extent upon those whom he honored with his friendship. He was true to them and all their interests. He never used his great office in the church for their benefit or pleasure. In this respect he was rigidly scrupulous and pure. Personal consideration and kindred ties had nothing to do with his appointments. In official fidelity his conduct was worthy of all praise. But as a man he loved his friends and took delight in their society. The ardor of his attachments was seen especially in his desire to live, die and be buried with those among whom he had been born and reared. He might have been rich, and have left his children in affluence, if he had been willing to give up the friends of his youth and early manhood. During the last years of his life, not being able to continue his episcopal visitations and preach, as he had been accustomed to do, he devoted much of his time to his friends, read the Bible, prayed with them and talked of the past, the present and the radiant future. As he enjoyed the luxury of Christian association, he resembled the holy evangelist John, who, as he was borne about among the churches, continued to say: "Little children, love one another." He was everywhere hailed as a patriarch, while preachers and laymen and women and children loved him! He was assiduous in his devotion to the young, and children in the domestic circle and in the Sunday school listened to his paternal counsels with tearful eyes and breathless silence. During the last week of his life letters from old and young reached him, breathing the tenderest regards for him and the most sincere prayers for his welfare. As these were read to him, lying in his sick-bed, he was moved almost to tears. He loved especially his brethren in the ministry. The College of Bishops were near his heart. He thanked God in dying that he left the church of his choice under the direction and superintendency of such men. He loved the preachers, and sent messages to them and to the whole church. His voice was full of emotion when I told him, a few days before his decease, of the glorious death of Mrs. Delilah Gamewell, the widow of an old South Carolina friend and preacher, gone long ago to his reward. She went from Mobile home to heaven during the late epidemic of yellow fever. One of the great attractions of heaven to him was the blessed assurance of meeting there the old soldiers of the cross with whom he had fought, shoulder to shoulder, in the great army of the Lord!

On the night of his death, when it was evident that the struggle had ended and that his spirit was on fire, we could almost hear the plaudits of his great Master, and the congratulation of old friends, whose spirits met and welcomed to his reward in heaven their co-laborer in the kingdom of Christ!

As a husband and father Bishop Andrew was a model. Many great men become so much absorbed in the duties of life in this great outdoor world that they neglect home and leave its holy ministries to be performed by others. It was not thus with Bishop Andrew. He loved home, and was a devoted husband and father. Though much of his time was spent in the work of Christ among comparative strangers, his heart turned fondly toward the loved ones that he had left behind him. When thousands of miles away from them he constantly remembered and prayed for his wife and children, calling their names one after another, and pleading for special blessings upon each. He was a great reader, but he would find time when at home to spend hours conversing with his family. He loved to read the Bible and explain its wonderful truths to them. His home altar was one of extraordinary attractions. His prayers were solemn, simple and remarkably impressive. His home life is described by the poet:

"The fellowship of kindred minds is like to that above."

Those who saw him only in the pulpit unfold the plan of redeeming mercy, and in the presidential chair directing and controlling the deliberations of Conferences with a master's skill and power, could know little of the tenderness and sweetness of his character at home. His household was a bright index to the great family of God in heaven. When unable to open his eyes, and with his feet already in the cold, dark river, his children and grandchildren continued to receive from him their accustomed "good night," "good morning" and "God bless you!" But the Christian, the friend and the father is gone! He died as he had lived—not a word or look betrayed littleness or weakness. He was truly himself to the last. In dying he showed the truth of the proverb: "He that walketh uprightly walketh surely." Like Abraham, he went forth in obedience to God, but when he came to die the Lord God was a sun and shield, giving grace and glory, and withholding from him no good thing! The old itinerant, full of years and honors, had in his last hours all the comforts of life! His trust in Providence was not disappointed. I have often thought of Jacob's death as one of great beauty and glory. He had lived to a good old age; had his children and grandchildren near him; pointed them to Canaan, their promised rest and home; gave his parting blessing to each of them; commanded them to bury his bones beside the sacred dust of his forefathers. When leaning upon the top of his staff he worshiped God, drew his feet in his bed, and died in the hope of a blissful immortality! This portion of sacred history has repeated itself in the death of Bishop Andrew. He seemed nobler to me in dying than ever he had done before! The Christian soldier through Christ has won his crown. Death has stereotyped his virtues—his monument is complete. His example is the property of the church—a part of the history and glory of Methodism!

"Soldier of Christ, well done!
Praise be thy new employ;
And while eternal ages run,
Rest in thy Master's joy."

OFFICIAL DECLARATION.

RICHMOND, VA., March 10, 1871.

DEAR BRETHREN: Please publish the following declaration:

WHEREAS, The terms of union agreed upon at the last session of the North Mississippi Conference, between the members of said Conference and certain authorized delegates of the Methodist Protestant Church in the State of Mississippi, have been complied with, and the fact has been duly reported to me, I hereby announce that the lay members and preachers represented by the aforesaid delegation are received into the Methodist Episcopal Church South. D. S. DOGGETT.

WE INVITE the attention of planters to the advertisement of the Du Bois cotton gin, which appears in this issue.

WHEN God has a word of command, faith has an ear to hear, a heart to be willing, and feet ready to go on his errand.

THOMPSON H. McMAHAN.

Our church in Galveston, says the Texas Christian Advocate, is again shrouded in mourning. Bro. T. H. McMahan, well known as one of the leading bankers and merchants in the State, and throughout the bounds of Texas Methodism as one of its most active and devoted members, passed from labor to reward on the afternoon of the twenty-seventh ultimo, in the fifty-third year of his age. Death loves a shining mark. It seems as though society and the church could have spared any member better than Bro. McMahan. We have known him for nearly a quarter of a century, and found him in his last illness as in the first hour of our acquaintance, an earnest, consistent and steadfast Christian. He had labored faithfully and contributed liberally toward the erection of the St. John's church in this city. Its completion and the prosperity of the church lay near his heart. He was permitted to worship but one week in the new house when the Master called him from the sanctuary below to that "house not made with hands." Only a few days ago he had, with the other official members, solemnly presented the house to the Bishop to be dedicated to the worship of God, and then his shrouded form was the first to be borne from the altar to the grave, and his spirit the first to wing its flight from St. John's charge to the mansions above. The Gardener plucks the ripest fruit.

He died as he had lived—unfaltering in his trust in Christ. In prosperity he clung alone to the cross for salvation, and in his last hours found Christ all-sufficient. The entire community share the sorrow of the deeply afflicted family. As a token of respect business in the city was suspended, and a large concourse followed him to his grave. He was to us a dear and faithful friend, ever ready to sympathize in sorrow and help in time of need. Earth wears a dreary look since he has gone. Many share that sorrow. Who will fill the good man's place? Who can wear his fallen mantle?

TEXAS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

We are glad to learn that this excellent church paper is rapidly increasing its circulation. It is one of our best journals, and well edited by Rev. I. G. John. Bishop Marvin is working for it successfully. Bro. John says in his last issue:

While in Galveston Bishop Marvin informed himself thoroughly respecting the condition and wants of the paper, and his thoughtful concern for its success and his words of hearty encouragement have cheered us greatly under the burden we have to bear. If his appeal to preachers and patrons can awaken in them the same cordial interest, and if they will work as actively as he is doing to extend its circulation and impart interest to its columns, the future of the Advocate will no longer be a matter of question.

We are happy to inform our readers that the present year opens more encouragingly than any other since our connection with the paper. Quite a number of the agents are actively at work, and have sent many new subscribers and kind words with them. We hope to have the co-operation of every agent in Texas. The Bishop told us that he believed the preachers would make good their pledges and that the subscriptions promised would soon be on our books. We share his confidence. He is not content to aid us with kind words alone. He has already placed in our hands, for subscribers, four times as much money as we have received this year from any other agent in the field. He is a capital agent. He knows precisely what we need, viz: subscribers and the funds with them. We want at least two hundred more such agents in Texas.

A FORTHCOMING BOOK.—The Southwestern Book and Publishing Company, says the St. Louis Christian Advocate, has in hand and will soon issue a new work: "The Service of Song," by Rev. A. G. Stacy, A. M., of the West St. Louis Conference. We have read the entire manuscript, and advertise the public of the great value of the work and its high order of literary merit. Dr. Summers has written an introduction, giving it unqualified approval and recommendation. It covers the whole subject of praise in song, and will promote the use and enjoyment of that interesting part of the divine worship.

BE SILENT.—It is a great art in the Christian life to learn to be silent. Under opposition, rebukes, injuries, still be silent. It is better to say nothing than to speak in an excited or angry manner, even if the occasion should seem to justify a degree of anger. By remaining silent the mind is enabled to collect itself, and call upon God in secret aspirations of prayer. And thus you will speak to the honor of your holy profession, as well as to the good of those who have injured you, when you speak from God.

THE MISSION DEBT.

MISSION ROOMS, March 1, 187

MR. EDITOR: I thank you publishing my humble but "earn appeal" in behalf of the cause missions. Already responses be to come. Take a few specime Here is one from a total stran whose name is not given, but two mites ($2) came. Read, let your heart rejoice that there yet "widows who serve God, fastings and prayers, night day," and who are ready, in t poverty, to contribute their "mi to the Master's cause.

"REV. J. B. MCFERRIN: I in the Baltimore Christian Ad cate, last night, your appeal money for our mission. I send all I have to spare. My salary teacher in a small family n amounts to $50 per annum. O this I clothe myself, pay my pre ers, take papers for myself fatherless grandchildren, whom I teaching, and partly clothe th But what I send you goes with heart's best wishes, and I hope will ask a blessing on the WIDOW'S MITE."

The Rev. W. V. Tudor, of Ca delet Street church, New Orl had but entered upon the labo his new and important field be he transmitted the following t treasurer of the Board of Missi

"227 ST. JOSEPH STREET, New Orleans, La., Feb. 21, 1

"MY DEAR DR. REDFORD: closed please find draft for hundred dollars ($500 on National Park Bank of New Y which I have the unspeakable piness to send you, as the trea of our Board of Missions—a d tion from a family of my church Carondelet Street, in this cit the old debt. I write also to McFerrin, explaining more f Please acknowledge receipt of closed—and I am fraternally yo

W. V. TUDOR."

Bro. Tudor writes: "I know donation to be prompted by Christian impulse and sentim and a single desire to glorify G moved by your appeal and the Spirit; and I thank God for privilege of being the agent thr whom it reaches you; and I t him that the old debt is there much diminished."

Bro. Tudor will please tende sincere thanks of the board t unknown friends, and may never want any good thing!

The Rev. John M. Carlisle, tor of Trinity church, Charle South Carolina, writes to the retary, February 28, the follo catholic epistle:

"A short time ago we he union prayer meeting in T church, when one of the spe Rev. Mr. Adams, of the Pres rian Church, took snap judgme the audience by asking for a tion as an earnest of pra union, to be given for the bene the Foreign Mission Board o Methodist Episcopal Church S I send you inclosed a chec the amount, thirty ($30) dolla

John Wesley Carter had a ality shown him, a few days in a business transaction, by he received $8. Of this he gav to the old missionary debt. a true Wesleyan, and a well t son of a Methodist preach never forgets the cause of Ch

J. B. MCFERRIN."

THE REASON.

We have been frequently we knew why the Rev. R. land left our church and join Episcopalians. We did not but could only surmise that grown quite too refined humble a people as the Meth and was no longer content "an appointment" from a M Bishop—unless he could firs one for himself, which we he could not do. We are co in our surmise by a letter some time since to Dr. Cros lished in the Banner of the C "I have settled the contro have formed the final decis must go hence. I cannot tar costs a fortune of friendshi inflicts a wound of severed tions. Still I must leave. My my tastes, my whole characte so changed that I cannot harmony with the governmen Methodist Church. My soul rest—the rest of congenial I see in your church antiquit cite reverence; authority the turbulence of doubt; to awe the mind that mus either the quietude of defer the noise of wranglings; liturgy that helps devotion trains the wings of the soul that plants against the heaven a ladder on whose of prayer and praise aspirat climb step by step to a the city all glorious with t of God."—Southern Christian Advocate.

AN ENGINEER in the employ Turkish government has pla railway tunnel made in sectio be submerged thirty-four feet the surface of the water, and to the bottom by chain-cables

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

NOTES, EXPLANATORY AND PRACTICAL, ON THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES. By Albert Barnes. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers.

We have recently noticed "Barnes' Notes on the Gospels." This volume of notes on the Acts is uniform in size and binding with those. The present is a revised edition, containing the most recent results of research and criticism, and is a most convenient and valuable work for popular reading and reference. The notes in this volume are exceedingly full, and the illustrations are numerous and instructive. The author's moderate Calvinism appears in many of his expositions, but his spirit is catholic and evangelical. We are indebted to George Ellis & Brother, 82 Camp street, for a copy.

OUR GIRLS. By Dio Lewis, A. M., M. D. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers, 1871.

A few heads of chapters will give ladies some idea of the character this splendidly bound volume of nearly four hundred pages. We cull from the table of contents as follows: Girls and Shoes; The Language of Dress; Outrages upon the Body; Stocking Supporters; Large vs. Small Women; A Short Sermon about Matrimony; A Word about Baths; Heroic Women. The author's style is piquant, sprightly and pointed, humorous and terribly plain and straightforward. The book contains some objectionable features, and is marred by a few expressions of religious irreverence and of radical sentiments in reference to slavery and women's rights, but contains a great deal of wholesome and practical advice. Mothers and grown-up girls may read it with profit. For sale by George Ellis & Brother, New Orleans.

THE ADVENTURES OF BIG-FOOT WALLACE, THE TEXAS RANGER AND HUNTER. By John C. Duval. Philadelphia: Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger. Macon, Georgia: J. W. Burke & Co., 1871.

We are indebted to R. J. Harp, of our Depository, 112 Camp street, for a copy of this work. The title is sensational and the numerous illustrations are graphic. The scenes and adventures are strongly portrayed, and are of the most exciting and thrilling character. As a narrative of facts the book is really a valuable one, and affords a most instructive view of frontier life and adventure. Wallace is a fine specimen of the ranger and Indian fighter, and his history, as narrated by Mr. Duval, will afford entertainment and delight to thousands of readers.

Ora Sunday school publications for March are to hand. 1. The Magazine and Lesson Papers are growing in interest and in popularity with our teachers. They are read and used in all our schools in New Orleans, and the testimony is altogether favorable. The Sunday School Magazine for this month has articles on such subjects as these: Sunday School Work; Immediate Results; The Turning Point; Sabbath School Libraries; What do we Sing; An Unprepared Lesson. The editorial departments are prepared with judgment and ability. 2. The Visitor is filled with a tasteful and large variety of prose, poetry and illustrations suited especially to interest and instruct the young people. 3. Our Little People for this month has a plenty of striking pictures and short stories, such as will delight and instruct the little ones.

NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—The subscribers in this section look for its monthly appearance with interest. So far as we can learn, it is admired and read. For ourselves we may say that it is satisfactory. Dr. Harrison is doing a hundred times better than we could. The New Monthly is a periodical of which the church need not be ashamed. The only shame is that every Southern Methodist does not subscribe for it. The editor's ideal is the correct one, and he is working up to it with surprising success. The contents of the New Monthly are: Nothing but a Woman; Wonders of the Sea; The Old Church Road; An Old Maid's Evenings; Tennyson's Maude; Celebrities that I have Seen; Merrie Lee; Arts of the Olden Time; Modern Literature; Folk Lore from many Lands; Kitty's Choice; Fruit Culture in the South; Portrait of a Parish Priest; New Tea; Noisette Rose; The Modern Raid upon the Book of Genesis; The Veil upon the Waters; The Benediction; Editor's Round Table.

BURKE'S MAGAZINE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS, in its new form and dress, is a most beautiful monthly, and ranks with the best publications of the day as a first-class magazine for the young. The Fairy Ride; Walks about the Forest City; The Indians at Dirt-Dauber's Nest, and Walks with Mamma, with many other excellent articles, are in the table of contents of the February number.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE YOUNG, published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia, is a rare periodical. The March part is, as usual, richly embellished with pictures, and contains a choice selection of articles in prose and poetry.

THE NEW YORK OBSERVER YEAR-BOOK AND ALMANAC, 1871, is published by Sidney E. Morse, Jr., & Co., 37 Park Row, New York. It is a volume of two hundred pages, splendidly printed on tinted paper, and contains a vast amount of valuable information, literary, ecclesiastical, political and industrial, conveniently arranged for easy reference.

THE JOURNAL OF EDUCATION, published by J. B. Merwin, St. Louis, Missouri, is a monthly devoted to education, and of special interest to teachers.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL MONTHLY keeps its readers pretty well posted in reference to the state and progress of education and the history of educational literature. In the table of contents for March we note: Eminent Teachers and Educators Deceased in 1870; English Literature; New Science vs. Old Learning; Current Publications.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL this month looks as fresh and bright as a spring morning. It is now edited by Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller, and published by John E. Miller, Chicago, Illinois. The publisher offers to send free a copy of the superb steel engraving, the Heavenly Cherubs, price $2, to each subscriber for 1871. Terms, $1.50 a year. For specimen number and revised premium list address the publisher.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE has a number of attractive articles this month. We have marked particularly: Italy; My Mission to San Domingo; Book Collectors; Moral of the Franco-Prussian War. Our Monthly Gossip and Literature of the Day are done in the usual popular style of this favorite periodical. The publishers promise that the April number shall be unusually entertaining. Terms, $4 a year. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

PETERS' MUSICAL MONTHLY for March chimes in with the prevailing theatrical nonsense about the Little Church Around the Corner. Apart from the song and music devoted to this absurd perversion, the present number is a very good one.

THE MANUFACTURER AND BUILDER is one of the cheapest and most valuable periodicals of the day. The March number is in nothing behind its predecessors in its plates, drawings and varied contents. Western & Co., publishers, 37 Park Row, New York. Subscription, $1.50 per annum.

THE NATIONAL TEACHER is a well printed monthly, edited and published by E. E. White, Columbus, Ohio. Terms, $1.50 per annum. It is an able periodical, devoted to the cause of education. The March number contains a large number of articles on matters of importance to educators.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for March, published by Orange Judd & Co., New York, is handsomely illustrated, as usual, and replete with useful information.

THE NATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER is published at Chicago, by the Adams, Blackmer & Lyon Publishing Company, and is edited by Rev. Edward Eggleston, D. D., under the supervision of an editorial committee of five denominations. It has a wide circulation, and is doubtless an excellent Sunday school periodical.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE is published every Saturday by Littell & Gay, Boston, at $8 per annum, or as follows: The Living Age is also publishing a story by George MacDonald, and promises to new subscribers for 1871 the last two numbers of 1870, containing the beginning of the story, gratis. A good time to subscribe. The subscription price of this sixty-four page weekly magazine is $8 a year, or for $10 any one of the American $4 magazines is sent with the Living Age for a year. The number of February 25 has the following table of contents: Bulgoes' Novels; Seed Time and Harvest; Hugh Miller; The Dressmakers; Science and Imagination; War and Christianity; The New Emperor of Germany, besides poetry and short articles.

THE SOUTHERN FARMER, published at Memphis, Tennessee, is a live and progressive agricultural journal, whose monthly visits are always welcomed and appreciated. M. W. Philips & Co., proprietors. Terms, $2 per annum.

THE PRACTICAL PLANTER is an agricultural journal recently started at Memphis, Tennessee. It is handsomely printed and deserves a wide circulation. Edited by George W. Gift.

THE UNIVERSITY MONTHLY: a journal of school and home education. University Publishing Company. We have the first number of this magazine. It is published by a New York company, but issues from Baltimore and New Orleans. An able Southern journal devoted to education is needed, and we hope this new periodical may supply the want. It will fail of the purpose, however, if the chief end is to obtain an advertising medium for a certain class of school books. The promise of a good magazine is in this first number. The opening article is General Lee as a College President, and an excellent article it is. The University Monthly is issued at the low price of $1 per annum.

THE MUSICAL BULLETIN is a monthly devoted to music, finely printed and filled with new pieces and songs. Published by Charles W. Harris, New York.

THE METHODIST, published at New York, is one of our most valued exchanges. It is not an official journal, but belongs to the independent class of Northern Methodist journals. Dr. Abel Stevens is now associated with Dr. Crooks as co-editor. The trustees announce important changes and improvements as soon to be made.

THEODORE TILTON'S new paper, the Golden Age, has made its appearance. This brilliant writer and able journalist can now give free course to the expression of his manifold infidelities in politics and religion. While the tendency of his opinions is to mischief, their utterance without any disguise of conservatism may do some good by making the evangelical journals more watchful and alert. The Golden Age, in material, typography and literary finish, is not excelled by anything that we have seen from the American press.

Agitation About the Episcopacy.

One of the leading questions now under discussion in the Methodist Episcopal Church is in reference to modifications of the episcopacy. The Western Christian Advocate thus states the points of the controversy:

The question is one which should receive the prayerful consideration of the whole church, and as we said once before, we shall be obliged to meet it. Four changes will undoubtedly be proposed at the next General Conference, not for the purpose of doing away with the episcopacy, or crippling its power, or indulging spite toward the incumbents of the office, but in good faith for improving it, and making it more conformable to Methodist doctrine. The first will be the discontinuance of the ceremony of ordination; the second will be limitation of the term of service; the third will be districting of the work; and the fourth will have reference to the matter of support.

The positions of some of the leading church papers are given as follows:

On the questions relating to the episcopacy the papers of the church are not quite harmonious. The Pittsburg Christian Advocate started the subject and advocates modification with great candor and earnestness; the Northern follows in the same tone with characteristic frankness; the New York Christian Advocate tacitly sides with the Pittsburg, by reproducing its article without comment, and the Methodist takes the other side. Its ancient conservatism has revived. It lustily cries: "Let well enough alone!" The Northwestern opposes the limitation of the term of service, and intimates that the proposition originated in motives which, if known to the public, would defeat it. The Central is opposed to a limited term of service, but wants some other modifications, such as a large increase in the number, an assignment of each to districts, and a different method of support. These papers are all "independent." They speak for themselves, and do it promptly. Good will result from the discussion, we have no doubt.

BISHOP MORRIS.

The Western Christian Advocate contains the following note from the venerable senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church:

SALUBRIA, March 2, 1871.

Please say to my brethren and friends that by the blessing of God upon the skill and perseverance of my attending physician, S. L. Yourtee, M. D., I am relieved of the singular affliction of my tongue and eye. The case has been tedious, and sometimes discouraging. But thanks to a kind Providence, I am well once more! T. A. MORRIS.

THE LOUISIANA STATE FAIR.—Postponement until November 18, 1871.—At a meeting of the directors of the Mechanics' and Agricultural Fair Association of our city, held last evening at their rooms in the Mechanics' Institute, it was resolved that in consequence of the insurmountable difficulties in the way of the erection of temporary exhibition buildings to replace those recently destroyed by fire, in time for the reception of goods, to postpone the holding of the next State Fair, which was to have taken place in our city on the eighth of next month, until the eighteenth of November, 1871.—Picayune, March 10.

AN image of gold is sure of worshipers, if it be only a golden calf.

Married.

By Bishop J. C. Keener, at the residence of Dr. Pope, Rampart street, on the ninth instant, Colonel ALEXANDER POPE, of Marshall, Texas, to Mrs. BEATRICE H. POPE, of Georgia.

By Rev. P. H. Dieffenwierth, at the residence of the bride's father, W. A. Skidmer, in Tensas parish, Louisiana, February 28, 1871, Mr. WALTER T. CLARKSON and Miss ELIZA SKINNER.

By Rev. W. P. Barton, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. R. T. Bailey, Holmes county, Mississippi, on the eighteenth of January, 1871, Mr. W. E. MCLELLAN and Miss M. O. BAILEY.

By the same, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. William L. Stark, Holmes county, Mississippi, on the twenty-fifth of January, 1871, Mr. WILLIAM D. ROBERTSON and Miss LOU. R. STARK.

By the same, at the residence of the bride, in Carroll county, Mississippi, on the fifth of March, 1871, Mr. W. B. ROBERTSON and Mrs. ELLEN A. GILLESPIE.

"May all the hours be winged with joy,
That hover faithful hearts above."

Obituaries.

Died, in the city of New Orleans, January 28, 1871, Dr. WM. DOWSING. He was born in Lincoln county, Georgia, October 3, 1810. His father removed to Columbus, Mississippi, in 1821, where he was reared, where he married, and where he resided until he came to New Orleans, in 1852. He joined the Methodist Church in his twentieth year, and continued in this communion until his death. Dr. Dowsing was a retiring Christian, but generous and unselfish. He was for nearly twenty years a member of the Carondelet Street church. He was sincere and charitable in his spirit, and a subject of converting grace. A good man has been taken from earth, but we trust that he is now where "the wicked cease to trouble and the weary be at rest." May the blessing and comfort of the heavenly Father be with the bereaved ones who linger to mourn his loss. L. PARKER.

SARAH A. AUSTIN was born in the parish of East Feliciana, Louisiana, September 24, 1819, and died on the twenty-ninth of January, 1871.

She was born again by the Spirit of God in her thirteenth year. From that time to her death she was a consistent Christian and a faithful follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

On the twenty-ninth of November, 1839, she was married to Bro. Lewis S. Austin. She was a true and faithful wife and an affectionate and devoted mother. In the various relations of life she endeared herself to a numerous relationship. She seemed to be a center of affection for them all. Sincerely and deeply do they mourn for her. But they sorrow not as those who have no hope, for they have good reason to believe that "when Christ, who is her life" and peace, "shall appear," then will she also "appear with him in glory." May they be found worthy to enjoy with her an "eternal and exceeding weight of glory." J. L. FORSYTH.

Died, at the residence of his mother, in Franklin parish, September 24, 1870, JAMES M. WOMBLE, in the seventeenth year of his age.

He joined the Methodist Church a year before his death, and found sweet consolation in the love of Christ, so that when death came it was robbed of all its terrors, and was welcomed as a release from life's crown of thorns and the weary cross on earth. When almost gone, on being aroused from a stupor, he said: "Oh, why did you call me back to this wicked world. I was almost home. My Father, open wide the pearly gates of heaven to receive my soul this evening." He talked much—spoke of the sweet peace of religion, as found through the all-pardoning blood of Christ; prayed for himself, and also for those who were still strangers to the covenant of God, that they might be brought to the knowledge of God's love and grace, as he had been; prayed to God to guide and protect his widowed mother and her orphan children. Resigning himself to the mercy of his heavenly Father, he breathed his last as quietly as an infant sinking to slumber. What a glorious death for one so young!

FANNIE.

Died, in Algiers, Louisiana, at twenty minutes past nine o'clock P. M., March 8, 1871, BENTLEY S. BLANCHARD, aged fifty years, a native of Cayuga county, New York.

His constitutional tendency to pulmonic disease ended in a congestion of the lungs, occasioned by exposure, and after lingering nearly two months in great suffering he passed away in peace.

Although a man of sterling worth, he never realized the claims of Christianity until his final sickness. Then he gladly and fervently received the baptism of water, and, I trust, that also of the Spirit, for thenceforth he had peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. As his end approached his intellect was sometimes clouded, because of physical prostration, but in lucid intervals the Sun of Righteousness was seen to shine brightly upon him. On the evening of his departure he and his heart-broken wife were received into the fellowship of the saints, according to our form, and received the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. It was his last feast on earth. He announced his departure and soon winged his flight.

He leaves a large and helpless family to the care of him who has said: "Leave thy fatherless children; I will preserve them alive; and let thy widows trust in me."

"With songs let us follow his flight,
And mount with his spirit above,
Escaped to the mansions of light,
And lodged in the Eden of love."

J. G. MULLER.

Died, at her residence in Tunica, parish of West Feliciana, ELIZABETH, wife of Rowland Day, aged sixty-eight years and four days.

Elizabeth McCauley was born in Sussex county, Delaware, November 3, 1802; united with the Methodist Church in the year 1821; was happily converted the following year, and was a full believer in experimental religion and a consistent Christian until the day of her death. In the early morning of the seventh of November, 1870, she fell asleep in the arms of her Redeemer. None of those who stood around her bed and witnessed the departure of her spirit to realms above could doubt her hope of heaven, or help feeling that

"Jesus can make a dying bed Feel soft as downy pillows are."

During her lingering illness she gave abundant evidence of the reality of her religion, and only a few hours before her death she exclaimed in triumph: "I am safe! The victory is almost won." Her last request to her children and grandchildren was not to grieve for her, but to meet her in heaven. Her sorrowing husband feels he will not be long separated from his beloved wife, who shared his joys and sorrows for almost fifty years. A kind and faithful mother, her children all arise and call her blessed.

Dearest mother, thou hast left us,
Here thy loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God who hath bereft us:
He can all our sorrows heal.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more shalt join our number,
Thou no more our songs shalt know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled;
Then in heaven we hope to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed. E.

Died, near Carthage, Leake county, Mississippi, on the third of January, 1871, Sister SARAH E., daughter of James and Mary C. Hanna, and consort of Bro. H. J. Watkins, aged thirty-seven years, eight months and four days.

Sister Watkins was pious from youth, and at the early age of eleven years she joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and remained a consistent member of the same until her death.

She was not one of those church members who are satisfied with a mere nominal relation to the church, but was ever awake to its interest. Indeed, she endeavored to live "so as to be able at all times to give a reason for the hope that was in her."

On the fourth of February, 1849, she was worthily wedded to Bro. Watkins. New duties and responsibilities now arose in her pathway, yet she met and discharged each like a Christian heroine, which enabled her to stem life's ebbing tide with perfect composure.

Her loss to the church, and more particularly to the Sabbath school, seems irreparable. While others would excuse themselves on account of inclement weather, she, in company with her husband and four little children, would repair to the sanctuary and instruct them with profit.

To attempt to speak of the loss sustained by her husband and children would only prove a frustraneous effort. Ah! reader, the beauties that clustered around life's closing scene were too sublime to be depicted by mortal pen. She called her family around her and gave them her parting blessing with a composure that would have shaken the confidence of the most avowed skeptic in his faith. And though passing away to stand before the tribunal of justice, where an impartial account was to be given of her stewardship, she saw no reason for changing the government of her household; but her charge was: "Live as I have taught you. Do not forget to read your Bible and say your prayers. And when your little sister has grown up give her this charge as my dying bequest."

As she passed away I could but thank God for the counsel of a praying mother. May God so direct and help the husband and surviving children that they may meet her, with the two who have gone before, on the shores of sweet deliverance.

JAS. M. WEEKS.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received at the Branch of Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp street, for the week ending March 13, 1871.

A—J D Anthony $6, Alexander & Frost, F Allen, R H Adair $2.50, N M Ayer.

B—M E Batt, Barnes & Wilkinson, W C Black, J C C Black $2.

C—R Crawford, W G Connor, A W Campbell $12, C W Carter, C H Cox, H A Cuttle, E G Cook.

D—J F Dunable $30, C L Dobbs, F De Champ $30, P H Dieffenwierth, R H Downer.

E—J Enbanks, W H Ellison, C F Evans.

F—B F Fort.

G—C R Godfrey, A E Goodwyn, G H Gribbin, F M Grace $2, G W Gift $10, Griffin & Hoffman, A J Goodenough.

H—S A Hayden, A S Helmick, A C Harper 20 cts, J H Houston, M Hunter, J H Hunter, M Hill $3, J T Heard 2 lots, R H Harris $2.85, T P Harper, J P Holmes.

J—A M Jones $18.11, E Jenkins, H Johnson $34.87, S B Jones, P A Johnston $2.85, E T Jones.

K—T A Kerr $3. O R Kingsbury.

L—R Lane, W Littlejohn, W H Lewis $9.

M—J W Martin, Manly & Co, J Mussey $3.75, R F Mountain, J Z T Morris, J M McKee, W M Motley $3, C F Moser, H F Morris, L P Meador, M C Manley $12, E H Moonger $7.50, C Mayo $150, Moody & Jemison $38.52, J Moore $50, J W Medlock $42.

N—W H Norris.

O—C D Oliver.

P—U B Phillips, J Polsal, R T Parish, R M Powers $3, P T Petty $3, T C Parish.

R—R Randle $8, A H Redford 2 lots, J E Robertson $6, Roberts Bros, J W Rouse.

S—J B Streater, W R D Stockton 2 lots, R R Singleton, D S Snodgrass $10, S H Spencer, P B Saffold $6, T S Sanders, H A Stovebamer $30, H L Smith, G S Schofield, W M Slade, J Shanks $10.55.

T—J H Teat, J Talley 2 lots $15.25, J W Tongue, J Trippett.

W—J M Weems, J Wilkinson 2 lots $2—, J H Walker 2 lots.

Y—N H Young.

$15 received in letter; no name signed.

If you have a Bad Taste in your mouth, sallowness or yellow color of skin, feel despondent, stupid and drowsy, appetite unsteady, frequent headache or dizziness, you are bilious, and nothing will arouse your liver to action and strengthen up your system equal to Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. Used moderately during exposure to malarial poisons it enables the liver to work off the poison, and will thus prevent Ague and Bilious Fevers. It is just the thing for Jaundice. As a blood purifier for the cure of Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions, Salt Rheum and other skin diseases it has never yet been equaled. Sold by druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS.

THESE GINS are so constructed that any substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut nor thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson, Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the factory, superintending the manufacturing. They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to. Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunalen.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK.

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act;

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank," in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 tf

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York, and 10 Star Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 ly

The Child's Corner.

WHY SHOULD I WAIT?

Why should I wait? I cannot flee
To other refuge than to thee;
And vile and helpless though I be,
Jesus, I come to thee.

Why should I wait? I look within,
And nothing there I see but sin;
And then alone canst make me clean.
Jesus, I come to thee.

Why should I wait, while now to-day
I hear thy voice in mercy say:
Sinner! I'll wash thy sins away?
Jesus, I come to thee.

Why should I wait? I must not wait;
To-morrow's sun may be too late,
And death may seal my hapless state.
Jesus, I come to thee.

Why should I wait? O Lord, I plead
Thy mercy in this time of need,
And as my hiding-place indeed,
Jesus, I come to thee.

A TRUE STORY.

In the field back of my house, and up the hill, are two nice springs. From one I draw water to my house through pipes, while the water from the other goes to my barn and my neighbor's house. The water runs very swiftly, because it is running down hill. It is far easier to run down hill than it is to run up.

The pipe enters this spring not at the top of the water, nor at the bottom either. If it were at the top the scum would get into the pipe, and a floating bug now and then. If it were at the bottom dregs and sediment would get in. So the pipe goes in about six inches below the top of the water.

When we are drawing water at the barn for the horses, and my neighbor draws water at the same time for her washing day, the pipe sucks at a great rate. But it draws in nothing but pure water, if all floating things keep at the top, and all heavy things lie still at the bottom. Now for my story.

One morning there was a gay young frog about as big as half my thumb—too big for a tadpole, too small for a wise frog. He could go just where he pleased. He did not have to flout with the bugs, for he knew how to dive. He did not have to stay at the bottom with the dregs, for he knew how to swim. So he kicked out his little hind legs and swam all around the spring, doing very much as he pleased.

One day he saw the little, round, black hole of the pipe where the water was running in quite freely. He wondered where it led to. He put his nose in and felt the water pull, and was a little scared and backed out. But it was such a funny feeling to be sucked that way; it felt kind of good round his nose, and he swam up and looked in again. He went in as much as half an inch, and then the water got behind him and he was drawn all in.

"Here goes!" said he; "I shall see what I shall see!" And along he went with the water, till he came to where the pipe makes a bend for my barn—a sharp bend, straight up. As the water was quiet there, he gave a little kick and got up into a still, dark place, close by the barrel where the horse drinks. "Well," said he, "it's a snug place here, but rather lonely and dark."

Now and then he thought of the spring, and the light, and the splendid room he used to have to swim in, and he tried to swim back against the stream. But the water was on him, or running by him swiftly, and he had no room to kick in the pipe. So every time he started to go back to the spring he would work hard for a few minutes, and then get tired and slip back into the dark place by the barrel.

By and by he grew content there. The water brought him enough to eat. He shut his eyes and grew stupid, stopped exercising and got fat, and as he had no room to grow very big in the pipe, he had to grow all long and no broad. But he grew as big as he could, till at last he stopped up the pipe.

Then I had to go out and see what was the matter, for the horse had nothing to drink. I jerked away the barrel, pulled out the little plug and put a ramrod down; felt a springy, leathery something, and pushing, down it went, and out gushed the water. "What was that!" I thought. So I pulled out the big plug, and put down an iron ramrod, and churned it two or three times, and then let the water run, and out came a great, long, red and white, and bleeding frog.

I couldn't put him together again. Anything that gets sucked into that pipe, and grows up in those dark places, has to come out dead, and all in pieces. I wondered how such a big frog could ever have got into so small a pipe. Then a wise lady in my house told me: "Why, he went in when he was little and foolish, and grew up in there!"

I cannot get that poor frog out of my mind. He was so like some young folks that I have seen. They frolicked up to the door of a theater, or they stood and looked into a bar-room, or they just wanted to go to one ball, or got out behind the barn to smoke a pipe, or went off sleigh-riding with some gay young man without asking leave, or some way put their foolish noses into a dark hole that felt funny, and led, they didn't know where. Pretty soon, in they go. When they want to get back they can't; and they grow bigger, and wickeder, and all out of shape in that dark place. If they come out at last they are all jammed up, knocked to pieces, sick, or dying, or dead. When I see them in their coffins I hear folks ask: "How came he to throw himself away so?" "What made him drink himself to death?" "How happened she to go off to infamy?" "How came he to be a gambler?"

Then I shall answer as the wise lady told me about the frog: "They went in when they were little and foolish, and grew up there." A bad habit hugs a man tighter, and jams him out of shape worse than my pipe did that poor frog.—Thomas K. Beecher, in Little Corporal.

THE APPLE IN THE BOTTLE.—On the mantelpiece of my grandmother's best parlor, among other marvels, was an apple in a phial. It quite filled up the body of the bottle, and my childish wonderment constantly was: "How could it have got there?" By stealth I climbed a chair to see if the bottom would unscrew, or if there had been a joint in the glass throughout the length of the phial. I was satisfied, by careful observation, that neither of these theories could be supported, and the apple remained to me an enigma and a mystery. One day, walking in the garden, I saw it all. There, on a tree, was a phial tied, and within it a tiny apple which was growing within the crystal. The apple was put into the bottle while it was little, and it grew there. Just so we must catch the little men and women who swarm our streets—we call them boys and girls—and introduce them within the influence of the church; for alas! it is hard indeed to reach them when they have ripened into carelessness and sin.—Spurgeon.

The Farm and Garden.

IMPROVED BEE CULTURE.—The subject of bee culture is a very interesting subject, as well as a remunerative pursuit, if properly understood and well conducted. In the first place a person, in order to be successful, must understand the nature and habits of the bee; and then have hives and all their fixtures so arranged that they can labor to the best possible advantage. A very few days of neglect by the bee-keeper will often make the difference between a handsome profit and an actual loss. I have had a single colony of bees store away sixty pounds of nice surplus honey in twelve days. Now, if I had neglected to have given that colony the necessary arrangements for storing surplus for six of those days, the product would have been only thirty pounds; if the neglect had been continued twelve days the result would have been no surplus, which would make a difference of $18. There cannot be too much importance attached to giving bees plenty of room to store surplus, and that at the right time. One man says he wants his bees to swarm—he will not let them have a chance to store surplus until they swarm. If that man gets any surplus it will be but a small amount, and that of an inferior quality. It is very obvious that more than one-half of the surplus honey is lost by actual neglect on the part of the bee-keeper in giving his bees a suitable chance to store.

Some may ask: When is the right and proper time to give their bees a chance for storing in boxes? In answer to such a question: It is the right time when your bees become numerous enough, so as to occupy all their combs in the body of the hive. As soon as one box, or a set of boxes are filled, remove them, and put empty ones in their places. I have often been told if we manage in this way we shall get no swarms. I think differently. Supposing you do not get quite so many swarms—which, I think, you will, or nearly as many—you will get a large amount of surplus honey, which you can readily turn into cash, and make bee-keeping a profitable and pleasant business.

Efforts are being made to introduce different species of honey bee to this country. I have now an Egyptian queen, which I intend to thoroughly test the coming season; they are somewhat smaller than the Italian, but very active and sprightly. In conclusion I would say, use the best movable comb hive. Procure the Italian bee if you have not already got them; have everything nicely arranged about your apiary; perfectly understand your business, and you will find bee culture both pleasant and profitable.—Wm. W. Cary, in Annals of Bee Culture.

CORN IN DRILLS AND IN HILLS.—At the Michigan Agricultural College, in 1868, two plots of land were set apart, substantially equal in character of soil, each measuring forty-eight rods in length by two in width. The ground was plowed May 5, and manure was spread evenly and worked in by cultivator and harrow. Yellow Dent corn was planted May 21, in rows four feet apart, one of the plots being planted in hills, the other in drills. The plots were cultivated and hoed June 15, and again July 7, the plants being thinned so as to leave the same number of stalks on each plot, including an equal distribution of plants throughout the subdivisions of the plots. As nearly as possible each of the two plots received the same amount of labor in cultivation. The stalks were cut at the bottom September 17, and stooked in good order. Three weeks afterward the corn was husked and weighed. The stalks were then again carefully stooked, and were hauled and weighed, in good condition, October 12. The corn on the portion planted in hills was rather better in quantity than on that planted in drills. But the drilled portion produced seventy-four and one-sixth bushels of shelled corn and three tons of stalks to the acre, against sixty-five and one-half bushels of corn and two and two-thirds tons of stalks per acre produced by the portion in hills.—Agricultural Report.

STEAM PLOWS IN TEXAS.—We learn from a communication of "Agriculture," in the San Antonio (Texas) Herald, that the Agricultural, Stock Raising and Industrial Association of Western Texas have been investigating the subject of steam plows, for the benefit of the members of their association who feel an interest in the cultivation of the soil. Steam plows are now in general use in England, and would answer every purpose and be more profitable in Texas. Experience has proven that deep plowing or subsoiling has often carried our corn crop through a protracted drouth, while adjoining fields, cultivated in the usual way, have been literally burned up. This is the end obtained by the steam plow: It breaks up the land from ten inches to three feet deep; it also digs, harrows, grubs and cultivates the land in the most perfect manner. In England these plows are let out on hire; the rate charged is from $2 to $3 per acre, which makes a good income on the investment. They are worked by two men and a boy. One man states that he plowed eighteen acres, fifteen inches deep, in one day, and moved his "tackle" five miles to another farm, and that he had done as much very often. Another states that in two hundred days, including all kinds of weather and other hinderances, he had averaged seven and three-quarters acres per day; and another plowed forty acres per day.

There are three varieties of the plow; one places a twelve or fourteen-horse engine upon either side of the field, which may be eight hundred yards wide, and plows or draws from one to the other by means of a steel rope, the two engines moving themselves along as the work progresses. Another places a single engine upon one side of a field, and a clevice, called an anchor, upon the other, and the plows are drawn back and forth, as in the other the anchor is moved along by a boy. The other system places the engine in the corner of the field, and works the plow in any desired direction by means of the steel rope, anchor and head blocks.

The only objection to these plows is their cost, which is from $3,000 to $5,000 in England; but in neighborhoods like San Marcos five or six men might club together, and besides doing their own work earn enough the first season to cover the entire cost of the plow. There is no question but that our rich prairie lands, if plowed to the depth of fifteen or twenty inches during the fall or winter, will yield one hundred and twenty bushels of corn to the acre, and other crops in proportion. A very fair crop may be raised with only one rain.—Our Home Journal, New Orleans.

BROOM CORN SEED FOR FEEDING.—At a recent meeting of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute a communication was read from H. C. Toose, Hagerstown, Maryland, asking what would broom corn seed be worth for grinding and feeding cattle, with corn at ninety, oats at forty-eight, and rye eighty cents per bushel. Mr. Reade said: "Unquestionably the best way to dispose of broom corn seed is to feed it to fowls. The next best mode is to feed it to sheep; they are fond of it, and fatten upon it nearly as fast as on Indian corn. Ground with corn, rye, oats or barley, it is profusely fed to cattle, and when mixed with wheat bran it is good for milch cows. I think it is worth fifty and sixty cents a bushel."—Southern Farmer.

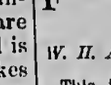
TOUCHING.—A little newsboy, attempting to jump from a city car the other day, fell under the car and was fearfully mangled. As soon as he could speak he called piteously for his mother, and a messenger was sent at once to bring her to him. When she arrived she hung over the dying boy in an agony of grief.

"Mother," he whispered with a painful effort, "I sold four newspapers—and—the money is in my pocket."

With the hand of death upon his brow, the last thought of the suffering child was for the poor, hard-working mother, whose burdens he was striving to lighten when he lost his life.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S



COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
New Orleans.
so10 1y

Soule's
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
The Commercial Atheneum of the South,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
STORY BUILDING,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address
GEO. SOULE,
Principal and Proprietor.
fe4 3m

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,
FLORENCE, ALABAMA.
W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER, jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Conn, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address
m20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo.	$16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.
m13 O. F. CASEY.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

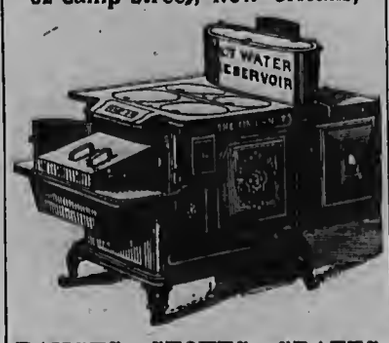
Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,



RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of
Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s
Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the
Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's hemmed Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,
COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON
OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

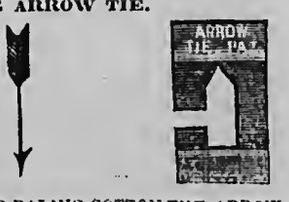
Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.



FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 ..... CANAL STREET 168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings. Curtain Damasks,
Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.

ly2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

DR. N. P. GODFREY,
DENTIST,
May be found during business hours at
No. 183 Canal Street,
The third door west of Christ Church.
ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,
A Purely Vegetable Compound
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF
RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

WE TAKE PLEASURE in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these diseases. But experience has demonstrated the fact that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. Let all those, then, who are suffering from these complaints send for a bottle of N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR, and give it a trial. It is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, and can do no harm; whereas my unparalleled success in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bradley, would I refer those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies me in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and further information address
N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN ANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of RANNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, general weakness and derangements of the heart, spenkers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, Prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often complete cures where medicine can only mitigate, and more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet—it is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. fe11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy
FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest flush to the most inveterate superfluity, Leprosy, Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Boils, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Croup, Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Salve
FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, and relieves the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at PERRING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Orchez and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet. Country orders promptly attended to.
je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REMEDY

fails to cure. It is prepared expressly for the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juice of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for

CONSUMPTION,

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male or female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which it generally terminate in Consumptive decay. It purifies and enriches the blood, the liver, glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular fibre. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland.

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than twenty years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of patient or length of time afflicted.

Also instruments for the cure of every deformities of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 10 Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK.
Former Ch. Jus.
RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

634 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Teaney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and extended knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

PELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $1. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $15. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $15

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. Animals of all Climates. II. Nations, etc.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address
ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
my21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

T. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....COMMON STREET.....186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

H. H. BEAUMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET.....77

ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

W. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 99 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By Charles S. Venables, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DeVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, Etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LeCONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. Johnston, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

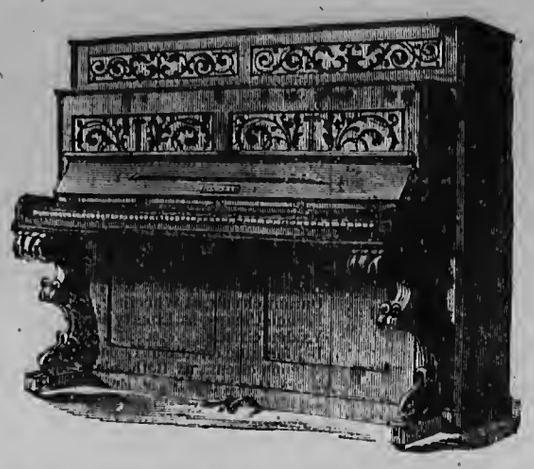
ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. mh2 1y

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

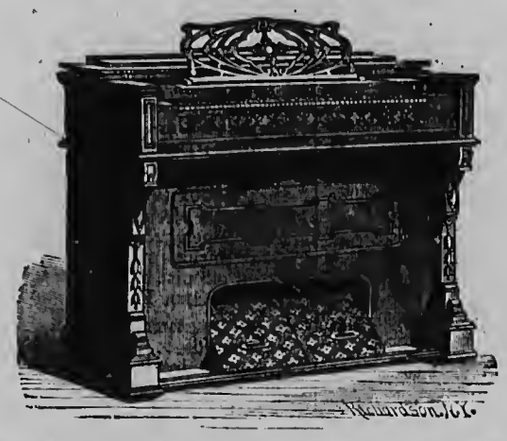


SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittnuer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEHRL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
fe23 1y Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS,

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by
de2 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jan	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Feb				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	22	24	25
	26	27	28
M'h				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
Apr							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
M'y		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
J'e.					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Ju.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	15	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
Au.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
Sep						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
Oct	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Nov				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
Dec						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Scientific.

DISCHARGE OF LIVING FISH FROM VOLCANOES.—It is a curious fact that a feature of volcanic discharge in South America often consists in the ejection of immense numbers of fish, usually of one species, thrown out sometimes in such quantities as to poison the air and spread disease by their exhalations. The fish in question belongs to the same natural order as the fresh water catfish, with which every one in the United States is well acquainted. It has been taken alive in some of the lakes in the sides of the Andes, at an elevation of eight or ten thousand feet above the sea; and it is supposed that these lakes communicate with reservoirs in the interior, from which the fish are ejected by the volcano. Specimens were obtained by Prof. Orton on his late expedition to Ecuador, and have been identified as the Cyclopium Humboldtii of naturalists.

It is very remarkable, however, that these fish, although sometimes thrown out in a half-boiled state, are generally uncooked, and some of them indeed are alive when they reach the surface of the earth.—Harper's Magazine.

LORD ROSSE has been using his great telescope to determine questions of heat as to the sun and moon. He states, as the result of his observations, that the radiation from the moon is about the nine hundred thousandth part of that from the sun. But perhaps the most interesting result of the inquiry is the determination of the actual heat of the moon's surface at the time of full moon, or rather at lunar midday. By comparing the heat received from the moon with that derived from certain terrestrial sources of heat, Lord Rosse finds that the moon's surface must be heated to a temperature of about three hundred above the boiling point! Nor is this result, startling as it seems at first sight, to be greatly wondered at when we remember the circumstances under which the moon's surface is exposed to the solar rays. Fancy a day a fortnight long; not as in our polar regions, with a sun only a few degrees above the horizon at midday, but with an almost vertical sun for several days in succession, and the rays tempered by no atmosphere! The lunar night is equally long and cold. Indeed, it is of an intensity such as not even the most ingenious appliances of our chemists could produce. Under its influences not merely would all known liquids be frozen, but probably every gas known to us would be converted into a solid. Of course no such being as man could inhabit such a world.

THE subject of comets' tails is discussed by Dr. R. Angus Smith. They must be either material appendages of the nucleus, or matter independent of the comet, upon which it exerts such influence as to make it visible. If the tail is an appendage, the enormous sweep of it, says Sir John Herschel, extending as it may from near the sun to near the earth's orbit, yet whirled unbroken through an angle of one hundred and eighty degrees in four hours, as in the comet of 1843, is in defiance of gravitation and even of the laws of motion itself. It seems incredible that it is one and the same material object which is thus brandished. A negative shadow, a momentary impulse upon luminiferous ether behind the comet, might come up to our conception. Dr. Smith presses this view to the dilemma that, if the tails are matter moving with the comet, then this matter must be endowed with properties such as we have no experience of, and of which we can have no conception. Rather than to relegate the matter thus summarily into the unknown, he prefers to consider the comet's tail as of the nature of what is known as the electric brush. Electricity, in traversing the rarefied gas of Geissler's tubes, appears somewhat similar to the cometary tail; and the rarer the gas the more susceptible is it to such a state. There is no limit that we know of to the extent that gas may be so illuminated. Gas, when rendered thus incandescent by electricity, can reflect light, so that the tail may still be reflecting sunlight. It is necessary to assume that space is filled with matter having electrical properties; but this is a better assumption than to attribute unknown and inconceivable qualities to a comet's tail.—Independent.

TURKEY may now rank as one of the leading naval powers of Europe. Exclusive of sailing ships, she has now five serviceable first-class ironclad frigates, eight corvettes (one more building) and five gunboats. The wooden fleet includes five ships of the line, five frigates, fifteen corvettes, and about sixty dispatch and gunboats. In addition to these there are four large steam transports fitted up for immediate use. These ships are not well manned, although a naval school under English instructors has lately been formed.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has presented no new feature since our last issue. We still notice a fair business in several branches of the wholesale trade, in filling orders for spring goods and to replenish broken stocks, but the movement in most other departments has been of limited extent. The better qualities of sugar show an improvement of ¼ to ⅜c., but other descriptions are without change. The supplies of flour are increasing, and prices have ruled more in favor of buyers. Other articles of Western produce have continued quiet.

The river is four feet below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the tenth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi	bales.	21,364
Lake		87
Florida		136
Arkansas		2,731
Mobile		505
Texas		202
Total		25,021

On Saturday the demand continued fair, and although the movement was checked by scant supplies of the kinds most in request, yet 9,700 bales changed hands at irregular prices, low ordinary and ordinary giving way ⅛ to ¼c., good ordinary continuing firm and, if anything, stronger, low middling ruling more in favor of buyers, and the better qualities fully maintaining their previous position. On Monday, under an advance of ⅛c. at New York, a marked falling off in the receipts, and toward the close an improvement of 1 1-6d at Liverpool, factors assumed a higher position, and buyers came forward with increased spirit, and although operations were still checked by scant supplies of freight room, the sales summed up 13,500 bales, at an advance of fully ⅛c., the lower grades participating in the improvement quite as much as the medium and better qualities. On Tuesday the market opened with a fair inquiry, but, under the general tenor of the news and the falling off in the receipts, factors raised their pretensions ⅛ to ¼c., which checked operations until later in the day, when the movement became quite active on the basis of an advance of ⅛c. in all grades above ordinary, while the poorer qualities were steadier and firmer, moving on quite freely at the ruling rates. The business was to a fair extent, embracing fully 12,000 bales.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 35,200 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,092,239 bales, against 886,543 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 786,450 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 695,474 bales to Great Britain, 160,157 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 192,950 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary	9⅞ to 10¼
Good ordinary	11¼ to 12
Low middling	12⅞ to 13⅛
Middling	14¼ to 14⅜
Strict middling	14⅞ to 14⅞

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.		20,696
Arrived past three days	25,021
Arrived previously	1,129,069	1,154,090
		1,174,786
Exported past three days	27,970
Exported previously	863,439
Burned	950	892,359
Stock on hand and on shipboard		282,427

SUGAR.—The supplies on Saturday and Monday were mostly sold at 4¾ to 5¾c. per pound for inferior, 6 to 6½c. for common, 7¾ to 8c. for fair, 8⅛ to 8½c. for good fair, 8¾ to 9c. for fully fair, 9½ to 10c. for prime, 10¼c. for strictly prime, 10¾ to 11c. for choice, 11 to 12c. for yellow clarified, and 12 to 13c. for white.

BACON.—On Tuesday about 150 casks were sold at 9c. for shoulders, 11⅛ to 11¼c. for clear rib sides, and 11¾ to 12c. for clear sides.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111⅛ to 111⅜.

American silver half dollars, 108 to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2¼ to 2½ per cent. premium in gold.

The only sales of bonds reported are $16,000 new City 7s on Saturday at 72¼.

On Tuesday $40,000 City 7-30 certificates sold at 93 2-32 to 93¾, and $500 Fiscal Agency (with accrued interest since July) at 95½.

Nothing has been reported in warrants except $2,000 Metropolitan Police on Saturday at 98¼.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 17 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 11, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Beef, per lb. gross	8 to 10c
Beef, first quality, per head	$7 to 9
Beef, second quality, per head	4 to 6
Sheep, third quality, per head	2 to 2½
Fresh cows, choice, per head	100 to 110
Fresh cows, per head	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves	to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 10
Yearlings, per head	10 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₱ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	20½
Bale Rope, ₱ lb:
Kentucky	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₱ 100 lbs	1 30	.. ..
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	.. ..
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	8 00	16 00
English dre	.. ..	47 00
American dre	37 50	.. ..
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	.. ..	50
Tallow	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine	.. ..	.. ..
Star	12	.. ..
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₱ ton:
Cannel	11 00	.. ..
Anthracite	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₱ bbl	75	.. ..
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₱ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	.. ..	21
Russia	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₱ bbl	3 45	3 50
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	12 00	12 50
In sacks	16 00	16 50
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	18	21
Feathers, ₱ lb	00	95
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	1 50
Herrings	60	65
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4	6
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	6 75	6 87½
Superfine	6 20	6 25
Fine	6 00	.. ..
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5	6
Currants, new	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₱ box	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer	2 90	3 00
Lemons, Palermo, ₱ box	.. ..	.. ..
Lemons, Malaga, ₱ box	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₱ M	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₱ bushel:
Oats	65	68
Corn, shelled	70	73
Beans, ₱ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₱ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₱ ton:
Western	25 00	28 50
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₱ lb:
Mexican dry flint	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	14
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	1 75	2 50
Shell lime	1 75	.. ..
Rockland, etc	2 25	2 50
Cement	2 95	3 25
Plaster Paris	3 50	3 75
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	.. ..
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	17 00
Scantling	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₱ M	4 25	4 50
Laths	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₱ gallon:
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba	.. ..	.. ..
Refinery reboiled	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₱ lb:
Gray country	.. ..	.. ..
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₱ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₱ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₱ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₱ gal	45	50
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	1 17½	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	48	58
Cotton seed, refined	58	75
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₱ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₱ ton:
C. S., decorticated	28 00	.. ..
C. S., undecorticated	.. ..	25 00
Provisions, ₱ lb:
Beef, mess, Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, dried, ₱ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₱ dozen	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, prime mess	.. ..	.. ..
Hogs, round, ₱ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₱ lb	15	15½
Hams, canvassed	16	16½
Shoulders	14	15
Green shoulders	.. ..	8
Lard, prime, in tierces	12½	13
Butter, Northern	25	41
Butter, Western	10	27½
Cheese, American	10	17
Potatoes, ₱ bbl	3 50	4 50
Onions	4 00	6 00
Apples	4 00	6 00
Cabbages, ₱ crate	10 00	12 00
Rice, ₱ lb:
Louisiana	5½	8¼
India, (gold, in bond)	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina	8½	9¼
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point	Mar. 18, 19
Columbus	Apr. 8, 9
Columbus circuit	15, 16
Vinton	22, 23
Athens	29, 30
Houston	May 13, 14
Chickasaw	20, 21
Line Creek	27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove	Mar. 25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Mill Dale	Apr. 1, 2
Atala circuit, at Spring Dale	8, 9
Kosciusko and Bethel, Kosciusko	15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling	22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill	29, 30
Valden circuit	May 6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon	13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda	20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory	27, 28
Lexington	29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian	Apr. 1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba	8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope	22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union	29, 30
Wayne	May 6, 7
Clark	13, 14
Paulding	20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion	27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night	31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside. WM. B. HINES, P. E.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

W. Pascagoula, at Red Hill	Mar. 18, 19
Green ct., at Cross Roads	25, 26
Enon, at Hebron	Apr. 1, 2

Address: Brandon, Mississippi.

W. W. HURST, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Martinsville circuit, at Bahala chapel	Mar. 18, 19
Crystal Springs station	25, 26
Jackson circuit	Apr. 1, 2

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Arcola circuit	Mar. 25, 26
Livingston circuit	Apr. 1, 2
Bogue Chitto circuit	8, 9

JOS. NICHOLSON, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek ct., at Spring Creek	Mar. 18, 19
Rapides circuit, at Palestine	25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta	Apr. 1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville	8, 9
Columbia circuit	15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise	22, 23

The official members of Calcasieu circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26. F. WHITE, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

Lake Bistineau, at Kennon's chapel	Mar. 18, 19
Mt. Lebanon, at Mt. Lebanon	25, 26
Mt. Lebanon colored ct	25, 26
Sparta, at Sparta	Apr. 1, 2
Louisville	8, 9

S. S. SCOTT.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mooringsport, at Mt. Zion	Mar. 18, 19
Shreveport station	25, 26
Anacoco ct., at Kasatchie	Apr. 1, 2
Springville ct., at Springville	8, 9

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OUACHITA DISTRICT.

Trenton	Mar. 18, 19
Monroe	25, 26
Castor	Apr. 1, 2

SAMUEL ARMSTRONG, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Franklin and Pattersonville	Mar. 18, 19
Calcasieu Pass	25, 26
New Iberia	Apr. 1, 2
Plaquemine Brulee	15, 16

J. D. ADAMS, P. E., Vermillionville, La.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DISTRICT.

Lake Providence circuit	Mar. 18, 19
Richland circuit	25, 26
Bastrop circuit	Apr. 1, 2
Lind Grove circuit	7, 8

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E., Waterproof, La.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Rocky Mount ct., at Athens	Mar. 18, 19
Rutledge ct., at Mount Ida	25, 26
Elba mission, at Bethel	Apr. 1, 2

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Alabama.

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL

AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.

Nearly Doubles Crops.

GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:

E. H. MURFEE,

11 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de3 5m

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.

PLYMOUTH, MASS.,
JANUARY 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb, Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds, prepaid by mail, with directions for culture. Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds: Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc.; Grass Seeds: Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale List to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

B. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 2ia

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anesthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Ualon and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. Je29 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette. mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA,

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES,

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

J. H. MUSE AND

G. F. F. THOMPSON,

Attorneys and Counselors at Law,

NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,

fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M. SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Valrin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.

Henry V. Ogden. fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, General Agent.

fe4 6m

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 tf

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING.

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe4 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,

fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple, concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S
Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	94 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra	1 50
New University Algebra	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it can have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,

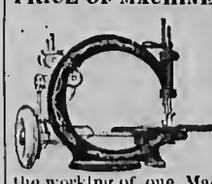
New Orleans,

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.



The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

B. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first Invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand

M. S. BEDRICK, Proprietor,
153 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.
Branch Office, 156 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.
Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6in

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions, and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1871. NO. 10.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, March 16.—The Tribune has a Washington special which gives a rumor that Spain, through Sickles, offered to sell Cuba and Porto Rico to the United States for $100,000,000.

Washington, March 16.—The loyalist claims commission will make the ironclad oath a prerequisite to entering claims.

Chicago, March 17.—Twenty-five bridges were swept away in Morgan county, Illinois, by the recent flood. The loss of property by the flood is immense.

A terrible accident occurred on the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Minnesota railroad, near Solon, Iowa, this morning, by a construction train, with a large force of laborers on board, being thrown from the track. Five men were instantly killed, and four others severely wounded, two of whom cannot recover. No further particulars.

Washington, March 17.—The President has recalled his message withdrawing Blanchard's nomination; his name, therefore, is again before the Senate for postmaster of New Orleans. It is understood that Mr. Kellogg advised the President, if the matter embarrassed him, to let the Senate dispose of it. Mr. Kellogg says Blanchard cannot be confirmed by the Senate.

New York, March 18.—A London correspondent writes that Napoleon and Eugenie are coming to America to reside. Emile de Girardin is also reported to intend settling in the United States.

Washington, March 18.—Hadly was sworn in as Governor of Arkansas to-day. Clayton is coming here. Before resigning Clayton signed some thousand commissions putting friends in office.

The total subscription to the new loan amounts to $16,000,000.

The Senate Committee on Elections reported in favor of seating Hamilton from Texas. This defeats the claims of General Reynolds to a seat. Other cases will be considered on Monday.

Governor Alcorn telegraphs to the Congressional delegation that the State authority is ample to punish outrages on the northeastern border.

San Francisco, March 18.—The steamship Japan arrived from China and Japan. Her commander reports that on January 14 he sent a boat to Midway Island, which was unable to land in consequence of a heavy surf. The crew saw no signs of life on the island. She brings sixteen Japanese students for Europe and New York.

Washington, March 20.—House.—Butler's Ku-Klux bill was read, occupying three-quarters of an hour. Many bills were introduced, including two amnesty bills.

The concurrent resolution of the Senate was amended, making the committee seven Senators and four members, to report at the next or any subsequent session, by a vote of one hundred and twenty-seven to forty.

The concurrent resolution to adjourn on the twenty-third instant passed.

Senate.—Mr. Bayard spoke all day.

Memphis, March 20.—Ex-Governor Clayton passed through here to-day en route to Washington.

The levee broke at Belivar on Monday and the surrounding country overflowed.

FOREIGN.

Mexico, March 11, via Havana, March 18.—The indications revealed by the opening of the extra session of the extra Congress, which convened on the eighth, show powerful hostility to the president.

Lerdo is pulling the wires to ensnare and destroy Juarez, and is strongly backed by Diaz. Terneana, who was chosen president of Congress, is a Diaz partisan, who was elected by a coalition with Lerdo. All the officers were elected by the Juarez party by eleven majority.

Juarez's opening address was cold and formal. Zeamacorions' party was seathing and determined. The indication is that there will be no execution for impeachment. The majority are determined Juarez shall not use his position on the army for reelection, and insist on Mejia, secretary of war, and Romero, secretary of the treasury, leaving the cabinet.

Congress promises to protect the president—another way of asking the army to protect Congress.

New York, March 13.—Special dispatches give further particulars of the severe earthquake in the Hawaiian Islands. It occurred at ten o'clock in the evening, and was very severe. The walls of all stone or adobe buildings, with a few exceptions, were injured, and the college buildings at Punahne were damaged extensively. Many persons rushed into the streets from their beds. Three distinct motions were felt, shaking horizontally, then perpendicularly. The finish was a distinct, wave-like motion from the southwest. The violence of the shock lasted about twenty seconds, the whole fully a minute.

At Labaina much damage was done to the buildings, but the seminary buildings suffered the most, the walls being shaken to pieces, though they did not fall. At Makee's plantation a cattle train was badly injured. Other localities did not suffer much. At Molokai nearly all the stone walls were leveled, and the frames of buildings thrown down. The road to the Lepers' Asylum was destroyed. At Lanai the shock was very severe. Clefts are open in different parts of the island, and valleys were filled with masses of earth and rock shaken from the mountain tops.

In Hawaii but little damage was done. The Hilo and Walaka districts received but a slight shock.

The volcano is very active, but evidently had no participation in the earthquake. Persons on two different islands state that a bright light was visible in the eastern sky. Chimneys on the sugar plantations suffered a little. Several shocks not so severe have been experienced since.

The labor question will soon be settled. Two companies of Chinese have landed here, seeking work, one from China and the other from Tahiti.

London, March 16.—A special from Lille says the battle-fields of north France threaten to become the focus of pestilence. Dead bodies are floating in the dykes and marshes.

It is rumored that Ricciotti Garibaldi is in Paris.

The Times' specials report that the presence of numerous Garibaldians in Paris has a disquieting effect upon the population.

The cabinet has appointed M. Valentine prefect of the Paris police. This appointment insures prompt action against tumults. The police will, however, permit the usual mid-Lent gatherings, though disturbances are feared. Inflammatory journals have been suppressed.

Berlin, March 16.—A long conference was held at the foreign office, and Von Arrim, who was present, received full instructions regarding the final treaty to be negotiated at Brussels.

London, March 16.—A violent storm passed throughout Great Britain. Telegraphs are down, many vessels ashore and the shipping otherwise much damaged. The details are awaited with much anxiety.

Vienna, March 16.—The Emperor has sent Count Patocki to salute the Emperor of Germany, at Berlin, upon his coronation.

Paris, March 17.—The Prussians gave twelve thousand chassepots to the French for use in case of need for them here. Disorders continue, but are not of an alarming character.

The journals unanimously deprecate the exhibition of any violence toward Germans returning to business and residence in Paris, but urge their social exclusion.

London, March 17.—In the House of Lords to-night Earl Carnarvon stated that of three hundred thousand barrels of powder for the government arsenals, all but eight hundred were worthless, and that he deplored the apathy of the government when, in the present state of Europe, war was more than possible.

Prussia offers to sell Mulhouse back to France for two hundred million francs.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—The Morbide Russe publishes a letter recently sent the Czar by Emperor William, who says: To-day, at the review near Paris, I remembered our united armies approaching Paris, after hard fighting, under the Emperor Alexander and King of Prussia. The letter also expressed the pleasure of his majesty at the acceptance of the Czar of the colonelcy of the first Prussian Guards.

Kingston, Jamaica, March 17.—Since the visit of the San Domingo commission the popular feeling runs high in favor of the United States. There is an idea here that Jamaica will soon follow San Domingo.

The feeling of the Haytien refugees is generally expressed in favor of annexation. They say the value of property in Hayti will increase, and that Haytiens seeing railroads, telegraphs, steamers and roads, and a thriving commerce in San Domingo, will soon desire annexation themselves.

The United States commissioners, before leaving Jamaica, will visit ex-President Geffrard of Hayti.

London, March 18.—Advices from Hong Kong state that a powder factory belonging to the Chinese government, at Hong Kong, exploded. Forty persons were killed.

Berlin, March 18.—The Cross Gazette, a semi-official organ, says: If the French persecute the returning Germans the Prussians must reoccupy the environs of Paris, and possibly the city.

Paris, March 18.—Seventeen of the Parisian deputies to the National Assembly have resolved upon a fresh appeal to the Montmartre insurgents for moderation, and insist upon the surrender of the cannons in their possession to the authorities.

The National Guard have transported fifty-six cannons from Place de Vosges to Belleville, to prevent their seizure.

The new French loan, which will probably bear interest at five per cent. and be redeemable at a fixed time, will be submitted to the National Assembly on Tuesday next.

A dispatch from Rouen says the German official paper there ceased publication to-day.

It is announced that Marshal MeMahon supports the present government, but he will retire from the army to private life.

Marshal Bazaine insists upon an investigation of his conduct at Metz.

Washington, March 20.—Minister Washburne telegraphs Secretary Fish as follows:

Paris, March 17.—The National Guards committee is master of Paris. The departments of the interior, justice and police are occupied by the insurgents. Generals Vinoy, Thomas and LeCompte have been murdered by the troops. The election for assemblymen commences to-morrow. All the members of the Thiers government have gone to Versailles. I follow with the whole department corps. Washburne.

London, March 20.—Napoleon left Wilhelmshohe on Sunday, escorted to the station by a guard of honor. He arrived at Dover to-day, where the immense crowd awaiting him cheered enthusiastically.

It is thought that the revolutionary proceedings extend to Marsailles, Lyons and even to Bordeaux.

The Thiers government contemplates going to Tours.

The Germans decline to interfere.

A report from Paris says that the gens d'armes collected from the provinces by General Vinoy have deserted and joined the insurgents.

Paris, March 20.—The insurgents hold Hotel de Ville, Palais de Justice, the Tuileries and Place Vendome. Complete apathy is displayed by the bourgeois. No resistance made to the insurgents.

The generals were shot in a garden in the Rue des Rosiers. General Thomas resisted vigorously, but Garibaldi ordered him to be held against a wall while his body was riddled with bullets.

General LeCompte died with the utmost coolness, smoking a cigar, and refused to have a bandage put over his eyes. Many other executions have occurred.

The government has telegraphed for ten thousand men at Camp Suratory to come to Paris. The Prussians of St. Denis will enter Paris if the garrison is increased beyond forty thousand.

The city is full of Bonapartist agents. I have seen Chevron, Conti, Rouher and Rignier. The insurgents for some days past have received three francs daily, supposed to be furnished by these agents. In every part of the leading thoroughfares of the city barricades have been thrown up by the insurgents. They have gained in strength since morning, and are more defiant than ever.

General Chanzy was sent with a large body of troops to Montmartre to suppress the insurrection. These troops, however, for the most part, went over to the insurgents. General Chanzy was made a prisoner and taken to the garden of Rue des Rosiers, where the Central Revolutionary Committee was sitting, and after a short trial was shot.

The regular troops fraternize with the mob everywhere, and all army discipline seems to be done. Mob law is triumphant, and the city will be given up to pillage unless some more determined measures are taken by the government.

An immense number of insurgents have left for Versailles with the intention of endeavoring to overawe the Assembly, which will meet there to-morrow.

General Duval is at the head of the insurgents, and leading them on their mad and wild career. The eighty-first and one hundred and twenty-sixth regiments were the first to join the insurgents.

It is reported that the government has fled from Versailles.

New York, March 20.—A special to the World, dated Saturday night, says: At a council of war held yesterday, Thiers presiding, it was resolved to attack the insurgents. At two o'clock the thirteenth chasseurs and three regiments of the line advanced on Montmartre.

Another body advanced upon Lavolette and still another on Belleville. The troops were successful at Montmartre and Lavolette; but at Belleville the people refused to allow the troops to enter Rue de Paris. The gens d'armes charged, but were compelled to retreat under volleys from the insurgents.

At Lavolette the troops fraternized with the insurgents. General Vinoy was hissed and pelted at Montmartre. General Palladines is a prisoner at the insurgent headquarters. General LeCompte has been sentenced to death. General Susville was killed. Many gens d'armes were killed.

Florence, March 20.—The discussion in the chamber of deputies upon the subject of papal guarantees was closed on Saturday, and an order of the day carried forbidding interference on the part of the government with the religious worship.

The Pope has repudiated the guarantees offered him by the government.

In the chamber of deputies to-day Senor Mordine deposed an order of the day to the effect that the papal guarantees are an object for international regulation. The discussion of the proposition was repudiated by the government.

Paris, March 21.—Gen. Chanzy is a prisoner of the insurgents. The execution of the sentence of death passed on him has been deferred.

Lasante was shamefully beaten by the revolutionists.

The National Assembly met yesterday. But little business was transacted. The populace are terribly excited over the absence of one hundred and twenty of the members.

General Vinoy, with twenty thousand troops, has been intrusted with the suppression of the insurgents. It is feared the troops are unreliable.

Thiers positively orders Vinoy to suppress the riots, but hopes the insurgents will listen to reason.

The government inspires no confidence, and multitudes are leaving Paris.

Versailles, March 21.—Twenty thousand troops are in the neighborhood of the Assembly chamber. The Assembly will appoint a committee to consider the condition of France, and the necessity of placing the departments of the Seine and Seine-et-Oise in a state of siege.

Paris, March 21.—The insurgent government announce they will arm the forts to insure the defense of the capital; also sent an ultimatum to Thiers, fixing the twenty-third as the last day for the return of the Assembly to Paris. If they return they shall have liberty of action, otherwise the National Guard will march on Versailles.

London, March 21, 10 o'clock.—The council of Rouen voted an address to the government, deploring the insurrection at Paris, urging prompt measures, and offering support. Similar addresses have been sent from private citizens. It is hoped the addresses will have a good effect on the working classes.

The parties to make a treaty between France and Prussia have arrived at Brussels.

The government at Versailles has addressed a reassuring circular to the departments, informing them that the situation in Paris is no worse.

The criminal acts of the revolution are unanimously disavowed.

General Chanzy and other officers are still detained, but there are hopes of their early release.

The mayors of Paris refuse to hold communal elections.

The government promises a speedy intervention by the army now before Versailles, and concludes with assurances that the greater part of the country is calm.

A meeting of the Paris editors declared the convocation of electors to-morrow null, and public opinion is decidedly against the committee that ordered it; that the committee is implicated in illegal and criminal acts, and now is the time for the National Guard of Paris to come forward and put an end to the deplorable state of affairs.

Later.—The indignities upon General Chanzy and the many arbitrary arrests have aroused general indignation. The government at Versailles has resolved to restore order.

London, March 21.—The Paris correspondent of the Times telegraphs that many persons were shot without a trial on Sunday. The Nationals will shoot Thiers, Vinoy and Daurelles, if captured. A strong reaction has commenced among the respectable portion of the inhabitants, consequently the committee are trying to have Admiral Saisset in command of the National Guard. Versailles resembles a camp. The prisoners of Metz and Sedan are offering their services to the government.

Napoleon's route from Dover was an ovation.

London, March 21.—It is officially denied that France requested prisoners of war in Germany to return through Switzerland.

Ex-Emperor Napoleon arrived at Chiselhurst at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. He was received with enthusiastic cheering in that village and at all the railroad stations along the route from Dover.

The journals are filled with the programme for the marriage of Princess Louise to the Marquis of Lorne to-day. Immense preparations have been made for celebrating the event with fireworks and cannon throughout England.

Berlin, March 21.—The German Parliament was opened to-day by Emperor William, who in person delivered a speech from the throne. The Emperor said: "When I see the German Reichstag for the first time after a glorious but trying struggle, which Germany has victoriously prosecuted for the independence, I am impelled, first, to give thanks to God for the historic success with which he has blessed the faithful unity of the German allies, the heroism and discipline of the armies, and the devotion of the people. We have what our forefathers struggled for, the unity of Germany and the security of her frontiers. Our conviction of future unity was veiled; the ever present enthusiasm of the people rent the veil. When the Fatherland was threatened the nation unanimously rose in her defense, and traced its firm will in indelible characters upon the fields of France to be a united people.

NEWS MISCELLANY.

The counties of Beaufort, Pitt and Edgecombe, North Carolina, produced last year thirty-six thousand bales of cotton.

Sixty-five thousand gallons of fruit brandy were made in Virginia in 1870.

The estimated value of real estate in Virginia is $276,023,367; of personal property, $85,367,600. The State debt is $49,691,872.

Along the Apalachicola river, Florida, in the counties of Liberty and Franklin, there are twenty-five orange groves, the average yield of which is twenty-five thousand oranges.

The following is the conclusion of an important charge of Judge Guild, of Tennessee, as to the validity of payments during the war in Confederate notes: "I charge you, if the Confederate States, during the civil war, issued Treasury notes, and such notes circulated as currency among the people, was received and used as a medium of exchange, was regarded as a standard of value, was the basis on which contracts were made, and received in payment of debt, it is immaterial for what purpose the Confederate States issued such currency, the citizens receiving such for their property and in discharge of their debts, carrying on their trade and legitimate commercial transactions, will be protected, and such payments made good."

That Mr. Sumner's displacement from the chairmanship of the Senate committee was in obedience to a command from the President-General is plainly inferrable from the following utterance in the New York Tribune: "One of the oldest Senators called on the President and advised him to so increase the number of members of the committee as to place Mr. Sumner in a minority, but that the President would not consent to anything short of Mr. Sumner's removal."

Our Sunday Schools.—Mississippi Conf.

TO THE MISSISSIPPI PREACHERS.

Are our Sunday schools going to remain behind those of other Conferences in the Sunday school advance? We must hope not. In other Conferences the schools are adopting the Uniform Lesson system with profit and satisfaction.

It is asked whether a school adopting this system should turn back and bring up the lessons from January. I see no necessity for this, and the practice is to begin with the present date—that is, if you begin the lessons, say on the second of April, commence with the lesson for that date.

Another point of importance is, that these Uniform Lessons, taken in connection with our current Sunday school periodicals, are well adapted to small country schools and family schools in neighborhoods too sparsely settled to keep up a regular school. If the preachers will act promptly in this matter, order the Sunday school periodicals freely, and see, with reasonable diligence, to their use, I am sure we will report favorably at next Conference. Otherwise we need not look for it.

With the Uniform Lessons the very smallest schools can be conducted with ease and profit. Two teachers or one can conduct a school with entire convenience and regularity. At any preaching place it is an easy thing to gather a few children, such as are in reach, and exercise them in the lessons before the preaching hour. And where this cannot be conveniently done, where there are small children too distant, let those of two or three families meet and recite the lessons. This is an important matter, and will engage our attention in the future.

Brethren, we must—the church expects us—to pay largely more attention to this important branch of the pastoral service. The juvenile portions of the church must receive largely more attention at our hands. Our present pace will not answer. We are on the advance, and hope to maintain it. The juvenile portion of the church must receive largely more pastoral attention, even if the adult portion receives less. Perhaps this latter is not necessary.

I presume all the preachers in the Conference take the New Orleans Christian Advocate. As this is our official, understood channel of communication, no preacher can attend to all his duties without it. Neither can he be without the Sunday school periodicals at Nashville. Brethren, let us mutually attend, promptly and strictly, to our duties severally assigned us and implied in our several appointments, and these interests will advance.

R. Aney,
Sunday School Secretary.

Steamer Rose Franks Burned.—By the arrival, last evening, of the steamer Little Fleta we learn that the Bœuf river packet Rose Franks, Captain J. F. Rhodes, took fire on Saturday last, between four and five P. M., at Turnbull's Island, and soon burned to the water's edge. The Rose Franks had on board seven hundred bales of cotton, fifty sacks of seed cotton, a large quantity of cotton seed and hides, which were consumed with the boat. There were no lives lost. The captain, his crew and passengers came down on the Little Fleta.—Times, March 20.

A lad in Bridgeport, Connecticut, had three fingers of his right hand taken off, a few days since, by a drop-press in a brass shop. Looking upon his bleeding hand, the brave little fellow exclaimed: "I'll bet mother will cry when she sees that."

Why is a horse the most curious feeder in the world? Because he eats best when he has not a bit in his mouth.

The greatest advance ever made in agriculture is the invention of Murfee's Subsoil plow and its attachments.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1871.

THE LIGHTHOUSE BELL.

A gray old tower is gleaming
Where the foaming billows ride,
And the light from its turret is streaming
O'er the ocean far and wide.

In this gray old tower, suspended
From rafters strong and high,
Is a dusky old bell, that's voiceless
In a calm and stormless sky.

But when ocean is tossed with tempest
The bell from the tower cheers
The heart of benighted sailor,
As its sweet-toned peals he hears.

There's a rock on the shore of life's ocean,
Where the tower of Faith firmly stands,
And the bells that swing in its turrets
Are rung by no mortal hands.

When the gloom of the tempest surrounds us,
And the rage of the billows we fear,
Oh! how sweet, amid tumult and darkness,
Those silvery chimes to hear. Anon.

AN EDUCATED MINISTRY.

YAZOO CITY, March 8, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: In glancing over the columns of the last number of the ADVOCATE my eye caught the above heading, and, being considerably interested on that subject, I hastily ran over the article, and to my utter astonishment I found it to be one of the strangest medlies ever compassed in so short a communication. The writer must have been out of humor immensely. I suppose there is no man living who dislikes controversy more than I do, either public or private, and more especially newspaper controversies. I have always been of the opinion that such controversies oftentimes are gotten up by parties who desire to bring themselves into notice. And I feel a great hesitancy in replying to "Itinerant Preacher." But in justice to myself I am compelled to notice some of his "remarks."

He first attacks an "article, written some months ago, on the subject of an educated ministry," which, he says, in the face of facts to the contrary notwithstanding, "no one ever did oppose." Then he again attacks the writer, and deals a heavy blow, which falls with crushing weight upon his devoted young head. He informs the world and the balance of mankind that "the writer is an ardent, zealous young man," thereby intimating that this is a subject of too great magnitude for a "young man," or that because some old fossil, superannuated "fogy," could not or did not notice the subject, that "ardent, zealous young man" should touch not, handle not so great a matter. But "Itinerant Preacher," in his ardent zeal and haste to inform the public that the "young man is mistaken," betrays himself into a very plain misrepresentation of the "young man's" words.

I have too much charity, however, for "Itinerant Preacher" to believe for a moment that he willfully misrepresented me in his "strictures," but think he did not read the "young man's" article carefully enough. He says this "young man" "took the position that the people would not hear an uneducated minister." No, sir, he did no such thing. He did not say that "the people would not hear an uneducated minister." But I will tell you what he did say. He said this: That "the cry is now coming up from all quarters for an educated ministry, and the time is coming when none others will be heard." That is just what he did say. That is the position taken then, and it is the same position held now. This seems to me to be somewhat different.

And I will take this occasion to reassert it, that the time is coming, and that very soon, when no Bishop and Annual Conference will dare to place their indorsement upon an uneducated man and send him out to preach the gospel. It is so now in most of our larger towns and cities, and it will soon be so in the country and rural districts. Therefore, the standard of ministerial education and qualification should be raised high, and the church should have pride enough to bring her young ministry up to it to meet the coming wants of the people.

But this "Itinerant Preacher," after saying this "ardent, zealous young man took the position" so and so, says: "Notwithstanding, there are persons on my circuit who never saw or heard him." Well, what of that? I would like very much to know what the man means? Suppose they never did or never should see or hear him? Would that cause the Mississippi river to change its course and run up stream, or make honest men of the present race of politicians? I suppose not. Does "Itinerant Preacher" intend us to understand that his people, "on" his "circuit, never saw or heard an uneducated minister?" Well, if so, I would not be surprised if they are not the most fortunate people heard from in a long time. But "Itinerant Preacher" tells us that the great and good "Dr. Winans told us of a man in England" who was so ignorant as to be unable to tell "B from a bull's foot." Well, I suppose that man would be quite a show in this country of ours. But, sir, right here I will take "the position" that God never called any such a man as that to preach his gospel. What I call an idiot to preach? Did not know "B from a bull's foot." I have no doubt at all but there have been very illiterate men called to preach, and they have done immense good. But they were not idiots or fools. They had mind and energy, and they went to work—studied hard and educated themselves. They knew "B from a bull's foot." But we are asked to "look upon the strong men of every Annual Conference." What for? To see men that God called to preach, who know nothing at all—do not know "B from a bull's foot." No, sir, they were men of good sense and sound judgment, and, being called of God to the high functions of a minister in his church, sanctified by the Spirit, by the most untiring energy and hard study they made themselves useful—an honor to the cause of Christ, and a blessing to mankind. But when they first embarked in this great work, involving as much of responsibility and toil, how much easier and sooner could they have arrived at that excellence and position to which many of them attained to, if they could have had the benefit of an education in their youth. Let "Itinerant Preacher" go back and bring up all the self-made worthies and bring them to judgment, and they will tell him, with one voice, that could they have had the means of an education in their youth they could have been infinitely more useful in their day and generation than they were. And you will find to-day that the strongest advocates for an educated ministry are the men who have labored under the greatest disabilities and worst disadvantages, and which they had to meet and conquer single-handed and alone. But "Itinerant Preacher" "thinks the young man is mistaken." Mistaken in what? He intimates that if a man has the "spiritual qualification" for a minister that that is enough—sufficient to authorize the Bishop and Annual Conference to set the seal of their indorsement upon him, and send him out to teach and expound the Holy Scriptures, although he does not "know B from a bull's foot." I believe in a sound, sensible, evangelical conversion first of all, and then a divine, sensible impression that "woe is me if I preach not the gospel;" but, then, let a young man not be in a hurry to thrust himself out, but let him tarry long enough in some good school or college until he is mentally qualified for his great work—at least long enough to be able to distinguish the difference between the letter "B and a bull's foot." But as I am not to discuss the spiritual qualifications of a minister, and as I am not set for the defense of the infidel preacher or unjust steward, I leave them to the tender mercies of "Itinerant Preacher" for the present.

JULIUS T. C.

IT HAS BEEN estimated that clergymen cost the United States $12,000,000 annually; criminals, $40,000,000; lawyers, $80,000,000; intoxicating drinks, $700,000,000. Dr. Carter, of England, says that $2,500,000 are raised yearly in Great Britain for religious purposes, while twelve times that amount, or $30,000,000, are paid annually for duties on tobacco.

LETTER FROM WEST TENNESSEE.

MR. EDITOR: Politically Tennessee is quiet. She is now the white man's State. We never saw a greater dearth of party politics, nor as many applicants for office. About every tenth man is a candidate. There is a growing disposition to curtail the limits of the old counties and form new ones, shaping them generally according to railroad lines. This creates more county sites, hence a multitude of villages have entered the lists as applicants, each firmly believing that its claims will certainly be respected.

The people are ripe for another bankrupt act. They are in debt. No people in this latitude can cultivate cotton to purchase provisions without becoming involved. The history of west Tennessee since the war demonstrates this. The credit system prevails, hence "suing" and "dunning" are terms of frequent use. The gospel is preached here mainly on a credit. Large amounts for the pastor's salary are subscribed on paper, but very small ones are paid with paper. "Yet," as Bishop Keener remarked, "somebody must pay for the gospel; if the people do not, the preacher, his wife and children must." The gospel on a credit generates a secularized ministry.

The religious interest of this country is sympathetic. It rises and falls with the thermometer. In winter prayer and class meetings and Sunday schools are suspended. In summer every church wants a revival.

All the fruits of the late war are not yet harvested. Bloody murders occur now and then. The town of Jackson, Tennessee, was thrown into a state of intense excitement on Sunday, the twenty-sixth ultimo. We narrate as follows: The family of Mrs. Van Hook consisted of the widowed mother, her son and little daughter and the son's wife. An old negress was employed as cook. On that Sunday morning the son escorted his wife and little sister to the Sabbath school. After seating them he departed, saying: "I will go to the post office." This was as early as nine o'clock A. M. At ten o'clock or later the old cook entered the room of the elder Mrs. Van Hook. She found her lying on the floor weltering in blood. She ran out and gave the alarm. Neighbors ran in and laid the sufferer on the bed. In a short time she expired. A runner was dispatched for the children. He met the son walking homeward. Soon the police assembled, and an investigation was begun. They ascertained that the murderer entered the old lady's room with hatchet in hand. She was sitting with her face toward the fire. Creeping up stealthily behind her, he struck her one blow on the top of the head with the pole of the implement, fracturing her skull. Afterward he struck her several blows in the face and on the arms with the edge of the hatchet. Locking the front door, secreting the weapon between the mattresses of the bed in an adjoining room; he fled by the back way. The absorbing question then was: Who is the murderer? The negress was arrested, but subsequently released. After several days of diligent search the investigating committee arrived at this conclusion, based on circumstantial evidence they could not doubt—that he, her only son, had murdered his mother. Why? Not insanity, not anger, but money.

WESTERN.

CONVINCING BY DEFINITION.—It was wittily said by the late Mr. Drummond, in the House of Commons, that Liberalism is, by the very derivation of the word, antagonistic to religion; and when this observation produced an outburst of indignant exclamation from the Liberal benches, Mr. Drummond added: "Liberalism is derived from the word 'Libero,' and is 'quod Liberat,' that which looseneth; while religion is derived from 'Religio,' and is 'quod Religat,' that which bindeth. Do not quarrel with me; quarrel with your dictionary." The Liberal members felt as if the ghost of Dr. Johnson stood before them, and there was a pause.

AS MANY as twelve French dukes, of the oldest and most distinguished lineage, have been killed or seriously wounded during the war.

EAST ALABAMA COLLEGE.

AUBURN, ALA., March 10, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: In my last communication I brought the condition of the college building to the attention of the people of east Alabama. In asking for a donation to place this building in good repair the curators are simply doing their duty. The building is becoming seriously injured by neglect. The repairs must be made immediately, or the damages will become irreparable. Money collected for this purpose can be sent direct to us and appropriated for the desired purpose, without passing through the hands of an agent. The amount that would be necessary to support an agent is all that is required for present repairs. Now if our preachers will consent to act for us and collect all they can they will save the college building and encourage those who are devoting every energy to maintain the institution. It is suggested that the presiding elders and preachers in charge endeavor to raise from the following districts the amounts attached. Montgomery district, $300; Union Springs district, $250; Eufaula district, $250; Camden district, $250; Mariana district, $50; Pollard, Pensacola and Milton, in the Mobile district, $10 each; Autaugaville and Ivy Creek, Autauga circuit and Prattville, $100.

If these amounts could be approximated and the desired amount of $1,000 raised, every cent would be carefully expended in repairs and the college put in a safe condition. It is true that the country is in poor condition for such a demand; yet this sum can be raised without injury, by asking only fifty cents from those who are able to give. Has not this college two thousand friends who can afford to give each this small amount? At least twenty young men are here at present receiving gratuitous instruction, among whom are ministers' sons and candidates for the ministry. We would, therefore, earnestly urge our friends to help us to stop the excessive leaking of the roof, and thus to save the building.

A. D. MCVOY.

Forkland Circuit, Alabama Conference.

MR. EDITOR: After making a long move, in cold weather, through a great deal of mud, we arrived at the parsonage. We found it well furnished, and we began at once to feel at home. Our people gave us a cordial reception, and showed no little care for our wants and our comfort. We have already learned to love them. Unfortunately, however, just before we arrived here our excellent horse died, and we were left on the road without ability to prosecute our journey. Kind friends and brethren came to our assistance. We shall ever remember them, and pray heaven's richest blessings upon them. The people of my charge are making arrangements to procure a horse for me. This is right, and is highly appreciated. On account of personal and family afflictions I have not yet done much work, except to preach and to visit a few families. Now that we are all better, I shall endeavor to do all the work of a pastor.

There are three appointments in the circuit—Forkland, Trinity and Boligee. At the first two places we have good Sunday schools. One of them has introduced Dr. Haygood's Lesson Papers, and I think we will soon introduce them into the other. They are undoubtedly excellent and appropriate for our schools. Let them be introduced and faithfully used everywhere.

Our first quarterly meeting has just closed. Our presiding elder, Rev. S. H. Cox, was with us. His earnest, practical and deeply spiritual preaching has given us a fresh impetus, and has left some impressions which, we think, will be the seeds of a grand and glorious harvest. Though amid broken fortunes, and in some respects gloomy prospects, the stewards have raised the assessments above last year. Thus would they bring all the tithes in the Lord's storehouse, that the overflowing blessing may come from the open windows of heaven. Already we begin to see the signs of the coming glory! Brethren, pray for us!

Bro. Cox is very much encouraged by the prospects of the Demopolis district. Our mail facilities are not good, and hence I am hindered in the work of procuring subscribers for our paper.

Yours in Christ,

W. S. TURNER.

MARCH 6, 1871.

DR. BLEDSOE ON EARTHQUAKES.

The Baltimore Episcopal Methodist says:

The second lecture of the course on the "History, Causes, Consequences and Theory of Earthquakes" was delivered on Thursday evening of last week, at the Peabody Institute, by Dr. A. T. Bledsoe. The doctor dealt with the latter branch of his subject, the "Theory of Earthquakes," and said that the cause of earthquakes was now well known; that the earth upon which we now dwell was once a vast globe of liquid fire, and was, in the blue firmament, a self-luminous star, as the sun is now known, because, in the first place, the shape of the earth bears evidence of the fact, which the lecturer proceeded to explain. Another fact is also well known, the deeper we go the hotter the interior of the earth becomes. So rapid is the rate of increase that at twenty miles depth the earth must be red-hot, and at no great distance below the hardest substances would be melted like wax before an ordinary fire. The key to the whole cause of volcanoes and earthquakes, says Sir. John Herschel, is to be found in the central heat of the earth.

The lecturer then proceeded to discuss the consequences of earthquakes. In the first place, we owe all the magnificence of our mountain ranges to the operation of earthquakes. Great mountains have been created within the memory of men still living by the influence of earthquakes. In the second place, the beauty and fertility of the most noted and productive islands of our planet are owing to the beneficent power of earthquakes. In the third and last place, we owe, under God, the very continents on which we dwell to the agency of earthquakes.

We see, then, the beneficent power and design of God in earthquakes. But for the restorative power of earthquakes the waters of the great deep had still covered the whole earth, and there would have been no living thing higher or nobler in the scale of creation than the fishes of the sea. The lecturer concluded by describing the action and influence of the sun on the physical constitution of the earth, and especially in relation to the phenomena of volcanoes and earthquakes.

THE LAST TIME.—There will be, dear reader, a last time to us with all things earthly—a last time to speak of the goodness of God, and urging sinners to come to this fountain of life.

A last time we shall have of speaking to a beloved brother, sister, or kind father or mother, it may be, who know not as yet the blessedness of religion.

A last time the Sabbath school teacher will have, appearing before his class.

A last prayer the Christian will offer; a last hymn of praise he will sing.

There will be, too, to the sinner, a last time—a last time of attending the prayer meeting, a last prayer he will hear offered for his salvation; a last Sabbath that will ever dawn upon him.

There is to be, there must be, a last time to all these privileges which we now enjoy.

Do we rightly consider these blessings! The present is ours; it may be our last. Let us wisely improve each day and moment, as though indeed it were our last; then we shall be prepared for the unknown future.

WE BRING into the world with us a poor, needy, uncertain life, short at the longest, and unquiet at the best; all the imaginations of the witty and the wise have been perpetually busied to find out the ways how to revive it with pleasures, or relieve it with diversions; how to compass it with ease, and settle it with safety. To some of these ends have been employed the institutions of lawgivers, the reasonings of philosophers, the inventions of poets, the pains of laboring, and the extravagances of voluptuous men. All the world is perpetually at work about nothing else, but only that our poor mortal lives should pass the easier and happier for that little time we possess them, or else end the better when we lose them.

LOWELL thus exquisitely draws a lesson from the footprints and rain-spots of the sandstone: "Perhaps it was only because the ripple and the rain-drop and the bird were not thinking of themselves that they had such luck. The chances of immortality depend very much on that."

ADVICE TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Remember: 1. That human happiness, like Hebrew verbs, has no present tense.

2. That human friendship, like glass, is easily broken, but not easily mended.

3. When you know not what to do, never do you know not what.

4. Never covet high places, where 'tis difficult to stand and dangerous to fall. We never find the Saviour on the pinnacle of the temple but once. What company had he there?

5. Be no respecter of great personages as such. Remember the figure 9, though the highest number, owes its consequence not to its head, but to its curved appendage. Without that it would be 0.

6. Desire no rapid growth. When the clock has struck 12 it does not strike 13 next. The full moon grows no larger.

7. Be not over hasty to combat public opinion without a pressing reason. He that spits against the wind spits in his own face.

8. Never scare off a fly with a club, when a feather will do as well; and remember you can take more flies with a gill of molasses than with a gallon of vinegar.

9. Avoid debt. He that pays down will not be called upon to pay up.

10. Ministers must not only eat their bread by the sweat of their brow, but by the sweat of their brains.

11. Let not your sermons be like a serpent, smallest at the last end, but rather like the scorpion, whose sting is in its tail.

12. Have special care of those members who were born in a storm, as they are prone to want a storm to live in.

13. Never forget that a minister's work is to break hard hearts, and to mend broken ones.

14. I began with a verb; I will conclude with a case. May you never be found in the accusative, and never come out in the vocative.—An Old Minister.

THE HONEY AND THE GOLD.

There is no way of feeding upon the word except by thinking over it. Perhaps no learned scholar ever attained a deeper insight into the real spirit of God's truth than a poor widow, who in her penury allowed herself still the luxury of a half hour's candle light after her toilsome day was done, that she might read her precious Bible. Experience had taught her how far it would burn in a half hour. So it was her custom to light it for a few moments, and read such a portion as she thought she could remember, and then blow out her light and think it over. So she continued to do until the mark on her candle was reached. Surely such meditations, joined with humble prayer, could not fail to extract the pure honey from this precious honeycomb. The joy of that evening feast more than made amends for the day's ills. She lived the truths she had thus made her own, and was truly said to be "mighty in the Scriptures."

Another poor, lone woman, who had walked by the steady light of her old family Bible for a long lifetime, found that her failing eyesight could serve her no longer. She could not even find her favorite passage for others to read. She resorted at last to the expedient of placing pins carefully in the margin opposite them, and when any one came to visit her she would pass her withered fingers down the page and beg them to "read here" or "read there." When she died a hundred and sixty-eight pins were found in the book. Are there pins in our Bible? Have we our golden passages to which we turn in time of trouble or any need? If we feed well on the word, this will be our only true solace, our strong and sure helper.

HOW TO CURE INFIDELITY.—An English infidel spoke against Christianity, and a collier replied as follows: "Maister Bradlaugh, me and my mate Jim were both Methodys till one of those infidel chaps came this way. Jim turned infidel, and used to badger me about attending prayer meetings; but one day in the pit a large cob of coal came down on Jim's 'yead. Jim thought he was killed, and, ah, mon! but he did holler and cry to God." Then turning to Mr. Bradlaugh, with a knowing look, he said: "Young mon, there's now't like cobs of coal for knocking infidelity out of a man." It need scarcely be said that the collier carried the audience with him.

THERE are over-shot water-wheels and under-shot water-wheels. In the one case the motive power falls from above; in the other the water turns the wheel from below. The first is the more powerful. Men, like wheels, are turned by forces from a great many sources, and by many move by the under-current of mercenary desires and selfish aims drive them; but the great and good man's driving force falls from above, let him endeavor his best to profit to all of mankind that this is the most powerful force in existence.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1871.

SO GOES THE WORLD.

Our varied days pass on and on,
Our hopes fade unfulfilled away,
And things which seem the life of life
Are taken from us day by day;
And yet through all the busy streets
The crowd of pleasure seekers throng
The puppet's play, the showman's calls,
And gossips chat the whole day long.
And so the world goes on.

Our little dramas come to naught;
Our lives may fail, our darling plan
May crumble into nothingness,
Our firmest castle fall to sand;
And yet the children sing and dance,
The honey-makers laugh and shout,
The stars, unmindful, still shine bright,
Unconscious that our light is out,
And so the world goes on.

The house grows sad that once was gay;
The dear ones seek their blessed home,
And we may watch and wait in vain
To hear their well known footsteps come.
And yet the sunlight checks the floor,
And makes the summer shadows long,
The rosebuds at the casement bloom,
The bird pours forth his cheerful song,
And so the world goes on.

And God goes on, and with our woe
Weaves golden threads of joy and peace,
Guarding with his heart of hearts
Our days of pain, our days of ease—
He marks them all—the seed, the sheaves,
The dangor's smile, the mourner's tears,
And keeps them safe—his children all—
Through all the great eternal years,
And so, thank God, the world goes on.

THE ORIGIN OF CLASS MEETINGS.

The following is from Tyerman's new Life of John Wesley;

In a certain sense Methodist societies were begun in 1739; but it was not until 1742 that they were divided into classes. In January, 1739, the London Society, which was really Moravian, and not Methodist, consisted of about sixty persons. Three months after that Wesley went to Bristol, where "a few persons agreed to meet weekly, with the same intention as those in London;" and these were soon increased by "several little societies, which were already meeting in divers parts of the city," amalgamating with them. About the same time similar societies were formed in Kingswood and at Bath. These religious communities grew and multiplied. At the beginning of 1742 the London societies alone, after repeated siftings, numbered about eleven hundred members. Hitherto Wesley and his brother had been their only pastors; but on February 15, 1742, an accident led to a momentous alteration. Nearly three years before Wesley had built his meeting house in Bristol; but, notwithstanding the subscriptions and collections made at the time to defray the expense, a large debt was still unpaid. On the day mentioned some of the principal members of the Bristol society met together to consult how their pecuniary obligations should be discharged. One of them stood up and said: "Let every member of the society give a penny a week till the debt is paid." Another answered: "Many of them are poor, and cannot afford to do it." "Then," said the former, "put eleven of the poorest with me; and if they can give anything, well, I will call on them weekly; and if they can give nothing, I will give for them as well as for myself; and each of you call on eleven of your neighbors weekly; receive what they give, and make up what is wanting." "It was done," writes Wesley; "and in a while some of these informed me they found such and such a one did not live as he ought. It struck me immediately: 'This is the thing, the very thing, we have wanted so long.'"

What was the result? Wesley called together these weekly collectors of money to pay the debt on Bristol chapel, and desired each, in addition to collecting money, to make particular inquiry into the behavior of the members whom they visited. They did so. Many disorderly walkers were detected; and thus the society was purged of unworthy members.

Within six weeks after this, on March 25, Wesley introduced the same plan in London, where he had long found it difficult to become acquainted with all the members personally. He requested "several earnest and sensible men to meet him," to whom he explained his difficulty. They all agreed that, "to come to a sure, thorough knowledge of each member, there could be no better way than to divide the society into classes, like those at Bristol." Wesley at once appointed as leaders "those in whom he could most confide;" and thus, after an existence of three years, the Methodist societies were divided into classes in 1742. "This," says Wesley, "was the origin of our classes, for which I can never sufficiently praise God; the unspeakable usefulness of the institution having ever since been more and more manifest."

At first the leader visited each member at his own house; but this was soon found to be inconvenient. It required more time than the leaders had to spare; and many members lived with masters, mistresses or relations, where it was almost impossible for such visits to be made. Hence, before long it was agreed that each leader should meet his apportioned members all together, once a week, at a time and place most convenient for the whole. The leader began and ended each meeting with singing and prayer, and spent about an hour in conversing with those present, one by one.

This class meetings began. Wesley writes: "It can scarce be conceived what advantages have been reaped by this little prudential regulation. Many now experienced that Christian fellowship of which they had not so much as an idea before. They began to bear one another's burdens, and naturally to care for each other's welfare. And as they had daily a more intimate acquaintance, so they had a more endeared affection for each other. Upon reflection, I could not but observe, this is the very thing which was from the beginning of Christianity. As soon as any Jews or heathen were so convinced of the truth as to forsake sin, and seek the gospel of salvation, the first preachers immediately joined them together; took an account of their names; advised them to watch over each other; and met these catechumens, as they were then called, apart from the great congregation, that they might instruct, rebuke, exhort and pray with them and for them, according to their several necessities."

Such is Wesley's own account of the origin of these weekly meetings. Some of the old members were at first extremely averse to this new arrangement, regarding it not as a privilege, but rather a restraint. They objected that there were no such meetings when they joined the society, and asked why such meetings were instituted now. To this Wesley answered that he regarded class meetings not essential, nor of divine institution, but merely prudential helps, which it was a pity the society had not been favored with from the beginning. "We are always open to instruction," says he to these complainants, "willing to be wiser every day than we were before, and to change whatever we can change for the better."

Another objection was: "There is no Scripture for classes." Wesley replied that there was no Scripture against them; and that, in point of fact, there was much Scripture for them, namely, texts which enjoined the substance of the thing, leaving indifferent circumstances to be determined by reason and experience.

The most plausible objection of all, however, was that which is often urged at the present day. Wesley writes: "They spoke far more plausibly who said: 'The thing is well enough in itself; but the leaders have neither gifts nor graces for such an employment.' I answer: 1. Yet such leaders as they are, it is plain God has blessed their labor. 2. If any of these is remarkably wanting in gifts or grace, he is soon taken notice of and removed. 3. If you know any such, tell it to me, not to others, and I will endeavor to exchange him for a better. 4. It may be hoped they will all be better than they are, both by experience and observation, and by the advice given them by the minister every Tuesday night, and the prayers—then in particular—offered up for them."

The appointment of these leaders was of vast importance; but it was not sufficient. Wesley continues: "As the society increased I found it required still greater care to separate the precious from the vile. In order to do this I determined, at least once in every three months, to talk with every member myself, and to inquire at their own mouths whether they grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. At these seasons I likewise particularly inquire whether there be any misunderstanding or difference among them, that every hindrance of peace and brotherly love may be taken out of the way."

Nothing need be added to this full account of the origin of the class meeting and the quarterly visitation of the Methodists. Wesley, from the beginning, "recognized the Scriptural distinction between the church and the world. The men who possessed religion, and the men who possessed it not, were not for a moment confounded."

THE BIN AND THE HOPPER.—I remember a young man in one of our seminaries who came to me and said: "I have been trying very hard to write a sermon, and I find it the most difficult thing in the world to do." I said to him: "My dear young friend, were you ever at a mill? Do you know what the hopper and bin are? Suppose the miller should rouse his hands, set the stones going; hang the bags on the hooks at the bin, and then stand wondering why he does not get any meal. Some one says to him: 'Why, you have forgotten to put corn in the hopper!' My dear young man, you cannot get meal at the bin till you put corn in the hopper."—Dr. Tyng.

A BRIEF BIOGRAPHY.

MR. EDITOR: As I perceive the epidemic is abroad for sketching the lives and characters of church celebrities, I have got the trembles lest some impertinent fellow should try his hand on me. In order, then, to prevent so dire a calamity I must beg a little space in your paper for this short sketch, as I think I ought to know more about myself than any of these scribblers know about me.

To begin at the beginning. But this is a great difficulty, for though I am sure I was there, I have no recollection about my birth. However, I am satisfied I was born some time; and I think it must have been in old Bonaparte's time, for I recollect seeing him or a picture of him sealed up in a bottle when I was a boy. I've heard them say that I was a mighty cross baby, and they had to give me lots of paregoric to keep me quiet. I think it very likely this is a true story, for I've been cross enough ever since. Just in the way of a warning to parents on that point, let me say that I think it a bad practice to give children medicine. They are very apt to get to like it, and keep taking it after they've grown up. At least it seems like it's been so with me, for some of my friends tell me that I make my insides an apothecary shop.

I was sent to school soon after old Bonaparte was sent to St. Helena; but there was this difference between us: his keeper was a man, while mine was a woman. I don't remember much about those times, except one green spot, and that was my going to a tea-party, one afternoon, at the house of one of the school girls. Well, that was the beginning of my education, and I have been at it ever since; and I have to relate it as a fact, however discouraging it may be to the young folks, the longer I live and the more I study, the more I find I don't know.

As the subject of this sketch is still living, and hopes to live a while longer, it might be indelicate to say much about him, for you know that would look like flattery; and the Bible says some strong things about that class of gentry called flatterers. But as I fear my readers might be disappointed if I did not give them some idea of my personal appearance, I'll try to do it in as few words as possible. In physical conformation I am very like some other people, for I have but one head and two feet, one nose and two eyes, one mouth and two ears (these last not long ones.) My habits are peculiar; I eat when I am hungry (if I can get anything fit to eat) and drink when I am thirsty, and sleep when I am sleepy. I put on my shirt by drawing it over my head, and my trousers by putting my feet through the legs; and in spite of the fashion, and notwithstanding the great improvements in tailoring, I stick to the old trick of wearing suspenders.

And now to make an honest confession, which I do with the most perfect sincerity, I have to acknowledge that I have left undone much that I should have done, and done much that I ought not have done. Perhaps in this last category may be placed this egotistical notice of myself.—Correspondent of Southern Christian Advocate.

THE UNBLESSED MEAL.—Thirty years ago a little boy, the son of pious parents, was invited to spend a few days at the house of a friendly family. When dinner came on the table Philip, though very hungry after his journey, could not be persuaded to touch a morsel of food. Again and again did they urge him to eat, and as often did he look wishful at the contents of the table, but resolutely declined. At last the lady kindly inquired if there was any reason why he did not eat his dinner. Bursting into tears, and sobbing so that he could scarcely speak, he exclaimed:

"You haven't blessed it!"

That family ever afterward asked the blessing of God on their food, and that little boy is now a missionary in Jamaica.

WORK IF YOU WOULD RISE.—Richard Burke being found in a reverie, shortly after an extraordinary display of powers in the House of Commons by his brother Edmund, and questioned by Mr. Malone as to the cause, replied: "I have been wondering how Ned has contrived to monopolize all the talents of the family; but then, again, I remember, when we were at play he was always at work." The force of the anecdote is increased by the fact that Richard Burke was not considered inferior in natural talents to his more distinguished brother. Yet the one rose to greatness, while the other died comparatively obscure. Don't trust to your genius, young man, if you would rise; but work! work!! WORK!!!

PETER COOPER has given the trustees of the Cooper Institute $100,000 for the establishment of a reference library, and promises $50,000 more for a mechanics' reading library.

HARVARD AND YALE.

The Independent represents the condition of these old New England colleges as follows:

In 1840 the Cambridge University included five departments. It now includes ten. In 1840 there were 243 undergraduates, three-quarters of whom were from Massachusetts. In 1870 there are 608 undergraduates, not more than one-third of whom are from Massachusetts. In 1840 the whole number of pupils in the University was but 440, this number being the largest for some years. In 1870 the whole number is 1,316. At the earlier date the total number of volumes in the college libraries was 51,461; it is now 187,000.

Comparing the annual statistics of Harvard with those of Yale, we find, with surprise, that the elder university has surpassed the younger, within a few years, in respect to the number of undergraduates; a point where for many years Yale had held undisputed precedence. Harvard will graduate nearly half as many again as Yale next summer, unless the example of West Point should prove infectious, and the whole senior class commit academical felo de se to save the freshman from telling fibs. There are 158 seniors at Harvard and 104 at Yale; and there is a similar though smaller preponderance in every class except the junior, where Yale has 139 to Harvard's 122. When we think that it is only within ten years that the Cambridge Alma Mater has ever brought forth a hundred at a birth these figures are remarkable. The whole number of Harvard undergraduates is 608, and those at Yale number 522.

But it is in the other departments of Harvard, as usual, that she takes the lead in numbers. The Yale scientific students, it is true, count up 125, and both the scientific schools at Cambridge but 42. There are 55 theological students at New Haven, and but 49 in both the Harvard schools. But, on the other hand, there are 301 medical students in the Harvard school, besides 27 in the dental school; while Yale counts but 33 in all. Harvard has, moreover, 154 law students, and Yale but 23. Then there are the registered attendants on the "University Lectures" at Cambridge, numbering 155, who bring up the total of Harvard pupils to 1,316; the Yale total being 755.

The assertion has always been justly made that Yale was a more national and cosmopolitan institution than Harvard, as to the greater range of localities represented among its students. In this respect, too, Harvard would seem, at first glance, to have nearly overtaken its rival. In the undergraduate department at Cambridge 26 States and Territories are represented, besides Nova Scotia, England, France and the Hawaiian Islands. The whole University brings up the number to 33, and add three more British provinces, with Ireland, Scotland, West India, Central America and Liberia. The Yale undergraduates represent 28 States and Territories, besides Canada, England, Scotland, South Africa, Syria, China and the Hawaiian Islands. The whole University adds but one to the number of States, besides Wales, Siam, Japan and the West Indies. It will be observed that each university represents nearly all the States of the Union: but the more distant States are, doubtless, more numerously represented at Yale, even now. The higher standard of examination at Harvard bears more severely on these remoter States; and the nearness of Yale to New York makes it decidedly more central and accessible.

VENTILATING STORMS.—The wildest storms of winter do great good by thoroughly removing any noxious gases that may lurk about our great cities, and carrying them out to the deep, there to "suffer a sea change," and replacing them with a purer air. Air and ocean are the two great physical purifiers of the world. So, while we fasten our garments more tightly round us, and hurry along in the pelting shower flung at us by a boisterous wind, let us think of the health-giving oxygen that comes on the tempest; and while enjoying the shelter of our roof, think of the good work going on above us in the sky, alike whether we wake or sleep. We love to think of the mighty operations of the hand of God going on ceaselessly for the good of man and the mass of living things on earth, when we are passive and powerless; and this wind movement is one of these.—Dublin University Magazine.

WE LIVE in a wonderful age, and all the events of history, as they are accomplishing, are giving us more and more confidence in the truth of God's word and the power of Christ's gospel. Look over the countries of Europe and see how the word of God is making its way under the ban of tyranny and priestcraft.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

ARCHBISHOP SPAULDING, of Baltimore, calls for contributions to support the Pope. As the Italian government offers to guarantee the Pope's support, the ladies are asked to give their jewels to aid the Italian finances.

REV. DR. SAUNDERS, of Morristown, has given $100,000 worth of property to found a hospital in Philadelphia, under the charge of the Presbyterian Church. By the terms of the gift it is expressly provided that none shall be excluded from the benefits of this institution by reason "of creed and color."

THE Christian Guardian, Methodist paper, of Toronto, has letters from Rev. George McDougall, missionary in the Northwest, describing the ravages of smallpox among the Indians, who are falling victims by hundreds. The Indians abandon the sick to die alone, and scores lie unburied. Among those who died were two daughters of the missionary.

THE Rev. Alfred Griffith, the oldest preacher now living in the Baltimore Conference, is residing with his son-in-law, Mr. Uhler, at Alexandria, Virginia. He was eighty-eight years old on March 16. He entered the Baltimore Conference in 1806, and has filled many important appointments. With the exception of an occasional cloud, his mind is clear, and he talks well about "nearin' home."—Methodist.

THE "Church of the Pilgrims," in Brooklyn, served by the Rev. Dr. Storrs, was organized in 1844, and has now six hundred and seventy members. One beautiful practice of this church is that every baptized child, when it reaches the age of seven years, is presented a finely-bound Bible, with date of the child's birth and baptism recorded, and with this inscription in gilt: "From the Church of the Pilgrims to a Child of the Covenant."

THE beginning has been made of the renewal of Moravianism in Bohemia, in the formation of a "Renewed Church of the Brethren," at Pottenstein. A legal difficulty has occurred under the peculiar state of the laws in that country, as the Moravian congregation is "confessionless," belonging neither to the Augsburg nor the Helvetic confession, and so cannot be recognized by the state or protected by the laws. They desire help to purchase a house for their worship.

ROME.—The Wesleyan General Missionary Committee determined, at their missionary meeting, January 11, that an Italian minister should at once be sent to Rome.

In November last the General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church provided for sending a missionary to Italy. We have not heard of his appointment

The Wesleyans are negotiating for the erection of a church and school in Naples, an eligible site having been offered.

MR. LAWRENCE writes from Barcelona that in a visit of three days in the country, in seven towns, he sold twelve hundred and fifty copies of the Scriptures, and distributed six thousand tracts. In some instances whole towns have left the Church of Rome. In Madrid a large number of Spanish clergy have accepted the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as the sole foundation of their faith, and have determined to preach and teach nothing which may not be proved thereby. They held their first synod at the university at Madrid, in August last, the rector of the university presiding.

THE Southern Baptists now have four laborers in the city of Rome. More than twenty-five thousand copies of portions of the Bible, and numerous tracts, have been distributed by them. On the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth ultimo eight persons were baptized, and on the latter date a church of sixteen was organized, Rev. Mr. John A. Broadus assisting in the service. The Rev. Mr. Coto says that in every direction the door is open, and asks that further facilities be furnished for spreading New Testament truth and ordinances. If the board had $10,000 they could be well expended in this field, and at once.

ROMAN CATHOLIC RULE IN AMERICA. "How Soon?"—A few days ago "Father Hecker," the renegade Protestant, who has for several years been a Romish priest, and a leading lecturer among the Roman Catholics in this city and vicinity, delivered in Detroit a lecture, in which he boldly indicated the hopes cherished by the Romish hierarchy with regard to their domination in this country. His subject was: "The Religious Tendencies of the American People." One of the paragraphs reads thus:

Catholicism rules the city of New York with fifty thousand majority, and the question is not now: "Will the Catholics ever rule America?" but "How soon?"

Comment is unnecessary. Let all lovers of civil and religious liberty think.—New York Christian Advocate.

AT THE last meeting of the American Bible Society, March 2, nine new auxiliaries were recognized—four in Iowa, two in North Carolina, and in South Carolina, Missouri and Alabama one each. Communications were received in regard to the progress of the Bible work from several countries in South America, especially in Chili, Uruguay and Brazil; from various places in China, as Canton, Foochow, Amoy, etc., and from Arcot, Kolapoor, Madura, Ceylon, etc., in India; from the Evangelical Society of Geneva, returning thanks for a grant of funds for Bible work among French soldiers and citizens; from H. C. Hall, Esq., stating the act of the government of Spain allowing importation of books in the Spanish language into the ports of that kingdom. The annual appropriations to agents and to missionary societies, for Bible work in their foreign missions, were made, amounting to $59,700.—Methodist.

MR. C. DE FAYE writes from Brussels to the Christian Union, of the fanatical assurance maintained by the Roman Catholic bishops as to the security of France under the protection of "Mary," to whom the kingdom was solemnly dedicated. They have been very bitter against the circulation of the Scriptures among the troops. "At Coblentz and Cologne the Hospitaller Monks and the Sisters of Mercy take away from the wounded and prisoners, as fast as they can, all the New Testaments, portions of Scripture, and tracts that they can get hold of. The British and Foreign Bible Society sent ten thousand New Testaments to these places for distribution. Now hardly one thousand are to be found among those to whom they had been given. A Dutch lady, thinking that poetry might be acceptable to the poor men lying in the hospitals, got a simple hymn of consolation printed; but the harmless leaflet found no more favor in the eyes of the sisters than the New Testaments and tracts."—Independent.

INDIAN MISSION CONFERENCE, M. E. CHURCH (NORTH.)—We are in receipt of some interesting items of the Indian Mission Conference, forwarded in advance of the more lengthy reports, which latter we hope to be able to give our readers immediately on the arrival of the next India mail, about a week hence. The Conference was held in Lucknow, opening on Friday, January 13. In the absence of Bishops, Rev. J. Waugh, D. D., was elected president, Rev. J. H. Messmore secretary. Visitors were present representing six different missionary societies. The reports from the several charges were exceedingly encouraging. The revivals of the year exceeded those of any preceding year in the history of the mission. The principal items of statistics are as follows:

	1871.	Increase.
Members	1,067	296
Sunday schools	35	1
Scholars	1,177	62
Boys' day schools	69	..
Girls' day schools	47	..
Total	113	..
Day scholars, boys	3,369	2,544
Day scholars, girls	1,074	938
Total day scholars	4,443	3,482

THE English Wesleyan Mission in Portugal is welcomed and encouraged by an earnestness for the word of God equal to anything of the sort found in Spain. At Oporto Rev. R. B. Lyth, on a recent visit to Mr. and Mrs. Cassels, the resident missionaries, found, as he says, "a people prepared of, as well as for, the Lord. More than twenty Portuguese united with ten English communicants in the Lord's Supper. Three hundred people crowded into the week-night service the day after I left, and two hundred the following week, to hear the word of God. At the conclusion of the Sunday service about fifty remained, and we had a very interesting prayer meeting." Passing through Spain on his way, both going and coming, Mr. Lyth, sent from England to examine the field, reports: "Having heard with my ears and seen with my eyes, I now declare to you that these two kingdoms are waiting for the law of the Lord. The prayer of the king in the hearts of his redeemed sons and daughters in Spain and Portugal is: 'Come over and help us.' And remember that before your arrival (at Oporto) a chapel is builded for you which ye builded not; classes are formed which you formed not; schools are established which you established not. In the heart of commerce is a hall that will hold hundreds, and to which hundreds come. Moreover, there is a church of living souls, a temple in which incense is offered and a pure offering, where prayer is made continually for God's blessing on the extension of his work in this country. What more? The land is before you—it is a goodly land; go up and possess it, for ye are well able."

NO STATUARY that the rich man ever placed in his window is to be compared with the little expectant face pressed against the window-pane, watching for "papa" when his day's labor is done.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

MINISTERIAL SUPPLY.

The following resolutions were passed by the Louisiana Conference at its recent session in this city:

Resolved, THAT IN VIEW OF THE GREAT DESTITUTION OF LABORERS WITHIN OUR BOUNDS, WE SET APART THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL AS A DAY OF FASTING AND PRAYER, THAT THE LORD OF THE HARVEST MAY SEND FORTH MORE LABORERS INTO THIS FIELD.

Resolved, THAT THE PREACHERS BE REQUESTED TO PREACH IN THEIR SEVERAL CHARGES ON THE CALL TO THE MINISTRY, ON THE SABBATH FOLLOWING THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL, OR AT SUCH OTHER TIMES DURING THE YEAR AS MAY BE MOST SUITABLE.

POST OFFICES.

As changes are being made in the post offices of the preachers, they will greatly oblige us by furnishing their addresses as early as possible. Don't forget to give the post office from which your paper is to be changed, as well as that to which it is to be sent.

THE MEMORIAL SERVICE.

This service, held to honor the memory of Bishop Andrew, took place according to previous announcement on Sunday night, the nineteenth instant, at the Carondelet Street church. The pastors of the various city charges were present and assisted Bishop Keener in the services. The congregation, swelled by contributions from the other churches, was immense, the church being packed from top to bottom. It was probably the largest Methodist congregation ever gathered in New Orleans. Bishop Keener's text was: But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ—First Corinthians, xv, 57. The sermon was able and appropriate. The entire memorial service has been described to us as exceedingly impressive, and never to be forgotten.

MISSIONARY DEBT.

Received of T. C. Standifer, Trenton, Louisiana, $25—amount of his subscription to liquidate the missionary debt.

ERROR.—A typographical error made us credit Shreveport, Louisiana, with $75 instead of $25—amount of their quota for liquidating the missionary debt.

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent.

FRENCH AFFAIRS.—Our news columns this week disclose a state of affairs in France very discouraging to the friends of peace and order. What the final upshot of the matter will be is not easy to predict. This movement of the radical Republicans may lead to the recall of Louis Napoleon; but before any stable government it is likely that there will be a reign of terror and abundance of blood-shed.

THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES of the medical department of the University of Louisiana took place on Saturday, the eighteenth instant. We were honored with a special invitation, but were not able to attend on account of absence from the city. We are glad to learn that the occasion was one of great interest.

AN EXHIBITION of scriptural dissolving views, produced by the calcium light, will exhibit at the Masonic Hall, Algiers, on Monday evening, March 27, for the benefit of the Sunday school connected with the Methodist church at Algiers.

SELF-DESTRUCTION.

The instinct of self-preservation is one of the strongest principles which God has implanted in man's nature. The importance of this provision for the preservation of the race is readily appreciated. Amidst the perils to which men are exposed the love of life is a most active and beneficial endowment. Strong as it is, however, we know that it can be overcome. Life is periled and sacrificed for country and for friends, and under the pressure of a false worldly code death is chosen rather than what public opinion has branded as dishonor. Religious convictions are superior to the desire of life, and tens of thousands have deliberately met death rather than deny their faith. It is not unusual for men to seek death in order to avoid the exposure of their crimes, or to escape the disgrace of the penitentiary. By good motives or bad, by high considerations or low ones, the instinct of self-preservation is overcome, and there are doubtless thousands in our land to-day who would prefer death to life. Nor is this preference wrong where it is held in submission and obedience to the divine will. Paul had a desire to depart, and Job was evidently tired of life when he exclaimed: "I would not live alway." Patriotism has said, "It is sweet and decorous to die for the country," and the maturest saints have longed for their release, "desiring to be clothed upon with our house, which is from heaven."

The moral bearings of the subject are reached when we consider the right of any human being to destroy himself. The possibility that the sane mind can so overcome the love of life as to commit self-murder can scarcely be questioned. If the love of life yields to considerations of honor, patriotism and religion, there is no reason to suppose that it may not, under certain moral conditions, be so far overcome as to enable a man to put an end to his earthly existence. In those heathen countries, as, for example, in China and Japan, where the moral restraints are feeble, self-destruction is often regarded as the exhibition of the highest virtue. Among the ancient Greeks and Romans suicide, under some circumstances, was regarded as perfectly justifiable, and as exhibiting the loftiest heroism. The custom was applauded by their philosophers and received the sanction of public opinion. It was in perfect accordance with the convictions and practice of those most ancient and most civilized pagans, and such instances of self-murder as those of Cato, Brutus, Cassius and Cleopatra gave no shock to the moral sensibilities of the times. There were circumstances which they regarded as justifying the act, and it was considered the mark of a sound mind and of a brave heart, rather than conclusive proof of mental alienation.

The question is more in the domain of morals than anywhere else. That the suicide may have been insane is possible, but it by no means follows as a matter of course. Where there are no convictions of future accountability, no well grounded belief in retribution and a judgment to come, or where practical atheism has taken possession of the soul, we see not why sane men may not deliberately plan and perpetrate the horrible deed. The position assumed by the old common law of England in defining suicide as felo de se is doubtless correct, although the penalties affecting the remains and property of the self-murderer were contrary to the spirit of Christian civilization. A man may commit felony against himself, and this is his crime, who, under whatever pressure other than insanity, takes away his own life. Insanity, as we have shown, is not the only thing which can neutralize and overpower the instinct of self-preservation. The perplexities, disappointments and sufferings incident to human experience are adequate to this result, where all moral and religious restraints are overcome. The love of life is generally operative and effectual, but there are conditions where it needs the reinforcement of the highest religious and moral convictions; and where, without them, the natural instinct is overborne and completely silenced. The thought of self-destruction crosses more minds than is generally supposed. It is doubtless often through the instigation of the devil that men are moved to entertain the purpose which, if consummated, places the criminal beyond the reach of repentance. His dark and dismal machinations chime in with the voices and scorpion lashes of misfortune and anguish, and add the fatal impulse which nerves the hand in its last and guilty office.

Self-murder is frequently associated with vice and shame, and the victim is driven to it by remorse and despair. But even here it is a result of the abuse of all moral convictions, and the fearful revulsion and revenge of an outraged conscience. It is an act of reckless desperation, made possible by the utter overthrow of all the moral barriers which usually oppose the commission of sin. Self-murder, so far from implying insanity, is a crime of which accountable men are capable, and of which religious teaching is to take cognizance. Life as the gift of God is a most sacred trust, and must be carefully guarded and improved. Men are to realize that living is a duty to be bravely and patiently discharged amidst sufferings, toils and anxieties, until released by the hand that conferred it upon them. There is no murder to which the sanctions of the divine law apply with greater certainty than to self-murder. "No murderer hath eternal life." The homicide of a lunatic lies beyond the limits of responsibility, whether perpetrated upon himself or another; but to assume that reason is necessarily dethroned in either case, because the deed has been done, is a most unwarrantable assumption. Shakespeare, in exhibiting the workings of the human mind under the dark temptation to self-destruction, gives a most truthful exhibition of the office of religious belief and conscience in meeting the terrible solicitation:

"To be or not to be—that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them? To die, to sleep,
No more; and, by a sleep, to say we end
The heart-ache, and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die, to sleep;
To sleep! perchance to dream; ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause: there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life;
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of despis'd love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover'd country, from whose bourn
No traveler returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of?"

CHILDREN'S ADVOCATE.—We have received Nos. 3 and 4 of this periodical. It is published by the Southwestern Book and Publishing Company, St. Louis, Missouri, and is edited by Rev. W. M. Leftwich, D. D. It is a beautiful paper, handsomely printed and illustrated, published in semi-monthly parts, and about the same size as our Sunday School Visitor. It is well edited, and is a most interesting and valuable paper for children. Single copies are fifty cents per annum. Where more are taken the price is graduated from thirty-five to twenty-four cents.

PHILIP PHILLIPS.—We are indebted to the Rev. J. C. Hartzell, pastor of the Ames Methodist Episcopal church of this city, for complimentary tickets to "An Evening of Sacred Song with Philip Phillips," at the church, corner St. Charles and Calliope streets, on Friday evening, March 24, 1871. Mr. Phillips is a national celebrity, and is reputed to be a master of sacred song. The entertainment will probably repay all who may find it convenient to attend.

DON'T keep in a constant fret about things that may be annoying, or worry about things that you can't help. Troubles are not lightened by fretting. The true remedy is to keep cool and try to master difficulties, and not let them master you.

MORE OF THE SAME SORT.

Rev. John Pipes, presiding elder of the Shreveport district, writes: "Bro. A. W. Williams, a transfer from the North Georgia Conference and appointed to Caddo circuit, reached his work in good time and has been cordially received. We do not hesitate to say that we will take a dozen more of the same sort, if they will come."

To this declaration of Bro. Pipes we give our hearty indorsement. Three or four energetic young preachers are needed on the New Orleans district, at places where there are at present no preachers, and where men without families, or with small families, would be supported. There are good appointments in every district of the Louisiana Conference, where the right sort of men would find both work and support. Young men with few encumbrances are needed. Preachers having large families, in the wasted and broken condition of the country, will be embarrassed in the matter of support. Recently we received a letter from a member of the South Carolina Conference, inquiring if transfers were wanted here. The letter was mislaid before we had time to answer it, and we can only say, through the columns of our paper, to him and to others in the older and better supplied Conferences, that we want transfers, that we have good appointments vacant and waiting for them, and that they will be cordially received by preachers and people.

So great, indeed, is our want of more preachers that the Conference at its last session directed that the first Friday in April be observed as a day of fasting and prayer in reference to an increase of laborers, and that the preachers preach upon the call to the ministry. We sincerely hope that not only many young men will come up for admission at Conference, but that many of the younger members of other Conferences will be moved to seek transfers to this most destitute and most promising field. Much of our territory is as healthy as any part of the Carolinas or Tennessee, and all of it will compare favorably with our Southern and Western Conferences in this respect. The field is white to the harvest. We can promise bread and raiment, and abundance of work. We want transfers, and a good many of them.

TOKENS FOR GOOD.

We spent an agreeable quarterly meeting time at Baton Rouge on Saturday and Sunday last, where it was our privilege to preach to a congregation not inferior in interest to any in the bounds of the New Orleans district. On Sunday fifteen persons, mostly young people, came forward to be received into the church. The pastor, Bro. Trippett, is much encouraged in his work. Prof. Magruder's school, we are glad to note, is in a prosperous condition. The Collegiate Institute deserves an extensive patronage, and is receiving it. While there we thought of Dr. Arnold and the famous Rugby school. Mrs. Reade's seminary for young ladies is also prospering, and doing a good work for the cause of education.

The revival in the Craps Street German church continues with unabated interest. Up to the time of writing there have been fifty-four clear and well marked conversions, and thirty-two accessions to the membership. About one-half of those converted are young people from fourteen to eighteen years of age. The rest are heads of families, and in some instances persons well advanced in years.

Bro. Tudor has been conducting protracted services during last week and this. A prayer meeting is held at midday, and preaching at night. The attendance is good, and a number of penitents have been at the altar, and several persons have been received into the church. In nearly all of the charges on the district there is a manifest improvement in the spiritual condition and in the attendance at church. Our present round of quarterly meetings so far exhibit a very gratifying increase in the Sunday schools, while many of the young people are seeking religion and being recognized as members of the church.

OUR DOCTRINES.

Bishop Doggett, in a communication to the Richmond Christian Advocate, gives the distinguishing doctrines of Methodism as follows:

Methodism holds that interpretation of the plan of redemption which is called Arminian, in opposition to that which is called Calvinian. It holds that it did not originate from any restrictive purpose in the mind of God from all eternity, by which only a limited number of the human family are included in its saving provisions; but that it contains a bona fide atonement for all men, who, by virtue of its infinite merit, are placed in an actually salvable condition. It holds that there is no unconditional discrimination on the part of God, proceeding from his decree or fore-knowledge, between those who shall be eternally saved by Christ, and those who, by a consequent pretermission or reprobation, will be consigned to eternal damnation. It maintains that the death of Christ was a "full, perfect and sufficient satisfaction and oblation for the sins of the whole world," in the sense that the whole world may be saved by it; that the loss of any soul cannot be ascribed to the fact that no indemnity was ever made for it, or to an eternal purpose of exclusion from the benefits of redemption. In this view of the atonement, Methodism is a perfect unit. On this dogma, as inherent in the very nature and announcement of the atonement, Methodism firmly stands. There is not such an example of unanimous agreement in this fundamental question on record. All other churches are either partially or wholly Calvinistic in this respect, avowedly and candidly—a doctrine which by logical consequence includes the damnation of a certain class of infants. Methodism rejects totally and essentially the entire Calvinian theory on this subject, and proclaims a full and free salvation to every child of Adam. These two doctrines are theologically and philosophically antagonistic to each other, and hence the Arminian theory is characteristic of it.

2. Methodism holds the universal freedom of the human will, corresponding with the universal extent of the atonement. It holds that through the abundant grace of God in Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit imparts to all mankind that measure of effectual influence by which they are rendered capable of complying with the terms of the gospel. Those who adopt the Calvinian theory believe not only in a special selection, but as a consequence in a specially efficacious motion of the Holy Spirit upon the elect alone. Here, then, is a radical doctrinal difference as to the question whether all men are invested, by the economy of salvation, with the ability to choose or refuse its offer of eternal life. Methodism boldly and unequivocally maintains and cordially proclaims the affirmative. Those who adhere to the dogma of an eternal, unconditional, personal election, designate it by eminence as the doctrine of grace, and charge upon their opponents the heresy of Pelagius; that is, a denial of the doctrine of total depravity. Calvinists are not more thorough believers in the entireness of human depravity than Methodists. Their doctrine of the freedom of the will and the capacity of salvation is founded exclusively upon the merit of Christ and the grace of the Holy Spirit.

3. Methodism holds, against all formalists and ritualists whatsoever, the absolute necessity of spiritual regeneration; that there is no substitute for the new birth unto righteousness by the Holy Ghost. A large part of Protestant Christendom explicitly or implicitly deny that doctrine, and teach only a sacramental or a formal regeneration. Our doctrine is an uncompromising protest against that fundamental delusion.

4. Methodism holds, as a doctrine, the direct witness of the Holy Spirit as the privilege of all believers, and as, in fact, in some degree, necessarily precedent to all other evidences of acceptance with God. Other evangelical denominations, while admitting this doctrine in particular instances, do not maintain it as the invariable provision of the gospel for all who accept of Christ. Not less evangelical than we, their testimony on this great question is less explicit than ours. The uniformity with which it is presented and urged is characteristic of Methodism.

5. Methodism holds specifically the doctrine of Christian perfection, and it is recognized as one of its peculiarities. Whatever be the different modes of explaining it, it is nevertheless one of its doctrinal features, founded, as it maintains, in the very terms and intent of the gospel plan. While it holds, with others, the doctrine of a growth in grace, it also holds that it is the privilege of the children of God to be habitually sanctified in soul, body and spirit.

6. Methodism holds the doctrine of final apostasy, in the sense that a truly regenerated person may so fall away as to perish everlastingly, and that the eternal salvation of any believer whom God permits to live is not settled by any predetermination, but is dependent, by his grace, upon a faithful continuance in well doing. It utterly discards the doctrine that one who has been truly regenerated can never be lost.

These doctrinal views are eminently distinctive of Methodism, and constitute, so far, a clear, consecutive and perfectly adjusted system of faith, characterized by the unanimity with which it is held and the unfaltering tone with which it is pronounced.

MURDER OF A MINISTER.

The Rev. W. H. Browning, Camden, Arkansas, March 1, furnishes the following account of the murder of the Rev. R. P. Davies. The news will shock and grieve his brethren and friends. Is it not time that deeds of violence should meet their punishment, or shall the murderer escape? Only a few days since we received a note from Bro. Davies, requesting that his paper should be changed from Lewisville to Washington, as he was going to take charge of the Moscow circuit; but, alas! he has fallen the victim of an assassin. Bro. Browning writes:

"We were much shocked on yesterday to learn that the Rev. R. P. Davies, of the Little Rock Conference, had been murdered near Lewisville, Arkansas, on Friday last, by a man named Henry Boyd. Some little dispute had arisen between them in the morning, but had been amicably settled, as Bro. Davies supposed, and he went to Boyd's house and took dinner. After dinner he started home, Boyd accompanying him a short distance, the two conversing in as friendly a manner as they had ever done. Suddenly Boyd dropped behind, drew a pistol and commenced firing. The second shot glanced the arm of Davies, striking his horse in the head and knocking him down. Davies, as he rose from the horse, turned to Boyd, saying, "Don't murder me in cold blood," when he received the third shot in the bowels. Three other shots were fired, but without effect. He then rode off, leaving his victim lying in the road.

"Bro. Davies was soon found and taken to a house near by, where he expired at two o'clock the next morning. He possessed the power of speech until a few minutes before he expired, and related the circumstances of his murder.

"Bro. Davies was a good man, and professed to those around him a willingness to meet death, even in this unexpected form. He leaves a helpless family, with but little worldly sustenance. May God protect them!"—Western Methodist.

THE Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which met in the city of Baltimore on the first of March, unanimously passed the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, This Conference has received information of the death, in the city of Mobile, on the second instant, of Rev. James Osgood Andrew, D. D., senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and who was, from his election and ordination, in May, 1832, until A.D. 1845, a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church; therefore,

Resolved, That we place upon our journal this minute, testifying our appreciation of the character of the deceased Bishop as an able, earnest preacher of the gospel, and that we express our gratitude for the grace which cheered his declining days and gave him victory at the last. Also, that we express our sympathy with the family of the deceased and with the Methodist Episcopal Church South, which has been called to mourn the loss of its venerated senior Bishop.

Resolved, That an attested copy of this preamble and the accompanying resolutions be furnished by the secretary for publication.

H. SLICER.
L. F. MORGAN.
JOHN BEAR.
T. M. EDDY.

A GREAT SAVIOUR NEEDED.—It is said that once, in a company of literary gentlemen, Mr. Webster was asked if he could comprehend how Jesus Christ could be both God and man. "No, sir," he replied, and added: "I should be ashamed to acknowledge him as my Saviour if I could comprehend him. If I could comprehend him he could be no greater than myself. Such is my sense of sin, and consciousness of my inability to save myself, that I feel I need a superhuman Saviour, one so great and glorious that I cannot comprehend him."

IT IS another's fault if he be ungrateful, but it is mine if I do not give. To find one thankful man I will oblige many that are not so.—Seneca.

Our Sunday School Literature.

Mr. Editor: If you can find space for the following statements, condensed from a letter first published in the Southern Christian Advocate, you will do my department an important service. I am in the daily receipt of many letters touching these matters.

1. What about those who now begin the use of these lessons—must they go back to January? I should say, go on with the current series. There is no difficulty in this. Of course it would be better if all had "started abreast," first Sunday in January. But it is not necessary to go back to begin, any more than it is necessary for a new subscriber to the Advocate to read all the back numbers that he may understand your last editorial.

In our colleges nothing is more common than that new students enter a class in the middle of a book—at Cæsar's Bridge-building, or in the oration of Pericles at that. Sunday school children who, on the second Sunday in April, shall study with us the "Beginning of Miracles," of Cana of Galilee, will be better prepared to go on with us, by their previous knowledge of the New Testament, than nine-tenths of college boys are prepared, by previous knowledge of Latin, to begin in the middle of Livy, on the second Monday in April. Indeed, the comparison is not fair, because the gospel teaching is not presented in text book style. Its parables, miracles and discourses are complete in themselves.

Under any system—in the use of the Babel series itself—new scholars will be constantly coming in; but it is not usual to turn back a whole class, or to organize a new one.

Let us see how it works. On the fourth and fifth Sundays in April we shall be engaged upon the study of the great lessons in John iii. We are sorry that those who shall begin with this lesson did not study with us, in January, the story of the Nativity; but this will not in the least hinder their studies upon the discourse delivered to Nicodemus. When in May we shall study the sermon delivered to the solitary auditor—the woman of Samaria—by Jacob's well, we will not be hindered, because the visit of the wise men and the flight into Egypt was considered in February.

I would certainly advise that "the pupils use the lessons always on the day of their date." Again: To relieve any seeming difficulty, I have prepared, in accordance with the plan first published in our general prospectus, for the first Sunday in April, a general review upon the studies of the preceding quarter. This review will give a general idea of what has been gone over. These reviews will be prepared quarterly.

2. Suppose a rainy Sunday—what must be done? Get the next lesson in order—the rain need interfere only with the recitation.

3. What will it do in the country? I answer unhesitatingly, it does do. The rule is, that where there are the fewest facilities these aids are most needed; while—as is true of every agency for doing good—it will be most fruitful where the organization is most thorough.

4. For families destitute of Sunday school privileges. We have many such. Let them take the Sunday School Magazine, the Weekly Visitor and Our Little People, and parents and children, large and small, can study the gospel together at home. Our preachers should see to it that such families are supplied with the "new Sunday school apparatus."

Rev. R. A. Neblett, of the North Mississippi Conference, writes to the Western Methodist that he "has organized seventy-five families, remote from church privileges, into home schools" by placing these appliances in their hands.

5. To the preachers. Help me, as you have done. Bring these matters before your churches. Introduce the Sunday School Magazine, the Visitor and Our Little People, with the Lessons. Induce families that are destitute of Sunday school privileges to try our system. New things need to be advocated—to be explained—to be exhibited—to be pushed. Rev. B. J. Johnson, on the Atlanta circuit—and it is neither rich nor large—has sent for nearly fifty Sunday School Magazines. Trinity church, Atlanta, Georgia, now takes seventy-five, and notifies us that twenty-five more are needed. Why so many? That each teacher may have one, and that the Bible class—the normal school—whence teachers are to come, may be the better prepared for their work.

6. Prices. Take the entire list of Sunday school periodicals published by the book agent, and it is the lowest-priced in the United States.

7. Teachers' Class Book. We have prepared one for our schools—providing for a record of the weekly contribution. Its use may be begun at any time, and it is sold as low as the endowed American Sunday School Union sells one of the same size.

8. The Amaranth. This is the name of our new Sunday school music book. It goes to press next week. It has one hundred and sixty pages, and will be sold for $3.60 per dozen—"reasonably cheap," as the great Northern publishers sell theirs no cheaper. The Amaranth has no songs about "the flag"—no political anthems. I have had the efficient services of one of the masters in this line of things as music editor. It is not a mere compilation, as some suppose. It has a large number of new and choice pieces, composed expressly for our use, that have already stood critical tests. It has more religion in it—because more of the glorious hymns of the church—than any book of the sort I know. Whoever wants for Sunday school singing, something besides the sleigh-bell-jingle style—that has nearly run its course—will not think that Watts and Wesley appear too frequently; and yet we fear that they will think there is too much that is light.

9. Promptness at Nashville. There need be no uneasiness. The March numbers were nearly all mailed by February 16. The April numbers were mailed to the distant Conferences by March 11, and will be mailed to all this week. The May numbers are nearly ready to go to press to-day—March 13—and will be mailed by April 1. Hereafter we shall easily be a month in advance. When it is considered, although the system has only been before the church since December, that we are now supplying nearly seventy thousand children with our Lesson Papers and Our Little People, that we are mailing a proportionate number of Sunday School Magazines, with many thousands of the Sunday School Visitor, in its three forms, besides the other publications of the house, I, knowing the facts, take great pleasure in telling your readers that there has been very little trouble in the matter of receiving our shipments.

10. Thanks. I owe it to a number of presiding elders to thank them for taking full specimens to their quarterly conferences, for explaining, exhorting, canvassing. Results: by turning to the file of letters I can almost track them round their districts by the orders that follow their quarterly conferences. This is my definition of co-operation.

Thanking you, dear brethren, for the words of encouragement you have given me, and the constant aid you have afforded me,

I am, very truly,

Atticus G. Haygood,
Sunday School Secretary.

Nashville, March 13, 1871.

STATE HOUSE GROUNDS.

The Republican of the sixteenth instant contained the following:

The commissioners to select and purchase a location for a new State house and executive mansion, consisting on the part of the Senate of Hon. John Ray, of Onachita, and Hon. C. C. Antoine, of Caddo, and on the part of the House of Messrs. Faulkner, of Caldwell, Stephens, of Jackson, and Barrett, of Orleans, have selected the lower line of the Foucher property, adjoining the grounds of Mr. Edmund Barthe and others, fronting on St. Charles avenue.

The purchase embraces two squares front on St. Charles avenue, extending back five squares, thus giving six hundred feet front and fifteen hundred feet deep. The price paid was $100,000, a warrant being drawn on the State auditor by the commissioners for that sum. The grounds are on the right of St. Charles avenue, going toward Carrollton, and will extend to Breslan street and Fourth street, Greenville.

The commissioners will shortly invite plans and specifications from the architects of this and other cities for the State house and executive mansion.

It is contemplated to establish a public park on the grounds nearly opposite, on the levee side of St. Charles avenue. This location and purchase will have the effect to materially enhance the value of property in the vicinity of the new State house, and will tend to render holders of extreme up-town real estate somewhat jubilant.

Showing Off the Children.—The Congregationalist, speaking of the singing of a little girl of seven on a platform at an anniversary, questions strongly the wisdom of a superintendent who allows it. We are glad to note a growing feeling against the practice of putting young children forward in public. We know scores of children who, if not already spoiled by such display, are in great danger of material and permanent injury.

It is said that the government of Spain has seized in an Aragon church a statue of Nero, which the Roman Catholics have been praying to for generations under the alias of St. Paul.

LETTER FROM MEMPHIS.

Memphis, March 14, 1871.

Mr. Editor: "News from the Churches" is always interesting to the readers of religious papers. We have something good to tell of our churches here. All of them are in a prosperous condition; but the one with which I am best acquainted is the Second street, which has Dr. E. C. Slater for its pastor. One hundred and sixteen were added to this church last year; over one hundred more since Conference. The church, though large, is not sufficient to accommodate all who attend from Sabbath to Sabbath. They have the best class meetings I ever attended. Dr. C. W. Malone, formerly of Columbus, Mississippi, is the best leader whose class meetings I ever attended. They are upon the voluntary principle, and usually occupy but one hour. From seventy-five to one hundred regularly attend every Sabbath afternoon.

In order to give the members an opportunity of becoming better acquainted they have formed "mite societies." They meet at different houses and spend the evening in social intercourse, singing, etc. These meetings, under proper restrictions, will do much toward union of effort in the promotion of the enterprises of the church.

They recently had one grand assemblage, called a "sociable," at the church. The choir discoursed sweet music. The new members were introduced to the older ones, and all spent some time pleasantly in the audience room, after which they repaired to the basement, where long tables, loaded with the good things provided by the ladies, were discussed by all with perfect freedom; after which all retired to their homes, delighted with their "sociable."

REV. MR. MILBURN.

This remarkable man has delivered three lectures in this city: 1. "What a blind man saw in England." This was an instructive and entertaining lecture upon England and the peculiarities of her people. 2. "What a blind man saw in Paris." In this lecture he gave one an insight of Paris, with much information relative to the French people. He showed that "infidel France" was receiving the retribution of her wickedness. 3. His third and last lecture was on Sargent Smith Prentiss, of Mississippi. The largest hall in the city was crowded. He gave an interesting account of the early settlement of Mississippi; the character and habits of the people during the "flush times" in that State. He portrayed the genius of Prentiss in a most masterly manner. Many of the scenes painted by the lecturer excited the deepest interest in the vast audience, who listened with breathless silence or applauded with enthusiastic admiration, for over two hours. The lecture will do much good. He made powerful appeals to the young men to abstain from the intoxicating bowl—to shun the fatal rock upon which Prentiss and so many gifted sons have fallen and been ruined. The "blind preacher" goes to your city to-day, for the purpose of lecturing, where Prentiss lived some years near the close of his eventful life. No doubt vast crowds will flock to hear him who is thought by many to be one of the most remarkable men of the age. Go and hear him for yourself, and if you are not pleased then I shall consider that you do not appreciate him in the Crescent as we do in the Bluff City."

Samuel Watson.

Calvinism.—"In point of doctrine the Calvinistic scheme is the only one which definitely determines who shall be saved and who damned; and there is a thoroughness and positiveness about it, besides, which eminently adapt it for use in a church in which there is to be no longer any doubt about anything."—Christian Union.

A clever jest is as easily digested by a sound Calvinist as by any other healthy man. But if the words above quoted should happen to be taken as a jest upon facts, it would be a serious mistake. Calvinism holds that God "definitely determines who shall be saved and who damned." The system which supposes that that matter depends originally and finally on a human determination is quite the reverse of Calvinism.—Examiner and Chronicle.

Married.

At the residence of Henry S. Doniphan, Esq., on the fifteenth of February, 1871, by Rev. J. H. Stone, Mr. K. G. Holstien to Miss Kate R., only daughter of the late Colonel T. R. S. Doniphan, all of Sicily Island, Louisiana.

John S. Willis, Jr., and Miss Mary Y. Harris were married by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, in Madison county, Mississippi, January 17, 1871.

Charles H. Jones and Miss J. Helen Cross were married by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, in Sharon, Mississippi, January 24, 1871.

William Griffin and Miss Eugenia Brown were married, in Madison county, Mississippi, by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, January 26, 1871.

Pearson Money and Mrs. Harriet J. Muse were married, in Madison county, Mississippi, by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, February 6, 1871.

On the seventh instant, at the residence of the bride's father, near Sylvarena, Smith county, Mississippi, by the Rev. G. W. Boyls, Mr. J. V. Hodges, of Clarke county, Mississippi, to Miss Terrie E. Gowin.

Obituaries.

Died, in New Orleans, on Monday morning, March 6, at half-past two o'clock, Harriet Rugg, a native of Newport, Kentucky, wife of Charles Hoffman, aged forty-five years, nine months and sixteen days.

"She is not dead but sleepeth."—Taken from those who loved her dearly, she has gone to her rest. While with us she was ever a pious and devoted Christian, mother and friend—beloved by all who knew her. Though sickly and feeble through life, and agonizing her last moments, she looked to Jesus, her Master, for help to bear all—for her consolation and comfort. Always true to her duties, she won the affections of all around her, until now the words, "How I do miss her," are uttered by every one.

Farewell, dearest friend and mother. You are only gone a little before us to make our reception the warmer, and our attraction to Christ and his religion the more certain. A few short, fleeting days and we will join you. We can now say:

"Oh! death, where is thy sting?
Oh! grave, where is thy victory?"
The Lord be praised! H.

Matthias Wicker was born in Columbia, South Carolina, October 16, 1789, and died January 12, 1871.

His home for many years has been at Laurel Hill, East Feliciana, but he sickened and died at Manchac, Louisiana, while on a visit to his children. Bro. Wicker joined the Methodist Church in his sixteenth year, but did not profess conversion until he was twenty years of age. He moved to Louisiana in 1818, and has been known always as a consistent Christian and a devoted member of the church. His attachment and partiality to Methodism were often expressed by him, and he was a most worthy exemplification of its doctrines and usages. He possessed a pure heart, and seemed to have a deep and abiding enjoyment of the Master's presence and grace. His last illness was of many weeks' duration, but he suffered patiently, and was wonderfully sustained by the comfort of the Holy Ghost. Expressions like these were frequently upon his lips: "Blessed Saviour!" "O joy inexpressible!" "Glory to God!" "I have trusted his grace for sixty-one years, and I can now trust him through the shadow of death." "I am ready and willing to go home. Eternity is just outside the bed." He retained his mental faculties and power of speech up to the last moment, and his last words, "I am almost gone," were uttered a moment before he fell asleep in Jesus.

Thus has passed away one of the oldest members of the Methodist Church in Louisiana, and one of its purest and best. A consistent life was followed by a peaceful and triumphant death.

L. Parker.

Died, on the twenty-ninth of January, in the town of Franklinton, Louisiana, of typhoid pneumonia, Miss Fannie Boileau, eldest child of Robert and Ellen Babington, aged sixteen years and six months.

Fannie was born and reared in the church. Dedicated to God in infancy by holy baptism, raised at the family altar, trained in the Sabbath school, and led by her own parents, who say to their children, "Follow us as we follow Christ," it is not surprising that she early evinced great reverence and love for God's house, ministry and word, of which she read a portion daily.

She was a most affectionate child, loving her brothers and sisters devoutly. She was quiet and retiring in her manners, and possessed of a peculiar amiability of disposition, which made her the sunbeam at home, and beloved by all who knew her. About two months before her death, when in perfect health, she desired publicly to assume her baptismal vows and take her native right to all the ordinances of the church; but her timidity was such that she resolved to delay it until her mother, then sick at home, was able to be with her to give her to the church, as she had in infancy given her to God. But, alas! in a short time the hand of affliction rested upon her. Her voice failed so soon that she could not be understood, and the mind was wandering; but the heavenly smile that rested upon her countenance evinced that all was well.

Her fond father says: "We deeply feel and mourn our loss, and if any other than Jesus had said, 'Suffer her to come unto me,' we would have said no; but to him who gave her we give her up. Knowing that the separation will only be for a little while, we entertain the lively hope of embracing her in that far better and brighter land. O our dear Fannie has left us still to suffer and toil awhile in our lot. May we be also ready!" She has ceased in the flesh to sing those sweet songs she so much loved, "O happy day," "Jerusalem, my happy home," etc.; but she now sings the song of redemption—the song that angels cannot sing. "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

J. Nicholson.

Mrs. Lucinda Jane Hankinson was born in South Carolina about 1789. Her family name was Farrar, and her father was an active participant in the Revolutionary war in favor of colonial independence. At what time the family came to Mississippi the writer does not know; but early in the second decade of the present century Miss Farrar had become the wife of Mr. Chilion Stiles, and both herself and husband had become members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

About 1818 Mrs. Elizabeth Roach, a wealthy member of our church in Washington, Mississippi, founded a female academy in the town where she lived, and transferred the property to the Mississippi Annual Conference. This was the first seminary of learning of high grade under the control and patronage of Methodist Episcopalians in the Southwest, and in honor of its founder it was incorporated by the Legislature, February 17, 1819, as the Elizabeth Female Academy, and the trustees elected Mr. Stiles its first president. Here our first knowledge of these two well educated, refined and courtly Christians commenced, and there are still a few aged ladies lingering on these mundane shores who received both their literary and religious training under the tutorship of Mr. and Mrs. Stiles. In 1822 Mr. Stiles died at the academy, greatly beloved and mourned by the patronizing community. After his death Mrs. Stiles settled on Bayou Pierre, in Claiborne county, where she had some near relations living. Here, by a long course of industry and well directed economy, she acquired an ample estate.

She was twice married after the death of Mr. Stiles, her last husband being Colonel E. C. Hankinson, who preceded her many years to the tomb. But through her unusually long life of mingled prosperity and adversity she maintained her Christian integrity, and was always esteemed a worthy and reliable member of the church of her early love. In the long ago her house was often the pleasant resting place of her old style of itinerant pastors; but she had outlived her generation of pastors and church members, and was becoming less and less known by the present generation.

She lost her fine estate by the results of the late war, and being too old to commence the struggle of life anew, she made her home with Mr. William Laughlin, of Warren county, whose wife was her granddaughter, where, on the twenty-first of February last, she died, in her eighty-second year, in holy peace and Christian assurance. She was one of a noble race of primitive Mississippi Methodists.

J. G. Jones.

"Where Does Jesus Live?"—To many people the Saviour is very far off—too far, indeed, to bless, or help, or save in time of need. Others have a different experience of Christ with them and Christ in them.

"Where does Jesus live?" asked a missionary once in a mission school.

"Please, sir, he lives in our alley now," said a little boy who had found the Saviour.

The Christian's cup may be brimful of sorrow; but for him the overflowing drop is never added.

$1,000 Reward will be paid by the proprietor of Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext or Golden Medical Discovery for a medicine that will equal it in curing all the diseases for which it is recommended. In the cure of severe and lingering Coughs, Bronchitis and diseases of the lungs it is without an equal. Sold by all druggists.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st. for the week ending March 20, 1871.

A—W M Allen, Alexander & Frost, Alex Agar.

B—J H Brookshier, H Brown, P K Bringley, A J Briggs, J B Baldwin, T S Bidgood, Jas S Brown, Barnes & Wilkinson $12.70, O H Brewster, Horace Bishop, W C Black & Co $5.

C—Lyman Carley, E P Cloudon, R Clegg $2.85, Jas L Cotten, G Coffey, S H Cox $12 C W Campbell, R E Cary $8, J D Cameron, S H Cox $135, T S Coller, H C Clarke $16 88, C W Carter, J H Calloway & Co $103 65.

D—Joel T Daves, R A Davis $25, Robt S Downer, C H Du Bose $1.50, J P Drake $10.10.

E—Geo F Ellis, D G W Ellis $5.

F—T J Fain, Jas M Franklin $2.80, Mrs E T Fleming $3.

G—H M Gillis, Thos Garnett $7, H M Glass $10.

H—D B Hayes, W C Halsip 2 lots $50, A S Helmick, Mrs S E Hardwick $3, A J Harris, S A Hayden $22 50, John P Holmes 75 cts, E H Holbrook $13, S J Hawkins, C Hoover & Co $33, H Heath, E J Hale & Son, S E Halo $13.50.

J—Geo Jackson, S P Jones 75 cts.

L—Jas Leffel & Co.

M—W G Millsaps, McCormick & Lyon, D C Montgomery, J M Mason $3, J W McLaurin, A H Mass $1.50, J F Marshall, J A Monroe $3.85, T H McClendon $4.20.

N—R D Norsworthy, H G Norton & Co Evan Nicholson $2.50, A H Nicholson $2.75.

P—J A Pace, John Pitman, E D Pitts, Putnam & Co, U B Phillips $5.50, G W Pascom $5.

R—Fisher T Rawson, John Ritchie $3, J J A Roach $3.50, J K Randall $19.59.

S—W J Seale $2.80, W W Sharpe & Co, N M Skipworth $9, Tom C Smith, W T J Sullivan, J B Streater $10, J D K Sleight, J W Schemerhorn & Co.

T—H M Truehart, T Tardrew & Co.

U—H Urquhart.

W—W M Wiha, Amicus W Williams $3, J O White $3, J B Walker $15.60.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

READY TO-DAY FROM THE AUTHOR'S Advance Sheets:

MAX KROMER,

A Story of the Siege of Strasbourg in 1870

BY THE AUTHOR OF

"Jessica," "Nelly's Dark Days," Etc.

16mo. Beautifully bound, $1.

Will take the first place among the charming writer's very popular stories.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR.

NELLY'S DARK DAYS.

16mo. Beautifully bound, 75 cents.

Over 20,000 copies of NELLY'S DARK DAYS were sold in England the first week of its publication.

DODD & MEAD, Publishers,
mh23 1t 762 Broadway, N. Y.

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS.

THESE GINS are so constructed that hard substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the Inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing. They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 1t Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK.

New Orleans, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

Treasury Department,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

Whereas, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank," in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.

No. 1773. fe11 tf

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

The Child's Corner.

THE MOON-CRADLE.

Mamma, how pretty the moon looks to-night;
She was never so smiling before;
Her two little horns are so sharp and so bright—
I hope they'll not grow any more.

If I was up there with you and my friends
I'd rock in't so nicely, you'd see;
I'd sit in the middle and hold to both ends:
O what a brigot cradle 'twould be!

I'd call to the stars to keep out my way,
Else I'd rock over their toes,
And there I would rock till the dawn of the day,
And see where the pretty moon goes.

The Chicago Magazine.

WAS IT CHANCE?

BY MRS. M. WYNKOOP.

Mary Hepworth, a little girl seven years old, with fair complexion, rosy cheeks, sweet blue eyes and beautiful dark brown hair, that hung in charming ringlets over her dimpled shoulders, was just as sweet as she was pretty—indeed, it would be hard to find as loving, as generous and as unselfish a little child as Mary. She delighted in wandering among the fields and woods around her country home, and she would often return, after one or two hours' absence, with her hands filled with sweet wildwood flowers. She did not seem to know the meaning of the word fear. She believed that the good Father of all made all things, and kept all things in his loving care, and she trusted in him in a way that was delightful to a Christian, but very hard to understand by those who were worldly-minded, and trusted to their own knowledge and skill in earthly matters.

Near the house where Mary lived ran a beautiful river, very clear—so clear that you could see the pebbles which lay upon the bottom. She loved to stand by that river, and watch the fish as they sported and played in their native element. One bright summer day she wended her way, as usual, down to the stream, singing as she went a hymn she had learned in the Sunday school. Her voice rang out clear and sweet, and filled the air with melody.

On a log near the river sat a man, quite young, but with a look of utter hopelessness on his countenance. He viewed the clear waters with a look that said as plainly as if he had spoken the words aloud: "In these cool waters I could find rest and peace forever. Why should I not? Earth holds nothing for me. Friends and money have I none. What have I worth living for? No one would extend to me the hand of welcome; no one would say: 'I am glad to see you.' Why, then, should I cumber the earth? I will leap into this river and end my misery and my life. But hark! what sweet voice is that?—and that sweet little creature; is she an angel in disguise?"

Mary did not at first observe the stranger, and walked on, still singing until she was within a few feet of him. Then her eyes fell upon him. With her accustomed fearlessness and frankness, she addressed him with: "Good morning, sir." Then, as children instinctively do, she noticed the sadness in his countenance, and in her childish way offered her sympathy. "Will you have some flowers?" she said, offering him a handful of sweet wood violets.

He took them mechanically, saying: "Thank you."

After a few moments' silence she inquired: "Don't you love to see the fishes play? See how they make the water sparkle. Look at that one; it shines like gold."

"You enjoy it very much, do you not?" he said, as his features relaxed into something like a smile.

"Oh! yes, sir," she said; "I love everything—the fishes and the birds and the flowers and everything that God has made."

"Do you love wicked men?" he inquired.

"God loves them," she replied, "and Jesus loves them, and he died to save them!"

He had heard this before, heard it from the lips of his mother, who had been dead many years, but he had forgotten it, and as the old memories came up at the words of this sweet little girl, his own childhood came back with irresistible force.

"Child," he said, "did God send you here?"

"I do not know," she answered, in her sweet simplicity. "Did you want some flowers? Perhaps God told me to bring you some. I don't know."

The man covered his face with his hands, and for a short time wept bitterly, the child looking at him wonderingly. He uncovered his face, and smiling through his tears, said to Mary:

"You are one of God's good angels, who has been sent to bring me hope and comfort." Then taking a ring from his finger, he gave it to her, saying: "Keep this, and let me take yours, and some time, if I live, I will bring you yours back, and you can give me mine."

When Mary reached home she told her mother of the sad looking stranger who had exchanged rings, and the mother related the circumstance to her husband; but the stranger was no more seen or heard of, until that very day five years afterward. Mary, walking down to the river, observed a well dressed gentleman seated upon the same log on which she had found the sad-eyed stranger five years before.

He saluted her with: "Good morning, Miss. Have I passed from your recollection?"

"I think," she replied, "I have seen you before, but I cannot tell where."

"Do you know this ring?" he asked.

"Oh! yes," she replied, "I remember now. I am glad to see you looking so well and so happy."

"Thank you," he answered. "I came here because I thought I should probably find you at this place; and now may I see your parents?"

"Oh! yes," replied Mary; "I know they will be glad to see you, for I remember they were very much interested in you. Come to the house; I will introduce you. What name shall I give?"

He told her his name was Eustace Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Hopworth expressed themselves glad to meet him. After the preliminaries of an introduction were concluded, Eustace said:

"My father and mother both died when I was a child; I can just remember them. They left me a small patrimony, the interest of which was to educate and keep me until I became of age, when I was to have the entire control of it. The guardian to whose care I was intrusted fed me and clothed me well, and sent me to school, and in this he imagined consisted all his duty. I was at liberty to spend my leisure hours where I pleased and how I pleased, as long as I did not transgress the bounds of propriety and decency. When I became of age my guardian paid over to me the money my father had left me. Having now no one to control me, I became the dupe of sharpers and gamblers, and the evening before your daughter found me at the river I staked the last dollar I had at the card table and lost it. Money and reputation and friends being all gone, I thought I had nothing more to live for, and had determined upon committing suicide by drowning myself in the river, when your little daughter presented herself to my vision, and by her sweet words and her flowers saved me from a suicide's grave. The flowers I dried, and have them still, and this small ring I should like to keep, if you have no objection."

They assured him they had none. They were very glad their little Mary had done him such good service.

"When I left the river," resumed Eustace, "I determined that I would, by the help of God, yet become an honorable man. I went to the store of Mr. Harding, in the next town, and requested work, telling him that I would do anything—be their errand boy, if they wished, until they could give me something better. I took that situation, and at the end of six months I received the appointment of junior clerk. I have been promoted three times, and now I am head clerk in that establishment. I feel that, under God, I owe all this to your daughter, and, if you would not think me presuming, I would like to ask one more favor of you."

"I shall be happy to grant it if it is in my power," replied Mr. Hepworth.

"I would like," said Mr. Barlow, "a photograph of Mary as she appeared five years ago."

"I shall be very glad to furnish you with one," replied Mr. Hepworth, "as we have several that were taken about that time."

At the hour of family worship that evening Mr. Hepworth selected for his reading that chapter in which these words occur: "A little child shall lead them."—Methodist.

An inquiry has been pursued in English lunatic asylums in regard to the bones of patients, which seem to be more easily broken than in other persons. An examination of twenty patients who died showed that in nine cases the bones, especially of the chest, were brittle and hardly stronger than card-board. The indications seemed to point to the conclusion that a diseased brain causes a wasting of that phosphatic material to which bones owe their wonderful strength in the healthy condition. We hope this is not a whitewashing report, got up to exculpate the "keepers" in some of the poor-houses and private madhouses of England, who have a habit of jumping up and down on the chests of intractable patients, and sometimes break their ribs.—Independent.

Whosoever is afraid of submitting any question, civil or religious, to the test of free discussion, is more in love with his own opinion than with truth.

The Farm and Garden.

WORK FOR THE MONTH.

Much of the land for cotton should have the foundation of bed made in this month. If a center furrow be run the foundation will be three furrows; if no central furrow, then two furrows—lapped on water furrow.

Just here we beg to say, on land that admits water to pass away, either through or under plowed earth, clay subsoil, we believe is benefited by the subsoil plow, but we do not say a cotton crop is benefited; the corn crop is. The best crops we ever made was when we had firm earth under the plant for tap-root to enter, and we did for years lap furrow on old water furrow. We never tried to follow the plow with subsoil, but we would if we had a farm now, yet not under the plant.

If the earth is in good condition we would, by all means, have all corn land thoroughly plowed and corn planted early in March, say latitude thirty-two degrees. We have planted corn in the middle of February, and had it cut down twice, but it made good corn; fodder was no object to us.

Have land broken up as planted, and we say use all the rough and fresh manure to be turned under.

If land is plowed early, while light frosts are falling, many eggs of insects are destroyed.

We have planted many a fruit tree in this month, and have had some two thousand cabbage plants set out before the tenth. The earlier plants can be set, we were less troubled with the cut worm. One year we set out several thousand in January and February, and lost scarcely a plant; some in April required a renewal every few days. We fancied making a thick lob-lolly of cow dung, well rotted for two or three weeks in the water and some soot; this was thick enough to barely pour; then the roots and stems of plants dipped in had the virtue of keeping cut worms away.

In 1849 we began to plant cotton on the twenty-ninth of March, and many will remember the snow of the sixteenth of April, when the thermometer stood at thirty-two degrees, and cotton seed scarce. We had been guilty of saving and planting two-year-old seed, and we had to give many a bushel away.

On the seventeenth, note book says: "A general complaint of cotton killed, and much corn killed." "My cotton safe, and corn badly nipped." Was two-year-old seed a cause? Or was it the early planting? Corn had to be planted over, by transplanting the good corn, for the replant was taken by the cut worm; the replant being between the furrow planted rows, the nipping so severe we were uneasy. We at last had to use the first corn, by taking from around field, some one hundred acres in the field; our estimate was near two-thirds in center of field; was transplanted entire—not a stalk left—cold and cut worm took it.—Southern Farmer.

Poor Potatoes made Palatable.—Half the people who eat potatoes at dinner to-day will find them cutting like a piece of bar soap, and not much more agreeable to the taste. The fault, according to a lady writer in the Household, is not in the tubers but in the cook. She says she never has any but dry, mealy potatoes on her table, and this is her modus operandi of preparation:

"If old, I pare and let them remain in cold water several hours. When time to cook I place them in a kettle of boiling water 'salt as brine.' When they are boiled sufficiently I turn off the water and set the kettle on the fire till the steam has all dried out. Prepared in this way, old potatoes are delicious and wholesome. New potatoes need not be pared, nor need they remain in cold water. Wash them thoroughly, and if there are any rough places cut them off. I place them in boiling salted water, and when done always pour the water off and place them over the fire again."

The Fit of Harness.—Properly constructed harness is as essential to the comfort of a horse as easy clothes are necessary to the comfort of a man. If harness is not well fitted to the form the veins are compressed, circulation is retarded and disease ensues. When in motion the horse regulates his center of gravity by using his head and neck. The check-rein is therefore inhuman and injurious.

Charcoal for Hogs.—Since the publication of Mr. Stephenson's letter, in the December number, we have received several communications commendatory of charcoal for hogs. One writer, living near Coffeeville, Mississippi, says: "I make it a constant practice to burn charcoal for my hogs. At first it is somewhat difficult to learn them to eat it; but by breaking it up into small pieces, and mixing with shelled corn in the trough, that is overcome. I have always been a large hog raiser, and have never had cholera among my stock but once, and that was when I neglected to supply them with coal. As soon as possible I again furnished them, and those that were suffering recovered, and no new cases occurred. My neighbors who do not use coal have cholera constantly. I believe that with a good supply of coal the hogs fatten much faster with the same amount of food."—Practical Planter.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

Terms—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
New Orleans.
se10 1y

Soule's
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
The Commercial Athenæum of the South,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
STONY BUILDING,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address
GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

Florence Wesleyan University,
Florence, Alabama.
W. H. Anderson, D. D., President.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on Wednesday, September 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Amberson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood.
GEO. W. FOSTER,
jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

Homer College.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Cobb, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. Nicholson, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. Calhoun, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address
m20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

Southern University,
Greensboro, Alabama.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo. $16 to	20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.
an13 O. F. CASEY.

Centenary College of Louisiana.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of
Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s
Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the
Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,
COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES
Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON
OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

These are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Arrow Tie.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks,
Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe5 1y

The Bottoms Horse Power Gin Gear.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.
fy2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

Dr. N. P. Godfrey,
DENTIST,
May be found during business hours at
No. 183 Canal Street,
The third door west of Christ Church.
ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR
A Purely Vegetable Compound
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF
RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

We take pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these diseases. But experience has demonstrated the fact that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. Let all those, then, who are suffering from these complaints send for a bottle of JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR, and give it a trial. It is a simple preparation of pure vegetable substances, and can do no harm, whereas my unparalleled success in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bailey, would I refer those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies me in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and further information address
N. JENKINS,
100 Baronne Street, New Orleans.
fe18 1y

Braces and Trusses.—Dr. John Angell informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of Jenning's Trusses, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, physical weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic rheumatism, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, Rupture, Prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy axilla are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often effect cures where medicine can only mitigate, and more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and others. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be made under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms moderate. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet. It is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 Julia Street, near Camp, New Orleans. jel1

Notice.....NOT
DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy
FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of disease of the skin, and a great variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest Rash to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Blotches, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Mouth Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancer, all yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Salve
FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND Piles.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at Perring's Patent Medicine Depot, corner Chartres and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 St. Charles Street, the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.
je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY case of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that
DE BING'S PILE REMEDY
fails to cure. It is prepared expressly for the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juice of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for CONSUMPTION,
Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and complaints of the Urinary Organs in male or female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which all generally terminate in Consumptive decay. It purifies and enriches the blood, the life of the glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular fibre. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

Laboratory—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy4

Rupture Cured.

With an experience of more than fifteen years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee a more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. St. C. FERRISS, office No. 4 St. Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. my1

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Ju
Race, Foster & E. T. Merrick,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

654 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, colcbrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and extended knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

FELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $1. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $15. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $15

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.
Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.
Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. Animals of all Climates. II. National flags.
Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.
Address
ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
my21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

P. H. SUTTON. J. H. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

96 .....COMMON STREET 186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

W. H. BEAUMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

77 .....CARONDELET STREET.....77

ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

60.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By Charles S. Venables, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DeVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, Etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LeCONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. Johnston, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

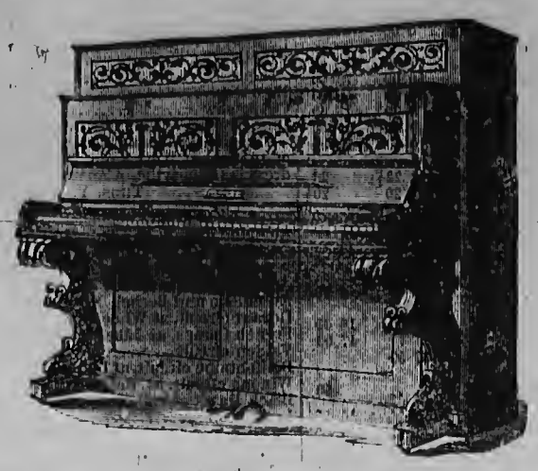
ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. au12 1y

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

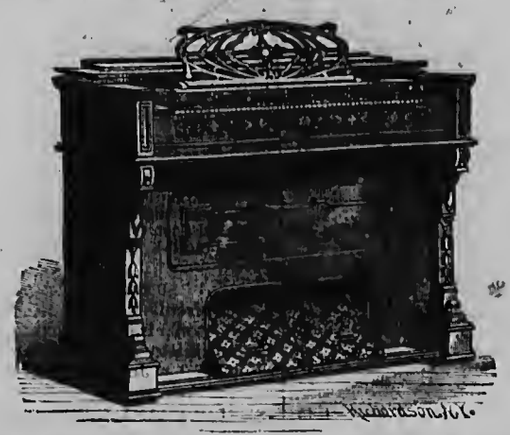


SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
fe23 1y Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 590 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by
de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS.

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
JAN	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
FEB				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28
M'H				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
APR							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
MY		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
J'E.					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
JU.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
AU.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
SEP						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
OCT	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
NOV				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
DEC						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Scientific.

The Sahara.—There is good reason for believing that the great African desert of Sahara once formed a part of the Atlantic ocean. Traces of ancient sea beaches have been found near the northern margin of the desert, and the common cockle is found living in some of the salt lakes.

New Railroad Tunnel.—An engineer in the employ of the Turkish government has planned a railway tunnel made in sections, to be submerged thirty-four feet below the surface of the water, and moored to the bottom by chain cables. He proposes to sink it across the Bosphorus, and thus connect Europe and Asia by railway.

Revising Geology.—In reviewing the general results of deep sea dredging on both sides of the Atlantic, Nature asserts that there are weighty reasons for supposing that cretaceous deposits have been going on steadily ever since the time when that formation has been supposed by geologists to have been begun and ended. Many organisms also, which were supposed to be long since extinct, have come to light in the deep sea in still active life. Much past geological reasoning will therefore have to undergo careful revision.

Natural History of the Sea.—A paper on Deep Sea Soundings, read before the Royal Society by Mr. Andrews, contains a few interesting particulars of marine natural history, and of what may be called the ocean topography of the west of Ireland. Some idea of the labor involved in a survey of the bottom of the sea may be inferred from the statement that twenty-three thousand casts of the lead were made in surveying two hundred and twenty square miles on the coast of Donegal. On an average thirty-five casts to the square mile were made in deep water, and six hundred and twenty-five to the mile in the ten fathoms' depth. Soundings equally careful and numerous have been made on the coast of Waterford and Wexford, and it might have been supposed that after such a close examination the bottom was fully known. Yet, since those soundings were taken, a large and valuable oyster bed has been discovered by a boat party searching for a gold watch that had dropped overboard.

The Uses of Salt.—Salt not only exerts an important influence upon mankind, but is indispensable to their existence. It enters into the constitution of the blood, which contains four one-thousandths of its weight of salt. Its absence from our food would inevitably result in death. It is an important condiment, as well as a preservative. Meat, fish, vegetables, butter and other provisions are preserved by it from spoiling, so that they may be kept for a long time. By its use in the preservation of meat the development of navigation has been greatly promoted, and it thus exerts a most beneficial influence upon civilization. It is necessary to vegetable, as well as to animal growth; it is therefore employed as a fertilizer. In chemical manufactures vast quantities are used for the preparation of hydrochloric acid, chlorine, bleaching powders, sal-ammoniac and many other products. Salt forms indirectly the material for the making of soap and glass. Besides, it serves in tanning, for glazing pottery, for the extraction of silver and copper from their ores, for the preparation of mixtures for producing cold, and for many other purposes. The extent and importance of the uses of salt can scarcely be better described than in the words of Dr. Bolley, the eminent Swiss chemist, lately deceased: "We awake in the morning; the linen which we put on betrays by its whiteness that it has been bleached by the chlorine derived from salt; the shoes with which we cover our feet required salt in the hands of the tanner; in the soap that we use for the toilet we seize a transformed piece of salt; the glass which we bring to the mouth hides the chief ingredient of salt; from the crude ore, by means of salt, was produced the bright white metal of the teaspoon, which is so highly esteemed by the world; the tea kettle is soldered with borax, which holds soda, produced from salt. The milk before us contains salt; the butter has been preserved by it perhaps for months; the bread betrays to the palate that the dough has been mixed with salt; we grasp the paper; it required the application of chlorine from salt in order to please us by its whiteness. The clean spectacles through which we see are partly composed of what once was salt. A visit is announced; a patient wishes to consult us; he enters, and, seeking scientific aid, we reflect upon the remedies at our command, and commence to write. Out of ten medicines we find that five of them owe their origin, either by their composition or the mode of their preparation, to salt. Who is able to forget for a moment this ever present Proteus that appears in a thousand forms?

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has exhibited only a moderate degree of animation since our last issue. Sugar has been in rather better demand, but, owing to scant supplies, the better qualities have ruled more in favor of sellers. This remark applies also to molasses. Flour has hardly maintained its previous position, and most other articles of Western produce have been quiet at about previous rates.

Our accounts from the country indicate that planters have been much retarded in their preparations for planting by recent rains, and are manifestly behind hand. This applies to both sugar and cotton.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the seventeenth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	17,495
Lake.....	42
Arkansas.....	1,528
Mobile.....	516
Texas.....	215
Total.....	19,796

On Saturday prices were completely demoralized by the news, and the movement was checked by a number of orders being cancelled, the closing rates showing a net decline of ⅛ to ¼c., and quotations being nominal at 11⅝ to 11⅞c. for good ordinary, 13 to 13¾c. for low middling, and 14⅜ to 14½c. for middling, while the sales were confined to 2,500 bales, which is the smallest business since the market finally opened in the fall. On Monday factors were indisposed at the opening to submit to the previous reduction and contended for firmer prices, but were soon compelled to give way, and for the rest of the day the figures paid exhibited increased irregularity, with a continued tendency in favor of buyers, closing at a further decline of ⅛ to ¼c., good ordinary being quoted at 11½ to 11¾c., low middling at 14⅛ to 14⅜c., with a leaning to inside rates. The sales embraced 7,200 bales. On Tuesday the market opened with a good demand, and the supply being fair, especially of the medium and lower grades, the movement became quite active, resulting in sales of 12,700 bales. Prices were generally steadier, and in many cases factors realized figures ⅛ to ¼c. higher than they could have obtained on Monday. Strict good ordinary, for example, sold as high as 10½c., average good ordinary at 11⅝ and 11¾c., strong middling at 14½c., and barely strict middling at 14⅝c. An unusually large portion of the business was composed of good ordinary and ordinary, which went off much more freely than for some time past.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 22,400 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,133,726 bales, against 906,749 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 838,221 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 700,401 bales to Great Britain, 171,080 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 215,079 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary.....	9½ to 10¼
Good ordinary.....	11⅜ to 11⅝
Low middling.....	12⅞ to 13⅜
Middling.....	14¼ to 14⅜
Strict middling.....	14⅜ to 14⅝

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.		20,690
Arrived past three days..	19,796
Arrived previously.....	1,177,915	1,197,711
		1,218,407
Exported past three days.	29,260
Exported previously.....	905,138
Burned.....	950	935,348
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		283,059

SUGAR.—A good demand and firm market have prevailed since our last review, with a scarcity of the better descriptions, and prices ruling with an upward tendency. The supplies on Saturday and Monday were mostly sold at 4¾ to 5¾c. per pound for inferior, 6 to 6½c. for common, 7 to 7½c. for good common, 7¾ to 8c. for fair, 8¼ to 8½c. for good fair, 8¾ to 9c. for fully fair, 9⅛ to 9½c. for prime, 9¾ to 10c. for strictly prime, 10½ to 11c. for choice, 11 to 12c. for yellow clarified, and 12 to 13c. for white.

MOLASSES.—The supplies on Saturday and Monday were sold at 20 to 25c. for inferior and fermenting, 35 to 40c. for good fermenting, 42½ to 45c. for prime fermenting, and 45 to 48c. for plantation reboiled; city refinery reboiled is selling at 30 to 60c., as in quality; golden syrup, 90c. to $1.

BACON.—On Saturday 50 casks clear sides sold at 12⅛ to 12¼c., 17 sugar hogsheads shoulders at 8¾c., 25 tierces sugar-cured hams at 16c., and 10 choice do. at 17½c. per pound.

LARD.—The market continues dull, but prices are unchanged.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111 to 111¼.

American silver half dollars, 108 to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2⅜ to 2⅝ per cent. premium in gold.

The sales of bonds include $25,000 new City seven per cents on Saturday at 72¾; and $1,000 do. on Monday at 72⅝.

$750 Fiscal Agency (December interest) were reported on Monday at 93½, and $2,000 at 95, and a small amount of 7-30 certificates at 94.

We hear of no round sales of warrants except $6,000 new State on Tuesday at 65. Some of the dealers reported counter-buying rates for new Metropolitan Police at 97½, and selling at 98 to 98¼.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 10 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 21, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head.....	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross.....	7 to 8c
Sheep, first quality, per head.....	$0 to 7
Sheep, second quality, per head...	4 to 5
Sheep, third quality, per head....	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head.....	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head.....	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves.....	to 80
Calves, per head.....	3 to 10
Yearlings, per head.....	5 to 12

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers.....	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps.....	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth.....	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding.....	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking.....	40 00	50 00
Shovels.....	8 00	10 00
Spades.....	9 00	17 00
Axes.....	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky.....	22½	23
East India.....	20	20½
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky.....	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs.....	1 40	.. ..
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot.....	5 00	.. ..
Crackers.....	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake.....	8 00	10 00
English fire.....	.. ..	47 00
American fire.....	37 50	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford.....	.. ..	50
Tallow.....	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine.....	.. ..	.. ..
Star.....	12	.. ..
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1.....	38	55
Sweet and spiced.....	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western.....	16 00	17 00
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel.....	11 00	.. ..
Anthracite.....	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl.....	75	.. ..
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency).....	25	26
Java.....	26	28
Cordova.....	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'.....	30	33
Sheathing.....	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts.....	33	35
Yellow metal.....	25	20
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla.....	22	23
Tarred, American.....	.. ..	21
Russia.....	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl.....	3 45	3 50
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton.....	12 00	.. ..
In sacks.....	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y.....	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo...	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico.....	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb.....	1 75	1 85
Madder.....	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western.....	18	20
Feathers, ₩ lb.....	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod.....	1 40	1 45
Herrings.....	60	85
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl....	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2.....	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3.....	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb.....	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra.....	6 50	6 75
Superfine.....	6 00	6 12½
Fine.....	6 00	.. ..
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes.....	12	13
Figs, drum.....	14	18
Dried apples.....	5	5½
Currants, new.....	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell.....	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box.....	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer.....	2 90	3 00
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box..	.. ..	.. ..
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box..	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M.....	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10.....	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12.....	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18.....	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats.....	65	68
Corn, shelled.....	70	72
Beans, ₩ bbl.....	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg.....	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag.....	10½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western.....	20 00	28 50
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint.....	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint.....	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto....	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted.....	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter.	8½	14
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig.....	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₩ lb.....	4	5
English.....	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted.....	7	8
Hoop.....	5½	8
Sheet.....	5	8½
Boiler.....	7½	8
Nail rods.....	10	12½
Cotton ties.....	5	5½
Castings, American.....	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western.....	1 75	2 50
Shell lime.....	1 75	.. ..
Rockland, etc.....	2 25	2 50
Cement.....	2 95	3 25
Plaster Paris.....	3 50	3 75
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine.....	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress.....	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber.....	.. ..	.. ..
Flour'g and ceil'g, dressed.	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough..	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed..	18 00	.. ..
Weatherboards, rough....	10 00	17 00
Scantling.....	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₩ M.....	4 25	4 50
Laths.....	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba.....	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country.....	.. ..	.. ..
Black country.....	6	6½
Select water-rotted.....	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d.....	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German.....	14	16
Wrought, English.....	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl.....	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl.....	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1.....	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2.....	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3.....	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gal.	60	85
Varnish, bright.....	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon.....	1 17½	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels.....	28	29
Coal oil, in cases.....	30	35
Linseed, raw.....	95	1 10
Sperm.....	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined.....	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude.....	48	50
Cotton seed, refined.....	58	72
Castor.....	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon.....	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated.....	28 00	.. ..
C. S., undecorticated.....	.. ..	25 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime.....	18 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen...	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess.....	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, prime mess.....	23 00	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, canvassed.....	15	15½
Shoulders.....	16	16½
Green shoulders.....	14	15
Lard, prime, in tierces...	7½	8
Butter, Northern.....	12½	13
Butter, Western.....	25	44
Cheese, American.....	12½	30
Potatoes, ₩ bbl.....	16	17
Onions.....	3 50	4 50
Apples.....	5 00	7 00
Cabbages, ₩ crate.....	10 00	12 00
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana.....	6	8½
India, (gold, in bond)....	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina.....	8½	9½
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white.....	13½	14
Havana, yellow.....	10	11½
Havana, brown.....	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point.....	Mar.	18, 19
Columbus.....	Apr.	8, 9
Columbus circuit.....		15, 16
Vinton.....		22, 23
Athens.....		29, 30
Houston.....	May	13, 14
Chickasaw.....		20, 21
Line Creek.....		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove..	Mar.	25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Milldale.....	Apr.	1, 2
Atala circuit, at Spring Dale.....		8, 9
Kosciusko and Bethel, Kosciusko		15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling.....		22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill...		29, 30
Valden circuit.....	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon..		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda.....		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emdry...		27, 28
Lexington.....		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Clinton station.....	Mar.	25, 26
Buffalo.....	Apr.	1, 2
East Feliciana, at Pinegrove.....		8, 9
Woodville station.....		15, 18
Jackson and Plains, at Pipkin's chapel.....		22, 23
Bayou Sara, at Bayou Sara.....		29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater.	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon.....		19, 20
Meadville.....		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian.....	Apr.	1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba.....		8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope.....		22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union.....		29, 30
Wayno.....	May	6, 7
Clark.....		13, 14
Paulding.....		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion.....		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night.....		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Arcola circuit.....	Mar.	25, 26
Livingston circuit.....	Apr.	1, 2
Bogue Chitto circuit.....		8, 9

JOS. NICHOLSON, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mansfield circuit, at Providence	Apr.	29, 30
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower.	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel.....		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship.....		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit.....		27, 28
Shreveport station.....	June	3, 4
Anacoco.....		10, 11
Springville circuit.....		18, 19

The salaries of our preachers have been fixed by the first Quarterly Conferences, one-half of which will become due at the time of the second Quarterly Meetings. We appeal to the churches, and especially to the stewards, to be prepared to meet these claims by that time. We speak what we do know when we say that it is absolutely necessary, for the comfort of the preachers and for the good of the cause, for this to be done. True, money may be scarce; but when families supply themselves with provisions, a little extra will be sufficient to supply the parsonage, and that will be equivalent to money for the preacher.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek et., at Spring Creek.	Mar.	18, 19
Rapides circuit, at Palestine.....		25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta.....	Apr.	1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville.....		8, 9
Columbia circuit.....		15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise.....		22, 23

The official members of Calcasieu circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26.

F. WHITE, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

Lake Bistenean, at Kennon's chapel.....	Mar.	18, 19
Mt. Lebanon, at Mt. Lebanon		25, 26
Mt. Lebanon colored ct....		25, 26
Spurta, at Sparta.....	Apr.	1, 2
Louisville.....		8, 9

S. S. SCOTT.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Franklin and Patterson ville	Mar.	18, 19
Calcasieu Pass.....		25, 26
New Iberia.....	Apr.	1, 2
Plaquemine Brulee.....		15, 16

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.,
Vermillionville, La.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DISTRICT.

Lake Providence circuit...	Mar.	18, 19
Richland circuit.....		25, 26
Bastrop circuit.....	Apr.	1, 2
Lind Grove circuit.....		7, 8

B. F. ALEXANDER, P. E.,
Waterproof, La.

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL

AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.

Nearly Doubles Crops.

GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:

E. H. MURFEE,

14 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de5 5m

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.

PLYMOUTH, MASS.,
JANUARY 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb, Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds, prepaid by mail, with directions for culture. Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds; Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc.; Grass Seeds; Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale List to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

B. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 2m

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.
fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

7 no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette. mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Bean, McGlunis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

J. H. RUSE AND

G. F. F. THOMPSON,

Attorneys and Counselors at Law,

NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,

fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baqnie.	Julius Valrin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hey.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.

Henry V. Ogden. fe11 0m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe4 8m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 1f

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING,

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe1 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,
fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhotoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple, concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book.....	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic.....	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic...	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic...	91 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic.....	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra.....	1 50
New University Algebra.....	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry...	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it can have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

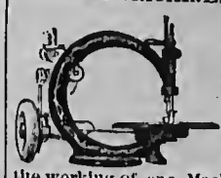
T. MORONEY,
New Orleans,

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 1f

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.



The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

H. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand

M. S. HEDRICK, Proprietor,
159 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.

Branch Office, 156 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.

Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6m

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions, and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1871. NO. 11.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

CHEYENNE, March 22.—At the district court, which met here yesterday, there were four ladies on the jury. An Indian was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged.

NORTH PLATTE, March 22.—A party of citizens after wood, twenty miles south of here, came in last evening and reported the appearance of fifty or sixty Indians around their camp. The Indians having set fire to the prairie around, the citizens made a hasty retreat for home, leaving their wood. No shots were fired by either party.

The Indians have a large number of skins which they are anxious to come here to trade, but are not permitted to do so.

On the twelfth instant nineteen head of horses were taken by the Indians one mile west of here, only three of which were recovered.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 22.—The high court of impeachment, sitting for the trial of W. W. Holden, Governor of North Carolina, voted today on the eight articles of impeachment submitted by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives of North Carolina, and passed by that body, with the following result:

A two-thirds vote was required to convict; forty-nine members present.

Not guilty on the first article—ayes 30, nays 19; not guilty on the second article—ayes 32, nays 17; guilty on the third article—ayes 37, nays 12; guilty on the fourth article—ayes 33, nays 16; guilty on the fifth article—ayes 40, nays 9; guilty on the sixth article—ayes 41, nays 8; guilty on the seventh article—ayes 36, nays 13; guilty on the eighth article—ayes 36, nays 13.

An order was then passed removing Governor Holden from office and disqualifying him from holding any office of power or profit in the State. On the order the vote stood—ayes 36, nays 13.

All Senators were present except one. The political complexion of the Senate is thirty-six Conservatives and fourteen Republicans. One Republican was absent—Mr. Flythe, of Northampton.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The following message was sent by the President to Congress to-day:

A condition of affairs now exists in some of the States of the Union, rendering life and property insecure, and the carrying of mails and the collection of the revenue dangerous. The proof that such a condition of affairs exists in some localities is now before the Senate, for that power to correct these evils, which is beyond the power of the State authorities.

I do not doubt that the power of the executive of the United States, acting within the limits of existing laws, is sufficient for the present emergency, but it is not clear; therefore I urgently recommend such legislation as in the judgment of Congress shall effectually secure life, liberty and property, and the enforcement of the law in all parts of the United States. It may be expedient to provide that such law as shall be passed in pursuance of this recommendation shall expire at the end of the next session of Congress. There is no other subject on which I would recommend legislation during the present session.

U. S. GRANT.

The President, Secretaries Boutwell and Robeson spent most of the day in the capitol.

C. H. Huber was nominated appraiser of merchandise for Louisville.

The following nominations were confirmed by the Senate: John W. Guney, collector of customs, Philadelphia, and Jennings, assessor of third Alabama district.

GALVESTON, March 23.—The latest frontier advices represent that the northern Indians continue to assemble near the reserve. The settlers are much alarmed. A general attack is feared.

War is regarded as inevitable.

There are hundreds of cases of smallpox at Brownsville, and it is increasing.

JACKSON, March 23.—The reported Ku-Klux outrages in the northeastern part of the State are greatly exaggerated. It is rumored that Hughes, a school teacher, was whipped, though not severely, near Aberdeen, by unknown parties, for social equality with negroes. Luey, the mayer, will not flee that city from Ku-Klux, but from the grand jury for malfeasance in office.

Governor Alcorn is making many removals of dishonest and corrupt officials. Notwithstanding his official telegram to the War Department at Washington, saying that troops were not needed, the lower branch of the Legislature passed a resolution yesterday asking for them.

The Meridian investigation is proceeding. Startling developments of incendiary schemes of the negro rioters and their leaders are being made. All is quiet there at present.

The Red river and Texas railroad last night elected George W. Cochrane, president; Louis Frazier, treasurer; F. H. Whipple, secretary. The capital stock of this company is $5,000,000. The Mississippi terminus is at the month of Red river. The charter is very liberal, exempting it from State, county and municipal taxation for thirty years, with land grants.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The President issued a proclamation today. After quoting the laws giving him authority, and stating he has received information that a combination of armed men, unauthorized by law, and disturbing the peace and safety of the citizens of South Carolina, and committing acts of violence which render the power of the State inadequate, and the Governor of South Carolina having asked for a military force of the United States adequate to protect South Carolina and the citizens thereof against domestic violence and to enforce the laws, the proclamation concludes: Now therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President, command the persons comprising the unlawful combinations aforesaid to disperse and retire peacefully to their respective homes within twenty days from this date.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Arkansas Senate defeated the House memorial for the removal of all political disabilities by a vote of five to eleven, Clayton's Senators voting nay.

The Mississippi Legislature has appointed a special committee to investigate the loan of $200,000 of the Chickasaw county school fund to the Mobile and Ohio railroad.

The President's message of yesterday, which will probably prolong the session a month and secure some kind of Ku-Klux legislation, was concocted by the President, Secretaries Boutwell, Robeson, Senators Wilson, Morton, Pomeroy and Chandler, and Representatives Maynard and Mercur. These personages had been in consultation two hours in the President's room in the capitol when the message issued.

BOSTON, March 25.—John Tapham, aged ninety years, and president and treasurer of the American Tract Society for forty years, is dead.

RICHMOND, March 25.—Charles Friend, a prominent citizen of Prince George county, living near Petersburg, was murdered last night near his house by a band of negroes, who took him into the woods, where he was found. He lived long enough after his discovery to tell the circumstances of the assault.

FOREIGN.

VALPARAISO, March 3.—Chili opposes annexation of San Domingo. The press urges the government to protest against the movement.

The cattle disease is spreading. Business improving. Breadstuffs buoyant.

Bolivia has been sent as plenipotentiary to Chili, to settle the boundary of the republic and arrange a treaty of peace.

ASPINWALL, March 21, via Jamaica. News from Peru up to the fourteenth instant announces that the government has ordered the payment of the merchants who suffered by the sacking of Callos in 1866.

Several earthquakes have been experienced at Arequeppa and Jaena, succeeded by electric storms.

Rich gold deposits have been discovered in Cordova, Chili.

PANAMA, March 21.—News from Bogota to the first has been received.

In Borjaca the government troops defeated the forces of Saganosa on the tenth of February.

State elections were to take place on the twelfth.

A number of German emigrants, destined to Lower California, who had arrived here, abandoned the expedition, and denounced the scheme as a swindle.

There have been unusually heavy rains in Panama.

VERSAILLES, March 22.—Order is being gradually re-established in Paris.

The significant demonstration made by well disciplined citizens had a beneficial effect. The Mobiles have offered to assist the government against anarchy.

Marshal Canrobert made overtures to M. Thiers, which were well received.

PARIS, March 22.—This evening a large number of unarmed persons reached Rue de la Paix, the entrance to the Place Vendome, and appealed to the sentries to give way to their passage into the districts occupied by the insurgents and National Guards.

The request was refused by the sentries, when the demonstrators thereupon unfurled a stand of colors. The Nationals threatened to bayonet the flag-bearer, and the crowd at once commenced to retire. Baron Nathan seized the flag and exhorted the crowd to advance against the illegal force occupying the place; the order was obeyed, when the Nationals occupying the place beat their drums and fired in the air; the crowd retreating too slowly, three ranks of the Nationals filed out from the body and fired into the crowd.

There was a terrible scene for five minutes, and then the crowd broke into a terror-stricken retreat. At least thirty persons were killed and wounded by the fire of the Guards. Baron Nathan received two shots in the chest. The Nationals in the Place Vendome have since been reinforced, and are orderly. The National Guards generally have been called to arms, and fighting is apprehended to-night.

The affair of the Place Vendome created great consternation among the people of Paris.

LONDON, March 22.—The London newspapers are enthusiastic over the marriage of Princess Louise. There were grand rejoicings and celebrations everywhere throughout the United Kingdom. Many marriages were solemnized simultaneously in different parts of England. A great many dinners and balls were given in London in honor of the event, and the illuminations in the evening were very extensive.

BERLIN, March 23.—It is reliably stated that the return of French prisoners has been stopped for the present.

HAVANA, March 23.—The recent surrenders leave but two small bands of insurgents in the Cienfuego district.

LONDON, March 24.—Gen. Schulten, the Parisian commander at St. Dennis, informs the commander of Paris to the effect that the Germans occupying the forts north and northeast of the city will maintain a friendly attitude while nothing hostile is done, but if the provisions of the preliminaries of peace are overstepped Paris will be treated as an enemy. The delegate of ministers of foreign affairs replied that the revolutionary proceedings in Paris are purely as to municipal affairs, and can in no instance be regarded toward Germany. The delegate adds he has no jurisdiction and cannot discuss matters in reference to the preliminaries of peace which were voted by the Assembly at Bordeaux.

A special to the London Telegraph gives the justification, published by the commander of the insurgent Nationals, of the massacre in the Place Vendome. He says the people who demonstrated against his forces provoked them by yells of derision, and fired first.

Lord Lyons telegraphs Earl Granville his confidence of an early restoration of order at Versailles.

PARIS, March 25.—The mayoralty negotiations resulted in the mayors giving their support to the municipal elections and the election of commanders.

The National Guards hold present positions.

Duval, Bruenal and Eades control the insurgent military power until Menotti Garibaldi arrives, who has been unanimously chosen chief.

VERSAILLES, March 25.—Jules Favre has received two additional dispatches from the German authorities, declaring it the duty of the Versailles government to conquer sedition. The withdrawal of the German troops has been entirely stopped.

Seissat, who commands ten thousand National Guards, with guns and mitrailleuses, is empowered to offer the insurgents amnesty; in case of refusal, to attack them and secure the Central Committee.

Fifty thousand men are en route from Boulogne to quell the insurrection.

LONDON, March 27.—In the House of Lords to-night the bill legalizing marriage with the deceased wife's sister, previously passed by the House of Commons, came up for final discussion. After a long debate, in which Lord Penzard argued strongly in favor of the bill, it was rejected.

LONDON, March 27.—Napoleon remained an hour with Queen Victoria and family to-day. An address of welcome was made by Lord Stanley. Marshal Canrobert's children were also present. The castle grounds were filled with a great crowd of people, who cheered the ex-Emperor heartily.

VERSAILLES, March 27.—The minister of war has notified the prefect to raise a battalion of mobilized volunteers in each of the departments, in pursuance of the law which has just passed the National Assembly. These troops are to be forwarded to Versailles and receive daily one and a half francs, and their officers to be appointed by the minister of war.

VERSAILLES, March 27.—The Les Debats says General Lullin is insane, and is cared for by his colleagues of the Central Committee.

The insurgents have seized a gunboat in the Seine, capturing the crew and some unimportant documents.

The official journal of the Central Committee announces that eighteen of the National Guards out of twenty-four have organized in Lyons in support of the commune.

MADRID, March 27.—Espartero will probably be chosen president of the Spanish Senate, and Don Salustiano Olozaga, president of the chamber of deputies.

LONDON, March 27.—The Daily News' special dispatch from Brussels says Bazaine is about to leave for France and LeBoeuf will go to Hague.

The Telegraph's special correspondent at Versailles reports that the government has ordered the prompt arrest of General Garibaldi upon his appearance on French soil.

BRUSSELS, March 27.—Negotiations for the final treaty of peace between France and Germany are soon to commence. The French embassy is the place agreed upon for the meetings.

PARIS, March 27.—The Laverite says a new ministry will soon be formed, which will include Broglie as minister of foreign affairs, McMahon as minister of war.

The rich generally abstained from visiting the polls, and the merchants voted the conservative ticket. The individuals elected are obscure, with the exception of Flaurens, Blaugue, Pigatt and Gambon.

The barricading continues, and the utmost vigilance is manifested by the insurgent Nationals. The Place Vendome has the aspect of a camp. It is said the Versailles government is negotiating with the Prussians to allow an increase in the number of French troops on this side of the Loire.

It is rumored General Crenier is suspected by the committee, and has gone to Versailles.

VERSAILLES, March 28.—Thiers made a brief address to the National Assembly. He defended the wisdom of his policy and took a solemn oath that he would not betray the republic.

LONDON, March 28.—The Times' special dispatch says: Paris has nearly resumed her usual appearance. Of the five hundred thousand electors in Paris only twenty thousand voted at the election on Sunday. Twenty of the members of the committee were elected. It is expected Blaquine will be president of the new government, and that its powers will center in Flourens, Pigatt, Deleschusse, LeFranc and Vermoxel.

Four generals are occupied at Versailles with the question of the military reorganization of the country.

The Times' special also states that the Prussians daily ask the Versailles government to agree to the German occupation of Paris, and are as frequently refused.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.—It will scarcely be believed that New Orleans ships North annually about $300,000 worth of rags, and yet the statement is made by parties who have recently come to this city for the purpose of establishing a paper factory.

These parties, as we learn, have made all the necessary arrangements for erecting a factory in the vicinity of the New Basin, where they propose manufacturing on a moderate scale at first, increasing their facilities as the success of the enterprise is demonstrated. They are said to be backed by large capitalists North, who will advance all the means required for prosecuting the work.—Picayune.

THE ferries between Boston and East Boston are to be free of tolls after May 1.

Marriage of the Princess Louise.

The following comprise all the details we have received of this royal ceremony:

WINDSOR, March 21.—The weather is charming, and the marriage of the Princess Louise has been celebrated with brilliancy. At eleven o'clock A. M. ministers, embassadors, clergy, peers and the bridegroom's family were admitted to the Royal chapel. At twelve o'clock royal carriages, with members of the Queen's family and other royal personages, left the Queen's gate at Windsor palace, and proceeded to the south entrance of the chapel, where they were received by the Lord Chamberlain, and conducted to places on the Haut-Pas. At five minutes past twelve the bridegroom arrived, accompanied by Earl Percy and Lord Gowen. They were conducted to seats on the Haut-Pas.

At fifteen minutes past twelve the bride, accompanied by the Queen and her suite, in five carriages, arrived at the west entrance of the chapel, where they were joined by the bridesmaids, and moved up the aisle amid music by the choir. The bride was supported by the Queen, Prince of Wales and Duke of Saxe Coburg. The bridesmaids were Ladies Campbell, Cecil, Butler, Montague, Gorden, Lennox, Seymour and Fitzgerald. The bride was seated on the left of the altar, with the Queen near at hand. The ceremony was performed by the Bishop of London, in the choral style, the Queen giving the bride away.

At the end of the last prayer the royal salute was fired from the artillery in Windsor park, and the guests repaired to the castle for luncheon. The bride and bridegroom departed at three o'clock for Claremont, to spend their honeymoon. About one thousand guests witnessed the ceremony. The grounds of the castle were filled by immense crowds, and Windsor is en fete. Marquis Lorne wore the uniform of the Argyleshire artillery. The Bishop of London was assisted by Bishops of Oxford, Winchester and Worcester. There is to be a grand banquet to-night, and the castle will be illuminated. The festivities will continue two days.

Brownlow.---How he Appears in the Senate.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer writes:

One of the saddest spectacles presented in the Senate chamber in these days is the big cushioned chair which holds the last of the mortal remains of poor Parson Brownlow, of Tennessee. It sits just at the left of the President's rostrum, on the skirmish line. There they bring every day the withered remnant of the apostle of Hate, and over that chair there seems to hover, at all hours, the black Angel of Death. Sallow and emaciated, trembling with palsy in every limb, he sits and watches the proceedings around him with what seems a tearful interest, and only the little light which burns dimly in his once vicious eye is left to tell you of the fierce spirit which, in times past, inhabited that never very prepossessing frame. His right arm lays by his side, and the thumb of it twiches and vibrates with the regularity of a heart-beat.

They set a glass of water upon his desk, but he never moistens his lips. Papers lay before him, but their neat order is never disturbed. There is no more expression upon his shadowed, pinched and leathery face than you would expect to find upon the index of the mummy in the British Museum. One can look upon the still vigorous yet stricken Morton, and feel that he bears the retributive imprint of vice, but one cannot contemplate poor Brownlow without an expression of generous sympathy. He seems to be waiting his summons. There may be much of the old vitality in him yet, and it may be many days before they carry him into the chamber for the last time. It seemed as though, at times to-day, his old viperous nature returned to him, and he yearned to mingle in the heated debate. But the present, with its turmoils, and the future, with its hopes, are but mists to him. He can only look back over his pathway strewn with wrecks and lined with the rank weeds of bitter hate and partisan selfishness. Let us be charitable enough to hope that he has the satisfaction which comes of a belief that his life has not been without its fair proportion of honesty and sincerity.

MR. FROUDE, the historian, is coming to America to lecture on "Ireland as it Was."

THE PLANTERS' BANNER.

Colonel Dennett, the able editor of this excellent paper, announces the change of locality. The Planters' Banner is one of our best exchanges, and the editor has our best wishes for his success. In the paper of March 22 he says:

This number of the Planters' Banner winds up its career as a Franklin journal. The next number commences its career as a New Iberia journal.

The first number of the Planters' Banner ever published in this place was dated "Franklin, (Attakapas) Louisiana, Tuesday morning, April 12, 1836." It will be thirty-five years on the twelfth of next month since its existence commenced.

On many accounts we regret to leave St. Mary. We came to this parish when we were a young man, but twenty-three years of age, in the year 1841. We married in 1842. Our father-in-law, his wife and children, and our own children, were Southern born. We hail from the State of Maine.

To the people of this parish we can say, honestly, we have taken a deep interest in your welfare, and we have struggled harder for you than for ourself. We have endeavored to be a faithful sentinel on your outer walls and at your gates. So far as we were able, with our limited abilities, means and influence, we have comforted and encouraged your friends, and scourged and defied your enemies.

At times, during and since the war, we have been sorely pressed for means to run our office and support our family comfortably. With more ample means we could have done more for the parish. And we could have had ample means by selling our principles, blotting our record and betraying the parish. But we prefer poverty with an honest record, to full pockets and the contempt of honest men.

We think our journal has passed the crisis which was the most dangerous period of its existence; and trusting to the generosity of the public, and our integrity of purpose and industry, we expect to plant the Banner on a more solid and reliable foundation than it ever rested on before.

Thanks to our St. Mary friends for past favors. Though our office may change its base, it will still be on the Bayou Teche, and within thirty miles of Franklin; and the Banner will not "go back on its old friends," but will be as ready to say a good thing for St. Mary at its new standpoint as it has been for thirty-five years on the spot where it commenced its earthly pilgrimage.

PLAIN WORDS ON WORLDLINESS IN "THE CHURCH."—The Southern Churchman (organ of the Protestant Episcopal Church,) says the New York Christian Advocate, has some "out-and-out" words on the motives of many who seek a transfer from other churches to "the church." We quote some of them:

"Young people are taught by the knowing ones to believe that the Episcopal Church regards opposition to dancing as puritanical, and the effect is that the educated youth of all the denominations are crowding our courts as the worldling's saloon and the devil's ball room. Religion, modesty and virtue are in great danger of vanishing from one sex when swimming in airy circles and licentious waltzes with the other sex. Something must be done to arrest the evil or we shall be compelled to close our churches, for these revelers during the week profane our services on Sunday by their shameful irreverence. Light brains, light hearts and light heels go together in the world's carnival, and Satan looks on, well pleased to see his slaves tripping it so merrily on 'the light fantastic toe,' particularly when he sees professing Christians entering heartily into the sport, it being a sure sign that their religion does not hurt them."

A MRS. PIERSON, of Hudson, Michigan, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and be imprisoned in the Detroit House of Correction for three months for cruelly whipping a negro girl in her employ. The little girl's offense was making herself some cookies. She fled to Adrian in the night, where she was cared for, and an examination showed seventy-two gashes or welts, healed and unhealed, as evidence to the cruel punishment to which she had been at various times subjected.

THE only implement specially adapted to improved modern agriculture is Murfee's Subsoil and its cultivating attachments.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1871.

ALICE CARY'S SWEETEST POEM.

Of all the beautiful pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
Is one of a dim old forest,
That seemeth best of all;
Not for its gnarled oaks olden,
Dark with the mistletoe;
Not for the violets golden
That sprinkle the vale below;
Not for the milk-white lilies
That lean from the fragrant hedge
Coquetting all day with the sunbeams,
And stealing their golden edge;
Not for the vines on the upland
Where the bright red berries rest;
Nor the pinks, nor the pale, sweet cowslip,
It seemeth to me the best.

I once had a little brother
With eyes that were dark and deep—
In the lap of that olden forest
He lieth in peace asleep;
Light as the down of the thistle,
Free as the winds that blow,
We rove there the beautiful summers,
The summers of long ago;
But his feet on the hills grew weary,
And one of the autumn eves
I made for my little brother
A bed of the yellow leaves.

Sweetly his pale arms folded
My neck in a meek embrace,
As the light of immortal beauty
Silently covered his face;
And when the arrows of sunset
Lodged in the tree-tops bright
He fell, in his saint-like beauty,
Asleep by the gates of light.
Therefore, of all the pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
The one of the dim old forest
Seemeth best of all.

UNCLE FRANK TOMLIN.

A MODEL LOCAL PREACHER.

KEACHIE, LA., Feb., 1871.

MR. EDITOR: Everybody who knows Uncle Frank knows he is a local preacher, at least he is called one; though many traveling preachers are not "in labors more abundant." Uncle Frank was a poor illiterate boy when he commenced preaching, but every one said: "He must be in earnest." The prospect was very unpromising for the church ever to get a preacher out of Uncle Frank. His physical frame was extremely small, and, besides, he was a cripple for life. A serious obstruction in his speech prohibited a clear enunciation, and his almost entire lack of education made it impossible for him ever to become a polished speaker. But these were only "infirmities of the flesh"—misfortunes, not faults. But he possessed some things that rendered him pre-eminently useful. His manliness dispersed the crowd of silly triflers, and his bold simplicity awed the infidel. His earnest, intrepid energy made his brethren love him, while it removed mountains and bridged the rivers before him. Another qualification was possessed in a greater degree than by most Methodist preachers, (or any other sort,) i. e., common sense. Hard sense! Without this men are blanks. Superadded was kindness, which made you love Uncle Frank. All the children knew him as far as they could see him, and were always glad to see him, and he them.

He would gain your confidence, and then you would find his hump of combativeness was fully developed. At such a time he was so provoking, but it was always "unto good works." He knew he was "toeing the mark," and you must too. Self-consciousness entered largely into his moral character. The Holy Spirit dwelt inwardly and sealed everything in his nature. As to Uncle Frank's preaching, he generally tried. Occasionally he would come across a stupid audience, which he would "waken up" by announcing a "love story" as the basis of his sermon. What astonishment prevailed as he went through the recital of Sampson's riddle, or his ill-asserted marriage with Delilah, interspersed with useful reflections of a practical nature. Uncle Frank was not much to blame if he did not preach a great sermon, for he was always "put up" at the most unfavorable hour; yet he never failed to "stir up the eagle's nest." Uncle Frank had a great amount of the gospel word go in his nature. He thought go was the next thing to grace and faith in spreading the gospel. Sad day for the circuit rider, the class leader and local preachers if they didn't go. His zeal to spread the gospel, by means of local preachers, gained for him the name of Bishop. He always assumed a wholesome authority among his brother locals, until they had either to work or else stay away from the quarterly meeting. At length a Bible agent was wanted. Uncle Frank was the man. And well did he work, visiting and praying with the widow and orphan whom the circuit rider, in his hurry, had often passed. In the desolate places, day and night, he preached. P-r-e-a-c-h was all he could make his license spell. A smarter man might have got cotton and dry goods out of them, but he could not. Every "big meeting" he attended, and while begging in public for the Bible money, he begged in private for the preacher. His pay was poor, and the country wild, yet he spread the word of life with more success than any one had ever met with. "Do good," his motto, and "go ahead," his watchword, were the great elements of his success. The cares of a large family never dampened his zeal. At last he was ordained deacon. The elder and circuit rider would not immerse if they could help it. If it was not done the candidates would go to the Baptists or quit entirely. They would agree on Uncle Frank, and he, though weak, would become strong, and "dap" them under with a vim. His hand was thoroughly furnished to every good work. Besides all this he gives liberally of money. Were all our local preachers like him their firebrands would set the world on fire. However sad it may be, there are local preachers of talents and physical ability, who, in the judgment, will be ashamed that this old man, at every disadvantage, should have outstripped them in the work of bringing souls to Christ.

PRAIRIE.

DRUNKENNESS IS A SIN.

When we acknowledge that intemperance is a disease, let us not forget the fact that it is also a sin. No man is forced to become a drunkard; he drinks to excess with his eyes open, with his hands free, with his conscience upbraiding him, until he drowns it in the bowl. He voluntarily surrenders his reason, his taste, his judgment, his health, his character and his conscience on the altar of appetite; and is not that a sin? He knows that his habits of indulgence will disqualify him for the performance of the duties of child, husband, parent and citizen, and while they deaden the faculties which should elevate him above the dumb beast, they intensify and quicken all the animal and brutal instincts of degraded humanity; and is not that a sin?

He is well aware that the use of intoxicating liquors may inspire him with selfish motives, and that he may in a fit of frenzy commit a crime that will do great injury to innocent and unoffending persons, depriving them of their property, or injuring their persons; and is not that a sin? In these enlightened days there surely cannot be found a drunkard even who is such a dunce as not to know that the Bible declares that drunkenness is a sin, a great sin, which excludes the unrepentant from the kingdom of heaven. The drunkard sins against himself, he sins against his neighbor, and he sins against God. There is no other vice which so vividly gives its victims a foretaste of future punishment as intemperance. It brings upon the drunkard the terrible penalty of delirium tremens in this life, and uncovers to his sleepless eyes the pit to which he hastens. The devils of his troubled imagination are real devils to him; the hell he foresees with his diseased vision is not in his eyes a theatrical sham on the canvass, but a real hell, and he recoils from it in horror and despair. Is it not a sin for a human being, made a little lower than the angels, to bring himself to such a wretched condition? He was designed to be happy in this life and in the life to come; but be knowingly, deliberately, persistently and repeatedly drinks, and makes himself the most miserable being on the face of the earth; and that is a sin which can only be washed out by the tears of repentance and reform.—National Temperance Advocate.

THE DIFFERENCE.—A clergyman was once endeavoring to get a subscription in aid of some charitable institution out of a close-fisted parishioner, who attempted to excuse himself on the ground that he already owed a great deal of money. "But," said the minister, "you owe God a larger debt than you do any one else." "That is so, parson; but then he ain't pushing me like the balance of my creditors."

EVERY sinner at God's bar will stand self-condemned; he will be made to own that he knew better and did worse.

THE BALTIMORE CONFERENCE, M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.

The following items of interest are taken from the reported proceedings in the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist:

This large and influential Conference was opened in the Southern church, Salem, Virginia, on the morning of the eighth instant, Rev. George F. Pierce, D. D., the presiding Bishop. About two hundred brethren were present. The Revs. J. S. Martin, J. E. Armstrong, W. Gwynn Coe and W. H. D. Harper were elected secretaries. The roll was perfected by calling the names of the lay delegates. The usual committees were ordered, viz: Public Worship, Bible Cause, Publishing Interests, Education, Randolph Macon College, Wesleyan Female Institute at Staunton, to prepare a charter for a Conference superannuated society, Memoirs and Temperance. After the introduction of ministers from other churches the report of the Publishing House at Nashville was read, showing it to be in a prosperous state. A letter from Rev. A. Webster and J. J. Murray, of the Methodist Protestant Church, was read and referred to a special committee.

In answer to the first question of the minutes, "Who are admitted on trial?" the following brethren were admitted: Charles E. Beauchamp, James B. Williams, J. R. Smith; A. C. McNeer, H. W. Kinger, B. W. Bond, W. E. Miller and James F. Follin. The following, in answer to the second question, "Who remain on trial?" were continued: J. W. Duffy, J. S. Hutchison, J. D. Nally and L. H. Davis. In answer to the third and seventh questions, "Who are admitted into full connection and elected to deacon's orders?" the following were admitted: F. H. Shipley, F. Furr, H. D. Bishop, W. E. Ross, S. Haddaway, G. T. Tyler, R. S. Shreve and W. H. D. Harper. R. Ross was continued on trial.

Rev. Drs. Wiley, Duncan, Cox and Arbogast, presidents respectively of Emory and Henry, Randolph Macon, Montgomery Female and Martha Washington colleges, were introduced; also Rev. Messrs. Compton and Sanders, of the Virginia Conference, and Rev. Mr. Yantz, of the Lutheran Church.

The report of the Committee on Education excited considerable discussion, but after amendment was adopted. It recites the fact that although Randolph Macon College was now educating twelve candidates for the ministry for the Baltimore Conference, and the sons of its ministers free, yet but a small percentage of the $2,500 pledged to said college had been raised. Rev. Dr. Duncan then addressed the Conference in relation to said college and the general subject of its education, influence, etc., reading a very able paper, which is to appear in the Conference journal. Rev. Dr. McFerrin then appealed to the Conference to pay their share of the old missionary debt, and although $1,600 was asked for, $1,717 was in a few minutes raised, and on a further appeal by Rev. John Landstreet in behalf of the Bishops' fund, about $150 was collected to meet its deficiency.

A resolution expressing great regret at the transfer of Rev. W. V. Tudor to New Orleans, and indicating the high esteem of his brethren, and commending him to his present Conference, was adopted by a rising vote. The Bishop announced this Conference as entitled to five delegates to the General Sunday School Convention to be held at Nashville, May 15, and a committee was appointed to nominate delegates. On a motion to fix the place for the next Conference, after much discussion Warrentown, Virginia, was chosen.

Rev. Dr. Redford addressed the Conference, reciting his experience in managing the Publishing House, stating that shortly after he took charge of its interests he went to Philadelphia and New York to see on what terms parties there, to whom the House was indebted, would settle. He found the credit of the Publishing House so low that parties offered to take twenty-five per cent. on the claims, and without interest. In the name of the church he refused the proffer, and paid every man in full, dollar for dollar, telling them the Methodist Episcopal Church South could not afford to shave its own paper. Great surprise was expressed by them, and since then, especially as the House pays cash, their credit is gilt-edged, and any accommodation desired would be gladly given. Dr. Poisal stated that an arrangement had been made with Dr. Redford to publish the Southern Review by our Publishing House at Nashville. He congratulated the Bishop and the church at large upon a consummation so desirable, and that this great work was now permanently secured to the literature of the church. He represented the Review and the Episcopal Methodist as prosperous in a high degree.

The Committee on Randolph Macon College reported a cordial support of said college, gratefully acknowledging their indebtedness for the free tuition of candidates to the ministry and ministers' sons, promising to raise $2,500 during the year, and requesting that the report be published, and Revs. A. W. Wilson, Bishop Pierce and Dr. Duncan addressed the Conference in this interest, after which about $1,600 was subscribed, mainly by the preachers. Rev. W. E. Munsey, D. D., presented a preamble and resolutions on the death of Bishop Andrew, in substance as follows: He was fifty-nine years a preacher; thirty-nine in the episcopacy; sixty-four years in the church, and seventy-seven years old at the time of his death. They recommend an imitation of his example; that they should embalm and perpetuate his memory, and give glory to God for his grace as manifested in the Bishop's life, and that Bishop Pierce prepare a brief memoir for the Sunday school libraries. The report of the Joint Board of Finance was read and adopted. It distributes seventy-seven and a half per cent. of the claim upon it, having raised $2,592.97 for superannuated fund, and $1,269.13 for the Bishops. The missionary treasurer reported he could divide fifty per cent. on the claims, having raised $4,441.98 in all for missionary purposes. Resolutions of sympathy and regard for Bishop Early were passed.

The first Friday in June was appointed a day of fasting and prayer that God would send forth laborers into the harvest. The missionary board then reported their appropriations, which, for domestic and foreign purposes, amount to $9,500.

By the statistical report the membership of the Conference is twenty-two thousand and ninety-eight, an increase of four hundred and eighty-two.

APPOINTMENTS.

BALTIMORE DISTRICT.—J. S. Martin, P. E. Central, W. E. Munsey, J. N. Hank, sup.; St. Paul's, W. G. Eggleston, J. W. Bull, sup.; South Baltimore, W. H. D. Harper; Emanuel, I. W. Canter, J. P. Hall, sup.; Frederick avenue, J. H. Dulaney; Baltimore circuit, A. A. Eskridge, Samuel W. Haddaway; Hookstown, L. R. Jones; Frederick, J. C. Hummer; Linganore, A. Q. Flaherty; Rockville, Dabney Ball, B. W. Bond; Montgomery, B. F. Ball; Howard, to be supplied; Beltsville, W. A. Macdonald; Laurel, G. W. Lightner; South River, F. A. Mercer; Bladensburg and Emory, W. J. Perry; Marlboro, David Bush; Hillsboro, J. Landstreet, J. T. Maxwell; Sunday school agent, G. G. Brooke; president Maryland Agricultural College, S. Regester.

EAST BALTIMORE DISTRICT.—Samuel Rodgers, P. E. Trinity, L. D. Huston; East Baltimore, J. A. Kern; North Baltimore, J. L. Clarke, J. N. Spangler, sup; Howard chapel, L. C. Miller; Taylor's, J. M. Grandin; Harford, R. Smith; Talbot, J. L. Shipley, R. B. Frampton, sup.; Trappe, W. C. Maloy; Kent, G. T. Tyler; Queen Anne's, C. G. Linthicum, W. E. Miller; Severn, B. S. Highley; West River, P. B. Smith, J. W. Duffey; Annapolis mission, William H. Wilson; Calvert, A. B. Dolly; Prince George's, W. W. Watts; John Poisal, editorial manager of the Episcopal Methodist, and member of the Trinity quarterly conference.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT.—A. W. Wilson, P. E. Washington city, S. S. Roszell, J. W. Boteler, sup.; Alexander and Alexandria mission, R. R. S. Hough; Loudoun, W. S. Baird, A. K. Martin; Piedmont circuit, H. E. Johnson, H. W. Kinzer; Hamilton, J. C. Dice; Leesburg, Nelson Head; Farmwell, L. D. Nixon; Fredericksburg, J. S. Gardner; Warrenton, I. R. Finley; Fauquier, E. H. Henry; Fairfax, W. H. Hammond; Falls Church circuit, L. H. Crenshaw; Prince William, G. Mauzey; Stafford, A. W. Robey; Charles, L. G. Martin; St. Mary mission, W. R. Stringer; Falmouth, L. H. Baldwin.

WINCHESTER DISTRICT.—W. H. Wheelwright, P. E. Winchester, J. E. Armstrong; Winchester circuit, G. Stevenson, one to be supplied; Frederick circuit, L. Butt; Front Royal, J. H. Marsh; Perryville, F. H. Richey, J. P. Hyde, sup.; Martinsburg, T. B. Sargent; Berkeley, A. A. P. Neale, J. F. Follin; Jefferson, J. W. Ewan, J. P. William; Shepherdstown, J. B. Fitzpatrick, J. W. Tongue; Gainsboro, H. A. Gaver; Morgan, S. Smith; Shanondale, T. W. Brown; Hagerstown, to be supplied; Wardonsville, W. Hedges, A. C. McNeer.

ROCKINGHAM DISTRICT.—J. H. Waugh, P. E. Staunton, H. H. Kennedy; Harrisonburg, W. A. Wade; Shenandoah Iron Works, A. P. Boade; Mount Sidney, J. W. Wolf; Churchville, J. J. Eagle, G. R. Jefferson, sup.; Bridgewater, J. N. Follansbee; East Rockingham, J. F. Leggitt; Rockingham mission, H. D. Bishop; Rockingham, S. S. Ryder; New Market, W. O. Ross; Woodstock, D. Shouff; Luray, J. S. Hutchinson; W. A. Harris, principal of Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton.

ROANOKE DISTRICT.—E. F. Busey, P. E. Salem, J. P. Etchison; Salem circuit, W. H. Mason; Christiansburg, to be supplied; Blacksburg, W. Harris; Fincastle, C. C. Wertenbaker, one to be supplied, J. D. Nalley; Lexington circuit, J. H. Temple; Buchanan, R. H. Wilson; New Castle, to be supplied; Catawba, to be supplied; Sinking Creek, J. N. Gray; Lafayette, H. M. Strickler; Montgomery, to be supplied; Preston and Olin Institute, P. H. Whisner; Montgomery Female College, S. K. Cox.

LEWISBURG DISTRICT.—J. L. Gilbert, P. E. Lewisburg, E. R. Smith; Frankford, W. T. Quinn, C. E Beauchamp; White Sulphur, J. F. Clarke; Blue Sulphur, E. T. R. Trippe, one to be supplied; Levelton, C. A. Joyce, J. R. Smith; Alleghany, one to be supplied; Greenbank, S. F. Butt, one to be supplied; Centerville, S. B. Dolly; Union, F. Furr, J. Hank, supernumorary; Peterstown, J. Crickenberger, one to be supplied; Gap Mills, L. Grabill; Sweet Springs mission, to be supplied; Warm Springs mission, S. R. Snapp.

LEXINGTON DISTRICT.—W. G. Coe, P. E. Lexington, W. G. Cross; Collierstown, S. Townsend; Upper Botetourt, C. L. Dameron; Covington, A. Weller; Monterey, T. Boiley; Doe Hill, to be supplied; Crab Bottom, John W. Canter; Highland, J. S. Porter; Jackson River, A. Boone; Fairfield, M. A. Taylor, Augusta, J. R. Vanhorne; Millboro, F. H. Shipley; Oakland High School, W. R. McNeer.

MOOREFIELD DISTRICT.—D. Thomas, P. E. Moorefield, T. E. Carson; Petersburg, J. H. Wolff; Franklin, J. Hildebrand; South Branch, F. C. Tebbs; Springfield, J. Beatty, L. H. Davis; North River, S. B. Hoyle; Piedmont, G. H. Zimmerman; Frostburg, L. W. Hastup; Cumberland, J. Higgins; Flintstone, C. L. Torreyson; Rainsburg, R. Ross.

What the Pretestants are Doing in Rome.

A correspondent of the New York Observer, writing from Rome under date of February 8, says:

I think that it can now be truly affirmed that Rome is open for the free promulgation of the Protestant religion. The thunders of the Vatican are no longer potent to intimidate the evangelist of a catholic Christianity. Already the good work has commenced with the promise of happy results. I have myself enjoyed a privilege which I little expected ever to be able to enjoy in my day; and that is the meeting with the Waldensian disciples for the purpose of public Christian worship within the walls of the city of Rome. These patient and devoted followers of Christ have, at present, several preaching stations in the city, and I have attended two of their meetings, which I found interesting and reasonably well attended. The noted Father Gavazzi is now here, preaching in Italian on the Sabbath and two evenings of each week, and large numbers are flocking to hear him.

There are not, as yet, any organized Protestant churches here, but there are several well established preaching stations, some of which are well sustained. I can only speak of those where the services are conducted in English. These are the two under the auspices of the Church of England, one of the American Episcopalians, one of the Free Church of Scotland, and one of the Established Church of Scotland. I have had the privilege of attending service at all of the stations and listening to discourses by the chaplains in charge. The largest congregation of either is the one in connection with what is known as the "Old English Church," which is under the supervision of the Rev. Mr. Shadwell, who is very acceptable to his hearers, but is regarded as "High Church," as is also his usual congregation, by reason of which the "New English Church" station was established, with "Low Church" tendencies. The Rev. Mr. Hamilton is the present chaplain of this congregation, whom I have heard but once; but, judging from the discourse on that occasion, I should think him to be sound, orthodox and evangelical.

A SERVANT GIRL who had just been admonished by her mistress to be very careful in "washing up" the best tea things, was overheard shortly afterward, in the back kitchen, indulging in the following soliloquy, while in the act of wiping the sugar basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it, I s'pose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it, and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I just should catch it."

A YOUNG MAN, very poor, having no money to put on the plate at a missionary meeting, wrote on a slip of paper, "Myself," and dropped that in. How many among our readers will say to the Lord: "I will give 'myself' to the missionary cause?" May this not be your duty? Come, think of it; pray over it. Jesus gave himself for you.

LARGE BEQUESTS.

The executors of the late John C. Baldwin, of Orange, New Jersey, are now paying legacies, which are as follows, and are free from government tax: A. B. C. F. Missions, $10,000; Presbyterian Committee of Home Missions, $10,000; American Bible Society, $8,000; American Tract Society, $8,000; American and Foreign Christian Union, $8,000; New York City Missions and Tract Society, $8,000; New York Asylum for Improving the Condition of the Poor, $5,000; American Sunday School Union, $5,000; trustees of the Presbyterian Church Erection Fund, $5,000; Society for Relief of Poor Widows with Small Children, $5,000. This is in addition to valuable real estate to Union Theological Seminary, leaving as residuary legatees for colleges, viz: Wabash, Hamilton, Middlebury and Williams, each which will receive a very liberal amount. Mr. Baldwin, within a few years of his decease, had been his own executor to the amount of about $700,000. Mrs. Baldwin, his widow, has recently died, and some of the legacies were subject to a change during her lifetime, but death will only increase the amount of his benefactions to charitable and religious institutions.

The New York Times says: Mrs. Mary A. Varnum, widow of the late Joseph B. Varnum, Esq., who died in this city about ten days since, left a large estate, out of which it will, as we are informed, has been found to appropriate the following sums to objects of charity:

To the American Female Guardian Society, $5,000; to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, $5,000; to the American Tract Society, $5,000; the Presbyterian Committee Home Missions, $5,000; to the Woman's Hospital Association, $5,000; to the Orphan Asylum at Bloomingdale, $5,000; to the Protestant Half Orphan Asylum in Tenth street, $5,000; to the American Bible Society, $5,000; to the Nursery and Child's Hospital in New York, $5,000; to the American Seamen's Friend and the Port Society in New York, to be divided equally, $5,000; to the Five Points House of Industry, $3,000; to the Five Points Methodist Mission, $5,000; to the New York Mission and Female Tract Society, $1,000; the Wilson Industrial School, New York, $1,000; to the American Sunday School Union, $1,000; the Children's Aid Society in New York, $5,000; to the New York Magdalen Female Benevolent Society, Houston street, in New York, $5,000; to the Presbyterian Home in Grand street, $5,000; for distribution among the poor, $10,000.

The late William Craig, of Auburn, Massachusetts, bequeathed his whole estate, valued at $24,821, to benevolent objects as follows: His real estate, valued at $3,200, to the Congregational Society in Auburn; $1,000 to the S. S.; $100 to the town for the beginning of a fund for a public library; $300 to the American Missionary Association, and the remainder, about $18,000, to be divided equally between the Massachusetts Bible Society and the American Tract Society at New York.—New York Observer.

HOW TO BE NOBODY.—It is very easy to be nobody, and we will tell you how to do it. Go to the drinking saloon to spend your leisure time. You need not drink much now; just a little beer or something to drink. In the meantime play dominoes, checkers or something else to kill the time, so that you will be sure not to read any useful book. If you do read, let it be the novels of the day. Thus go on loading your stomach full and your head empty, and yourself playing time-killing games, and in a few years you'll be nobody, unless, as is quite likely, you should turn out a drunkard or a professional gambler, either of which is worse than nobody.

WELL SAID.—"The Bible is a strange book," said an infidel objector to an aged minister. "A wonderful book," was the reply. "It has some strange characters among its saints," said the objector; "such as David and Solomon. If such men lived in our day we would say that they deserved to be sent to State prison for life." "Worse than that," replied the minister. "If they got what they deserved they would be sent to hell forever. But you probably are mistaken as to the subject of the Bible. It is not made to show how good men are, but to show how the grace of God brings salvation to the very worst of men and makes saints out of the vilest sinners."

THAT which is most valuable and lovely of life on earth—sanctified friendship—cannot be said to end with those we love; but through their death it is rather raised to a higher and more influential life. By the transfer of our loved ones to heaven, our friendship becomes spiritualized and perpetuated.—Light at Evening Time.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1871.

HUXLEY AND THE BIBLE.

BY C. H. MACLEY.

"There must be a moral substratum to n ild's education to make it valuable, and ere is no other source from which this can obtained at all comparable with the Bible."
Huxley.

course 'tis a myth of the ages,
The odds and the ends of tradition;
e woof of Egyptian sages;
The warp of Arabian vision.
plainly all fudge,
any may judge;
then—as a moral foundation
e Bible will do for the nation!

teach that the world was created,
he moon and the earth and the sun,
at the waters from dry land abated, y the word of Jehovah 'twas done—ween you and I,
simply a lie;
to inculcate a love of the truth, s just the thing for our youth.

ere's the story of Adam and Eve—ell me who, could a moment, indeed, ot the rib and the apple believe, r yet for a minute give heed that silly fable
Cain and of Abel;
then, as a test of the right,
precepts are clear as the light.

d here is the tale of the staff, ast down before Pharaoh, the king—enough to make one laugh—
Such a very ridiculous thing.
d the flies and the frogs,
e darkness and fogs;
, then, where else can we find ch suitable food for the mind?

me would fall us, from John back to Moses,
o recount half the fables we meet,
to show how true science opposes,
And clearly discovers the cheat;
t now at the last,
e Bible stands fast,
the only sure ground, on the whole,
risk the final hopes of the soul!

THE POPE'S AFFLICTIONS.

The religion we profess commands s to be good to the poor. "From m that asketh" we are not at berty to turn away with indifferce. We therefore call the attenn of our readers to the subjoined thetic appeal on behalf of an aged n who in the winter of his life ds it necessary to ask the charity the world for food to keep soul d body together for the short me that may yet elapse before the tying angel of death shall release m from the gnawings of gastric ces upon the bare coats of an pty stomach. It is ungenerous, the urgency of a case like this, to t impertinent questions about rticulars, and we pray our readers t to be inquisitive for satisfaction ncerning circumstances that seem contradict the fundamental statents of the case. Archbishop alding testifies that the Pope is in state of proximate starvation, be-"chained" and prevented from exertions in his own behalf. It true that he lives in a palace that ntains some four thousand rooms, riched with works of art worth definite millions. It is true that has been recently relieved of all e enormous expenses of an army, at he no longer has to pay another my of spies, that he is no longer rained by the leeches of a pompous urt and useless civil establishent, that he has no family to sup-rt, that $500,000 a year is as-gned for his revenue, and that illions are flowing in upon him om the voluntary gifts of hundreds millions of spiritual subjects whose fferings are collected by thousands diligent, faithful, unpaid collecrs. The archbishop says that altimore sent the suffering father 4,000 last year, and that the good omen of Belgium, Rome and Eng-and have given him already onealf their surplus jewelry, which ne would suppose would have sup-lied him with ear-rings and market oney for a good while. We see oo that the children are gathering or him birth-day offerings, and that very bishop of his church is send-g him money; diocese vying with iocese in this effort to feed his holiess. The revenue collected in this way must amount to millions, for no good Catholic will decline to send is tribute of faith and affection.
o a hundred millions or so may be counted on with safety toward relieving the holy father's immediate necessities; for no people give as generally as the Catholics. Their harity is not strained, but trained;
s ours unhappily is not. Now all his naturally begets curiosity to learn how much the Pope requires to eat in order to keep him up in good infallible condition; but this profane curiosity we cannot satisfy.
Bishop Spalding knows, but the dietetics of the vicar of God are a mystery to unhallowed bowels. We must just send on our money, fervently thankful that as there is but one earth to produce bread, there is only one sovereign lord, the Pope, to eat it. But Popes, having incomprehensible functions to perform, have unfathomable stomachs to fill. Evidently they are to be dealt with as infinite amplitudes, whose conditions cannot be expressed in prose nor their contents calculated by bushels. The Pope may go where he pleases. He may go about Rome. He may go out of Rome. He may go to Malta. He may go to England. He may go to Jericho. He may go mourning all his days, or go about his business, or go to bed, or go begging, or blessing, absolving or excommunicating, or do any other manner of going, on foot or in splendid coaches, or in any other way, manner, or vehicle of conveyance known to human locomotion; yet Archbishop Spalding says he is chained. It seems for a Pope to be free it is necessary that certain millions of Italians must be chained. We do not understand it at all; but Archbishop Spalding does, and "surely he is an honorable man." Yet it is not illogical that a Papa who is too big for geography might be hungry after eating the universe. It seems too that the endowment with infallibility has doubled the nutritive necessities of the descendant of St.
Peter, so that unless a sheet be let down from heaven, with a supplemental creation of four-footed beasts and creeping things, to meet the deficiency bill of the vatican larder, the world is likely to be consumed before its time by the fire in the papal entrails. A double income tax is demanded this year from the faithful, and they are urged not to dance nor cultivate any amusements likely to increase their own appetite, but to go upon short allowance and feed the Pope. In view of this extraordinary demand upon the resources of the earth, we hope our farmers will put in all the corn they can. However, as we have already put our own preachers on short allowance, we can afford to help the Pope in his extremity. Archbishop Spalding says Pius the Ninth is chained like Peter was. Unfortunately the angel that watched over the apostle has departed from Rome long ago; and if Pius wait for heaven to help him, his prospect of deliverance is very distant. Perhaps if he will throw a line in the Tiber he may catch a fish with a dollar in its mouth, as Peter did; but then while one fish supplied the necessity of Peter and his Master, a school of herrings would not supply the Pope for a week.—Baltimore Christian Advocate.

Advance of Christian Civilization in Asia

The arrival of a Japanese embas-sador in the United States, to reside at Washington, and so become one of the diplomatic body there, is a memorable event in the progress of civilization. The embassador, who is a prince, and uncle of the reigning Mikado, comes attended by a company of noble Japanese youth, who purpose to pursue their studies, some here, others in England, and others in Prussia. Part of the company will tarry at Washington, to examine the working of the administrative departments of our government. At Yeddo a college, with American, English and French teachers, has already been established, and a system of common schools for the whole empire is contemplated.

A similar effort to reach the best results of Western civilization is ob-servable in Siam. An American presides over the royal custom-house at Bankok, an Englishman builds the Siamese war vessels, and a Frenchman drills the native troops. The present King was for six years the pupil of the English governess at the Siamese court, from whose entertaining book we have already culled some passages for the readers of the Methodist.
His majesty's father, the late King, was an indefatigable student of our language, and so curious in all questions of the etymology and comparative meanings of English words that he was jocosely said to have "Webster's Unabridged on the brain."
His brother, the second or inferior king, kept himself supplied with the latest issues of the London press, and was especially partial to Dickens' stories.

All these facts have a connection with the problems of Christian missions. The civilization of the Christian nations is destined to spread with great rapidity over the Orient.
Such a spread has been anticipated, but recent events show that it will be rapid beyond all our former conceptions. Our astronomy, geography, chemistry, natural philosophy, engineering, mechanics, and especially our steam machinery, will be studied by the nations of the East and appropriated. The heathen and Christian minds will come into contact at increasingly numerous points, with what immediate effect upon religious faith time only will show;
but what the final results will be no one can doubt. The whole East is to-day an interesting subject of study.—Methodist.

We have a sure oracle and rule of life in the word of God, and we have no need to seek any other guidance but that; and yet men are prone, and always have been prone, to forsake the fountain of rising water and hew out for themselves cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water.—McClintock.

THE SWEETNESS OF HIS NAME.

The soul sighs for rest. In its turbulence of spirit it looks to Jesus, and lo! the waves cease to roll, and there is a great calm. He smiles, and the clouds disperse, and sunlight floods the heart afresh. "His name yields the richest perfume" to the enraptured saint. "All thy garments smell of cassia," exclaims the Psalmist. Every sense is intoxicated with bliss. Many, unchanged in their nature, do not apprehend how it is that Christians have such a passion for Christ. They cannot understand the song of songs, or the equally ardent affections of John, in his gospel, letters and revelation. They are incapable of appreciating the love-sick hymns of the church which have not yet found entrance into the artistic collections, but which are the breathings of a passion divine. As tales and poems of love are by far the most popular of all tales and poems, so these warm outgushings of love for Christ are the most natural and popular of Christian songs. Wesley rose often into this mood; but his followers, with less art and more ardor, have sung more frequently these affectionate strains. The camp meeting and revival melodies are full of this love. It breaks from every line, palpitates in every note, thrills with every sentence, and possesses those who sit and sing themselves away to everlasting bliss. How tender that long-time favorite:

"How tedious and tasteless the hours,
When Jesus no longer I see;
Sweet prospects, sweet birds and sweet flowers
Have lost all their sweetness to me.
The midsummer sun shines but dim,
The fields strive in vain to look gay;
But when I am happy in him,
December's as pleasant as May."

When John Newton wrote that, he felt the floodings of holy love and longing. So have myriads as they sung its happy plaints. Let this love possess your soul. You will then neither hear nor heed the storm raging without, or, if you hear it, it will only make your bliss more blessed. As happy lovers feel not the storms that beat upon the windows, so your soul, lapped in the love of Jesus, is unmindful of the howlings of skepticism and ungodliness that rage in the outer darkness, cold, stormy, black, barren.

Cling to this precious sweetness.
Let it make your own soul equally fragrant. Then shall you rejoice in this celestial mood of soul, and walk in a June garden of roses and sunshine all your earthly days, which are not earthly, so full are they of Christ's holy, spiritual delights, while you ever say and sing of your divine Lord and Lover:

"As ambergris leaves a rich scent
Unto the taster,
So do these words a rich content,
An oriental fragrancy, My Master."

"O what sweetness from the bowl
Fills my soul!
Such as is and makes divine!
Sun and stars (tied from the sphere)
Melted there,
As no sugar melts in wine.

"When I had forgot by birth,
And on earth,
In delights of earth was drowned,
God took blood, and needs would be Spill with me,
And so found me on the ground.

"Having raised me to look up,
In a cup,
Sweetly He doth meet my taste;
But I still being low and short,
Far from court,
Wine becomes a wing at last.

"For with it alone I fly
To the sky,
When I wipe mine eyes and see
What I seek, for what I sue;
How I view
Who hath done so much for me."

Zion's Herald.

The Praying Sister.—A Sunday school scholar being asked if she ever prayed aloud with her sisters, answered:

"No, I pray for them."

"And for what do you pray?"

"That they may have new hearts."

"A very good prayer indeed! And you pray for your parents?"

"Yes, sir."

"What do you ask for them?"

"That they may have an interest in Christ."

If every child were to pray in sincerity for the same blessings, what a picture of love and harmony would be exhibited in many families, where a far different scene is presented from the disobedience of children to parents!

Power of Caste.—A Brahmin, being oppressed with thirst as he journeyed along, met a woman of low condition carrying a vessel of water on her head. He asked her for some to drink; but, that he might not receive water from an impure hand, he formed a little channel on the ground; the woman poured the water in at one end while the Brahmin drank at the other. One of his own caste, who happened to be passing at the time, accused him before the council of the Brahmins; the affair was investigated, and he narrowly escaped the sentence of exclusion from his caste.

Christian assurance does not become a person who is cherishing some darling sin. The indulgence of wickedness grieves away the Holy Ghost, from whom alone assurance can come.

DICKENS' ADVICE TO STUDENTS.

To the students generally I have had in my mind, first, to commend the short motto in two words: Courage, Persevere. This is the motto of a friend and worker. Not because the eyes of Europe are upon them, for I don't in the least believe it;
nor because the eyes of even England are upon them, for I don't in the least believe it; nor because their doings will be proclaimed with blasts of trumpets at street corners, for no such musical performance will take place; nor because self-improvement is at all certain to lead to worldly success; but simply because it is good and right of itself, and because, being so, it does assuredly bring with it its own resources and its own rewards. I would further commend to them a very wise and witty piece of advice on the conduct of the understanding, by Rev. Sidney Smith—wisest and wittiest of the friends I have lost. He says:

"There is a piece of foppery which is to be cautiously guarded against—the foppery of universality, of knowing all science, and excelling in all arts, chemistry, mathematics, algebra, dancing, history, reading, riding, fencing, Low Dutch, High Dutch and natural philosophy. In short, the modern precept of education very often is, 'Take the admirable Crichton for your model; I would have you ignorant of nothing.'
'Now,' said he, 'my advice, on the contrary, is to have the courage to be ignorant of a great number of things, in order that you may avoid the calamity of being ignorant of everything.'"

To this I would superadd a little truth, which holds equally good of my own life and the life of every eminent man I have ever known.
The only serviceable, safe, certain, remunerative, attainable quality in every study and every purpose is the quality of attention. My own invention or imagination, such as it is, I can most truthfully assure you, would never have served me as it has but for the habit of commonplace, humble, patient, daily, laboring, drudging attention. Genius, vivacity, quickness of penetration, brilliancy, and association of ideas will not be commanded; but attention, after a due term of submissive service, will. Like certain plants, which the poorest peasant may grow in the poorest soil, it can be cultivated by any one, and it is certain, in its own good season, to bring forth flowers and fruit.

IF YOU LET GO I WILL.

A clergyman with his wife and son were once journeying to a new field in the West, when, by venture-ing on an unsafe bridge, all their lives were greatly imperiled. The father reached the shore, but saw with anguish that he could give no help to his loved ones, until other assistance could be secured. He went in search of it, and the mother and son clung to some pieces of timber lodged in the midst of the cold, fast-flowing current, as their only hope of safety.

The mother's hands were growing benumbed, and her slight frame wearied out with the effort of holding on. She felt that this struggle for life could go on but a little longer. Her boy was young and vigorous. He might hold out till help came.

With a mother's loving tenderness
she spoke her words of farewell, and gave such counsel as a mother might, who was looking into eternity. But she was not prepared for the response:

"Mother," he said, "if you let go I will." Oh, here was a new anguish. She felt that for herself she could trust all in the hands of her Saviour, but her dear boy had no such hope. She felt that she held his destiny in her hands. She must live and struggle on for his sake.
Oh, what weary, terrible moments, and they were lengthened on to hours! With almost superhuman strength the mother kept her hold on the plank, for if she loosened her grasp her boy's soul was lost for eternity. In two hours help came, and all were rescued.

Oh, it was a solemn, fearful thought for that mother that the eternal life of her child depended on her feeble efforts. But it is just as true of a thousand other mothers.
The souls of our children are lost because of our unfaithfulness. We filt their young hearts with vanity and worldliness, and love of gain, which drown all serious thought, and destroy them as certainly as those floods would the body. We shudder at the thought of some one act of ours involving the soul's life of our child, yet at that very moment we may be performing such an act.—Sunday School Times.

You will find among your acquaintances that the best cultivated men are the least conceited; the pedantic are men of less understanding; when they get into a higher level there comes along with culture more and more of this childlike simplicity of which I have been speaking.—Dr. McClintock.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A new place of worship called the Church of Jesus, and accommodating about seven hundred persons, has been opened at Madrid.
This is the sixteenth place of Protestant worship already opened in the Spanish capital.

Miss West, a missionary in Turkey for the past ten years, has had under instruction two hundred girls, who, professing Christianity, are now scattered along the Euphrates and Tigris, engaged in teaching these truths to their country-women.

The Rev. Gardiner Spring, D. D., is now eighty-six years old. A writer in the Evangelist says his mind is calm, vigorous and clear, and that he still maintains his interest in current events, especially in all such as concern the prosperity of the Master's kingdom.

The Methodist Episcopal Church
(North) has one hundred and one institutions of learning, which employ seven hundred and nineteen instructors. There are twenty-seven universities and colleges, and five theological seminaries, one of which is a mission institution in Germany.

The Pope decides to remain in the vatican, because if he leaves it people will say he is vanquished, and the Italian government will confiscate it. That he acts freely in this matter, according to his own pleasure, is sufficient answer to the pretense of the priests that he is imprisoned.

The Reformed (Dutch) Church has sixty-one thousand communicants. Its Board of Foreign Missions has a debt of $33,000; begun in 1867, and increased during 1868 and 1869. Its Board of Home Missions is $20,000 in debt, and that of education $5,000. One dollar extra from each member would more than extinguish these three had hinder-ances to progress.

Baptist Missions to the Chinese began at Bangkok, Siam, in 1832.
The aggregates in Siam and China proper now are: Ordained foreign missionaries, 13; native preachers, about 46; churches, 10; members, about 717; baptized, from the beginning, about 1,100. Among the Chinese of California the Baptist Home Missionary Society has 1 missionary, 1 native preacher, 1 or 2 colporteurs, and 7 or 8 members.

The third of the Memorial Churches (so-called) has been opened in the capital of Madagascar.
This is called the Children's Church.
It stands on a commanding position, and can be seen from a great distance. On this spot, in 1849, four Christian nobles, including one lady, were burnt at the stake. Now the queen is the nursing mother of the church, and was present with a body of her officers at the opening.

The irrepressible foreigner brings the newspaper with him into China, and the Christian brings his. Already there are two—one published at Cantou, the other at Shanghai—eagerly sought by the Chinese Christians and with a constantly increasing circulation. A third has been proposed at Peking, and Mr.
Blodget thinks the funds for it can be had and the right man to edit it.
Why not have steam presses working off weekly editions of thoroughly
Christian newspapers for the immense reading population of that empire?—Independent.

The Female Cent Society of New Hampshire is a valuable auxiliary to home missionary enterprises.
During the sixty-five years of its existence it has collected $74,829.
The collections for 1870 amounted to $2,500. It has a memorial fund, created by the payment of $10 for each name, the interest of which is to be paid annually to the New Hampshire Missionary Society.—
Memorable members, whether living or dead, secure the payment of a sum equal to fifty-two cents a year.
The amount of the memorial fund is nearly $3,000. In 1805, the first year of its existence, $500 were raised; in 1870, $2,500, by the payment of one cent a week by its members.

Eighty miles from Yeddo, and yet distinctly visible on a clear day, is Fusi Yama—a mountain peak of fourteen thousand feet height, and so named in honor of the founder of the native religion of Japan. By foreigners, not less than natives, it is often called "The Matchless Mountain," for its wonderful beauty of form and its splendid views. A writer on Japan says: "Japanese poets cannot find words nor Japanese painters colors to represent the mountain as they think it deserves.
It is painted at the bottom of the delicate porcelain cup from which the native sips his tea, and on the lacquer bowl from which he eats his rice. Fusi Yama is on his fan, on the back of his looking glass, on the skirts of his garment, and forms the back-ground of nearly every Japanese work of art or imagination." But the matter goes further than this. Fusi Yama has its place in the popular religion. The people call it "The Sacred Mountain," and believe that the founder of their faith will reward every one making its ascent in his honor and worship with health and richest blessings.
Pilgrims for it are constantly found,
and are dressed in white garments, stamped by the priests with idol pictures and cabalistic letters.—Independent.

HEALTH PARAGRAPHS.

To Cure a Cold.—The Herald of Health says: "Upon the first indications that you have taken cold, stop eating until the cold is cured; drink freely of cold water; induce free perspiration over the entire body, either by exercise, the Turkish vapor, lamp or hot water bath, or wet sheet pack, followed by a tepid spray or sponging; go to bed, cover up warm, and breathe all the pure air you can. Nine cases out of ten will yield to this treatment in less than twelve hours, and the tenth one will hardly continue twenty-four hours."

Heart Disease.—Heart disease is the dread of many who spend their lives from youth till old age in misery with their fears. More frequently than in regard to any other complaint, perhaps, do the fatal results of this appear in the papers, not because of any so great frequency as because of the suddenness which attracts attention. This tends to keep needless anxiety on the strain. Probably few people live who have not at some time conceived the heart to be diseased, as the symptoms which are usually taken to indicate such a condition are readily produced by disturbance in almost any other part of the body. As for those who have really an affection of this organ, it is now the impression of many medical men that their chance of long life is not much reduced; only that they must be more careful than others to avoid violent physical or mental excitement.

A Remedy for Croup.—We have been interested in reading the following statement, made to us by an intelligent mother. We give our readers the benefit of it, or at least give them the opportunity to test whether it has any benefit:

A remedy for croup was given me
by a sister, who heard it from Prof.
Bronson, a physiological lecturer, since deceased.

"Let a healthy person fill his lungs with pure air, then slowly breathe upon the patient's throat and chest, commencing at the point of the chin, and moving slowly down to the bottom of the windpipe.
Repeat for a few minutes, and it will give relief in cases where all other means fail."

My boy was always subject to croup; came near dying with the rattling, noisy kind, at about eleven months old. I saved him with water, and ever after prevented a serious attack by watchfulness and water. But when three years old, I let him play in the brook one warm, rainy day, and he took a severe cold, and had the still kind of croup the first and last time he ever had it.
In spite of all I could do he grew constantly worse, until he could only gasp and breathe with his head thrown back. We thought his last moments had come, when I thought of and applied Bronson's remedy for a minute. When I stopped he looked up and said, "Do so again, mother, do," though he could not speak when I began. You may be assured that I did so again, and I believe it saved his life.—Laws of Life.

HOUSEKEEPERS' DEPARTMENT.

How to do up Shirt Bosoms.—
Take two ounces of white Arabic powder, put in a pitcher, and pour on a pint or more of boiling water, according to the strength you desire it; let it stand all night, and in the morning pour it carefully from the dregs into a clean bottle, and cork it for use. A tablespoonful of this gum water poured into a pint of starch will give lawns, either white or colored, a look of newness to which nothing else can restore them after they have been washed.

Cleansing Blankets.—It is quite as important to have the blankets on our beds clean as to have the sheets pure and white. The Boston Journal of Chemistry gives the following method of cleansing blankets: "Put two large tablespoonfuls of borax and a pint-bowl of soft soap into a tub of cold water.
When dissolved, put in a pair of blankets, and let them remain over night. Next day rub and drain them out, and rinse thoroughly in two waters and hang them to dry.
Do not wring them." But this is not the only domestic use to which borax may be put. Says the same journal: "Borax is the best cockroach exterminator yet discovered.
This troublesome insect has a peculiar aversion to it, and will never return where it has once been scattered. As the salt is perfectly harmless to human beings, it is much to be preferred for this purpose to the poisonous substances commonly used. For cleansing the hair, nothing is better than a solution of borax-water. Wash afterward with pure water if it leaves the hair too stiff. Borax dissolved in water is also an excellent dentifrice, or tooth-wash."

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, MARCH 30, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:

REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:

REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:

REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

MINISTERIAL SUPPLY.

The following resolutions were passed by the Louisiana Conference at its recent session in this city:

Resolved, THAT IN VIEW OF THE GREAT DESTITUTION OF LABORERS WITHIN OUR BOUNDS, WE SET APART THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL AS A DAY OF FASTING AND PRAYER, THAT THE LORD OF THE HARVEST MAY SEND FORTH MORE LABORERS INTO THIS FIELD.

Resolved, THAT THE PREACHERS BE REQUESTED TO PREACH IN THEIR SEVERAL CHARGES ON THE CALL TO THE MINISTRY, ON THE SABBATH FOLLOWING THE FIRST FRIDAY IN APRIL, OR AT SUCH OTHER TIMES DURING THE YEAR AS MAY BE MOST SUITABLE.

REMEMBER THE DAY.

By resolution of the Louisiana Conference, Friday, the seventh day of April, was set apart as a day of fasting and prayer, with special reference to an increase of preachers. The preachers were also requested to preach on the call to the ministry on the Sabbath following the day of fasting and prayer, or at such other times as they may deem most expedient. We trust that the resolutions will be complied with in both respects. Let the seventh of April be observed throughout the bounds of the Conference, and such public services held as may be found most practicable. We hope that our preachers will make the ministerial call the subject of discourse on the following Sunday, April 9, and that it may receive attention also from parents and Sunday school workers. Where no public services are convenient our people should remember the day at home.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The Minutes of the Louisiana Conference were sent to the preachers several weeks ago, and a note addressed to each to inform him by what conveyance and how consigned. The division was made pro rata to the membership, there being one copy to every four members. In some instances it was impossible, on account of the reorganization of circuits, to determine the basis of division. If any circuit has received more than its pro rata, the adjoining circuit with which it divided territory will be deficient. The brethren can arrange this among themselves. We have in reservation a few for such as may fail to get them.

ROBT. J. HARP, Publisher.

MISSIONARY DEBT.

We acknowledge the following amounts in payment of subscriptions for liquidating the missionary debt:

Rev. J. Gorton Miller, Algiers, Louisiana, $25; Dr. A. S. Helmick, Houma, Louisiana, $25; Rev. B. F. White, New Orleans, $25; my own subscription, $25. All of which is placed to the credit of the treasurer.

ROBT. J. HARP.

POST OFFICES.

As changes are being made in the post offices of the preachers, they will greatly oblige us by furnishing their addresses as early as possible. Don't forget to give the post office from which your paper is to be changed, as well as that to which it is to be sent.

PREJUDICES resemble the fogs that turn the bright sun into a dull copper ball; and a bad heart is like the jaundice that sees its own dingy yellow in the purest lily.

MINISTERIAL SUPPLY.

A separated ministry is necessary for the spread of the gospel and for the prosperity of the church. The prophets of the Old Testament corresponded with the preachers of the New, and in both they are called and set apart to a special work. The divine call is to this exclusive labor of preaching the gospel, and of attending to all the duties of the ministerial office. Circumstances may compel men, thus called, to devote some part of their time to temporal affairs, but consecration to this one business is the true and scriptural ideal to be aimed at, and to be as perfectly realized as possible. Our church has illustrated the value of a lay ministry in her local preachers, but the necessity of a separated ministry has been equally felt and demonstrated. Without the latter the gospel could never have been carried to the ends of the earth, and without it no effective church organization can be maintained. Ministers are divinely called to this distinctive work. The scriptural doctrine is recognized by us that they are moved by the Holy Ghost to preach. To ask for license or ordination is to profess that they are so moved. It is the prerogative of the Lord of the harvest to "send forth laborers into his harvest." "God hath set some in the church—first, apostles; secondarily, prophets; thirdly, teachers; after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues." "And he gave some apostles, and some prophets, and some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers."

Beyond the general call of all converted persons to give themselves to God, and to do all the good they can, is this special moving of the Holy Ghost to enter upon the work and office of the ministry in the church of God. This inward call has to do with the consciousness of the believer, and it lies with him to recognize and obey it. It may be regarded as a direct impression of the Spirit upon the mind as clear, in many cases, if not in all, as the witness to the soul's pardon and adoption. We may not be able to explain how this is done in any case, but the fact of this inward persuasion and conviction is in accordance with scripture and experience. Outward circumstances come in to confirm, as the judgment of the church, the opinions of godly friends and the openings of Providence, but these are only confirmations, and do not constitute the call and warrant to assume so grave and momentous a responsibility. This conviction of duty may not be clear at first, and it needs close examination and careful sifting. Thought and prayer, and the most earnest and anxious inquiry, must be brought to bear upon the question. There will be abundant temptations in the mind of the young man whose serious attention is turned in this direction. He will shudder at the possibility of being mistaken, of going without being sent. Want of qualifications will plead for exemption, and he will perhaps cling to the suggestion that he can be exceedingly useful without becoming a preacher. The responsibility, however, must be met, and a right decision is certainly attainable if the divine guidance is humbly and earnestly sought. Severe struggles and conflicts may have to be passed through, but a satisfactory result will be soon reached by those whose only desire is to know the will of God concerning them. Many are doubtless called who never obey, and some, perhaps, who never recognize the fact that this duty has been required of them. Compared with the entire number of young men who are converted, few may be moved to preach, and yet it might well be made a matter of self-examination and inquiry with every one of them.

The availability of prayer on the part of the church is based upon the doctrine that it is God's prerogative to call men to preach the gospel. Besides the incidental but important effect of awakening conviction upon the subject, it secures direct and gracious answers from the great Head of the Church. It is enough that God is "the Lord of the harvest," and that we are enjoined to pray "that he will send forth laborers into his harvest." The ministerial supply is therefore in no small degree suspended upon this condition. As in many other needed blessings, so in this, God is pleased to give in response to believing prayer, and, doubtless, according to the measure of our faith. But to pray aright the church must realize the want, the alarming destitution, and come before God in the attitude of a deep humiliation and of an all-absorbing devotion. When an earnest, holy and self-denying church comes to wrestle with God for the thrusting out of laborers, there can be no doubt about the result. But let us be careful to pray consistently. While we ask God to raise up preachers, let us see to it that we are ourselves imbued with the spirit of self-sacrifice, and that, in our spheres of duty, we realize the measure of a complete consecration. Are parents prepared to see their own sons thrust out, and devoted to the toil, poverty and self-denial of preaching the gospel to the heathen, and of giving themselves, body and soul, for life, to a calling which looks beyond the grave for its chief compensations and rewards? Are we ready to do our part toward supporting those whom God may call to preach? Many devoted men already in the ministry are without the means to pursue their divine vocation. Our missions are feebly manned for want of funds. Young men are flying from their convictions, and silencing or compromising their consciences in view of the inadequate support which awaits them in the ministry. To ask the Lord to send more preachers, when we are unwilling to support them, would be sheer mockery.

The means of leading young men into the ministry must go along with our prayers. Hence the importance of preaching upon the ministerial call. We have never heard a sermon on the subject, and we presume that few of our people have. We have, as preachers, been guilty of a serious neglect in this matter. Our people all need instruction, and our young people especially. Like other religious principles and convictions, this may be awakened and developed, and we cannot doubt that immense good would be accomplished if our preachers were to make it frequently the theme of pulpit exposition. Many young men in our congregations and Sunday schools need nothing but instruction and sympathy to bring them into this path of usefulness. Sunday school superintendents and teachers may also do much in this direction. There is no better school of the prophets than the Bible class, and many of our most effective preachers date their call from the class room. The professors and teachers in our colleges and literary institutions may be the means of giving many able ministers to the church. This they are doing to some extent, but they can do yet more by making the subject more prominent in their intercourse with the students intrusted to their care. It is something to be seriously pondered, that at a time when the activities of the church are so strenuously enlisted in the Sunday school and educational enterprises, there should be such a marked destitution in the supply of preachers. The lesson may be this: that the great source of supply is prayer, and that neither Sunday schools nor colleges will avail without this direct appeal to the Lord of the harvest.

Above all mere conditions and means, the spiritual vitality of the church is most essential. Where this is kept at a high point men will be moved to preach the gospel, and they will not be disobedient to the heavenly vision. A general revival of religion would do more to replenish the ranks of the ministry than anything else. The fountain of supply is from the body of the church, and the ministry fairly exhibits the spiritual condition of the membership. Let the pure revival flame spread over our territory, and men will come up from the farm, the workshop, the counting room and the college to begin their career as preachers of the gospel. Feeble spiritual life in the church is nowhere sooner exhibited than in the want of preachers, and all appliances will fail until this life is revived with power. We look with hope in this direction. There are indications of times of refreshing from God, and the earnests of a great awakening begin to appear.

Lord of the harvest, hear
Thy needy servant's cry;
Answer our faith's effectual prayer,
And all our wants supply.

TIMES OF REFRESHING.

The protracted services at the Carondelet Street church of this city are still kept up, and with increasing interest and power. Thirty or more have been converted up to the time of this writing, and as many as forty seekers at a time have been at the altar after the night sermon. The noonday prayer and experience meeting is largely attended, and the large night and Sabbath congregations appear to be deeply and seriously impressed. The pastor, Bro. Tudor, is heartily assisted by his members, and by the pastors and preachers in the city.

Last Sabbath was a day of great grace and power at the Felicity Street charge. Eight persons were converted, and the pastor, Bro. Mathews, received ten members. The special services in the Craps Street German church, Rev. J. B. A. Ahrens, pastor, were concluded on Friday last. During the meeting there were sixty conversions and thirty-six accessions to the church.

The quickening Spirit is abroad, and we are encouraged to hope that a great awakening is about to take place. A flood-tide of grace seems to be setting in, and it behooves the churches to improve the blessed visitation. This is a favorable time for the unconverted to hear and obey the voice of God. "To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts."

A most hopeful indication which we have remarked is the deep and unusual concern expressed and felt by Christians for the salvation of their kindred and friends. Many are rising up in the congregation and asking the prayers of the church for the conversion of their neighbors and relatives. The work among the members of the church has been especially powerful. The lukewarm and backsliders have been revived, and many who have long sought assurance in vain have within a few days past rejoiced in the witness of the Spirit. A general spirit of seriousness and inquiry begins to prevail among those who have hitherto been utterly indifferent. We trust that the time has come for a glorious harvest and ingathering of souls.

KENTUCKY INTELLIGENCE.

The Nashville Christian Advocate contains the following items:

We are rejoiced to see that Bishop Kavanaugh is in the field again. He must not overtask himself, nor allow others to overtask him. Our Kentucky and Holston brethren will please note his appointments in this week's paper.

The Rev. B. Arbogast, A. M., president of Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Virginia, has accepted the presidency of the Kentucky Wesleyan University. He will be present to sign the diplomas of the graduates at the approaching commencement, and will enter regularly upon his official duties with the opening of the collegiate year in September. The friends of the institution are alive with joy that so able a president has been secured, and Bro. Arbogast will receive a hearty welcome to Kentucky from ministers and laymen.

Millersburg is having a great revival. There have been forty conversions; twenty-four have joined the Methodist Church.

COLUMBUS, GEORGIA.—The Rev. T. T. Christian writes, March 9, to the Southern Christian Advocate: "I am just from Columbus. A revival is progressing there with increasing interest. Several clear, glorious conversions on Tuesday. The union prayer meeting, every morning, is largely attended. The congregations at night in the Methodist churches are very fine, and I suppose it is the case in the Baptist and Presbytorian churches. This is about the sixth week of the meeting, and yet it grows in interest. Its influence is felt all through the city. Sinners of all ages are thoughtful—solemn."

Reminiscences of Bishop Andrew.

ROMULUS, March 15, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: I was pained to see in the last ADVOCATE an account of the demise of our venerable father in Zion, Bishop James O. Andrew. The blow was not rendered lighter, nor the loss less, because it was not unexpected. I heard the Bishop preach several times while I was a school boy in Summerfield. At this place we had the most interesting Sabbath school I ever saw. The Bishop was himself a teacher in the school, and the writer was a member of his class. His preaching, even at that age—just before he assumed a superannuated relation—was characterized by great energy and animation. The words of his fatherly counsel and parental instruction still linger in my memory. A sermon he preached from the text, "Nevertheless, at thy word I will let down the net," is still fresh in my mind. I shall never forget a striking comparison he instituted, on one occasion, of the mercies and blessings of heaven to a bank which never suspended payment, and whose checks were always honored.

During one of those old-fashioned revivals for which Summerfield was distinguished, myself and another fellow-student—now dead—were rejoicing together in the favor of God and the smiles of heaven, when this aged man of God observed: "Take care; the tempter will be along after a while." Alas! how true did his warning prophecy prove.

My father—an old man—visited me at Centenary, and expressed great anxiety to see Bishop Andrew. Accordingly he, another pupil and myself called on him at his residence. We found him engaged in his study. After expending an hour pleasantly in his genial company we bade him good by, and he handed us a letter, directed in his own peculiar handwriting, to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. We feel that a link which connected us to the days of Asbury and McKendree is severed in his death. His departure suggests the prayer: "Help, Lord, for the godly man ceaseth." Peace to his honored dust.

JOSEPH ATKINSON.

FROM VIRGINIA.

The Richmond Christian Advocate contains the following revival items:

A meeting of much interest is in progress at Broad Street church in this city. Several persons have been converted, and the congregations are large and attentive.

In a private note, Rev. A. G. Brown thus speaks of the work in Norfolk and Portsmouth:

"Bro. Peterson is again blessed with a fine revival in his charge. A large addition has already been made to the membership of the church, and the religious interest of this large congregation is evidently increasing. I rejoice to add that Bro. Judkins is being rewarded and cheered in his work by a gracious outpouring of the Holy Spirit on his charge. He has just commenced a series of meetings which promise well for old Dinwiddie street. The Lord be praised!"

Bro. P. A. Peterson, we are truly glad to hear, is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

We have good news from High street, Petersburg. Rev. George E. Booker says: "We are in the midst of a gracious revival. Twenty-one have professed up to this time, (seventeenth instant.) Among the converts are several Sunday school scholars."

MARK THIS.

It is gratifying to announce that the proceeds of the fair for Morean Street church netted $2,000.30, with some "fragments which are being gathered up."

We cannot express our gratitude to the faithful and unselfish sisters who labored so diligently in collecting for and working the tables, and who otherwise contributed so nobly to its success. We now sleep under a free roof. We have cancelled all the claims against the parsonage to the "utmost farthing," besides paying for recent repairs on the church. "One woe is passed." God bless all the people and send us a spiritual ingathering. Amen.

T. B. WHITE, Pastor.

THERE are ten agricultural schools in Belgium, six in Baden, and one or more in Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Spain and Portugal.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE APPLE CULTURIST. A comple treatise for the practical pomo ogist. By Sereno Edwards Tod New York: Harper & Brothe publishers, 1871.

The book is handsomely boun and contains three hundred an thirty-four pages. The illustr tions are numerous and valuabl Everything worth knowing abo the apple seems to be collected he We have in successive chapter Propagating Apple Trees; Graftin and Budding; Proper Preparatio of the Soil for Orchards; Layi out the Ground for an Orchard Removing and Transplanting, Pru ing and Training; Exterminatin Noxious Insects; Gathering an Management of Apples; Gener Principles of Pomology, and Pomological Glossary. The auth is evidently an ardent friend of t apple, and well qualified to wri about it. This is the most comple work on the subject that we ha met. For sale by George Ellis Brother, 82 Camp street, New O leans.

POEMS BY LUCRETIA MARIA DAVIDS With illustrations by F. O. Darley. Edited by M. Oliv Davidson. New York: Publish by Hurd & Houghton. Cambrid Riverside Press, 1871.

The publishers have left nothi to be desired in the manner in whi they have brought out this ne edition of Lucretia Davidson's wr ings. The volume is elegantly illu trated, with clear type, on tint paper, and is in keeping with t delicacy and sweetness of the poe which it contains. Besides th poems, we have here numero specimens of the author's prose co positions, and her biography, writte by Miss Sedgwick. Miss Davidso was but seventeen when she die but her poems, after nearly half century, are as fresh and popular ever. Much interest in them is n doubt excited by the fact that the were the product of one so young but apart from this element of t wonderful, they possess real meri and exhibit a genius of extr ordinary power. These effusions a marked by their exquisite purity a gentleness, and an hour spent in the perusal is like a walk, in a spri morning, amidst the aroma of flo ers and the singing of birds. Fo sale by James A. Gresham, Cam street, New Orleans.

SUBURBAN SKETCHES. By W. D Howells. New York: Publishe by Hurd & Houghton. Cam bridge: Riverside Press, 187 Howells' "Venetian Life" and h "Italian Journeys" are well know and appreciated. Some of the hig est authorities in literature, both England and in the United State have classed him among the mo graphic and agreeable writers the day. The present volume fresh, humorous, and, as its tit would indicate, sketchy. The sketches, of which there are nin several subjects, are chiefly abo Boston people and scenes. The rotate about "the hub," and ar flavored with a good deal of Ne England spicery. The author re minds us of Holmes and Holland and exhibits much of the sam brilliant and sparkling qualities wit, satire and philosophy witha For sale by Gresham, Camp stree New Orleans.

STORIES AND TALES. By Hans Chri tian Andersen. Illustrated by L. Stoue and V. Pedersen. A thor's edition. New York: Pub lished by Hurd & Houghto Cambridge: Riverside Press, 187

Our enterprising friend Gresha of Camp street, has laid this volu also upon our table. Only think eight hundred pages of stories an tales written by the prince of sto tellers! So far as we have examine these writings they are wholesom in their tone, and can be safely p into the hands of the young. If w have counted accurately there ar seventy-nine separate stories tales in the book, and as many seventeen very clever pictures, de signed to illustrate scenes and even described by the author.

THE NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE. W. Harrison, D. D., editor. Nashville Publishing House of the Meth odist Episcopal Church South.

The number for April makes its appearance just before we go to press, and we have had time only to glance at its attractive pages. We exhort and command every reader of the ADVOCATE to subscribe immediately for our New Monthly. You cannot afford to be without it. The table of contents for April: Nothing but a Woman; Lines to Friend; Up with the Times; Science and Theology; Sunset on the Mississippi; Celebrities that I have Seen; Folk Lore from many Lands; My Lambs; Wonders of the Sea; The Rose in January; Historical Sketches; Shut the Door Softly; The Beautiful; Over and over Again; Old Music Masuniello; Chasing Buttorflies; Mother of Napoleon the First; Reflections at the Cemetery at St. Mary's, Georgia; An Old Maid's Evenings; The Epidemics of the Middle Ages; Remarkable Dream of the Prince Imperial of France; Carmen; Charbon de Terre; A Liege Legend; A Great Man; Dying by Poison; Editor's Round Table.

Our Sunday School Publications for April are to hand. The Sunday School Magazine has an excellent table of contents. The first article, by Bishop Wightman, on "Sunday School Instruction: The Law of its Success," is as well handled as possible in so brief a space. The subject itself embraces the most important feature of the Sunday school enterprise. "Illustrative Readings" and "Notes for Teachers and Students" indicate careful preparation, and are instructive. There are no more useful departments in the Magazine than these. We observe with pleasure that the first thing in the Lesson Paper is a review of the studies for the past quarter. The Visitor is more delightful than usual this month. The illustrations are better, and we think that all classes of readers will be satisfied with the many good things which Dr. Huygood here provides for their entertainment and instruction. The notice of the character and death of Bishop Andrew, which appears in Our Little People, could not have been put in a more appropriate place. The great and good Bishop loved the little ones, and delighted to minister to them.

The Southern Magazine, published at Baltimore by Murdoch, Browne & Hill, is one of our most popular monthlies. The April number has a dozen articles, mostly original, on topics of present interest. Among them we note: Some of our Local Great Men; Music and Morals; On Reading the Poets; History av the Waw, and the Siege of Paris.

Scribner's Monthly is rapidly distancing all competitors in the way of illustrations. The April number sets before us a repast rare indeed for riches and variety. Life in the Cannibal Islands is continued. The Martyr Church of Madagascar will have many seriously interested readers. A Breakfast with Alexander Dumas is a pretty good characterization of this abominable celebrity, although Mr. Bigelow deals tenderly with his licentiousness and gluttony. A little African blood covers a multitude of sins. Topics of the Time, by the editor, Dr. Holland, has an earnest article on the temperance question and the press.

Lippincott's Magazine is portly, and of exquisite finish in its outward dress and typography. The article on Charles Francis Adams is suggestive of the fact that the political history of our times is chiefly written with a sectional bias, and calculated to mislead and pervert. Wild Ireland is full of life and incident. Lucretia Pontiff, on Emanuel Swedenborg, has said what she could to commend his mysticisms to the readers of the magazine. There is an article entitled Mon-Mon—a good story, perhaps. What Shall we Drink is a very convincing argument for temperance or total abstinence. The Serial Supplement is to us of no value, and to our taste is anything but an improvement.

The Art Review, E. H. Trafton, publisher and proprietor, New York and Chicago, has reached the fourth number of its first volume. It is published bi-monthly at $1.50 per annum. An excellent periodical for all lovers of art. The Hawk's Nest, in the March number, is a fine specimen of etching.

The Household, published monthly at Brattleboro, Vermont, is a periodical filled with the choicest matter. The lady of our house prizes it more than any other periodical, designed for housekeepers, which reaches our office. It is a domestic journal, and mailed to subscribers at $1 a year.

Hearth and Home of the twenty-fifth of March surpasses itself in the number and splendor of its illustrations. This valuable paper has a large variety of articles on science, natural history, agriculture, fruit-growing and domestic economy. Published weekly by Orange Judd & Co., New York.

Leffel's Illustraten Mechanical News is published by James Leffel & Co., at Springfield, Ohio. The first number is before us, and promises to be a good paper. It is specially devoted to science and the mechanical and industrial arts. It is to issue monthly. Price, fifty cents a year.

The Southern Farmer for April contains the usual variety of matter for the instruction and entertainment of country readers. This valuable agricultural journal is published by M. W. Philips & Co., at Memphis, Tennessee. Price, $2 a year.

Among articles that will attract and repay perusal, in the Galaxy for April, we may put Lee at Gettysburg; Captain Hall's Arctic Expedition; Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy; The Nether Side of New York.

The Southern Field and Factory is a new monthly magazine, published by Wall & Rafter, Jackson, Mississippi, at $2 per annum. It is a well conducted journal, and devoted to the agricultural and manufacturing interests of the South.

The Little Corporal for April has a number of very pretty illustrations, and the usual number of excellent original contributions in prose and in verse. Published by John E. Miller, Chicago, Illinois. Price, $1.50 per annum.

Littell's Living Age of March 18 has in its table of contents: The Late Eclipse; The Monastery of Sumelas; Women and Alcohol; Germany and Bismarck, besides poetry and short articles.

The Illustrated Christian Weekly is a new and handsomely illustrated paper, just issued by the American Tract Society, at $2 a year. Lyman Abbott is editor; S. E. Warner, associate editor.

Littell's Living Age of March 25 has been received. Among articles of interest we note: The Ring and the Book; Sweetness and Light; Thiers; The Ballot, besides some choice poetry and short articles.

The Sunday School Journal, published by Carlton & Lanahan, and edited by Dr. J. H. Vincent, is one of the best periodicals of its class that we receive.

Appleton's Journal of April 1 is splendidly illustrated, and manifests no signs of decline in its literary and scientific departments.

THE FIRST RESPONSE FOR CHINA.

Mr. Editor: The Sunday school at Bayou Sara, through their superintendent, Bro. Thomas Garnett, is the first to respond to the call for help for Bro. Lambuth in his orphans' school in China, by sending me a post office money order for $22.50.

How many more will respond? and which next?

H. H. Montgomery.

The Richmond Christian Advocate of March 9 says: "The revival at Court street, Lynchburg, is still in progress. Up to this time one hundred and fifty have been converted, and one hundred have been received into the church; others will join. The work is also still in progress at Centenary, and at the Baptist and Presbyterian churches. Since these revivals commenced there have been at least six hundred persons converted in Lynchburg. Dr. Rosser writes of the meeting he is now conducting at Charlottesville: 'The work here has commenced. Large assemblies. The church animated. Several penitents. We go on.' A fine revival is in progress at Madison Courthouse, under the ministry of the Rev. R. W. Watts. The work at Cumberland street, Norfolk, is still in progress."

Southern Pacific Railroad.—We have received an elegant engraving, giving the route of this line, and a large and accurate view of the Bay of San Diego—its Pacific terminus. The drawing is made from official measurements by Colonel Williamson, professor of engineering in the Virginia Military Institute, and its correctness is indorsed by Captain John M. Brooke, late Confederate States navy.

The recent grant by Congress of seventeen millions of acres to this road makes this map and sketch, with its accompanying information (including a recent and valuable letter of Commodore Maury,) a timely and interesting publication.

It can be obtained of the College Bookstore, Lexington, Virginia. Price, twenty-five cents.

Revival in Little Rock, Arkansas.—A private letter, received by the Rev. S. Watson, from Little Rock, March 5, says: "We have an interesting meeting in progress at First Street church, Rev. H. B. Frasee, pastor. There have been over twenty conversions; fourteen persons joined the church to-day. The prospect for a more powerful work is encouraging. We have been praying for better times. Our heavenly Father has blessed us and we are happy." This good work, we hope, will advance with power, and the brethren, we trust, will report progress.—Western Methodist.

The Rev. Daniel Howard Parrish, of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, died in great peace in Baltimore, on the twenty-fourth of February. Thus, says the Southern Christian Advocate, has passed away another gifted young minister of our church, reminding us "that here we have no continuing city."

Bishop Early, says the Richmond Christian Advocate, "is in very feeble health, but has improved somewhat since the opening of spring. He was unable to attend the revival meetings, but enjoyed them greatly at home. Some of the Bishop's friends, for whom he had felt great solicitude for years, were converted."

ONE WEEK SOONER.

Attention has, within the last week, been called to the fact that the General Assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church adjourned at Warrensburg, Missouri, May, 1870, to meet in Nashville, Tennessee, May, 1871. The constitution of that church requires its General Assembly to meet on the third Thursday in May. The Representative Hall of the capitol of Tennessee was, on application, obtained for the meeting of the Assembly.

In Memphis, May, 1870, the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, being unadvised of the action of the Assembly, appointed the Sunday School Convention to meet in Nashville on May 18. The use of the Representative Hall was also obtained for the convention.

The interest of both these ecclesiastical convocations requires that they should not be held at the same time and place; and it is, for several reasons, less inconvenient for us to change than for our Cumberland Presbyterian brethren to do so.

Therefore, at a called meeting at the Publishing House, of the ministers and pastors resident in Nashville, on March 18, it was agreed unanimously that the Sunday School Convention should meet one week earlier—that is to say, Thursday, May 11, instead of Thursday, May 18, as heretofore announced, the programme remaining the same.

The meeting of the Book Committee and of the Board of Missions has accordingly been adjusted to this change—that is to say, the Board of Missions will meet on the ninth of May, and the Book Committee on the tenth of May. The Bishops have also been requested to hold their annual meeting a week earlier than heretofore announced—that is to say, on Monday, the eighth of May.

The Committee of Arrangements at Nashville have appointed the funeral sermon of Bishop Andrew to be preached by Bishop Pierce, in McKendree church, at three P. M., May 7. The dedication of Elm Street church, by Bishop Doggett, will take place on the same day, at eleven A. M.

H. N. McTyeire.

LIBERAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

Mr. Editor: It is gratifying to receive so many responses to our urgent calls in behalf of the missionary enterprises of the church. The spirits of our people are reviving, and with the return of temporal prosperity they will contribute to the cause of Christ with generous hearts and liberal hands.

Miss Margaret Gremmer, of Williamson county, Tennessee, by the hands of Bro. J. M. Peebles, handed me the other day a check for $200. She is aged and infirm, but full of love to God and his cause. Her habit for years has been to give as God gave her the ability.

Allow me room to acknowledge the following responses:

"Hartford, Ohio Co., Ky.

"To the Rev. J. B. McFerrin: Please accept $50, missionary money, and oblige David A. Miller, Sen."

"Petersburg, Va., March 12, 1871.

"Rev. J. B. McFerrin: You will find inclosed the sum of $10, in answer to your appeal in the Richmond Christian Advocate, for the benefit of the missionary work.

"Very respectfully,

Joseph Carr."

"Richmond, Va., March 9, 1871.

"Dr. J. B. McFerrin—Dear Sir: You will please find inclosed $5, which you will please appropriate to the cause of foreign missions, and much oblige

A Friend of your Board."

J. W. Mundy, of Greenwood, South Carolina, sends $1 for our brother in China, Rev. Young J. Allen.

"Daneyville, Haywood Co., Tenn., March 16, 1871.

"Rev. J. B. McFerrin—Dear Brother: You will find inclosed a check for $500 for missionary purposes, which I send you. I wish it applied where it will bring glory to God and good to the people. It is a thanksgiving offering to God for his goodness and his mercies to myself and family. I have been living with a beloved wife for forty-five years; we have had twelve children; have raised all of them; three of our sons were in the army; two of them in Perryville fight, and several other hard-fought battles; all of them got home uninjured. I was raised by Presbyterian parents, and was converted at a Methodist camp meeting the rise of forty-one years past. I am a Methodist of the old stripe, a lover of class and love-feast meetings. When I reflect on the goodness of God, and his mercies, the response of my heart is, Glory to God! You will please acknowledge the receipt of this. Your brother in love, F. B. Kerr."

Such responses greatly encourage our hearts and strengthen our hands. J. B. McFerrin, Sec.

CALCASIEU SULPHUR MINE.

EXTRACT FROM REPORT OF MR. GIBANET, CHIEF MINING ENGINEER OF THE COMPANY.

Toward the end of October last the Calcasieu Sulphur and Mining Company undertook to drill an artesian well, in order to ascertain the location, the bearings and the true richness of a layer of sulphur, accidentally discovered scarcely two years ago whilst boring for a petroleum deposit.

This first boring had just gone through a petroleum deposit containing too little oil to be worked profitably. It was therefore being continued, in the hope of finding, at a greater depth, a larger quantity of petroleum, when at the depth of four hundred and forty-three feet below the surface a layer of sulphur one hundred and eight feet in thickness was reached.

Unfortunately, the parties who were in charge of the boring operations, being unacquainted with the full value of the precious metalloid which offered itself to them, went through it entirely without paying much attention to the discovery they had just made, and contenting themselves with designating rather loosely the layer they had found as "pure crystalline sulphur." They continued to bore still deeper in search of the petroleum deposit they hoped to find lower down, when, in fact, they had long since gone through it.

The sulphur layer was discovered, its thickness was approximately ascertained, but its real richness was completely unknown.

For this reason the Calcasieu Sulphur and Mining Company, established principally for the purpose of extracting the sulphur discovered, resolved, before undertaking to sink a large extracting well, to explore the entire layer by means of a new boring, and to ascertain the exact value in sulphur of the mineral constituting the sulphur bed.

Such is a brief account of the motive which induced the renewed labors of which we propose now to make known the results.

A vertical well, most carefully drilled by Mr. Munn, who has been long familiar with that special work, struck the sulphur bed at a depth of 428 feet, and went through its entire thickness of 112 feet.

It would take up too much space, and besides it would be entirely useless, to give here the geological description of the various layers that were encountered before we touched the sulphur bed; I shall, therefore, confine myself to a description of the latter, the only one which it is really important to study.

The sulphur appears in compact and amorphous masses, of a pale color, interspersed here and there with yellow crystals.

It is surrounded by a calcareous crystalline matrix, of a whitish color and rather considerable hardness, but which, nevertheless, is easily reduced to powder under the stroke of the hammer.

It is clear, therefore, that the working of the drilling tool through this bed must for that very reason have been long and difficult, and that the fragments brought up from the well after each stroke must have come up in the shape of a powder more or less fine, according to the relative hardness of the various parts of the sulphur bed.

The debris extracted from the well, after each stroke, have given clear and precise evidence that the entire bed, from the summit to the base, is of extraordinary richness, and also that it is easy to extract it.

As regards the shaft to be sunk in order to reach the sulphur, there is no serious difficulty to be encountered.

The bed or layer commences at the depth of 428, feet, and terminates at 540; it has hence a thickness of 112 feet.

The proportion of sulphur at the summit is 60 per cent.

This proportion increases rapidly as we descend deeper into the interior of the bed. At 441 feet it becomes 70 per cent.; at 459 it is 80 per cent.; at 466 feet 83 per cent.; finally at 486 feet it rises to 90 per cent.

From that depth the quantity of sulphur falls off gradually from 90 to 80 per cent., then to 75 per cent., then rises again to 80, and finally comes down to 68 per cent. at the depth of 540 feet, which point must be considered as the lower limit of the bed.

From 540 to 552 feet, where the drilling stopped, the calcareous matrix changes color, becomes grayish, and still contains a certain quantity of sulphur, in the proportion of 30 to 40 per cent.

Finally, at the depth of 552 feet, the sulphur tends to disappear.

This is a complete description of the sulphur bed we have explored.

A young Jewess in Philadelphia, named Maggie Cohen, came near suffering the fate of Desdemona at the hands of her mother and brother the other day. They attempted to smother her with pillows while she was asleep, because she has a Christian lover. Mother and son have been arrested.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending March 27, 1871.

A—A S Andrews, Vernon Allen, T Y Armstrong

B—J Barker, J C C Black, John Bancroft, R Babbington $6 50, G W Boyls, W C Black 2 lots $3.10.

C—W M Crisp $3, A F Cox $30, J P Casimir, E H Cushing.

D—A Dowling, R A Davis $3, H D Dashiell $6, J W De Vilbiss.

E—Chas F Evans 3 lots $71.

F—Thos W Flowers $3, C C Ellis $3, Wm Flan, Jas M Franklin $2.80.

G—Jas A Godfrey, Thos Garnett.

H—A Hood $3, W L C Hunnicutt $10.40, J W Hearn, J E Hawkins, Jas H Houston $5, M M Harp, P Howard, J W Hall, W C Halsllp 2 lots.

I—R S Isbell.

J—K A Jones, J C Johnston, John E Jagers, Johnson & Buchanan.

K—H J Kane $4.

L—H P Lewis, Iddo Lewis, G M Liverman $1.50, L H Le Gette & Co $97.

M—J Z T Morris, F M Moore, H N McTyeire, J D Murff 2 lots, H H Montgomery 3 lots $23.80, Irvin Miller, A H Mitchell $2 90, O M Marsh $5, J H Mims, A W Mitchell, L P Meador, W G Millsaps, J B McFerrin, M C Manly $16, John A Miller.

N—J Nicholson, W F Norton, Thos Nixon, J D Newsom, John F Neal, A T Norwood $2.40, J A Norsworthy 2 lots $92.80.

P—L Patterson, Jas S Parker, Moses Padgett $6, U B Phillips $6, Wm Price $18.

R—A H Redford 2 lots, M B Rankin 2 lots $13.60.

S—J C Smith, Jas Shanks, D S Snodgrass, Chas B Stuart, A H Stewart, J L Scales, W H Scales $14, R A Sibley $5.30, F W Sharbrough, Wiley A Shook, H R Singleton $2.65, J W Sandell $17.17, P B Saffold $4.

T—A Trotter $3, G Y Thomasson, H M Truehart 2 lots $4, Calvin Taylor, James H Tucker.

W—G D Wade $3, F Walker, J M Weems, D Woodruff $63.50, Baseom Ward.

Y—N H Young.

Married.

In Copiah county, Mississippi, February 1, 1871, by Rev. R. A. Sibley, Mr. J. W. Butler and Miss Othelia Saxon.

In Franklin county, Mississippi, March 5, 1871, by the same, William Stroud and Miss Susanna Sullivan.

By W. B. Adams, at the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Shady Grove, Pike county, Alabama, on the nineteenth instant, William H. Snell and Margaret L. Mitchell, all of Pike county, Alabama.

Obituaries.

Died, in Nacogdoches county, Texas, February 18, 1871, of pneumonia, P. Graves Rogers, aged twenty-three years, eight months and fourteen days.

The deceased was born in Lowndesboro, Alabama, June 4, 1847, and came to Keachie, Louisiana, with his mother when quite young. His mother died soon after, and left him to the care of his uncle, Captain Y. W. Graves.

Captain Graves received the little boy into his family and cared for him as his own son. In company with his cousins, he attended the male school in Keachie, and became a great favorite with his teachers and schoolmates, exhibiting many traits of character rarely met with in youths of his age. He finished his education at the State Seminary, and chose law as a profession. Before entering on its practice he concluded to teach awhile, and had charge of a large country school at the time of his death.

Graves Rogers was a young man of uncommon intellect, and bid fair to become one of the first men of our country. Everything about him was noble. He seemed careful at all times and under all circumstances to preserve self-respect.

Last Christmas he delivered in Keachie an address to the Sabbath school. This address, delivered with dignity, showed deep thought and extensive reading, and foreshadowed the future greatness of the man.

When Graves was told that he must soon die, he said it was hard to die so young, when he had not fully accomplished anything in life—it was hard to die so far from loved ones at home, but that he was not afraid to die. He requested that his body should be decently buried, and that his uncle should have it moved and placed by the side of his deceased mother, in the Methodist graveyard at Keachie, which request has been carried out in presence of a large congregation of weeping friends. His life had been so pure that he met death

"Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant dreams."

Farewell, dear friend! Many are the happy hours we have spent together, and sadly will we miss you; but "We feel a strong, immortal hope,

Which bears our mournful spirits up
Beneath their mountain-load:
Redeem'd from death and grief and pain,
We soon shall find our friend again,
Within the arms of God."

Amicus.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The following preamble and resolutions were passed by the quarterly conference of Havana circuit, Alabama Conference, March 18, 1871:

Whereas, Our heavenly Father, since our last quarterly conference, hath by death removed from our association our beloved brother, Levi Smith; And whereas, It is right and meet for us, as his co laborers, to give some expression of his worth and Christian virtues therefore,

Resolved, 1. That in the death of Bro. Smith this circuit lost one of its faithful and earnest local preachers, sincerely and honestly allied to all the interests of the church of which he was a member.

2. That while we bow with humble submission to the dispensation in his removal, nevertheless we feel afflicted, knowing that we shall not see him any more in our midst; yet our loss is his gain, and we will strive to meet him in the better land.

3. That we tender our sympathies to his bereaved family, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to them, and also to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

4. That we set apart a blank page in the records of this quarterly conference in memory of our deceased brother.

A. H. Mitchell, P. E.
A. R. Romny, Sec.

If you desire Rosy Cheeks, and a Complexion fair and free from Pimples, Blotches and Eruptions, purify your blood by taking Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. It has no equal for this purpose, nor as a remedy for Liver Complaint or Biliousness. Sold by all druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A NEW BOOK!

AN INSPIRING THEME

"THE SERVICE OF SONG."

BY REV. A. G. STACY, A. M., of the Wes St. Louis Conference, with Introduction by Rev. T. O. Summers, D. D.

It covers an almost untrodden field in our literature. The great questions discussed are: "Who should Sing?" "How should we Sing?" "What should we Sing?" "Why should we Sing?"

It is fresh in style and matter, abounding in vivid illustrations from fact and fancy.

"We advertise the public of the great value of the work and its high order of literary merit."—Rev. T. M. Finney, editor St. Louis Christian Advocate.

"We bespeak for this excellent treatise a wide circulation."—Summers.

The book is 12mo, 310 pages, and brought out in elegant style.

Price, $1 50, with liberal discount to wholesale purchasers. Orders will be filled on and after April 1, 1871. Address

S. W. BOOK AND PUBLISHING CO.,
510 and 512 Washington avenue,
mh30 1t St. Louis, Mo.

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1,50 FOR O'HARA'S Pocket Giant Corn-Sheller. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address

C. T. VAN SICKLEN,
mh30 3m 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

$10 From 50 Cents.

SOMETHING urgently needed by everybody. Call and examine, or twelve samples sent (postage free) for fifty cents that retail readily for $10. R. L. WOLCOTT, mh30 6mcom 181 Chatham Square, N. Y.

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS.

THESE GINS are so constructed that hard substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing.—They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK.

New Orleans, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

Treasury Department,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

Whereas, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. John Jay Knox, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 tf

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

The Child's Corner.

LULU'S COMPLAINT.

BY HESTER A. BENEDICT.

I's a poor 'ittle sorrowful baby.
'For B'idget is 'way down stairs;
My ittten has statched my finder,
And Dolly won't say her p'ayers.

I hain't seen my bootiful mamma
Since ever so lon' ado;
An' I ain't her tunnin'est baby
No loader, for B'idget said so.

My ma's dot anoder new baby;
Dod dived it—He did—yes'erday;
An' it kies, it kies, oh so deffu'!
I wis' He would tate it awny.

I don't want no "sweet 'ittle sister!"
I want my dood mamma, I do;
I want her to tiss me, an' tiss me,
An' tall me her p'ecious Lula!

I dess my bid papa will b'in' me
A 'ittle dood ittten some day.
Here's nurse wid my mamma's new baby;
I wis' s'e would tate it away.

Oh, oh, what tunnin' yed finders!
It sees me yite out o' its eyes!
I dess we will teep it, and dive it
Some tanny wbeuever it kies.

I dess I will dive it my Dolly
To play wid mos' every day;
And I dess, I dess—Say, B'idget,
As' Ded not to tate it away.

The Children's Hour.

BY THE SEA SHORE.

The sea was full of beautiful colors, violet and blue and green and delicate pink grays, because the little water fairies were busy all day long piling up treasures of pebbles and precious stones, golden and rose and brown and purple, and the water, as it flashed over them, caught their hues, and blended them together in a flood of light, and dashed against the bigger rocks with such a rush and onset that it was flung back into the air in showers of spray, and there the sunbeams had their turn, and made a rainbow of every tiny foam bubble, till the great green sea walls, as they drew near the land, rising up proudly with their snowy towers, broke and fell in showers of radiance; or the restless sea horses, with their white manes, sprang up into the air and fell over, and died away, sucked into the seething, boiling water that grew into a fresh shape and semblance over their graves.

Far down below it was all still and untroubled, and even up on the world level there were little sheltered nooks among the rocks, where the Storm Spirit could not enter, and where the water flashed and gurgled with a soft, loving sound against the stones, and rolled the pebbles over with a gentle touch, as dogs might in their play with tail and ears waving gently in pleasant, objectless pastime. The sea fairies were good and busy and happy, singing to themselves as they worked; you may hear them when the Storm Spirit is asleep, and the great waves fall back and die away with a musical murmur; then the fairies are singing in chorus, soft and low, under the sea.

When it is night, and the world people are all asleep, little dark figures run down the beach, queer little men with pointed caps and big bundles on their backs almost as large as themselves. They are little Trolls from the mountains; they come out of the heart of the great hills, and they bring bits of ore, and of stone, and of marble, all the brightest and prettiest pieces they can find, to help the fairies to color the sea.

"Heigh-ho!" cries the first, as he reaches the water, "here's a beautiful bit of real porphyry, full of veins and lines and bright tintings. Little Marina, pretty Marina, this is for you."

And then all in a moment, just where the moonlight touches the edge of a quiet wave, fair hands grow out of the sparkling water, parting the foam drops, and breaking up the quivering rainbow into a hundred points of light, and then soft, shining tresses glitter along the green water, and where it grows bluest sweet eyes smile up at the sky, and all in a moment there is a little sea fairy standing on the crest of the wave, and then upon a slippery pebble, and then—plash!—two little white feet are planted firmly on the shingle, and busy, curious hands are stretched out for the new treasure. Then another, another and another dancing over the water, growing out of its shadows, sparkling in its foam, the bright-voiced little fairies gather in troops and pelt the waves with pebbles, and roll the stones about to round their edges, and dance upon the shining sand.

Two sisters sit on the rocks silently, side by side, both looking seaward; they are not glad sea fairies, but human and sad-hearted, with eyes full of tears that blur the bright colors and dim the light that trembles across the water.

The little fairies say to each other: "They are looking south, and are very sorrowful, and we know, and we will comfort them; let us play on the beach with these little waves, and sing them the song the south wind taught us:

"It is very fair, and sweet and fair,
In the garden by the sea;
With the cool green shade of the palm boughs,
And the orange and the rose tree.

"They are at rest there, and sleep
In that garden by the sea,
And Death sits like a quiet priest,
And guards them tenderly."

An old Troll was hidden under the rock where the sisters were sitting, because he had stayed too long by the shore, and the daylight had nearly caught him, and if it had he would have been turned into a little brown stone, and so he sat with his legs crossed under the rock till the night should come, and he could run home to the mountain in safety.

The old Troll said: "Good little fairies, you have done your best, and that is at least something."

"And I think they are a little comforted," said the fairies; "for while we were singing I heard them weep, and now their hearts will not ache so sorely."

But still they sat silently looking seaward, and the sun went down, and a soft light flushed up into the sky, and a bird flew suddenly across the water, like the spirit of a soft little rosy cloud that had strayed away from its fellows, and stood poised for a moment in the stillness, as though it could not quite make up its mind which way to go. But the bird flew to an old olive tree and sat among the soft gray leaves, and sang:

"It is very sweet, and fair and sweet,
In the garden in the sky,
Where the palm branch and the orange grow,
And the red rose doth not die.

"They dwell together in great joy
In that garden in the sky:
The Life is there, whom we call Christ,
To bless them utterly."

And when the song was ended it flew up into the quiet heaven, and a great peace and rest came down upon the earth, a beautiful purple shadow, cool and still like the peace of God, which wrapped the weary world in its covering. The fairies sang under the water, and the old Troll trudged quietly up the hill, saying to himself:

"Everything has a use, and is good for something. I'm ugly enough, but I help in my way to make the world beautiful. The angels taught that song to the bird. I'm glad he sang it; it has made them happier. The south wind and the sea fairies could do a little, but poor human hearts are often so full of sorrow that birds and winged messengers have to come straight out of heaven before they can bring them comfort. The good God has many a white carrier pigeon we are too blind to see."

The red light was gone, and the purple and the violet, but there was a golden glow still above the sea, and they said: "That is where heaven is; it is very near us, and God's love is everywhere!" and then the night came and a little bright star.—E. F. T., in Good Words for the Young.

A HINT TO MEDDLERS.—A Fable—A little white rose bloomed all by herself in a nook in the hedge.

"Ah!" cried the wind in passing, "what a pity you should be suffocated there! I will blow a hole in the hedge, and the breeze shall find you through it."

"I pray, sir, you will leave me as I am; I breathe well enough," said the rose.

"I know better," said the wind, and rent the hedge as he passed on, and the boys rushed through and made her tremble with fear.

"You are not well placed there," he said, as he came by again; "I will give you a better berth than that."

"I beg you will leave me as I am; I like my place well enough if it were not for the gap you made," said the rose.

But the wind would not listen; he broke her stem, and she fell to the ground.

"Oh, you mustn't lie there!" he cried; "I will carry you to the spot that will suit you exactly."

"Nay, I entreat you to let me lie and fade in this pleasant grass," said the rose beseechingly; but he caught her up, and whirled her on a few yards, when her petals were scattered, and her leafless stem was cast on the hedge.

"How is this?" exclaimed the wind.

"How is it? this is how it is," replied the hedge; "there are some folks that are never satisfied but when they are meddling in other folks' affairs; they think nobody can be happy except in their way; and you are one of them, and this bare stem is a specimen of your work."

IF A BEE stings you, will you go to the hive and destroy it? Would not a thousand come upon you? If you receive a trifling injury, don't be anxious to avenge it; let it drop. It is wisdom to say little respecting the injuries you have received.

WHEN we call old age the winter of life, we must beware lest we derogate from the bounty of our Maker, and disparage those blessings which he accounts precious, among which old age is none of the meanest.—Joseph Hall.

The Farm and Garden.

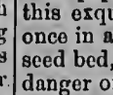
CULTIVATION OF CORN.

As soon as the third and fourth blades appear the first plowing should begin. Corn never recovers from injury received by neglect or delay at this time. Therefore be prepared to work it early and rapidly. The plow used to run next to the corn at this working should be long but narrow, so that the earth may be broken very deep and close to the young corn, and yet it should not be covered. When the middle is also broken deep and close the young roots, which soon shoot out in great numbers in search of food, will easily penetrate the soft earth, and find their necessary supplies, imparting health and vigor to the young plant. Every additional plowing after this should be less deep, as the plants increase in size and extend their roots, otherwise the roots will be wounded or cut off, thus injuring them and impeding their growth, and consequently that of the young plant also. If your land is too wet you should throw it up to and against the plants in the form of ridges, thus enabling it to dry out and get rid of its excess of moisture sooner; but if your corn land is inclined to be dry you should work it so as to keep the surface as level as possible, and thus enable it to retain its moisture better. The hoes should follow immediately after the plows, perfecting the work by thinning to the desired stand, and drawing a little soft earth to the corn, giving it a nice dressing, and leaving it perfectly clean. In about three weeks or less this operation should be repeated, using a sweep, cultivator or some plow which will not run quite so deep as before, but which will tumble a little soft earth about the roots of the corn, covering the young grass, thereby saving the hoe hands much labor. The hoes should follow again, straightening up all bent stalks, thinning out all surplus plants, pulling off suckers, and making clean all which the plows had failed to do. In three weeks more the third and ordinary last working should be given. This is an important crisis, and the planter must use his judgment and discretion as to the work to be given corn at this advanced stage and hot season. The plowing should be quite shallow, leaving the surface as soft and smooth as possible. A deep plowing at this time, unless followed immediately by a rain, would be productive of more harm than good. The hoes should pass over again, making all complete and clean. It is probably better on our uplands to work them while they are in a moist condition, but in no case should you delay working your corn to wait for a rain, because stirring the surface is itself equivalent to a shower of rain, as it enables the soil to absorb and retain the dews of the night and the moisture of the atmosphere more readily, and so refresh and invigorate the parched and drooping corn plants. Therefore in a dry season do not adhere to any rule as to the number of times your corn should be plowed, but stir the surface as often as possible. Even-running on one side of each row, with a sweep or cultivator, will be a great benefit, and enable you to pass rapidly over your crop, going on the opposite side the next time. It is an established fact that taking a small crop from land poorly cultivated is more exhausting and injurious to the soil than taking double the quantity from the same land properly cultivated. There is a great deal of truth in the following maxims, and every corn planter in the State would do well to remember them: "Plant deep, break deep and plow shallow;" "plant early, work early and lay by early;" and lastly, manure well. If these directions are followed you will be sure to make a good corn crop. The whole art of raising fine corn, after your land is properly manured and prepared, consists in keeping the growing crop free from grass and weeds, and the earth mellow around its roots until it shades the ground well, and its silks appear.—Elbert W. Peabody, in Southern Farm and Home.

THE FLOWER GARDEN.—We congratulate our fair readers that they are again occupied with the care of their flowers and shrubs. The hyacinths, jonquils, tulips, etc., the first to greet you and herald the approach of spring, are about to pass away, and give place to the roses whose buds are already filling. You can now plant tube roses, dahlias and gladiolus. Enlarge your beds of verbenas, which flourish so luxuriantly in our climate, blooming beautifully all through the summer and fall until frost, presenting a greater variety and richness of color than any other flower. Sow at once your hardy annuals and biennials. The directions for sowing, given in Vick's Floral Guide, are minute and easily followed. At the head of this department is a well executed engraving of a new variety of that numerous and beautiful family of Asters, which florists have brought to such perfection in growth and colors. We advise our lady friends to send to James Vick for a paper or two of the seed of this exquisite flower, sow them at once in a hot bed, cold frame or seed bed, transplant them, when all danger of frost is over, a foot apart, and they will have a splendid floral display in the fall, with little trouble or expense.—Southern Farm and Home.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S



COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

Soulé's
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
The Commercial Athenæum of the South,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
STORY BUILDING,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soulé's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address
GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,
FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER,
Jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Conn, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address
an20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo. $16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.
an13 O. F. CASEY.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session	40 00
Incidental expenses	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE, sc10 1y Jackson, La.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of
Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s
Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the
Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,
COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES
Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON
OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English Iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168.....CANAL STREET.....168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings, Lace Curtains, Curtain Damasks, Window Shades, etc
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.
ly2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

DR. N. P. GODFREY,
DENTIST,
May be found during business hours at
No. 183 Canal Street,
The third door west of Christ Church.
ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,
A Purely Vegetable Compound
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF
RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

WE TAKE PLEASURE in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these diseases. But experience has demonstrated the fact that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. Let all those, then, who are suffering from these complaints send for a bottle of N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR, and give it a trial. It is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, and can do no harm; whereas my unparalleled success in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bradley, would I refer those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies me in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to durat on of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia, from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and further information address
N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN C. ANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of HANNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, vocal weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, PILES, prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession; are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often complete cures where medicine can only mitigate, any more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet; it is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. je11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy,
FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest Rash to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Brown Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Croup, Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers all yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian Salve,
FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically; the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at FLEMING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Natchez and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, at the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans, La.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.
je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that
DE BING'S PILE REMEDY
fails to cure. It is prepared expressly to cure the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juices of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for CONSUMPTION,
Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male and female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which most generally terminate in Consumptive decline. It purifies and enriches the blood, the biliary, glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular forces. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy30 1y

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than twelve years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security, and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of the patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 16 St. Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21 1y

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

654 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and exalted knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

FELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $71. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $18. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $45

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. I. Animals of all Climates. II. National Flags.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
my21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

W. H. SUTTON. J. H. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

196 .....COMMON STREET.....186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

sc17 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

50.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

W. H. BEAUMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

77 .....CARONDELET STREET.....77

Ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

60.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. HUGH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE.

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
51 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical,

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By Charles S. Venables, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DeVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, Etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LeCONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. Johnston, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

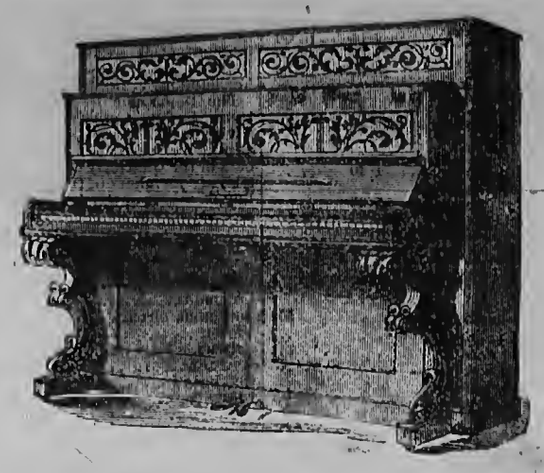
ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. mh2 1y

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

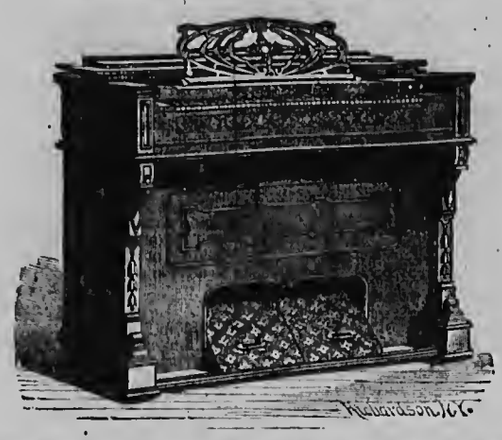


SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured, either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
fe23 1y Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 590 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by

de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

Scientific.

The Gas Wells.—The gas wells under Erie, Pennsylvania, range from five hundred to seven hundred feet in depth, and furnish an abundance of that material to light the city brilliantly. The city authorities now propose to sink another well near the waterworks to the depth of one thousand feet, the understanding being that it is to go two thousand feet if necessary. This well is to be a test to determine what lies underneath that city.

The photographs which were taken of the recent eclipse prove to be very valuable in several respects; indeed, it is claimed that one of them, taken by Mr. Brothers, at Syracuse, embracing the full corona, was worth the whole cost of the expeditions. The photographs taken in Sicily and in Spain agree in presenting a remarkable V-shaped gap in the corona, which had its apex close by the inner corona. This is spoken of as demonstrating to a certainty that the sun's halo is "not borrowed majesty, but his alone."

The survey of the Norwegian coast by the government has furnished details which Prof. Kjerrulf uses in refutation of Sir Charles Lyell's theories of the extreme slowness of geological changes. His examinations of the raised beaches and terraces disprove as utterly baseless Lyell's calculation of two hundred and forty thousand years which it took to elevate them. The uppermost limit of the sea action is but one-tenth of the height assumed in this calculation, and hence at one blow the figures must be cut down to twenty-four thousand. But the coast, it is shown, has risen not by a slow and constant motion, but by a series of sudden uplifts, succeeded by seasons of rest. Hence any calculations based on a slow, uniform rate are worthless, and the total time may have been quite short. The coast is not now rising, as has been stated.

Man is not Clay.—In a recent lecture by Dr. Doremus he is reported to have remarked that, while the Bible said that man was made of clay, aluminium, which is the basis of clay, is almost the only element which is not found in the constitution of man. A correspondent of the Scientific American corrects the doctor, very justly, in this misstatement of Scripture. Man was created out of dust, according to Genesis, which is the formal statement on the subject, and is general enough to cover any or all the elements. In the poetic and prophetical writings use is made of clay in a figurative way, referring to the molding in a potter's hand, and not to the substance of the frame. Dr. Doremus had no intention to call the verity of Scripture in question, as is very apparent; yet it is just such careless remarks that are taken up by the young and illiterate, and by enemies, and used to the advantage of infidelity; and scientific men cannot be too careful in guarding against such mischief.

Luminous Flames and Sounds.—Among the curiosities of physical science is the well known fact that luminous flames are very sensitive to sound, exhibiting different phenomena under different circumstances. An ingenious savan proposes to turn this to practical account, and for this purpose has devised an apparatus, consisting of two upright copper rods, one of which, at its upper extremity, has a metal band attached at a right angle, and consisting of thin layers of gold, silver and platinum welded together. When exposed to the heat the hands expand unequally, and bend to one side, thereby coming in contact with a platinum point, which is attached to another bar, so as to stand about four-tenths of an inch from the hands. Both ends are connected with the poles of a small electrical battery, in the circuit of which an electrical bell is introduced in a distant part of the room, and which sounds whenever the circuit is closed. A flame is brought to about ten inches from the metal band, and on removing to a distance of ten or fifteen yards from the flame, and whistling, the flame answers immediately, by becoming broader and shorter. In this way it comes into contignity with the metal band, and this curving to one side, as it is heated by the flame, touches the platinum point, closes the current, and we hear the distant bells sound each time, in answer to the whistle. In a similar manner the cry of a child in its cradle, at night, may be carried to the room of its parents; and by a somewhat similar arrangement a thief, attempting to open a door with a key, can sound a distant alarm bell, if he makes the least noise. It is even possible to arrange an apparatus resembling this, by means of which, in a fog or by night, the approach of a boat or vessel can be detected at a great distance, by the sounding of a bell in the captain's cabin.

Nothing is more contrary to the spirit of charity than rash and hasty censures.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jan	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Feb				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28
M'h				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
Apr							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
M'y		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
J'e.					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jy.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
Aug.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
Sep.						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
Oct	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Nov				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
Dec						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has exhibited only a moderate degree of animation since our last report. Sugar has been in good request, especially for the better qualities, and commanded full prices, the quotation for prime especially showing an improvement of ¼c. Molasses has gone off freely at about previous rates. Flour has ruled more in favor of sellers, the closing rates showing an advance of 25c. in double extra and 50c. in treble, but has not exhibited much activity.

The river is two feet eight inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-fourth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi	bales..	14,310
Lake		23
Arkansas		4,739
Florida		109
Mobile		247
Texas		159
Total		19,587

On Saturday, although the movement was checked by scant supplies of the kinds most in request, yet under favorable telegrams from Liverpool and New York, buyers came forward with a fair degree of spirit and took 8,800 bales at an irregular advance of ⅛ to ¼c. On Monday the news being discouraging the demand subsided, and although factors gave way ⅛c., and in some cases ¼c., yet it failed to impart any spirit to the demand, and the business was confined to 5,900 bales, (including 2,200 late in the day,) good ordinary closing at 11⅞ to 12⅜c., low middling at 13⅛ to 13⅝c, and middling at 14½c. On Tuesday the market opened with a fair inquiry, and continued firm at previous rates until about noon, when, under the New York quotations of 15⅛ and 15⅝c. for middling uplands and Orleans, and a decline in gold and sterling exchange, factors met the demand more freely, and the advantage was on the side of the buyer; after which prices rallied, and for the rest of the day continued steady. Strict ordinary and strict ordinary to good ordinary were in good request, and commanded higher rates than could have been realized on Monday. The sales summed up 6,200 bales. A large part of the stock is composed of stained and dusty lots, and clean white cottons command disproportionately high prices compared with the general run of the offerings.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 20,900 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,165,955 bales, against 934,700 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 866,825 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 722,584 bales to Great Britain, 177,415 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 224,331 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary	10	to 10¼
Good ordinary	11⅛	to 12⅛
Low middling	13¼	to 13⅜
Middling	..	to 14½
Strict middling	14¼	to 15

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.		20,696
Arrived past three days	19,587
Arrived previously	1,212,060	1,231,647
		1,252,343
Exported past three days.	22,029
Exported previously	969,674
Burned	950	993,253
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		250,090

SUGAR.—A good demand and firmer market have again prevailed since our last review, with a scarcity of the better descriptions, and prices ruling with an upward tendency. The supplies on Saturday and Monday were sold at 5½ to 6c. per pound for inferior, 6½ to 7⅛c. for common, 7¾ to 8⅛c. for fair, 8¾ to 9c. for good fair, 9¼ to 9½c. for fully fair, 10 to 10¼c. for prime, 10½c. for strictly prime, 10¾ to 11c. for choice, 10¼ to 11¾c. for seconds, 11½ to 12¼c. for yellow clarified, and 12¼ to 13c. for white.

MOLASSES.—The demand is fair. The supplies are light, and are selling readily at 20 to 30c. for inferior and fermenting, 30 to 40c. for good fermenting, 27 to 35 for centrifugal, and 40 to 50c. for plantation reboiled. Some half barrels reboiled sold at 53c. City refinery reboiled is quoted at 30 to 60c., as in quality; golden sirup, 90c. to $1.

BACON.—Shoulders are offering at 8½c., clear rib sides 11c. Clear sides are in light supply and in demand; they are held at 12c. Sugar-cured hams are dull at 15½ to 16c. per pound. On Saturday 5 casks clear sides sold at 11¾c., 10 do. at 11⅞c., 15 do. at 12c., and 20 tierces sugar-cured hams at 15c. per pound.

LARD.—The market continues dull, but prices are unchanged. Tierces are quoted at 12 to 12½c. per pound for steam and kettle, and 12¾ to 13c. for refined; kegs, 13½ to 13¾c. for kettle and refined.

BUTTER.—Choice Goshen continues in light supply and good demand.

MONETARY.—Gold, 110¼ to 110¾.

American silver half dollars, 107½ to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2½ to 2¾ per cent. premium in gold.

The sales of bonds include $17,000 old City seven per cents on Monday at 71⅝, and $15,000 at 71¾.

A small amount of 7-30 certificates sold on Monday at 92½.

We hear of no round sales of warrants. Some of the dealers reported counter-buying rates new Metropolitan Police at 97, and selling at 98.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 10 to 13 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 28, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross	7 to 8c
Sheep, first quality, per head	$6 to 7
Sheep, second quality, per head	4 to 5
Sheep, third quality, per head	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves	.. to 80
Calves, per head	3 to 10
Yearlings, per head	5 to 12

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	20½
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs	1 40	.. ..
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	.. ..
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake	8 00	16 00
English fire	.. ..	47 00
American fire	37 50	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	.. ..	50
Tallow	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine	.. ..	.. ..
Star	12	.. ..
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel	11 00	.. ..
Anthracite	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl	75	.. ..
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	20	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	.. ..	21
Russia	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl	3 45	3 50
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton	12 00	.. ..
In sacks	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	16	18
Feathers, ₩ lb	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod	1 40	.. ..
Herrings	60	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra	6 50	6 75
Superfine	6 00	6 12½
Fine	5 50	.. ..
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5	6
Currants, new	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer	2 90	3 00
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats	65	68
Corn, shelled	70	73
Beans, ₩ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western	26 00	27 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	14
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₩ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western	1 75	2 50
Shell lime	1 75	.. ..
Rockland, etc	2 25	2 50
Cement	2 95	3 25
Plaster Paris	3 50	3 75
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	10 00	.. ..
Scantling	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₩ M	4 00	4 25
Laths	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country	.. ..	.. ..
Black country	6	6½
Select water-retted	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gal.	60	65
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 17½	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	48	50
Cotton seed, refined	58	72
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated	28 00	.. ..
C. S., undecorticated	.. ..	25 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime	18 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess	21 25	.. ..
Pork, prime mess	.. ..	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, canvassed	15	15
Shoulders	14½	10
Green shoulders	14	15
Lard, prime, in tierces	7¾	8
Butter, Northern	12½	13
Butter, Western	25	44
Cheese, American	12½	30
Potatoes, ₩ bbl	10	17
Onions	3 00	4 00
Apples	.. ..	.. ..
Cabbages, ₩ crate	.. ..	.. ..
Rice, ₩ lb:	7 00	10 00
Louisiana	6	8½
India, (gold, in bond)	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina	8½	9½
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Bladen Springs, at Kizer Hill	Apr.	1, 2
Gaston, at Bethlehem		8, 9
Butler, at Mount Sterling		15, 16
Livingston		29, 30
Greene circuit, at Holly Spring	May	6, 7
Eutaw		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel		27, 28
Demopolis	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland		10, 11

The Demopolis District Conference, Alabama Annual Conference, will be held at Livingston, Alabama, commencing April 28, at nine o'clock A. M. All the official members of the Quarterly Conferences in the district are members of the District Conference. Lay members of the Annual Conference will be elected. S. H. COX, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point	Mar.	18, 19
Columbus	Apr.	8, 9
Columbus circuit		15, 16
Vinton		22, 23
Athens		29, 30
Houston	May	13, 14
Chickasaw		20, 21
Line Creek		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove	Mar.	25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Mill Dale	Apr.	1, 2
Ataia circuit, at Spring Dale		8, 9
Kosciusko and Bethel, Kosciusko		15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling		22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill		29, 30
Valden circuit	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory		27, 28
Lexington		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Clinton station	Mar.	25, 26
Buffalo	Apr.	1, 2
East Feliciana, at Pinegrove		8, 9
Woodville station		15, 16
Jackson and Plains, at Pipkin's chapel		22, 23
Bayou Sara, at Bayou Sara		29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon		19, 20
Meadville		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian	Apr.	1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba		8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope		22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union		29, 30
Wayne	May	6, 7
Clark		13, 14
Paulding		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside. WM. B. HINES, P. E.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Areola circuit	Mar.	25, 26
Livingston circuit	Apr.	1, 2
Bogue Chitto circuit		8, 9

JOS. NICHOLSON, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mansfield circuit, at Providence	Apr.	29, 30
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship		20, 21
Moorlingsport circuit		27, 28
Shreveport station	June	3, 4
Anacoco		10, 11
Springville circuit		18, 19

The salaries of our preachers have been fixed by the first Quarterly Conferences, one-half of which will become due at the time of the second Quarterly Meetings. We appeal to the churches, and especially to the stewards, to be prepared to meet these claims by that time. We speak what we do know when we say that it is absolutely necessary, for the comfort of the preachers and for the good of the cause, for this to be done. True, money may be scarce; but when families supply themselves with provisions, a little extra will be sufficient to supply the parsonage, and that will be equivalent to money for the preacher. JOHN PIPES, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek ct., at Spring Creek	Mar.	18, 19
Rapides circuit, at Palestine		25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta	Apr.	1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville		8, 9
Columbia circuit		15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise		22, 23

The official members of Calcasieu circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26. F. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Franklin and Pattersonville	Mar.	18, 19
Calcasieu Pass		25, 26
New Iberia	Apr.	1, 2
Plaquemine Brulee		15, 16

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.,
Vermillionville, La.

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL

AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.

Nearly Doubles Crops.

GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:

E. H. MURFEE,

14 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de3 5m

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.

PLYMOUTH, MASS.,
JANUARY 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb, Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds, prepaid by mail, with directions for culture. Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds; Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc.; Grass Seeds; Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale List to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

H. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 2m

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. Je29 1y

A. BROUZEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette. mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

J. H. MUSE AND

G. F. F. THOMPSON,

Attorneys and Counselors at Law,

NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,

fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Valrin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.
Henry V. Ogden.

fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe4 6m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

PUBLISHERS OF

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 1f

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING,

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe1 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,
fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is, undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	94 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra	1 80
New University Algebra	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it can have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,
New Orleans,
General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.

The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

H. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand

M. S. HEDRICK, Proprietor,
159 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.

Branch Office, 156 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.

Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6m

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions, and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1871. NO. 12.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Jackson, Miss., March 29.—Theodore Sturgess, a brother of the absconding mayor of Meridian, who has published a card in the New York Tribune, purporting to be a correct account of the Meridian riot, publishes a card denying the statements of his brother. He says: "I am fully satisfied that the facts are misrepresented and perverted, and that the publication was gathered up for political effect."

This Sturgess is a Northern man, and has resided South many years. His brother came South three years ago.

Aaron Moore, whom Sturgess reported killed, is here unhurt.

The investigation in the case of the rioters has been concluded, and shows that the negroes brought on the troubles by their turbulent, overbearing conduct toward the whites, and murdering a judge (a white) on the bench.

The underwriters of the insurance company refuse to pay the insurance on Sturgess' property, having proof that he was the incendiary.

There is perfect peace and tranquility throughout the State.

Washington, March 31. — The House, to-day and to-night, discussed the Ku-Klux bill. Mr. Farnsworth made a legal argument in opposition.

In the Senate the same business was discussed. No distinctive features were manifested.

Commissioner Pleasanton decides that persons whose gross income during 1870, estimated in currency, is less than $2,000, are not required to make any income returns, nor need make affidavits showing their gross income did not exceed that sum.

General Sherman leaves for a tour of inspection, on the fourth of April, of the frontier of Texas and Indian Territory. He goes via Baton Rouge and New Orleans to San Antonio, thence westward and northward.

Mr. Sheldon, of Louisiana, in the debate in the House, said he believed the constitution could accomplish all the objects for which it was ordained, especially when consistent with the largest liberty, and therefore it was competent for Congress to pass laws in order to secure to all citizens the rights, and privileges, and immunities guaranteed by the constitution.

The great difficulty in the South was the want of moral power. The disorders there were traceable to this cause more than to any other. He said the State of Louisiana was as quiet as Vermont. The Republicans advocated amnesty, and, assisted by the Democrats, struck from its State constitution all its proscriptive clauses. The result has been that the State is steadily improving in peace and good order.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 1.—A boiler in McCall & Co.'s distillery, on the Ohio river, at McCall's Landing, Ohio, exploded yesterday, instantly killing six persons and wounding nine, two of whom died. The loss on the building was about $5,000. The cause of explosion is not ascertained.

New York, April 1. — Advices from the Isthmus of Darien represent a newly discovered canal route, only twenty-two miles long.

Galveston, April 1. — Daniel Campbell, president of the Senate, is dead, and Webster Flanagan has been chosen president pro tem. The Governor refuses to receive bills signed by Flanagan, which occasioned sterny proceedings in the legislature.—Times.

Washington, April 1.—The debt statement shows a reduction of $4,011,250 during March. The cash balance is $105,697,800; currency, $18,686,242.

Washington, April 3.—The latest figures elects Jewell and three members to Congress—the Republicans gaining the Governor; the Congressional delegation as last session.

Washington, April 3.—Senate.—Bills were introduced to incorporate the Red River Raft Company; creating a western judicial district of North Carolina.

A bill passed giving the Dahlonega grant to the Georgia Agricultural College.

Mr. Blair spoke on Mr. Sherman's resolution to adjournment.

House.—A general debate produced; an arrangement made for night sessions, and a continuance of general discussion until Wednesday, when the ten minute rule will be applied, and amendments be considered in Committee of the Whole.

Washington, April 3.—In the case of Miller's executors against the United States, the Supreme Court held the confiscation acts constitutional and valid, and the proceedings in them against the property of rebels to be regular.

In the case of Buffington against Day, the court held that the general government cannot tax the salaries of State judges. The judicial power of the State is exempt from Federal interference, and in respect of this power the States are as sovereign and independent as the general government.

The confiscation case decided today came from Michigan. The court held that the confiscation act of 1862 is valid and constitutional, and that it was competent for Congress to prescribe a procedure against the property of the person offending, and not against the person.

Justice Davis dissented on technical grounds, but concurred in the view of the court as to the constitutionality of the act. Justices Field and Clifford dissented entirely.

Hartford, Ct., April 3. — One hundred and seven towns give net gain for Jewell, Republican, over last year of nine hundred and eighty-six votes. Strong, Republican, is elected in the third district. Kendrick, Democrat, is probably elected to Congress in the second district, and Barnum, Democrat, in the fourth district. The election throughout the State is very close.

Memphis, April 3.—The Southern-bound train from Louisville ran over a cow at Cumberland, at half-past four o'clock this morning, throwing all the passenger cars off, and turning them over down the embankment. The master bridge builder was killed, and three other persons severely injured, among them Mr. Rogers and wife, of New Orleans. Mrs. Rogers had to be left at the station. Some fifteen persons were slightly wounded.

Hartford, Ct., April 4. — The Times (Democrat) claims English is elected by eight majority.

The Courant (Republican) claims Jewell's election by thirty-seven majority.

Hartford, April 4.—Returns in the office of the Evening Post, this evening, from the entire State give English a plurality of forty-five votes. Should the scattering vote exceed this number the election will be by the Legislature. Twenty scattering votes were deposited in New Haven, and it is not unlikely that enough have been polled to defeat an election by the people. The Times (Democrat) makes the plurality for English eight votes. Should the election go to the Legislature there can be no doubt of Jewell's success, as the Legislature is Republican in both houses.

Cincinnati, April 4.—Davis' majority for mayor is 1,855. Aldermen—Republicans 8, Democrats 4. Councilmen—Republicans 11, Democrats 13.

FOREIGN.

City of Mexico, March 25, via Havana, March 31.—The two parties combined against the re-election of Juarez are willing to prevent it either by impeachment or civil war. Nothing has been done in the matter of impeachment.

The press of the capital is daily discussing the critical condition of the country. Civil war is generally predicted.

London, March 29.—A dispatch to the Daily News says the Arab chief Sidi Makaroni, leading forty thousand troops in Algiers, has declared war against France.

Versailles, March 29.—The government has issued a circular announcing that order has been restored at Lyons and Toulouse.

The insurrections failed in the large towns, save Marsailles, Narbonne and Saint Etienne. The government is ready to-day to meet and crush the insurrection.

Versailles is rapidly becoming a military camp. Gardes are continually arriving from the departments. An amicable arrangement between the Paris and Versailles governments is still regarded possible.

Berlin, March 29.—There has been a correspondence between Bismarck and the Central Committee at Paris. The latter represented that the Thiers government was unsupported in any proper way by the country, and the election of a new Assembly became necessary. The committee offered in the meanwhile to pay, in a few days, the installment of indemnity due to Germany. Bismarck's reply was favorable.

The opinion here is strong that a restoration of the empire by the imperial army is inevitable.

St. Petersburg, March 29.—The Patriarch of Constantinople complained to the Russian synod that the Sublime Porte is disturbing the order of the church in Bulgaria. The answer of the synod is published; it shares the dissatisfaction felt by the patriarch at the relations of the Porte and the Greek Church in Bulgaria, but considers the convocation of a council, which was proposed by him, unnecessary.

London, March 30. — There is great disorganization in the postal and other departments of the French public service.

The Nationals demonstrated in favor of the Commune in Place Hotel de Ville.

The Liberal says four thousand English have resumed residence in Paris.

Thiers and the head of the London detectives are in the city.

The Central Committee of Paris declined to abolish all police force. A dispatch from Versailles to the Times says Berryer, Quartier and Valodan have been negotiating at Rouen, and that after several telegrams had been exchanged with the government at Berlin, Herr Fabrice, German civil administrator in France, consented to the increase of the garrison of Paris to eighty thousand men.

General Vinoy is still in command of the French army.

Pyatt has withdrawn from the Communal Council of Paris, and will give his exclusive attention to the editorship of the Le Vengenr, the future official organ of the Commune.

A dispatch from Versailles to the Telegraph says there was picket firing last night between the Nationals and government officers, on the road between Versailles and Paris.

The government has, after consulting with Generals Duerot, Chanzy and Trochu, decided upon a plan for an attack on Paris.

In the Assembly, on Wednesday, Thiers made a speech, in which he admitted that the Germans were evacuating France irregularly, and that there were too many Germans in the country.

A dispatch from Marseilles reports all quiet. The government authorities have suspended all action for the present.

Madrid, March 31.—The captain general of Porto Rico has been ordered to hold elections in that island in July.

The Cuban elections will be ordered as soon as Count Valmaseda arranges the preliminaries.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The Czar has conferred upon Prince Gortschakoff and heirs the cross of the Legion of Honor, as a mark of satisfaction at the settlement by the Prince of the Eastern question.

London, March 31.—It is reported that Cardinal Antonelli has resigned the secretaryship of State in the papal cabinet.

Shanghai advices report serious disturbances are expected in Japan. One of the Mikado's counselors has been assassinated. The act is known to have been of a political nature.

Brussels, March 31.—The sittings of the peace conference have been suspended to avoid controversy. The business hereafter will be conducted by the exchange of notes. Commercial questions will be settled by the French and German delegations.

Paris, March 31.—All is consternation; the watchword of the Commune is death to the rich, to landowners and to priests. A decree confiscating church property has been prepared. Denunciations of suspected parties are hourly made. The guillotine will soon be erected. The inmates of many houses have been marked for the guillotine.

Drafts on the treasury are not paid either in Paris or Versailles.

Paris, March 31.—The government has completed arrangements for moving against Paris. Troops will move simultaneously with the Germans along the line by Montmartre and Bercy.

London, April 1.—A dispatch from Strasburg says: Bismarck has written to the Chamber of Commerce in that city, that Germany will compensate the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine at the same rate that was accorded to the inhabitants of these provinces when they were annexed under similar circumstances, to France.

London, April 1.—A Times special dispatch from Versailles says: Thiers pays five hundred million francs to Prussia on Friday evening. The French government will then be allowed to receive reinforcements from the north.

Havana, April 1.—Rumors prevail here, which are generally credited, that the volunteers in the neighborhood of San Juan Remedios roasted a man alive, first running a stake through his body. It is said the volunteers were caught by Spanish officers while engaged in the act.

The outrage has greatly incensed the people, and many murders on both sides have resulted. An American gentleman, who was stopping at a hotel one day in the beginning of the week, heard of two volunteers being murdered in their beds in a single night.

Four hundred persons, mostly negroes, who had surrendered recently at Puerto Principe, have returned to the woods, impelled by hunger. They thought it preferable to die by Spanish bullets than from want or the smallpox, which is raging fearfully. A few were seized while attempting to escape.

A Spanish gunboat left on Sunday for Nassau, with two persons on board, intended for spies on the expedition expected there, one from the United States and one from Colombia.

Berlin, April 2.—A bill for the union of Alsace and Lorraine with the German empire has been referred to a special committee in the Reichstag.

A motion that the Polish territories be not included in the empire was rejected.

Bismarck explained that the policy toward France was to facilitate the task of the republic. The Emperor decided not to intervene unless the interests of Germany were endangered.

London, April 2.—The following has just been received from Versailles: Several thousand National Guards, occupying Puteau, Cour Bevioe and the bridge of Neuilly, have been routed by the troops, who carried the barricades and captured many prisoners. The Nationals fled into the city. The moral effect of the affair is excellent.

The Paris committee intend to issue assignats to meet their immediate necessities.

The Nationals have occupied the building of the Credit Foncier. The party of order still hold possession of the Bank of France. The bank, however, to save itself from being plundered, has advanced three million francs to the insurgents.

The organization and equipment of marching battalions in Paris is actively going on.

The army of Versailles has occupied St. Cloud and the line of the Seine.

Paris, April 2, evening.—A serious engagement occurred this morning between the government troops and the Communists. About two thousand National Guards marched on Courbevoie, where they were met by gens d'armes and gards forestiers. A captain of the latter galloped up, waving his cap, intending to address the Communists, when a zounve with that body shot him dead. A general action then followed. The gens d'armes took five prisoners, one seventy-six years of age, who were shot immediately. The guns of Fort Valerien swept the road and the Communists fled. Twenty-five insurgents were killed, and many wounded. The engagement was over at one o'clock.

The National Guards still hold Porte Maillot.

Battalions of artillery are hurrying up, the rappel is beating, and the ramparts are being manned. The greatest excitement prevails.

London, April 3.—A dispatch from Versailles to-day says Marshal McMahon has been appointed commander-in-chief of the French army.

London, April 3, ten P. M.—The Paris Commune have issued a decree arraigning Thiers, Favre, Picard, Dufaure, Simon and Pothrau before the tribunal of the people and ordering their properties to be seized. Another decree pronounces the separation of church and state, suppresses religious bodies and abolishes national property.

Versailles, April 4.—Thiers issued a proclamation to the prefects of the departments, as follows: On Monday the insurgent masses attacked our forces simultaneously at Manterre, Rue II Douigval, Bezons Chatean and Croisey. Fort Mont Valerien at daybreak began to cannonade the insurgents, who were at first sheltered by Lotre Reill and Baugeval. They subsequently attacked the government forces. General Vinoy, of the cavalry, was by this time in a position threatening to outflank the insurgents, and they fled in a complete rout, leaving many of their dead and wounded in the hands of the government troops. M. Thiers says the government will exercise clemency toward all who have been blindly misled, but will punish with severity the ringleaders.

London, April 4.—Advices from Paris to-day state that the attack of the Nationals on the government forces has been well sustained. A powerful artillery attack was made on the left of Bois de Meudon, which succeeded for a short time in silencing the government guns.

The excitement in the city is intense, consequent on the determination of the insurgents and the presence of so large a body of revolutionists in Paris.

General McMahon has taken command of the government army and initiated effective measures for the suppression of the insurgents.

General Bergeret and his columns of ten thousand men are still cut off by the heavy guns of Mont Valerien, and no relief can reach them.

The loss consequent upon the attack by the forts has not been exaggerated. The number of killed is enormous, and the excitement in the neighborhood of St. Denis has greatly increased.

The difficulty of suppressing the insurrectionists increases every hour.

THE TEXAS PACIFIC RAILROAD.

NEW ORLEANS BRANCH.

During the late session of Congress an act was passed to incorporate the Texas Pacific Railroad Company. The route of their road is to be from Marshall, Texas, to El Paso, thence through New Mexico and Arizona to the southeast line of California, thence to the harbor of San Diego, pursuing the general direction of the thirty-second parallel.

The twenty-second section of the bill is of interest to the citizens of Louisiana, and is as follows:

Sec. 22. That the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg Railroad Company, chartered by the State of Louisiana, shall have the right to connect by the most eligible route, to be selected by said company, with the said Texas Pacific railroad at its eastern terminus, and shall have the right of way through the public land to the same extent granted hereby to the said Texas Pacific Railroad Company; and in aid of its construction from New Orleans to Baton Rouge, thence by the way of Alexandria, in said State, to connect with the said Texas Pacific Railroad Company at its eastern terminus, there is hereby granted to said company, its successors and assigns, the same number of alternate sections of public lands per mile, in the State of Louisiana, as are by this act granted in the State of California to said Texas Pacific Railroad Company; and said lands shall be withdrawn from market, selected, and patents issued therefor, and opened for settlement and pre-emption, upon the same terms and in the same manner and time as is provided for and required from said Texas Pacific Railroad Company, within said State of California: Provided, That said company shall complete the whole of said road within five years from the passage of this act.

Section 9 gives the company ten alternate sections of land per mile on each side of the railroad in California, "where the same shall not have been sold, reserved or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and to which a pre-emption or homestead claim may not have attached at the time the line of said road is definitely fixed." The same grant, with like proviso, is made by the twenty-second section to the Louisiana branch.

The construction of the road is to begin at San Diego and extend eastward, and at Marshall extending westward simultaneously. There is consequently a prospect that New Orleans may be connected by means of this branch with northeastern Texas in the course of a few years.

Unlimited authority is given to the Texas Pacific Company to consolidate with branch roads upon equitable terms, and the privileges granted to the company by any one road cannot be denied to any other. The company cannot charge for freight or passage rates exceeding those fixed for the Union and Central Pacific railroads.—Picayune.

A fine Sabbath school, says the Morehouse Conservative of the twenty-fourth ultimo, was organized at Lind Grove last Sabbath. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the year: Samuel O'Neal, superintendent; W. A. Lassiter, W. F. Watt, assistants; A. K. Watt, treasurer; V. J. Gibson, secretary; Mr. Hopkins, librarian.

Scotland Chapel Ct., Brandon District.

Mr. Editor: I travel this year on Scotland chapel circuit, in the Brandon district, Mississippi Conference. This is truly an interior charge. The nearest railroad is thirty miles from me. We have a mail "semi-occasionally." The Advocate reaches us but "now and then," especially then. I could send you more subscribers but for this vexatious uncertainty.

Although my circuit is isolated, my people are alive to the interests of the church, and exhibit commendable liberality in support of the various enterprises for the spread of the Saviour's kingdom. I have four appointments; but up to this writing I have only preached at the two principal churches on my circuit, Scotland chapel and Walnut Grove. Frequent rains and almost unprecedented high waters have prevented me from preaching at the other two churches.

We have a fine Sunday school now in successful operation, with an elegant new library, efficient superintendent and full corps of teachers at Scotland chapel. There are in this school between sixty and seventy children. Connected with our Sunday school at this place we have one of the most interesting Bible classes I have ever known.

At Walnut Grove we have just raised the money and ordered a Sunday school library, and I expect to organize a school at that church next Sabbath. The prospect is very encouraging.

We are trying to put all the church machinery in motion—inaugurating the church conference to meet monthly, establishing weekly prayer meetings, etc. I have good congregations. The people are very kind and attentive to the wants of the preacher's family. They have provided comfortable quarters for us. While money is exceeding scarce, the people give of their substance "in kind," and we are thus "provided for."

Yours truly, H. J. Harris.

March 27, 1871.

The Earlier the Easier.—An old man one day took a child on his knee, and talked to him about Jesus, and told him to seek the Saviour now, and pray to him and love him. The child knew that the old man was not himself a Christian, and felt surprised. Then he looked up into the old man's face and said: "But why don't you seek God?"

The old man was affected by the question, and replied: "Ah, my dear child, I neglected to do so when I was young, and now my heart is so hard that I fear I shall never be able."

Ah, my reader, believe him! "Today, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." It will be more difficult to hear to-morrow. And weeks, and months, and years hence, even could you be sure of them, how high and strong a barrier will gradually be rising between you and Christ! "They that seek me early shall find me."

The Way to the Crown.—We must taste gall if we are to taste the glory. If justified by faith we must suffer tribulations. When God saves a soul, he tries it. Some believers are called to suffer. They thought they would do some great things for God, but all he permits them to do is to suffer for his sake. Go around to every one in glory—each will have a different story to tell, yet every one a tale of sufferings. But mark! all are brought out of them. It was a dark cloud, but it passed away. The water was deep, but they reached the other side. Not one there will blame God for the way he led them thither. "Salvation!" is their only cry.

Child of God, murmur not at your lot. You must have a plain as well as a white robe. Learn to glory in tribulation also.

A false and mistaken pride causes some to feel oppressed by every obligation, and to strive to free themselves by material bounty; but though the latter may be right and just, it can never atone for the lack of that grateful respect and attachment which are always due to devotion in service.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1871.

VICTORY! VICTORY!

When Bishop Andrew was dying, his friends, seeing his lips moving, asked: "What did you say, Bishop?" He replied: "Victory! victory!" How well it became this old soldier of the cross to close his warfare with this dactyl note of triumph!

Victory! victory! Death is o'ercome!
Vanquished through Jesus, who beckons me home:
Bear me away on my blood sprinkled shield,
Grasping the weapons which won me the field.

Victory! victory! There shall I meet
Comrades by thousands at Jesus' feet:
Victory! victory! All will proclaim,
Victory gained through the blood of the Lamb!

Victory! victory! Now for the throne!
Now for the crown which I claim as my own!
Now for the conqueror's robes, and the palms!
Now for the cymbals, the harps and the psalms!

Victory! victory! Help me to sing,
Grave, where's thy victory? Death, where's thy sting?
Victor through Jesus, I die, yet I live:
Thanks be to God, who doth victory give!

Nashville Christian Advocate.

LETTER FROM CHINA.

The following letter was written to Mrs. S. B. Thomas, of this city. It has been handed us for publication, and we doubt not will be read with interest and profit.

SHANGHAI, CHINA, Dec. 10, 1870.

MY DEAR MRS. THOMAS: We were much pleased to receive a letter from you by the mail of the sixth instant. Mrs. Lambuth and I both return to you many thanks for your noble gift, to be used in promoting the cause of our blessed Saviour in this land of idolatry and superstition, and so manifestly under the power of darkness.

Nearly four hundred million people without the knowledge of God! It does seem the knowledge of this fact would be enough to stir up the dormant energies of every Christian, in every land, to pour out their souls in prayer to God for the coming of the kingdom of Christ in every land, and to be set up in every heart. And not only is prayer necessary for the accomplishment of God's designs in the conversion of men, but is also actually necessary to a life of faith, and the work of grace in the heart of every child of God. God requires every Christian to work as well as pray. If every Christian would pursue this plan they would find their field of usefulness greatly enlarged. Their love for the souls of others would be increased, and they would be constrained by this love to set themselves to work in earnest for the salvation of their fellow-men. While doing this work of labor and love, and giving of their means as the Lord saw fit to prosper them, they would soon perceive that it was a real blessing to themselves, both temporally and spiritually. But how many are there in the South who act according to this plan? I fear the proportion of those who do so is so small, in comparison to those who do not, that the number would be infinitesimal. Give to God as he prospers you should be the principle upon which every Christian should act. These are God's principles, and he will bless every one who endeavors faithfully, and with all the heart, to live up to them.

In your letter you seem to apprehend some danger of our being driven from China. But I beg of you not to entertain such an idea. The word of God is being spread far and wide throughout this heathen land, and though the heathen rage, God will establish his kingdom here, and cause the "wrath of man to praise him." "Every knee shall bow to him, and every tongue confess him Lord."

I shall be glad of any help to carry on the orphanage and to assist in the support of Bible women. The women of China are a degraded race, and are the slaves of their husbands. They are not expected to cultivate the mind, that noble part of man, but they must submit themselves in all things to their husbands. Their education is neglected, and, instead of cultivating the faculties of the mind, they are expected to turn their whole attention to the cultivation of their feet by making them as small as they possibly can, breaking the bones, in some cases, in order to disfigure the foot. This is all done to attract the attention of the men, that she may be able to marry a person in good circumstances. Thus the whole thought of father and mother is to marry their daughters well. They say: "They are girls, and when married they take another name and go out of our family, and become the members of some other household. What need we care for the cultivation of their minds?" To be in the company of these women, and hear them talk nothing but gossip, is anything but pleasant, and truly lamentable. Chinese mothers must be taught to think for themselves, for in China, as well as in other countries, it is the mother who molds the mind of the child, and not the father. It is the mother who impresses upon its mind, in early life, the necessity of some sort of religious worship. And it is to the mother the child clings and looks for direction in all its crosses and troubles. Then the training of the mind of the heathen mother should not be neglected. I trust the Christian ladies of our own enlightened land will see to it that what they can do shall be done, and that without delay.

I send you photographs of the orphanage.

Hoping to hear from you again, I remain your friend and brother,

J. W. LAMBUTH.

EVILS IN THE CHURCH.

MR. EDITOR: There are some evils connected with our church that will bear noticing a little, at least; and the evil is not only confined to the Methodist Church, but to many other Christian denominations. The first of these evils we notice is the drinking of ardent spirits. By whom? Certainly not the members of the church. Yes, sir; the members of the church. It makes us blush to remark it, but it is nevertheless true. Now, sir, does not the discipline of the Methodist Church forbid the drinking of whisky! It certainly does. Well, how is it possible that a person can be allowed to remain a member of the church and be guilty of this high crime against the word of God and the church? Why, sir, it is not unfrequently the case that some member leaves home with a bottle full in his pocket, to drink while he is absent a few hours. They have become so used to drinking whisky they can't do without it a few hours. This bad habit is not confined to the private member, but some of the officials are guilty; and not only guilty of drinking, but also of selling it or keeping it to give away, and often plead in extenuation of their crime that they must keep it for their customers, or to use their own words, "to draw custom." Now can we ever expect any good to result from the labors of such a member? Would it not be much more honorable for all such members to come up, like honest men, and quit the church or whisky?—for how can the two agree? Are they not doing much harm in the world? Are they not commanded to let "others see their good works," and not their whisky-drinking example? Now it does seem to me that any man who wished really to be religious could and would quit this great evil if he has imbibed such a habit. They should be forced, prudently, to quit whisky or the church, as no such conduct is recognized by the word of God, and ought not to be by the church. Such a course may cause the church to lose a good many paying members, as they are called; but let the church be purged of all such, and I think you will see the improvement for good.

Another or second evil is, to our mind, connected with the music we have in our churches. Now we would not be understood as opposing good music; but we are opposed to the way it is conducted in some of our churches. The church has grown in refinement, if not in religion or grace, and must have an organ. Now, then, who will perform, is one great question to settle, for there are several who would like to be leader. Well, Miss A., says one. No, says another, Miss B. is the best in the country. And so you see there is a difficulty to settle in this regard. Well, one wants the organ in the gallery, and if it don't go up there he will have nothing to do with it. One must have it below—where we think it ought to be. They leave these difficult questions to the preacher to settle; and woe to the preacher who attempts it, for some think, in these latter days of worldly religion, that the preacher must not open his mouth about the kind of music we should have in the church. When under Mr. Wesley's and Bishop Soule's administration the preacher had the right of controlling this matter. But they compromise in some way. And what next? Now the choir must select the hymns to be sung. We do think this a great evil, that no preacher is at liberty to allow. Suppose the preacher wished to preach on death, or the judgment, or the Bible, and the choir should sing:

"Thus far the Lord has led me on," etc.,

Or

"See how the morning sun Pursues his shining way."

Now would it not appear ridiculous to every intelligent mind? And yet some choirs reserve to themselves the right to select the minister's hymns. This kind of dealing with our sacred music robs it of all its inspiration, and consequently we do not praise God in our church music. We never hear those good old hymns that raise the soul to God, but a kind of formal thumping and squealing and puffing over an organ. Lord, save us from such formal worship! Perhaps I may write again.

X X X.

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.

MR. EDITOR: Will you please publish the following letter?

J. B. MCFERRIN, Sec.

YAZOO CITY, MISS., March 22, 1871.

REV. J. B. MCFERRIN, D. D.—Dear Brother: I have this day sent a draft on New Orleans for $75, the amount of my pledge at the last session of the Mississippi Conference—$50 for the old debt, and $25 for the Indian mission. I send draft to Dr. Redford. My charge came up nobly to the rescue, and the amount was easily made up. I am rejoiced at the prospect of that terrible incubus being lifted from the church. I do hope not a dollar will remain unpaid on the first day of May. It can and ought to be paid at once. I have a pleasant little charge here, and getting along very pleasantly—congregation increasing, and the church becoming more enthusiastic and active; our finances improving a little, and I am expecting a gracious revival of religion and a large increase to the church this year.

Yours in Christian bonds,

JULIUS T. CURTISS.

P. S.—If the preachers will use just a little exertion all this money can be raised in a little time. I simply made a statement of how we came to incur the debt, and the trouble it had caused in our missionary enterprises, and brought the moral aspects of the case before them, and that one effort brought the entire amount. I preached no sermon, made no speech, and didn't have to beg a bit. A gentleman, not a member of the church, was the first to respond with a $10 note, sir, and on and on until the money was all made up. I did not have to send around the hat either. So if the preachers would only try a little the thing is a success. Yours, CURTISS.

THERE is great danger in ungoverned feeling. The temptation is great to indulge from mere pleasure of indulgence, and from the admiration given to feeling. It is easier to gain credit for goodness by a glistening eye, while listening to some story, for self-sacrifice, than by patient usefulness. It is easier to get credit for spirituality, by thrilling at some impassioned speech on the platform or sermon from the pulpit, than by living a life of justice, mercy and truth. And hence religious life degenerates into mere indulgence of feeling, the excitement of religious meetings or the utterance of strong emotion. In this sickly strife life wastes away, and the man or woman becomes weak instead of strong.—F. W. Robertson.

SALT LAKE CITY is to have a new paper devoted to mining, manufactures, agriculture and commerce, and called the Utah Monthly Record.

MEMOIR OF MRS. C. B. STUART.

The following memoir, from the pen of Rev. John Bayley, is taken from the Richmond Christian Advocate. It is a well deserved tribute to the memory of a most estimable and devoted Christian woman.

Lizzie Lee Davis was born with a twin sister (Mary Stuart, who died in infancy) at Oak Lawn, Gloucester county, Virginia, on the nineteenth of August, 1826, and consecrated at a very early period of her life to the service of God. Of fragile physical constitution, she held to life apparently by the feeblest possible thread, and it seemed wonderful to her parents and other relatives that, by the blessing of God, they were able with the utmost care to keep her alive. But God had a work for her to do, and she could not die until it was done. Her intellect was precocious, developing itself with a vigor and celerity in striking contrast with her physical frame. Her religious opportunities were unusually good, for no one could witness the saintly life of her parents, and join with them in their morning and evening devotions at the family altar, without having the most salutary impressions made upon them. Oak Lawn, too, was a favorite resort of the itinerant ministers, and Bellamy's church, at which the family worshiped, was the scene of many a glorious revival—the "house of God and the very gate of heaven." But she did not realize a clear sense of the forgiveness of her sins and formally identify herself with the church until her fifteenth year. One of a more excitable temperament, and less given to investigation and reasoning, would, under the like circumstances, have been converted earlier, and would have been more demonstrative with regard to her religious experience. As a Christian, however, she was, in her early days, earnest, decided and practical, diligently using the means of grace, and laboring to advance the best interests of the kingdom of Christ upon earth.

After having received a sufficient elementary education to qualify her for the task, with a noble independence, which ought to be recorded to her credit, she left home at a very early age, and taught private schools in several pleasant families, and thus supported herself while she continued privately to prosecute her studies in the higher branches, and after years of hard toil and self-denial, with a portion of her earnings, she entered Buckingham Female Collegiate Institute, then under the presidency of the Rev. John C. Blackwell, D. D., where she remained until she had passed the entire curriculum of scientific and classical studies, and graduated with the highest honors. In this connection I may mention an important fact, which was communicated to me by my wife, with whom she was intimately connected in the bonds of a life-long friendship. She was in the habit of earnestly praying to God for strength and light to pursue her studies, and she did not pray in vain. In her successful career we have another illustration of the great truth that prayer is the gate of learning as well as the gate of heaven. And it would be well for the young especially to bear in mind that the greatest and best men and women, who have adorned the church of God, have spent much of their best time in private prayer.

After thus finishing her studies at the institute she again devoted herself industriously to teaching in private families, and with marked success, until she was called to occupy a higher position, as one of the faculty of Petersburg Female College, of which her brother, Williams T. Davis, Esq., was, and now is, president. Here she found for several years not only an appropriate sphere for the exercise of her talents, but a happy home with one whom she dearly loved, and whose heart reciprocated her affection to an extent to which no words of mine will do justice. And now, while the mortal remains of his loved sister rest in the silent halls of death, it is a source of much delight to him to remember how much she loved him. And here she might have remained much longer, but she had a call to a still higher sphere of usefulness.

On the eleventh of August, 1851, she was united in marriage to the Rev. Charles B. Stuart, formerly one of the faculty of Randolph Macon College, who, at that time, was principal of a female seminary at Ashland, Virginia. This was Prof. Stuart's second marriage, and it proved to be a most congenial one, as we had occasion to observe when we paid them a visit in 1860, before our last trip to Europe. Little did we then think of the fearful storm of war that was shortly to sweep over the sunny South, nor that this was the last time that we would on earth see the face of our dearly loved friend. But such, however, as events prove, was the will of God.

In the fall of 1860 Bro. Stuart was called to the presidency of Mansfield Female College, Louisiana, where he found the services of his wife most valuable as a teacher. From that time to the day of her death, with the exception of a few months during the war, when the college buildings were used for hospital purposes, she was connected as a teacher with that institution, and was all the time growing in grace, in love to God and to man, and in usefulness to her family, the church and society. The editor of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, in a brief notice of her death, said: "This accomplished lady had few if any superiors as a teacher, and her influence upon the young ladies was most salutary." To illustrate the deep piety of her last days, and also the indescribable influence of parental example, I will take the liberty of quoting a beautiful passage addressed to her sister Martha, from a letter which lies before me. After speaking in terms of fond recollection of the "dear old home" in Gloucester, she says: "It is forsaken now by all we love, and I suppose almost desolated. The dear pair who presided there have passed to their eternal home, and are waiting for us, and expecting us to join them. Shall we not do so? I feel that it is worth trying for. Every day I love to think of my father's piety, his love for his Lord, his willingness at all times to lay aside everything to worship and adore—his preparation for death. In spiritual things he was wise, and the attainments he made seem to me, as I advance in life, to be preferred to all others. Let my end be like his; I desire no higher attainment."

That prayer was, we have reason to believe, heard on high and answered literally, for she not only died as her honored father did, "in the faith," but as he did, suddenly, without a moment's time to say a word to her family and friends. In her case, blessed be God! no deathbed testimony was needed for the consolation of her bereaved ones, for those who knew her most intimately assured me that they have not the slightest doubt of her salvation. The manner in which it pleased God to remove her from her earthly responsibilities and labors was as follows: On the first of August last her husband took her to Natchitoches, and left her with Dr. Colier to be treated for a tumor on the breast, which the physicians judged to be cancerous, and for some time hopes were entertained that she would recover, but on the fifteenth of September she fell by an apoplectic stroke, just as she was preparing to lie down for the night, and instantly ceased to breathe. She leaves a bereaved husband and two little boys, and a large circle of relatives and friends, to mourn over her sudden removal from earth, and to read in her life and death such lessons as they impart to all who are able to understand them.

Much more might be profitably said of my departed friend, but I am compelled to bring my imperfect sketch to a close. As a Christian she was consistent, uniform and practical, daily reading the word of God. The Sunday school and the ordinances of the church were never considered by her of minor importance. Although she had a fund of genial wit and humor, and was not deficient in taste, she found but little time for reading the light literature of the day, her chief literary companions being her Bible and her text books. As a wife, a mother, and in all the domestic relations, she is worthy of a place among the excellent of the earth; and to those who traduce Southern institutions we can hold up the character of our departed sister as one of whom no age nor country need be ashamed. If I have not misunderstood the story of her life, I may place my departed friend in that noble band of Southern women who have fought a good fight and won the victory—the brightest stars in the firmament of holiness, the fairest flowers in the garden of the Lord, the most glorious gems in the crown of the Redeemer. God help me and all her surviving friends to imitate her example and to meet her in heaven!

SCOTTSVILLE, VA., Feb. 22, 1871.

OCCASIONALLY some singular trial of faith and fealty comes, like that of the command of God to his servant to go and offer up his dearest idol, the best beloved, the only son; then, when the sacrifice is made—really made in heart, whether consummated in act or not—then comes a flood of light, and love, and joy in God from God, as only such a perfect self-sacrifice can prepare the way for.—Dr. Boardman's "He that Overcometh."

A DABBLER in literature and the fine arts, who prided himself on his language, came upon a youngster a few days since sitting upon the bank of the river angling for gudgeons, and thus addressed him: "Adolescence, art thou not endeavoring to entice the finny tribe to engulf into their denticulated mouths a barbed hook, upon whose point is affixed a dainty allurement?" "No," said the boy, "I'm a fishin'?"

MISSIONARY NEWS.

The March number of the Christian Work contains a letter from its correspondent in Spain full of interest. He says that "over all Spain there are men specially engaged in disseminating the Scriptures," often maltreated and despitefully used, but often forgetting all toil and weariness in the joy of ministering to a people hungering and thirsting for the bread and water of life. Our Bible Society alone distributed last year very nearly ten thousand Bibles, with proportionate numbers of Testaments and smaller portions.—Scarcely any of these were given away; they were bought with hard-earned money. Taking the extreme poverty of the country into account, this fact is very significant. The colporteur, however, makes the evangelist necessary—the expounder of the word must follow in the wake of its distribution; social worship, and communion, its reception. "At present, besides private and individual workers, there are," says the writer, "two prominent organs of Protestant communities—that of the Spanish Evangelical Union, having its headquarters in the capital, and Don Antonio Carrasco for its leading preacher; and that of the Reformed Church, having its headquarters at Seville, with Don Juan Cabrera for its most prominent preacher. This latter community has some seven or eight congregations, all in Andalusia." Senor Cabrera writes that faith, zeal, constancy and desire to increase in holiness characterize these congregations; but they require churches. The inconvenience of their present places of worship are such as greatly to retard the work. "We have a magnificent church in Seville; within a few months we shall require another, although a more modest one." Schools are in sore demand. "It is not possible for a church to be without a school in this country, where ignorance is so deep. The Church of Rome increases on ignorance; the true church on light." The Romanists have formed an association to set back fires—establishing schools in resistance in all the cities where the Protestant movement opens them. Our Christian hymns are becoming widely popular, and are heard in the streets and houses, sung by many who are not members of the congregations.

The good work evidently grows and brightens at several great centers of the Iberian peninsula. The United Presbyterian Missionary Record gives a glowing account of the opening of a large and commodious hall on one of the best streets of Cadiz, thoroughly appointed for religious uses, seating over six hundred and fifty people, with ample room for more, if needed. The services at its opening were attended in the morning by over three hundred persons, and in the evening by nearly six hundred, and were of deep interest. The congregation contained a considerable proportion of the well-to-do classes and a good sprinkling of women. Large numbers of the pamphlet hymn books disappeared on Sunday. The people took them away—many, however, begging for them.—Independent.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN GREECE.—Dr. Kalapothakes, of Athens, stated the following facts with regard to his native country in a recent Sunday school address. He said it is only six years since Sunday schools were introduced into Greece. His Sunday school commenced with less than twelve scholars, and in two months it increased to two hundred. At the time of opening his school they had neither Bible nor Sunday school.

At first the Sunday school excited curiosity, then persecution. Its opposers came to the place where it was held, and attempted to beat down the door, throwing stones and other missiles against it, and at one time succeeded in their object. About two years since forty priests of the Greek Church formed themselves into an association for the purpose of organizing Sunday schools and providing for Sunday school instruction. Such are some of the results of Sunday school labor. The priests use the same Sunday school hymns as the missionaries, such as "Sweet Hour of Prayer," etc., translated into Greek. About two years since he selected two young lads to act as colporteurs. The influence of the truth they were disseminating was effectual in leading them to the Saviour. They are now rejoicing in the hope of sins forgiven, and will soon be ready to go out into the surrounding country and preach the gospel. There is a Sunday school paper published in Athens which has a circulation throughout the whole of Greece, and reaches even into Alexandria, Beirut, Syria, Constantinople, and among Greek professors in European and American colleges. Much of the success of Sunday schools in that country is due to the singing. The first introduction of music into one of the Athens schools increased it at once fourfold.—The Christian at Work.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1871.

THE SEASONS.

Bless God, who makes the sky so blue!
Bless God, who makes the fields so green!
Who makes to us so pleasant, too,
The colors that in both are seen!
His loving kindness makes us love
The green below, the blue above.

How can we doubt He means that we,
If we obey Him, shall be blest,
When all around our eyes can see
But what, for all who live, is best—
When all we see, nato our sight
Gives always beauty and delight?

Oh, bless Him for the glad green spring!
Oh, bless Him for the summer's flowers!
Bless Him for autumn's harvesting!
Bless Him for winter's frosty hours!
Bless Him who makes them all to give Gladness, how great, to all who live!

The Quiver.

THE PRESIDING ELDERSHIP.

A DIOCESAN AS COMPARED WITH AN ITINERANT GENERAL SUPERINTENDENCY.

We give below No. 3 of a series of very able and instructive communications to the Western Methodist on the presiding eldership. We regret that our limited space prevents the insertion of the entire series.

It has been shown that if we abolish the presiding eldership and still retain the episcopal form of government, our general superintendency must be changed into a diocesan. To quote again the weighty words of McKendree: "The office of a presiding elder is not separate and distinct from that of a general superintendent, but is inseparably connected with a part of it, and included in it."

The elaboration of this point brings to view some of the benefits of a general as compared with a diocesan superintendency or episcopacy.

Suppose, then, there are no presiding elders, but, instead, you have a bishop for each Annual Conference. The Conferences must be small, smaller than the average, for he must compass it thoroughly; he must know everything himself; he has no proxy.

He must abide in that narrow field for a long time in order to carry out the theory; and the tendency will be to a life residence.

You have now, for better or for worse, a local as opposed to an itinerant bishop; a diocesan as opposed to a general superintendent. He feels an absorbing interest in the field he has charge of, its stations, circuits, missions and its preachers. Beyond it he knows nothing. His thoughts and labors are confined within these limits, and he has enough to do.

What can this superintendent effect for extending the gospel over the outlying regions? If he lacks men for his own Conference-diocese, how is he to get a supply? Or, if he has more candidates for work than pulpits, what is to be done with the surplus? Wait on calls, and letters dismissory, and the red-tape negotiations for passing from one Conference jurisdiction to another.

The general superintendency is a unit, though there be several persons. Each of them is equally at home in any part of the work, and is equally interested in every Conference. He presides in those lying on the gulf coast this year; he may preside next year in those lying along the valley of the Mississippi. He organizes a Conference in the West; the harvest is great, but the laborers are few. They are drawn from the East, where he also presides.

It will be remembered that a few years ago eighteen members of the Kentucky Conference withdrew at one time. They could not carry the Conference into their "Union" sympathies, and, as by conspiracy, eighteen traveling preachers went off; among them were some principal men. That defection would have broken down the Kentucky Conference under a diocesan regime. But it was under a general superintendency, by which traveling preachers from other Conferences, where they could be spared, were promptly transferred to the vacant places. Supplies flowed in, to fill up the gap, from the Carolinas and elsewhere; the work went on, and the "loyal eighteen" were hardly missed.

The general superintendency promotes uniformity of discipline and doctrine. The connectional usages and forms are everywhere maintained. Thus there is no schism in the body. In one Protestant Episcopal diocese we see a bishop trying and suspending a presbyter because he does not believe in baptismal regeneration, and will not go through its mummery. In other dioceses the doctrine of baptismal regeneration is denounced, and the omission of its forms is allowed. In some dioceses ritualism runs riot—with the favor of the Bishop. In others it is forbidden—by the Bishop. The diocesan system is fruitful of schism; witness, High Church and Low Church, which are getting further apart every day.

A Methodist diocesan would, by and by, come upon a difficulty of a peculiar character. The plan of making appointmouts would be revolutionized. Do as he may, a bishop is liable to be considered friendly (or the reverse) to certain persons and places. An itinerant sometimes takes up the notion (unjustly, it is to be hoped) that a certain one of the general superintendents is prejudiced against him. He is not pleased with his appointment. Does he locate? No; he holds on bravely, for he expects another bishop to come round who will appreciate his worth. He goes on cheerfully, looking for the next Conference. But if that bishop who gave the hard appointment, and who (as he thinks) doesn't like him, is to preside always, why—he would quit: he would put himself out of reach of that appointing power. An itinerant general superintendency is necessary to maintain an itinerant pastorate.

This has never been written before, but is it not so? Justly or unjustly, an itinerant here and there takes up uncomfortable notions about this or that bishop; but he is perfectly willing to take his chances, under Providence, with the whole episcopal college. An itinerant general superintendency avoids friction at this delicate point, and prevents personal feeling from crystallizing into permanent obstructions to the most efficient system for extending the kingdom of Christ.

Often has a bishop (the whole college will pardon our plainness) adjourned an Annual Conference sine die, with resolutions of thanks sounding in his grateful ears. He loves everybody; he thinks everybody loves him; he feels comfortable. Reverend sir, be not deceived. It is simply impossible to please all. Offenses must needs come in the discharge of your business. While nineteen-twentieths of those names you have just read out would be glad to see you again, the twentieth man finds relief in the thought that he may see another in the chair at the next session.

What is true of the preachers and their families is true to some extent of the people. Suppose these few cases added to a little every year, and souring because hopeless, and you will get up trouble for your diocesan and his diocese in working the itinerant plan.

A general superintendency employs but few men, and gives them full work as officers. A diocesan plan tends to magnify the office into an order. Those who quote approvingly the Protestant Episcopalians, not only overlook the weakness of that plan for church extension, but its tendency to schism and doctrinal corruption. The diocesan is on hand, and if his official labors and responsibilities do not magnify him, then he himself must be made the most of. He must be hedged about with uncommon dignity and dressed in uncommon clothes. He must be raised above the vulgar level, and constituted a new order. They cannot have a church dedicated without the Bishop. They cannot get to be communicants without the Bishop—he must confirm them. They are ready to believe great things; for by so much as the Bishop is uncommon, by that much they receive uncommon benefit under his manipulation. Hence the stuff, which their people so readily swallow, about apostolic succession, and the "holy apostolic rite of confirmation."

Concerning this "holy apostolic rite" we say a few words in passing.

Paul and Barnabas had signal success in their missionary tour, at Antioch in Pisidia, and Perga and Iconium and Lystra. Many of their hearers believed. As a Methodist would say, they had "revivals" in all those places, and their new-made disciples "were filled with joy and the Holy Ghost:" converted, bright conversions. They had opposition, too, but were not appalled by it. "And when they had preached the gospel to that city (Derbe,) and had taught many, they returned again to Lystra and to Iconium and Antioch, confirming the souls of the disciples, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that we must, through much tribulation, enter into the kingdom of God." (Acts xiv, 21, 22.)

That kind of confirming is rational. The clause following explains what it was and how it was done. We all need it, and need it often. It is apostolic and pre-apostolic and post-apostolic. Isaiah cried: "Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees." And in our day we have seen presiding elders do very good confirming. Some circuit preachers are not bad hands at it.

Others than apostles confirmed, as the very next chapter to that just quoted from shows. Judas and Silas, messengers from the council at Jerusalem, came to Antioch (not in Pisidia,) where the disciples were first called Christians—an old church, and well ordered, was there. They delivered the epistle to the multitude of believers, and being extemporaneous preachers, "they exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them."

Some time had elapsed since their last round, and Paul and Barnabas abode at Antioch. Said the former to the latter: "Let us go again and visit our brethren, in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do." A natural solicitude of spiritual parents. The challenge was accepted, but for cause Paul and Barnabas took different routes; and Paul, with Silas, "went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches."

Now, such confirmation as that described in the Bible, both of the Old and New Testament, we believe in and practice. It includes these four things:

1. It may be done by any minister of God, and is not the exclusive prerogative of bishops, or of pretended successors of apostles, or even of apostles themselves.

2. It is done for those who have already believed and been added to the church, and have received the Holy Ghost.

3. It is done by exhortation and not by manipulation.

4. The same persons may be confirmed twice or thrice, or as often as they need it. The old Methodist sister was right. She was told by a proselyting High Church lady that "the Bishop" was expected, and there was going to be "confirmation," and asked if she had ever been confirmed. "Bless you, child, many a time. First and last, I reckon I've been confirmed a hundred times."

To sum up: We prefer, as a godly expedient of church government, the general to the diocesan episcopacy, for these reasons:

1. It is more efficient in spreading the gospel. Witness the gracious and unanswerable demonstration of American Methodism.

2. It not only distributes the itinerant laborers among the Conferences, but keeps up the itinerancy within each Conference.

3. It preserves uniformity in doctrine and discipline, and prevents schism in the body.

4. It secures the order and efficiency of the episcopal form, without the superstitions and prelatical corruptions to which the diocesan plan is exposed.

Now, if this general superintendency is only possible, in connection with the limited and local supervision which is distributed among a class of church officers called presiding elders, we may well hesitate before setting them aside.

TEA CULTURE IN CALIFORNIA.—Several thousand tea plants were received in San Francisco last year from Japan, and after lying in store for some time were set out in a plantation on Mr. Brannan's estate at Calistoga. The plants had been so long out of their native earth, and were in such condition when received at Calistoga, says the Bulletin, that it was doubted whether any of them would live. About ten or fifteen per cent., however, put forth leaves, and will probably grow in time into respectable tea shrubs, though not at present in a very thrifty condition. At the same time a quantity of Japanese tea seed was received and planted out in the same locality. The seeds all germinated, and the young plants appear so thrifty that no doubt is now entertained of the success of the experiment, and Mr. Perkins, who has the matter in charge, having recently received from Eugene M. Van Reed, of Kanagawa, a fresh supply of several hundred pounds of seed, is now engaged in planting them. Mr. Brannan has renewed his lease and made arrangements for starting a tea plantation on an extensive scale. California tea may, in a few years, become a staple article in the markets of the United States.

SKY SCENERY.—Perhaps the main characteristic of the sky is its diversity, open to the enjoyment and admiration of all, even of those pent in city dens, where, between close walls and from noisome alleys, may some gleams be caught of hasting cloud or the far expanse of blue. Community of interest pertains to the sky. Choice spots of earth and open freedom of the sea may be given to the few for admiration; but the sky knows no restriction, and reveals scenes of grandeur and loveliness to all who are watchful for its display. The poorest peasant from the plow may gaze on matchless combinations of form and color, which even a Turner may not fully express. Much room for study is there in aerial effect, not only in an esthetical point of view, but the practical one of weather forecasts. Again, no two skies, short of perfect blue and complete cloud, are ever precisely alike; but day after day, change follows change in the form, coloring, height and massing of clouds. This feature of the sky is peculiarly interesting, since we may be assured, as we linger to look on the glowing west, that no other sunset with clouds was ever precisely like that, which so becomes peculiarly ours.—Living Age.

THE Princess Metternich has offered to Louis Napoleon the use of her palace at Vienna.

DEATH OF ROBERT CHAMBERS.

Robert Chambers, who died in Edinburg on the seventeenth, was a member of the celebrated publishing firm which has probably diffused more useful knowledge among the masses than any other that ever existed on either side of the ocean. He was the younger of the two brothers, and born at Peebles, Scotland, in 1802, of poor and respectable parents, who were enabled to give their sons nothing better than an ordinary English education. Thrown at an early age upon their own resources, both commenced the bookselling business in a very humble way about the year 1818, adding to their establishments, as soon as they were able to do so, small printing offices. Each published a number of valuable and popular works, but not until 1829 did they unite in the production of any book. That year they jointly prepared a gazetteer of Scotland, which met with considerable success, and in 1832 the elder brother projected a journal avowedly to "supply intellectual food of the best kind in such a form and at such a price as to suit the convenience of every man in the British dominions." On the fourth of February Chambers' Journal appeared, and obtained at once a circulation of fifty thousand copies. Seeing their way now clear, the brothers formed a partnership which has continued ever since, and carried their names into every quarter of the globe where the English language has penetrated. The "Cyclopedia of English Literature," "People's Editions of Standard English Works," "Papers for the People," and the "Chambers' Encyclopedia," are familiar to every reader. Robert Chambers was an indefatigable worker, and besides doing his share in the management of an immense publishing house, found time to write several treatises upon geological subjects; one of which, the "Vestiges of Creation," was sent forth anonymously, and excited great interest in the religious as well as scientific world.

BIBLE-BURNING IN SPAIN.—The following appeared recently in El Independiente, of Barcelona:

"In San Gines de Vilasar took place, some days ago, a religious ceremony that brings to mind the good times of the Inquisition. As we see by writing, which has been sent to us from that village, after a sermon against the religious sects, the comunidad of the village, with the reverendo predicador economo of Barcelona in front, all carrying lighted candles, proceeded, after some Roman Catholic ceremonies, to burn various heretical books, among which figured some Bibles, without notes, but with a representation of Jesus Christ on the title page. After this ceremony the preacher addressed a tremendous philippic against the heretics, which left nothing to be desired. It were to be wished, however, that more tolerance should be seen in those good cures, since it is highly ridiculous to revive the fires in the midst of the nineteenth century, and when the press is called to spread light throughout the world. Besides, by such means, rather than destroy the books, they awaken the curiosity of the people, and in this case their religious fermentation produces a result completely opposite to that which they seek."

CROOKED OR STRAIGHT.—Two acorns dropped from the bough of a forest oak. Side by side they were buried by the falling leaves, and in time covered with soil, washed over them by the autumn rains. In the spring two tiny twigs pushed their way into the sunlight. When blackberry time came, the careless foot of a school boy crushed and almost killed one of the twigs; yet it lived and grew, but was no more erect and beautiful as its companion, but crooked and deformed.

Years passed, and a woodman with his ax laid them both low, and robbed them of their branches. Together they were carried to a beautiful park, and, with many other sticks, were used in erecting a rustic bridge. The straight sapling was placed in the floor for men to walk upon, while the crooked one took its place in the ornamental railing. A thoughtful man passed by in the throng of pleasure seekers, and looking upon the crooked stick, he said:

"That which was most deformed is now most beautiful. The poorest, most despised man will be admired if he fills well the right place."

A SAN FRANCISCO school teacher received the following note from the "ostensible" parent of one of his pupils: "I hope, as to my John, you will flog him just as offin as you kin. Heas a bad boy—is John. Altho I've bin in habit of teachin him miself, it seems to mo he will never larn anithing—his spellen is ottragously defishent. Wallop him well, ser, and you will receiv my thanks."

THE peach and plum trees of Florida are in full bloom and promise good crops.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

THE Waldenses have hired a room in Rome for ten years, and commenced public worship there as soon as possible after the city passed under the power of the Italian government, using the Italian language.

THE relative strength of the leading denominations in North Carolina stands thus: Methodist Episcopal Church South, 80,000; regular Baptists, 78,000; Presbyterians, 15,000; Lutherans, 7,000; Episcopalians, 3,300.

THE British organization of the Evangelical Alliance is entrusted with the direction of the influential deputation which is to visit Russia in May, to lay before the Emperor the cause of the persecuted Protestants in the Baltic provinces.

FEARFUL BUT FAITHFUL.—"The Jewel Mine of Salvation," one of the most popular and useful tracts in India, was written by a Bengali native Christian, who was too timid to profess his faith openly. It has been translated into many of the dialects of India, and widely circulated.

WE LEARN from the Banner of Light, Boston, that Mr. Robert Barnes, of Evansville, Indiana, lately deceased, "left a will bequeathing to the board of trustees of the Indiana State Association the whole of his property, amounting to nearly $700,000, to be devoted to the education of children of poor parents."

THE TIDE TURNING.—It is well known that Great Britain and Northern Europe have furnished the most of the converts to the Mormon faith. A "half yearly meeting" was recently held in Manchester, when the missionaries spoke discouragingly of their success in securing new adherents, few being found to listen to their doctrines and yield to their persuasions.

AN INKLING OF A MISSIONARY'S LABOR.—A type-setter in one of our printing offices has two cases before him with one hundred and thirty-five boxes to contain the different letters, points and characters. A compositor in the mission printing offices in China stands in the midst of an amphitheater of six thousand compartments, each word having its separate character. The difficulty of learning to read and to print such a language may be imagined.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Baltimore Conference Statistics.—The statistics give the following totals:

	This year.	Increase.
Members	32,412	1,678
Baptisms	3,721	165
Church edifices	314	7
Value of church edifices	$1,093,950	$14,150
Parsonages	68	3
Value of parsonages	$257,250	$7,450

There is a falling off in the missionary collections of $1,931.25. There is a decrease of one Sunday school, and 116 officers and teachers, and an increase of 383 scholars.

THE Philadelphia Bible Readers' Society has reported for its first year the receipt of $1,037, and has employed seven Bible women, who have during the year made over eight thousand visits in abodes—for the word home is a misnomer—of poverty and sin. These visits are for religious conversation and prayer, for the distribution of the Scriptures, and for the elevation and instruction of the ignorant and degraded who will not come to the light.

THE Philadelphia Episcopalian, speaking of the increased expenditures for church music, thinks the largest appropriation for this purpose is by Christ church, New York—$7,500. The new St. Thomas, in Fifth avenue, is nearly equal. Trinity and its several chapels average $7,000, Grace church about $5,500, and St. Ann's $6,000. The paper ventures the wish that in some prominent church the music committee would arrange to have the people do their own singing, and apply the $7,000 to provide as many free pews as possible, "just by way of experiment."

THE EPISCOPATE.—It is pleasing to observe how surely the evident favor of God on the unprelatical churches is undermining the confidence of churchmen in anything external and artificial, as constituting the works of a true church of Christ. Dean Stanley breaks boldly from the view of the past in observing, as he did at a recent convocation: "To say that the episcopate, as it now exists, was founded and instituted as one of the universal and essential parts of Christian religion by our divine Redeemer appears to me little short of profanity."—Interior.

A LETTER from Mr. Bliss, the agent of the American Bible Society in the Levant, dated January 27, appears in the Observer, describing the process of clearing the ground and digging for the foundation for the new Bible House in Constantinople. After long and most vexatious delays, the work was actually begun a little before New Years. The old ruin of a spacious wooden building, of unknown antiquity, has been removed; and now the earth is being carried off, in three-peck baskets, strung across the backs of horses and mules, no wheel carriage being allowed.

THE crust of heathenism throughout India is heaving in all directions, betraying a weariness of it, and a strong tendency to change. A large body of tanners, a sub-caste of Sudras, have found the yoke intolerable, and left their old homes and trade, to go to the province of Agra and become farmers. At the same time they have thrown off caste, renounced idolatry, and adopted Deism, under that form called Satuami, which so happily blends rudiments of religion and morality that, while it inculcates the broadest charity and enjoins prayer, it also forbids smoking and the use of all intoxicating drinks.

BISHOP AMES, says the Northwestern Christian Advocate, has appointed Rev. Leroy M. Vernon, D. D., to our newly projected mission to Italy. Dr. Vernon will sail shortly, making Genoa his first point, but spending some time after his arrival there in prospecting for his future work. When his report shall have been made to the board at New York they will locate the mission. This is a grand forward movement of our Missionary Society, and ought to inspire the church with fresh zeal in the work. We are soon on the heels of the retreating papacy, bound to do our part to make that land of sunny skies and vine-clad hills, of art and beauty, once more the home of a pure faith, germinant with blessings for the life that now is, as well as that which is to come.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS A CIVILIZER.—The Micronesian Islands in the Pacific have for years been visited by whalers and trading vessels; but while the foreigners opened traffic, and taught the natives the vices that only debased their heathenism, they did nothing to raise them in the scale of manhood. The missionaries of the American Board have only been there a few years. But though they found them naked and illiterate savages, they have reduced their unwritten language to form, have made a literature for them, clothed them and taught them the habits of decency and civilization, opened flourishing schools, led many to a saving knowledge of the truth, and admitted them into a thoroughly organized church. Rev. Mr. Sturges has recently visited New York to carry some elementary and devotional publications through the press of the Tract and Bible Societies.

"THE DARKEST PLACE ON EARTH." Such is the deep-shaded characterization of Central Africa given by the Rev. Mr. Crummell, of the Episcopal Board, on reporting a remarkable opening for a mission among the Barline people. They occupy a lofty, cool, mountainous country, containing a large and crowded population, and numerous towns with superior civil regulations. They are noted for their industry and for their important manufactures, but are gross and ferocious heathen and cannibals. No Christian or Mohammedan has ever been there, except an occasional visit from the Cavalla missionaries. As they desire an easy access to the coast, they have recently ceded their territory to the Liberian government, and express a strong desire for missionaries, and for teachers for their children. Bishop Payne unites with Mr. Crummell in earnestly urging the Episcopal Board to open a mission among them.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Methodist Almanac gives the latest statistics (for 1870) of the Canadian Methodist Episcopal Church, as follows: Members, 20,240; Sunday schools, 288; officers and teachers, 2,129; scholars, 15,550. There was a net increase for the year of 549 members, 30 Sunday schools, 342 officers and teachers, and 3,342 scholars. The work is divided into three Conferences, 11 districts and 145 circuits and stations. There is one Bishop (J. Richardson, D. D.,) 198 traveling preachers, and 217 local preachers. These statistics were kindly furnished to the editor of the Almanac by Rev. J. Gardner, the courteous editor of the Canada Christian Advocate. A writer in the last week's issue of that paper estimates the church property at $600,000, nearly free from debt; pastors' salaries about $68,000; raised last year for missions, $11,473; for Sunday schools, $2,268; for the superannuated fund, $2,324. He reports everything in connection with the church as prosperous.

BIBLE ARCHÆOLOGY.—A new society is now being formed, having for its object the investigation of the archæology, history and chronology of ancient and modern Assyria, Palestine, Egypt, Arabia and other biblical lands, the promotion of the study of the antiquities of those countries, and the preservation of a continuous record of discoveries now or hereafter to be in progress. The society is to be called the Biblical Archæology.

HE that loses his conscience has nothing left that is worth keeping.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Harr, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

MINISTERIAL SUPPLY.

The following resolutions were passed by the Louisiana Conference at its recent session in this city:

Resolved, That in view of the great destitution of laborers within our bounds, we set apart the first Friday in April as a day of fasting and prayer, that the Lord of the harvest may send forth more laborers into this field.

Resolved, That the preachers be requested to preach in their several charges on the call to the ministry, on the Sabbath following the first Friday in April, or at such other times during the year as may be most suitable.

The Day of Fasting and Prayer.

Last week we called special attention to the day set apart by Conference resolution. Friday, the seventh instant, is the appointed day. Let all observe it, and let our preachers study and preach on the ministerial call.

REV. JOHN B. POWERS.

We give below an extract from a letter of April 4, just received from Rev. J. W. Rush, of Mobile. Multitudes will unite with us in mourning the loss of so estimable and useful a minister of the gospel.

I heard yesterday of the death of Rev. John B. Powers, of the North Alabama Conference. He was one of my best friends—a man of noble heart, true to the church, full of faith and the Holy Ghost, abounding in the work of the Lord. His illness was long and painful, but his death was triumphant. He leaves a son in the Alabama Conference, Rev. R. M. Powers, a wife and two small sons. May God care for the widow and orphans.

Bro. Powers was a member of the old Alabama Conference, and at its division fell into the Mobile side. His work was in the Jasper district, and all through those mountain regions his pure life and earnest preaching won many souls for Christ, and secured the friendship of multitudes of hearts to himself. All who knew him loved him. He died March 30, near Montevallo.

REV. W. H. MILBURN.

This well known divine has been sojourning in our city for the past ten days, and lecturing to appreciative audiences. He has our thanks for complimentary tickets, and we regret that other engagements have prevented us from using them. We understand that Mr. Milburn leaves to-day for Galveston, where he proposes to deliver the lectures which have been received with so much favor in other places.

Revival in Little Rock, Arkansas.—A correspondent of the Western Methodist, writing on March 11, says:

We are having from one to five conversions every night. Some thirty-five persons have professed saving faith in Christ, and others are inquiring the way. The church is most wonderfully built up and blessed. A holy zeal has taken possession of every child of God to bear onward the standard of the cross. "The set time," surely, "the set time" for the outpouring of the Spirit has come.

POST OFFICES.

As changes are being made in the post offices of the preachers, they will greatly oblige us by furnishing their addresses as early as possible. Don't forget to give the post office from which your paper is to be changed, as well as that to which it is to be sent.

CONCERN FOR SINNERS.

A deep concern for souls is a most important qualification for the work of saving them. This lies at the foundation of the provisions which God has made for the salvation of the world. Love for the perishing led to the gift of the only begotten Son, and Christ's compassion for a lost world was the grand incentive which carried him through his labors and sufferings in the work of redemption. Paul was simply imbued with his Master's spirit when he declares "that I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart; for I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh." The general import of this language is unmistakable. Whatever critical difficulties may be in it, the deep and unutterable concern for those who were "without God in the world" is clear enough. Christians have but to compare their feelings with those of the apostle to discover the almost immeasurable distance which generally exists between them and this standard of religious zeal. It is both rare and difficult to reach that fervid experience which makes it possible to appreciate the apostle's words. Granting that he did not mean his readiness to accept eternal death for himself if it might be the means of bringing everlasting life to his brethren, he must have contemplated anything less than this, by which the result could be accomplished.

We shall find that the sympathies of professed Christians are often more deeply enlisted by instances of temporal danger than by the perils of unbelief and impenitence. Their pity is more completely excited by the calamities of fire, flood, pestilence and war, than by that most fearful of all dooms which must shortly overtake the ungodly. Parents are more anxious for the health, social position and business success of their children than they are for their conversion. For one anxious hour on account of their souls, they may spend ten over matters of temporal importance only. Every manifestation of religious interest does not partake of this pre-eminent desire for the salvation of sinners. The believer is engaged about his own soul's welfare, aiming to make a successful fight against sin, to be comfortable in heart, and to enjoy the means of grace. However we may explain the phenomenon, there are many who scarcely think of anybody but themselves, although of devout and prayerful habits, and uniform in their attention to the ordinary duties of the religious profession. We have heard sermons and attended prayer meetings where the conversion of unbelievers seemed to have been altogether ignored. Churches in the aggregate fall into this state of indifference, and seem only to feel for sinners when there are extraordinary indications that sinners are feeling for themselves.

Christians may well marvel at this state in their ordinary experience when they consider the occasion for a consuming zeal. Do they believe their Bibles? Do they realize the import of sin and its wages? Do they credit the declarations of the gospel? To feel and to measure their responsibilities they must have a true conception of the critical condition of every unconverted soul. The sense of accountability is a great quickener of the indifferent, and is a powerful motive for faithful and earnest activity. But a concern for souls which embraces pity and love for them is something higher and more powerful. In one case it is our own danger that moves chiefly; in the other it is the sinner's peril. It is working for life in one instance, and from life in the other. The want of such concern may be felt and sought; its absence is something to be mourned over, whilst it is prayed for as a special grace. This is the most effective. The preacher who warns sinners from a sense of duty alone can never win souls as he who, in addition, is drawn out in tenderness and compassion for them. The burden of souls supposes this sympathy and pity, this capability of weeping over those who are most insensible to the appeals of the gospel. Where this peculiar and affectionate interest in the salvation of the unconverted is truly felt there will be a measure of success in the endeavor to bring men to the Saviour. It will inspire courage, the spirit of power and of love and of a sound mind will animate the church, and the earnestness of believers will awaken a corresponding seriousness in the minds of the careless. By it Christians are qualified to convince and persuade, and to co-operate with all divine and spiritual agencies. They must reach this point of communion and sympathy with Christ before they can be effective co-workers in the husbandry of salvation. The love of souls places them in harmony with the infinite compassion, which is the center and mainspring of the plan of redemption.

With this love enkindled every child of God will be qualified to lead men to the feet of Jesus, and when it pervades the churches a great awakening is sure to occur. Under the weight and pressure of such a concern ordinary hinderances will give way, and there will be time for prayer, for seeking the lost, and for every conceivable effort to reclaim the wandering. The strongest faith is that which works by love, and in our intercessions the heart that feels most will pour out the most availing supplications. All genuine concern for sinners must be connected with an adequate estimate of the worth of the soul. Where this estimate takes its measure from the display of the divine love the heart of the believer will be stirred to its utmost depths. The cross that tells the priceless value of the immortal soul will inspire him with a Christ-like commiseration for those who are nearing the fatal vortex. Such a concern as the cross inspires will give directness and point to all efforts. To the preacher it will impart an immediate and mighty purpose to save them that hear. To those who labor in the Sunday school it will bring the agonizing desire of immediate fruit. To parents it will be as an inspiration and a voice from heaven calling them to awake to the fact that their children are perishing. To the whole church it will be as life from the dead. Concern for souls! this is the first token for good in a revival, and a leading element in the progress of every extraordinary work of God. May Zion awake and shake herself from the dust, and may all her children awake to that concern for souls which they ought to feel.

CENTENARY COLLEGE.

We have much good news for the friends of this institution.

1. The Legislature, by "an act entitled an act for the relief of Centenary College," has relieved the Board of Trustees from all obligations and liabilities to the State of Louisiana, excepting the sole condition that the property bought in the original purchase—that is, its houses, grounds, etc.—shall be used only for educational purposes. Mr. Tom Andersou, Senator from St. Landry, introduced the bill, and looked after it through all its stages in the Senate; and Mr. G. W. Carter, the speaker, saw it through the House. This release from the many onerous disabilities to which Centenary has been subject will give a new spring to the work of its re-establishment. The Conferences have now nothing to fear from State interference. They may now also, if pleased to do so, establish a theological chair, and shape the faculty to suit the best interests of our church.

2. We have a college class and a preparatory school of excellent young men—some forty at present, with an immediate expectation of other students from Mississippi and Louisiana. Already one young man there is preparing for the ministry, and is supported by friends in Mississippi. We shall send one or two shortly from New Orleans, who feel called to the same great work.

3. The agent, the Rev. B. F. White, is doing a good work. We are much indebted to his watchfulness for the passage of the bill by the Legislature. He is also interesting the friends of the church in New Orleans in this great enterprise of Methodism—securing subscriptions and promises of aid, an account of which will be forthcoming in good time. And we may say, collaterally, that the Rev. W. V. Tudor also comes to its aid, and reports a subscription of $1,000 for Centenary, from a friend whose name he is not at liberty to give—a friend whose heart, we doubt not, has been stirred by the Saviour to design liberal things in more directions than one.

4. In addition to this we received, a few weeks ago, from an itinerant preacher of the Mississippi Conference, a check for $400—from his own pocket, being just twice as much as he had promised—for the revivification of his alma mater.

5. The repairs of the central building are to be begun before or by the first of April. Some of the necessary material has already been purchased.

6. The professors are doing hard work, and can teach three times the number of young men that are now in attendance. They are experienced and highly capable gentlemen, and are well and long known to the friends of education.

We hope that the preachers especially will give a hearty support to Centenary by advising young men to enter its halls, and by furnishing all facilities to the agent when he shall appear among them. Methodism in the Southwest must and will have this old and valuable seat of learning restored to all its former usefulness. We have no other place for the training of our young preachers. K.

The following is a true copy of the act referred to above:

No. 63. AN ACT

Entitled an Act for the Relief of Centenary College of Louisiana.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana, in General Assembly convened, That in accordance with the condition stated in the original act of sale of the College of Louisiana (Act 74, 1845, and Act 113 of 1847,) the Centenary College of Louisiana shall not be appropriated to any other purpose than a literary institution.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, etc., That the Board of Trustees of said Centenary College shall be and are hereby relieved from all further and subsequent conditions and liabilities to the State of Louisiana.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted etc., That all laws and parts of laws in conflict with or contrary to the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, etc., That this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

G. W. CARTER,
Speaker of House of Representatives.
OSCAR J. DUNN,
Lieut. Gov. and President of the Senate.
Approved March 21, 1871.
H. C. WARMOTH,
Governor of the State of Louisiana.
Recorded in the office of Secretary of Senate March 23, 1871.
CHAS. H. MERRILL,
Secretary of Senate.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Dodd & Mead, 762 Broadway, New York.—We know of no publishers who have a better record than the worthy gentlemen who advertise Max Kromer and Nelly's Dark Days in another column. We have never seen a book issued by them that we could object to keeping on our shelves. Look out for their advertisement of a new edition of Crudeu's Concordance next week.

Tanning Leather.—The new and improved system of tanning, advertised in this issue by Messrs. Wildblood & Sidway, of Jackson, Mississippi, deserves attention.

The Morehouse Conservative.—The gentlemanly and enterprising proprietors of this spirited sheet deserve the patronage of north Louisiana. They are worthy of the success which they are likely to have. See their advertisement.

Pianos and Organs.—Mr. Philip Werlein, the enterprising proprietor of the large establishment at 80 and 82 Baronne street, informs us that he is receiving large invoices of pianos and organs. His warerooms are filled with an elegant assortment of instruments. He warrants them to give entire satisfaction, and offers them at reasonable prices. Pianos repaired and tuned.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the new government loan, by the Secretary of the Treasury. There are some new features in this loan which it will be well for those interested to read.

UNION, BY ALL MEANS.

Our religious exchanges of the North are sorely troubled about the state and prospects of the Republican party. The elements of disintegration are becoming more and more apparent every day, and the watchmen upon the walls of the political Zion are lifting up the voice of warning. All the church papers have had their say concerning the little unpleasantness which has sprung up between Sumner and Grant, and they are now assuming the role of peace-makers. The Independent says:

Republicans must now settle their differences, and agree to fight together, or their cause is lost in 1872. They are not strong enough to meet the Democratic hosts with divided ranks. The two parties are numerically too nearly equal for either to win, unless thoroughly united and in earnest. The admirers and adherents of President Grant cannot nominate and elect him without the support and co-operation of Mr. Sumner and his friends; and it is just as true that Mr. Sumner cannot be a successful standard-bearer against intestine heart-burnings and divisions among Republicans themselves. No matter who may be nominated for the next Presidency—whether General Grant, Schuyler Colfax, Senator Sumner or anybody else—the one indispensable condition of success is union among Republicans. If here they fail, they are certainly doomed to defeat.

While we hold Mr. Sumner in very high esteem, and have the same opinions of President Grant, we think far more of the principles they represent. The question whether these principles shall prevail, or the country pass again into Democratic hands, is so important, and involves so many interests, that we cannot contemplate any serious division among public men except with profound regret. Not as partisans, expecting the slightest political favor, but as journalists, anxious that the party which has saved the nation, and given liberty to all the people, should suffer no damage, we call upon the President, his cabinet, and the Republican members of both houses of Congress, and upon Republican politicians throughout the land, so to adjust their relations to each other as to march in solid columns under one banner and with a common purpose. They have a hard battle before them; and if they demoralize the people by turning their arms against each other, they will be guilty of a stupendous blunder. There are Republican votes enough to elect the next President; and they will do it, provided party managers do not dishearten and disgust the people by a stupid war among themselves. Republican politicians in Washington, New York and elsewhere will do the party and the interests it represents a great favor if they will stop bickering, and try to agree among themselves.

The tone of other leading church journals is in the same key. They are evidently aspiring to the blessedness of peace-makers, and are thoroughly alarmed at the aspect of Radical politics. What effect the prayers and advice of the elect will have upon such monuments of grace as Grant, Sumner, Butler and the like of them, is not easily predicted at this stage of events. Reconciliation and peace among themselves is the grand object. Without this the party is gone, and the next President may be a fair-minded statesman, rather than a party hack or a military dictator.

Zion's Herald very justly clings to Sumner, and shows up the comparative claims of the two great leaders. But everything must give way before the paramount necessity of union in the party. The poor South, as usual, is to be "The dear uniting tie

That will not let us part,"

very much on the same principle and in the same spirit that "devils with devils damned firm concord hold." As a union of love is impossible, they are to be held together by this object of their common hate. Let the Alabama claims, San Domingo annexation, taxation and tariffs all sink, and let the party of moral ideas rally around the one issue upon which they can agree—hatred and oppression of the South. Zion's Herald is for peace in this wise:

But for Sumner Grant had never been heard of. But for Grant Sumner's great purpose had never been effected. The South would have been an independent slave republic to-day had not the military brain co-ordinated the statesman's heart. They should be reconciled. For Sumner to talk of impeachment is folly. For Grant to attempt to disgrace Sumner is folly. San Domingo may be a proper addition to our country, and may not. But these eminent men should not get up a private war over the question. The proper way is for Sumner, the first offender, to retract his offensive words, and for Grant to retract his opposition. The question that agitates the nation will be wisely solved. On the state of the South the two great men are united, and that is far more important than Alabama claims or San Domingo's annexation. Let them meet together, talk together, pray together, as grave and reverend seigniors should. Let us have peace.

Think of their praying together! and what a prayer meeting! They may get together to curse and vilify and oppress the South, but, we fear, never to pray. The Ku-Klux is the war cry that is to bring the party together. It is in this refuge of lies that they are to find the only bond that can save the party. The saddest aspect of this subject is to see the religious press so thoroughly identified with a political party as to lend itself to any amount of partisan fraud and trickery. The Republican party is identical with the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and is to be sought first; or it is something which overshadows everything temporal and spiritual—a kingdom to be set up and maintained at every hazard and by any means, whether fair or foul.

Bishop Andrew's Dying Messages.

Mobile, March 31, 1871.

Dear Brother: Below you have the messages Bishop Andrew sent to the ministers and members of the church. As you know, he spoke slowly after he was stricken. This gave me opportunity of taking them down as he uttered them. The language is his as nearly as I could preserve it. I send them for publication. They are the last messages of love and exhortation and hope his blessed lips ever spoke to the brethren he loved so well. May we all listen to them and obey them and follow him as he followed Christ.

After the conversation which brought out these messages, I asked him, if he had his life to go over, what change, if any, would he make. He answered: "None but to try to be more faithful. The work of a Methodist preacher is the grandest any man ever did." While in New Orleans he wrote a piece for your Advocate on "Levity in Preachers," which piece I found in his pocket, and put away. But I cannot now lay my hand on it. It was the last piece he ever wrote for the public, and was unfinished. I hope I can find it and be able to send it to you.

Yours, etc., J. W. Rush.

He said: "I wish you to tell the Bishops I would like to meet them in May, but cannot, for I am fully persuaded my time is at hand; that I have in them the fullest confidence and die rejoicing that God has put the church under their care and superintendency; that they must always live in peace and harmony as they have done.

"Tell the preachers to follow the word of God and the Discipline where we are exhorted to be serious. They meet at Conference, and backslide rather than increase in piety. This is owing largely to the foolish habit of jesting. Tell them I love them, and to be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord; for, as much as they know, their work is not in vain in the Lord.

"Tell all the church I feel I have lived very imperfectly, but my hope and confidence is in God, and I hope to meet them in heaven.

"Give Bishop Pierce my love, and tell him to travel through the church as he has done, and God will bless the work."

Afterward he added this: "Tell the preachers not to neglect the Sunday schools. The children are an important part of the church. The words of the Master are 'Feed my lambs.'"

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will convene in the Presbyterian church, in the city of Huntsville, Alabama, on Thursday, the eighteenth of May, 1871, at eleven o'clock A. M. The opening sermon will be preached by the Rev. R. L. Dabney, D. D., the moderator of the last Assembly.

Farewell Address of Bishop Andrew to the General Conference.

The following address was delivered by Bishop Audrew at the close of the last General Conference:

"I don't expect to take up much time—not half as much as you have wasted in quarreling over that resolution, and then indefinitely postponing it. I am glad that it has been done, however. Now, I want to say a few things to you. I have been attending your present session, and it has afforded me much pleasure. I have met many of my old friends, and they have pressed my hands warmly, and made me feel very happy. And now we are going to separate. My mind has been burdened when I have looked on this large body of preachers and lay brethren, and I have thought, Have you sought the glory of God more than your own? Have you considered this in all your speeches and talks and reports? And now another point. You are now about to part. Many of us will never meet again. Shall we go away and carry with us the flame of revival, and show that the General Conference has been a season of revival influences? Your people will soon see it if this is the case. I have been gratified as well as sorry to hear some of your debates. I am glad that we have been conservative enough to reject a great many things that have been presented. I feel as if I were delivering my last charge. Many years ago it was my habit to deliver an address at the close of Conference. It is not now under similar circumstances. I am about to leave you. Farewell! That word comes with sadness from my heart. I'll never see many of you any more. I want you to remember the old man. I want you to pray for the old Bishop. I think I can say with Paul: 'I have coveted no man's silver or gold.' I have not aimed at my own glory. I have always gone wherever I have been sent. I can appeal to my colleagues to say whether I have ever flinched. When I went into the work I considered that I had given myself up to God, and I had no right to choose where I should go. That's the spirit of itinerancy. No man is fit for it who has not laid all on God's altar. If you are seeking and clamoring for good places, what will the people say of you? Now, perhaps I hear more than you do, and I have been pained at some things which have come to my ears. You have no right to choose your own work. Now, some preachers want to be Bishop. If you want comfort and honor you had better be where you are. If the church calls you, then go; but woe be to him who thrusts himself into a position to which God has not called him. I remember well the last charge of the venerable Bishop McKendree to me. We were coming down from Philadelphia just after I had been elected Bishop. I said to him that the Conference had laid on me work for which I was not prepared, and had no experience whatever; and I asked him to please give me some advice. He said: 'James, I have not much to say, but I will say (and I want you Bishops to hear it,) never shrink from responsibility, for remember that by this you assume the most fearful of all responsibilities.' I have thought of that since. To you preachers I would say, You know I love you all, and as an old man I take the liberty of catechising you a little. Many of you are young men, and I pray you to consecrate your hearts and lives to the work of Christ. Don't be afraid of not being provided for. This book (with his hand on the Bible) provides for you. A California missionary once said to me: 'God has so often interposed in my behalf that I do not feel concerned at all, for I know that God will take care of me.' Go forward and do your duty. The Duke of Sully once said to Henry the Fourth: 'You treat your old servants badly; you appoint those who are not your friends to places where they receive large salaries, and leave your old friends out.' The King said: 'Don't be uneasy—you take care of my interests and I will take care of yours.' Let us trust in God. I have been traveling sixty years. I remember the venerable Dr. Pierce when the Bishop was a baby. I thought at that time he wouldn't live long; but here he is before me in a wonderful state of mental and physical activity. God bless the old man! I have always sustained an intimate relation to the Bishop. God bless you, George! I rejoice at your triumph, and pray that you may live long. Now, brethren, forgive the old man for talking so long. God bless you and yours! I love you all. And when you go away pray that up yonder I may stand with those who have labored with me on earth."

Mrs. Sophie Kirkpatrick, who died at New Brunswick, New Jersey, on Sunday, has willed to Rutgers College $30,000, and Princeton College a further sum of $150,000.

GOOD NEWS FROM A FAR COUNTRY

The following from Bro. Allen, addressed to the superintendent of the Felicity Street Sunday school of this city, will cheer the hearts of our readers.

Shanghai, China, Jan. 29, 1871.

My Dear Brother Foster: I am just on the eve of departure for Japan, but cannot go without first telling you a piece of good news, which I know will be gratifying to you, and particularly so to the Felicity Street Sabbath School Missionary Society. You are already aware that two of the pupils in the Felicity school, Shanghai, are children of Christian parents, and were baptized in their infancy. I have now to communicate the voluntary application of nine others in the same school for baptism and membership in the Christian church.

Their names and ages respectively are as follows:

1. Zia Yu-No, 15 years old.
2. Pay Yoong-Tsung, 14 years old.
3. Pay Bau Woo, 14 years old.
4. Tsang Ling Men, 13 years old.
5. Yaug Tuh Kwe, 13 years old.
6. Heong Kyung Yoong, 12 yrs. old
7. Kong Tsing Yoong, 11 yrs. old.
8. Kong Sy Liang, 13 years old.
9. Leh Siau San, 10 years old.

I have previously had occasion to mention to you the great interest the school seemed to take in being instructed, and how hopeful the indications that before long signal results might be expected; but even my fondest anticipations had not foreseen the pleasure of this day. 'Twas in the Sabbath school, and during the closing exercises, about half-past four o'clock P. M., that Pay Yoong-Tsung, a boy of fourteen years, the son of a military officer, and a most serious, thoughtful youth, arose from his seat and, addressing me, said: "I would like to join the church." His modest manner and the tremulousness of his voice attested his sincerity, and I was surprised to find that a similar feeling and a like earnestness on the subject characterized the other members of the school.

When he sat down Yung Tuh Kwo arose and urged a like request, and thus did they all. I was astonished—the scene took me unawares. I could but pray: Lord, increase my faith! The children wept. I wept too. Then we sang, "Happy day, Oh! happy day that fixed my choice," and knelt together as we never knelt before, to pray for pardon, forgiveness, acceptance. My soul yearned for them as we drew nearer and nearer to God in prayer. Our hearts were softened, melted, as we bowed together. The children dedicated themselves voluntarily to God. We arose, and I received them in the name of the Saviour, and placed their names on the list of probationers. Thank God for the scene of this day—thank God for the kind friends of Felicity street, New Orleans! A good work is begun—the Lord is with us and it shall go on. Who shall hinder it? Pray for us, my brother. Tell your school to praise God for his blessings on their gifts, and pray for yet a larger manifestation, both among themselves and us. Pardon haste; it is now midnight. I will write you more at length when I return. With love and kindest regards to yourself and teachers, and the dear children of the Felicity Street Sabbath School Missionary Society, believe me ever your brother in Christ, Young J. Allen.

Dr. L. Pierce, says the Southern Christian Advocate, spent Sabbath, March 11, in Atlanta, preaching twice, as also every night down to Thursday, the sixteenth. We learn from one who has known him long and heard him scores of times, that he preached with the power of earlier days. On Friday he came down to Macon. We elsewhere tell of his work on the following Sabbath morning. On that day, after the sermon of one hour and three quarters in the morning, preached with vigor, he addressed the Sunday school not very briefly in the afternoon, and at night preached a strong sermon an hour in length, and was fresh on Monday morning. On Friday, March 24, the venerable preacher entered his eighty-seventh year, and seems to have promise of yet many years to come. "May his bow abide in strength" for another decade and more.

DEATH OF THE REV. E. C. ODOM.

We are pained to record the death of the Rev. E. Caple Odom—an excellent minister, who was in charge of the Fayetteville circuit, North Alabama Conference. He died at Childersburg, Talladega county, Alabama, on Sunday morning, March 12. We are indebted to our good friend, the Rev. Daniel Duncan, for the following notice of our lamented friend: "Brother Odom was born July 29, 1834. Having lost his father early in life, his mother, with him and an older daughter, removed to Autaugaville, Alabama. His mother and sister were members of the Methodist Protestant Church, and in that church he was brought up. From a boy, under the influence of pious training and example, he gave his heart and life to Christ. As he began to develop into manhood his thirst for knowledge and often expressed convictions of his duty to preach induced his friends to send him to school in order to prepare him for the ministry. He was at school about one year. He was afterward licensed to preach in the Methodist Protestant Church, and served that church with fidelity and great usefulness until December, 1869, when he withdrew from it, and connected himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church South. He joined the Montgomery Conference at Union Springs, Alabama, and was appointed to the Fayetteville circuit. At the session of the North Alabama Conference, held at Gadsden, in November, 1870, he was reappointed to the Fayetteville circuit, which he was serving when he died. Bro. Odom was a spiritual man. His preaching was always characterized by thought and deep religious experience. His life was consistent. In his contact with all men he was always the same prudent, thoughtful, gentle, earnest Christian man. His last hours were often cheered by bright evidences of his acceptance with God; and his last expressions were of resignation to his will, and of great confidence in hope of future life. His church was devoted to him, and on the occasion of his funeral manifested their grief at his death by a very large attendance. He leaves a wife and three children."—Nashville Christian Advocate.

Obituary.

The Hon. and Rev. William B. Owings, of Lonisville, Winston county, Mississippi, died in Jackson, Mississippi, on the morning of January 28, 1871.

It was the privilege of the writer to be with him almost daily from the first to the last of his sickness. From his own lips and by his own request, a few days before his death, the following particulars were taken down, viz:

"I was born in Lawrence district, South Carolina, October 13, 1815; was raised and educated by pious parents; was married March 14, 1839, to Miss S. A. Jenkins, of Greenville district, with whom I lived in perfect peace and harmony. In September, 1840, a glorious revival broke out in our neighborhood, at which we were both happily converted and received into the membership of the Methodist Church.

"A short time after this I felt that I was called to preach the gospel. I shrank from the responsibility; but conscience urged me forward; and while this conflict was going on I felt: 'Woe is me if I preach not the gospel.' I still resisted the impression, and the blessing of God was taken from me. I went to the Lord with an humbled heart and received light, and became willing to give myself up to his service. I was licensed to preach in October, 1844; traveled under a presiding elder in the Alabama Conference during the years 1856, 1857, 1858 and 1859. I joined the Conference in 1860, and remained a member till after the surrender.

"I served during the war of the Confederacy in Company F, Thirty-fifth Regiment Mississippi Volunteers; was elected first lieutenant, and was nearly all the time in command of the company."

The writer first became acquainted with Bro. Owings during the spring of 1870. He was then attendant upon the House of Representatives, to which he had been elected by the people of Winston county. His conduct during his entire stay here was that of a gentleman and a Christian. Though he had yielded to the importunity of friends to enter into political life for the time being, yet he was no partisan, but always took his conscience and the welfare of his people to be his guide in his public acts.

His health was quite feeble when he left home, in the beginning of this year, to attend his second session; so much so, indeed, that his wife and himself had concluded that they would scarcely ever see each other in the flesh again. Their fears proved but too true. He did not occupy his seat more than a few days before his disease—chronic diarrhea—prostrated him and gradually wasted his strength, until on the morning of the twenty-eighth of January "the weary wheels of life stood still."

Everything was done that could arrest his disease, administer to his comfort and smooth his passage to the grave, by the kind Christian couple with whom he made his home, by skillful physicians, and by attentive friends from the Legislature, the Masonic fraternity and the ministry.

From first to last he expressed himself perfectly resigned to his Father's will and confident of his salvation. At times, while religious service was being conducted in his room, he would clap his hands and shout aloud the praises of God.

His funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church in Jackson, and his remains were accompanied to their last resting place by members of the Legislature, of the Masonic brotherhood and of the church.

C. G. Andrews.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending April 3, 1871.

A—W B Adams $3, Eugene Archer, T Y Armstrong, V Allen, Alex Agar, N W Ayer & Son.

B—A J Briggs, G Bright $8, W Buchanan, J M Boon, J H Bishop, S M Bixby & Co.

C—R E Cary, W G Connor 2 lets, A M Campbell $8.65, Baxter Clegg, W J Carlton 2 lets, Cutter, Tower & Co, E P Clandon, M Calloway, T S Coller.

D—P H Diffenwierth, Miss V F Drake $3, Joel T Daves $3, C H Ditson, W A Droddy $41.83, Daves & Schroeder, R Day, B D Dashiell $12.

E—E C Eggleston, E J Evans & Co.

F—J F Findlay, Thos W Flowers, E N Freshman.

G—W F Glenn $3, Thos Garnett, J Guion, Mrs A E Gandy, P W Graves, Griffin & Hoffman, Thos G Gilmore, Graves & Rodgers.

H—J W Hall, Jas Hallmack $3, H J Harris, Jas H Houston, P Howard, P D Hudgins, C Hoover & Co, Henry Heath 2 lets, W C Halsip, Mrs E L Hallberg.

J—K A Jones, J C Johnston, John E Jagers, Johnson & Buchanan, A R James, Andrew T Jackson.

K—W P Khuball, Ocy Kay, John W Kline.

L—W B Lewis $1.40, Geo R Lynch, T A Lancaster $10, Jas Leffel & Co, George W Lawrence, W E M Linfield $5, J B Lippincott & Co.

M—J W Medlock, H H Montgomery $3, W E Mabry $3, J S McCarver $6, Daniel Morgan 50 cts, Moore & Weathersby, H B Magruder, J B McFerrin, T H McClendon $10.15, J P Morton & Co, F A Mood, McCormick & Lyon.

N—C J Nugent, E Nolte.

P—J W Patterson, T C Pacisk $3, R T Parish 2 lets, B Pendleton, S C Parker & Co, S M Pettengill.

R—A H Redford 2 lets, Geo P Rowell & Co, Fisher T Rawson.

S—H R Singleton, Thomas M Smith, H A Steinbauer, A B Stewart $7, D S Snodgrass, W W Sharpe & Co, W D Slayton, C S Stewart, A Smith, J H Stone.

T—H M Truehart 2 lets $15, Samuel Tisdale, T Tardrew & Co.

W—T M Ward $3, Jas M Weems $17, J L Wright $3, Bascom Ward, J M Wade $12, N H White.

Y—N B Young.

If you don't want to Disgust Everybody with your offensive breath cure your Catarrh. $500 reward is offered by the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for a case he cannot cure. It is sold by druggists. Can get it for sixty cents by mail from Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, New York. Pamphlet free.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW IMPROVED SYSTEM OF

TANNING LEATHER, CALLED

The Dripping Process.

MAKES LEATHER in less than half the time of the old water-sobbed system, and weighs ten to fifteen per cent. more, and if instructions are followed out to the letter the leather is bright and handsome.

Hides not required to be broken, as the compound puts them in a fine, velvet-like state to receive the liquor. No bloom can attach itself to the surface. Black and Red Oak Tanners, this will be of value to you. There is more than twenty-five per cent. of manual labor saved by working on this plan. The leather elevator is used for lime, and handling leather when it goes in tan. The bark stands in a strainer on low truck wheels, until the compound acid liquor compels it to give up its strength. No process ever tried can excel this. It is all done in a short time. When your bark is spent, put a horse to a streamer and haul it to the stock lot to make manure. The elevator will handle lime, and handles in one-tenth the time of the old plan. Full instructions given, from pool to dry house, in writing, to any one wishing to obtain a knowledge of tanning.

Models of the bark strainer and elevator can be seen at Mr. Sidway's, Leather Merchant, Jackson, Mississippi.

Apply to G. D. SIDWAY, or to SAMUEL WILDBLOOD, Jackson, Miss.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that I have been foreman of some of the largest Tanneries in the State of Georgia, and have tried all the compounds and ingredients of any note. I have contested the field with the inventor of the above process, but he works it to the letter; so therefore I hand him the palm of victory. I think it an honor to sign my name to a certificate that will bear news to the poor laborer that the hard work in Tanneries is set aside by the DRIPPING PROCESS, and better stock produced in one-half the time; in short, it fills a want long desired.

PETER F. RAGAN, Late of Americus, Georgia, Now of Rankin Co., Miss.

ap6 1m

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours, without drugs. Particulars, ten cts. F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

ap6 3m

J. H. MUSE AND G. F. F. THOMPSON, Attorneys and Counselors at Law, NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

fe18 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW LOAN OF THE UNITED STATES

IMPORTANT CIRCULAR.

Subscriptions Now Open—Certificates Ready.

Treasury Department, Washington, Feb. 28, 1871.

Public notice is hereby given that books will be opened on the sixth day of March next, in this country and in Europe, for subscriptions to the National Loan, under the act approved July 14, 1870, entitled "An Act to Authorize the Refunding of the National Debt," and the act in amendment thereof, approved January 20, 1871.

The proposed loan comprises three classes of bonds, namely:

First. Bonds to the amount of five hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Second. Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four and a half per cent. per annum.

Third. Bonds to the amount of seven hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

Subscriptions to the loan will have preference in the following order, namely:

First. Subscriptions that may be first made for five per cent. bonds to the amount of two hundred millions of dollars; of which there will be reserved, for twenty days, one-half for subscribers in this country and one-half for subscribers in foreign countries.

Second. Subscriptions for equal amounts of each class of bonds.

Third. Subscriptions for equal amounts of bonds bearing interest at the rate of four and a half per cent., and of bonds bearing interest at the rate of five per cent.

Fourth. Subscriptions for any five per cent. bonds that may not be subscribed for in the preceding classes.

When a subscription is made the subscriber will be required to deposit two per cent. of the amount thereof in coin or currency of the United States, or in bonds of the class to be exchanged, to be accounted for by the Government when the new bonds are delivered; and payment may be made either in coin or in bonds of the United States known as Five-Twenty Bonds, at their par value.

The coin received in payment will be applied to the redemption of five-twenty bonds, and the debt of the United States will not be increased by this loan.

The bonds will be registered or issued with coupons, as may be desired by subscribers. Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000; and coupon bonds of each denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States, at the office of the Treasurer, and Assistant Treasurer, or Designated Depository of the Government, quarterly, on the first days in February, May, August and November of each year.

The bonds of the several classes aforesaid, and the interest thereon, are exempt from the payment of all taxes or dues of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

After maturity the bonds last issued will be first redeemed, by classes and numbers, as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds will be issued at the United States Treasury, but the agents for the negotiation of the loan in Europe are authorized to make arrangements with subscribers for the transmission of the bonds to the agents through whom subscriptions may be received.

Subscribers in the United States will receive the new bonds of the agents with whom the subscriptions are made.

In the United States the National Banks are authorized to receive subscriptions, and subscriptions may also be made at the office of the Treasurer of the United States, or of any Assistant Treasurer, or the Designated Depositories at Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Louisville, Ky; Mobile, Ala.; and Pittsburg, Penn.

P. S.—This Department and its own Loan Agents are now ready to receive the United States Five-Twenty Bonds and to pay the gold interest thereon to May 1, from which date the new bonds will bear interest. A scrip certificate, calling for the bonds on the first of May, will be issued at once in exchange for the old bonds.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL, Secretary of Treasury.

ap6 3tr

Advertise! Advertise! Advertise!

SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE!

THE MOREHOUSE CONSERVATIVE

A LIVE LOCAL JOURNAL; Independent and Conservative; devoted to general news and public interests. It is published weekly at Bastrop, Louisiana. Sent to any point out of the parish at $2. A twenty eight column sheet, printed on beautiful white paper, and in clear type. A large and almost daily increasing circulation. The official and only paper published in one of the richest parishes of this rich State. Its columns offer superior inducements to advertisers. Orders solicited. Address

DAVES & SCHROEDER, Bastrop, La.

Rev. J. T. Daves, Editor. ap6 2m

READY TO-DAY FROM THE AUTHOR'S Advance Sheets:

MAX KROMER,

A Story of the Siege of Strasbourg in 1870.

BY THE AUTHOR OF

"Jessica," "Nelly's Dark Days," Etc.

16mo. Beautifully bound, $1.

Will take the first place among this charming writer's very popular stories.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

NELLY'S DARK DAYS.

16mo. Beautifully bound, 75 cents.

Over 20,000 copies of NELLY'S DARK DAYS were sold in England the first week of its publication.

DODD & MEAD, Publishers, ap6 1t 762 Broadway, N. Y.

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.

Nearly Doubles Crops.

GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:

E. H. MURFEE,

14 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de3 5m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR.

A Purely Vegetable Compound

FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

THE SUBSCRIBER takes pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these affections. But experience has demonstrated that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. While it is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, that can do no injury, the unparalleled success of the proprietor in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bradley, he refers those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies him in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia, from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and for further information address

N. JENKINS, 100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

fe18 1y

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR O'HARA'S Pocket Giant Corn-Sheller. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address C. T. VAN SICKLEN, 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

mh30 3m

$10 From 50 Cents.

SOMETHING urgently needed by everybody. Call and examine, or twelve samples sent (postage free) for fifty cents that retail readily for $10. R. L. WOLCOTT, 181 Chatham Square, N. Y.

mh30 6mcom

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS.

THESE GINS are so constructed that hard substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing.—They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO., mh16 tt Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES, fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK

New Orleans, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

Treasury Department, Office of Controller of the Currency, Washington, January 30, 1871.

Whereas, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.

No. 1773. fe11 tf

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., January 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds, prepaid by mail, with directions for culture Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds; Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc. Grass Seeds; Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale List to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

B. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 3m

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO., 37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

The Child's Corner.

For the Advocate.

THE BIRD'S NEST ON THE ELM.

There's a nest on the topmost bough,
As high as aest can be:
And it sways and swings with every breeze
That ruffles the old elm tree.

With the bending branch it drops
Down, down, oh, ever so far!
Then up again to the very tree-top,
With aever a jolt nor a jar.

And the fledglings have gone to their rest,
With never a thought nor a care,
All fast asleep in their downy nest,
That's swinging aloft in the air.

Sleep, sweet little fledglings, sleep;
The wind sings a lullaby,
And the silver moon shall her vigil keep
From her watch tower in the sky.

A. O. W.

WEST FELICIANA, March 24, 1871.

THE BEST WAY TO FIGHT.

"An afternoon at the fort!"

Yes, thoy were really to have it at last, and the most important question and the hardest to answer was: "What shall we do until it is time to go?" Their mother was ready to fill up all the spare time with errands, and grandmother wanted them to weed her flower garden, which was badly in need of it. But they were not anxious to do either, and it was only after a great deal of urging that they consented to weed a little while, preferring to talk together and plan for the afternoon.

We had a very pleasant party. All the grown people but grandfathor were there. But the most important of all were the four boys, for they were quite ignorant of all the things that were to be seen; all their military experience being confined to twenty-five cents' worth of firecrackers on the fourth, and what scraps of information had been gathered from picture papers.

It would be useless for me to try to describe all that was seen and heard that afternoon—the questions that were asked and answered, and those it was impossible to answer; the exclamations of wonder, dolight and astonishment. Suffice it to say that they came home unanimously voting that they would be soldiers as soon as they were old enough; meauwhile would practice, every day, in drilling, marching and even fighting. These new resolutions were carried out at once by grandfather, who heard them from beginning to end, and then they asked him: "Please to give them some place to practice?" Yes, he would do that gladly. "Then let it be at the side of the house, where they played ball?" "Oh, no, they must take a place he wanted them to have." "But there wasn't another place on the grounds that would do, and if they conldn't have that they didn't want any!" At last, after a great many entreaties, and some tears and lond words, I am sorry to say, they agreed that they should play where they wanted to first, and when thoy were tired of that they should take the place their grandfather wished.

Now they had been spending some weeks with their grandfather, and I am sorry to tell you that in this time he had seen some wrong things in these four boys; such as, I dare say, you have seen in a great many boys and girls, too, and it grieved him very much. What he was going to propose to them was that instead of practicing warliko arts against each other, each should fight against the solfishness, quick temper and little disobliging ways he saw from time to time. But he thought it better to let them try their own way first. And they did; and at the end of the first day there were only expressions of delight and assurances they would not tire of this place. But the next day a little difficulty arose among them, arising from the fact that they could not agree among themselves who should be Louis Napoleon, all wishing for that desirable position, and when it was finally decided by lot, and John got it, all the rest would be Prussians, and Louis was unwilling to take the responsibility of the war with such unequal forces. But the next day they renewed hostilities, which, however, were ignominiously ended by Louis being brought from the field with a bleeding nose, having first given his enemy some pretty hard blows. Then mother thought matters had gone quite far enough, and insisted on some other kind of play. So grandfather, the never-failing source of counsel, was applied to, to tell them his way of "playing fight." So when Louis' wounds were healed, and a piece of brown paper put on Bismarck's eye, he gathered them around him, and said in his loving way: "Children, have you ever heard that 'he that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city?' Now what these wars that we read and hear of are for, is that one nation may conquer another, may gain more cities and more power. And so one of you can become greater than all the generals of which you read that have become renowned by their conquests. And when I heard you making your plans to be great soldiers, I longed to have you fight against the selfishness that I see in you so often. And if you are now willing to fight where I want you to, it will be in your own hearts, against all selfish and unkind feelings and acts."

It was hard for these boys to be told they were selfish by one whom they were so willing to please, and whom they loved so much. And they felt ashamed, too. So they began to assure him they were not at all selfish, and would do anything to prove it to him. Just then their mother came in for some one to go for her to the mail. "It's John's turn." "Grandfather is talking to us." "Need I go?" "My eye is too sore to go out in the wind."

These were the four answers that came to the request, and she closed the door without urging it, as she did not want their grandfather to hear any more such selfish speeches. When she was gone they looked a little ashamed, and he said to them: "Do you think this is overcoming?" "Oh, but this is such a little thing." "Yes; but it is the little things as well as great that you must fight against, and I don't think myself it is a very little thing to be disobliging to your mother. Now I would advise each of you to go and apologize to her for such an act as that was, and then come and tell me how you feel after your first skirmish." They were too ashamed to refuse, and another thought if they all went for the mail they would remember to be more obliging next time. And they all went, and agreed with each other that "it never pays not to do just as mother wants you to, just when she wants you to."

The next evening they all gave as their verse: "He that ruleth his spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." And I am glad to tell you that they are still trying to overcome the enemy within, and though sometimes they are discouraged and tempted to give it up, always end by thinking that grandfather's way is "the best way to fight;" and will tell you that fighting against and overcoming what is wrong in our hearts is better than being soldiers and fighting each other.—M. G. M., in Christian at Work.

"IT ISN'T FEDDERS."—One morning little Lulu was playing on her mamma's bed. Standing up as stiff and straight as a Chinese doll, she would play that she had fainted away, and that some kind friend caught her "dust in time." Then she would fall back, and the soft pillows would stretch out their loving white arms to her, and down she would go "dust as easy."

Soon her mother came in, and seeing some little brown shoe-heels mixed up among her snowy ruffles, pulled the fainting lady out.

"Get right off the bed, Lulu dear," said she as she left the room. But little Miss Gymnastic was by no means tired of the fun, and did not hesitate to keep right on. One more "faint," then another and another.

"Oh, it's dust splendid! only if ma hadn't have came." (She never did care for grammar.)

Very soon she threw herself down, as she had done twenty-three times before, but alas! instead of the soft pillows she fell upon the foot board, and nearly fainted "for true," for she hurt herself badly. Hearing the cry she set up, her mother came in.

"O, mamma," she said woefully, "after 'ou says top, it isn't fedders any more!"

Little children, isn't it generally the case that when you go right on after you are told to stop, it "isn't feathers any more?"

The Bible says so, I believe. Look in Proverbs xi, 5.

THE FIRE AND THE WATER.—The fire and the water have always been considered irreconcilable foes, and I fear it must be so still. But they had heard so much of late of the Evangelical Alliance that they thought it would be very decorous and proper for them to make up the old feud, and enter into more fraternal relations with each other. They talked it over one day together, till the water getting very warm and loving, actually boiled over in the fervor of her heart, and said to the fire: "There, we have been foes long enough; now let us shake hands and be friends forever."

"With all my heart," warmly responded the fire.

But at the moment of coming together there was such a spluttering that the maid came running with great haste into the room and angrily jerked the saucepan on to the hob. "Alas!" said both fire and water, "how can two walk together except they be agreed?"

GREENLAND got the news of the probable outbreak of war between France and Prussia from the visit of an American ship, September 12, and unless by accident they will hear nothing further of the war until next summer. That is almost the spot Cowper sighed for: "Where rumor of oppression or deceit shall never reach."

The Farm and Garden.

THE WORK OF THE LEAF.

What does it do? It pumps water from the ground, through the thousands of tubes in the stem of the tree, and sends it into the atmosphere in the form of unseen mist, to be condensed and fall in showers—the very water that, were it not for the leaf, would sink in the earth, and find its way perchance through subterranean channels to the sea. And thus it is that we see it works to give us the "early and the latter rain." It works to send the rills and streams, like lines of silver, down the mountain and across the plain. It works to pour down the larger brooks which turn the wheels that energize machinery, which gives employment to millions—commerce stimulated—wealth accumulated—and intelligence disseminated through the agency of this wealth. The leaf does it all.

It has been demonstrated that every square inch of leaf lifts 3.500 of an ounce every 24 hours. Now, a large forest tree has about 5 acres of foliage, or 6,272,640 square inches. This being multiplied by 3.500, (the amount pumped by every inch,) gives us the result—2,352 ounces, or 1,176 quarts, or 294 gallons, or 8 barrels. The trees on an acre give 800 barrels in 24 hours. An acre of grass, or clover or grain, would yield about the same result. The leaf is a worker, too, in another field of labor, where we seldom look—where it works for the good of man in a most wonderful manner. It carries immense quantities of electricity from the earth to the clouds, and from the clouds to the earth. Rather dangerous business transporting lightning; but it is particularly fitted for this work. Did you ever see a leaf entire as to its edges? It is always pointed, and these pointed edges, be they large or small, are just fitted to handle this dangerous agent. These tiny fingers seize upon and carry it away with ease and wonderful dispatch. There must be no delay; it is "time freight." True, sometimes it gathers up more than the trunk can carry, and in the attempt to crowd and pack the baggage the trunk gets terribly shattered, and we say that lightning struck the tree. But it had been struck a thousand times before. This time it was overworked.—American Entomologist.

APPLICATION OF MANURE.

Observation and experience should determine the mind of the farmer in regard to the best plan of applying manure, whether to plow it under deep, or leave it on the surface. The advocates of surface manuring speak against manure being turned under too deep, while the advocates of deep manuring charge surface manuring with fertilizing the atmosphere. But there is a medium course, and each theory is supported by plausible arguments. However, there are true philosophical principles against burying manure too deeply in the earth. The loss of the saline matter of the manure by solution and infiltration will be great in porous soil, and the evaporation, to which so much loss is attributed by those holding opinions adverse to surface manuring, would be only a small drop in the bucket compared to the loss by solution. In porous soils it is well known that manure will penetrate to a great depth, and much animal matter may descend beyond the reach of surface-growing plants. Humus is formed by the decay and decomposition of vegetable matter, which, in the philosophy of nature, is manipulated on the surface; hence the rule in the application of manure should be taken from the indications of science. The decay and consumption of one crop for the nourishment of another, the droppings of animals and defoliation of trees and plants, are all left on the surface. This seems to contradict the idea of any loss by evaporation. It will, therefore, be best to adopt the plan of deep cultivation, but to keep the manure and vegetable matter as near the surface as possible. There is always some loss by evaporation, but much less than by infiltration. But it should be a leading idea with farmers to be close observers of such natural operations, in the growth of spontaneous and cultivated vegetation, and accommodate their practice so as to imitate nature as nearly as possible.—Journal of the Farm.

DARK STABLES.—Any person who has felt the pain and inconvenience of coming suddenly from a dark room into the full blaze of day will easily conceive the necessity of lighting a stable in a proper manner. This is too often neglected in confined stables, and the consequences are most distressing to a humane observer. The poor horse, led suddenly out to his work, shows his pains by unmistakable expressions, stumbles and runs against anything near, until the eye has in some degree accommodated itself to the new circumstances under which it is placed. Nor is this all. By a continuance of this change, from darkness to sudden daylight, the eye becomes seriously injured. The retina or sensible nerve becomes dull, and more or less useless; the horse's sight is injured. He starts and shies at objects which he sees imperfectly; and many a rider who has received a dangerous injury has had to thank his inattention to this simple cause, rather than any vicious habit of the animal, to which it has been attributed.

Blindness is almost certain to be caused by inattention to the above caution; but even blindness itself is less dangerous to the rider than imperfect sight. In the first case the horse is forced to trust entirely to the bridle; but in the latter, objects only half distinguished terrify and startle, though they would, under ordinary circumstances, be passed without notice.—London Horse Book.

I GUESS THERE'LL BE SOMEBODY.—Said a little girl to her mother: "Shall you live as long as I do?" "Perhaps not—but I cannot tell," was the reply; "I have lived a long while, you know." "Well," said the little one, skipping about the room and singing, "I guess there'll be somebody to take care of me."

O yo who are "careful and troubled," groping like the mole in the earth, blind to the brightness overhead, look up! like this trusting child, look up! When you have made provision for to-day as intelligently as you know how, do not be anxiously forecasting the morrow. Fanny Fern.

THE work of counting mutilated fractional currency and legal tenders received at the Treasury Department for redemption from all parts of the country is done entirely by women.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

Soule's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

The Commercial Atheneum of the South,

Corner Camp and Common Streets,

STONE BUILDING,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address

GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER, Jy23 1f President Board of Trustees.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo.	$16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.

au5 O. F. CASEY.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,

62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,

HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,

PLATED WARE,

AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of

Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,

OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s

Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentucklan and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the

Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our

Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,

COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON

OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.

fe18 1f

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 54 Gravier Street,

Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.

no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
Je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings, Lace Curtains, Curtain Damasks, Window Shades, etc

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.

fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.

ly2 1f J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

DR. N. P. GODFREY,

DENTIST,

May be found during business hours at

No. 183 Canal Street,

The third door west of Christ Church.

Ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN G. ANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of HANNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, physical weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, PILES, prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often complete cures where medicine can only mitigate, and more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet. It is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. Je11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy

FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the slightest Rash to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Boils, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Croup, Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers must yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Salve,

FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at DE BING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Nichez and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans, La.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.

Je4 1y

$1,000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REMEDY

fails to cure. It is prepared expressly to cure the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juices of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for

CONSUMPTION,

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male or female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which must generally terminate in Consumptive decline. It purifies and enriches the blood, the biliary, glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular forces. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy30 1y

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than twelve years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of the patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 16 Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21 1y

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Conn, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20
Contingent fee	1

Board in private families, per month, $8. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address

an20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$60
Preparatory department, per session	40
Incidental expenses	5

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,

se25 NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

654 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of the country, at the present time, is proof of unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation obtain a clearer, more definite and extended knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to retain that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

PELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

J. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

Text-book of Chemistry.
Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

F. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

E. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Panic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Welsh's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $50.
Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50.
Common School Series.—Price, $25.
Primary Series.—Price, $15
Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $15

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

A dozen Magnetic Objects, representing trees of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying the Globe, without additional cost.
Lessons on the Globe, illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mary Howe Smith.
Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. Animals of all Climates. II. National Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address
ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

COTTON. J. B. POWELL. J. E. HUEY.

COTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

..... COMMON STREET 180

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

DUNNICA, T. A. HAMILTON,
New Orleans. Memphis.
G. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

L. DUNNICA & CO.,

COTTON, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

BEAUMONT, JOHN M. FAKES,
Clarksville, Tenn, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET.....77

1y NEW ORLEANS.

NEW J. AIKEN, JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

1y NEW ORLEANS.

B. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

1y

P. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Tweaty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 10 State Street, Chicago.
fe23 3m Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By Charles S. Venables, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teacher, s with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DeVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, Etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LeCONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. Johnston, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

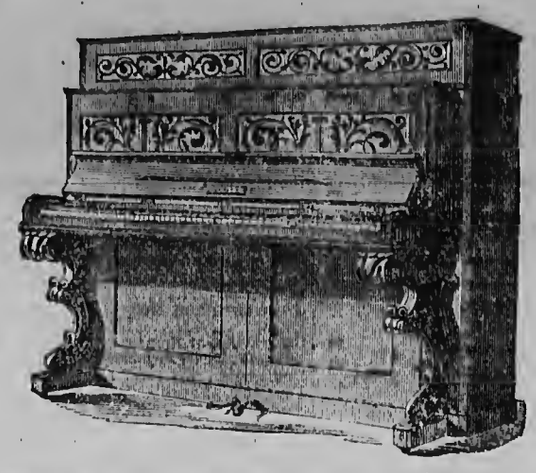
ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South mh2 1y

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

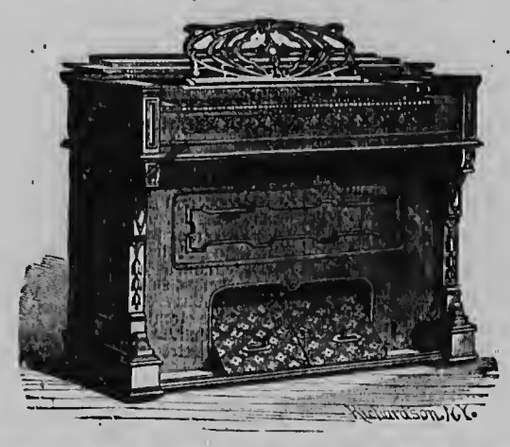


SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittnuer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument falling to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

te23 1y LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the Acknowledged Standards of Excellence among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by
de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS,

No. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jan	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Feb				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28
M'h				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
Apr							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
M'y		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
J'e.					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jy.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
Au.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
Sep						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
Oct	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Nov				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
Dec						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

6c11 1y

Scientific.

The Technologist says "one cord of wood cut and split fine, and corded up beneath a shelter while it is yet green, will furnish more heat after it has become seasoned than two cords of the same wood which has been continually exposed to the alternate influences of storms and sunshines."

Tinning Cast Iron.—The difficult work of tinning cast iron is performed by a process patented in England, in which the iron, having been cleaned and made smooth, is bathed in diluted sulphuric acid, and dipped in a solution of one part of sal ammoniac in seven parts of water. The tin is alloyed in the proportion of three ounces of copper to one hundred pounds of tin.

Cement for Leather.—A useful cement for leather is made by mixing ten parts of sulphide of carbon with one of oil of turpentine, adding enough of gutta percha to make a tough, thickly flowing liquid. The surface to be joined should be entirely free from grease, for which purpose lay a cloth upon them and apply a hot iron. Put the cement on both pieces, bring the surfaces together and press until dry.

Saws have been used for a longer time than is covered by profane history, but saw mills do not appear to have been known until about the fourth century of the Christian era, when they were introduced in Germany, and in the course of another century became common in all the civilized countries of Europe. Their general style at that period does not, however, remind one very powerfully of the saw mill of the present epoch.

Prevention of Noise in Workshops.—People accustomed to the noise of mills and workshops are not particularly annoyed by it; but if it be thought desirable to deaden the sound the thing is easily done, and with but small outlay, so far as regards work done on a bench. A cushion of India rubber cuttings under each leg of the bench accomplishes the purpose. Chambers' Journal describes a visit to a factory where the hammering of forty or fifty coppersmiths was scarcely audible in the room below, their benches being equipped in the manner above described.

The Power of Water.—The Scientific American, in answer to a correspondent, gives the following simple but useful rule for computing the relative power of flowing streams: "The motive powers of streams, flowing equal volumes of water, will be directly as their falls. If a stream, through which a given volume, at a given point, falls ten feet, produce at that point one hundred horse-power, the same volume falling at another point twenty feet would yield two hundred horse-power. The horse-power of any body of falling water is the weight in pounds which falls per minute multiplied into the distance in feet through which it falls, and the product divided by thirty-three thousand." — Leffel's Illustrated Mechanical News.

Smallpox and Revaccination.—Now that smallpox is threatening to become epidemic, everything relating to the means by which the attacks of this fell disease may be warded off possesses a special interest. It has long been a mooted question whether revaccination is necessary, some authorities affirming that it is, and others maintaining that it is not. An eminent English physician, Dr. Simon, the naval officer of the Privy Council, has just issued a memorandum, in which he says:

"As there has always been a very large quantity of imperfect vaccination in infancy, it is therefore very desirable that all persons should, as they approach adult life, undergo revaccination. Generally speaking, the best time of life for revaccination is from fifteen to eighteen years of age, and persons in that period of life ought not to delay their revaccination. Where there is a prevalence of smallpox in any neighborhood, or where individuals are, from personal circumstances, likely to meet chances of infection, the age of fifteen need not be waited for."

In an article on the same subject the London Times says:

"No person can possibly be so dangerously exposed to the contagion of smallpox as the nurses in the Smallpox Hospital, yet they are entirely secure against it, and for what reason? They are once for all revaccinated on their admission for service in the hospital, and the operation is never repeated. A single repetition of so simple an operation can be no inconvenience to any one; but the public should thoroughly understand that the repetition is in all cases necessary if immunity is to be insured."

"This little fellow," said Martin Luther of a bird going to roost, "has chosen his shelter, and is quietly rocking himself to sleep without a care for to-morrow's lodging; calmly holding by his little twig, and leaving God alone to think of him."

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

As usual at the commencement of the month some branches of trade have shown rather more animation, but on the whole the general market has continued quiet. Sugar has been in good request, and while the better qualities have been firm at previous rates, the various grades, from fully fair down, have ruled from ¼ to ⅛c. more in favor of sellers. Molasses has exhibited but few variations, the poor descriptions being neglected, while the better qualities have been in fair request. Flour has been rather heavy, and in some descriptions we note a decline of 12½ to 20c. Grain has exhibited but few changes, and provisions have been dull and drooping.

We continue to receive accounts from the country of planting being retarded by rainy weather.

The river is two feet six inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the thirty-first ultimo:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	13,229
Lake.....	6
Arkansas.....	1,326
Mobile.....	166
Texas.....	219
Total.....	14,946

On Saturday, with light supplies, except of the poorer qualities, and a slack demand, the sales were confined to 4,200 bales, at irregular and lower prices for most descriptions below middling, good ordinary closing at 11⅜ to 12¼c., and low middling at 13⅛ to 13⅝c., but with occasional sales at less than the inside figures. On Monday, under easier freights, an advance in sterling exchange, and nothing unfavorable in the news, buyers came forward with a better spirit, and although the movement was checked by light supplies, especially of clean white cottons, as well as by the more stringent pretensions of factors, yet the business comprised 7,900 bales, at prices showing some irregularity, but on the whole a decided turn in favor of factors, good ordinary closing at 12 to 12⅛c., showing an improvement of ¼c., low middling at 13¼ to 13¾c., an advance of ⅛c., and middling at 14½ to 14⅝c., against 14⅛c. on the day previous. On Tuesday the market opened with a fair demand, and under a further improvement in sterling exchange and increased facilities in shipping, although the movement was checked by limited supplies of the kinds most wanted and the high pretensions of factors, yet it continued animated throughout the day, resulting in sales of 8,300 bales. Prices, at the same time, were manifestly stronger, and in some cases factors realized a fraction more than they could have got on Monday, but the improvement was hardly enough to require any further advance in quotations.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 20,400 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,193,670 bales, against 951,476 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 891,377 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 741,246 bales to Great Britain, 201,109 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 230,676 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary.....	9¾ to 10⅜
Good ordinary.....	12 to 12⅛
Low middling.....	13¼ to 13½
Middling.....	14⅜ to 14⅝
Strict middling.....	14⅞ to 15

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.	20,696
Arrived past three days...	14,946
Arrived previously.....1,245,259—	1,260,205
	1,280,901
Exported past three days. 28,126
Exported previously.....1,025,068
Burned..... 950—	1,054,144
Stock on hand and on shipboard..	226,757

STEAM.—The supplies are small. The demand is good, especially for the better descriptions of open kettle, and prices are firmer. The supplies are sold readily at 5¾ to 6c. per pound for inferior, 7½ to 8c. for common, 8¼ to 8¾c. for fair, 8¾ to 9¼c. for good fair, 9⅝ to 9¾c. for fully fair, 10 to 10¼c. for prime, 10½ to 11c. for prime to choice, 12 to 12¼c. for yellow clarified, and 12⅞ to 13c. for white.

MOLASSES.—Poor and inferior is dull, but the better descriptions are in demand. The supplies are light, and are selling readily at 30 to 50c. for centrifugal, 15 to 20c. for inferior fermenting, 25 to 40c. for plantation reboiled, as in quality; 30 to 50c. for city refinery reboiled, and 90c. to $1 for golden syrup.

BACON.—Shoulders are offering at 8½c., clear rib sides 10¾ to 11c., clear sides 11¾ to 12c., sugar-cured hams 15½ to 16¼c. per pound. On Monday 12 tierces sugar-cured hams sold at 16¾c. per pound.

MONETARY.—Gold, 110½ to 110¾.

American silver half dollars, 107½ to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2½ to 2¾ per cent. premium in gold.

The movement in stocks has been to a fair extent, the sales on Tuesday including 700 shares Union National Bank at $39.62½, $39.75 and $40, 100 Bank of New Orleans at $42.75, 50 Crescent City Waterworks at $130, and $500 Slaughter House at $33.50, $33.75, $34, $34.50, $34.75 and $35.

We hear of no round sales of warrants except $2,000 new State on Tuesday at 55. State are completely demoralized and nominal. Some of the dealers reported counter-buying rates of Metropolitan Police at 97, and selling at 98.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 10 to 15 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head,...$40	to 45
Texas cattle, second quality, per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hides, per lb. gross.....	7 to 9c
Sheep, first quality, per head.....	$6 to 7
Sheep, second quality, per head...	4 to 5
Sheep, third quality, per head..	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head....	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head.....	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves.....	to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 12
Yearlings, per head.....	9 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers.....	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps.....	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. A shovel-tooth.....	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, ridlag.....	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking.....	40 00	50 00
Shovels.....	8 00	16 00
Spades.....	9 00	17 00
Axes.....	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₱ yard:
Kentucky.....	22½	23
East India.....	20	20½
Bale Rope, ₱ lb:
Kentucky.....	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₱ 100 lbs.....	1 17	1 20
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot.....	5 00	.. ..
Crackers.....	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake.....	9 00	16 00
English fire.....	42 00	50 00
American fire.....	40 00	.. ..
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford.....	.. ..	59
Tallow.....	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine.....	.. ..	.. ..
Star.....	12	.. ..
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
No. 1.....	38	55
Sweet and spiced.....	35	67
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western.....	16 00	17 00
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₱ ton:
Cannel.....	11 00	.. ..
Anthracite.....	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₱ bbl.....	75	.. ..
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency).....	25	26
Java.....	26	28
Cordova.....	24	28
Copper, ₱ lb:
Braziers'.....	30	33
Sheathing.....	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts.....	33	35
Yellow metal.....	25	26
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla.....	22	23
Turred, American.....	.. ..	21
Russia.....	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₱ bbl.....	3 25	3 37½
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton.....	12 00	.. ..
In sacks.....	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y.....	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo...	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico.....	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₱ lb.....	1 75	1 85
Madder.....	20	22
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western.....	15	18
Feathers, ₱ lb.....	90	95
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod.....	1 40	.. ..
Herrings.....	60	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl....	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2.....	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3.....	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₱ lb.....	4	6
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra.....	6 62½	6 80
Superfine.....	6 12½	6 25
Fine.....	5 90	6 00
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes.....	12	13
Figs, drum.....	14	18
Dried apples.....	5	6
Currants, new.....	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell.....	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₱ box.....	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer.....	2 90	3 00
Lemons, Palermo, ₱ box.	2 50	4 00
Lemons, Malaga, ₱ box.....	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₱ M.....	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10.....	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12.....	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18.....	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₱ bushel:
Oats.....	63	65
Corn, shelled.....	70	72
Beans, ₱ bbl.....	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₱ keg.....	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag.....	19½	20
Hay, ₱ ton:
Western.....	23 00	25 00
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₱ lb:
Mexican dry flint.....	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint.....	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto.....	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted.....	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter.	8½	14
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig.....	32 00	31 00
Country bar, ₱ lb.....	4	5
English.....	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted.....	7	8
Hoop.....	5½	8
Sheet.....	5	8½
Boiler.....	7½	8
Nail rods.....	10	12½
Cotton ties.....	5	5½
Castings, American.....	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western.....	.. ..	1 60
Shell lime.....	.. ..	.. ..
Rockland, etc.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cement.....	2 75	.. ..
Plaster Paris.....	2 15	.. ..
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine.....	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress.....	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber.....	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed.	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough..	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed..	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough....	16 00	.. ..
Scantling.....	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₱ M.....	4 00	4 25
Laths.....	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₱ gallon:
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba.....	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₱ lb:
Gray country.....	.. ..	.. ..
Black country.....	6	6½
Select water-rotted.....	9½	10
Nails, ₱ lb:
American, 4@6d.....	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German.....	14	16
Wrought, English.....	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₱ bbl.....	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₱ bbl.....	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1.....	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2.....	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3.....	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₱ gal.	60	65
Varnish, bright.....	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon.....	1 17½	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels.....	28	29
Coal oil, in cases.....	30	35
Linseed, raw.....	95	1 10
Sperm.....	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined.....	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude.....	48	50
Cotton seed, refined.....	58	72
Castor.....	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₱ gallon.....	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₱ ton:
C. S., decorticated.....	28 00	.. ..
C. S., undecorticated.....	.. ..	25 00
Provisions, ₱ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime.....	18 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₱ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₱ dozen.....	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess.....	21 50	.. ..
Pork, prime mess.....	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, round, ₱ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₱ lb.....	15	..
Hams, canvassed.....	15½	16½
Shoulders.....	14	15
Green shoulders.....	7½	8
Lard, prime, in tierces...	12½	13
Butter, Northern.....	25	44
Butter, Western.....	18½	20
Cheese, American.....	16	17
Potatoes, ₱ bbl.....	3 00	4 00
Onions.....	2 00	3 00
Apples.....	5 00	8 00
Cabbages, ₱ crate.....	5 00	7 00
Rice, ₱ lb:
Louisiana.....	6	9
India, (gold, in bond).....	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina.....	8½	9¾
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white.....	13½	14
Havana, yellow.....	10	11½
Havana, brown.....	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

Franklin Street.....	Apr.	8, 9
Whistler.....		15, 16
Citronelle, at Beaver Meadow....		22, 23
Mount Pleasant, at Stockton.....		29, 30
St. Francis street.....	May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard.....		13, 14
Milton.....		20, 21
Pensacola.....		27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river.....	June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel..		10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Linden Springs, at Kizer Hill...	Apr.	1, 2
Gaston, at Bethlehem.....		8, 9
Butler, at Mount Sterling.....		15, 16
Livingston.....		29, 30
Green circuit, at Holly Spring...	May	6, 7
Eutaw.....		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station...		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel.....		27, 28
Demopolis.....	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland.....		10, 11

The Demopolis District Conference, Alabama Annual Conference, will be held at Livingston, Alabama, commencing April 28, at nine o'clock A. M. All the official members of the Quarterly Conferences in the district are members of the District Conference. Lay members of the Annual Conference will be elected.

S. H. COX, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point.....	Mar.	18, 19
Columbus.....	Apr.	8, 9
Columbus circuit.....		15, 16
Vinton.....		22, 23
Athens.....		29, 30
Houston.....	May	13, 14
Chickasaw.....		20, 21
Line Creek.....		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove.	Mar.	25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Mill Dale.....	Apr.	1, 2
Attala circuit, at Spring Dale....		8, 9
Kosciusko and Bethel, Kosciusko		15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling.....		22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill...		29, 30
Walden circuit.....	May	6, 7
Bellefontaine circuit, at Lebanon..		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda.....		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory..		27, 28
Lexington.....		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel...	Apr.	8, 9
Yazoo City station.....		15, 16
Yazoo circuit, at Mount Carmel..		22, 23
Mt. Olivet ct., at Fletcher chapel		29, 30
Canton station.....	May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston...		13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel .		20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union ...		27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond....	June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty...		10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill.....		17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Georgetown ct., at Georgetown..	Apr.	8, 9
Hazlehurst station.....		15, 17
Bartemon circuit, at Pisgah.....		22, 23
Brandywine circuit, at Nebo....	May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church..		13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehoboth		20, 21
Brookhaven station.....		27, 28
Wesson, at Beauregard.....	June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove		8, 9
Crystal Springs station.....		15, 16
Jackson circuit.....		22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Natchez.....	Apr.	8, 9
Kingston.....		15, 16
Fayette, at Mount Carmel.....		22, 23
Vicksburg.....		29, 30
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	May	6, 7
North Warren, Milldale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland.....		13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga.....		20, 21
South Warren.....		27, 28
Clover Hill.....	June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek.....		10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E.,
Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Rankin circuit, at Bethel.....	Apr.	8, 9
Mt. Carmel ct., at Williamsburg .		22, 23
Columbia mission, at Tate's school house.....		29, 30
Gainesville miss., at Pearlington.	May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi.....		13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coalville .		20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point.....		27, 28
Green circuit.....	June	3, 4
Enon circuit.....		10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HURST, P. E.,
Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Clinton station.....	Mar.	25, 26
Buhalo.....	Apr.	1, 2
East Feliciana, at Pinegrove.....		8, 9
Woodville station.....		15, 16
Jackson and Plains, at Pipkin's chapel.....		22, 23
Bayou Sara, at Bayou Sara.....		29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon.....		19, 20
Meadville.....		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian.....	Apr.	1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba.....		8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope.....		22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union.....		29, 30
Wayne.....	May	6, 7
Clark.....		13, 14
Paulding.....		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion.....		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night.....		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1 4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek ct., at Spring Creek	Mar.	18, 19
Raphes circuit, at Palestine.....		25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta.....	Apr.	1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville.....		8, 9
Columbia circuit.....		15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise.....		22, 23

The official members of Caledonia circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26.

F. WHITE, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mansfield circuit, at Providence	Apr.	29, 30
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower..	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Many circuit, at Bethel.....		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship.....		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit.....		27, 28
Shreveport station.....	June	3, 4
Anacoco.....		10, 11
Springville circuit.....		18, 19

The salaries of our preachers have been fixed by the first Quarterly Conferences, one-half of which will become due at the time of the second Quarterly Meetings. We appeal to the churches, and especially to the stewards, to be prepared to meet these claims by that time. We speak what we do know when we say that it is absolutely necessary, for the comfort of the preachers and for the good of the cause, for this to be done. True, money may be scarce; but when families supply themselves with provisions, a little extra will be sufficient to supply the parsonage, and that will be equivalent to money for the preacher.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans.

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60 .....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je23 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette. mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every Kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M. SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Vairin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.

Henry V. Ogden. fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND,
fe4 6m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY.

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address.
fe18 tf

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING,

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe1 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—251 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,
fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is unhesitatedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marbled edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S
Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic.....	10 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	45 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	90 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra.	1 50
New University Algebra	2 00
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

PASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Pasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, Illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at once, the retail price; and those who desire to have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,
New Orleans.

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. 6t23 ll

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.

The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FIXINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

B. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The 18s Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks, Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand.

M. S. BEDRICK, Proprietor,
158 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.

Branch Office, 1 C Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.

Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6m

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions, and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

OL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1871. NO. 13.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

HINGTON, April 6.—House.—ouse, by a vote of ons hundd eightesn to ninety-one, passodified Ku-Klux bill.

following is a succinct statef the bill as passed, with ads and alterations:

substituto strikes out the third and fourth sections of ginal bill.

second section of the origade it felony for two or more to conspire together to do in violation of the rights, es and immunities securod constitution of tho United and punishable in the United courts.

third section, in all cases of tion, domestic violence, uncombinations or conspiracies, far obstruct the execution State laws, or to deprive any or class of people, of the privileges and immunities by the constitution and and if any State, throngh its authorities, fails or neglects for national aid, the Presiay use ths national forces to such insurrection, domesnee, unlawful combinations spiracies, to arrest the of- and deliver them to the of the district.

ourth section provides that r such combinations be powerful as to overthrow defiance the State authoriwhen the punishment of nders and the perservation public safety shall become ble, it shall be deemed a The President may, after mation, suspend the privithe writ of habeas corpus, vision shall continue until 872.

bstitute for the second sec- it a felony for two or ns conspiring together to the government, or to gainst it, or to oppose by authority of the United by force to take or seize or property; by force, in- or threat, to prevent any om accepting or holding ral office; to prevent him charging the office, to leave or district where his duties fully performed, or in- in his person or property t of the lawful discharge ties, or to threaten or inness or juror in the United ourt, or conspiro together e any class of persons of protection of the laws, or privileges and immunities laws, or prevent or hinauthorities of each State ring all persons in the tection of the laws, and on the party injured the action for damages, to be in suits. The substitute ird section provides that insurrection or domestic hat shall obstruct or hinecution of the laws of the United States, so as to y class of persons of the rivileges and immunities the act, and the authoriState shall be unable to, any cause to afford proand shall fail or neglect to the President for aid, such be deemed to be a denial nd protection of the laws, all be lawful for the Presiploy the national forces ss such disorders and to offenders and to deliver he marshal.

bstitute for the fourth secrizes the President, after mation, to suspend the beas corpus until the first 1872, whenever in any unlawful combinations numerous and powerful ble by violence to overat defiance the authoriState, or when the State auare in complicity with such ns. All persons arrested spension of the writ of us must be taken before the Federal court, and if ent is found at the pendsubsequent session, the will be discharged.

requiring the iron-clad petit or grand Federal repealed, but the judge and an oath from a juror n't belong to the Ku-Klux.

s, April 6.—The official of Brown, for mayor, is and and thirty-four.

on, Conn., April 6.—The ost announces the election re Republican State ticket, xception of Governor. The letail, as given in larger ows English has generally run ahead of his ticket, and Jewell behind, probably on account of the capitol question. The Republican ticket, except the Governor, has probably more than one hundred majority.

SCRANTON, PA., April 7.—A band of five hundred men, armed with muskets, clubs and revolvers, visited Tripp's mines, in this city, this morning, and prevented the workmen from entering. Three miners employed at work were shot dead in cold blood by the mob, and others were so beaten with stones that they will probably die.

Last night Morey's and Weeks' coal works, in this city, were torn down. Most of their mines were blown down and the track torn down.

WILKESBARRE, PA., April 7.—Great excitement prevails here over the Scranton riot. Troops from Wilkesbarre, Pittston, Plymouth and Hoglela, under command of Major General E. S. Osborne, left for Scranton this evening. There is no indication of any riot here as yet.

Dispatches from various parts of the State represent intense excitement regarding the Ku-Klux troubles with the miners at Scranton.

Governor Geary has issued a proclamation commanding the suppression of violence and disorder.

SCRANTON, PA., April 7.—Two coal breakers were destroyed this afternoon. One of them, the Nayang shaft, is now burning, with about two hundred tons of coal in the chute.

SCRANTON, April 7.—During the afternoon rioters to the number of about one thousand proceeded to the Nayang and Clark coal breakers, in the third ward of the city. The men at work in the former were driven off. They then set fire to the Nayang breaker, which was burned to the ground.

This evening, at half-past seven o'clock, one battalion of infantry and a section of artillery of the State Guard arrived, and are quartered in various halls in the city. Several more battalions are expected to arrive during the night. The troops are under command of Major General Osborne, an experienced officer of the late war.

It is reported here that some of the works from which the men were driven to-day will resume work to-morrow under the protection of the military.

Many miners are anxious to resume work, and will commence at once if they can be assured that they will be protected against the terrorism and malignity of the rioters.

The intention in bringing the military here is to render this protection. Up to ten P. M. no additional acts of violence have been committed, but threats of renewed violence to-morrow are numerous.

One company of troops have been sent to Tripp's Slope, where renewed hostilities are threatened in the morning.

Since the arrival of the troops greater confidence is felt by the people, and many believe there will be no renewal of the lawlessness.

CINCINNATI, April 7.—The Western Female College, of Oxford, Ohio, was burned last night. Several girls were hurt by leaping from the windows. They lost most of their wearing apparel. Loss, $60,000.

BOSTON, April 7.—Letters from St. John, Newfoundland, state that the seal fishery this season has been extraordinarily successful. This is the first season in which more than one trip has been made.

NEW YORK, April 7.—The funeral of Rev. Father Taylor, at the Seaman's Bethel to-day, was numerously attended, the audience including masonic bodies, many Methodist clergymen, pilots, sailors and prominent citizens.

PITTSBURG, April 8.—St. Bridget's (Catholic) church, in the eleventh ward, was entirely destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $40,000, upon which there was $15,000 insurance in a home company. The fire also destroyed a portion of the central wing of the eleventh ward school building. Loss, $20,000; fully insured.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—No Southern nominations were announced to-day.

There was no executive session.

The amnesty bill, which passed the House this evening, by a vote of one hundred and thirty-four to forty-six, excepts those who were members of Congress, officers of the army and navy who left to join the rebellion, and members of the State conventions who voted for the ordinance of secession. The bill was supported by all the Democrats and many leading Republicans—among them Banks, Dawes, Ames, Farnsworth, Garfield, Lynch, Hale, Schofield, Kelley, Finkelburg and Sheldon. Among the Southern Republicans who voted nay were Maynard, Wallace, Porter and Elliott.

POVERTY POINT, LA., April 10.—The water flowing through one mile of crevasse at Poverty Point, thirty-five miles below the city, has already inundated several plantations. General Jeff. Thompson, however, is here with a force of laborers and material, and will attempt to stop the crevasse. The work is in charge of Captain John Hanlon. The people immediately interested extended their assistance with alacrity.—Picayune.

MOBILE, April 10.—At three o'clock this morning the Mobile and Montgomery train bringing down the Lomax Fire Company No. 4, of Montgomery, to join the celebration here, ran off the track at Canoe station, thirty-two miles above Tensas. One car was completely turned over, and five persons were injured. One is badly hurt in the body, one had his leg crushed, and a third is also hurt in the leg. Two, it is thought, will die; two are slightly hurt. I could not learn the names of either, but they are members of Lomax No. 4.

MOBILE, April 10.—There were seven cars attached to the train on which the accident occurred. Six of the cars were broken, and on some of them the wheels were knocked entirely off.

The disaster originated through a broken rail. The names of those most severely injured are Leroy Stowe, injured in the thigh; William Dillard, foot crushed, and Henry Harrow, leg hurt above the knee.—Times.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Senate.—The amnesty bill passed yesterday by the House was received, read twice and laid on the table.

LOUISVILLE, April 11.—Robert T. Glass, of Henderson, Kentucky, a prominent citizen of that section and a member of the State Legislature, was found dead in his bed this morning. Heart disease is supposed to have been the cause of his death.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 11.—At the charter election the Democrats elected their ticket by about their usual majority of from 1,800 to 2,000.

MEMPHIS, April 11.—Weather clear and cool. River fell ten inches.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, April 6.—The funeral of the killed to-day was an extraordinary scene. There were three huge hearses, with black velvet palls, each decorated with twelve red flags, containing the dead. Following them were eight thousand National Guards and double that number of citizens. Women were marching in hundreds along the boulevards at a solemn pace. Many members of the Commune joined in the procession. The funeral procession moved to Pere la Chaise. Each hearse contained thirty-three coffins, and there were twenty-three other hearses already in the cemetery, filled with dead from the hospitals. It was an awful scene—one huge grave for them all. The bodies were lowered one at a time, amidst the shrieks of the women and the shouts of the men for vengeance on the assassins of the Versailles government. Pere la Chaise was one mass of people, swaying with passion and screaming "Vive la Republique! Vive la Commune!"

The losses of the Communists in the recent fights creates great grief in the city, mixed with bitter animosity.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—The treaty with Turkey for the free navigation of the Black sea has been signed.

VIENNA, April 6.—The consular treaty with the United States has been ratified.

LONDON, April 6.—A large French war ship, supposed to be full of troops, ran ashore on Goodwin Sands. Assistance has been sent her.

The Louise Gibson, from Liverpool for Boston, was sunk by a collision with the Great Western. The Great Western returned for repairs. One man drowned.

VERSAILLES, April 6.—It is reported that Thiers, instead of following up the advantages gained and allowing the army to enter Paris, has commenced negotiations with the Commune, offering to concede many of its demands, and to exempt many of its leaders from punishment, in consideration of its recognizing the authority of the Assembly. This report causes intense excitement among the conservative deputies and in the army forces.

The Commune are still in large numbers outside of Paris, but in an extremely critical position.

LONDON, April 6.—The deputies of Paris have agreed in principle, and will draw up a manifesto to the people of France, demanding the maintenance of the republic, and claiming for the municipal body of Paris the right of deciding all questions relative to the organization of the city, particularly as regards finances and public worship, and that, as a basis of conciliation, the position of the National Guard, as guard of Paris, must be recognized.

The Assemblists occupy all the roads to Versailles.

It is considered probable that the whole column of General Bergerot are prisoners. Five hundred women and children accompany the federalist troops.

MADRID, April 6.—In the Cortes to-day the minister of colonies gave an explicit contradiction to the report that the United States government has made a proposition to Spain for the purchase of her possessions in the West Indies. The minister added that the honor of Spain forbids the sale of any of her colonies.

PARIS, April 7.—The situation is hourly becoming more alarming The forces of the Commune are growing stronger and bolder.—Thiers' proposition to treat has inspired the Commune with fresh hopes, and it is believed they have one hundred thousand men who will boldly fight. The government troops retain the conquered positions, and make no advance. To-day a battle is raging between Chatillon and Vanvres. From the latter place the insurgents maintain an incessant fire from behind the fort. Crowds of women and children, frantic with grief, are searching each ambulance as it arrives for the bodies of their husbands and fathers. The slaughter on both sides yesterday and to-day was fearful.

Terror reigns, and the prisons are crowded.

The churches and the houses of aristocrats are pillaged, and all priests are imprisoned. A great many murders have taken place. On this Good Friday there were no religious services in Paris. German intervention is the only hope.

VERSAILLES, April 8.—A circular issued by President Thiers, and bearing the date of the seventh, says: "Yesterday the gens d'armes carried the insurgent position at Courbevoie, and to-day the bridge at Neuilly was carried by the government troops. General Moutauban was slightly and General Pichot seriously wounded. The losses of the insurgents are immense, and the positions captured are of decisive importance."

LONDON, April 8.—A special from Versailles to the London Telegraph says the assemblists have advanced to Porte Maillet, and hold a position under the ramparts. Forts d'Issy and Bicetre have ceased firing. Paris has only provisions for two days. The collapse of the insurrection is imminent.

A Paris special to the Times says the insurgents have already commenced to put in execution their threat of retaliation on the prisoners they have taken. The Commune prevents the opening of churches; nearly all the cures have been thrown into prison. There are reports that the portion of the Prussian army near Paris who have been ordered into the city are unarmed.

Marshal McMahon, who commands the army of Versailles, has established his headquarters at Petit Trianon. General Vinoy has charge of the reserves.

PARIS, April 10.—Unless the Germans save Paris she must soon swim in blood. The Commune hourly grows more desperate and resorts to fierce excesses. The conciergerie is filled with priests and nuns, who have been arrested on warrants calling them citizens, styled the servants of a person called God. Archbishop Darboy was stripped naked, bound to a pillar, scourged and mocked for hours by a band of two hundred Reds.

BEFORE PARIS, Sunday night, via London, April 10, 4.30 A. M.—It is reported the Versailles troops have crossed the Seine at Asnieres and are concentrating at Long Champs. Arbitrary arrests are increasing in number in the city. Many more cures have been thrown into prison. Church services are generally suspended. The doors of the cathedral of Notre Dame have been closed.

General Bergerot is under arrest.

The party of conciliation are redoubling their efforts. They have held public meetings in favor of peace, at which the members of the Commune were present.

The Communists are building additional barricades in the quarters threatened by the besiegers.

BEFORE PARIS, Sunday evening, via London, April 10.—The government forces are encamped in Courbevoie and occupy the bridge of Neuilly. They are barricading the village and bridge. The Communists have reinforced their artillery at Ports Maillet and Porte d'Terres, Valerien and Battevio. At Courbevoie they have maintained an incessant bombardment all day, and their shells fall beyond the Arch of Triumphs.

The Nationals have evacuated the Champs Elysees and occupy adjacent streets. The effort of the Communes to force the citizens generally to take up arms have so far failed VERSAILLES, April 10.—The insurgents made two sorties on Sunday, one against Chatillon and Putsaux. A sharp fusillade was kept up for two hours. The sortie was repulsed. Another sortie on Autewil and Point du Jour gates has taken place.

Twenty-five thousand French regulars are expected from Germany on Wednesday.

The Prussian garrison at St. Denis has been reinforced by five thousand royal guards.

BERLIN, April 11.—The Prussian Cross Gazette says: The British government is endeavoring to persuade Germany to intervene for the restoration of order in Paris.

PARIS, April 11.—The breach of Porte Maillot is practicable, and an assault upon it is expected to-morrow.

The Communists are barricading every street. They have more than one hundred thousand desperate men under command, and the work of carrying these barricades will be fearfully bloody.

THE SOUTHERN REVIEW.

We take the following extracts from the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, and call special attention to the card which follows:

TO THE PATRONS AND FRIENDS OF THE SOUTHERN REVIEW.—It has already been announced in this paper that an arrangement has been made by us with Dr. Redford to publish the Review at our Southern Publishing House, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. We take pleasure in saying that the transfer has been made on terms just and honorable to all concerned. We had indeed hoped that this would have been effected at the General Conference in Memphis. But the book agent and Publishing Committee could not at that time see their way clear to assume its publication. The Bishops and General Conference, however, with extraordinary unanimity, indorsed and recommended the Review as "our quarterly." Notwithstanding we gave to the enterprise our most earnest support, and invoked the best influences to secure its adoption by the General Conference, we had not the remotest idea of assuming the responsibility of its publication. When appealed to on this subject, we frankly confessed that we did not see how it was possible for us to afford the relief which Dr. Bledsoe sought. The publication and editorial management of the Episcopal Methodist devolved upon us as much labor and responsibility as we felt ourselves able to bear. It was not until every appeal had been made in vain by the distinguished editor, and the fear that the boon vouchsafed to the church would be lost forever, that we consented to afford the desired aid.

With the hearty support of the Bishops, ministers and members of the church, together with the favor extended to the enterprise by the press and people of the South, it has had a success far beyond our most sanguine hopes. From the original subscription list, which was very small (and since much reduced by many withdrawals,) we now number nearly three thousand subscribers. We congratulate the church and the whole people of the South upon this result, and invoke the continued favor of divine Providence in behalf of the enterprise.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Our subscribers to the Southern Review will be regularly supplied, by the agent at Nashville, Dr. A. H. Redford, with the July and October numbers for 1871, and will remit the amount of their subscriptions to us at 49 Lexington street, Baltimore. Those who desire the back numbers for January and April will immediately advise us at this office, or address Dr. Redford at Nashville.

All subscriptions due for 1871 must be paid to Rev. John Poisal, Baltimore.

EPISCOPACY IN THE M. E. CHURCH.

The following, from the Western Christian Advocate of Cincinnati, indicates the conclusions to which the Northern Methodists are tending on this subject. The quadrennial election and four years' term are strongly advocated, but the extract below foreshadows about what will be done by the General Conference of 1872.

We never liked the life-tenure of this office, because it seemed exceptionable in our economy, and placed us in an awkward attitude before the churches on the subject of orders. There is also a possibility of bringing upon the church a heavy burden, and of creating a spirit of caste in the ministry that ought never to exist. But, on the other hand, we have always dreaded the frequent recurrence of elections to such high positions. The full weight of the argument on this point pressed upon our mind years ago, and we find it impossible to throw off this dread. We do not want the Bishops to be subjected to the suspicion of acting in their administration with a view to re-election. And yet this same point might be made in the case of agents and editors, while the facts do not warrant any fear of evil results. What, then, is best? To us it is plain that a provision for superannuating Bishops, in the Annual Conferences, just as other disabled men are superannuated, will meet the necessities of the case, and afford the church the relief which is sought by the advocates of quadrennial elections. This will amount to electing Bishops during effective service. It will avoid the evils of frequent elections, and also the danger of entailing upon the church the burden of worn-out Bishops to be supported differently from other disabled preachers. Something of this kind will be quite satisfactory to ourselves, and if the discussion leads to general acquiescence in such arrangement, without an exciting contest for the success of extreme measures on either side, we shall be highly gratified.

The support of the Bishops is a subject distinct from the questions relating to the office itself. There is scarcely a probability that the present method of support can be continued. If it were lawful, and if the whole church would patronize the publications of the church, then the easiest way would be to pay them, as now, through the Book Concern. But it is not lawful, except by a forced construction, while the other condition is out of the question. The Book Concern must be relieved of this burden. The profits of all our publications must go to the superannuated preachers, and to our widows and orphans. Justice and good faith will demand this. Hence the number of Bishops to be elected will become a serious question. We shall want enough to do the work, and we must learn that in this case, as in all others, enough is better than more.

OLD MISSIONARY DEBT.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I was appointed at the last Conference to receive and forward the subscriptions of the members of the Mississippi Conference to the old missionary debt. Sixteen hundred dollars were subscribed, and only $401.70 have been received up to this time.

The first of April was the time specified for the entire sum to be paid. Brethren can remit by post office order, draft on New Orleans, or registered letter.

The names and sums reported to me, or received by me, are as follows, viz: Revs. Joshua T. Heard, $5; Julius T. Curtiss, $50; Thomas Reed, $10; John McVea, $50; Irvin Miller, $50; J. E. Watts, $50; T. S. West, $50; H. H. Montgomery, $50; John A. Vance, $26.70; C. B. Galloway, $50; E. H. Mounger, $10.

The following payments have been reported as made to the Indian mission, viz: Revs. F. W. Sharbrough, $25; John A. Ellis, $25; J. T. Curtiss, $25; R. A. Davis, $25; S. E. F. Byrd, $5; $5 was also paid by the latter to the China mission.

C. G. ANDREWS.

JACKSON, MISS., April 3, 1871.

THE LITTLE CORPORAL for the current month has its usual variety of well written original contributions.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1871.

WORDS OVER A GRAVE.

Did she suffer long? Oh, yes! and 'tis best
To wipe our fears when such weary ones rest:
Fond hearts watched o'er her for many a day,
Lest life's form petals should fall to their clay!
But they fell to their clay.

Did she sorrow to live? When her husband was near
There lay 'neath her eyelid an unshed tear:
But it trickled not till her boy drew nigh,
And asked his pale mother never to die!
Never to die.

Did mind flit from her, with Death afar,
And left it, the gate of the grave, ajar?
While tenantless life, outlined as before,
Was the shadow of mind through that open door!
Through that open door.

No: praise to Jehovah for mercy thus shown!
The light and its shadow at once were withdrawn;
Yet she trimmed her faith ere she went away;
God grant there was oil in the lamp that day!
In the lamp that day.

The funeral train, like a gulf stream, wound
Through the ocean of life that was heaving around;
In silence it moved, as the wreck it bore,
Where the grave-stones pebble the church-yard shore!
The church-yard shore.

We lingered long by that cold grave side,
While back to the world swept the funeral tide—
Far from the death-beach it ebbed away,
Nor missed from its bosom a drop of spray!
A drop of spray.

And must dust absorb it? Ah, no! If she shone
Among Christ's jewels a precious stone—
When judgment shall open the grave's rough shell,
She may lie a pearl—but we cannot tell!
We cannot tell.

Sectarianism and Christian Unity.

Mr. Editor: Some time since there was a statement in one of the religious papers that the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, though widely differing in their theological and metaphysical systems, fraternize more cordially and unite in worship with less friction than any other of the sects.

The question was asked: "Why is this so?"

The fact itself is pregnant with thought, bearing upon the history of the church for three hundred years back, and casting light upon much vexed ecclesiastical questions, which even now agitate the religious world.

Out of this fact the synthetical reasoner might construct, in definite and unambiguous shape, the final answer to the controversy: "What is the church?"—just as the skillful anatomist can construct from the fragment of a fossil bone the whole skeleton of a primeval monster.

This is a "key" fact. The tree has at last borne fruit, and we can taste that fruit and detect its flavor.

For eighteen hundred years there has been but one meaning of the term "church unity." Each sect has cried out: "We are the church, and true church unity is only to be obtained by merging other sects into our own body." The whole Christian world has been united on decrying sectarianism as a needless and pernicious evil. All have deplored and pointed out, with melancholy sighings, the narrow bigotries, petty jealousies, the persecutions and bloody wars that have been the result of a divided body of Christ. There has not been a single champion of sectarianism. Protestantism has blushed and hung her head in shame when Jesuitism, in the guise of church unity, has pointed in scorn and exultation at the sects and divisions of the reformed, and has found no answer.

All have prayed for corporate unity, and have twined their longing and languishing hearts to that goal, even as the pilgrim turns his face to Mecca in prayer. Rome has followed after this thing in her grim, determined way with teeth set, and surrounded by inquisitorial racks and thumb-screws has said: "If Christians will not think alike they shall not think at all."

Alas! all this while Christianity has been pursuing an Ignis Fatuus—has been fleeing from its own best friend.

Have we any reason to believe that the dream of corporate unity will ever be realized. Is it practicable? Would it be best? In expectation of this coming glory must we continue to despise and deprecate sectarianism? still contemn any sectarian fraternization as inchoate; still press our arguments and nourish our bigotry in hopes to solve finally the miserable question, "Which is the true church," about which Christians have wrangled and belittled themselves, while our grand mission and work has been almost lost sight of?

Sectarianism is the order of God. It has been one of the vastest mercies of the ages—the mightiest lever in the hand of Providence, in three hundred years, to lift up his church to higher truth and a true unity. The grand work of sectarianism has been to destroy the sectarian spirit, to paralyze bigotry, to unfetter thought, and develop a vital, growing faith—not a mere belief lodged like a stone in the soul, but a living tree, growing and fructifying in the soul; the child often of contention, but also of independence, without the abjectness of staring.

The grand work, however, of sectarianism has been to annihilate bigotry. If the church had remained a unit this would never have been accomplished; not that sectarianism has been without the most despicable and narrow bigotry. Bigotry, however, is an accident of the sects, and can be shaken off by them, and will inevitably, in the nature of the circumstances surrounding diverse and independent branches of Christians, be thus shaken off; while it is the essence of high churchism, and must evermore cling to it.

The different sects, by their many battles, have learned to respect each other. They have learned to respect man's sincerity of heart and holiness of life, while he believes and worships differently from his brother. They are learning how slanderous is that conception of the "father" which represents him as wrangling with an honest and earnest man, who loves and fears him, and who would die for him about his form of church government or the modes of his worship. They are learning that the great work may go on as well, perhaps better, under different forms. They are learning each other, above all—that there are inherent, circumstantial and educational differences in human minds, which necessitate different beliefs and different tastes. They are learning that this variety of human minds is the spice of the social world, and a fact fixed by the God of nature; and that it is useless to try and fit this variety to one procrustean bed of creed or rite. They are learning that the only unity desirable or practical is not co-operate, but spiritual—a hearty, independent and living union in love and labor.

Had the church remained undivided this would not have been the case. Answer would have been gagged back. Creeds would have been tossed into the soul like stones, never to be rooted there, but to be dead masses there, in sullen, forced and abject minds.

Co-operate unity is impracticable without the Inquisition.

Sectarianism, then, is right. It is a glorious thing. It is in harmony with the analogy of a varied nature. We need not blush to call ourselves sects. Let the churches recognize this truth. It will make us free. It will cast a nightmare incubus from the breast of the church which has given us unpleasant dreams. Consciousness of guilt enslaves and debases. The sects are not guilty. We are all right, though we differ—right in our independence and spontaneity of faith, if not actually so; right in our earnestness and sincerity and genuineness of love. Let not mistrust of our moral status deteriorate our moral manhood.

Let the union of the different denominations after this, in works of love, be the frank, cordial union of freemen. Thank God! the mission of sectarianism has been nearly accomplished. The times are full of signs that the day of a true unity is not far distant—a despising of forms and a magnifying of the spirit; a free, loving union, not under one name or government, but in one spirit of holiness and faith, of mutual esteem and confidence.

The fact stated at the head of this article is the most significant of all. These two churches acknowledge themselves sects; have no high church hobby. The facility with which they unite in worship demonstrates what is the only true and practicable church unity, and prophesies the glorious union of Christians in the future and the death of high churchism—a union founded on the long-despised maxim of St. Paul: "Let every man be persuaded in his own mind." C. C.

To the Preachers of the Mississippi Conference.

At our last Conference there were reported twenty-three circuits without Sunday schools. These are: Sulphur Springs, Forest Grove, Madison, De Kalb, Lower Deer Creek, Clover Hill, Carthage, Forest, Garlandsville, Decatur, Black Creek, Ocoha, Pleasant Valley, Burtonton, East Feliciana, East Baton Rouge, Livingston, Tangipahoa, Ponchatoula, Grand Gulf, Kingston, Columbia and Amite.

The preachers on these circuits the present year will allow me to call their attention to this deficiency in our Sunday school work. It is presumed to be easily remedied by a little close attention. This, it is hoped, will not be wanting.

In regard to these circuits, or most of them, the Conference last December said: "The lambs of the flock appear to be wholly uncared for!" "The lambs of the flock wholly uncared for!" is pretty strong language for an Annual Conference to apply to the pastoral labors of its preachers. Yet there is the solemn declaration, and these are the preachers of whom it is spoken.

The Conference further says: "We greatly deplore this want of interest in our people and ministry on this great subject." Possibly it might be supposed that some of our preachers are not fully awake to the fact that this is a "great subject." We must hope they are.

The Conference goes on to say: "We cannot too earnestly express our condemnation of the course of a Christian minister who neglects this fruitful source of supply for the church of Christ." Again it declares that those ministers who "fail in proper attention to this great interest of the church are grossly derelict in their duty." This is very expressive language, and will, no doubt, receive due attention from us all.

In some cases the preachers represent to me that the Sunday schools are much smaller than was represented to Conference by their predecessors. In all such cases I suggest that the fact be carefully noted and set forth in the report to Conference at the close of the present year. Otherwise your report will appear to disadvantage. We may hope that our reports to be made to next Conference will be very specific and in detail with regard to each pastoral charge.

It is not too much to hope that our entire church is just now entering upon a new era in the care and oversight of the children of the church. The Conference will certainly not be satisfied with a blank Sunday school report; and we should hope it will not be satisfied with a report of one school on a circuit.

We may expect the Sunday School Convention to meet in Nashville in May next to speak out the sentiments of the church on the subject of union schools. Meanwhile I will only remark that I find and have reported to me a number of those which are made up mostly of Methodist teachers and children. I feel confident of being right in recommending that in all cases where the Methodist element is in the majority, that it be at once resolved into a school of our own on the plan of our Uniform Lessons. They will not be sectarian, nor probably in the least objectionable, to any reasonable Christian parents. And if they are we cannot help it.

Let it be borne in mind that in the use of the Uniform Lessons the smallest school can be conducted to admirable advantage. With these lessons, it is no good excuse for the absence of a school to say you cannot get many children to attend. Two children and a teacher make a school. R. Abbey,

Sunday School Agent and Sec.

TRIUMPHS OF CHRISTIANITY.

The following interesting extract from the London Quarterly Review, an excellent authority, presents a clear view of the triumphs of Christianity:

It arose in an enlightened and skeptical age, but among a despised and narrow-minded people. It earned hatred and persecution at home by its liberal genius and opposition to the national prejudices; it earned contempt abroad by its connection with the country where it was born, but which sought to strangle it in its birth. Emerging from Judea, it made its outward march through the most polished regions of the world—Asia Minor, Egypt, Greece, Rome—and in all it attracted notice and provoked hostility. Successive massacres and attempts at extermination, persecution for ages by the whole force of the Roman Empire, it bore without resistance, and seemed to draw fresh vigor from the ax; but assaults in the way of argument, from whatever quarter, it was never ashamed or unable to repel, and whether attacked or not was resolutely aggressive. In four centuries it had pervaded the civilized world; it had mounted the thrones of the Cæsars; it had spread beyond the limits of their sway, and had made inroads upon barbarian nations whom their eagles had never visited; it had gathered all genius and learning into itself, and made the literature of the world its own; it survived the inundation of the barbarian tribes, and conquered the world once more by converting its conquerors to the faith; it survived an age of barbarism; it survived the restoration of letters; it survived an age of free inquiry and skepticism, and has long stood its ground in the field of argument, and commanded the intelligent assent of the greatest minds that ever were; it has been the parent of civilization and the nurse of learning, and if light and humanity and freedom be the boast of modern Europe, it is to Christianity that she owes them. Exhibiting in the life of Jesus a picture, varied and minute, of the human united with the divine, in which the mind of man has not been able to find a deficiency or detect a blemish—a picture copied from no model, and rivaled by no copy—it has accommodated itself to every period and every clime; it has retained through every change a salient spring of life, which enables it to throw off corruption and repair decay, and renew its youth amid outward hostility and inward divisions.

I Intend to be a Christian.—No doubt you do, dear reader. You have even appointed the time when you will come out on the Lord's side. You will do so next year, or when you are settled down for life, or after you have become successful in business, or perhaps when you are old, or possibly when you are about to die. It is not, however, now—the life is future. You have resolved to become Christ's. You acknowledge that without this change you cannot reach heaven. I presume, therefore, you have made a contract with death, and he is pledged to stay his arm until you are ready. If not, how great is your folly. The Saviour, too, must wait your leisure. You will come to him when you choose, and as you choose, and the blessed Spirit must continue his sacred influence until you are prepared to accept his offers. What daring impiety? And yet, dear impenitent reader, such is your position, and such your rash presumption. You are dictating to God. You refuse admittance to his calls, and ask him to wait until it suits your convenience. What assurance have you that death will keep away, that Christ will tarry, that the blessed Spirit will not take his everlasting flight? If conscience calls, I beseech you, do not delay. Jesus wants you now. Accept his offer and come to him. Change your promise, "I intend to be a Christian," into the firm resolve, I now devote myself, by God's grace, to the service of Christ. Receive me, Lord—I desire to become thine forever.

The Sure Foundation.—A society built upon any man, even upon an apostle, as an apostle, will, in the pressure of ages, swerve and fall, however vast the pile; and the greater its dimensions, the more appalling its overthrow at last. The true church does not rest on Peter, or Paul, or Luther, or Calvin, or Wesley, but only squarely and forever on Jesus Christ. He is the tried and precious corner-stone on which all believers build their lives, of every age, nation, circumstance and name.

It is a great guilt in any man to allow what mental faculties he may possess to become rusty from disuse, or to submit them implicitly to another.—Dr. McClintock.

If we attend carefully to our duty, and keep both beams and motes out of our own eye, those of others will not seriously trouble us.

QUAILS.

If a man should sit down at a table furnished with a variety of food and luxuries, and, with all wholesome nutriment as well as sweetmeats and knick-knacks, before him, pass over the most wholesome dishes and reach and pick after the kickshaws and pastries and puffs, we should think of him as both diseased in his stomach and squeamish in his mind. A man of sound health has relish for the substantials. A taste petted is soon poisoned; and when bread and meat are left unused or untasted, and the salads and desserts devoured, there will be a premature assignment of the whole carnal establishment into the hands of the nearest undertaker.

So when God's ministers present wholesome doctrines to the people—meat and bread for muscle and bone and blood—the primal, nurturing principles of truth—and they are passed over, while the hearers hunger after new-coined phraseologies, poetry, flowers of rhetoric, quaint sayings and sensational sentiments, it is an unmistakable evidence of religious dyspepsia. When professors of Christianity have no taste for the plain doctrines, such as repentance, justification by faith, the atonement and the resurrection, and prefer the flippant fancies of some clerical mountebank who oratorises and pea-fowlabulloos, it is high time for a mustard-and-brimstone plaster across the heart. There is spiritual distemper where there is such delirious desire. The modern church is fevered with this direful disease; and here and there a congregation is thinned in numbers and in piety by the malaria. It is a kind of mania verbum, and carries into spiritual stupor and death its thousands in a year.

There was a time among the Israelites when nothing would satisfy them but quails. Not a bite of wholesome diet would they have—nothing but quails, quails! They must have delicious bird-meat or nothing. Beef was too common, bread too democratic; they ran wild after quails. But they were paid for their epicurean idolatry. They got quails. The sea-wind raised quails like drops of water. They were surfeited and made sick of quails. The quails turned to a pestilence in their very teeth. The quail-hungerers died of quails, and were buried thick and fast in a place called Kibroth-hattaavah, the sepulcher-ground of people that lusted!

The fashionable churches show symptoms of quailaria. The meats of the gospel are too strong and life-building for some delicately-converted and homeopathically-inclined Christians. They are fluttering in their souls for quails. They must have tender pabulum, pretty bits of wing and white meat and froth! The rich congregations are crying and sighing for quails. God's word affords wholesome diet for souls, meat for the appetites of men, for growth, for sinew, for strength, for work; but that is not palatable to the loungers in Israel. They must have something for their lustful longing; they ask nothing for spiritual development and spiritual power. It is not the apostle's meat they want, but the pretty preacher's quails! They do not receive the truth in their hearts and lives, in the love of the truth. It must trickle into their ears in operatic melody, or reverberate in theatrical eloquence. It must please the fancy and charm the taste, and, as for saving the soul and toning and shielding the life—that's not the question. The question is—quails!

And the sentimental churches, spoiling for quails, will die of quails, and then the old under-taker will have a harvest, and there will be another Kibroth-hattaavah.—Methodist Recorder.

The Best Banker.—A pleasant story is told by Rev. J. W. Munro, of the Guiana (West India) Mission. One Sunday, on going into the vestry of the station, he found a common laborer sitting on the steps awaiting him. "Last year," said the man, "I was poor, had nothing, scarcely clothing for my wife and children; but since I took your advice I have food for my family, and clothes with which they are able to come to the chapel; and, sir, I may tell you we are very happy; we live good. I want to hire that pew I sit in for my family; how much for it?" On being told fifteen shillings a quarter he said: "Well, here is the money for all last year, for though we did not all sit in the chapel last year, yet I want to pay." The sum paid was three pounds. He then said: "Now I want to give you this toward the debt on the mission house, the first fruits of my arrow-root this year." The sum was $5. Subsequently he addressed the children at a monthly meeting in a feeling speech, of which this was the pith: "My young friends, God is the best banker I ever knew. He gives plenty of interest."

The Connecticut man who ordered one of Mr. Chromo's pictures has a cousin who affirms that Mr. Chromo usually painted animals!

THE ALSATIAN OUTPOURING.

The territory ceded by France to Germany embraces about six thousand English square miles, or one thirty-fifth of France proper.—Though a considerable portion of the sixteen hundred thousand inhabitants (one twenty-fifth of the whole population of France) are of German lineage, or speak the German patois, the whole of them are intensely French in their sympathies, and regard the Teutons with an aversion and hate which time cannot eradicate. Border animosities, such as are always to be found along national frontiers, have been so intensified by the war that the Alsatians now regard their conquerors with a feeling akin to madness and ungovernable fury. They declare that they will sacrifice all their lands and property before consenting to live under German rule. True to their word, they are now disposing of their effects for whatever prices they will bring preparatory to emigrating to other localities or lands.

And this migratory movement should receive the immediate attention of American farmers and capitalists. Many of the inhabitants of the surrendered territory are among the best agriculturists in France. Others have been trained to skilled labor, and for years have been employed in numerous manufactories. Still others are first-class miners thoroughly familiar with their avocation. The terms of the treaty stipulate that these dissatisfied Frenchmen shall have every facility afforded them for leaving the conquered provinces. The Social Science Association, we hear, will, in a few days' time, issue a pamphlet, containing information concerning the various States, for the benefit of the Alsatians and Europeans generally. But those who desire to secure their labor should be on hand immediately. It would be well for the localities in the South which are anxious to obtain emigrants to dispatch their agents to Alsace at once. They will there find people, superior to the common run of those coming to the States, who are fitted by their tastes and temperament to become good citizens of Southern States, and who can doubtless be influenced and persuaded to proceed thither.—Hearth and Home.

Reason in Religion.—My reason says: "This mortal state of being is but the vestibule of human existence. All that we see is but a minute fraction of all that is. God shows enough to convince us that he loves purity, truth, worth, goodness, and hates vice, wrong, malevolence; but, having explained himself so far, he bids us trust him for the rest, until it shall comport with his far-reaching purposes to make all plain." I trust and wait. The problem of evil tests but does not shake my faith. I look it steadily in the face, and, though not unperplexed, am not cast down nor disconcerted. As Tennyson says:

I sink upon the altar stairs
That slope through darkness up to God.

Nor does my reason revolt when are properly termed miracles special interpositions of the divine hand. I hear those who say, "The all-wise God would never need to interfere with the operation of his laws," but I do not agree with them. I know no law more pervading and beneficent—I might add essential—than that of gravitation; I am sure it is a perfect law; and yet were I to see a child falling out of a seventh story window looking upon the stone pavement, I should wish to arrest, in this particular case, the operation of that law, and I should not hesitate to ask God to interpose his invincible arm to this end. I should not dream that I impeached either his wisdom or his law by so doing. Would you?—Horace Greeley.

A Ludicrous Scene.—A new church was recently dedicated in a neighboring State, and the organ and choir contributed unsparingly of their time in the rehearsal of several difficult anthems for the occasion, and thus awaited impatiently the hour when they might astonish the parishioners with their musical powers, and cause the clergyman's people from abroad to pay him lavish encomium. But, unfortunately for their reputation, a new musical vehicle threw a wheel, and they met with an ingloreous breakdown in the first song of the service. Being called upon by the clergyman to favor "us with" some other piece of their selection, the nice little advertising dodge, by the way,) a good brother in the audience struck up, "Jesus, lover of my soul," in which the whole assembly joined with a will, while the discomfited amateurs filed out through a side door, and made good their escape from the sanctuary. It is needless to say that this church was by the happy accident converted into a congregational song.

Big Sister: "O papa! I must go to hear Nilsson. You know I am so fond of music." Little brother triumphantly: "Then why don't you let me play on my drum?"

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1871.

WHEN IS IT SPRING?

BY EDWARD R. SILL.

When is it spring? When spirits rise,
Pure crocus-buds, where the snow dies;
When children play out-doors till dark;
When the sap trickles up the bark:
When bits of blue sky flit and sing,
Playing at birds—then is it spring?

When is it spring? When the winds storm,
But for all that are soft and warm:
When bare no more the branches seem,
So bright the twigs with sunshine gleam;
When forth the almanac we bring
To prove 'tis April—is it spring?

When is it spring? When the bee hums;
When through half opened window comes
The breeze, and summer-license claims
To swing and toss the picture frames;
When the walk dries; the robins call;
The brown hens doze by the sunny wall,
One foot drawn up to warm, or sing
With half filmed eyes—then is it spring?

Nay, each might prove a treacherous sign;
But when old waters seem new wine;
When all our mates are half divine;

When love comes easier than hate;
When we have no more shrugs at Fate,
But think sometimes of God, and late

Our swiftest serving seems to be;
When bright ways numberless we see,
And thoughts spring up, and hopes run free,

And wild new dreams are all on wing,
Till we must either fly or sing
With riotous life—be sure 'tis spring.

Christian Union.

THE INAUGURATION OF POPERY.

The act of the Emperor Phocas, conferring on Boniface the Third, Bishop of Rome, the title of "Universal Bishop," has been recognized as the establishment of popery. This was in the year 606. Error and superstition had prevailed more or less in many churches in previous centuries, but no bishop had before been proclaimed the spiritual ruler of the world. The supreme authority of the Bishop of Rome had not been recognized. Previous to the time of Boniface there was no earthly head to enforce uniformity. As Mosheim observes: "We are not to think that the same method of worship was universally followed in every Christian society, for this was far from being the case. Every bishop consulting his own private judgment or taking into consideration the nature of the times and the genius of the country in which he lived, and the character and temper of those whom he was appointed to rule and instruct, formed such a plan of divine worship as he thought wisest and best. Hence that variety of liturgies in use before the Bishop of Rome had usurped the supreme power in religious matters, and persuaded the credulous that the model, both of doctrine and worship, was to be given by the mother church, and to be followed implicitly throughout the Christian world." But

WHO WAS PHOCAS?

He was a native of Asia Minor, of obscure and unknown parentage, and a common soldier in the army of the Emperor Mauritius. Having risen to the rank of a centurion, in command of a hundred men, he headed a band of mutineers and marched at the head of them from the Danube to Constantinople, where he was proclaimed Emperor by the mutineers. Mauritius had heard that his rival was timid in the face of danger. "Alas!" said the prince, "if he is a coward he will surely be a murderer." He made his escape to the Asiatic shore with his wife and nine children, and landing at a church near Chalcedon, he patiently awaited the fatal event, fervently praying to God that the punishment of his sins might be inflicted in this life and not in the life to come.

The patriarch of Constantinople consecrated the usurper Phocas in the church of St. John the Baptist, who on the third day made his public entry into the city, having lavishly distributed donations amid the acclamations of a thoughtless people, in a chariot drawn by four white horses. Phocas then sent his ministers of death to Chalcedon, who dragged the Emperor from his sanctuary and murdered five of his sons before the eyes of their agonized father. At each stroke of the assassins the father exclaimed: "Thou art just, O Lord! and thy judgments are righteous." The tragic scene was closed by the execution of the Emperor in the twentieth year of his reign and in the sixty-third year of his age. One of his sons (Theodosius,) who was fleeing to the court of Persia, was intercepted and beheaded at Nice. The widow and three daughters sought refuge in one of the churches of the city, then considered an inviolable asylum; and the patriarch, moved by compassion for the sufferers, or reverence for the sanctuary, would not suffer them to be dragged from their place of refuge. Phocas, burning with rage, persuaded them by solemn oaths and promises to leave their asylum, in consequence of which they soon became helpless victims of his infuriated malice. "A matron," says Gibbon, "who commanded the respect and pity of mankind; the daughter, wife and mother of emperors, with three innocent daughters, were beheaded at Chalcedon, after being tortured like the vilest malefactor, on the same ground which had been stained with the blood of her husband and five sons! The hippodrome, the sacred asylum of the pleasures and liberty of the Romans, was polluted with heads and limbs of mangled bodies; and the most sensible companions of Phocas were those whom neither their services, nor his favor, could protect from a tyrant, the worthy rival of Caligulas and Domitians of the first age of the empire.

"The imperial family now being entirely cut off, the blood-thirsty tyrant proceeded with the same inexorable cruelty against all their friends and all who had betrayed the least compassion for them, or had borne any civil or military employment in the late reign." "Some were inhumanly tortured; others had their hands and feet cut off; and some were set up as marks for the raw soldiery to shoot at in learning to use their bows and arrows. The populace met with no better fate than the nobility, and great numbers were daily seized for speaking disrespectfully of the tyrant, and either killed by his guards or tied in sacks and thrown into the sea or crowded into prisons, where they died, suffocated by the foul and noisome air of the place.

Such was the monster in crime and in blood who inaugurated the reign of popery (properly so called) in the Church of Rome, by making its bishop the head and spiritual autocrat and ruler of all the churches in Christendom; fit instrument for the work he consummated. Such is the history of "the mystery of iniquity" at the time of its enthronement in the form of popery and in the person of Boniface the Third, upon whom the title of "Universal Bishop" was conferred by the blood-thirsty usurper Phocas. We have more to say on this subject, and some historical facts to cite to give the reader a glimpse of the spirit and character of popery in the ages which followed. We propose to resume the subject in our next.—Christian Observer.

CONTENTMENT.—Never complain of your birth, your training, your employment, your hardships. Never fancy that you could be something if you only had a different lot assigned you. God understands his own plan, and he understands what you want a great deal better than you do. The very things that you deprecate as fatal limitations or obstructions are probably what you most want. What you call hindorances, obstacles, discouragements, are probably God's opportunities; and it is nothing new that the patient should dislike his medicines, or any certain proof that they are poisons. No; a truce to all such impatience. Check that devilish envy which gnaws your heart because you are not in the same lot with others; bring down your soul, or rather bring it up, to receive God's will, and do his work in your lot, in your sphere, under your obscurity, against your temptations, and you will find that your condition is never opposed to your good, but really consistent with it.

THE OLD WELL.—"There was a well near here," said a bystander, "and very good water used to come from it; but it has been filled up for a long time."

"Indeed! I never knew there was a well here, much less tasted the water. How did it get filled up?"

"Neglect, sir. Some rubbish got in, then part of the surrounding soil; and as it was not cleared out at once it got worse and worse, till it is as you see it, quite choked up. I wonder if there is any water at the bottom?"

These last words set me thinking: "I wonder if there is any water at the bottom?" I thought how much this old well was like some Christians. The Lord Jesus spoke of the life he gives to the believer as "a well of water" unto him (John iv, 14;) but are there not many who are supposed to be Christians in whom we do not see any water, and of whom we can say, as of this old well, "I wonder if there is any water at the bottom?"

ARCHBISHOP LEIGHTON had an unusual conceit about the most desirable mode of death. He preferred to die in an inn while on a journey and away from all friends. He said an inn was a suitable place for a pilgrim and a stranger to step from into his Father's house. Besides, he thought the presence of anxious and sorrowing friends must have an entangling influence upon the mind trying to draw itself off to heavenly contemplations. It is remarkable that he had his wish. He died at the Bell Inn, Warwick Lane, and none of his near relations were with him.

AN anti-kissing society has been formed by the Galena (Illinois) girls. "No kissing before marriage" is their motto.

SILVER-HAIRED LADIES.

The world is notoriously unjust to its veterans, and above all is unjust to its ancient females. Everywhere, and from all time, an old woman has been used to express the last stage of usefulness and exhaustion; and while a meeting of bearded dotards goes by the name of council of sages, and its deliberations are respected accordingly, a congregation of palsied matrons is nothing but a congregation of old women, whose thoughts and opinions on any subject whatsoever have no more value than the chatting of so many magpies.

The fact is, the poor old ladies have a hard time of it; and if we look at it in its right light, perhaps, nothing proves more the coarse flavor of the world's esteem respecting women than this disdain which they excite when they are old. And yet, what charming old ladies one has known at times—women quite as charming in their own way at seventy as their granddaughters are at seventeen, and all the more so because they have no design now to be charming, because they have given up the attempt to please for the reaction of praise, and long since having consented to become physically old, they never drift into unpersonableness or neglect.

While retaining the intellectual vivacity and active sympathies of maturity, they have added the softness, the mellowness, the tempering, got only from experience and advancing age; they are women who have seen and known and read a great deal, and who had suffered much, but whose sorrow had neither hardened nor soured them; rather have made them more sympathetic with the sorrows of others, and pitiful for all the young. They have lived through and lived down all their own trials, and have come into peace on the other side; they may remember the trials of the fiery passage, and feel for those who have still to bear the pressure of the pain they have overcome. They are women not met much in society; they are of the kind which remain at home, and let the world come to them.

They have done with the hurry and glitter of life, and they no longer care to carry gray hairs abroad; they retain their hold on the affections of their kind; they take an interest in the history, the science, the progress of the day, but they rest tranquil and content by their own firesides, and they sit to receive, but do not go out to gather. The fashionable old lady who haunts the theaters and drawing room, bewigged, befrizzed, ghastly in her vain attempts to appear young, hideous in her frenzied clutch at the pleasures melting from the grasp, desperate in her wild hold upon a life that is passing away from her so rapidly, knows nothing of the quiet dignity and happiness of her ancient sister who has been wise enough to renounce before she lost.

In her own house, where gather a small knot of men of mind and women of character, where the young bring their perplexities and the mature their deeper thoughts, the dear old lady of ripe experience and loving sympathies and cultivated intellect holds a better court than is known to any of those miserable old creatures who prowl about the gay places of the world, and wrestle with the young for the crown and the garlands—those wretched simulacra of womanhood who will not grow and cannot become wise. She is the best kind of an old lady extant, answering to the matrons of classic times—to the mother of Israel before whom the tribes paid obeisance in token of respect; the woman whose book of life has been well studied, closely read, and kept clean in all its pages.

She had been no prude, however, and no mere idealist. She must have been wife, mother and widow; that is, she must have known many things of joy and grief, and have had the fountains of life unsealed. However wise and good she may be as a spinster, she has only had half a life; and it is the best half that has been denied her. How can she tell others, when they come to her in their troubles, how time and a healthy existence will have wrought the same circumstances! Theoretic comfort is all very well, but one word of experience goes beyond volumes of counsel based upon general principles and a lively imagination. The very dress of old ladies is in itself a study and revelation of character.

There are the beautiful old women, who make themselves like old pictures by a profusion of soft lace and tender grays; and the stately old ladies, who affect rich, rustling silks and somber velvet, and there are the original and individual old ladies who dress themselves after their own kind, like Mrs. Basil Montagu and Miss Jane Porter, and have a cachet of their own, with which fashion has nothing to do. And there are the old women who wear rusty black stuff, and ugly, helmet-like caps; and those who affect uniformity and going with the stream when the fashion has become national; and these have been much exercised of late with chignons and the new bonnets.

But providence is liberal, and milliners are fertile in resources. In fact, in this as in all other sections of humanity, there are those who make the best of things as they are, and those who make the worst by treating them as something they are not; those who extract honey and those who find old poison. For in old age, as in youth, are to be found beauty, use, grace and value, but in different aspects, and on another platform altogether; and the folly is, when this difference is not allowed for, or when the possibility of these graces is denied, and their utility ignored.—Saturday Review.

HOUSEKEEPERS' DEPARTMENT.

TO CLEAN BLACK CLOTH.—Dissolve one ounce of bicarbonate of ammonia in one quart of warm water. With this liquid rub the cloth, using a piece of flannel or black cloth for the purpose. After the application of this solution clean the cloth well with clear water; dry and iron it, brushing the cloth from time to time in the direction of the fiber.

IN ORDER that they may retain their full flavor when cooked, vegetables should be immersed at once in boiling water. Cold water, if they are made to wait in) it till it reaches the boiling point, extracts the nutriment from them, and leaves them flavorless. When soup, or any dish of which the water is to form a part, is wanted, the reverse rule should be observed. The vegetables should be put into cold water, that the liquid may obtain its share of the flavor.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Maine Farmer urges the sowing of the seeds of forest trees for lumber and wood, and especially of the white pine. In reference to their rapid growth he says: "In the year 1856 I purchased an out-farm for a pasture. There were some twenty acres of wood upon it. Finding a few small pines among the hemlocks, from two to four inches in diameter, I pruned them as high as I could reach. Lately I found them grown into tall trees over a foot in diameter, with no signs of where the limbs were taken off, with green, smooth, thrifty bark."

RAW MEAT.—The use of raw meat is highly commended for invalids, and especially for children when suffering from summer complaint or diarrhea. The meat, well selected, is subjected to pounding and scraping, so as to get pure red muscular substance, free of fat and fiber. It must be reduced to a soft pulp, which gives no resistance to the feel when squeezed. Young children will readily suck this from a nurse's finger; for older children it may be dusted over with sugar. For older persons, who have some repugnance to overcome, it may be diffused in beef tea or in a thick meat jelly. There seems to be often some special advantage in this use of raw meat; it digests readily, and supplies nutrition in a very happy way when the stomach rejects other food.

THE GREAT TUNNEL.—At the completion of the Mont Cenis tunnel, the last thin partition of rock in the middle of the tunnel was reserved to be blasted at the formal celebration. But a small hole was made in it, and the workmen on both sides, who had for thirteen years and forty days been toiling their way toward each other, now for the first time saw each other's faces through it, shook hands, and, so far as of the same nationality, conversed together. When the mine was fired the lights went out for a distance of about one thousand yards around the spot. The first to climb over the fragments of rock was the Italian Commandant Grattoni. There was a general scramble from both sides, and cries of "Viva l'Italia."

DANTE GABRIEL ROSETTI has written many beautiful lines, but few, we think, more touchingly tender than the following on "The Nevermore:"

Look in my face; my name is Might-have-been;
I am also called No-more, Too-late, Farewell;
Unto thine ear I hold the dead sea-shell,
Cast up thy life's foam-fretted feet between;
Unto thine eyes the glass where that is seen
Which had life's form and love's; but by my spell
Is now a shaken shadow intolerable,
Of ultimate things unuttered the frail screen.

Mark me, how still I am! But should there dart
One moment through thy soul the soft surprise
Of that winged peace which lulls the breath of sighs
Then shalt thou see me smile, and turn apart
Thy visage to thine ambush at thy heart,
Sleepless with cold, commemorative eyes.

A LITTLE FELLOW, some four or five years old, and who had never seen a negro, was greatly perplexed one day when one came to where he and his father were. The youngster eyed the stranger suspiciously till he had passed and then asked his father: "Pa, who painted the man all black so?" "God, my son," replied the father. "Well," said the little one, still looking after the negro, "I shouldn't a thought he'd 'a held still."

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

GENERAL REVIVALS are reported in the United Brethren Church; but the conversions do not appear as numerous as they were last year.

THE number of Catholic members of the House of Commons is thirty-seven, only one of whom, Lord Robert Montagu, who last year joined the Church of Rome, sits for an English constituency.

SEVERAL Italian Jews of influence have formed a committee for the purpose of getting up a collection among all Jews of Italy in behalf of the boy Coen, who was recently released by order of the Italian government from the cell in which he was held and "educated" by his clerical kidnappers.

THE next Illinois State Sunday School Convention will introduce a new title on its programme. An hour will be called the "Omnibus." In that hour any member of the convention will be permitted to suggest any new method or device, provided he does not exceed five minutes in his remarks.

THE third annual report of the American Branch of the Evangelical Alliance is just published. It records the formation of fifteen auxiliary alliances during the year. The meeting of the General Conference, which was postponed on account of the war in Europe, has not yet been definitely agreed on.

THE sixth place of Protestant worship has been opened in Madrid. It is called "The Church of Jesus," and is located among a crowded population, who sadly need the elevating influences of the gospel; and yet a considerable portion of the expense is met by the subscriptions of the congregation.

THE Rev. Horace Bushnell, of Cincinnati, publishes an interesting report of his labors in the service of the Ladies' Missionary Society of that city, who have for twenty-eight years supported him in his work among the poor. He gives a list of useful Christian charities which have sprung up in that time.

MISS LOWE, of London, who has been distributing Bibles and tracts among the hospitals and the poor in France, reports the testimony of both French and English, who have been thrown out of employment by the war, that the distress of the poor is nothing like what is ordinarily witnessed in London in winter.

THE ancient persecution of Roman Catholicism by the Japanese authorities is said to be revived. The government is determined, if possible, to prevent a re-introduction of that church. Cases are given, amounting to several hundred, of barbarous treatment, met, for the most part, by heroic endurance.

IT IS contemplated by the Methodists of Boston to form an association embracing all the younger members of the church and congregation in the city and vicinity, something after the manner of the Young Men's Christian Association. A reading room and a library will be provided for it. Such an association is greatly needed.

ACCORDING to the statistics of the Roman Catholic communion in Great Britain, there are fifteen Roman Catholic bishops in England and Wales, and four in Scotland. The priests serving missions and acting as chaplains to religious communities are one thousand five hundred and fifty-one in England, and two hundred and seven in Scotland.

LAST SUMMER a Baptist minister in Greece, Rev. Demotrius Sakellarios, made an exploring tour through Thessaly and parts of Macedonia and Epirus to find desirable stations for missionary work. He fixed upon Yanina, the capital of Epirus, and Saramina, in Macedonia, his own native place. Here he was received with kindness, after an absence of twenty-two years, and held public meetings every day for six weeks.

THE discovery of what is called the Moabite Stone, by the agents of the Palestine Exploration Society, is regarded as an event of no little importance in the confirmation thus given to the Old Testament records. This is the only inscription which has yet been found reaching back to the age of Jewish monarchy. The discovery of this stone gives a reasonable hope that more of the same general character may be found, if the search can be continued.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL has recently been started in Leipsic—the first German Sunday school in the kingdom of Saxony; for, though Mr. Woodruff's efforts to introduce the American Sunday school system into Europe were very generally successful, Saxony seems to have been an exception. There were twenty-four children and six teachers to begin with, and Mr. Lehman, a young Lutheran clergyman, through whose influence the school was established, acts as superintendent.

MESSRS. LASKER AND KOSCH have introduced a bill in the legislature of North Germany, for the repeal of a law by which children born out of wedlock have, under all circumstances, to be brought up in the Christian confession, even if the mother belonged to another creed. The bill was unanimously passed, after the minister of justice acknowledged the necessity for its repeal. We rejoice at the success of this movement, as it was not only in support of the general rights of man, but also important for the Jewish confession.

THE Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions have elected for their secretary Rev. Dr. Ellinwood, who is a professor-elect in the Western Theological Seminary. The question of his acceptance is left with the directors of the seminary. The Evangelist says: "Of Dr. Ellinwood's abundant fitness for either post there is no question; but the claims of the vacant secretaryship are just now paramount to any other position in the gift of the church."

THE Baptist mission to the Karens of Burmah is forty years old, and one of the most successful of modern missions. It has a theological seminary, under Dr. Binney; but no college, nor even a proper high school, with books in their own language. A movement is now on foot to establish a Karen college, and subscriptions are invited for the purpose. The Karens are said to be good missionaries, and there are numerous mountain tribes in the north of Burmah to which they can be sent as soon as they are prepared for the work.

THE MORNING STAR.—This new missionary packet, says Zion's Herald, built in East Boston, of the children's offerings, is now completed, and has sailed for the Sandwich Islands. She is beautifully constructed, and admirably adapted to the missionary work. She has a beautiful organ, the gift of Messrs. Smith, of the American Organ Company. The Old Colony Mission School have presented her with a fine signal flag, and the Messrs. E. S. Ritchie & Sons, with a splendid compass. Let her go forth with the prayers of the church that she may be made a great blessing to the heathen world.

Two Christian Spaniards, who received the gospel in Madrid, have been providentially led to settle in Manilla, the capital of the Philippine Islands. They are now desirous to extend the knowledge of the Saviour in that distant colony. They are specially shocked at the corruptness of the priests, so far beyond what they had seen at home, and they look to the gospel as the only remedy. "The sympathies of one of them are stirred by the condition of the poor Indians, so docile, yet so trodden upon. Buying a grammar and dictionary, he has set himself to acquire their language, that he may translate the New Testament into it."

IN THE reign of Louis the Fourteenth Protestants were forbidden to exist in France, and all men were compelled to return to popery, under penalty of death or of being sent to the galleys. At the same time the people were forbidden to leave the kingdom. And three hundred thousand Protestant Christians made their escape, by all sorts of disguises and through all sorts of dangers. Since the overthrow of Bonaparte religious liberty is almost entire in France. Protestants may meet, worship, print, circulate tracts and Bibles, open places of meeting, teach and preach, without obstruction, and are as free as the priests. Thank God for that!

A RECENT ukase of the Russian government enacts that, with the beginning of the year 1875, no Jewish teacher (Melamed) is to be allowed to privately or publicly instruct pupils, if he cannot prove that he has either frequented and taken degrees at the government colleges of Wilna or Sitovir, or that he has passed seven years at one of the Russian gymnasiums, where the students receive a classic education, of course, in a Russian sense, preparatory to their entry into one of the Russian universities. It seems that the "professors" at the said government schools are mostly converted Jews. This simple fact will give our readers the key to the meaning of the ukase above alluded to.

THE Presbyterian shows by figures recently collated that the Roman Catholics in Philadelphia have no more than kept pace with the growth of the city since 1811. In that year the entire number of churches was forty-four, of which the Romanists claimed four, or one-eleventh. In 1871 there are four hundred and twenty-nine churches in the city, of which thirty-eight, or not quite one-eleventh, are Roman Catholic. On the other hand, the Episcopalians, who in 1811 had one-ninth, now have more than one-sixth; and the Presbyterians, who in 1811 had less than one-seventh, now have nearly one-fourth. Thus at least two Protestant denominations have outstripped Rome in their growth during the past sixty years.

THE sponge trade of Florida is becoming an important branch of industry.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, In Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CARONDELET STREET CHARGE.

Rev. William V. Tudor reports that about seventy persons have been converted during the past month, and fifty have united with the church. The night preaching during the week is suspended for the present, but the noonday prayer meeting is kept up with unabated interest. We believe it is the purpose to make this daily prayer meeting a permanent institution. We hope it will receive a hearty support from all. An hour spent in prayer is a help and refreshment rather than a hinderance to business.

ENCOURAGING.

LAYMEN AT WORK.

Our circulation has been increased over ninety in the past few weeks by the efforts of a few brethren and sisters connected with the Carondelet Street church in this city. A few weeks ago the pastor, Rev. W. V. Tudor, publicly presented the claims of the ADVOCATE on Sabbath morning at eleven o'clock, urging the importance of extensively circulating it among the people, since which time a much greater interest has been manifested. The pastor of Felicity Street church, Rev. John Mathews, has lately presented, in like manner, the claims of the paper to his congregation, and they are entering the field. The other pastors in the city will do the same, and we will find, we trust, that what has been done thus far is but the beginning. One layman from the country sends us five subscribers. He says four of them are Catholics, but they like the news summary and commercial information of the ADVOCATE. They are intelligent and liberal-minded gentlemen. Will the pastors and laymen help us?

MISSIONARY DEBT.

We acknowledge the following amounts received the present week in payment of subscriptions for liquidating the missionary debt, viz: Mrs. T. B. White, Moreau street, New Orleans, $25; Rev. M. C. Manley, Mansfield, Louisiana, $25; Rev. A. E. Goodwyn, Opelousas, Louisiana, $25.

ROBT. J. HARP.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the New Orleans District Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church South will be celebrated in Carondelet Street church on Sunday, April 30, at four o'clock P. M.

W. H. FOSTER, Pres.

REVIVAL IN BOWLING GREEN, KENTUCKY.—Rev. J. W. Shelton, writing to the Western Methodist, April 3, says:

I began a meeting here on the twelfth of January, which has continued with increased interest, and is still going on. The entire membership, with few exceptions, have been wonderfully blessed. I have received eighty members, and seventy-four have been happily and powerfully converted. It is an extraordinary work.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.—We notified our readers last week that there would be an advertisement of the new edition of Cruden. We refer them, again to the card of Dodd & Mead, in our advertising columns.

WE DIRECT ATTENTION to the card of E. & H. T. Anthony & Co., of New York, and recommend purchasers visiting that city to call and examine their stock.

THE GOSPEL OF SPRING.

The language of the season, when devoutly interpreted, is full of profitable lessons. All nature is now reviving from its temporary death and starting into new life. The vegetable kingdom is awaking from its winter's slumber, and entering upon a period of renewed activity. The mighty forces that have for a time been held in torpid silence begin to assert their power, and the hidden life is bursting forth into manifold forms of melody and beauty. The foliage of the trees and the music of the birds, the fragrance of the flowers and the hum of insects are the heralds of the refulgent summer. "Awake, thou that sleepest" is the message of spring to the soul. The season not only calls the husbandman to fresh and vigorous activity, but it reminds us of our spiritual vocation to higher experiences in the kingdom of God. While it is a type of the better resurrection which awaits the body after the winter of the grave, it is also an illustration of those blessed renewals of the Spirit which come to all that patiently wait upon the Lord. The universal awakening in nature finds its archetype in the revival of grace in the heart, and in the times of refreshing which visit the churches.

The spring, with its ever surprising and wondrous phenomena, is one of the grandest apologies that can be applied to spiritual things, and especially as it exhibits this aspect of a renewed and more vigorous life. Its voice to the slumbering Christian comes up from the forest and the fields, and from the buds and blossoms of the orchard and the garden. Its notes of promise and encouragement sound from the groves and hills and overflowing streams. Zion is admonished, by the attire of verdure and bloom with which the earth is invested, to awake and to put on her beautiful garments, while the believer is to put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and to be clothed with salvation. To many the recent past has been a time of guilty repose, a bleak and cheerless waste without warmth or gladness; but there is a renewing power to bring back the times of joy and singing. The sinner has been dead long enough. The gospel of spring to him is to warn and to invite. He must feel the power of a spiritual resurrection and experience, the creative omnipotence, which quickens the death of winter into vernal sweetness and exuberant life. The change from nature to grace is as marked and extraordinary as that which indicates the transition from the gloom of December to the brightness of May. The unconverted and careless soul may thus hear the voice of awakening and promise. This activity and irrepressible energy in the lower forms of life, and this reanimation of dead things in the earth, the waters and the air, should be as a sound from heaven arousing the unbelieving heart to earnest concern for salvation. A winter without a spring is simply death everlasting, and a soul unawakened and unrenewed necessarily sinks into the blackness of darkness forever. The gospel of the written word and the gospel of the season are in harmony. Their common message to saint and sinner is one of a reviving and an awakening realization of our religious privileges and responsibilities.

And what more strikingly illustrates the change in conversion than the contrasts between winter and spring? Spring is the world regenerated, and is as the babe in Christ, embracing the possibilities of the coming seasons, and having substantially in itself the germs of all glory and of all perfection. Nothing in nature is so like a birth from above as the transformations which take place in this period of boundless and startling changes. If any man be in Christ he is a new creation after some such manner as the material world is when it feels the renovating and vital breath of spring. The old things of a state of unbelief have passed away, when the sinner is delivered from the power of darkness, very much as the last vestiges of wintry desolation have retreated before the sunshine. The light and warmth, which have given health and life to vegetation, are symbols of the Sun of Righteousness, whose healing wings bring peace and comfort to the contrite spirit. As we look upon the earth and sky, clothed and garnished in the radiance of the cloudless morning, and exclaim, Behold, all things are become new! so is it when the mourner in Zion enters into the marvelous light of God, and feels the love of God shed abroad in his heart by the Holy Ghost. Like the transition in the seasons, conversion is life from the dead, the passing from death unto life, and a translation from the power of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son. The gospel of spring is not only a call to awake out of sleep, but it is also to arise from the dead and to become the children of light. It coincides with the central and overmastering necessity of our nature: "Ye must be born again." The voice that wakes up and revivifies the world of nature must be heard in the depths of the soul, and the dead spirit must be raised and changed.

It will be well if the season of blossoms and melody is allowed to impress us with the character of true religion. The garment of praise is given for the spirit of heaviness. All living nature, animate and inanimate, accords with the prophetic evangel which promises "beauty for ashes, and the oil of joy for mourning." The visible and material mirror those images of the inspired pen which stamp a present blessedness upon the religious experience. Religion is clad in singing robes, such as the spring wears in her exhaustless wealth of radiance and harmonies. It is an epipthalamium and not a dirge. God clothes the world in forms of grace and in the richest colors, and decks the hill sides and gems the meadows with flowers of the gayest and most brilliant tints. He has made everything beautiful in its time, and thrown over all his creatures the spell of a jubilant and tuneful inspiration. Christ in the heart is a feast of delight, a spring breaking forth in the desert, and a garden in the wilderness. His is not a religion of cowls and sackcloth and cloisters, but a praise and a joy forever.

This inspiring season reminds us that the present is the period of preparation and of seed time. Grace is glory in the bud, and the earnest of the heavenly inheritance. Now the sower goes forth to sow, and an all-gracious Providence is watching over every form of embryonic life. "Thou makest the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice. Thou visitest the earth and waterest it; thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water." Under the genial influences of the divine mercy we labor in anticipation of a golden harvest. The germs of life are springing and the buds are unfolding—prophetic of the final result. The beginnings of an endless life are in the still and unseen processes which are going forward in the heart. The believer is in all things working for eternity—he is working together with God, improving the season and making the most of its sun and showers. Wonderful and satisfying as are the present experiences, there is in them this character of preparation, and this looking to something beyond, of which they are but the promise. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be," but the believing heart rejoices in the conscious foretaste of a measureless good.

We do no violence to the analogies of the natural and the supernatural when we assert that the gospel of spring embraces the resurrection of the just. Not that other resurrection which is to shame and everlasting contempt, but that which is to everlasting life. The sleep of the grave is at length to give place to the last and crowning miracle of our faith. As yet, "since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation," even as in mid-winter, when nature gives no sign of her approaching life. But we know that the sun, in his appointed time, will retrace his path of fire, and that this apparent death shall yield to life. The generations are waiting for this manifestation of the sons of God, and all the plans and purposes of the Redeemer are moving toward this stupendous consummation. The season of returning life and joy joins its voice to that of a more sure word of prophecy: "Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust; for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead."

KILLING THE BISHOPS.

Dr. Bond, in the Baltimore Christian Advocate, writing of the recent session of the Baltimore Conference, puts in a good paragraph for our over-taxed superintendents:

Bishop Pierce presided over the Conference. We were sorry to see him so worn by toil and care, and we know he had plenty of both during this session. We regret exceedingly that we did not make more bishops at the last General Conference. Bishop Wightman urged us strongly to do so, but we added only one, and added too onerous duties to the office, which cannot be performed. We cannot afford to kill our present Bishops. A good Methodist Bishop is born, not made. The weakness of our system is in its necessity for peculiar men, for ordinary men cannot work it. It was founded upon the extraordinary personality of Wesley in England and Asbury in America. With Wesleys and Asburys its machinery is as nearly as possible perfect, but such men are not always to be had. Our class meetings broke down for want of proper class leaders, and our episcopacy is continually in danger of fatal collapse for want of proper Bishops. We flatter none, but speak only a well known truth when we say that the Bishops we now have are men whose lives are precious to the church. Their loss, when it comes, will leave vacancies like those made by the falling of great trees in the forest. We ought to keep them alive as long as we can; but we are killing them with exhaustive efforts to do impossible work. We ought to have twice as many as we have; and if our present system does not make room for them, room ought to be made in some modification of it. We are not able to suggest what the modification should be; but he who shall show how our itinerant episcopacy can be preserved and the pastoral duties of the Bishops performed; how the appointments shall be made by the Bishop himself from personal knowledge of the wants of the people, and how the people shall be brought into personal communication with the Bishop, will have solved the greatest problem in our economy.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

The following communication from Bro. Jones informs us of the death of Rev. J. I. E. Byrd. We have met many persons in the South who attributed their conversion to the labors of this powerful and successful preacher. We hope to be furnished with a suitable biographical sketch by some one acquainted with Bro. Byrd's character and history.

BLACK HAWK, MISS., April 7, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: We have just returned from burying our old and beloved father in Israel. Rev. J. I. E. Byrd is no more. He departed this life on the sixth instant, at the residence of his son, in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi. Bro. Byrd was one of the oldest preachers in our church. He was a member of the Mississippi Conference for a long time, being one of the first preachers in its bounds. However, at the last General Conference he was cut off in the North Mississippi Conference, by the division line. It is not now our purpose to give a detailed account of his life, but leave that to others, who will in due time furnish the church with a history of this good and great man. His corpse was conveyed to the Methodist church in this place, where suitable services were had, conducted by Rev. William P. Barton and others; after which he was deposited in his last resting place. His end was in great peace.

Your brother, K. A. JONES.

MISSIONARY DRAFTS.

The missionary drafts falling due on the first of April and on the first of July will be paid by Rev. R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Those maturing on the first of October can be paid out of the collections of the present year, and returned to me at Conference as so much missionary money.

A. E. GOODWYN,
Treas. La. Conf. Miss. Society.

APRIL 1, 1871.

CALL TO THE MINISTRY.

MR. EDITOR: Your remarks of the thirtieth ultimo, on "Ministerial Supply," put me to thinking about a young friend who, I believe, is called to preach. He refuses to do so, because he does not feel "Woe is me if I preach not." The reasons of my opinion are these:

1. He is ambitious of neither wealth nor fame; says there is something better than these.

2. He has never been able to form any life-plan of work yet.

3. He has an excellent mind, well improved, well stored, and with it elevated sentiments, pure taste and a remarkable power of adapting himself to circumstances and character.

4. Though a religious man, and active in the church, he is not happy—something is lacking.

5. His father, who was a man of God and an humble minister of Jesus, thought he ought to preach; and the family, all of whom are pious, believe the same thing; so, likewise, do his most spiritual-minded acquaintances and friends.

Now do not these facts constitute a call, without that feeling of woe? The hindrances to success—avarice, ambition, ignorance, offensive habits and idiosyncrasies—are all removed by nature and education. And he has all the natural prerequisites of success—piety, sound sense, sympathy, fluent speech. His best friends and nearest kindred believe the ministry is his life-work, and are anxious to see him enter into it, though they know perfectly all its privations and hardships.

In such a case should not the church call him—thrust him out? Was not this the former practice of Methodism? Does not the concurrent belief of a number of pious hearts, each arriving at its conclusion independently and in ignorance of what is going on in the others, indicate conclusively the mind of the Holy Ghost? Does not the Holy Ghost call through the church in this way? Is not the voice of the church the voice of God in such cases? I believe so, and have urged this young man not to wait for the tremendous moving of "Woe is me if I preach not." Indeed, I believe the woe is already on him, if under these circumstances, being pious, he is not happy.

Respectfully,

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—We are glad to receive suggestions and communications on this important subject. In reference to the case mentioned by our correspondent, we think the probabilities are strong that the young man is called. The circumstances ought to have a powerful influence in helping him to the conclusion, and in relieving him of doubt on the subject. Still, "let every man be persuaded in his own mind."

DEATH OF REV. A. J. SEE.

This beloved and useful minister died at Sardis, Mississippi, April 1, of pneumonia. His end was eminently peaceful and triumphant. The Western Methodist thus speaks of his death:

It is with profound sorrow we announce the death of the Rev. A. J. See, of the North Mississippi Conference. We are called to mourn the departure of a dearly beloved and highly esteemed minister; an eloquent, zealous, useful preacher; an earnest, faithful pastor; an humble, holy Christian; a friend, a son, a brother, a husband, a father, of the best type; a man of exalted character and unblemished reputation in every relation of life. The loss of one so highly gifted and so lovely, to whom we were tenderly attached as a dear friend, we feel as a great personal bereavement—so it is and will be felt in many a circle beyond his own family.

Andrew J. See was born December 6, 1832. He was converted to God and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at the age of fifteen or sixteen, and was licensed to preach the gospel in 1854, in the fall of which year he was admitted on trial in the Memphis Conference. He received and filled the following appointments, viz: Fulton circuit, 1854-5; Pontotoc circuit, 1855-6; Pontotoc station, 1856-7; Trenton station, 1857-8; Jackson circuit, 1858-9, 1859-60; Holly Springs station, 1860-1, 1861-2; Pontotoc circuit and colored mission, 1862-3; Aberdeen station, 1863-4, 1864-5; Sardis, 1865-6, 1866-7, 1867-8, 1868-9; Hernando district, 1869-70; Sardis and Shiloh, 1870-1. Here his labors ended—his glorious reward began, and will end never more. He was happily married to Miss Leona J. Camp, of Pontotoc county, Mississippi, November 25, 1858. One dear child preceded him to heaven, and five little daughters, with his wife, survive to mourn his departure, but in hope of reunion.

A Generous Gift by Daniel

MR. EDITOR: The subjoi amble and resolutions were to be published in the A and they speak for themsel I wish to furnish an item o addition to the above. The and property appertaining calling forth the above r and resolutions, cost origin ward of $20,000, consistin audience room sixty by beautifully frescoed and finished in every particular; school room thirty by seven hut neat and tastefully together with two large sto on the first floor, with oth shops, counting rooms, o the like, amounting in all thirteen rooms. These are for rent, and at reasona they ought to bring at le or $1,200 annually. This has all been turned over to for the use and benefit of odist Episcopal Church Prattville. The object of erous donor in all this is an arrangement by which ville church shall be kept first-class station through to come. The membership ville, though large, is strong financially, and th has prevailed here for ye up, at every quarterly me last cent due the preache ing elder and all—the raising what they can, and is lacking Daniel Pratt and invariably pays dow last cent, sometimes advanc and $400 at a time. N rents are to take the plac prince of benefactors when in his grave. Let me sa clusion, that our worthy though in the midst of i firmities and burdened w (being in his seventy-thir still lingers among us, and to the church a beautiful of a green and flourishin He is winding up his la rather turning it over i hands, and preparing for distant journey upon which all soon enter. And how m it was to hear him in the last Sabbath, testify with th emotion: "Brethren, I tha can say I feel to-day that I the wedding garment, a heavenly Father should hence I should hear him s done, good and faithful Amen; and let all his be say (and their name is Amen. A. H. M

WHEREAS, Our worthy Daniel Pratt, has generous to the Methodist Episcopal South, at Prattville, a l valuable lot, in the town ville, embracing thereon large stores and offices, odist Episcopal Church school room and other ro nected therewith; AN Said property is of great the rents of which will contribute to the support perity of the church at th therefore, be it

Resolved, That, as repre of our church, we hereb our sincere and heartfelt to our beloved and gener for his great liberality, and nificent donation which h timely bestowed upon us.

Resolved, That we re precious gift as a high te of the charity and liberal esteemed and valued bro of his deep devotion to the Christ, and of his anxious for the existence and well our church at this place main support and pillar been through all its long

Resolved, That while we cherish a grateful recolle the memory and liberality useful and venerable bro will struggle to denote our preciation of this extra donation by an untiring tinued effort, with God's promote the peace, prosp success of our church and stitutions; and to this be we will labor faithfully, assiduously and hopefully.

Resolved, That a copy resolutions be spread upon utes of this quarterly c and that a copy of the sam to the NEW ORLEANS CHRIS VOCATE for publication; als copy be furnished to Bro.

S. MIMS,
GEORGE L. SM
C. S. G. D
Com

A. H. MITCHELL, P. P.
S. P. SMITH, Secretary.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

HAND BOOK OF BIBLE GEOGRAPHY. Containing the name, pronunciation and meaning of every place, nation and tribe mentioned in both the canonical and apocryphal Scriptures, with descriptive and historical notes. By Rev. George H. Whitney, A. M. New York: Carlton & Lanahan. San Francisco: E Thomas. Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Waldon, 1871.

This work of four hundred pages is strictly geographical, and contains everything in this department which is to be found in the larger and more expensive Bible dictionaries and cyclopedias. It is illustrated by numerous plans, engravings and maps, and embraces the results of the most recent discoveries. The author has gathered his materials from nearly all the works and authorities extant which could in any way contribute to our knowledge of the nations, countries and places mentioned in the Scriptures. It will prove a most desirable work of reference to ministers of the gospel, to Sunday school teachers, and to all who seek to obtain an accurate knowledge of the word of God. We are indebted to the publishers for a copy of this valuable work.

THE CONVERSION OF ST. PAUL. Three discourses by George Jarvis Geer, D. D., rector of St. Timothy's church, New York. New York: Samuel R. Wells, 1871.

This is a 12mo of eighty-two pages, beautifully bound, and printed on cream-tinted paper. The author treats of the conversion of Paul—first, in its relation to unbelief; second, in its false uses and true; and third, in its relation to the church. The first two points are discussed with clearness and ability, and usefully. The third discourse, on the relation of Paul's conversion to the church, is open to serious objections as leaning strongly to the high church views of the sacraments and prelacy as the necessary channels of divine grace.

WE HAVE received the Minutes of the Local Ministers' Association of North Carolina, held at Durham, North Carolina, August, 1870. So far as we know, this is the pioneer association in the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church. We like the title Local Preachers' Association better. We hail with sincere pleasure and satisfaction every movement which looks to the improvement and greater usefulness of our local ministry.

THE SOUTHERN FARM AND HOME is published by J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, Georgia, and is edited by W. M. Browne. The April number has a beautiful double page frontispiece, a portrait of fowls. The table of contents displays a remarkable variety of useful articles adapted to every department of domestic life. The Farm and Home devotes considerable space to science and literature, and is a valuable family journal.

OLD AND NEW.—As much as we dislike the political and theological character of this Boston periodical, it always receives from us a hearty welcome and a careful perusal. The number for April has articles on The True Ritual; Reminiscences of Brook, Farm, Church and State in America. The pages devoted to the Examiner, Fine Arts and Record of Progress display characteristic vigor and discrimination.

THE NEW YORK TEACHER AND AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL MONTHLY, published by J. W. Schermerhorn & Co., New York. The April number contains drawings of the most desirable styles of desks and chairs for schools and for the study, besides the usual amount of instructive reading matter.

IN THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for April we have read with special interest the article on Count Rumford. The article, No. 4, on Our Eyes and How to Use Them, treats of the diseases of the eye and their remedies. Besides these there are several articles of interest.

WE HAVE received the Mannfacturer and Builder for April. No previous number has equaled this in the splendor of its drawings. The best periodical in its line that we know anything about. Western & Co., publishers, 37 Park Row, N. Y.

AMONG the leading illustrated weeklies, Every Saturday, Hearth and Home and Appletons' Journal stand pre-eminent. The numbers of April 1 are conspicuous for the splendor and finish of their engravings.

BURKE'S MAGAZINE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS is handsomely illustrated and contains a good bill of fare for its many young readers. Published by J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, Georgia.

Correction.—Minutes of the Mississippi Conference.

MR. EDITOR: The claim of the presiding elder on the Clinton district was $600; receipts, $419.10; but it has got into the minutes thus: Salary of presiding elder, $300; receipts, $140. I do not correct on my own account, but wish to give honor to whom honor is due.

Yours, etc., J. NICHOLSON.

Obituary.

Departed this transitory life, in Clayton, Baldwin county, Alabama, Mrs. ELIZABETH F. GLENN, the affectionate and devoted wife of our dearly beloved brother, Rev. J. W. Glenn, of the Alabama Conference. She was born near Greenville, in Butler county, December 12, 1845; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South as a seeker of religion in 1856; was happily converted in secret prayer at home in 1862; was married on the sixteenth of October, 1866; was attacked with dropsy on the sixteenth of October, 1870, and died on the morning of the tenth of March, 1871, in the twenty-sixth year of her age.

To the writer of this feeble sketch of departed worth this is truly a most melancholy announcement. It will be so to many hundreds more. My feelings are those of the deepest sadness in losing so pious and precious a sister, in parting with such a pure, faithful and devoted friend. Not many such, I fear, are left me in this gloomy vale of tears.

The deceased was of a singularly mild, peaceful and affectionate disposition, and these endearing qualities of heart and life caused her to be highly respected, esteemed and beloved by all who knew her. In every relation of life, so open and undisguised were all her actions that there are no difficulties to be encountered, no doubts to clear away. With equal truth it may be said, so obviously and continually was the purity of her motives reflected in her private as well as public life, that candor does not impose upon the writer the task of seeking by apology or extenuation to give a false coloring to a single particular in her short but luminous Christian career.

As a wife—the wife of a faithful, laborious itinerant minister of the gospel—she was all that the most devoted affection could make her, her calm and conciliatory address being calculated to awaken all the finer feelings of the human heart. Loving her husband very dearly, delighting greatly in his companionship, and never so happy as when he was with her, yet she heartily cheered and encouraged him in his work and labor of love; and though following him often with tear-dimmed eyes as he left the cherished home circle to go out and preach Jesus and him crucified, she still could earnestly say:

"Yes, go! for though thy presence
Around my dwelling throws
That all of light and gladness
Which pure affection knows,
I will not bid thee linger
When Zion loudly calls
The presence of her watchman
Upon her sacred walls.

'Tis true that I am lonely
By many cares oppress,
The busy world a stranger
To this poor, anxious breast!
Yet go! thy God is with thee,
I feel his guardian care;
His hand of love is present
To dry the falling tear."

Thus was she indeed an helpmate to him in his holy ministry of truth, always praying most earnestly for his success in calling sinners to repentance, and cheerfully giving him all the aid and encouragement in her power.

As a mother she was one of the most tender and affectionate, loving her children most devotedly, and willingly doing all she could for their temporal, spiritual and eternal well-being. Her deep and ardent devotion to them, however, did not ruffle her composure nor cause any undue anxiety of mind when sickness laid her on the bed of suffering and death was fast approaching. Having given both of them back to God, when but eight days old, in the holy ordinance of baptism, she reconsecrated them to him during her sickness—felt assured that they would be cared for—that the Father in heaven would provide for them in all things. Her firm faith in God, and confident assurance that he would fulfill all the promises of his love to her and her dear ones, never wavered for a moment.

As daughter and sister and relative and friend she was not only above the shadow of reproach, but was a model of purity, propriety and loveliness, well worthy of the admiration and emulation of all who can appreciate what is lovely and of good report.

From the time she was taken sick up to within two weeks of her decease she was a very great sufferer; so intense, indeed, were her sufferings that she was not only willing, but even anxious to die, that she might thus escape from the agony of pain she was enduring. But what is most remarkable in her case is the fact that when she became fully resigned, and altogether willing to suffer all that her heavenly Father might be pleased to lay upon her, the pains subsided and never returned upon her any more. Thus did he give his beloved sleep, and made her couch of suffering like one of downy ease; for during the last two weeks of her life she was in perfect repose, entirely free from all pain! She was fully conscious of her condition, but perfectly calm and tranquil, and gave minute directions about her burial with as much calmness as if preparing to go upon a short journey homeward. "A short time before she died," writes her beloved husband, "I asked her if there was any doubt or fear on her mind. Her reply was: 'None whatever! I am as confident of heaven as I am of my own existence.' With such an assurance as that, we were not surprised that she should die without a groan or struggle. So quiet and peaceful was her departure that some doubted whether she were indeed dead." But the silent tongue was unmoved, the bright eye became dim, the weary head reclined upon a pillow of death, the limbs became rigid, and the immortal spirit took its flight to "a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

Farewell, dear sister Lizzie, till we all meet on the other side of Jordan, where God himself "shall wipe away all tears from our eyes, and the inhabitants shall no more say: I am sick!" May the Lord bless and comfort our sorely bereaved and deeply afflicted dear Bro. Glenn, in this dark hour of his gloomiest sadness! And may the great Shepherd of Israel continue to watch over the dear little lambs our gentle-hearted sister has left behind, until parents and children meet to part no more forever. Amen.

"Oh! earth was no place for her spirit to dwell,
She longed for a brighter abode,
Where the anthems of heaven in symphony swell,
And she might converse with her God.

She is there, and now basks in the fullness of love,
Or walks through the fields of the blest,
Where the river of God meanders the grove,
And the spirits of saints are at rest.

Then dried be the tear that would fall on her tomb,
And hushed be the sigh of the heart;
She has hastened away to her permanent home,
To meet us where death cannot part.

We shall see her again when the heaven's no more,
And the sleepers of death shall arise;
Then her slumbering dust shall be raised up in power,
To join us again in the skies."

"Blessing, and honor, and glory, and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, forever and ever."—Rev. v, 13.

F. L. B. SHAVER.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending April 10, 1871.

A—J D Adams, C G Andrews $2.90.

B—W C Black, J Lane Borden $25, H B Bostwick, Hardie Brown, Henry Bainbridge, A J Briggs, Mrs M H Bell $3, J M Browne, John C Burrow $1, Bigelow & Main, R Babbington $11, W E Ballard $2.85, J H Boult $6.

C—J J Clark, J F Cooke, W G Connor, W J Carlton, N A Cravens, J D Cameron $2.85.

D—E Duchamp & Son, J L Davis, R B Downer, A S Douglass $17.30, P H Dieffenwierth $6.

E—D G W Ellis, J F Evans, J V Enochs $5, Chas F Evans.

F—J F Finlay.

G—A E Goodwyn $32, J J Grace $10, J Gorton 2 lots, G R Godfrey, O C Grambling $2.50, G H Griffin, J Guion $7, Griffin & Hoffman, Jas A Godfrey, W W Graham $2.90.

H—E A C Herlong, H A Henderson, R H Harris, W C Haisllp $40, E J Hale & Son, T J Huston 2 lots $23.50, Thos H Hall, C Hoover & Co, Edward Hill $12, W C Huntington, Henry Heath, J H Holland, Hall & Turner.

I—Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co, R S Isbell.

J—H F Johnson $119.53, I G John.

K—B J Kittrell, Mrs Kent, M J Kent, G A Kelly $75, John Klein.

L—W B Lewis, N R Lovelace, H P Lewis.

M—M C Manly $25, John P Morton & Co, Jethro Moore, W G Millsaps $15.50, J W Martin, J Marshall, J H Mims, G W McGinnis.

P—R Parvin 2 lots $10.10, Pettengill & Co, John Pipes $4.85.

R—J J Roach $15, Rowell & Co, Fisher T Rawson, Robert Randle.

S—W J Soale $5.60, Geo S Schofield, J B Streater $18, H B Smith 75 cts, F W Sharbrough $10, L J Smith, W B Shumaker, S S Scott $3, W D Stayton $10, C S Stewart $1.50.

T—H M Truehart.

U—H Urquhart.

V—W G Veal.

W—E Woodruff, J B Walker, A C Wilkinson, J W West.

Y—N B Young.

Z—Georgo G Zener.

For Coughs, Bronchitis, and Consumption in its early stages, nothing equals Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. It is also a great blood purifier and strength restorer or tonic, and for "Liver Complaint" and costive conditions of the bowels it has no equal. Sold by druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE DEATH-BED OF GEN. LEE.—14x18 Inch Engraving. Mailed free on receipt of 20 cts. Send for a copy. Agents wanted. Address J. C. BURROW, Bristol, Tenn. ap13 tf

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours, without drugs. Particulars, ten cts. ap6 3m F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

J. H. MUSE AND
G. F. F. THOMPSON,
Attorneys and Counselors at Law,
NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,
fe15 1y NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CHARM!
A NEW
Sunday School Singing Book,
BY P. P. BLISS.
(ISSUED APRIL FIFTEENTH.)

THIS BOOK is not intended to supersede the "PRIZE," which is selling so rapidly that the publishers are now printing it in editions of twenty thousand each, but is issued in deference to the wishes of thousands who have been charmed by Mr. Bliss' contributions to that standard work, and who demand more from the same gifted pen.

We do not hesitate to say that for these friends a great surprise is in store. Much as they may expect, they will be astonished at the wonderful versatility and power of this man, as shown in the words and music of "THE CHARM." We have seen the proof sheets of his pieces, as they have come from the printer, and with every new burst of thrilling poetry or fascinating melody have wondered where they could all come from. There is but one solution—his heart burns with love for his work. Being Superintendent of one of the finest Sunday schools in the country, that of the First Congregational Church of Chicago; being the helper and friend of Messrs. Moody, Jacobs, Whittle, Stearns and other leading Sunday school workers, he not only knows what is wanted, but is inspired with their enthusiasm. Pp. 160.

THE CHARM
WILL CERTAINLY BE
The Great Sunday School Singing Book OF THE SEASON.

As above announced, "THE CHARM" will be ready April 15. Price, in boards, thirty-five cents, or $30 a hundred.
ap13 4tr ROOT & CADY, Chicago, Ill.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE, in its unabridged and complete state, is invaluable to the biblical student, and the abridgments which have been made of it furnish no idea of the thoroughness and fullness of the original and complete work.—Rev. Thomas De Witt, D. D.

A NEW EDITION,
AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.
Cruden's Complete Concordance.
A Dictionary and Alphabetical Index to the Bible.
BY ALEX. CRUDEN, A. M.
THE UNABRIDGED EDITION.
Nearly 900 pages Royal 8vo.
Price, in cloth, reduced from $4.00 to $2.75.
Price, in sheep, do. 5.00 to 3.50.
Price, in ½ morocco, do. 6.50 to 4.50.

In issuing a new edition of Cruden's great work the Publishers have determined to bring it within the reach of all, including any who have been induced by difference in price to purchase either of the numerous abridgments of the complete work. Though now one of the very cheapest books published, it is not poorly made, but is well printed on fine paper and neatly and substantially bound.
ap13 1t DODD & MEAD, Pub'rs, N. Y.

STEREOSCOPES,
VIEWS,
ALBUMS, CHROMOS,
FRAMES.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,
Invite the attention of the trade to their extensive assortment of the above goods, of their own publication, manufacture and importation. Also,
PHOTO LANTERN SLIDES
AND GRAPHOSCOPES.
NEW VIEWS OF YOSEMITE.
E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 Broadway, New York,
Opposite Metropolitan Hotel,
IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF Photographic Materials.
ap13 1m

DIRECT IMPORTATION
OF
EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,
NO. 155 CANAL STREET
AND
NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,
New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of Fancy & Staple European Goods,
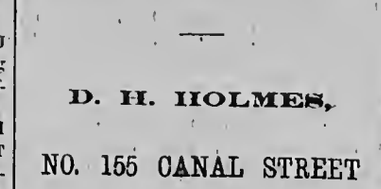
With a Complete Stock of
DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES,
All which they offer at
Most Advantageous Prices.
fe11 6m

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL
AND ITS



CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.
Nearly Doubles Crops.
GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.
FACTORY DEPOT:
E. H. MURFEE,
41 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
N B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.
Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. dec 5m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW LOAN OF THE UNITED STATES

IMPORTANT CIRCULAR.

Subscriptions Now Open---Certificates Ready.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, Feb. 28, 1871.

Public notice is hereby given that books will be opened on the SIXTH day of March next, in this country and in Europe, for subscriptions to the National Loan, under the act approved July 14, 1870, entitled "An Act to Authorize the Refunding of the National Debt," and the act in amendment thereof, approved January 20, 1871.

The proposed loan comprises three classes of bonds, namely:

First. Bonds to the amount of five hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Second. Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four and a half per cent. per annum.

Third. Bonds to the amount of seven hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

Subscriptions to the loan will have preference in the following order, namely:

First. Subscriptions that may be first made for five per cent. bonds to the amount of two hundred millions of dollars; of which there will be reserved, for twenty days, one-half for subscribers in this country and one-half for subscribers in foreign countries.

Second. Subscriptions for equal amounts of each class of bonds.

Third. Subscriptions for equal amounts of bonds bearing interest at the rate of four and a half per cent., and of bonds bearing interest at the rate of five per cent.

Fourth. Subscriptions for any five per cent. bonds that may not be subscribed for in the preceding classes.

When a subscription is made the subscriber will be required to deposit two per cent. of the amount thereof in coin or currency of the United States, or in bonds of the class to be exchanged, to be accounted for by the Government when the new bonds are delivered; and payment may be made either in coin or in bonds of the United States known as FIVE-TWENTY BONDS, at their par value.

The coin received in payment will be applied to the redemption of five-twenty bonds, and the debt of the United States will not be increased by this loan.

The bonds will be registered or issued with coupons, as may be desired by subscribers. Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000; and coupon bonds of each denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States, at the office of the Treasurer, and Assistant Treasurer, or Designated Depository of the Government, quarterly, on the first days in February, May, August and November of each year.

The bonds of the several classes aforesaid, and the interest thereon, are exempt from the payment of all taxes or dues of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

After maturity the bonds last issued will be first redeemed, by classes and numbers, as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds will be issued at the United States Treasury, but the agents for the negotiation of the loan in Europe are authorized to make arrangements with subscribers for the transmission of the bonds to the agents through whom subscriptions may be received.

Subscribers in the United States will receive the new bonds of the agents with whom the subscriptions are made.

In the United States the National Banks are authorized to receive subscriptions, and subscriptions may also be made at the office of the Treasurer of the United States, or of any Assistant Treasurer, or the Designated Depositories at Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Louisville, Ky; Mobile, Ala.; and Pittsburg, Penn.

P. S.—This Department and its own Loan Agents are now ready to receive the United States Five-Twenty Bonds and to pay the gold interest thereon to May 1, from which date the new bonds will bear interest. A scrip certificate, calling for the bonds on the first of May, will be issued at once in exchange for the old bonds.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL,
ap6 3tr Secretary of Treasury.

NEW IMPROVED SYSTEM
OF TANNING LEATHER,
CALLED
The Dripping Process.

MAKES LEATHER in less than half the time of the old water-sobbed system, and weighs ten to fifteen per cent. more, and if instructions are followed out to the letter the leather is bright and handsome.

Hides not required to be broken, as the compound puts them in a fine, velvet-like state to receive the liquor. No bloom can attach itself to the surface. Black and Red Oak Tanners, this will be of value to you. There is more than twenty-five per cent. of manual labor saved by working on this plan. The leather elevator is used for lime, and handling leather when it goes in tan. The bark stands in a strainer on low truck wheels, until the compound acid liquor compels it to give up its strength. No process ever tried can excel this. It is all done in a short time. When your bark is spent, put a horse to a streamer and haul it to the stock lot to make manure. The elevator will handle lime, and handles in one-tenth the time of the old plan. Full instructions given, from pool to dry house, in writing, to any one wishing to obtain a knowledge of tanning.

Models of the bark strainer and elevator can be seen at Mr. Skiway's, Leather Merchant, Jackson, Mississippi.

Apply to G. D. SIDWAY, or to
SAMUEL WILDBLOOD,
Jackson, Miss.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that I have been foreman of some of the largest Tanneries in the State of Georgia, and have tried all the compounds and ingredients of any note. I have contested the field with the inventor of the above process, but he works it to the letter; so therefore I hand him the palm of victory. I think it an honor to sign my name to a certificate that will bear news to the poor laborer that the hard work in Tanneries is set aside by the DRIPPING PROCESS, and better stock produced in one-half the time; in short, it fills a want long desired.

PETER F. RAUAN,
Late of Americus, Georgia,
ap6 1m Now of Rankin Co., Miss.

Advertise! Advertise! Advertise!

SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE!

THE MOREHOUSE CONSERVATIVE.

A LIVE LOCAL JOURNAL; Independent and Conservative; devoted to general news and public interests. It is published weekly at Bastrop, Louisiana. Send to any point out of the parish in $2. A twenty eight column sheet, printed on beautiful white paper, and in clear type. A large and almost daily increasing circulation. The oldest and only paper published in one of the richest parishes of this rich State, its columns offer superior inducements to advertisers. Orders solicited. Address

DAVES & SCHROEDER,
Bastrop, La.
REV. J. T. DAVES, Editor. ap6 3m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,
A Purely Vegetable Compound
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF
RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

THE SUBSCRIBER takes pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these diseases. But experience has demonstrated that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. While it is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, that can do no injury, the unparalleled success of the proprietor in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher & Rawson and James E. Bradley, he refers those who desire facts before trying it for themselves,) justifies him in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia, from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and for further information address

N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
fe18 1y

EVERY FARMER
SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR CHIARA'S POCKET GIANT CORN-SHELLER. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address
C. T. VAN SICKLEN,
mh30 3m 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

$10 From 50 Cents.

SOMETHING urgently needed by every body. Call and examine, or twelve samples sent (postage free) for fifty cents that retail readily for $10. R. L. WOLCOTT, mh30 6meow 181 Chatham Square, N. Y.

THE DU BOIS
Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.
WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS

THESE GINS are so constructed that hard substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the Inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing.—They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vacharon.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George B. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 3t

OLD COLONY NURSERIES.
PLYMOUTH, MASS.,
JANUARY 20, 1871.

FRESH GARDEN, FLOWER, Fruit, Herb, Tree and Shrub, and Evergreen Seeds, prepaid by mail, with directions for culture. Twenty-five different packets of either class for $1. The six classes, $5.

Twenty thousand pounds Evergreen and Tree Seeds; Apple, Pear, Cherry, etc., etc. Grass Seeds; Beet, Cabbage, Carrot, Onion, Squash, Turnip, and all Vegetable and Flower Seeds, in small or large quantities; also Small Fruits, Stocks, Bulbs, Shrubs, Roses, Verbenas, etc., by mail, prepaid. New Golden-banded Japan Lily, fifty cents. Priced Descriptive Catalogue sent to any plain address gratis. Agents wanted. Wholesale List to Agents, Clubs and the Trade. Seeds on commission.

B. M. WATSON, Old Colony Nurseries and Seed Warehouse, Plymouth, Mass. Established in 1842. fe11 3m

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,
37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston, are Agents for all the Newspapers in United States and Canadas. They have also arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. dec 1y

The Child's Corner.

WHO KILLED TOM ROPER?

Who killed Tom Roper?
Not I, said New Cider;
I couldn't kill a spider;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said Strong Ale;
I make men tough and hale;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said Lager Beer;
I don't intoxicate. D'ye hear?
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said Bourbon Whisky;
I make sick folks spry and frisky;
The doctors say so; don't they know
What quickens blood that runs too slow?
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said sparkling old Champagne;
No poor man e'er by me was slain;
I cheer the rich in lordly halls,
And scorn the place where the drunkard falls;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not we, said various other wines;
What! juice of grapes, product of vines,
Kill a man! No, never!
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said Holland Gin;
To charge such a crime to me is sin;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Nor I, spoke up the Brandy strong;
He grew too poor to buy me long;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Not I, said Medford Rum;
He was almost gone before I come;
I didn't kill Tom Roper.

Ha, ha! laughed old Prince Alcohol;
Each struck the blow that made him fall;
And all that helped to make him toper
My agents were, to kill Tom Roper.

WHAT NELLIE GAVE AWAY.

BY CLIO STANLEY.

Nelly Ray was a bright, brave-hearted little girl, whom no one could help loving.

Singing like a lark in the morning, wearing sweet smiles on her face all day, cheerful even when the shadows fell, it would have been strange indeed if her humble home had not seemed like a bit of paradise, and the ground under her feet had not blossomed like the rose.

It was a pleasant day in the early spring, when the grass was just lifting itself above the moist earth, when the soft south wind was blowing among the tender little leaves of the lilac bushes, when the birds were busy building their nests, when the merry little brook was beginning its song, and the great round world looked glad and bright, that Nelly began to make her garden.

Her father had dug the ground and made it ready for her, and so she took her little red basket, full of seeds of different kinds, each kind tied up by itself and labeled, and down in the little beds she dropped candy-tuft and phlox and lady-slippers.

How happy she was at her work! Her cheeks were the color of ripe peaches, her eyes were as sweet as twin violets, and her little mouth was like a fresh rosebud; but better and brighter far than the cheeks and lips was the light of kindness that shone in her eyes.

Her sister Jenny, who sat sewing by the window, watched her with loving interest.

"Mother," she said at length, looking up from her work, "do you know what a generous little girl our Nelly would be if she was only a rich man's child?"

"Is she not generous now, Jenny?" asked her mother.

"Oh, yes, surely she is. But I was thinking how much good she would do, and how much she would give away, if only we were not poor."

She saw that her mother was smiling softly to herself.

"She gives away more now, of course, than some rich children do. Just think how faithfully she works in that little garden, so as to have flowers to give away. I do not believe there is a house anywhere near us into which sickness or poverty comes where her simple flowers will not go."

"Did you ever think, dear Jenny, of the other garden which Nelly weeds and waters every day?"

"No, mother. What garden do you mean?"

"The garden of her heart, my dear child. You know that the rain which the clouds take from the lakes and rivers comes back to refresh and beautify our fields and gardens; and so it is with our little Nelly's good deeds and kind, loving words. She gives away more than a handful of violets, for with them goes a bright smile, which is like sunshine to the sick heart. She gives more than a bunch of roses, for with them always goes a kind word. And doing these little things, she gets a large reward. Her own heart grows richer, and the returning blessing is like rain on thirsty ground. Every day she will find she has more to give."

"So, dear mother, we can all be generous if we will, even if we do dwell in poverty?"

"Yes, dear. It is from the treasures of mind and heart that we give choicest gifts, and it is only the child who is thoughtless and selfish, evil and unthankful, that is the real beggar in a land of plenty."

When Jenny looked at her little sister again, it was not the fair face or form of grace that pleased her most, but the light of a generous soul that surrounded her like the sunshine.—The Children's Hour.

POISONED FUN.

Young readers, you know there are poisoned drinks for sale in abundance, and foolish persons, old and young, buy them, and poisoned candies, too. But did you ever notice that a great deal of the fun we see is also poisoned? I have seen four kinds of poisons in it.

1. Falsehood. The talk of many fun-makers is very highly seasoned with this. They seem to think the more false the more funny. Some of it they call jesting or joking; or they tell they said it only in fun. Nevertheless, it is really falsehood, and as such it is poison. The destroyer, Satan, has used it to injure men ever since he deceived our mother Eve in the garden of Eden. I do not think that you can find a single person that uses it, or is fond of the fun it makes, whose soul is in good health.

This poison is injuring all such persons, and to many of them it will soon prove fatal. You know what the good book says of "all liars."

2. Obscenity. This is a filthy poison, and I do not like to say much about it; but I know that, vile as it is, many may mix it with their fun, and so poison themselves and others by it. Beware of it!

3. Profanity. Quoting Bible expressions in a trifling or sneering way, or using uncommon forms of swearing or cursing, or ridiculing religious people or their practices, seems very funny to many persons, both old and young. When they want to make fun they put in some such profanity to season it.

4. Cruelty. One boy knocks off another's hat, and runs away with it, or spatters his clothes. One girl snatches another's pencil or comb and hides it, or one voxes another about a poor dress or an old bonnet, or about some awkward action or mistake in speaking; or one laughs at another about some friend; in these and many other ways some persons take pleasure in injuring or vexing others. They delight in making others feel bad. They make their fun almost wholly out of such cruelties. But it is dreadful poisoned fun. It makes those that love it like the enemy whose delight it is to do evil.

Now I like good fun, and like to have other people, especially the young, enjoy it, and plenty of it; but poisoned fun—young readers, what do you think about it? Is it best to make it? If we eat poison, it commonly harms only the body; but can we take of these poisons without harming the precious souls?

Then, when you make fun, do not mix any of these things with it; and when you seek to have fun made by others, go where they do not mix poison with it.

RAIN FROM HEAVEN.—Once a little girl, who loved her Saviour very much for having so loved her, came to her clergyman with eighteen shillings for a missionary society.

"How did you collect so much? Is it all your own?" the clergyman asked.

"Yes, sir; I earned it."

"But how, Mary?—you are so poor."

"Please, sir, when I thought how Jesus had died for me, I wanted to do something for him, and I heard how money was wanted to send the good news out to the heathen, and as I had no money of my own, I earned this by collecting rain water and selling it to washerwomen for a penny a bucket. That is how I got the money, sir."

"My dear child," said the clergyman, "I am very thankful that your love to your Saviour has led you to work so long and patiently for him; now I shall gladly put down your name as a missionary subscriber."

"Oh! no, sir, please; not my name."

"Why not, Mary?"

"Please, sir, I would rather no one knew but him; I should like it to be put down as 'Rain from Heaven!'"

TEMPTED BY DEGREES.—Satan seldom comes to a Christian with great temptations, or with a temptation to do a great sin. You bring a green log and a candle together, and they are very safe neighbors; but bring a few shavings and set them alight, and then bring a few small sticks and let them take fire, and the log be in the midst of them, and you will soon get rid of your log. And so it is with little sins. You will be startled with the idea of committing a great sin, and so the devil brings you a little temptation, and leaves you to indulge yourself. "There is no great harm in this;" "no great peril in that;" and so by these little chips we are first easily lighted up, and at last the green log is burned. "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation."

The Farm and Garden.

FARM WORK FOR THE MONTH.

When this issue of our paper reaches our readers the preparation of the land for cotton planting will have been completed, and in some localities the seed will have been put in the ground. We have given such earnest and repeated advice as to the careful performance of this work, that if what we have said has not been heeded, nothing we could add now would produce any effect, even did the time permit us to say it.

We are satisfied, from experience and observation, that the cotton planter's success or failure depends more directly upon the preparation of the soil previous to planting than on the mode of planting or on the after-culture, although we believe that, without good planting and careful cultivation of the growing crop, a large yield is unattainable. The foundation of success is deep plowing and pulverization of the soil. Where this foundation is well laid drought will be comparatively harmless, and the absence of manure will be less perceptible. In too many instances, we fear, not only has no manure been applied, but "there was no time" to use the subsoil plow. A few of our acquaintances have availed themselves of both auxiliaries, while they have contracted the area of their cotton crop, and when the fall comes it will be seen how much wiser they have been than those who have gone back to "the old way."

CULTURE OF CORN.

Every intelligent planter of corn will agree that "a good start" is essential to a good crop. It must receive no "back set," must not be robbed by weeds or grass of any of the nutriment which belongs to it of right, and it must have a fine, mellow soil for its roots to spread and penetrate in search of food.

The moment that the cotton crop is planted, while the hands have the opportunity and the time, they should give their earnest and most careful attention to the corn. Plow deep and close. Let the work be thorough. Plow middles and all, so that every semblance of weeds and grass may be destroyed. Then let the hoe hands follow immediately, thinning to a stand and drawing a little fine earth to the roots of the young corn. Let the plows run close to the corn, so that all the earth round the plants shall be made loose, care being taken, of course, not to cover the corn with clods. Let the work of the hoe hands, too, be deep—no skin-deep work, by which the weeds and grass are top-dressed and made more vigorous—but deep chopping and complete cleaning of the crop. In thinning we recommend careful, diligent work, using the hand, even though it may require the laborers to "stoop to conquer." Let the stalks to be removed be pulled up, root and all, not broken off above the root to sprout again, and share the food intended for the stalks which you intend to leave. The faithful performance of the work of plowing, hoeing and thinning is essential to the "good start." See to it that it is done.

CHOPPING COTTON.

By the time that you have gone over your corn the young cotton will require to be "chopped out." This work can be very quickly done, all that is necessary being to chop the rows of young cotton into bunches of four or five stalks, leaving the bunches about the width of a hoe apart, and to chop sufficiently deep to cut up all the young grass and weeds. This being done, the plows should follow to "side" the crop. Where the previous preparation of the ground has been deep and complete a sweep may be used, throwing a little soft earth to the roots of the young plant, covering up and killing all the young grass, and leaving the crop clean and healthy, care being taken not to throw too much earth and cover the tender plants. But where the soil is hard and imperfectly prepared we recommend a deep and close plowing with a sharp turn plow, running the bar to the cotton. In 1868 we sided cotton, as an experiment, with a subsoil plow, and the result was excellent. The condition and character of the land, and the nature of the season must, however, determine this question. It is impossible to establish an invariable rule.

SWEET POTATOES.

Set out as many slips as you possibly can in this month, and be sure to make an effort to have "right smart of a crop" of this most valuable escnlent. They are a mighty help in raising your own meat and making you independent of the Cincinnati pork packers, not to speak of the spare ribs, sausages, lard, head cheese, jowls and souse which they have who kill their own meat. Slips carefully planted this month, after a rain, if possible, in carefully prepared beds, always do better than those planted later, when the sun is hotter. Plant as deep as possible, so as not to cover the bud, press the earth softly about the roots, and plant in the evening, so as to give the plants a night's start before being exposed to the sun.

FORAGE CROPS.

Again we urge our friends to plant largely of drilled corn and millet, and a patch of cow peas sown in the drill will be found very useful. It is idle, however, to plant drill corn or millet unless the ground has been well prepared and heavily manured. We also recommend the planting of a good patch of ground peas or goobers; they will help to make a well stocked smoke house of fine, fat meat.

CHINESE SUGAR CANE.

As soon as the weather permits it may be well to plant an acre or two of Chinese sugar cane for sirup and for forage. Whatever will render us independent of the commission merchant and "advances" plant and cultivate that diligently. Try to so arrange it that you will not have to buy a bushel of corn, wheat or oats, a load of fodder, a bale of hay or a pound of bacon or lard. Let coffee, tea, sugar and clothes be your only purchases. Make an effort to be able to boast that you raise everything you consume. If you do this the price of cotton in the fall will not disturb you, and the state of the money market and the rate of interest will be matters of indifference.—Southern Farm and Home.

A LEAVENWORTH grocer wants a divorce because his wife let him kick her out-doors when only three weeks married. Grocer impertinence it would be hard to find.—Boston Post.

THE Cincinnati school board has decided to open the public library on Sunday.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

61 CAMP STREET,

Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

Soule's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

The Commercial Athenæum of the South,

Corner Camp and Common Streets,

STORY BUILDING,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address

GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its Instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and Incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER, jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo.	$16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.

au13 O. F. CASEY.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,

62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,

HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,

PLATED WARE,

AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of

Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,

OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s

Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the

Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our

Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,

COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON

OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.

fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,

Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.

no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE.

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the ARROW Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings, Curtain Damasks, Lace Curtains, Window Shades, etc

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.

fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.

jy2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

DR. N. P. GODFREY,

DENTIST,

May be found during business hours at

No. 183 Canal Street,

The third door west of Christ Church.

ja21 3m

MEDICAL.

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN G. BANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of BANNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, vocal weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, PILES, prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession; are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often complete cures where medicine can only mitigate, any more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet; it is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. je11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy,

FOR THE BLOOD,

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest Rash to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Brown Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Croup, Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers all yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Salve,

FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically; the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at FLEMING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Natchez and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, at the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans, La.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.

je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REMEDY

fails to cure. It is prepared expressly to cure the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juices of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for

CONSUMPTION,

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Affiliations, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male and female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrotula, which most generally terminate in Consumptive decline. It purifies and enriches the blood, the biliary, glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular forces. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy30 1y

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than twelve years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of the patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 16 St. Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21 1y

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. CONE, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20
Contingent fee	1

Board in private families, per month, $

Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a large and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address

W. F. MORELAND.
m20 1y

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session	$
Preparatory department, per session
Incidental expenses

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,

se25 NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

651 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and exalted knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

PELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $71. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $15. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $45.

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. I. Animals of all Climates. II. National Flags.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
my21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

186 ..... COMMON STREET 186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

59.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....59

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

W. H. BEAUMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

77 .....CARONDELET STREET.....77

ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN, JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

60.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known!

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3ai

SOUTHERN BOOKS FOR SOUTHERN SCHOOLS.

School Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS,

And Entirely Acceptable to Southern Teachers and Parents.

THE UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING CO.,

An association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which in their teaching should not be

Offensive to the Thought and Feeling of the Southern People,

Are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

CHEAPEST, BEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL SCHOOL BOOKS

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

HOLMES' READERS AND SPELLERS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequaled in cheapness, excellence and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents and history.

VENABLES' ARITHMETICAL SERIES,

By Charles S. Venables, LL. D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

HOLMES' HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date. In addition to the books above named the

"UNIVERSITY SERIES OF SCHOOL BOOKS"

COMPRISES

DeVERE'S FRENCH GRAMMAR, READERS, Etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL. D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

GILDERSLEEVE'S LATIN SERIES,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph. D., LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

CARTER'S ELEMENTS OF GENERAL HISTORY,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A. M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

HOLMES' ENGLISH GRAMMARS,

By George F. Holmes, LL. D., of the University of Virginia.

LeCONTE'S SCIENTIFIC SERIES,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

JOHNSTON'S ENGLISH CLASSICS,

By R. M. Johnston, A. M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school-officer. Liberal terms given for introduction. Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. mh2 1y

PHILIP. WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

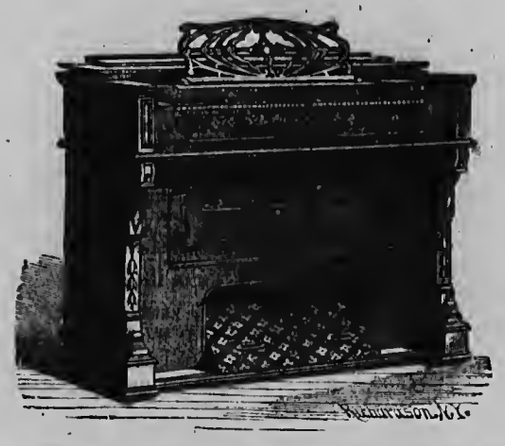
80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLASIUS; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
fe23 1y Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES.....REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among Instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by

de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Jan	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Feb				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28
M'h				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
Apr							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
M'y		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
J'e					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months.	Sunday.	Monday.	Tuesday.	Wednesday.	Thursday.	Friday.	Saturday.
Ju.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
Au.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
Sep						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
Oct	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
Nov				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
Dec						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Scientific.

Vesuvius has been opening the year with signs of renewed activity. A new crater has been opened on the north side, spouting a column of fire. Earthquake shocks and other attendant phenomena have led those experienced in its ways to anticipate a grand outburst before many days.

The British Museum is enriched by the acquisition of two specimens of a mammoth crab which flourishes in the waters of Japan. It measures ten feet between the tips of the claws, and the claws themselves are six feet in length. What must it be to be caught in a live pair of pincers like that?

Insect Parasites.—The insect parasites, such as the ichneumon flies, have instincts as striking as any other creatures. They seek caterpillars and other insects which suit their purpose, and deposit an egg in the body. Many fine looking caterpillars have the mark of their doom in a little scar where the intrusive egg was introduced. As the egg develops into a larva the latter begins to feed, not on the vital organs, but only on the blood and fat. To do the first would prematurely kill the caterpillar and involve itself in the destruction. It is only when the larva seems to be conscious that it is soon to become pupa, and will no longer need the services of its victim, that it finally ends the tragedy by devouring the vitals. Almost all insects have their enemies among the parasites, and thus the inordinate increase of any particular family is prevented, and the balance is kept up in nature. Although a victim may survive for a good portion of its allotted life, it is effectually prevented from increasing its kind.

Perspiration.—The amount of liquid matter which passes through the microscopical tubes of the skin in twenty-four hours, in an adult person of sound health, is about sixteen fluid ounces or one pint. One ounce of the sixteen is solid matter, made up of organic and inorganic substances, which, if allowed to remain in the system for a brief space of time, would cause death. The rest is water. Beside the water and solid matter, a large amount of carbonic acid, a gaseous body, passes through the tubes; so we cannot fail to understand that they are active workers, and also we cannot fail to see the importance of keeping them in perfect working order, removing obstructions by frequent application of water, or by some other means. Suppose we obstruct the functions of the skin perfectly by varnishing a person completely with a compound impervious to moisture. How long will he live? Not over six hours. The experiment was once tried on a child at Florence. Pope Leo the Tenth, on the occasion of his accession to the papal chair, wished to have a living figure to represent the Golden Age, and so he gilded a poor child all over with varnish and gold leaf. The child died in a few hours. If the fur of a rabbit or the skin of a pig be covered with a solution of India rubber in naphtha, the animal ceases to breathe in two hours.—Journal of Chemistry.

Select Lives.—It is a well known result of statistics in life insurances that clergymen's lives are rated longer than that of any other class. On the basis of this fact an association has been formed, after a very careful examination of the whole subject, the objects of which are to induce congregations to insure the lives of pastors, and to secure the insurance at lower rates than the ordinary, which many companies are quite willing to do. In looking for the explanation of the longer life, it is not to be assumed that the clergyman, as a rule, leads an easier life than his fellowmen. He is as hard worked as any one, but simple hard work is not inimical to health and life. It is by nervous excitements, troubles, anxieties and harassments of mind that life gets the death-blows, beneath which it prematurely succumbs. Ministers are not freer than other men from such trials, and, in fact, may have more than their share, considering all that they are necessarily subjected to. But they may be supposed, as a rule, to have a triumph of faith, which tends to calm the mind, or drown what would otherwise rack the physical system, in the enthusiasm of their work, in the willingness to suffer for it, and in the hope of future blessedness. Besides this, and perhaps more evidently effectual in prolonging life, is the general temperance and purity which they illustrate. A calm rising above the ills of life, such as grows out of the Christian faith, with sobriety, temperance and chastity, makes its mark upon the insurance tables and the sanitary registers as to make them sermons to the unwise. Godliness has its profit, as the physician will tell you, in length of days. Nature, unerring, selects her lives in accordance with obedience, and puts a premium thereon.—Christian Union.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has exhibited a moderate degree of animation since our last issue. A fair amount of business has been done in several branches of the wholesale trade. Sugar gave way fully ¼c. on Saturday, but has since shown more firmness. Molasses has ruled at about previous rates. There has been a rather slack demand for liquf, with a tendency to easier prices. Corn and oats have been in good request at steady rates, and provisions dull and drooping.

The river continues to swell, and, at some points in the Third and Fourth districts, has slightly overflowed the levee. As yet we have heard of no serious disasters from crevasses, but can hardly hope that the flood will subside without damage. Independently, however, of any obstacles from crevasse water, the weather has materially retarded planting, and all the indications point to a late crop.

The river is two feet below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the seventh instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi	bales	11,927
Lake		10
Arkansas		2,559
Florida		52
Mobile		191
Texas		427
Total		15,166

On Saturday operations were checked by light supplies and the high pretensions of factors, who claimed a further advance of ⅛c., but later in the day met the demand more freely at Friday's improvement. The movement, however, exhibited but little animation and the sales did not exceed 4,300 bales. On Monday buyers came forward with more spirit and took 6,600 bales at prices showing a partial advance in some grades of ⅛c., good ordinary closing at 12¼ to 12¾c., an advance of ⅛c., low middling at the previous rates of 13⅜ to 13⅞c., and middling at 14⅛ to 14¾c., against 14½ to 14¾c. on Saturday. On Tuesday the market opened with a fair inquiry, but operations were checked by scant supplies of the kinds most in request and factors being still more stringent in their pretensions; and although later in the day the latter met the demand more freely, in some cases accepting offers which they had refused on Monday, yet it failed to impart any activity to the movement, and the sales were confined to 3,700 bales.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 14,600 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,222,514 bales, against 971,479 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 929,439 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 754,557 bales to Great Britain, 219,935 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 241,351 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary	10 to 10⅝
Good ordinary	12¼ to 12¾
Low middling	13⅛ to 13⅜
Middling	14⅛ to 14¾
Strict middling	15 to 15¼

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales		20,696
Arrived past three days	15,166
Arrived previously	1,274,919	1,290,085
		1,310,781
Exported past three days	12,032
Exported previously	1,068,130
Burned	950	1,081,112
Stock on hand and on shipboard		226,669

SUGAR.—The demand has been fair, but at easier prices than at the date of our last review, and the supplies are now selling at 5⅞ to 6⅛c. per pound for inferior, 7 to 7⅛c. for common, 8 to 8⅛c. for fair, 8½ to 8¾c. for good fair, 9 to 9¼c. for fully fair, 9¾ to 10c. for prime, 10⅛ to 10¾c. for choice, 11¾ to 12c. for yellow clarified, and 12½ to 12¾c. for white.

MOLASSES.—The demand is principally for fermenting. The supplies are light, and are disposed of at 30 to 35c. for centrifugal, 15 to 20c. for inferior fermenting, 25c. for common do., 30 to 48c. for good to prime fermenting, 35 to 45c. for plantation reboiled, as in quality, 40 to 60c. for cistern bottom, 30 to 60c. for city refinery reboiled, and 90c. to $1 for golden sirup.

PORK.—The market has continued dull and drooping, and is still more depressed.

BACON.—Shoulders are offering at 8¼c., clear rib sides 10½ to 10¾c., clear sides 11¼ to 11½c., sugar-cured hams 15 to 16c. per pound. On Monday 10 casks clear sides sold at 11¼c., 15 tierces sugar-cured hams at 15c., and 25 do. at 16c. per pound.

MONETARY.—Gold, 110⅜ to 110⅝.

American silver half dollars, 107½ to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2½ to 3 per cent. premium in gold.

The movement in stocks has been to a fair extent, the sales on Tuesday including 100 shares Slaughter House, early, at $36.75, 100 do., later, at $34.50, a marked decline, 10 Mississippi and Mexican Gulf Ship Canal, seller's option this week, at $300, and 10 on the spot at $312.

The sales of bonds include $1,000 New City seven per cents on Saturday at 72½.

We hear of no sales of warrants except $900 new State on Tuesday at 52 to 53; there was, however, some inquiry, and sales were said to have been at over 53. Some of the dealers reported counter-buying rates of new Metropolitan Police at 96 to 96¼, and selling at 97 to 97½.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, April 11, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross	7 to 9c
Sheep, first quality, per head	$6 to 7
Sheep, second quality, per head	4 to 5
Sheep, third quality, per head	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head	50 to 80
Texas cows, with calves	to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 12
Yearlings, per head	9 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₱ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	21
Bale Rope, ₱ lb:
Kentucky	...	...
Bran, ₱ 100 lbs	1 25	1 30
Bread, ₱ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	...
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₱ M:
Lake	9 00	16 00
English fire	42 00	50 00
American fire	40 00	...
Candles, ₱ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	...	42½
Tallow	...	...
Adamantine	...	...
Star	11½	17
Chocolate, ₱ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₱ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	...	...
Coal, ₱ ton:
Cannel	10 00	...
Anthracite	...	...
Western, ₱ bbl	50	...
Coffee, ₱ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₱ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	...	...
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₱ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	...	21
Russia	30	...
Corn meal, ₱ bbl	3 37½	3 50
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₱ ton	12 00	...
In sacks	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₱ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4¾
Fustic, Tampico	5	...
Indigo, ₱ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western	12	15
Feathers, ₱ lb	90	95
Fish, ₱ box:
Cod	1 40	...
Herrings	60	...
Mackerel, No. 1, ₱ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	...
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	...
Flaxseed, ₱ lb	4	6
Flour, ₱ bbl:
Double extra	6 62½	6 75
Superfine	6 00	...
Fine	5 90	5 95
Fruit, ₱ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5	6
Currants, new	12½	...
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₱ box	...	...
Raisins, layer	3 10	3 15
Lemons, Palermo, ₱ box	4 00	4 25
Lemons, Malaga, ₱ box	...	...
Oranges, La., ₱ bl	...	...
Glass, ₱ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₱ bushel:
Oats	62	65
Corn, shelled	70	74
Beans, ₱ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₱ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₱ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₱ ton:
Western	22 00	25 00
Northern	...	...
Louisiana	...	...
Hides, ₱ lb:
Mexican dry flint	...	...
Country dry flint	16	...
Texas stretched ditto	...	...
Dry salted	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	14
Iron, ₱ ton:
Pig	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₱ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	6½	...
Lime, ₱ bbl:
Western	...	1 60
Shell lime	...	...
Rockland, etc	...	...
Cement	2 75	...
Plaster Paris	2 15	...
Lumber, ₱ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	...	...
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	...	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	...
Scantling	15 00	...
Shingles, ₱ M	4 00	4 25
Laths	3 00	...
Molasses, ₱ gallon:
Louisiana	...	...
Cuba	...	...
Moss, ₱ lb:
Gray country	...	...
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₱ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₱ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₱ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₱ gall.	60	65
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₱ gallon	1 17½	1 20
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	45	47½
Cotton seed, refined	52	70
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₱ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₱ ton:
C. S., decorticated	25 00	28 00
C. S., undecorticated	...	23 00
Provisions, ₱ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	...	...
Beef, prime	18 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₱ lb	...	...
Beef tongues, ₱ dozen	...	...
Pork, mess	20 25	...
Pork, prime mess	...	...
Hog, round, ₱ lb	...	...
Hams, ₱ lb	15	...
Hams, canvassed	15½	16½
Shoulders	14	15
Green shoulders	8	8½
Lard, prime, in tierces	12	13½
Butter, Northern	25	42
Butter, Western	12½	26
Cheese, American	10	17
Potatoes, ₱ bbl	2 50	3 25
Onions	...	...
Apples	...	11 00
Cabbages, ₱ crate	...	...
Rice, ₱ lb:
Louisiana	6	9
India, (gold, in bond)	...	...
Carolina	8½	9¾
Sugar, ₱ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DISTRICT.

Uniontown	Apr.	8, 9
Selma		15, 16
Orrville		22, 23
Dayton		29, 30
Peachtree, at Airmount	May	6, 7
Suggsville, at Gosport		13, 14
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel		20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson		27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville	June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi		10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground		17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Pine Level circuit, at Pine Level	Apr.	15, 16
Union circuit, at Mount Hilliard		22, 23
Sandy Ridge ct., at Rogers' chapel		29, 30
Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel	May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel		13, 14
Union Springs station		20, 21
Greenville station		27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's	June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground		10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove		17, 18

The district stewards will please meet at Union Springs, May 20. They are as follows: Union Springs, Thos. Pullum; Union, Thos. G. Merriwether; Pine Level, W. Capers Menefee; Rocky Mount, Wm. J. Skinner; Sandy Ridge, W. H. Zeigler; Fort Deposit, J. H. Rencher; Greenville, E. J. M. Padgett; Rutledge, E. E. Richardson; Troy, E. B. Wilkerson; Brundidge, G. W. Barker; Elba, W. N. Brunlon.

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

Franklin street	Apr.	8, 9
Whistler		15, 16
Citronelle, at Beaver Meadow		22, 23
Mount Pleasant, at Stockton		29, 30
St. Francis street	May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard		13, 14
Milton		20, 21
Pensacola		27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river	June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel		10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Bladen Springs, at Kizer Hill	Apr.	1, 2
Gaston, at Bethlehem		8, 9
Butler, at Mount Sterling		15, 16
Livingston		29, 30
Green circuit, at Holly Spring	May	6, 7
Eutaw		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel		27, 28
Demopolis	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland		10, 11

The Demopolis District Conference, Alabama Annual Conference, will be held at Livingston, Alabama, commencing April 28, at nine o'clock A. M. All the official members of the Quarterly Conferences in the district are members of the District Conference. Lay members of the Annual Conference will be elected.

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Franklinton, at Shady Grove	Apr.	15, 16
Greensburg, at Pinegrove		22, 23
Summit, at Magnolia		29, 30
Covington, at West Pearl	May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo		13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel		20, 21
Arcola, at Amite City	June	3, 4
Holmesville, at Topsaw		10, 11
Livingston, at James' chapel		17, 18
Bogue Chitto		24, 25

My address is Magnolia, Mississippi.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	Apr.	8, 9
Yazoo City station		15, 16
Yazoo circuit, at Mount Carmel		22, 23
Mt. Olivet ct., at Fletcher chapel		29, 30
Canton station	May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston		13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel		20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union		27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond	June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty		10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill		17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Georgetown ct., at Georgetown	Apr.	8, 9
Hazlehurst station		16, 17
Burtenton circuit, at Pisgah		22, 23
Brandywine circuit, at Nebo	May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church		13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehobeth		20, 21
Brookhaven station		27, 28
Wesson, at Beauregard	June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove		8, 9
Crystal Springs station		15, 16
Jackson circuit		22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Natchez	Apr.	8, 9
Kingston		15, 16
Fayette, at Mount Carmel		22, 23
Vicksburg		29, 30
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	May	6, 7
North Warren, Milldale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland		13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga		20, 21
South Warren		27, 28
Clover Hill	June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek		10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Rankin circuit, at Bethel	Apr.	8, 9
Mt. Carmel ct., at Williamsburg		22, 23
Columbia mission, at Tate's school house		29, 30
Gainesville miss., at Pearlington	May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi		13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coalville		20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point		27, 28
Green circuit	June	3, 4
Enon circuit		10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HURST, P. E., Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Clinton station	Mar.	25, 26
Buffalo	Apr.	1, 2
East Feliciana, at Pinegrove		8, 9
Woodville station		15, 16
Jackson and Plains, at Pipkin's chapel		22, 23
Bayou Sara, at Bayou Sara		29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon		19, 20
Meadville		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian	Apr.	1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba		8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope		22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union		29, 30
Wayne	May	6, 7
Clark		13, 14
Paulding		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mansfield circuit, at Providence	Apr.	29, 30
Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit		27, 28
Shreveport station	June	3, 4
Anacoco		10, 11
Springville circuit		18, 19

The salaries of our preachers have been fixed by the first Quarterly Conferences, one-half of which will become due at the time of the second Quarterly Meetings. We appeal to the churches, and especially to the stewards, to be prepared to meet those claims by that time. We speak what we do know when we say that it is absolutely necessary, for the comfort of the preachers and for the good of the cause, for this to be done. True, money may be scarce; but when families supply themselves with provisions, a little extra will be sufficient to supply the parsonage, and that will be equivalent to money for the preacher.

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Abbeville	Apr.	15, 16
Vermillionville		22, 23
Washington		29, 30
Lake Charles	May	13, 14
Calcasieu Pass		18, 19
Grand Chenière		20, 21
Opelousas	June	3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee		10, 11
Bellevue		17, 18
Franklin and Pattersonville		24, 25
New Iberia	July	1, 2

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

Minden, at Flat Lick	Apr.	29, 30
Minden colored circuit		22, 23
South Bossier, at Harmony	May	6, 7
North Bossier, at Red Land		13, 14
North Bossier col. ct., at Red Land		13, 14
Mount Lebanon, at Arcadia		20, 21
Mount Lebanon col. ct., at Arcadia		20, 21
Lake Bisteneau, at Brushwood		27, 28
Sparta	June	3, 4
Louisville		10, 11

S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek ct., at Spring Creek	Mar.	18, 19
Rapides circuit, at Palestine		25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta	Apr.	1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville		8, 9
Columbia circuit		15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise		22, 23

The official members of Cnicasieu circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26.

F. WHITE, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point	Mar.	18, 19
Columbus	Apr.	8, 9
Columbus circuit		15, 16
Vinton		22, 23
Athens		29, 30
Houston	May	13, 14
Chickasaw		20, 21
Line Creek		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove	Mar.	25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Mill Dale	Apr.	1, 2
Atala circuit, at Spring Dale		8, 9
Koschusko and Bethel, Kosciusko		15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling		22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill		29, 30
Walden circuit	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory		27, 28
Lexington		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths,

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette.

mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Wuring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGlunis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,
fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M. SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Vairin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.
Henry V. Ogden.

fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, General Agent.

fe4 6m

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address.

fe18 tf

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING,

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe4 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS,

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Givon and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	94 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra	1 50
New University Algebra	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,
New Orleans,

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.

The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

B. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1871. NO. 14.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Washington, April 11.—The armistice between Spain and the Pacific republics was signed to-day the Department of State. The conditions are: First, armistice cannot come to end unless notification that effect has been given three ars before hostilities may be resumed. Second, trade is to be resumed at once between belligerents well as neutrals. Third, negotiations for final peace are to begin t week.

Washington, April 12.—It is expected that a large immigration to United States will take place ring the coming summer from the nch population of Alsace and portion of Lorraine annexed to rmany. A letter received by e French residents in Washing- from friends in those provinces tes that the desire to emigrate is ng, not principally among the r, but among the middle classes, o possess small properties in s and in the country districts. h a view to encouraging movement, a number of French tlemen living in New York Washington are endeavoring to form an organization and e capital; they propose to buy e tracts of land and settle upon m agricultural and mining colo- of their countrymen. Their ntion is chiefly directed to East nessee, northern Georgia and bama.

alveston, April 12.—A special the Galveston News, dated Aus- April 12, says: Keard and Mil- train, loaded with bacon for nahna, for Fort Baynrd, was ked near the boundary by a band of Indians. Keard and nd five other Americans were l.

he Chihuahua frontier Mexican ps pursued the murderous band s the boundary into the United s, and killed and captured y Indians.

ited States troops from Fort lwin, who went to protect the ans, collided with the Mexicans, a fight ensued, in which the manding officer of Fort Good- and forty American soldiers killed. The Mexicans num- two hundred.

n Francisco, April 13.—The mer Avedale, carrying south- l, east, San Francisco and pean mails to the fifteenth of ary, was wrecked near Tara- .

he schooner Banshee was wreck- the coastof Olago. All lost ex- the captain.

e steamship Rongilotte, with Suez mails, foundered at Pi- n.

shington, April 14.—Senate.—Senate passed the Ku-Klux with the amendments proposed e Judiciary Committee, with dments striking out the repeal e test oath for United States leaving the law as at present, nother by Sherman, as follows: if any house, tenements, cabin, building, barn or granary be unlawfully or feloniously olished, pulled down, burned or oyed, wholly or in part, by any ns riotously or tumultuously as- led together, or if any person unlawfully, and with force and nce, be whipped, scourged, ded or killed by any persons rously and tumultuously assem- together, and if such offense committed to deprive any per- of any right conferred upon him e constitution and laws of the ed States, or deter him from, nish him for exercising any right, or by reason of his race, or previous condition of servi- in every such case the in- nts of the county, city or h in which any of the said es shall be committed, shall be to pay full compensation to erson or persons damaged by offense if living, or to their representatives if dead, and compensation may be recovered ch person, or his representa- by a suit in any court of the d States of competent jurisdic- in the district in which the se was committed, to be in the e of the person injured or his representative, and against county, city or parish an exe- n may be issued on a judgment ered in such suit, and may be d upon any property, real or nal, of any persons in the said ty, city or parish, and the said ty, city or parish which may satisfied said judgment, or the on out of whose property the judgment shall have been satis- as the case may be, may re- the full amount of said judg- ment, costs and interest from any person or persons engaged as principal or accessory in such riot, in an action in any court of competent jurisdiction, and the persons out of whose property such judgment shall have been satisfied shall in such a case have contribution as at common law, and the Circuit Court of the United States for the proper district shall have jurisdiction of such action.

The bill passed, 45 to 19—Messrs. Hill, Robertson, Schurz, Tipton and Trumbull voting nay.

House.—A resolution was offered to expunge the speech from the Globe, and reprimand Representative Garrett for quoting in a speech which Garrett had leave to print from the Vicksburg Herald, to the effect that Senator Ames was a shoulder-strap puppy and politician, a most consummate liar and a fool, without disposing of the matter.

The deficiency bill was taken up. An amendment was adopted, giving $20,000 to rebuild the orphan asylum of the Sisters of Our Lady of Mercy, at Charleston, South Carolina. Also requiring the national banks to pay the expenses of printing their notes. The House, without disposing of the bill, adjourned.

St. Louis, April 14.—General Sherman, accompanied by aids-de-camp, Colonels McCoy and Tourtelotte, has gone to New Orleans, whence he will proceed to San Antonio, Texas, from where he will start on a grand tour of inspection of the military affairs of the plains as far north as the Union Pacific railroad. General Morey, inspector general of the army, will join the party at New Orleans.

Washington, April 15.—The members of the high commission who have been openly approached say all have adhered to their original agreement to consider their proceedings and progress confidential. Notwithstanding which, this morning's New York Herald has the following Washington special:

The following is the basis of settlement of the Alabama claims agreed upon by the joint high commission:

The responsibility of England for the depredations by the piratical cruisers fitted out in her waters is accepted as a political maxim between the United States and Great Britain, both these powers also pledging themselves to make efforts for a general international acceptance of the same view. The claims at present under consideration to be submitted, for verification and anditing, to a new commission of five men, one named by the President, one by the Queen, and one each respectively by the President of Switzerland, the King of Italy and the Emperor of Brazil. These commissioners to be sworn like jurors, that they have formed no previous immovable opinion, and have no prejudices in the matter, but will decide altogether upon the evidence as they receive it.

They shall be cognizant of and adopt the maxim accepted by the present commission, however, relative to the responsibility, and will confine themselves to the hearing of evidence, anditing claims and signing checks, which will be payable promptly on their indorsement, for any sums which our insurance companies, ship owners and merchants generally are able, legitimately, to sum up against England. After this commission gets through, another commission of three, one appointed by the Emperor of Russia and the other two by the President and the Queen, will wind up the odds and ends. The main objection is, it seems, that the final payment of cash on these claims is to be delayed almost indefinitely.

Jackson, Miss., April 15.—A terrific hail storm passed over this vicinity last night. Hail fell for fifteen minutes, many of the stones measuring six inches in circumference. Several thousand window lights were broken, and in some cases tin rooting perforated, gardens, fields, crops and fruits damaged; forest trees were stripped of their foliage, and hundreds of birds were killed.

New York, April 15.—The corporators of the Texas Pacific Railroad Company held a meeting at the office of Marshall O. Roberts. Among the prominent persons present were General Fremont, J. W. Forney, of the Philadelphia Press, Senator Nye, of Nevada, Thomas A. Scott, of the Pennsylvania railroad, General Rosecrans and a number of other capitalists and railroad men.

Samuel Sloan was appointed treasurer, and gave bonds for $400,000, Judge Pierrepont and Marshall O. Roberts being the securities.

By unanimous consent eleven thousand out of the twenty thousand shares of stock were allotted to Marshall O. Roberts, thus virtually securing the entire control of the presidency, in case he desires it. General Fremont received five thousand shares, and the remaining four thousand shares were distributed among the balance of the corporators, and immediately subscribed for.

Memphis, April 17.—The steamer J. S. Dunham, from New Orleans for Little Rock, struck a snag near Little Rock on Saturday morning, and sunk in thirteen feet of water. No lives were lost. The boat was built in Memphis last year by the Memphis and Arkansas Packet Company at a cost of $21,000. She was insured in Pittsburg for $10,000. Her cargo of sugar, molasses and salt is a total loss, which is valued at about $15,000.

Washington, April 18.—The Democrats in caucus to-night adopted an address to the American people, which will be issued to-morrow.

Washington, April 18.—The Republican Congressional Executive Committee met this morning, and the following is the resident committee to attend to business during the recess: Senator Harlan, Representative Platt, Henry D. Cooke, Fred. Douglass and J. M. Edmunds.

The Senate to-night adopted the Ku-Klux conference report by a vote of 32 to 16.

Vicksburg, April 18.—River falling slowly.

Memphis, April 18.—River falling.

FOREIGN.

Kingston, Ja., April 11.—A number of Haytien spies have arrived here to watch refugees and report any movement by them toward the annexation of Hayti to the United States.

Dispatches from the British government announce the determination of the cabinet to make Honduras a crown colony, to form a part of the West Indies confederation.

The British flying squadron, now here, is to go to Havana. The Darcia has gone to lay a cable between St. Thomas and Demarara.

The Suffolk is still grappling for the last Porto Rico cable. She has very favorable weather.

The authorities have seized sixty-four packages of arms and ammunition which were hidden in the bushes at Salt Key, intended for exportation to the Cubans. They will be sold at public auction.

Versailles, April 12.—The cannonading about Paris is less frequent to-day, and nothing of importance has transpired.

London, April 12.—The steamship Baltimore touched at Southampton to-day.

Dispatches from Versailles report considerable fighting going on in the vicinity of Fort Montrouge, and near d'Issy and Vanvres. When the dispatch left the inmates of Vanvres and d'Issy and the forts, where the insurgents were gathered in immense force, were disputing every inch of ground.

The south of the city has not been shelled by the government troops, but if the insurgents continue firing from the forts and show no signs of yielding, it is intended to shell with vigor, so as to command the whole southern part of the city.

The sacking of public buildings by a mob of men and women continues. Several attractive city churches have been pillaged and desecrated.

Paris has cut off all communication with the outer world. No messages or messenger can leave without a pass signed by General Dombrowski.

Berlin, April 12.—The official journal of to-day says that Germany will only interfere with the affairs of France when it shall become necessary for the collection of money due herself.

Paris, April 12, noon.—Loud and uninterrupted cannonading has been kept up since last evening between Chattillon and the southern forts. The infantry is also engaged.

The noise of mitrailleuses and musketry has been incessant since five o'clock this morning.

Cannonading around Porte Maillot and Porte des Ternes has been resumed, and is as violent as that in the south.

Fighting is now going on in Bois de Boulages and at Asnieres. The Commune are forwarding reinforcements to the troops engaged. The wounded are coming in in large numbers. The losses are heavy.

Official reports of the Commune claim the Versailles forces were repulsed on Tuesday evening, in their attack on the southern forts, and that their loss was heavy, while that of the Communists was very light. The Communes believe the attack was to mask an attempt to carry Maliote gate by surprise.

A rumor comes from Stanyard, a quarter in the southern part of the city, that the Communists have lost the part of Issy where they were entrenched, and the commandant of Fort d'Issy has been shot by his own men.

Versailles, April 13.—Thiers, in a circular bearing date of the evening of the twelfth, describes the situation as in the main unchanged, and says: "The government will act at the proper time. The Commune accounts of victory at Paris are false. Our victory will come bloodlessly. The Paris delegates have arrived, and were received, not because they are Communists, but because they are republicans. My answer to them was that no one menaces the republic but assassins. The lives of the insurgents will be spared; but the workmen temporarily subsidized in Paris must return to their labor. The rebellion will be suppressed."

A telegram from Marseilles says the city is quiet and the police force is being reorganized.

Versailles, April 13.—It is officially announced that the alleged Communist victories are unfounded. There was no engagement to-day. All the roads to Paris are occupied by the Versailles troops.

London, April 14.—The Standard has a dispatch from Vienna stating that a religious riot occurred at Odessa, in which the Jews were despoiled and great devastation committed. The authorities are powerless.

London, April 16.—The Times' has a special from Paris, stating that it is reported that the Prussians will interfere in the affairs of France in case the Commune should be victorious over the Versailles government.

The Prussians have advanced to Aubervilliers.

The Daily News has a special dispatch from Paris, which says that the Commune has in its hands cash amounting to thirty-eight million francs, which was paid by the Bank of France for unsold bonds of the city of Paris.

A dispatch from Versailles says the Prussians have agreed to stop revictualling Paris by way of St. Denis.

The insurgents now occupy the greater part of the woods of Colombes beyond Asnieres.

Prince Bismarck, in a note to the Versailles government, admits the right of General McMahon to occupy with all his troops the ground around Paris made neutral by the stipulations of the preliminary treaty of peace.

Paris, April 16.—The quarter of Champs Elysees was bombarded by shells, which still fall thickly. Fragments of shells struck the American legation in Avenue Josephine, where Minister Washburne remains. His family have departed.

Paris, April 16, evening.—The people seem to pay little attention to the bombardment save when they hear loud reports, when they look to see if a shell is falling.

The Prussians have occupied two kilometers south of St. Denis, and seven kilometers from Paris.

It is believed that Blanqui now controls all the affairs of the Commune.

London, April 16.—Evening dispatches from Versailles deny that the insurgents took four hundred prisoners yesterday, and declare that no important military events have taken place. They say the insurgents in the forts wasted their ammunition by firing at night to no purpose. On Saturday night, though they kept up a continual cannonade, only one Versaillist was wounded.

London, April 16.—The complication of affairs between the government at Versailles and the insurgents seems to increase, instead of the hoped-for improvement. The issue is as uncertain and problematical as the advent of a definite time for order to be restored.

The difficulties of the problem are great, and it is to be feared that there may be a lack of true men, with prudence, sagacity and resolution enough to solve it. The action of M. Thiers is watched with suspicion and jealousy by the Parisian insurgents.

The establishment of the Orleans regime, with domestic peace, would soon make up for the losses of the foreign war by an extended commercial prosperity.

The result of the joint commission of England and America is anticipated here as a fair and amicable settlement, satisfactory to both sides.

London, April 17.—The news received from Paris and Versailles is exciting. Fighting continues under the very walls of Paris, and shells are continually falling in Champs Elysees. Arc de Triomphe has been repeatedly struck, and much damaged. Provisions are fast growing scarce, and should the city be again besieged it would have to succumb through starvation in a few days. Horse flesh is once more the principal luxury. The insurgents are under the strictest discipline, and in the late engagements succeeded in taking several thousand prisoners.

Versailles, April 17.—The Assembly has ordered municipal elections in Paris for the thirtieth instant.

Government troops carried Chateau Bekon, which commands Asnieres.

The fight at Neuilly is progressing, and seems from the sound to be nearing Paris.

It is rumored that the diplomatic agents of the United States, England and Italy are jointly urging the Commune to agree to a truce.

The Commune has installed a general court martial.

Paris, April 17, noon.—The firing, which has been going on all night, continues this morning.

A red flag was placed on the summit of the church of Neuilly yesterday afternoon amidst a shower of balls.

There is now scarcely a church open in Paris. St. Vincent de Paul and St. Jacques were pillaged yesterday, and the clergymen arrested.

Paris, April 17.—The Communists after a severe battle occupied the whole of Neuilly, capturing all the artillery and two flags. The enemy also lost two thousand men in killed and wounded, and five hundred prisoners. The loss of the Communists was about the same.

Mont Valerien is now bombarding Neuilly.

The Germans are massing heavy bodies of troops and give many other proofs of an intention to interfere.

London, April 18.—Great earthquakes have occurred in Scotland.

The Lutheran inhabitants of Livonia petition Russia for annexation to Prussia. The Czar ordered the petitioners to leave Livonia under pain of confiscation.

Versailles, April 18.—Marshal McMahon's headquarters are now at Fontenoy aux Peses, near Sceard.

The rumors that the Prussians threaten a forcible intervention in the affairs at Paris are unfounded.

Fifty insurgents were taken prisoners in the Chatean Becon, and others were captured in the vicinity.

An ironclad railway battery has been captured from the insurgents at Colombes.

London, April 18.—A correspondent of the Tribune at St. Denis had an interview with General Pafe, commanding first division of the Prussian army, on Monday, who said Bismarck's reported threat to interfere by the twenty-third is unfounded.

McMahon has a right to enter between the Prussian outposts and the enciente. He would not hinder, but assist McMahon. He thinks weakness of the Versailles army prevents anything being done. He offered to cut the railway traffic with Paris, and allow no provisions to enter, but Thiers refused, Paris containing so many orderly people.

The insurgents recently made large requisitions on the St. Denis Faubourg. There they arrested priests and plundered their churches.

Pafe sent troops to protect the people and recover their property. He also sent a message to the Commune, that if it happened again the Prussian forts would open fire. He added: "My instructions are to be very strict with the insurgents, and to give the government facilities.

Dissatisfaction exists among the French troops. They are ready to protect the Assembly, but not to attack Paris.

More than half the soldiers returning from Germany are sent home because they are regarded as untrustworthy.

Five hundred million francs, due April 1, are known to be ready at Versailles; but payment is delayed because the German troops on the payment of this installment will then retire toward Rheims.

The people are flying from Paris in crowds.

Every mercy that a sinner enjoys in time or hopes for in eternity flows purely from the free and boundless grace of God in Jesus Christ.

LOUISIANA RICE CIRCULAR.

Quite a hopeful feeling prevails in the rice districts, and the general impression seems to be that there will be a much larger area of land planted than there was last year. There is a tendency of improving the seed, and with paying rates sustained, a gradual increase in the crop may be looked for every year. As a general rule the soil cultivated in rice generously repays the labor of the husbandman, and with prudent management and economy in his household expenditures he is almost sure of a living profit. He can put his crop sooner in the market than growers can in Carolina or Georgia.

The atmospheric conditions under which the planting takes place could hardly be more favorable. The young rice sown last month looks healthy and vigorous. With few exceptions seeding will be over by the end of this month or early in May. The river now stands so high that there will be no lack of water between this and July. The crop for this year promises to be a large one, unless Providence shall send unpropitious weather, or some of those blights to which all crops are liable. Should the future turn out right, harvesting will commence in the beginning of August. Free arrivals may be expected early in September.

The following table exhibits the receipts of Louisiana rice at this port from the first of September last up to the thirty-first ultimo:

1870.	Clean Rice.
September	2,928 bbls.
October	5,041 "
November	5,523 "
December	2,780 "
1871.
January	1,629 "
February	2,665 "
March	1,014 "
Rice cleaned at the city mills, say about	7,260 "
Total	28,840 "

There are fully ten thousand barrels of paddy remaining in the parishes, forming an ample supply for local consumption during the spring and summer months.

The stock in store does not amount to twelve hundred barrels. Though the demand has been moderate for the last five weeks, prices have been very well sustained. With any increase of trade, the indications are that quotations would advance.—Picayune.

Shall we Have a Female Bible? The Bible has been a stumbling-block to a great many reformers of the ultra sort. At this moment it stands in the way of Mrs. Cady Stanton and Miss Susan B. Anthony, and their friends of the woman's rights movement. The command, "Wives, submit yourselves to your husbands," is particularly obnoxious to them, and a resolution was adopted some time since by the Woman's Suffrage Association explicitly repudiating the obligation. It was declared that the behest in question "should be thrown aside with the exploded theories of kingcraft and slavery embodied in the injunctions, 'Honor the King,' and 'Servants, obey your masters.'" Mrs. Stanton, indeed, took broader ground; she did not waste her words on isolated texts, but boldly demanded a revision of the Scriptures, with special reference to the views she advocates. Moses she tied to Montesquieu, and then threw both overboard, complaining that men had invariably translated the Bible hitherto, and contending that if women were now allowed to try their hand we should have another and an improved version. St. Paul, we fear, would then share the fate marked out for Moses.

Important Railroad Project.—We copy as follows from the Mobile Register of the seventh:

We understand that the Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company has bought the Guinesville road, with the view of extending it to Eutaw, in Green county, a distance of sixteen miles, where it connects with the General Forrest road to Selma. This connection will make the line the shortest route, by forty miles, from the West to Selma, Montgomery and all western Georgia. The Forrest road is now in running order beyond Greensboro, and lacks but some ten miles to reach Eutaw. From Eutaw to Mobile, by this route, it will be only one mile further than by the Stanton road to Meridian.

Out of six million owners of real estate in the United States, more than two-thirds are farmers.

It only costs the government $1,910,234 per annum for paper, binding and printing for Congress.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1871.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

"Bread cast upon the waters may be found after many days."

Aye, "after many days,"
No matter when or where.
The bread thus cast, the seed thus sown,
Shall spring up fresh and fair.

Cast it around thy home;
Be sure 'tis not in vain,
Though thou mayst never see
That scattered bread again.

Though "after many days"
The bread shall still be found,
And what thy love hath cast
Shall clothe the barren ground.

And when the golden gates
Shall open to receive
Some whom perchance thou didst
In doubt and trembling leave,

Then, "after many days,"
How shall thy heart rebound,
When harps of gold shall hail
The bread forever found!

Evening Post.

LETTER FROM SHREVEPORT.

SHREVEPORT, April 6, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: It has been our duty to pass a few weeks in this city, the second in population and commerce in the State of Louisiana, and destined, we believe, to increase vastly in wealth and importance by the building of several projected railroads, now the theme of all, and engaging the attention of the capitalists of the nation. We have not only looked into the material condition of things here and hereabout, but also into the spiritual, and find some exceedingly interesting items, which we will jot down very briefly for the special benefit of your numerous readers. In the whole of our travels, we would remark, it has never been our good fortune to light on any community in which there was such a universal respect for religion, its ordinances, its places of worship and its ministers. This speaks well for all—not only for the people, but for the clergy. They are always very highly spoken of, and are held in high esteem. We feel sure also that they deserve the respect entertained for them, for they are pious, intelligent, faithful and laborious workers in the Lord's vineyard; they are all good, sound expounders of God's word. Their congregations are respectable in size, and very attentive to their ministrations. We have visited all the Sabbath schools, and find them filled with earnest teachers and attentive pupils. Thus much in a general way, which is true of the Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and Baptist churches equally. Each of these denominations have very comfortable and good sized churches except the Presbyterian, which has nearly finished a most beautiful and spacious brick building, which will be a great ornament to the city, and the most prominent of its public edifices. At present they use the court house on Sundays, and the Methodist church for weekly meetings. This shows they fraternize.

But we wish to speak particularly of the Methodist church, now under the charge of Rev. John Wilkinson, formerly of your city, and well known and highly respected there. He is much beloved by all, especially those of his flock. His membership is about one hundred and thirty. His Sunday school has over one hundred and twenty pupils on the roll, and an average attendance of about one hundred. He is certainly doing much good. His people have recently given him, as a token of their regard and appreciation, a life policy of insurance on his life for $5,000, paid for in the Continental Life Insurance Company of New York—following the example set them by the Presbyterians, who did the same thing, same amount and in the same company, for their pastor, Rev. W. C. Dunlap. These things speak well for the Christians here, and in so doing they have set an example worthy of imitation by other churches. We really do not know a better and more delicate way of showing the regard, on the part of a congregation, than this. Almost every one could do it if some one active member would hand round a subscription list for that purpose. This was done here, and with the foregoing result. Every person almost, in any congregation, would donate a little to obtain so desirable an end as that of placing their pastor's mind at rest relative to the future support of their families, in the event of the Lord of the harvest calling to himself his laborers. It is to call the attention of all Christians to this that we mention the above facts, hoping the good example set by the people of Shreveport may be extensively followed. They deserve credit for their acts, any way. Yours fraternally,

CARONDELET.

Franklinton, Mississippi Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I am at Bro. Babington's, in Franklinton, Louisiana. He is certainly one of the best men in this country. He attends faithfully to the Sabbath school, and takes much interest in training the mind of the young; and then he is an active agent for the ADVOCATE, and he also cares for the preacher and his family. Such men are valuable to the church and ornaments in society.

I have just been looking over the church register, and calling to mind the character and labor of those good men who were here when I traveled this circuit eleven years ago, but have since died and gone to heaven. There was Bro. Stephen Ellis, a faithful, good man, and a Methodist preacher, who died in 1869; and Bros. James Warner and Thomas Warner and William R. H. Falk, and Sister Warren, and others who now rest from their labors. Oh, "when shall we all meet again?"

The church here is not in a very thriving condition. For the last five years the circuit has had no regular pastorate; consequently many have backslidden. But we hope and pray for better times. I have been busy for the last three months trying to gather up what few scattering members there are left, and reorganizing the church. We need help; we need the prayers of God's people. Who will come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty?

The church in Franklinton is trying to do something toward the support of the ministry. Bro. James Burris, a worthy steward, has just handed me $22.50. He told me a few moments ago that the church here would pay up her apportionment, and perhaps more. "The Lord loves a cheerful giver," and he will bless those who bless him.

We anticipate a glorious revival here before the end of the year.

H. P. LEWIS.

CLASS LEADERS.

The following rules were drawn up and observed by a class leader, who for many years met with the greatest success:

1. Engage in secret prayer immediately before going to meeting.
2. Begin exactly at the time appointed, whether there be few or many present.
3. Sing not more than two or three stanzas of some familiar hymn at the opening.
4. Let the opening prayer be short, and with special reference to the success of the meeting.
5. Instead of an exhortation, let the leader state the present exercise of his mind.
6. Frequently ask direct questions; such as—Do you feel the love of God in your heart? Are you seeking for perfect love? Do you feel that you have saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ? Have you an evidence that you are growing in grace?
7. Allow none to speak long.
8. Sing frequently a single stanza of some deeply spiritual hymn.
9. In the closing prayer, remember the sick and absent members.
10. Make diligent inquiry for the sick and absent, and visit them, if need be, at their homes, always taking an interest in their spiritual and temporal prosperity.
11. Call the roll of the class before closing.
12. Meet with the other leaders and the preacher once in three months, or oftener, for prayer and consultation.

It is earnestly requested that each class leader who reads these rules should cut them out, place them in his class book, read them often, and put them in practice.

BRIGHAM YOUNG.—The Salt Lake correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says it is rumored that Brigham Young is going to transfer church headquarters to Kanab, an almost inaccessible settlement in the mountains of southeastern Utah. The same correspondent says that Brigham has recently caused himself to be elected secretary and treasurer (he was already president) of the Utah railroad.

THE CHARACTERISTIC FEATURES OF METHODISM.

BY BISHOP DOGGETT.

The fundamental distinction between ecclesiastical organizations undoubtedly is and ought to be dogmatic. It consists in such views of the gospel as affect the conscience, and necessitate the formation of religious communities upon a basis which constitutes a permanent bond of union, the apprehension of which constrains them to adhere to it by the force of a conviction stronger than any other class of motives. Their cohesion, amidst the mutations of society, depends more upon their doctrinal unity than upon any form of conventional agreement.

Why such doctrinal differences should exist in the Protestant world, in the presence of a common standard of faith, I do not propose to explain. Allowing, as we must do, fidelity to the truth in those who maintain them, they can be accounted for principally upon the hypothesis of the imperfection of the human understanding, and the influence of education and association. The majority of them possess, more or less, elements of evangelism sufficient to authenticate their claim to the credit of orthodoxy, and to entitle them to the fellowship of the saints. It is certain, however, that these distinctions, though strongly marked, do not in any degree affect the integrity of divine revelation itself. That is a perfectly coherent system, whose necessary vastness precludes, to mortals, its complete theoretical comprehension, but whose very perfection renders it possible for them to build upon its essential verities an enduring though a differing superstructure. That church, nevertheless, has the clearest record which approximates most nearly to the conception of the original model.

The inevitable corollary from these premises is, that no intelligent Christian, no one who has solemnly and deliberately adopted a certain form of doctrine, represented by his church relation, will or can abandon it without a radical change in his convictions, or without levity which seriously compromises his Christian character. This is the dilemma which all ecclesiastical changelings encounter. If they pass from one church into another, on an avowed change of doctrinal views, they are presumed very inadequately or very ignorantly to have entertained their previous opinions. One is indeed bound to follow his convictions when they have been formed by careful investigation, whatever sacrifice the effort may cost him. Yet no honest and honorable Christian, true to act, will change his church relations on any other ground. Even a change on this ground—to speak logically—is, for the most part, a violent presumption. How rarely does it or can it properly occur in a country like ours, where information is so generally diffused, and where religious liberty is so thoroughly secured. Hence its occurrence produces a shock to the sense of propriety. It enacts a palpable contradiction which all see, of which the subject himself is sensitively conscious, and which impairs his reputation for stability.

On the other hand, to pass from one church into another, whose doctrines and position are really antagonistic in several material respects, for a lower consideration than that of conscientious doctrinal differences, argues a laxity and frivolity of religious principle which are positively disreputable. To make the transition from motives of personal advantage, such as gain or ease, or promotion, or consanguinity, or resentment, is condemned by the common judgment of the Christian public as a species of misdemeanor which taints the character. The large proportion of such changes appear to be made for no better reasons; and those who thus tamper with sacred responsibilities seek to cover their inconstancy and to indemnify their social credit by extravagant avowals, which to all except themselves appear to be impossibilities. Their pretended discovery of hidden truths, and their fulsome landations of newly-formed associations, are the natural compensations with which a conscious recreancy endeavors to sustain itself; and are regarded by observers either as a pitiable weakness or disgusting treachery. Persons actuated by such inferior motives frequently practice a remarkable self-deception. They protest their early attachments, and invoke a generous construction of their versatile conduct, while taking a position which necessarily severs the ligaments whose disruption they deplore, and which obliges them virtually, if not ostensibly, to denounce the very source from which they derived every tittle of their Christian respectability and influence. They are committed to the issue, and by the instinct of self-preservation attempt to parry the recoil. It is a perfect fallacy to suppose that one can transport himself to opposite extremes without impersonating those extremes in himself. He may be a Christian, but his attitude must be inimical to all that is peculiar in his abandoned position; and to hope to retain the same regards that were formerly cherished is as preposterous as to confound the poles.

These reflections have, I trust, pertinently arisen in this connection, although no part of my original plan, which was to show that the doctrinal system of Methodism is in itself an ample ground of indissoluble attachment to it, and that no intelligent Methodist can commit himself to another without renouncing that glorious type of gospel truth which, in the providence of God, has been specially intrusted to the keeping of Wesleyan Methodism. No one can cordially believe in the points enumerated, without being identified with it, upon a dogmatic ground so clearly apprehended, as not to surrender it without a revolution in his ideas of the scheme of salvation. It is the doctrine which makes Methodism so dear to its adherents and so formidable to its opponents. It is not the fondness for organization or the ambition of success which enthrones itself in the heart of Methodism. It is the blessed doctrine of which it is the honored depositary. It is the doctrine which has resounded so long in Methodist pulpits without discord, and which has been embalmed in Methodist literature without disguise, that constitutes its greatest distinction. It is the bold, unequivocal, flaming proclamation of a present, full, universal salvation, by faith alone, followed by good works, that has been so signally attested, and has rendered the Shibboleth of its preaching so distinctively articulate as never to be mistaken. Its doctrine is its luster and its power—a doctrine which gives depth, consistency and grandeur to its theological system; a doctrine which, in our apprehension, is sustained by the obvious teachings of God's word, by the analogy of faith, by biblical criticism and hermeneutics, by learning and philosophy, and which has nothing to fear from the arrogance of error or the progress of science. This is the testimony which God has confided to Methodism, and which it is our duty never to suppress.—Richmond Christian Advocate.

SING AWAY YOUR GRIEF.

We can sing away our cares easier than we can reason them away. The birds are the earliest to sing in the morning; the birds are more without care than anything else I know of. Sing in the evening. Singing is the last thing that robbins do. When they have done their daily work—when they have flown their last flight, and picked up their last morsel of food, and cleansed their bills on a napkin of a bough, then on a top twig they sing one song of praise. I know they sleep sweeter for it. They dream music; for sometimes in the night they break forth in singing, and stop suddenly after the first note, startled by their own voice. Oh! that we might sing evening and morning, and let song touch song all the way through.

As I was returning from the country the other evening between six and seven o'clock, bearing a basket of flowers, I met a man that was apparently the tender of a mason. He looked brick and mortar all over. He had worked the entire day, and had the appearance of a man that would not be afraid to work. He was walking on with a light step, and singing to himself as he passed down the street, though he had been working the whole day, and nearly the whole week. Were it not that my good thoughts always come too late, I should have given him a large allotment of my flowers. If he had not been out of sight when the idea occurred to me, I should have hailed him, and said:

"Have you worked all day?"

"Of course I have," he would have said.

"Are you singing?"

"Of course I am."

"Then take these flowers home, and give them to your wife, and tell her what a blessing she has in you."

Oh! that we could put songs under our burdens. Oh! that we could extract the sense of sorrow by song. Then these things would not poison so much. Sing in the house. Teach your children to sing. When griefs arise, sing them down. Lift the voice of praise against cares. Praise God by singing; that will lift you above trials of every sort. Attempt it. They sing in heaven; and among God's people upon earth song is the appropriate language of Christian feeling.

MEMORIAL CHURCHES, MADAGASCAR. The third of the memorial churches (so called) has been opened in the capital of Madagascar. This is called the Children's Church. It stands on a commanding position, and can be seen from a great distance. On this spot, in 1849, four Christian nobles, including one lady, were burnt at the stake. Now the Queen is the nursing mother of the church, and was present with a body of her officers at the opening.

The Religious Paper in the Family.

Each family should take a religious paper first, and a political paper afterward, if able. But observation teaches us that the reverse is the case. The political is first, second and sometimes third—three political papers in the family, and no religious paper to give substantial food to the mind.

In feeding our families at the table we do not feed them on trash, unwholesome food, which causes the body to degenerate and become weakly, sickly, deathly! But we feed them on substantial food, to give the greatest degree of health and strength. Shall we not give an equal amount of care to the health and vigor of the intellect and morals?

Visit a family and you will soon determine its training; converse with it and you can soon determine its reading. As a person's reading is, so will be his knowledge and so will he converse.

The advantages of a good religious paper are:

1. It gives the greatest amount of substantial reading for the least amount of money.

They are published each week at $2 to $3 per annum, containing enough substantial matter to fill ten books costing $1 each.

This is but a very small price for intellectual food.

2. They have a freshness which does not always attach to books. The religious journal comes every week, new and fresh. We begin to look for it toward the time of its approach with a keen and whetted appetite. We read it during the week two or three times perhaps, in spare time which would otherwise have been thrown away; whether in the heat of summer resting, or depth of winter warming by the cozy fire, time is actually saved and knowledge is positively gained. The amount of reading matter thus consumed in the course of a year by the hardest working man would astonish him if presented to him in book form on New Year's day, if he should be told that this was added to his daily labor. I once bought Macaulay's History of England, bound in one volume. An old lady said, in astonishment: "When will you ever read that book through?" She did not know that she did perhaps three or four times that amount of reading in her religious paper and books during the year.

3. Its moral effect. A short time ago a little piece was headed "The first downward step," showing the effect of a father stopping his religious paper. This was followed, said the writer, by failing to attend church regularly, by neglecting the prayer meeting, by omitting family worship, by ceasing to care for the religious culture of the family, and at last throwing off the restraints of the gospel. Such cases may be few, but even one shows the effect. If we have any interest in our own church we certainly wish to know what it is doing. Not taking its paper, has a tendency to make us careless, at least; and where carelessness is begotten, other serious evils will likely follow.—A. R. Presbyterian.

"W. C."—The letters S. S. and W. C., in Presbyterian and Congregational nomenclature, means "Stated Supply" and "Without a Charge." A writer in the Interior thus dilates on "W. C.:"

In a great majority of cases the primitive significance is Worn-out Constitution, and hence the common acceptation, Without Charge. Springing directly from this is Wandering Continually, and from this by natural sequence, Wasted Capital and Without Comforts (Attic.) This sense is further secured by supplying Wicked Congregations Without Compensation. At this stage, too, the unhappy brother of the White Cravat, wearing the title, often comes to be Widely Censured, and even accused of Worldly Conformity, albeit he may be a man Wholly Consecrated to the great work of Winning Converts, and only on account of physical inability Without Capacity. We Confess We Cannot, With Candor, Withhold Censure from those who, Without Consideration, heap Wholesale Condemnation upon many truly Worthy Clergymen who wear the sometimes really honorable title.

GOOD IN ITS PLACE.—Bishop Asbury was a guest of a family who were profuse in their hospitalities. Brandy was placed on the table, and he was invited to partake, but he declined. The lady blushed, and said: "Bishop, I believe that brandy is good in its place." "So do I," said Mr. Asbury; "if you have no objection I will put it in its place;" so he put it in the old-fashioned cupboard in the corner of the room, saying, with emphasis: "That is the place, and there let it stay;" and there it did stay, never to be brought on the table again.

THE natives of the White mountain region think that the scientific party passing the winter on the top of Mount Washington "ought to be pretty well paid for it."

FAMILY WORSHIP.

It is a frequent complaint that little is done to support the various enterprises of the church. There scarcely a newspaper that does not contain something upon this subject. In reading these reports we often think that too much time thus consumed in setting forth different failures that have been made. The physician, when called to visit his patient, does not stop to give a history of all the instances of malpractice that have occurred in the profession. He proceeds at once to make a diagnosis of the case that he may apply the remedy.

The question to be considered is, How shall we advance the spiritual interests of the church? In giving an answer to this important question we should not conclude that we have discovered the origin of the evil, when we have discovered only the phenomena and its effects. In entering upon the investigation of this subject we may indicate, at least, the course to be taken. We maintain that more attention should be given to the family, which is one of the institutions of God from which the church derives its strength. There is a close relation existing between the family and the church. The time was when the church was confined to a single family. The church is, in a certain sense, the extension of the family circle. Whatever traits of character, therefore, distinguish the family, the same will characterize the church. If the family is orderly, pious and spiritual in their devotions, the same will be the character of the church. If the heads of families neglect to attend family worship, to read the Scriptures, to catechise their children, the effect will be clearly seen in the conduct of their children. They will not make the same firm and consistent Christians. They will not have that constancy, that love and devotion for the church which those who have been brought around the family altar. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." We have only to look to the history of the church in order to establish the truth of what we advance. In the days of the patriarchs, while moral darkness was rife in the world, true godliness found a congenial home in the household circle. It was so in the days of the Reformation. It was the case in Scotland, in England and in Germany. Wherever family worship, the study of the Scriptures and a correct system of catechising have been faithfully observed, we have always been found the essential elements of an active and prosperous church.—Banner of Light.

THE seventh translation of the Bible into Chinese is now in progress at Peking—the style of which being known as "Mandarin Colloquial." A great amount of preparatory and tentative work has preceded any final version of the Scriptures into such a language. The missionary, so soon as he gets control of his new tongue at all, is impelled by an urgent necessity to put the Bible for the people. But it speaks their language broken, and he can hardly hope to write it better. His first translation is condemned. Rev. E. W. Syle, in the Chinese Recorder: "Wylie man's translation, Morrison's, Milne's, Gutzlaff's, Medhurst's, Delegates', and that of the London Mission—all these have their work to perform in the work of attracting and producing the great Chinese version whose arrival and completion may not reasonably be looked for by Chinese Christian scholars conversant with Greek and Hebrew, able to prepare and put forth some sort of authority "The Holy Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments, translated out of the original tongues, and with the former translations diligently compared and revised." Such a ripe and satisfying translation is that made by Dr. Smith and Van Dyck into Arabic, a pure classic to the language, no less than a true and trans version; prepared for by the labors and more linguistic acquisitions of years spent in missionary intercourse and preaching; and designed, perhaps, to be to all Arabic speaking people what our old English version has been to us. No one foresee how widely it will be used. Rev. Mr. Blodgett, of the American Board at Peking, learned recently that a full third of the population in one of the central Chinese provinces is Mohammedan, and knowing that wherever the Koran goes it carries its sacred language, the Arabic, with it, has sent it the width of Asia for a supply of Bibles in Drs. Smith and Van Dyck's translation. The Koran thus opened the way for the Bible into the heart of one of the largest populations on earth; and for a pure and classic version for nations and races far distant.—Independent.

"PETER'S PENCE" amounts to $1,000 already this year, which will fully balance Peter's expenses.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1871.

EVENING TIME THERE SHALL BE LIGHT.

Bright were the beams of morning,
Bearing the joys of youth;
Clear were the hopes then dawning
As promises of truth.
Noon, with its highest shining,
In all the gains of earth,
Scarce filled the thoughts reclining
In those fond dreams of birth.

Clouds gathered o'er the vision;
Darkness obscured the sky;
Hope shrunk beneath derision;
Faith passed despairing by.
Cares shrouded over gladness;
Sins multiplied within;
Sorrows spread forth their sadness,
The heritage of sin.

Shall all be dark forever?
The trembling heart inquired;
Will life discover never
The joys so long desired?
Shall all the day be clouded?
The sun go down in gloom?
Shall human hope lie shrouded
With darkness in the tomb?

Bright are the beams of evening,
Glowing the sunset sky,
The gathered clouds all leaving
Sweet Hope enthroned on high.
Higher and higher rising
The light of eventide,
Fuller and more surprising
The joys which still abide.

A world of peace is glowing
Beyond that sunset hill,
To cheer the soul, now knowing
That hope abiding still;
Brighter and brighter shining,
That joy approaches near;
And heavenly love is twining
The crown that soul shall wear.

GOD AND SECOND CAUSES.

There is a scientific way of separating God from the world that he has made. Second causes are interposed in such numbers that the First Cause is hidden behind them. The crowd of captains of companies and chiefs of battalions, the commanding general is not seen, and his voice is drowned; so many thousands of the fleet screen from our sight the flag of the admiral. The infinitudes of reasons which we can assign for every fact, for every process in nature and every circumstance in life; for the acts of men in the measures of States, and the movements of races; for physical changes or for the caprices of folly; for changes as much as for earthquakes; for social changes as much as for returning seasons, or for signs in the sky—the second immediate causes which we can find for all those things that we see seem to put God so far back that his agency is no more felt than a shower among the hills is felt in the city or on the plain. Ten thousand leaves above our heads may hide the heavens with their canopy as effectually as any black curtain of the night. Ten thousand reasons for things, however as these reasons may be, and however the more good that they are the more they shall hide from our narrow sight the work of omnipotence. Chemistry, mechanics, optics, botany, anatomy, metaphysic and logic, the sciences of matter and mind, of gravity and of spirit, excellent as they may be, can be so massed and marshaled that, standing together, they shall stand in the stead of God. "In need of God," asks the Germanic, "when you have the laws of gravity?" Are not all things ruled by laws? Can we not show the cause and consequence in all the phenomena of physical nature and of human life? Why must we bring the deity to press his way in this thing, disturbing its order, deranging the harmony, and jostling among the fixed laws? Why ask more than the plant and insect and beast and man and nations and ages shall show their intrinsic and inevitable fact and justice? Even if a supreme Ruler sit behind these laws, why should he be more than a lay figure?—why should he come down from that calm dignity, that grand repose, of one who has finished his work, and set it in order, to assist in the power sufficient causes, to plow the fields, to wait in sonatas, or even to save souls? Let us be content with what we can see, and not assume a Reckless Providence.

Human science, in its confident pride, rids the world of a personal God in the multiplication of second causes. But second causes can never be substitute for that first cause, and which is the impulse and the struggle of all thought and all history. The leaves of the forest, though endless in number, only make shade; they do not annihilate the light which they lessen; the more subtle light enables us to see and number the leaves. No second cause is really adequate without the assumption of a ruling First Cause; and God is the only cause of these innumerable laws. Which become one and harmonious as far as the God is within them. The gravity and the force of the ax do not fell the tree without the woodman's zeal and stroke. The engine in the basement, the cards, the spindles, the flying shuttles, with their fine complication of band and wheel, of motion direct, reversed, and eccentric, here and there, up and down, every part in its place, and nothing wanting—all these, working separately, and working together, are nothing without the will of the master: his hand at the fires, his step in the halls, his watch of the wheels, his omnipresent and pervading influence, make all this mechanism efficient. These second causes in the life of the world and of men may be adjusted never so wisely, but they fall short of their proper issue if the omnipresent thought and will of infinite cause and rules be not with them and in them.—Old and New.

THE MINIMUM CHRISTIAN.

We have been so deeply interested, says the Christian at Work, in an article upon this subject in an English periodical that we cannot refrain from giving our readers the following extract:

"The minimum Christian! And who is he? The Christian who is going to heaven at the cheapest rate possible. The Christian who intends to get all of the world he can, and not meet the worldling's doom. The Christian who aims to have as little religion as he can, without lacking it altogether.

"The minimun Christian goes to church in the morning, and in the afternoon also, unless it rains, or is too warm, or too cold, or he is sleepy, or has the headache from eating too much at dinner. He listens most respectfully to the preacher, and joins in prayer and praise. He applies the truth very sensibly sometimes to himself, oftener to his neighbors.

"The minimum Christian is very friendly to all good works. He wishes them well, but it is not in his power to do much for them. The Sunday school he looks upon as an admirable institution, especially for the neglected and ignorant. It is not convenient, however, for him to take a class. His business engagements are so pressing during the week that he needs Sabbath as a day of rest; nor does he think himself qualified to act as a teacher. There are so many persons better prepared for this important duty that he must beg to be excused; still he would do it if he must. He is very friendly to home and foreign missions and colportage, and gives his mite. He thinks there are 'too many appeals;' but he gives, if not enough to save his reputation, pretty near it; at all events, he aims at it.

"The minimum Christian is not clear on a number of points—the opera and dancing, perhaps the theater and card-playing; large fashionable parties give him much trouble. He cannot see any harm in this, or that, or the other popular amusement. There is nothing in the Bible against it. He does not see but a man may be a Christian, and dance or go to the opera. He knows several excellent persons who do. Why should not he?

"He stands so close to the dividing line between the people of God and the people of the world that it is hard to say on which side of it he actually is to be found.

"Ah, my brother, are you making this attempt? Beware, lest you find at last that in trying to get to heaven with a little religion, you have missed it altogether; lest, without gaining the whole world, you lose your own soul."

Illiteracy.—The report of the commissioner of education gives the following striking statistics of illiteracy in the United States: There are now 8,000,000 adults, including 1,653,800 adult ex-slaves, who cannot read or write. In 1840 New Hampshire had 1,000 white persons over twenty years who could not read and write; in 1860, 5,000. Maine increased from 3,000 to 9,000 illiterate; all New England from 14,000 to 87,000; Pennsylvania, from 36,000 to 75,000; New York, from 57,000 to 121,000; Michigan, from 2,000 to 18,000; Tennessee, from 62,000 to 74,000; Texas, from 5,000 to 19,000, and so on, including only the white population. This illiteracy is most marked among the women. In New Hampshire the uneducated women are 1,000 in excess; in New York, 20,000; in Pennsylvania, 17,000; in Georgia, 10,900; in Illinois, 8,000; in Massachusetts, 12,000.

Home Rules.—The following rules for the government of children, which were first presented by Mr. Jacob Abbott's books, have been of great service to many successful teachers:

When you consent, consent cordially.

When you refuse, refuse finally.

When you punish, punish good-naturedly.

Commend often.

Never scold.

If parents and teachers would bear these simple directions in mind children would be better and happier.

A rumor is afloat that the man who dived into futurity came up drowned in tears, and has since been in the depths of despair; he is now better, having dipped into a book.

FLY TO THE FOUNTAIN.

That human nature is defiled and needs the washing of regeneration is a fact admitted by all evangelical Christians. This impurity is the result of disobedience. Man was not always thus polluted. Once he bore the likeness of his Creator, and was in favor and communion with God. Had he retained this "holiness unto the Lord," he might, for aught we know, have been translated, like Enoch and Elijah, to the upper and better world. But "wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, because all have sinned." The best men, of whom the world was not worthy, acknowledge the defilement of human nature in language like the following: "Behold, I am vile;" "Behold, I was shapen in iniqnity, and in sin did my mother conceive me;" "The whole head is sick and the whole heart is faint;" with many other passages proving to a demonstration the pollution of the human family. Both fountain and stream became corrupted. Adam and Eve, having lost the image of God, begat children in their own likeness. How could it be otherwise? "Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?" "For the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth; they go astray as soon as they be born."

Not satisfied with original corruptibleness, thousands are rendering themselves more miserable every day by actually and knowingly transgressing the law of God. This fact is strikingly manifested in the conduct of men and women of every village, city or neighborhood. Some are found who by their ungodly living render themselves an offense to refined society. What Christian has not, at some time, had his feelings deeply wounded by the profanity and dissipation of those who regard not God or man, who are living without God and without hope in the world? Not one. What shall we, the professed followers of Jesus, do for those who are thus pursuing evil? Shall we fold our "faith-clad arms in lazy lock," and allow these precious souls for whom Jesus died to spend their time in sin and folly, without an effort on our part to bring them to him whose blood cleanseth from all sin? If so, how vain the expression: "You are the light of the world; return to thine house and tell what great things the Lord hath done for thee." Wherein we were once a curse to the world, let us now, by the grace of God, be a blessing. Let us go to the sinner and tell him that human nature may be purified—tell him

"There is a fountain filled with blood,
Drawn from Immanuel's veins;
And sinners plunged beneath that flood Lose all their guilty stains."

Encourage him to go to the "Fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and uncleanness." All Christians should willingly adopt the language of Paul: "Knowing the terror of the Lord, we persuade men"—persuade them by our words, actions and holy living to "flee the wrath to come," by trusting in him as the Fountain of life. O sinner, no longer procrastinate your return to God. Fly immediately to the Fountain of salvation.—Religious Telescope.

Argument in Preaching.—Argument forms the basis of interest with the popular mind, and it is the staple method of dealing with and influencing mind. Appeals to the feelings, and all kinds of "sensational preaching," soon wear out; but plain, sensible and comprehensive reasoning, without the pedantry of the logician or the hardness of the metaphysician, always has power with the great mass of commonsense, intelligent hearers. A sermon which has nothing of this element of thoughtful argumentation in it rarely makes a lasting impression, because it does not reach the depths of the subject or the depths of the mind. It ruffles the top waves; it does not reach the springs of thought or motive. No amount of fine writing, dazzling declamation, or even pathetic appeal, can atone for the absence of sound reasoning in a sermon. It need not and should not be technically theological, nor be continued wearisomely; but there can be little true eloquence without it. Truth, which is the converting agency, is not honored if it is not carefully developed, and if this thoughtful, orderly setting forth of truth do not form the basis of the sermon. This forms the positive element in preaching.—Hoppin.

Beautiful.—When Philip Henry, father of the commentator on the Bible, sought the hand of the only daughter of Mr. Matthew in marriage, an objection was made by her father, who admitted that he was a gentleman, a scholar and an excellent preacher, but he was a stranger. "True," said the daughter, who had well weighed the excellent qualities and graces of the stranger, "but I know where he is going, and I would like to go with him."

SPURGEON ON SABBATH SCHOOLS.

Mr. Spurgeon, in a speech at a Sabbath school meeting held in Edinburg, uttered some thoughts worth the consideration of parents and teachers:

If we do not teach the children, Satan will teach them. I have heard of a father who objected to teaching his child to pray. The child broke his leg, and while the leg was being taken off he continued to curse and swear all the time. "See," said the physician, "you have a point of conscience about not teaching the child to pray, but Satan has no conscience about teaching him to swear."

I think that to make good Sabbath school teachers there must be thorough knowledge and appreciation in your souls of the things you have to teach. I was in Italy last year, and in crossing the Alps with my wife the sun was so hot that it scorched her face. She asked me to get her some elder-flower water. I started off to a chemist, and as I did not know a word of the Italian language, I looked through the bottles and jars in his shop, but could not find anything of the kind. I tried to jabber something in French, but he did not understand me, because it was no language at all. I went down to a little brook that ran through the town, and walking along the edge came to an elder-flower tree. I got a handful of flowers, walked off to the shop and held it up to the man, and he knew in an instant what I meant. I think it is not easy to convey the gospel to the heart by merely talking of it; but if you can say by your own life, "This is the life of Christ, this is the joy of the Christian," you will be much more likely to make converts.

The teacher who goes to his class thinking that he himself always is competent without preparation, is making what I think a gross mistake. It is well to preach without notes, no doubt, but a man who should preach purely extemporaneously, without thinking beforehand, would probably be an exceedingly dull and dry preacher.

"Would you believe it, Sandy," said a divine, "that I never thought of the sermon before I went to the pulpit?"

"O, that is exactly what Mr. Mackintosh and I have been saying while you were preaching."

Now, if Sunday school teachers pride themselves on their extemporaneous teaching, their pride is peculiar to themselves, and the children will not take much pride in them.

WHAT WILL SOON BE.

If God be against thee, all things are against thee; this world is but a prison, for all thou so lovest it; thou art but reserved in it to the day of wrath; the Judge is coming; thy soul is even going. Yet a little while, and thy friends shall say of thee, "He is dead;" and thou shalt see the things that thou now dost despise, and feel that which thou wilt not believe. Death will bring such an argument as thou canst not answer.

O, poor, deceived, wretched soul! there is nothing but a slender vail of flesh between thee and that amazing sight, which will quickly silence thee, and make thee of another mind! As soon as death hath drawn this curtain, thou shalt see that which will quickly leave thee speechless. And how quickly will that day and hour come! As a thief that sits merrily spending the money which he hath stolen, in an ale-house, when men are riding in posthaste to apprehend him, so it is with you. While you are drowned in cares or fleshly pleasures, and making merry with your own shame, death is coming in posthaste to seize upon you and carry your souls to such a place and state as now you little think of. Oh, that you could but see what haste death makes, though he has not yet overtaken you! No post so swift, no messenger more sure. When death does overtake you, will you then jest and brave it out? Will you then jeer at them that warned you? Will it then be better to be a believing saint or a sensual worldling? And then "whose shall all those things be" that you have gathered?—Baxter.

Massacred.—It is stated that a daughter of Major J. Rhaza, of the United States army, was recently killed, together with her husband and four others, in New Mexico, the massacre being committed by Indians. The young lady's maiden name was Bettie Rhaza. She formerly lived in New Albany with her father. After her marriage she settled in New Mexico.

In a Western newspaper office the following notice was lately posted up: "Lost.—A valuable new silk umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a curiously carved head."

A German mechanic in Ingolstadt claims to have invented a printing press superior to the best power presses now in use.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Cumberland Presbyterians are pressing their work in Colorado with vigor.

The Presbyterians in New Zealand have a general assembly, a synod, eight presbyteries, seventy ministers, and two hundred and thirty "ecclesiastical buildings."

The Christian Era finds only fifteen Baptist pastors in the whole State of Massachusetts, among two hundred and sixty-six churches, who have been settled in their present places ten years.

Miss West, a missionary in Turkey for the past ten years, has had under her instruction two hundred girls, who, professing Christianity, are now scattered along the Euphrates and Tigris, engaged in teaching these truths to their country women.

At the late meeting of the Providence Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church the candidates for full membership in the ministry were severally inquired of if they used tobacco. All answered no except one, who confessed to the habit of using it, but said he used it on medical grounds. Bishop Janes responded: "Well, brother, I hope it will cure you quick." The whole Conference applauded.

Miss Burton, a zealous Christian lady in Rome, distributed some tracts lately in the neighborhood of the basilica of St. Paul extra-muros, when a priest came up, followed by a lot of peasants, and burnt a parcel of her tracts before her eyes. Another time she distributed some Bibles at Albano, when the people surrounded her carriage, eager to receive them; but on returning from her drive she saw them burning.

The London correspondent of the Interior says: "Our Presbyterian friends in London are at present endeavoring to take some souls in the net by popular evangelistic services. They have organized a week of gospel preaching. In five of our best known churches there are to be nightly meetings for a week. Our ablest men from London and the country are to speak the glad tidings, three of them at each gathering."

The Berlin Missionary Society escapes a debt of ten thousand thalers, threatened by diminution of receipts growing out of the French and Prussian war, in a singular way. In 1857 some three or four square miles of land, so barren as to escape taxation, came into its possession. Located in far-off South Africa, it promised nothing. But it lies within the diamond region, and the percentage levied on "discoveries" yielded, up to the end of 1870, just the needed ten thousand thalers. So says the Missionary Herald.

The blasphemy of Pius the Ninth in taking to himself the attributes of God is bearing its fruit. The following shocking address to the Pope has been signed by hundreds of Roman Catholics in the diocese of Rhodez, in the south of France: "Being established upon this earth in the place of the Messiah, you are, like that divine Master, the way, the truth, the life. Those who are with you, and who obey your instructions, constitute the soul of the church. Those who are not with you, and who criticise your instructions, are out of the church—that is to say, out of the way, of the truth and of the life."

A meeting was held in London, March 9, at the hall in Red Lion square, of the workers in the Midnight mission. During the past year there have been 21 large and 3 small meetings held, attended by 1,028 young women, and 4 of whom were taken direct from the meetings to homes, 31 afterward seeking admission, making a total of 115 from the meetings. Besides these, about 30 young women have been admitted into institutions by application at the office. It is worthy of remark that of the 115 there were only 29 over 21 years of age, and that rather less than one-half were London girls.

Cheering accounts continue to reach the Methodist rooms of the remarkable revival in progress at and near Lucknow. Rev. Dr. Thorburn says, January 31: "Last Sabbath evening three were converted at our English service. Our chapel is quite too small to contain the congregations. We are holding no extra services, but awakenings and conversions continue to occur. Bro. Taylor spent two days of last week at Seetapore. God owned his labors in a wonderful manner. In one day twenty-nine souls were converted to God. Of these seventeen were natives and twelve Europeans. I cannot tell you how unspeakably thankful we are for what God is doing for us. The springs are bursting forth in the desert. We have spent weary, painful years in waiting, but the day of his power has come at last."

The union movement in Scotland is progressing favorably. About forty-five presbyteries in the Free Church appear to be favorable to it, while only seven have declared against it. There are about seventy presbyteries in all. The correspondent of the Observer hears that "the new wave will probably be in the direction of placing the negotiating churches in the same relation to one another as that in which the Free Church stands to the English Presbyterian and the Irish Presbyterian churches—that is to say, that the congregations of all of them should be at liberty to call the ministers of any of them." A "large and most influential" meeting of the opponents of the union was recently held in Edinburg. Dr. Bonar and others spoke.

Presbyterian.—The Choctaw mission, says the Christian Observer and Commonwealth, has been again bereaved by the death of Rev. Thomas H. Benton. The Southern Presbyterian of last week says he died "about a month ago. He had been in feeble health for some time"—but particulars respecting his last illness had not reached Columbia. Since the close of the war this mission has lost six missionaries by death—two of the venerable founders of the mission, Byington and Kingsbury; two others who had for many years labored with them, Hotchkin and Copeland; and two efficient native ministers, Fiske and Benton. Of all the ordained ministers laboring among the Choctaws in 1866, the Rev. Allen Wright alone remains.

Few persons, says the Independent, are aware, perhaps, of the work and power of the mission press at Beirut. Matrices and type for the elaborate Arabic fonts are manufactured, electrotyping done, and two steam presses kept running. Six editions of the Bible, parts of the gospels arranged for the blind, five or six millions of pages annually, and an illustrated News of Missions monthly are but part of its fruit. Jesuits and other opponents are stimulated to establish presses and control, if possible, the literature for the Arabic peoples. Meantime, enlargement of its premises and a commodious building for depository and salesroom, to be called "The Bible and Mission House," and to serve as a conspicuous center of evangelization, seems to be urgently demanded by the Protestant work.

Sunday Schools in Geneva.—Madame D'Aubigne, wife of Dr. Merle D'Aubigne, the renowned historian, is actively engaged in Sunday school work. A letter from her is now before us. She speaks of the opposition of the clergy (a majority of whom are unevangelical,) the want of a Sunday school literature, and other obstacles not easily surmounted. She conducts a Sunday school in person and instructs her class of teachers. Of these there is a very short supply, and they are mostly women. Of the eight hundred to nine hundred Sunday school teachers in Switzerland, probably not more than fifty are males. In fact, lay activity in the churches is a thing little recognized, and almost entirely unknown. Teachers (monitors) are expected to hear recitations only, and not to teach religion. Yet this estimable lady works on bravely, adopting our American ideas of class teaching and teachers' meetings, and her influence and that of other faithful workers is widely felt, and the cause makes steady progress. Madame D'Aubigne, aided by the Foreign Committee of the American Sunday School Union, is about offering a premium for a Sunday school book best adapted to the wants of her native Switzerland.—New York Observer.

The British missionary papers are concentrating attention upon the use of opium in China. Fresh facts are given, showing its fearful increase throughout some of the most populous and powerful provinces. While the importation of the foreign article has not increased materially, native production has become enormous. Whole provinces are said to be white with the poppy flowers in April and May. A penny is sufficient to provide an ordinary smoker with a day's consumption. Says an English observer, Rev. Griffith John: "It seems to me that England is deeply implicated. We have created and stimulated the appetite for the drug; we have made the nefarious traffic in it respectable by inducing the Chinese to legalize it; and we have caused them to supply their own wants at a cheaper rate than we can do it for them. In former days smokers were banished and sellers decapitated. At present both are perfectly safe. Concealment, either from a sense of shame or danger, is hardly now known. Even in Peking the dens are in every lane, and there is an opium-shop in the palace itself." In certain of the provinces indulgence is now so general, and the physical effects, to say nothing of the moral, so widely prostrating and demoralizing, that in another generation or so little stamina will be left for missions to take hold on.—Independent.

Essex County, Massachusetts, raised twenty-five thousand barrels of onions, valued at $1,000,000, last season.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1871.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

New Orleans District Conference.

Notice is given that the New Orleans District Conference will meet at the Carondelet Street church on Wednesday, April 26, at ten o'clock A. M. On Wednesday night the pastors and congregations of the district will unite in a sacramental meeting, and on Thursday night a union love-feast of the district will be held. The pastors of the several charges are requested to give notice to their congregations of the appointed services, and to prepare the reports contemplated in the duty of the district conference, as specified in the Discipline, chapter 2, section 3. The chief subjects of review and consideration are: As to the spiritual state, as to missions, as to Sunday schools and as to their financial systems. Besides the traveling and local preachers, who are members by provision of the Discipline, the Louisiana Conference determined at its last session that all the lay members of the quarterly conference shall be members of the district conference. Besides other important business, the lay members of the ensuing Annual Conference are to be elected. The prompt attendance of all the official members of the district is urgently requested.

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

MISSION SCHOOL FESTIVAL.

The festival which our Prosbyterian friends held during the past week, for the benefit of their mission Sunday schools, has proved eminently successful. The courteous invitation of the managers, and the badge which conferred upon us the freedom of the festival, were duly received and appreciated, although circumstances prevented us from attending. We only regret that the invitation did not come in time for acknowledgment in last week's paper. Our Presbyterian brethren are doing a great work in the way of mission Sunday schools, and we hope their enterprise and success may provoke and encourage others to extend their labors in this field of usefulness.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the New Orleans District Sunday School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church South will be celebrated in Carondelet Street church on Sunday, April 30, at four o'clock P. M.

Addresses will be delivered by William Walker, Esq., Rev. J. A. G. Rabe, Rev. John Mathews and Rev. W. V. Tudor, D. D., and songs by the children of all the schools of the union. The schools will meet for practice together on Saturday, April 29, at four o'clock P. M., at the same place.

W. H. FOSTER, Pres.

THE FELICITY STREET CHURCH.—We are glad to notice the continued and marked religious interest which prevails in this charge. None but the usual services have been held, but a large number of conversions have taken place. The pastor, Rev. John Mathews, reports sixty-nine accessions to the church since the beginning of the Conference year.

CHURCHES VS. CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.—Rev. John Todd, in the Boston Congregationalist, urges young men not to take the life-blood from the church by deserting it for the Young Men's Christian Association

THE MINISTERIAL WOE.

In Paul's case this woe was of the most serious import. Necessity was laid upon him of so grave a character that his salvation was involved. Of all the fearful things which a refusal to preach the gospel might have inflicted upon him, the loss of his own soul was that which he had chiefly in his mind. Taking all the circumstances of his conversion and call to the apostleship into the account, but one path was open to him. He was so unmistakably put into the ministry that it would have been the height of contumacy to have even doubted the fact. Disobedience to "the heavenly vision" would have placed him in an attitude of rebellion, which must have ended in his eternal ruin. We might hesitate to apply Paul's convictions concerning himself to all who in the ordinary way are moved to preach. There are pains and penalties attached to every departure from duty in the religious life, and this self-evident proposition applies with peculiar force to the obligations of the ministry. To resist or to evade the impression that a dispensation of the gospel is committed to us may not in every case lead to the absolute forfeiture of eternal life, but there will be spiritual depression, loss of comfort, and often well marked providential afflictions. The sin may not be "unto death," but the manifestations of the divine disapprobation will be neither few nor light. There are many good men in the church, called in their youth to preach, whose lives have been embittered by conflict and disappointment, and whose temporal and spiritual welfare has been engloomed by this mistake of their earlier religious history. Their release from a distasteful duty has been attended by trouble and disaster, by the loss of peace and satisfaction, and by heartfelt sorrow and regret that they did not heed the voice of God. The young man who is called to this work will be happier in it than in any other condition, and if he does not lose his soul by declining to enter it, he will have cause to mourn over the most serious error of his life.

Disobedience to this conviction may entail eternal ruin upon the soul. The grieved Spirit departs from him who willfully resists his operations, and he is left alone to his idols. The refusal to obey this call is the beginning of a cause of backsliding, which ultimately reaches apostacy. Thousands who have taken the responsibility of deciding against the clearest intimations of God's will concerning them have sealed their doom by this act. They have sought relief from their convictions by keeping aloof from all religious influences, and by plunging more deeply into the pursuits and pleasures of the world. They have fled from the presence of the Lord rather than accept the burden of calling sinners to repentance. The young man whom Christ called to follow him, although he went away sorrowing, still he went away to keep his possessions and to lose his soul. Necessity is doubtless laid upon all who are called to preach. In some it may be a higher and more inexorable necessity than in others, but still there is a woe which follows disobedience. In some it is a more prominent element of conviction than in others, and in many it is nearly lost and overshadowed by a superabounding love for the work of saving souls.

So glorious and delightful is this employment, that they engage in it with the enthusiasm of volunteers, and are thankful for the privilege of proclaiming the riches of the grace of God in Christ. The point of perplexity is not whether they must, but whether they may preach the gospel. The blessing and not the woe stimulates and attracts, and they are drawn and allured by the constraining love of Christ. The sense of privilege may be greater than that of necessity, and so much greater that all consciousness of compulsion is lost in the freeness and gladness with which the divine commission is accepted. That view of the ministry which regards it as a species of servitude to which some believers are condemned, is far from the true conception. It is rather the freest and noblest sphere of Christian duty, in which every peculiar sacrifice is offset by the grandest compensations. It is an invitation to the highest seat at the gospel feast, and a distinction which angels might covet. Incidentally and to serve the argument in hand, Paul exclaims, "Yea, woe is me if I preach not the gospel!" but generally he alludes to his ministerial vocation in terms of thankfulness and satisfaction. He magnifies his office, and glories in its tribulations and sufferings: "And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the ministry." The necessity was there, and in all his ministry, but it was outstripped by the nobler principles of faith and love, and overgrown by the fragrant bloom of a cheerful and joyous service. However it might have been on the surface in the beginning of his career, it gave place and became subordinate to the impulse of a consecrated and holy heart.

We can scarcely think of John as uttering the Pauline woe at all. A nature like his needed not the lash to drive him into the field of duty, but it yielded readily to the divine drawings and the sweet entrancements of the spiritual life. His call was doubtless backed by as great a woe as that of Paul, but it may never have risen clearly into his consciousness, because its office was not needed. To him the ministry was altogether a call of privilege, a glory and a joy, and a service of perfect freedom. Prudential fear enters largely into ordinary Christian experience, but it loses prominence under the growing strength of the spiritual life, and almost fades from thought in the glowing and grateful affection of the believing heart. It is so in ministerial experience, in which the "woe is me," however true in fact, is sunk in the all-pervading love of Christ and his work. Doubtless there are some preachers who have scarcely, even at the beginning of their career, felt anything of it. The seraphim have touched their lips with fire from the altar, and when God has asked the question, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" the response has been, "Here am I; send me."

There is an inward moral necessity which the minister of the gospel feels without any distinct reference to the consequences as they may affect himself. The burden of the word of the Lord is upon him, and he must relieve his heart of the burning truths that stir within. He cannot hold his peace if he would, and utterance must be given to the message that he feels commissioned to proclaim. The prophet's words describe at least the occasional feelings of the man who is called of God to preach: "But his word was in mine heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay." This burning fire, shut up in the bones, is a necessity different from that which is laid upon the conscience by the danger to our own salvation, and differing also somewhat from that grateful love which gladly and freely accepts this form of Christian consecration. Many are moved by this sense of woe to preach, many are perhaps held in their course by its influence; but it does not stand alone, nor is it the highest principle of duty. It is an element in all Christian life and in the ministerial call, but it is not at all times present in the mind, and in some instances it may not have been recognized where other motives have been in the ascendant.

An undue emphasis of Paul's words may lead to the error that the ministry is a path in which the highest incentives are not adequate; in which the believer is driven by the whip of necessity, and in which the principles and rewards of a religious life are not found. The apostle's "woe is me" may also be perverted and misapplied by some who are exercised upon the subject of the call to preach. Perhaps they do not feel this woe; but is it needful in every case that they should? May they not be drawn by the love of Christ and moved by the word of the Lord in the heart? The permission may be stronger than the sense of requirement, and the privilege greater than the feeling of necessity. Love may be stronger than fear, and the sense of blessedness in this service may overtop the conceivable consequences of disobedience.

Our German Work in New Orleans.

We had the pleasure of noticing, a few weeks since, a remarkable revival in the Craps Street church, where sixty-five were converted. A good work is now going forward in the Dryades Street charge, where forty-five have been converted within the last ten days. The meeting still continues at the time of writing. A love-feast of great interest and power was held at the Craps Street church on Sunday afternoon last. An American sister present, whose gifted pen has often delighted the readers of the ADVOCATE in other days, sends us the following account of her impressions:

GERMAN LOVE-FEAST.

The love-feast in the German church last Sunday impressed me in a most powerful manner. And, notwithstanding my ignorance of their language, such a spirit of harmony prevailed in their devotional exercises, so full of the beauty of divine truth, as to unfold the wonders of that invisible power which creates new life within the soul of immortal radiance. This holy rapture was kindled at the throne of grace, producing that harmony and union of spirit which unites heart to heart and soul to soul.

A revival of religion has been felt in their churches as well as our own, and God has greatly blessed them. The cloud of divine presence was most beautifully manifested on this occasion. The young have caught the flame, and from their lips went up the song of the redeemed. Their singing was perfectly delightful. No concert of music could have surpassed it, for it was the soul's inspiration in harmony with heaven.

The beautiful little church, so well designed and perfectly neat, filled with so many happy faces who bore resemblance to the beautiful and good, was truly delightful to the lovers of Jesus. No confusion. All was order and harmony. There was an earnestness and eloquence in their preacher not to be mistaken.

After the services we visited the parsonage of our excellent Bro. Ahrens, and the Sunday school rooms between it and the church—so convenient.

His rooms are handsomely furnished with good taste—looked so inviting and comfortable that it spoke well for the people who worship at that place, and an example to others. Many have been added to their churches of late, and the young who were present attracted my attention. Their whole souls seemed to be drawn toward one object of divine admiration—Jesus!—and the flame of divine love emanated from their expressive faces, and they sang with the spirit which reaches the arch of heaven, in their own language: "Jesus reigns." The chorus was repeated with such melody as never to be forgotten by me.

S. B. T.

GERMAN MISSION.—We had the pleasure of meeting Bro. Schaper presiding elder of the German district, in our city recently, in attendance at the German quarterly meeting at this place, and attended the Sabbath morning sermon. We could understand but little of the sermon, yet there was earnestness in the preacher's manner, and a manifest spirit of devotion on the part of the congregation. We joined with them in commemorating our Saviour's death, and felt that the Master was with us. Our brethren are doing a blessed work under difficulties of a peculiar character. We invoke for them the sympathy and prayers of our entire church. The German preachers and their lives of sacrifice and devotion have been to us for years a most impressive sermon.—Texas Christian Advocate.

I SHOULD rejoice to hear any one of my congregation saying: "I forgot who preached, I felt so much the influence of the truths he preached. Blessed be God, I was enabled to repent, and the silent tears trickled down my cheeks. My heart was affected; it began to relent, and now it relents again, when I consider by whose mercy it was that I was blessed with these feelings."—Rowland Hill.

THE RECORDING ANGEL.—Bishop Latimer, when examined before Bonner, at first answered without much thought or care; but presently hearing the rustling of a pen behind the curtain, he perceived that his words were being taken down. O, if Christians should remember that the recording angel is always so near them, how much more circumspect and holy would their conversation be.

THE CHURCH AND THE THEATER.

"The theater was, from the very first,
The favorite haunt of sin; though honest men,
Some very honest, wise and worthy men,
Maintained it might be turned to good account,
And so perhaps it might, but never was:
From first to last it was an evil place."

Pollok.

We think members of the church cannot innocently or consistently be theater-goers. We propose in this article to look at the subject in its moral and spiritual aspects. That prayerless and impenitent men, who do not pretend to recognize their religious obligations, go to the theater is no more strange or inconsistent than many other things they do or leave undone; but the case is altogether different with those who have voluntarily taken upon them holy vows. To impenitent men, who do not recognize church obligations, we have nothing in this particular article to say. Our remarks are to church members, and especially to members of our own communion.

For the sake of discussion we will allow that there may be people so constituted or so educated that they may attend the theater without personal spiritual damage. We know some church members have so asserted; but admitting the assertion, it by no means entitles them, as church members, to visit the theater. "Why not?" Because we are commanded in just so many words to abstain from all appearance of evil; and because the apostle, speaking as he was moved by the Holy Ghost, lays it down as a law of duty that it is not good to do anything that is a spiritual offense to our brethren in Christ. In the fourteenth chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, and in the eighth chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians, St. Paul discusses the question of eating meats, which had been offered to idols by the heathen priest, and were then sold in the markets as ordinary butcher's meat. Some of the ancient Christians thought that, after meats had thus been offered to idols, it was in some sort profane, and participating in the great sin of idol worship, for Christians to eat those meats. Some thought eating such meats was an act indifferent, and as innocent as the eating of meats butchered in the usual way and for ordinary use. St. Paul allows these last the correctness of their theory, but affirms: "It is evil for that man who eateth with offense. It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth or is offended, or is made weak." In the Epistle to the Corinthians, discussing the same subject, and urging the duty of respecting the conscience of our brethren, he says: "But when ye sin so against the brethren and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ." Then, showing how much more he loved souls, for whom Christ died, than he did any mere personal gratifications, he exclaims, in a spirit of lofty self-abnegation: "Wherefore, if meat (meaning that offered to idols) make my brother to offend, I will eat no more flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend." Now it is notorious that the immense majority of our people regard the theater (religiously considered) as an evil place, and that it is grossly inconsistent for men and women, under the obligation of holy vows and church conventionality, to attend the theater, and give it aid and comfort by their presence and example. We cannot go without damaging our influence as Christians, and grieving and wounding some of the Lord's people. Our brethren, therefore (according to St. Paul,) we should do this no more forever.

In what we have so far said we have considered the obligations we owe to the church, and our duty to refrain from any personal gratification not involving anything essential to our welfare, the practice of which would harm God's cause or afflict God's people.

We now proceed to consider the obligations we owe to the souls of all men not to do anything that will influence them to live a prayerless and impenitent life, and run the appalling risk of dying a hopeless death. We are commanded by the word of God to "honor all m... but if we, by our money and ... sonal encouragement and parti... tion, help to influence men and ... men to lead such lives and p... such professions as almost nec... rily compel a sinful life, the... insist that so far from obeying ... inspired command to "hono... men," we most clearly viola... We encourage them by our exa... we hire them with our mone... ignore and degrade the clai... their immortal natures. Wha... may be the cause, or howe... may be explained, it is as not... as the history of the stage ... that the men and women ... stage are not and never have ... religious in the Christian ... Our reading of stage biograph... not been exhaustive, but we d... recollect a solitary example of ... on the stage. Nobody expec... tors and actresses to be re... any more than they do various ... classes engaged in avowedly ... moral professions. We have ... and read of a few examples of ... becoming pious, but when th... so they always abandoned the ... A few years ago a theater ma... whom I had a long conver... acknowledged to me that ... never known a pure man, ... Christian sense, and but few ... on the stage. The idea of ... class teaching morals is sim... posterous. The world nev... and never will let "the de... buke sin." They that would ... strain men to glorify God ... their light shine—must be cre... maintain good works.

We hold, then, brethren, ... those of us who encourage m... women to devote themselves ... stage do those people a grea... ual wrong; for whoever tem... influences me to neglect Chr... lose my soul, does me (whet... intends it or not) the greate... sible injury. We know you w... you have not intended injury ... soul, but have only sought ... amusement. But as professed ... tians we have no moral ri... amuse ourselves at the s... peril of souls immortal, for ... the Lord of all did heaven ... forego. Let us resolve, as ... tians, that our skirts shall ... from the blood of all men.

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

WOMAN'S PIETY.

Woman seems to be m... ligious by nature than man... generally more susceptible to ... ual impressions, more recep... spiritual influences, and sh... more of the attractive power ... nite Goodness than her colder ... resistive, active brother. W... lot and experience are mo... ligious in their discipline a... fluence than the rough, stern ... ing of the world into which ... plunged, to be tossed on the ... buffeted by the storms, born... by the tempest very often, ... now and then to ride in t... over the waves. In the calen... saints there are five Marys ... John. Were not women m... ligious than men, we shou... few churches or charities ... mostly woman's deep and ... faith that rears these C... temples, woman's holy asp... that point these graceful sp... heaven, woman's fervor tha... alive the fire upon the sacred ... and the incense of woman's s... fills the sanctuaries with the ... of praise. Men may pay th... but it is woman who worsh... adores. If man has more ... moral elements, she excels ... piety which is the soul of go... and that fervor which tra... faith into inspiration. If m... the greater sanity, woman ... the greater sanctity.

We look upon an irreligio... as unripe, the block of m... the rough; he is incomplete ... perfect. But we instinctively ... an irreligious woman as un... a perversion, a deformity ... mother that does not pray is ... fit to have a child. It seems ... thing for man to attain to a ri... state and character; but ... seems the native bloom and ... cence of a woman's being. ... expect woman to be religious ... out always giving her the cr... what she does to become s... us be just and generous enou... appreciate every merit and ... every effort by which she ... this great expectation. A... all our women feel that, in ... peculiar and sacred sense, t... the chosen depositories of ... grace, priestesses at his al... ministers of his truth and ... Every home should be a nu... virtue, and the child whose ... and deepest memories ar... therein would be proof again... is worse than any speculat... fidelity.—Golden Age.

THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION.

The Methodist, in an article on this subject, gives the following statements and historical facts:

Our Boston and Madison theological seminaries have recently issued their annual reports. The former has eighty-one students. Zion's Herald says: "The comparison with other schools reveals the fact that this is to-day the largest theological school in New England—Andover having seventy-seven, and this eighty-one. It is third in the country, Princeton and New York surpassing it. If it had room it would put over a hundred in its next catalogue." This, being our oldest institution of the kind, has a right to numerical precedence, but it really does not at present quite maintain it, and our Boston brother editor is slightly inaccurate. The Madison institution has eighty-two students; this, therefore, and not the Boston one, is "the third in the country." Boston, however, may find sufficient satisfaction in being the first in New England.

The idea of Methodist ministerial education is as old as English Methodism. The founders of the denomination in England were classically educated men, and it had its birth in a university. Wesley, in the very year which is recognized as its epoch (1739,) began its noted "Kingswood School," and at his first Conference (1744) proposed a theological school, a "seminary for laborers" or lay preachers, a project which was at last realized by the present two "theological institutions" of English Methodism.

In the Christian Advocate of October 3, 1834, is an account of the first "convention" of any kind ever held in the church. It was originated by Le Roy Sunderland, and it favored "an educated ministry." Here a great battle began, which issued in as great a victory. In the old Methodist Magazine (now our Quarterly Review,) for the same year and month, appeared Mr. Sunderland's "Essay on Theological Education," the first effort through the press for that cause in the denomination. But in the preceding year Mr. Sunderland had organized, in the New England Conference, at Boston, the "Junior Preachers' Association," before which he read his essay. It broke the ice there, and he was encouraged to get up the New York convention for a more general movement. The reading of the essay before this body brought out the question before the whole church. The convention was an imposing assembly. It comprised Drs. Fisk, Olin, Bangs, Durbin, Timothy, Merritt and other men of like character. The next week Dr. Durbin opened the columns of the Christian Advocate for the discussion of the subject. Its agitation became intense, and the "essay" and its author were belabored without mercy—Dr. D. Meredith Reese, an eminent physician and local preacher of New York, leading the opposition with the sturdiest energy. Dr. Durbin had to close the Advocate against its further discussion. Zion's Herald (Boston,) however, kept up a cannonade against the opposition, and the movement became almost distinctively a New England one; the rest of the church seemed to fear and mourn over it, as menacing the whole destiny of American Methodism.

The year 1839 was the centenary of Wesleyan Methodism, and Methodists throughout the world signalized it by liberal donations to denominational interests. Stephen Olin, then in Europe, sent home his offering for the promotion of "theological education." This was a testimonial for the cause worthy of that great man, and it inspirited the New England church. In the same year a Methodist convention was held in Boston to provide a theological seminary. It was founded with the title of Biblical Institute. It struggled through severe adversities; was at first connected with the Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, then with the Methodist Seminary at Newbury, Vermont, but at last was located in Concord, New Hampshire, where it exerted no inconsiderable influence upon the character of the New England Methodist ministry. In 1845 John Dempster, of New York city, became its professor of theology. He threw his remarkable energy into the cause of ministerial education throughout the denomination, and not only forced along the New England institution against formidable discouragements, but became a leading founder of the Northwestern Seminary at Evanston, Illinois, where a Chicago Methodist lady, by the gift of property amounting to $300,000, gave endowment and her name to the Garrett Biblical Institute. Mr. Drew's munificent liberality founded the Madison school, and to-day the success of the long struggle is complete throughout the Methodist world.

FARMERS are setting out large quantities of orango, lemon, lime and similar trees around the Bay of San Francisco.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending April 17, 1871.

A—H H Adair $5, F D Allan 2 lots $1.50.

B—R F Bunting, Moses E Bull $3, H B Bostwick, P Bradford $3, Robert Babbington, R W Baxter $3.40, J C Brogan $13.70, Jas E Bradley $7.25, H W Balch, A R Banks, A F Baker.

C—J E Cobb, Jas L Collen $6, Jos Carr, Wm J Carlton, R Crawford $33.20, Baxter Clegg $10.

D—H M Dunbar, J M Davis, F O Dannelly, R A Davis 2 lots $10, David & Scott, W B Dennis $7.10, E Du Champ & Son.

E—Chas F Evans, E A Enochs, C C Ellis $3, L Ercombrack.

F—J O Fuqua $3, Emily A Foro $6, T M Featherston $6, E N Freshman, D V Foose, J R Feazell, J M Fitzgerald $1.65, Thos W Flowers.

G—F D Galloway, J M Gann, Geo Gaskins, B Griffith, C B Galloway.

H—P Howard $18.80, C W Hurley, E J Hale & Son, Mrs H E Hale, S J Hawkins $15, W C Haislip $40, L P Hardeman, J M Harrison $22.80.

J—J A B Jones $14, Mrs Julia Jordan, Horace Jewell $12.60.

K—H J Kane $10, P H Kyes & Co.

L—H P Lewis, John Lusk $14.85, W E M Linfield, J B Lippincott & Co.

M—J D Murff, J M Mason $6, M C Manly $5.85, H H Montgomery $15.00, A H Mitchell, J O Mohly $12, J H Mims, Eugene Miller, A McPhatten, Thos Mullet, D Merchant, W R Miller, J W Medlock, John A Miller, J M McIntyre, John P Morton & Co, W H Harris, J F Marshall.

N—E Nicholson $2.85, John F Neal $12, E Nolte $68.94, Jos D Newson, J Nicholson $13, A F Norwood $5.60.

P—J A Pace, J S Parker $21, F C Parish $5, J V Pointer $25, R F Perdue $1.50, R M Powers, Thos Poisal, Isabella Phillips $1 50, S M Pettengill & Co.

R—Thos Reed, Ira B Robertson $2.40.

S—J L Skipper, P C Shumates, J M Scott, C S Stewart, S P Striager, Thos M Smith 2 lots $15, John Sample, C B Stuart, R A Sibley, Miss H A Steinbauer, W R D Stockton $111.25, A H Stewart.

T—H M Tally, H M Truehart $12.15, L Tucker, J Thibadeaux $19, Calvin Taylor.

U—University Publishing Co.

W—E A West, R Williams $5, R S Woodward $12, J L Wright 75 cts, T M Williams $3, J B Walker $77.50, Amicus W Williams, A R Winfield.

Married.

March 28, 1871, at the residence of Mr. F. S. Hall, in Tensas parish, Louisiana, by Rev. P. H. Dieffenwierth, Mr. M. M. BEAVER and Mrs. ANNA M. SUTTON.

On Sunday, April 9, 1871, at the residence of Mr. R. Fowler, near Bolton, Mississippi, by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. WILLIS FOWLER to Miss REBECCA SIMS, all of Hinds county, Mississippi.

On the sixth of April, 1871, at the residence of Mr. David Berwick, on Bayou Sale, by the Rev. B. Clegg, Dr. CHARLES R FASSITT, of Centerville, and Miss SARAH JANE ROYSTER.

By Rev. N. B. Young, at the residence of Hugh McCloud, Esq., Covington county, Mississippi, on the twelfth of February, 1871, Mr. JOHN P. LOFLIN and Mrs. DIANA WILKINSON.

At the residence of the bride's father, J. G. Kilburn, Esq., on the eighth of March, 1871, by Rev. W. E. Ballard, Mr. JO. MOREHEAD, of Kentucky, to Miss MARY O. KILBURN, of Clinton, Louisiana.

March 15, 1871, at the residence of Mr. R. Fowler, near Bolton, Mississippi, by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. ELIJAH SIMS to Miss DELILAH L. GREEN, all of Hinds county, Mississippi.

April 6, 1871, at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Smith, near Clinton, Mississippi, by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. W. P. ALSTON to Miss MARY C. SMITH, all of Raymond, Mississippi.

Obituaries.

BRO. WILLIAM CHESSER was born in South Carolina, February 4, 1785.—About the year 1803 he married Miss Rebecca Melton. Moving from Darlington district to Alabama about 1822, Bro. Chesser settled in Lowndes county, from which he removed to Pike county, in which he resided until his death, which occurred on the twenty-seventh of March, 1871.

Our venerable brother died at the good old age of eighty-six years. What multitudes had passed from time into eternity as our brother was performing his earthly pilgrimage! How few of his early friends remained on earth at the time of his death! The death of a young person is a solemn warning that life is uncertain. The death of an aged man should also remind us that although long life is a possibility, death comes at last. But what are fourscore years in comparison with the endless ages of eternity! Let the living heed the lesson which the absence of departed relatives and friends should teach, and in time prepare for an endless life of joy beyond the grave. Bro. Chesser had been a great sufferer for several years. As he neared the end of his earthly journey he desired to depart. Sunday, March 26, was his last day on earth. When Monday morning dawned his spirit had returned "to God, who gave it." W. B. ADAMS.

MRS. M. S. TROTTEN, wife of Bro. Samuel Trotter, and daughter of Rev. Gideon Powledge, an old Methodist veteran of the cross, was born near Auburn, Alabama, November 25, 1841; joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at eleven years of age; was converted at Mount Hilliard camp ground in 1856, and departed this life, at her home in Pike county, Alabama, on the fourteenth of March, 1871, at about seven o'clock in the evening.

Sister Trotter was married on the seventh of August, 1854. She died at the age of twenty-nine years, three months and seventeen days. For over five months our sister was the subject of great suffering. During her protracted illness she exhibited that lovely Christian character which had marked her previous life. When it became evident to herself and friends that she must soon pass away she showed no signs of fear, but calmly relied upon her Saviour, and thus awaited the hour of her departure. Her eldest child, Laura, preceded her, two years ago, to "the better land." Now mother and daughter are together where parting is no more.

Bro. Trotter is now left with five little children, the eldest ten years old. May God strengthen him to work for their temporal and eternal welfare, and give him wisdom to train them for usefulness here and blessedness hereafter. Sister Trotter's parting blessing was upon her husband and little ones. A day or two before her death she had her children brought to her bedside, and, placing her hands upon them, prayed for God's blessing upon them and their father.

Sister Trotter's remains were interred at Shady Grove burying ground, Pike county, on the morning of March 16, her burial being attended by a large number of friends.

W. B. ADAMS.

Southern Christian Advocate please copy.

PRATTVILLE STATION, ALABAMA CONF., April 1, 1871.

WHEREAS, By an inscrutable Providence our beloved brother, DANIEL M. SMITH, a member of this body, has been removed from our midst by the hand of death (which occurred March 21, 1871, in the sixty-third year of his age;) therefore, Resolved, 1. That in his death this church has lost a faithful steward, a devout and uniformly consistent member, and the community one of its oldest and most worthy citizens.

2. That while we are deeply sensible of our loss, and feel that our strength is weakened and our hearts saddened by his death, yet we meekly bow to the divine will, believing that with him "to die is gain."

3. That we tender our Christian sympathy and most hearty condolence to his bereaved family in their irreparable loss.

4. That the above be spread on the minutes of this quarterly conference, and that a copy of the same be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

A. H. MITCHELL, P. E.
S. P. SMITH, Secretary.

I wish to say, in addition to the above, that Bro. Smith came to us from the Methodist Protestant Church, having been for many years one of the chief supports as well as ornaments to that church in all the region of country where he lived. I first met him in quarterly conference at Prattville—one of the stewards, useful in his sphere, and harmonizing with the church in all her operations. He was a man gentle and exemplary in all the relations of life—in his family happily blending affection with authority, in his neighborhood useful and highly respected. He leaves an interesting family and numerous relatives to mourn a loss which never can be made up to them in this life. What a blessed thing it is that there is a common house for the good, where kindred and friends shall meet to part no more. The church has lost a member, but heaven has gained another inhabitant.

A. H. MITCHELL.

Died, on the third of February, 1871, at the family residence, in the parish of East Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Mrs. CATHERINE E. HALL, wife of H. B. Hall, Esq., aged fifty-two years and eight months.

The deceased was the daughter of Dr. Hall, formerly a surgeon in the United States army, and Miss Willis, who was the daughter of Wm. R. Willis, for several years mayor of the city of Baton Rouge. Dr. Hall was at the siege of New Orleans. He and Mrs. Hall died not long after. Their daughter was subsequently brought to this parish by her uncle, and married to H. B. Harelson, Esq., in 1837.

Mrs. Harelson united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at Manchac, in the parish aforesaid, in 1839. She was, until her death, esteemed as a pure, devoted and useful member. She loved her church, and most cheerfully complied with all its rules, and endeavored to obey all the precepts of our holy religion. She was kind and charitable to all, and possessed, in a high degree, those virtues and graces which adorn her sex and constitute the chief charm of a Christian lady.

For several years Mrs. Harelson had the care and control of ten orphan children, belonging to three different families. Their diversified feelings and interests were well calculated to try the patience, prudence and management of the most wise; but she showed herself equal to the task imposed upon her. Most of the children are now living to cherish her memory, and express their gratitude for her disinterested kindness to them, and rejoice at her triumphant death.

Mrs. Harelson's house was the home of the traveling ministers of the gospel on this circuit. Sometimes they, with their wives, would remain for weeks, and even months, enjoying the hospitalities which were most cheerfully and affectionately bestowed upon them.

Mrs. Harelson never got weary in her kind attentions to her guests, and appeared to feel that she was receiving favors instead of conferring them on others. No hungry stranger ever called on them for food and went away unfed.

A few hours before her death she became convinced that she had but a short time to live, and requested her husband to have all the family called, that she might once more see them and bid them farewell. When they were all assembled around her dying bed, bathed in tears, she calmly called them to her, one by one, gave them her hand, and bid them farewell, saying: "I am perfectly resigned to the will of my heavenly Father." Death had no terrors for her. Her hope and trust were in the Saviour of sinners. Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. W.

The Worst Coughs Yield, as if by magic, to the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. It also surpasses anything else ever before discovered for the cure of Pimples, Blotches and Rashes on the face; also for Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, and all Skin and Scrofulous diseases. Sold by all druggists. Send address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, New York, for pamphlet.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A NEW EDITION,

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

Cruden's Complete Concordance.

A Dictionary and Alphabetical Index to the Bible.

BY ALEX. CRUDEN, A. M.

THE UNABRIDGED EDITION.

Nearly 900 pages Royal 8vo.

Price, in cloth, reduced from $4.00 to $2.75.
Price, in sheep, do. 5.00 to 3.50.
Price, in ½ morocco, do. 6.50 to 4.50.

DODD & MEAD,
ap20 1t Publishers, N. Y.

STEREOSCOPES,
VIEWS,
ALBUMS, CHROMOS,
FRAMES.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Invite the attention of the trade to their extensive assortment of the above goods, of their own publication, manufacture and importation. Also,

PHOTO LANTERN SLIDES
AND GRAPHOSCOPES.

NEW VIEWS OF YOSEMITE.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 Broadway, New York.
Opposite Metropolitan Hotel.

IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF Photographic Materials.
ap13 1m

DIRECT IMPORTATION
OF
EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,
NO. 155 CANAL STREET
AND
NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,
New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.
fe11 6m

J. H. MUSE AND
G. F. F. THOMPSON,
Attorneys and Counselors at Law,
NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,
fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NEW LOAN OF THE UNITED STATES

IMPORTANT CIRCULAR.

Subscriptions Now Open—Certificates Ready.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, Feb. 28, 1871.

Public notice is hereby given that books will be opened on the sixth day of March next, in this country and in Europe, for subscriptions to the National Loan, under the act approved July 14, 1870, entitled "An Act to Authorize the Refunding of the National Debt," and the act in amendment thereof, approved January 20, 1871.

The proposed loan comprises three classes of bonds, namely:

First. Bonds to the amount of five hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of five per cent. per annum.

Second. Bonds to the amount of three hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after fifteen years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four and a half per cent. per annum.

Third. Bonds to the amount of seven hundred millions of dollars, payable in coin, at the pleasure of the United States, after thirty years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

Subscriptions to the loan will have preference in the following order, namely:

First. Subscriptions that may be first made for five per cent. bonds to the amount of two hundred millions of dollars; of which there will be reserved, for twenty days, one-half for subscribers in this country and one-half for subscribers in foreign countries.

Second. Subscriptions for equal amounts of each class of bonds.

Third. Subscriptions for equal amounts of bonds bearing interest at the rate of four and a half per cent., and of bonds bearing interest at the rate of five per cent.

Fourth. Subscriptions for any five per cent. bonds that may not be subscribed for in the preceding classes.

When a subscription is made the subscriber will be required to deposit two per cent. of the amount thereof in coin or currency of the United States, or in bonds of the class to be exchanged, to be accounted for by the Government when the new bonds are delivered; and payment may be made either in coin or in bonds of the United States known as FIVE-TWENTY BONDS, at their par value.

The coin received in payment will be applied to the redemption of five-twenty bonds, and the debt of the United States will not be increased by this loan.

The bonds will be registered or issued with coupons, as may be desired by subscribers. Registered bonds will be issued of the denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000; and coupon bonds of each denomination except the last two. The interest will be payable in the United States, at the office of the Treasurer, and Assistant Treasurer, or Designated Depository of the Government, quarterly, on the first days in February, May, August and November of each year.

The bonds of the several classes aforesaid, and the interest thereon, are exempt from the payment of all taxes or dues of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal or local authority.

After maturity the bonds last issued will be first redeemed, by classes and numbers, as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The bonds will be issued at the United States Treasury, but the agents for the negotiation of the loan in Europe are authorized to make arrangements with subscribers for the transmission of the bonds to the agents through whom subscriptions may be received.

Subscribers in the United States will receive the new bonds of the agents with whom the subscriptions are made.

In the United States the National Banks are authorized to receive subscriptions, and subscriptions may also be made at the office of the Treasurer of the United States, or of any Assistant Treasurer, or the Designated Depositories at Buffalo, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Louisville, Ky; Mobile, Ala.; and Pittsburg, Penn.

P. S.—This Department and its own Loan Agents are now ready to receive the United States Five-Twenty Bonds and to pay the gold interest thereon to May 1, from which date the new bonds will bear interest. A scrip certificate, calling for the bonds on the first of May, will be issued at once in exchange for the old bonds.

GEORGE S. BOUTWELL,
ap6 3tr Secretary of Treasury.

NEW IMPROVED SYSTEM
OF TANNING LEATHER.
CALLED
The Dripping Process.

MAKES LEATHER in less than half the time of the old water-soaked system, and weighs ten to fifteen per cent. more, and if instructions are followed out to the letter the leather is bright and handsome.

Hides not required to be broken, as the compound puts them in a fine, velvet-like state to receive the liquor. No bloom can attach itself to the surface. Black and Red Oak Tanners, this will be of value to you. There is more than twenty-five per cent. of manual labor saved by working on this plan. The leather elevator is used for lime, and handling leather when it goes in tan. The bark stands in a strainer on low truck wheels, until the compound acid liquor compels it to give up its strength. No process ever tried can excel this. It is all done in a short time. When your bark is spent, put a horse to a streamer and haul it to the stock lot to make manure. The elevator will handle lime, and handles in one-tenth the time of the old plan. Full instructions given, from pool to dry house, in writing, to any one wishing to obtain a knowledge of tanning.

Models of the bark strainer and elevator can be seen at Mr. Sidway's, Leather Merchant, Jackson, Mississippi.

Apply to G. D. SIDWAY, or to
SAMUEL WILDBLOOD,
Jackson, Miss.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that I have been foreman of some of the largest Tanneries in the State of Georgia, and have tried all the compounds and ingredients of any note. I have contested the field with the inventor of the above process, but he works it to the letter; so therefore I hand him the palm of victory. I think it an honor to sign my name to a certificate that will bear news to the poor laborer that the hard work in Tanneries is set aside by the DRIPPING PROCESS, and better stock produced in one-half the time; in short, it fills a want long desired.

PETER F. RAGAN.
Late of Americus, Georgia.
ap6 1m Now of Rankin Co., Miss.

Advertise! Advertise! Advertise!

SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE!

THE MOREHOUSE CONSERVATIVE.

A LIVE LOCAL JOURNAL; Independent and Conservative; devoted to general news and public interests. It is published weekly at Bastrop, Louisiana. Sent to any point out of the parish at $2. A twenty eight column sheet, printed on beautiful white paper, and in clear type. A large and almost daily increasing circulation. The official and only paper published in one of the richest parishes of this rich State, its columns offer superior inducements to advertisers. Orders solicited. Address

DAVES & SCHROEDER,
Bastrop, La.
REV. J. T. DAVES, Editor. ap6 3m

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR O'HARA'S POCKET GIANT CORN-SHELLER. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address
C. T. VAN SICKLEN,
mh30 3m 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

$10 From 50 Cents.

SOMETHING urgently needed by everybody. Call and examine, or twelve samples sent (postage free) for fifty cents that retail readily for $10. R. L. WOLCOTT, mh30 6mcom 181 Chatham Square, N. Y.

THE DU BOIS
Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin
WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS

THESE GINS are so constructed that bar substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing.—They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 54 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 tf

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL
AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.
Nearly Doubles Crops.
GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:
E. H. MURFEE,
14 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de3 5m

THE CHARM!
A NEW Sunday School Singing Book,
BY P. P. BLISS.
(ISSUED APRIL FIFTEENTH.)

THIS BOOK is not intended to supersede the "PRIZE," which is selling so rapidly that the publishers are now printing it in editions of twenty thousand each, but is issued in deference to the wishes of thousands who have been charmed by Mr. Bliss' contributions to that standard work, and who demand more from the same gifted pen.

We do not hesitate to say that for these friends a great surprise is in store. Much as they may expect, they will be astonished at the wonderful versatility and power of this man, as shown in the words and music of "THE CHARM." We have seen the proof sheets of his pieces, as they have come from the printer, and with every new burst of thrilling poetry or fascinating melody have wondered where they could all come from. There is but one solution—his heart burns with love for his work. Being Superintendent of one of the finest Sunday schools in the country, that of the First Congregational Church of Chicago; being the helper and friend of Messrs. Moody, Jacobs, Whittle Stearns and other leading Sunday school workers, he not only knows what is wanted but is inspired with their enthusiasm. Pp. 160

THE CHARM
WILL CERTAINLY BE
The Great Sunday School Singing Book
OF THE SEASON.

As above announced, "THE CHARM" will be ready April 15. Price, in boards, thirty five cents, or $30 a hundred.

ap13 4tr ROOT & CADY, Chicago, Ill.

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,
37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours without drugs. Particulars, ten cts ap6 3m F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

The Child's Corner.

THE LULLABY.

I am weary with my play,
Through the long, long day:
Oh! sweet mother, sing me to sleep:
In your fond arms press me,
In your loving heart bless me,
And, sweet mother, sing me to sleep.

The sun has gone to rest
Far adown the golden west:
Oh! sweet mother, sing me to sleep:
The weary day is done,
And the night is coming on;
So, sweet mother, sing me to sleep.

The buds of the rose
Have their scented leaves closed;
Oh! sweet mother, sing me to sleep;
And the bird, with folded wing,
In her cozy nest doth swing;
So, sweet mother, sing me to sleep.

The moon is riding high
In the clear, starry sky;
Oh! sweet mother, sing me to sleep;
In your fond arms press me,
In your loving heart bless me,
And, sweet mother, sing me to sleep.

A. O. W.

WEST FELICIANA, April 3, 1871.

A BRAVE BOY.

A TRUE STORY.

Little Ally W—— lived in a neat cottage, on the borders of a lovely little lake, surrounded by fine old forest trees, whose beautiful green foliage was reflected in its bright waters. When Ally was a good boy his father would take him in the boat for a row around the lake, and once in a great while he was allowed to join some of the fishing parties and spend a whole day on the water! and then, O how glad and happy he was! The lake would be entirely frozen over in winter time; and then Ally thought it such fun to go skating, and to see papa put chairs on runners for the ladies, and, when they were all snugly wrapped up, to see him and some of the larger boys push these chairs before them as they skated. Sometimes, when there was a very fair wind, they would have the big sleigh brought out on the lake, and fix up a big sail, made out of a sheet, for it; then mamma would get in and take Ally and his little baby sister, and whiff! away they would go across as fast as a steam engine!

One cold winter morning, when Ally was about ten years old, he wrapped himself up warmly, tied the lappels of his cap over his ears, put on his mittens, and taking his lunch basket, books and slates, shouted out "Good by, mamma!" and ran off to school, whistling a merry tune. Ally loved to go to school, and he liked to take his skates. Perhaps some little one will wonder what he wanted skates in school for? It had something to do with his taking his lunch. There were two full hours intermission at noon, and then Ally could use those skates. But that particular day the boys were all interested in making a snow-man, and Ally was afraid he should have to skate alone. As he sat by the stove eating his lunch, in company with his most intimate friend, he said:

"Come, Johnny, hurry up, and let's go on the lake for a skate before school begins."

"All right," said Johnny, with his mouth so full of bread and butter he could hardly speak; "but wouldn't you rather help make the snow-man?"

"No, I just wouldn't," said Ally; "so come on, if you're going."

The school was not far from the lake, and, as Johnny said, they got there "in a jiffy." They sat down and fastened on their skates, and then what a nice time they were having! But all at once Ally heard a dreadful scream, and, turning quickly, saw Johnny go down! Then Ally knew he had fallen into a hole in the ice; he had heard his father speak of them, but supposed they were on the other side of the lake. Ally stood for a moment with a dreadful frightened face—he will never forget that moment—and then what do you suppose he did? Run right home quick and call his father? No. Cry and scream real hard to make some one hear? No, there was not a person in sight. He went as near the hole as he dared, and saw that Johnny (who could swim a little) was struggling in the cold water, and that the ice on the edge of the hole was not strong; then he went back a few steps and, lying at full length down on the ice, edged himself toward the hole. When he was near enough to just reach his hands out over the edge, he called out:

"Swim this way, Johnny; take hold of my hands and pull yourself out." And Johnny did it, and got out safe!

How he got out, and why little Ally was not drawn in, was always a mystery to his parents. I think the good Father in heaven was watching over those boys. The two boys were once more safe on the ice, but Johnny was wet to the skin, and Ally was not much better off.

"Let's take off our skates and run fast, or we shall be late to school," said Ally.

Off went the skates, and the little fellows ran off at the top of their speed. When they got to school their clothes were frozen stiff. School had been in some time, and the teacher, seeing them come in in such a condition, concluded they had been in some mischief. So she scolded them, gave each a bad mark, and sent them home, without waiting to inquire into the matter. Johnny lived near the school, and when Ally had parted with him he began to feel greatly troubled. The poor little fellow did not imagine he had done anything praiseworthy in saving Johnny's life. As he entered the door his mother saw him, and exclaimed:

"Why, Ally! what brings you home at this hour? Your clothes are all wet! Where have you been?"

"Why, me and Johnny got wet on the ice; he fell in, and the teacher sent us home."

"Naughty boy!" said his mother. "I did not think my son would play truant."

"But I didn't play truant, mamma," said Ally, now almost heart-broken. "I could not help it; Johnny fell in a big hole; you always said we must help each other; I couldn't let him drown, mamma!"

His mother saw now that she had not rightly understood the case; so, kissing him and gently soothing him, she finally drew from him the whole story, and then she clasped him to her heart, saying:

"God bless my brave, my precious boy! Right nobly have you carried out your mother's teachings. The way to show our love to one another is by helping one another."—New York Observer.

THE BOTTLE OF OIL.—Once upon a time there lived an old gentleman in a large house. He had servants and everything he wanted, yet he was not happy, and when things did not go as he wished he was cross. At last his servants left him. Quite out of temper, he went to a neighbor with the story of his distresses.

"It seems to me," said the neighbor, "it would be well for you to oil yourself a little."

"To oil myself!"

"Yes, and I will explain. Some time ago one of the doors of my house creaked. Nobody, therefore, liked to go in or out by it. One day I oiled its hinges, and it has been constantly used by everybody since."

"Then you think I am like your creaking door!" cried the old gentleman. "How do you want me to oil myself?"

"That's an easy matter," said the neighbor. "Go home and engage a servant, and when he does right praise him. If, on the contrary, he does something amiss do not be cross; oil your voice and words with the oil of love."

The old gentleman went home, and no harsh or ugly word was found in his house afterward. Every family should have a bottle of this precious oil, for every family is liable to a creaking hinge in the shape of a fretful disposition, a cross temper, a harsh tone or a fault-finding spirit.—Child's Paper.

THE ONE CATERPILLAR.—A Fable.—While I was walking in the garden one bright morning a breeze came through and set all the flowers and leaves a fluttering. Now that is the way flowers talk, so I pricked up my ears and listened.

Presently an old elder tree said: "Flowers, shake off your caterpillars."

"Why?" said a dozen altogether, for they were like some children who always say, "Why?" when they are told to do anything. Bad children, those!

The elder said: "If you don't they'll gobble you up."

So the flowers set themselves a shaking till the caterpillars were shaken off.

In one of the middle beds there was a beautiful rose, who shook off all but one, and she said to herself: "Oh, that's a beauty! I'll keep that one." The elder overheard her, and called out: "One caterpillar is enough to spoil you."

"But," said the rose, "look at his brown and crimson fur, and his beautiful black eyes and scores of little feet. I want to keep him. Surely one won't hurt me."

A few mornings after I passed the rose again. There was not a whole leaf on her; her beauty was gone, she was all but killed, and had only life enough to weep over her folly, while the tears stood like dew-drops on her tattered leaves. "Alas, I didn't think one caterpillar would ruin me!" One sin indulged has ruined many.

"WHY don't the great men of France stir? Why do they remain motionless and cold while our bleeding country is ruined?" asked an orator in Paris the other day. "Because they are cast in bronze," answered a voice from the gallery.

WHEN a penny bank was established in Putney, and the deposits were added up at the end of the year, a brewer who was on the committee remarked; "Well, this represents thirty thousand pints of beer not drunk."

The Farm and Garden.

THE FARMER FEEDETH ALL.

My lord rides through the palace-gate,
My lady sweeps along in state,
The sage thinks long on many a thing,
And the maiden muses on marrying;
The sailor plows the foaming sea,
The hunter kills the good red deer,
And the soldier wars without a fear;
But to fall to each, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

Smith hammereth cherry red the sword,
Priest preacheth pure the holy word,
Dame Alice worketh braiding well,
Clerk Richard tales of love can tell,
The tap-wife sells her fonming beer,
Dan Fisher fisheth in the mere,
And courtesies ruffle, strut and shine,
While pages bring the Gascon wine,
Man builds his castles far and high.

Where'er river runneth by,
Great cities rise in every land,
Great churches show the builder's hand,
Great arches, mountains and towers,
Fair palaces and pleasing bowers;
Great work is done, be it here or there,
And well man worketh everywhere;
But work or rest, whate'er befall,
The farmer he must feed them all.

SILICA IN AGRICULTURE.

Silica is a mineral substance, commonly known as flint; and it is one of the wonders of the vegetable tribes that, although flint is so indestructible that the strongest chemical aid is required for its solution, plants possess the power of dissolving and secreting it. Even so delicate a structure as the wheat straw dissolves silica, and every stalk of wheat is covered with a perfect but inconceivably thin coating of this substance. Amid all the wonders of nature, which we have had occasion to explain, there is none more startling than that which reveals to our knowledge the fact that a flint stone consists of the mineralized bodies of animals, just as coal consists of masses of mineralized vegetable matter. The animals are believed to have been infusorial animalculæ, coated with silicious shells, as the wheat straw of to-day is clothed with a glassy covering of silica. The skeletons of animalculæ, which compose flint, may be brought under microscopic examination. Geologists have some difficulty in determining their opinions respecting the relation which these animalculæ bear to the flint stones in which they are found. Whether the animalculæ, in dense masses, form the flint, or whether the flint merely supplies a sepulcher to the countless millions of creatures that, ages ago, enjoyed each a separate and conscious existence, is a problem that may never be solved. And what a problem! The buried plant being disentombed, after having lain for ages in the bowels of the earth, gives us light and warmth; and the animalculæ, after a sleep of ages, dissolves into the sap of a plant, and wraps the coat it wore probably "in the beginning, when God created the heavens and the earth, and when the earth first brought forth living creatures," around the slender stalk of waving corn!

IMPORTED WEEDS.

It is stated that there are now no less than two hundred and fourteen weeds, which have been introduced into the United States from foreign countries, and principally from England. As a proof of the rapidity with which useless plants are accidentally brought over the seas, it is said that in 1837 there were only one hundred and thirty-seven foreign weeds known in this country. As far back as 1672 a curious little volume, called New England's Rarities, gave a list of twenty-two plants, which the author considered had sprung up since the English had kept cattle in New England. The author mentions the "plantain," which, he says, the Indians call the "Englishman's foot," as though produced by the tread of the white settlers. The common "yellow toad flax," it is stated, was originally introduced into the province of Pennsylvania as a garden flower, by a Mr. Ranstead, a Welshman, residing in Philadelphia, from whom it has derived the name of "Ranstead weed." In 1758 this weed had overrun the pastures in the inhabited part of Pennsylvania, and was the cause of bitter complaints from the agriculturists of that day. Chickweed, it is stated, was introduced in South Carolina as food for canary birds, and in ten years spread for upward of fifty miles, and now occupies the outposts of civilization. The "Scotch thistle" is said to have been brought to America by a clergyman, who carried with him a bed stuffed with thistle down, in which some seed remained. Feathers, being cheap in the new country, were substituted for the down, which was soon emptied out, and the seed springing up filled the country with thistles. Another account says some enthusiastic Scot introduced the thistle as an emblem of his country, which soon made itself at home, and became a nuisance.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE APPLE TREE BORER.—The borer, which makes such havoc among apple trees, is the grub of a beetle, the Saperda bivittata. This beetle is from one-half to three-quarters of an inch in length; "the upper side of its body is marked by three longitudinal white stripes, between three of a light-brown color, while the face, the antennæ, the under side of the body and the legs are white. Its natural home is on our native thorns, and some other trees and shrubs nearly related to the thorn. From these it has emigrated to the apple orchards, where it has become one of the greatest pests.

It issues from the trunks of the trees in its perfect state the last of May or the first of June, and soon after deposits its eggs on the bark, near the root. From the eggs small, yellowish grubs are hatched, which at once bore through the bark and strike upward in the sap-wood. In this larva state it continues two or three years, often boring up into the wood for ten inches, always making its burrow end just underneath the bark. After undergoing its transformations the perfect beetle gnaws through the bark and comes forth at night, which is its time for flying.

If orchards are neglected they will suffer very much from the attacks of this pest. Often fine trees will be completely ruined in two or three years. The presence of the borer may be known by its castings. It can be taken out with a knife in its early stages, but if it has penetrated into the tree several inches a wire may be thrust into the hole. Petroleum, put into the holes, is affirmed by some to do good work, but this should, as yet, be used with caution, and only by way of experiment, lest the trees should suffer irreparable injury.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address

se10 1y J. W. BLACKMAN, New Orleans.

Soule's

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

The Commercial Atheneum of the South.

Corner Camp and Common Streets,

STORY BUILDING,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address

GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	30 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER, jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Conn, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. Nicholson, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. Calhoun, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address

au20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,

62 Camp Street, New Orleans,

RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,

HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,

PLATED WARE,

AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of

Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,

OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s

Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the

Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our

Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,

COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON

OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.

fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as may now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by,

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

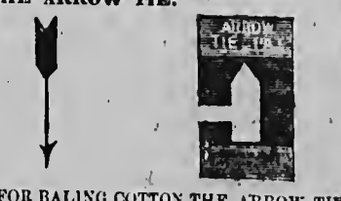
No. 52 Gravier Street,

Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.

no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.



FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168.....CANAL STREET.....168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings, Lace Curtains, Curtain Damasks, Window Shades, etc

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.

fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.

ly2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place, se25 NEW ORLEANS.

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,

A Purely Vegetable Compound

FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT,

THE SUBSCRIBER takes pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these affections. But experience has demonstrated that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. While it is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, that can do no injury, the unparalleled success of the proprietor in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bradley, he refers those who desire facts before trying it for themselves, justifies him in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia, from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. For directions as to use and for further information address

N. JENKINS,

100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN C. BANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of BANNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, veneal weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, PILES, prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a new and more hopeful light, and often complete cures where medicine can only mitigate, and more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet—it is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. je11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy,

FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest Rash to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Brown Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Croup, Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers all yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Salve,

FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically: the buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at FLEMING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Nalchez and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, at the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans, La.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.

je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REMEDY

fails to cure. It is prepared expressly to cure the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juices of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for

CONSUMPTION,

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male and female, producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which most generally terminate in Consumptive decline. It purifies and enriches the blood, the biliary, glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular forces. It acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy20 1y

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than twelve years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security, and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of the patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 16 St. Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21 1y

DR. N. P. GODFREY,

DENTIST,

May be found during business hours at

No. 183 Canal Street,

The third door west of Christ Church.

ja21 3m

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

651 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of the unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and exalted knowledge of the world ou which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

FELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATUAAL SCIENCE.

A Text-book of Chemistry.
Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $71. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $38 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $18. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $45

PEARCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. I. Animals of all Climates. II. Nationa Flags.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address
ROBERT J. HARP, Agent, may21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

W. A. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

186 ..... COMMON STREET 186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

50 ..... TCHOUPITOULAS ST 50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

W. H. BEAUMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

77 ..... CARONDELET STREET 77

ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

60 ..... CARONDELET STREET 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31 ..... PERDIDO STREET 31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. MICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

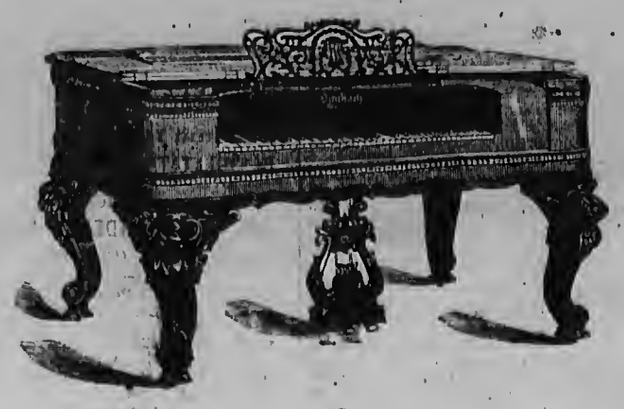
No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,



SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.

Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, ETC.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Kaener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical School Books which should be entirely unobjectionable to the people—which should present only the facts of history and science—and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern are now issuing a complete series by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers, unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,

155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. mh2 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
fe23 1y Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

NEW STYLES..... REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by
de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Beebe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term	$35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term	30 00
Contingent fee, per term	2 50
Board in private families, per mo.	$16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.

an13 O. F. CASEY.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session...	$60 00
Preparatory department, per session.	40 00
Incidental expenses.....	5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address
PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Scientific.

THE BAROMETER.

The barometer was first invented and introduced by Torricelli, a student of Galileo, in 1643, who, suffering from papal persecution, arising from his advanced philosophy touching the real motions of the planets of the solar system, dared not include it among his other scientific explorations. In 1646 Pascal, at Rouen, repeated the experiments of Torricelli, with similar results, and to him we owe the discovery of the great value of the barometer as an engineering instrument in taking altitudes.

There are various kinds of barometers—the mercurial barometers, so called, all of which depend upon a glass tube, quicksilver and the vacuum. The standard barometer, now used, is a tube of glass about thirty-three inches long, the upper end closed, the lower open and inserted into a small reservoir or cistern with mercury, the whole beautifully mounted in brass tubing, forming an ornament for parlor, hall or office.

The wheel barometer, introduced by Dr. Hooke, is composed of a glass tube bent in the shape of a syphon, also filled with mercury. This instrument, which, from its construction, has very little value as a scientific instrument, and is entirely discarded by scientific men, has the disadvantage of being delicate in its adjustments, very liable to derangement, and is quite difficult of repair.

When readjustment is necessary it can only be considered as an ornamental piece of furniture, and nothing else.

The marine barometer was invented by Mr. Passement, in 1758. This instrument is familiar to every seaman, and until the introduction of Vidis' aneroid barometer has been used altogether as a marine instrument.

The aneroid barometer is an instrument promising much intrinsic excellence of itself, chiefly in that it is exceedingly portable, not liable to injury in transportation, and very accurate. It is constructed entirely of metal, and its actions depend on the effect produced by the pressure of the atmosphere on a metallic box, from which the air has been exhausted and then hermetically sealed.

The above instruments embrace all the different styles of barometers, now generally before the public, that are in the least of any utility as an index pointing to approaching meteorological changes, foretelling storms, etc.—Northwestern Review.

THE INVENTION OF ELASTIC SPONGE. A foot-ball manufacturer, casting about for a light and permanently elastic stuffing for his balls, hit upon a sponge, cut into small pieces and treated with glycerine. The material proved so decided a success that he patented the idea, sold his patent to be applied to upholstery purposes for $75,000, and to-day the procurement and preparation of elastic sponge is one of the most flourishing branches of commercial and manufacturing industry.

I DON'T KNOW.—"If I am asked," says M. Arago, "what produces the tail of comets, I would reply, I don't know." A lady of the French court once asked Marian: "What are the belts of Jupiter?" "I do not know," replied the secretary of the Academy of Sciences. "Then," said the lady, "is Saturn the only planet surrounded by a ring?" "I do not know," again replied Marian. The lady, growing impatient, demanded, with a certain degree of rudeness, "What purpose, then, does it serve, sir, to be an academician?" "It serves the purpose, madam, to reply—I do not know." Every honest teacher, who despises the conceit-knowledge without the reality, will often have occasion for the answer, I do not know. On one occasion when we gave this answer a student flippantly exclaimed: "Why, professor, when I came to the university I thought you would tell us all we do not know." "I am sorry, my young friend," said I, "that you labored under so great a mistake. I can engage to tell you only what I know, which is a very short story; but if I should undertake to tell all that you do not know, I am afraid the story would be a very long one."

QUEER.—A story is told of a drowsy D. D. who preaches in the Disciples' church, Charlotteville, Virginia, and has a nice dog who always accompanies the divine to church, and the other Sunday, in the middle of the sermon, the dog got up and yawned in sympathy with the congregation, and straightway took his master's hat to him in the pulpit. The doctor continued his sermon, and the impatient dog produced the old man's cane and placed it beside the hat, with an appealing wag of the tail. The doctor took the hint, and, remarking that the dog was probably right, dismissed the congregation.

PORT CARBON, PENNSYLVANIA, boasts of a hen forty-three years old.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

We have no material change to notice in the general market since our last issue. In some branches of the wholesale trade the movement has continued to a fair extent, but from others we hear complaints of increasing dullness. Sugar has been in good request, and with moderate supplies prices have been well maintained. Molasses has shown some irregularity, but good fermenting has sold freely at full prices. Flour has continued quiet, with the sales mostly confined to jobbing lots at previous rates. Corn has been in light supply, and ruled at fuller prices—about ¼ to ¾c. above Friday's rates.

The weather has been windy and cloudy, but without rain. Reports have been received of additional crevasses, but as yet we have no information as to their probable damage. The river is nearly up to high water mark, and at several weak points on the levee presents a very threatening appearance. Inauspicious weather, moreover, has delayed planting, and from all directions we hear of a prospect of a late crop, as well as of materially diminished acreage.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the fourteenth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi	bales.	12,074
Lake		7
Arkansas		1,311
Mobile		267
Texas		951
Total		14,610

On Saturday, under the influence of the 1-16d. advance at Liverpool on Friday evening, factors raised their pretensions, and some sales were made during the morning at an advance of ⅛c., while the bulk of the business was at previous rates, but later in the day the advantage was more on the side of the buyers, the closing rates, nevertheless, showing a slight improvement, ow middling being quoted at 13¼ to 13¾c., and middling at 14½ to 14¾c., while the sales summed up 5,650 bales. On Monday clean white cottons of all grades fully maintained their previous position, but mixed lots, containing no more than the usual proportion of dark-colored, stained or dusty, ruled in favor of buyers, without, however, any marked decline, the business embracing 8,100 bales, and the closing quotations showing a reduction of ⅛c. in the outside figures of good ordinary and middling. On Tuesday the market opened with more stringent pretensions on the part of factors for all clean white cottons, which checked the movement, but later in the day buyers came forward with increased spirit, and 7,250 bales changed hands, partly at previous rates and partly at figures indicating an improvement of nearly or quite ⅛c. Prices derived additional strength from the advance in sterling exchange.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 19,000 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,246,853 bales, against 989,026 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 954,112 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 783,957 bales to Great Britain, 230,862 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 242,710 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary	9¾ to 10
Good ordinary	12¼ to 12¾
Low middling	13¼ to 13¾
Middling	14¼ to 14¾
Strict middling	15 to ...

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales		20,606
Arrived past three days	14,610
Arrived previously	1,301,509	1,316,119
		1,336,815
Exported past three days	17,549
Exported previously	1,103,047
Burned	950	1,138,546
Stock on hand and on shipboard		213,269

SUGAR.—The supplies are light, and the movement is on a small scale. We quote 6¼ to 6¾c. per pound for inferior, 7 to 7¼c. for common, 8 to 8¼c. for fair, 8¾ to 9c. for good fair, 9¼ to 9½c. for fully fair, 10 to 10¼c. for prime, 10⅝ to 10¾c. for choice, 11¼ to 11¾c. for yellow clarified, and 12 to 12¼c. for white.

MOLASSES.—The supplies are light, with a good demand for fermenting. They are selling at 35 to 40c. for centrifugal, 20 to 25c. for inferior and common fermenting, 30 to 40c. for good to prime fermenting, 30 to 45c. for plantation reboiled, as in quality, 40 to 50c. for sistern bottom, 80 to 60c. for city refinery reboiled, and 90c. to $1 for golden syrup.

PORK.—The market is very dull, with holders asking $20 per barrel for mess, and no buyers.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111 to 111⅛.

American silver half dollars, 107½ to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2¼ to 2⅛ per cent. premium in gold.

The movement in stocks has been to a moderate extent, the sales on Tuesday including 100 shares Louisiana Levee at $12.75, 100 do. at $13, 500 (in lots) at $12.50 to $13, and 168 Slaughter House at $32.

Nothing has transpired in bonds except $1,000 old city Sevens on Tuesday at 70¾, and $1,000 at 70¾.

The sales of warrants include $1,000 new State on Saturday at 55¼; $1,000 new Metropolitan Police on Monday at 97⅝, $4,000 do. at 97½, and $3,000 large new State at 54; and $3,500 do. on Tuesday at 53, $1,500 new Metropolitan Police at 96¾, an inside figure, and $3,500 do. at 96¾.

City Treasury notes are in request, but there are very few offering, and quotations are nominal.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, April 14, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross	7 to 9c
Sheep, first quality, per head	$6 to 7
Sheep, second quality, per head	4 to 5
Sheep, third quality, per head	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head	50 to 100
Texas cows, with calves	to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 12
Yearlings, per head	9 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	21
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky	...	...
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs	1 25	1 30
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	...
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake	9 00	16 00
English fire	42 00	50 00
American fire	40 00	...
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	...	42½
Tallow	...	...
Adamantine	...	...
Star	11½	16½
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	...	...
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel	10 00	...
Authracite	...	...
Western, ₩ bbl	50	...
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	...	...
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	...	21
Russia	20	...
Corn meal, ₩ bbl	3 25	3 37½
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton	12 00	...
In sacks	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Campy	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	...
Indigo, ₩ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	17	19
Feathers, ₩ lb	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod	1 40	...
Herrings	60	...
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	...
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	...
Flaxseed, ₩ lb	4	4
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra	...	6 50
Superfine	5 90	6 00
Fine	5 70	5 75
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5½	6½
Currants, new	12½	...
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box	...	...
Raisins, layer	3 10	3 15
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box	4 00	4 25
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box	...	...
Oranges, La., ₩ M	...	...
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats	62	65
Corn, shelled	72	75
Beans, ₩ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western	23 00	26 00
Northern	...	...
Louisiana	...	...
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint	...	...
Country dry flint	10	...
Texas stretched ditto	...	...
Dry salted	13	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	14
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₩ lb	4	5
English	3½	4
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	6
Sheet	5	6
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	5½	...
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western	...	1 60
Shell lime	...	...
Rockland, etc	...	...
Cement	2 75	...
Plaster Paris	2 15	...
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	...	...
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	...	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	...
Scantling	15 00	...
Shingles, ₩ M	4 00	4 25
Laths	3 00	...
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana	...	...
Cuba	...	...
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country	...	...
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gal	60	65
Varnish, bright	80	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 05	...
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	45	47½
Cotton seed, refined	52	70
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated	25 00	28 00
C. S., undecorticated	23 00	23 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	...	...
Beef, prime	16 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb	...	...
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen	...	...
Pork, mess	20 50	...
Pork, prime mess	...	...
Hog, round, ₩ lb	...	...
Hams, ₩ lb	15	15½
Hams, canvassed	16	16½
Shoulders	...	...
Green shoulders	8	8½
Lard, prime, in tierces	13	13½
Butter, Northern	25	42
Butter, Western	12½	25
Cheese, American	11	16
Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 50	2 00
Onions	...	...
Apples	...	...
Cabbages, ₩ crate	...	...
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana	7	8½
India, (gold, in bond)	7½	...
Carolina	8½	9½
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DISTRICT.

Uniontown	Apr.	8, 9
Selma		15, 16
Orrville		22, 23
Dayton		29, 30
Peachtree, at Airmount	May	6, 7
Suggsville, at Gosport		13, 14
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel		20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson		27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville	June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi		10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground		17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Pine Level circuit, at Pine Level	Apr.	15, 16
Union circuit, at Mount Hilliard		22, 23
Sandy Ridge ct., at Rogers' chapel		29, 30
Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel	May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel		13, 14
Union Springs station		20, 21
Greenville station		27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's	June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground		10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove		17, 18

The district stewards will please meet at Union Springs, May 20. They are as follows: Union Springs, Thos. Pullum; Union, Thos. G. Merriwether; Pine Level, W. Capers Menefee; Rocky Mount, Wm. J. Skinner; Sandy Ridge, W. H. Zeigler; Fort Deposit, J. H. Renchef; Greenville, E. J. M. Padgett; Rutledge, E. E. Richardson; Troy, E. B. Wilkerson; Brundidge, G. W. Barker; Elba, W. N. Brandon.

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

Franklin street	Apr.	8, 9
Whistler		15, 16
Citronelle, at Beaver Meadow		22, 23
Mount Pleasant, at Stockton		29, 30
St. Francis street	May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard		13, 14
Milton		20, 21
Pensacola		27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river	June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel		10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Bladen Springs, at Kizer Hill	Apr.	1, 2
Gaston, at Bethlehem		8, 9
Butler, at Mount Sterling		15, 16
Livingston		29, 30
Green circuit, at Holly Spring	May	6, 7
Eutaw		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel		27, 28
Demopolis	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland		10, 11

The Demopolis District Conference, Alabama Annual Conference, will be held at Livingston, Alabama, commencing April 26, at nine o'clock A. M. All the official members of the Quarterly Conferences in the district are members of the District Conference. Lay members of the Annual Conference will be elected.

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Franklinton, at Shady Grove	Apr.	15, 16
Greensburg, at Pinegrove		22, 23
Summit, at Magnolia		29, 30
Covington, at West Pearl	May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo		13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel		20, 21
Arcola, at Amite City	June	3, 4
Holmesville, at Topsaw		10, 11
Livingston, at James' chapel		17, 18
Bogue Chitto		24, 25

My address is Magnolia, Mississippi.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Sharon ct., at Thornton chapel	Apr.	8, 9
Yazoo City station		15, 16
Yazoo circuit, at Mount Carmel		22, 23
Mt. Olivet ct., at Fletcher chapel		29, 30
Canton station	May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston		13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel		20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union		27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond	June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty		10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill		17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Georgetown ct., at Georgetown	Apr.	8, 9
Hazlehurst station		16, 17
Burtenton circuit, at Pisgah		22, 23
Brandywine circuit, at Nebo	May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church		13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehobeth		20, 21
Brookhaven station		27, 28
Weason, at Beauregard	June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove		8, 9
Crystal Springs station		15, 16
Jackson circuit		22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Natchez	Apr.	8, 9
Kingston		15, 16
Fayette, at Mount Carmel		22, 23
Vicksburg		29, 30
Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	May	6, 7
North Warren, Mildale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland		13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga		20, 21
South Warren		27, 28
Clover Hill	June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek		10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Rankin circuit, at Bethel	Apr.	8, 9
Mt. Carmel ct., at Williamsburg		22, 23
Columbia mission, at Tate's school house		29, 30
Gainesville miss., at Pearlington	May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi		13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coulville		20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point		27, 28
Green circuit	June	3, 4
Enon circuit		10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HUNGT, P. E., Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Buffalo	Apr.	1, 2
East Feliciana, at Pinegrove		8, 9
Woodville station		15, 16
Jackson and Plains, at Pipkin's chapel		22, 23
Bayou Sara, at Bayou Sara		29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon		19, 20
Meadville		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Meridian	Apr.	1, 2
DeKalb, at Scooba		8, 9
Enterprise, at New Hope		22, 23
Spring Hill, at Union		29, 30
Wayne	May	6, 7
Clark		13, 14
Paulding		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

Moreau street and Algiers:
Quart. Conf. at Moreau st., 7½ P. M.	May	1
Preaching at Algiers	Apr.	23
Preaching at Moreau street		30
German charges:
Quart. Conf. at Dryades st., 7½ P. M.	May	5
Preaching		7
Carondelet street		21
Felicity street		28
Baton Rouge	June	3, 4
Louisiana avenue		11
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, at Plaquemine		18
Cadiz street and Carrollton		25
Thibodaux	July	2
Quarterly Meeting at Houma		16

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Mansfield circuit, at Providence	Apr.	29, 30
Keachie circuit, at Boil Bower	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Mauny circuit, at Bethel		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit		27, 28
Shreveport station	June	3, 4
Anacoco		10, 11
Springville circuit		18, 19

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Abbeville	Apr.	15, 16
Vermilionville		22, 23
Washington		29, 30
Lake Charles	May	13, 14
Calcasieu Pass		18, 19
Grand Chenicre		20, 21
Opelousas	June	3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee		10, 11
Bellevue		17, 18
Franklin and Pattersonville		24, 25
New Iberia	July	1, 2

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

Minden, at Flat Lick	Apr.	20, 30
Minden colored circuit		22, 23
South Bossier, at Harmony	May	6, 7
North Bossier, at Red Land		13, 14
North Bossier col. ct., at Red Land		13, 14
Mount Lebanon, at Arcadia		20, 21
Mount Lebanon col. ct., at Arcadia		20, 21
Lake Bistineau, at Brushwood		27, 28
Sparta	June	3, 4
Louisville		10, 11

S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Spring Creek ct., at Spring Creek	Mar.	18, 19
Rapides circuit, at Palestine		25, 26
Atlanta circuit, at Atlanta	Apr.	1, 2
Harrisonburg and Centerville circuits, at Centerville		8, 9
Columbia circuit		15, 16
Simsport, at Bayou Deglaise		22, 23

The official members of Calcasieu circuit will please meet me at Spring Creek Quarterly Conference. I will preach at Alexandria at four o'clock P. M. and at night of March 26.

F. WHITE, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

West Point	Mar.	18, 19
Columbus	Apr.	8, 9
Columbus circuit		15, 16
Vinton		22, 23
Athens		29, 30
Houston	May	13, 14
Chickasaw		20, 21
Line Creek		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Richland circuit, at Shady Grove	Mar.	25, 26
Greenwood and McNutt, at Mill Dale	Apr.	1, 2
Atala circuit, at Spring Dale		8, 9
Kosciusko and Bethel, Kosciusko		15, 16
Durant circuit, at Wheeling		22, 23
French Camps, at Liberty Hill		29, 30
Valden circuit	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory		27, 28
Lexington		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

oc26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTED

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. R. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

A. BRUSSEAU & CO.,

17.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette.

mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M. SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Roquie.	Julius Vairin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.
Henry V. Ogden.

fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $12,000,000—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, General Agent.

fe4 6m

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perpe's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,

113 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address.

fe18 tf

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING.

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe4 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER,

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh13 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, General Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR, Brooklyn, N. Y.

fe23 3m

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR, By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo; 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics.

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S
Progressive Table Book	30 cts.
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts.
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts.
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts.
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts.
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	94 cts.
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 13
New Elementary Algebra	1 50
New University Algebra	2 25
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire it have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,

New Orleans,

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.

The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEW

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1871. NO. 15.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, March 25.—At 12.17 this morning a meteor of different colors, seemingly one-third the diameter of the moon, suddenly shot into the atmosphere at a point twenty degrees south of the planet Mars. The direction of its motion was a northeast arc, and it passed over thirty degrees. The period of visibility was only one second, and the train of thirty-five degrees visible twenty-five seconds. This immense meteor cast shadows of surrounding objects, making the heaven ablaze with light.

San Francisco, April 21.—One-sixth of the wool clip has been sold at the highest price ever realized here.

California is now the second wool-growing State in the Union.

One hundred tons of silk and tea were shipped eastward by rail to-day.

Indian depredations in Arizona continue. The Indians appear to be supplied with government arms.

Key West, April 21.—The schooner Sarah, from Mobile for Havana, with lumber, sunk in Tortugas harbor.

Hartford, Conn., April 22.—The official canvassers give English thirty-five majority. The Legislature, however, will have final judgment on some alleged irregularities, which, if decided in favor of Jewell, will elect him by ninety majority. The canvassers give lieutenant governor and treasurer to the Republicans. The people failed to elect a secretary of State or comptroller.

Albany, N. Y., April 22.—Prof. Hough, of the Dudley Observatory, announces the discovery of a new comet. It was first seen by Lewis Swift, of Marathon, New York, on the evening of the fifteenth instant, and reported to Prof. Hough, who, owing to the cloudy weather, was unable to observe it until the eighteenth. Last night its approximate position was three hours twenty minutes right ascension, and forty-six degrees six minutes north declination. Right ascension is increasing two minutes twenty seconds, and declination is diminishing twenty minutes daily.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 23.—The Academy of Music was crowded to its utmost capacity last night at the reception of the President. Large numbers were unable to gain admittance. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags and flowers. The President appeared on the stage, accompanied by Senator Morton, Governor Baker and a number of other distinguished gentlemen. He was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Governor Baker made the reception speech, tendering a cordial welcome. The President, in reply thereto, said:

Ladies and Gentlemen: I thank you heartily for this cordial greeting, for I assure you it is unexpected. When I left Washington it was with the view of going to St. Louis without stopping by the way, but on meeting your distinguished Senator, Governor Morton, at Pittsburg, he requested me to remain here during this day.

That I consented to do, expecting to see you and the people of Indianapolis turn out to greet your Senator, and not expecting a greeting to me. I therefore leave him to thank you in more appropriate terms than I could do if I were to try. (Applause.)

The President was followed by Senator Morton, who made a speech of some length.

In concluding his remarks, he declared his belief that if the Democratic party came into power in the Southern States they would quietly secede. The people of the South did not believe the cause they had fought for was a lost cause, and still cherished the dream of the Confederacy. Jeff. Davis had so declared in a recent speech, and such was the hope indulged by all. They did not believe there ever would be another war to preserve the Union.

New York, April 25.—Aprils are excited, and are quoted at 14½.

Gold has advanced, and rules at 11. Sterling is firm. Afternoon advices from Liverpool report a better feeling in cotton and less pressing. Sales 12,000 bales.

New York, April 25.—Cotton firmer. The demand was chiefly to fill maturing contracts, sales 6,185 bales at 15⅜c.; flour—Southern dull and lower, common to fair extra $6.65 to 7.20, choice to good $7.20 to ; wheat 1 to 2c. lower, winter red and amber Western 55 to 56c.; corn opened 1 to 2c. higher, but closed scarcely so firm, 74 to 76c., white Southern 81c.

FOREIGN.

London, April 19—Dispatches from Versailles give some particulars regarding the fight of yesterday at Neuilly. The incessant fighting around Neuilly, which lasted throughout Sunday, Sunday night and all day Monday, was followed by an ominous calm on Monday night, which was broken shortly after daylight on Tuesday morning by the insurgents. The conflict raged all day with little advantage being gained by either side, every inch of ground being obstinately contested, and both sides fighting with the most determined vigor. Houses were on fire in various parts of the town, and the inhabitants had all sought shelter in the cellars, where many of them, including women and children, were burned to death.

Toward night the Nationals, from some unknown cause, became panic stricken and fled precipitately toward Paris, the dead and wounded lying thick in the road. The government forces did not follow the Nationals.

The wildest excitement prevails in Paris and the inhabitants are leaving by thousands. All the churches are closed, but the war on the sacred edifices still continues, and the priests are daily being insulted and imprisoned. Almost every church in the city has been pillaged.

The road to St. Denis is choked with fugitives from Paris. Provisions are more plentiful. The northern and eastern railroads are still bringing in provisions.

London, April 20.—Mr. Ashbury was re-elected commodore of the Harwich Yacht Club to-day.

A special to the Telegraph says the Arc de Triomphe has been destroyed by the fire of the batteries.

Versailles, April 20.—Marshal Canrobert is here. The troops who surrendered with him are en route hither.

The insurgent fire is gradually slackening.

It is rumored arrangements have been made whereby France pays Germany five hundred million francs down.

Madrid, April 20.—During a discussion in the Cortes to-day, Senor Castellar spoke in strong terms of condemnation of the house of Savoy. He was called to order by several members on the ministerial side, and a scene of confusion ensued, which terminated at adjournment.

City of Mexico, April 13, via Havana, April 21.—Complaints are frequent of the insecurity of life and property in the neighborhood of Aguas Calientes.

In the recent election held at Peehuas six persons were killed. Bandits killed the tax collector of San Pedro, in Jachitan district.

The people of Tehuantepec are again in arms against the government. This revolt is a more serious one than that recently suppressed.

An effort at fusion in Congress of the parties opposed to the Juarez administration has been defeated. The issue was made on the question of sustaining ex-Governor Catalan against General Arce, the present Governor of Guerro, which was lost. This action of Congress is believed to have put an end to the proposed coalition.

Florence, April 22.—Princess Louise and Marquis of Lorne have arrived in Florence from London, and will make a short visit.

London, April 22.—The Eaton, from Middleboro for Baltimore, was abandoned at sea. The crew were saved and landed in Queenstown.

London, April 22, 11 P. M.—A dispatch from Paris says the representatives of commerce and industry of the capital are about to make a fresh attempt at conciliation, and will go to Versailles for that purpose.

The army of the Assembly are strongly fortifying the towns of Sevres, Courbevoie and Asnieres, and the Communists are erecting defensive works at Neuilly, Levallois and Villiers.

Mot d'Ordre confirms the entry of the Versailles troops into St. Denis.

There has been no cannonading since ten o'clock this morning.

Versailles, April 24.—Thiers received a deputation of the Masonic lodges from Paris, who asked, in behalf of the people of Paris, an armistice. Thiers, replying, said General L'Admirault had power to grant a truce whenever necessary, but the Commune could never be recognized by the government.

Munich, April 24.—The King of Bavaria has written a letter to Dr. Dollinger, deploring the sentence of excommunication pronounced against him.

New York, April 24.—The English papers, by the Deutschland, report the death of Schamyle recently at Media.

The Spanish generals recently exiled at Balearic Islands have received permission to return home.

The British minister has presented to the Spanish government for indemnification, for the ransom paid by Mr. Rankin, who, with his wife, was seized by the brigands outside the town of Denia.

Count Moltke has given notice that he will draw a line of fortifications to guarantee against all attacks of the occupied provinces of France until the indemnity is fully paid and a regular government finally established.

While the chapter of the Munich University accuses Dr. Dollinger of being the head and guiding spirit of all the opposition manifested to the dogma of infallibility, forty-four out of sixty-two professors and lecturers have signed an address to Dollinger encouraging him to persevere in his opposition to the papal decree and constitute himself champion of liberalism in the Catholic Church.

Paris, April 24.—A member of the Free Masons' delegation to Thiers for an armistice says that during the interview Thiers admitted it to be his intention to bombard Paris when possessed of all the forts.

Fort Valerien fired upon an American flag, mistaking it for a Commune flag.

Versailles, April 24, evening.—Fort Valerien slightly cannonaded Maillet Gate, off Paris, to-day. General Ducrot has resigned.

Paris, April 25, evening.—The expected suspension of hostilities did not take place to-day, but it is believed will commence to-morrow.

The Communist newspapers of to-day concentrate in an attack on Thiers.

A placard upon the walls invites the friends of order to be in readiness to avenge their brethren murdered in the recent butchery in the Place Vendome.

London, April 25.—It is reported that the Queen of the Thames, bound hither from New Orleans, foundered, and many lives lost. No particulars have been received.

The insurgents made a sortie on Sunday toward Chatillon, and at first captured a barricade held by the Versailles troops, but eventually they were repulsed with a heavy loss.

A strong reaction favorable to the restoration of the Emperor Napoleon is reported to have set in in the provinces.

A number of deputies to the Assembly are known to desire to make the Duke d'Aumale president of the republic.

Versailles, April 25.—Thiers' circular of the twenty-fourth says: The last few days have been employed in engineering the works and concentrating our troops. New corps have been formed at Cherbourg, Cambria and Anserre, composed of the heroes of Gravelotte. Generals Doreni and Chinchuat will command them. Later engagements at Bagneux were successful for our troops, who captured a red flag. The great operations will soon commence.

The River.—The high water marks on the Algiers side indicate a rise in the river since Saturday of from two to three inches. At two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon the river had reached the high water marks in Algiers of 1862.

Speaking of the high water marks, we wish to correct a popular error. It has generally been supposed that the river had reached its greatest height in 1862. This is a mistake. It has been ascertained, beyond any reasonable doubt, that in 1867 the river was, at an average, two and a half inches higher than in 1862.

This year's high water, and the danger of an overflow incident thereto, has been attributed to a strong tidal wave. This theory is, according to close observations made by experts, a mistaken notion. A tidal wave would have been more readily observed in Lake Pontchartrain and in the several navigable canals leading into the city. No such observation has, however, been made by those whose duty it is to be on the lookout for any disaster that may be apprehended. The oscillations in the New Canal, according to a tabular statement kindly furnished us by City Surveyor Bell, within the last sixty days, varied between 5.7 and 3.9. These variations are occasioned by the usual changes of wind, and are of constant occurrence. They by no means indicate a tidal wave.—Picayune, April 20.

AN EXTENSIVE INUNDATION.

THE CREVASSE AT BONNET CARRE.

We copy as follows from the Picayune of Saturday, the twenty-second instant:

News of a startling character reached the city yesterday. The crevasse at Bonnet Carre, which, when first mentioned, had given rise to fears proved to be well founded, has assumed such dimensions that it will require herculean efforts to stop the break, which at last accounts was about one hundred and fifty feet wide and still increasing.

During the afternoon yesterday we had occasion to converse with several gentlemen who early in the morning had left the scene of disaster and destruction. We learn from them that the water rushed through the break in immense volumes and with an almost deafening roar, submerging the adjacent fields to a considerable distance and producing confusion and terror among the inhabitants. They speedily left their houses, taking with them such articles as they could quickly gather up, and repaired to points of a higher level. The country for miles around resembles a vast lake. In it were seen swimming all sorts of domestic animals, greatly terrified and drifting hither and thither.

The track of the Jackson railroad, between Frenier and Bayou Labranche, a distance of nine miles, is under water. At eleven o'clock yesterday morning the water on the track at Frenier Station was two inches high.

Later.—A dispatch received at four o'clock states that the water on the track at Frenier Station is four inches high.

At four o'clock the accommodation train left the Jackson railroad depot and got through safely.

Major Burk, the clever freight agent of the Jackson railroad, gives notice that freight will not be received until arrangements are perfected for forwarding by boat to Manchac. These arrangements, we learn, will be perfected, so that freight will, in all probability, be received on Monday, by which day the company will have a line of steamboats running to Manchac.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

We subjoin the following report, furnished us by the chief State engineer, in reference to the crevasse at Bonnet Carre and at other points:

Office Board of Engineers,
New Orleans, La., April 21, 1871.

To the Editor of the Picayune:

Knowing the anxiety of our fellow-citizens in regard to the existing crevasses, I propose to furnish you each night with the information that may reach me. No concentrated effort has yet been made to close the Point Manoir crevasse, in West Baton Rouge, and Mr. Martin Glynne is working his own force to preserve the ends. Engineer Van Pelt has visited the spot, and all agree that the crevasse occurred where it could not have been anticipated. Mr. Glynne writes me on the nineteenth: "My assistant overseer was on watch on the levee on Sunday when the break occurred, and had to swim his horse through the water, as he was caught on the lower side, and saw no signs of danger when he passed down."

The Wallis crevasse, in St. James, is not yet large, and I have sent ample materials, tools and orders to close it.

The Bonnet Carre crevasse will be very destructive, and probably interfere with the travel on the Jackson railroad. Steamboats, steam pile-drivers, barges, piles, lumber, sacks, tools and everything that can be needed have been sent to the spot, and Engineers Hatch, Wrotnowski and Conway will direct the operations to check the increase of the opening, and close it, if possible. This crevasse occurred by pure guiltiness, as this levee is one of the best in the State, and had been cut to haul sugar through, and the cut was not properly closed.

The crevasse at Marero's, in St. Bernard, is in process of closing, and will be soon finished. The one at Poverty Point, in Plaquemines parish, is nearly closed, and may be finished by Saturday night.

The break at Goodrich's, in Carroll parish, is still open, but the river is falling fast, and I hope to close it in time for the planting of cotton.

We are using every effort in our power to save the rest of our levees, and with the co-operation of the planters and laborers immediately interested there will be no more crevasses. Through the direct influence of the Governor some of the banks have come to our rescue, and hereafter each order or contract we make for crevasse work will be paid in cash by the Hon. John Lynch, disbursing agent.

We must now state that each planter, merchant and steamboatman will confer a great favor on us by writing or coming in person to state the condition of the levees in each and every portion of the State, for if this information is concentrated at our office all the people will know where to find it, and the proper steps can be taken to prevent, curtail or check the desolation that now occurs from (generally) positive negligence of the party upon whose land the crevasse occurs. We ask for all suggestions, information, counsel or advice that any citizen of the State may see proper to give us, and assure all that we will do everything within our power to save the country from overflow.

Your obedient servant,
M. Jeff. Thompson,
Chief State Engineer.

Loques Landing, April 22, 1871.

General M. Jeff. Thompson, Chief State Engineer:

General: We took soundings in every direction, and found in the principal channel an average of eighteen feet of water. This is on the batture, directly in front of the crevasse, and the current running as lightning. * * * Everything is desolation in the neighborhood, and misfortune is depicted on each planter's face, and truly they are to be pitied. The water is spreading rapidly, and can be seen six miles below the crevasse. Water at the crevasse has fallen four feet, and on the opposite side seven inches.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, A. F. Wrotnowski,
Assistant State Engineer.

Locke's Landing,
Near Bonnet Carre Crevasse,
Sunday, April 23, 1871—6 A. M.

General M. Jeff. Thompson, Chief Engineer State of Louisiana:

Dear Sir: We arrived here yesterday morning about ten o'clock, on the Salado, having been delayed several hours by the heavy northern gale of the previous night. Two hours later the tug Continental, with pile-driver and barge load of piles, joined us at this landing. I had the sacks unloaded and set the men at once to filling them.

Colonel Wrotnowski and myself visited the crevasse, and proceeded to make preliminary explorations and soundings. We saw at once that any attempt to close the crevasse would be the height of folly. It is now about six hundred to six hundred and fifty feet wide. A vast volume of water rushes through with a roar like thunder, piling itself up in the middle in the form of an arch, of which the center is five or six feet higher than the sides. The torrent has cut its channel through the front batture, and far out into the fields, to the depth of probably forty feet, while steadily foot by foot the great levee crumbles into its boiling waters. You will see at once that the closing of this crevasse is beyond the range of possibilities; so the next best thing is to prevent, if possible, the widening of the breach. The difficulty is to get our pile-driver up to the levee. The water above the crevasse has receded, leaving the batture almost dry, and here we must content ourselves with such work as can be done with hands. In the lower side we have by laborious soundings discovered a channel two feet in depth, through which we propose to draw the driver to the deep water near the levee. This end, exposed to a combination of currents, is washing away with fearful rapidity, and below, for several miles, the levee is twelve to fifteen feet high, and very costly. An effectual protection at this point will save the State at least $100,000 in the building of a new levee. We have decided to drive a row of piles at the foot of the levee, twenty feet into the ground, and when within two hundred feet of the brink, to throw out a wing at an acute angle to serve as a breakwater. This wing will consist of three or four rows of piles, driven below the bottom of the batture, sheet piled on both sides, and filled with bags of earth. It is doubtful whether even this heavy work will long withstand the attrition of the flood; but it will certainly retard the destruction of this costly levee, and may hold up until the water falls and everything is safe. The suction of the crevasse commences about one thousand feet from the shore, with a fall of five and a half feet at the crevasse; then, with a current of thirty miles an hour, the torrent hastens on its pathway of desolation. On the opposite shore the water has fallen eight inches, so you may look out for a fall of at least one foot at New Orleans. Yesterday I sent a telegram to Frenier station, but the water was deep over the railroad track, and the station was deserted. A continuous sea of water extends from here to Lake Pontchartrain, and for many miles above and below. The disaster is great and deplorable—is beyond the reach of remedy, as every one who has seen it admits. All we can do is to retard the work of destruction as far as lies in our power. At this moment—six A. M.—the tug has started with the pile-driver and barge to effect an entrance on the lower side.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant, W. J. Hatch,
Assistant State Engineer.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Mr. Editor: In a recent number of your journal attention was called to the preliminary steps being taken for the organization of a Young Men's Christian Association for New Orleans.

At a meeting held at the Bible House on Tuesday, March 14, a constitution was adopted, the preamble to which so clearly states the object of this new association that we present it for the information of your readers.

PREAMBLE.

"We, the subscribers, desirous of imitating the example of him who, when upon earth, 'went about doing good,' and feeling that by organized effort to promote the moral, social and religious welfare of the young men of our city, as well as by caring for the sick and needy in our midst, we may more effectually accomplish this object, we hereby adopt for our government the following constitution."

The constitution thus adopted limits the active membership of the association to communicants in evangelical churches in this city. The annual dues required of all members are $2. The committee appointed to nominate officers for the first year of the association reported on Tuesday evening, March 21, the following names, and upon balloting the gentlemen thus chosen were unanimously elected:

President—R. H. Browne, Esq.

First vice president—Marshall J. Smith. Second vice president—J. L. Dunnica. Third vice president—E. C. Palmer. Fourth vice president—W. G. Coyle. Fifth vice president—J. S. Walton.

Corresponding secretary—Talbot Sawyer.

Recording secretary — Robert Gribble.

Treasurer—W. H. Foster.

Librarian—W. H. Barremore.

Managers—James H. Low, Thos. I. Dix, W. J. Morphy, F. J. Odendahl, Charles Clinton, W. C. Shepard and Merritt Greenwood.

These gentlemen, who constitute the Board of Managers, have the general supervision of all the interests of the association, and are divided among the different denominations in the following proportion: Presbyterians, 4; Methodists, 4, Baptists, 3; Episcopalians, 3; Congregationalists, 2; Lutheran, 1; thus securing a unity of interest among all evangelical Christians in our city.

The most earnest efforts are being made to secure suitable rooms in which to open a free library and reading room as the most direct way of providing for the social and moral welfare of the thousands of young men for whose unwary steps the great adversary sets so many snares in a large city like New Orleans. A meeting of the association was held on Tuesday evening, April 11, at which five delegates were chosen to represent this association in the International Convention, which convenes in Washington on May 24. And now let all those interested in the work proposed by the Young Men's Christian Association make their application for membership, and by their prayers, contributions and active personal co-operation help on this noble Christian organization.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1871.

MY SOUL.

My soul unto my heart did thus complain:
How long, oh! dullor, will thou here detain
My restless spirit?
How long ere I may seek in yonder skies
The hallowed and the unconceived prize
That souls inherit?

How long ere Time, the high priest, comes to lay
His hand upon this dungeon door of clay,
And breaks the bars,
And set me free from mortal fears and fends,
To seek the grand and solemn solitudes
Among the stars?

Oh, heart! the heavenly spirit's earthly twin.
Oh, mortal! locking the immortal in
With human keys,
Have mercy! Hide awhile thy watchful face,
And let my prisoned pinions fly to trace Eternities!

And yet, oh! tender, though most cruel heart,
I've much to thank thee for before we part,
To rejoin never,
Ere Time's last billows I forayr have sounded,
Ere I the dim and misty cape have rounded
Of the Forever!

From Life's clambering vines rich blooms have plucked,
And from its sweetest fruits my lips have sucked
Delicious juices;
And I have quaffed that essence from above,
That only heavenly thing—pure, faithful Love—
Which Life produces.

The golden chalice of existence, lifted
High on the wave, into my grasp was drifted—
Its luscious wine
In purple flow upon the beaker darkled,
And o'er the brim to lips athirsting sparkled
In draughts divine.

In thy stern keeping I have grown the wings
Now fledged and pining for far nobler things.
Oh, guardian heart!
Too long I've fettered been to earth's cold floor;
I've loved and been beloved; there is no more—
Now let us part.

I hear thee build the scaffold of my years.
Of sorrows, smiles, few hopes and many fears.
As days diminish—
I hear thy thick throbs fall like hammer blows.
Here muffled by a thorn, and there a rose—
When wilt thou finish?

When comes the hour—at midnight, dawn or day—
When thou wilt draw these bolts and bars away.
With bated breath.
And ope for me the portals of this place,
And bid me that grim executioner face,
Relentless Death?

Death, at whose hands we find our noblest birth—
Who frees us from the swaddling clothes of earth
And all its harms—
Who rocks the cradle of Eternity,
And lays us, loving, grateful, glad and free,
In God's own arms!

J. W. ON TRANSFERS.

Mr. Editor: In a recent number of your paper there appeared an article over the signature of J. W., on the subject of transfers, to which I have been expecting some exceptions. Having waited some weeks for some one more in the habit of writing to strieture it, if you will allow me a little space I would like to offer a few objections to the views he expresses.

First, I object to his presuming to proclaim for the Conference that its action on the subject, at its last session, "was not taken from any mere sense of courtesy." Why not? Is it any reflection on the body, or any compromise of its character, thus to extend courteous expressions to strange brethren coming among us? I regard it rather as a compliment to have too nice a sense of politeness to vote against such a resolution, when offered, unless it involve sacrifice of principle.

Again, I object to his assuming that "it was the expression of an earnest feeling, which much consideration of the subject, during the session of Conference, had awakened in the minds and hearts of the brethren present." While I would not yield to J. W. or to anybody else in the cordiality of my welcome, the warmth of my sympathy, and the heartiness of my regards for brethren, who come in the spirit of true Methodist preachers, to share with us in our labors and sufferings, and to be identified with us in any and every part of the field where they may be needed; and while I do not suppose that any member of the Conference would yield to him, yet it is evident that there was a general and "earnest" feeling, too, at the last Conference, the very reverse of that expressed in the resolution against transfers, particularly of a certain class. It is a fact, of which J. W. evinces a consciousness in his whole letter, that there was a profound feeling—alarming and almost irrepressible—for preferred appointments. The regard for the feelings of brethren and other considerations prevented any outbreaking expressions; yet the suppressed feelings were there, and did to an extent crop out. Like pent-up volcanic fires they burn, and the Conference trembles over a crater, which threatens us with another such an unfortunate eruption as we have experienced more than once before in our history. When old, tried and experienced men—men who have labored long, assiduously, self-sacrificingly and successfully to build up and develop the Conference and church within our bounds—men whose unsurpassed ability as preachers, ardent zeal and transcendent devotion to the cause merit for them the highest consideration—conceive, whether justly or not, that they have sufficient reason for quitting the Conference of their choice, and of saying they do not think they will ever take another appointment within our bounds, is not the symptom alarming? Should we sustain the loss of a few such men, if not "to the manner born" to "the manner" adopted, would it not require a number of first-class transfers to compensate?

I therefore protest, sir, against such men and their views, when they feel antipathy, not to true men who come to us for any part of the work, but to men who transfer merely to fill preferred places, being branded with the "imp of Know Nothingism," and, being "hunted out of our Conference" because they cannot annihilate feelings in them as natural and proper as the feelings of our people against Radical carpet-baggers. I earnestly protest against insinuations that they "play diplomats for appointments," and "rally weak and discontented brethren into a frowning prejudice against transfers," simply because they are transfers and not Louisianians. If there is such a thing it is the irrepressible outgrowth of a suspicion or assurance that the parties have come to us through negotiations, or by diplomacy, for special works, and not the rallying of weak and discontented brethren.

CINCINNATUS.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., April 17, 1871.

The Minutes.—Louisiana Conference.

Mr. Editor: Having just read the minutes of our late Conference, I propose saying a few things about them. And first, the mechanical part I regard as superior to anything of the kind which I have seen for a long time. The arrangement also is unsurpassed.

I notice one defect, however, attributable possibly to the secretary—an oversight, of course, viz: The allowance and receipts, and widows' and orphans' per cent. of some of the preachers is not given in the minutes. Now when this occurs in the case of a preacher who was not at Conference, it is explained by supposing that his report, if sent, failed to reach the Conference; but this explanation will not answer if the preacher was present.

I hope the secretary will set this matter right through the columns of the Advocate.

Those minutes develop the startling fact that the membership of the church have compelled the fifty-three preachers who have reported to pay $226.22 each toward the support of the gospel in their respective circuits; while they have paid only a fraction more than $3.75 per capita for the same object—one preacher paying more than sixty lay members!

Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon! Fifty-three preachers pay $11,-989.88, while nine thousand and forty-four members pay only $33,-736.12!—the preachers, many of them in debt for the necessaries of life consumed by their families last year, while many of their members are looking for a profitable investment of their means, and others are "putting out their money on usury." May the Lord endow all such members with the grace of liberality.

The increase of the membership of the church, as indicated in the minutes, is exceedingly encouraging. "God grant that it may be quadrupled the present Conference year.

* * * *

LETTER FROM MISSOURI.

BRIDGETON, MO., April 12, 1871.

Mr. Editor: At the last session of the Alabama Conference I was transferred by Bishop McTyeire from that Conference to the West St. Louis Conference, and appointed to Jefferson City, Missouri. I will not attempt a tedious detail of my journey; only this will I say of it: Bro. J. E. Treadwell and myself came up the Mississippi river on a slow boat, and before we landed at Cairo, Illinois, I felt that I had been removed "from Dan to Beersheba."

I arrived at Jefferson City on the tenth of January; the snow was six inches deep, the weather was extremely cold. I stopped at a hotel near the depot to get breakfast and warm myself. While there I remarked to a gentleman that it was a very cold morning. His reply was: "This is nothing; just wait till it turns cold." I shuddered at the thought, and was inclined to hope that the stranger was exaggerating.

After taking a cup of hot coffee, some warm biscuits and fried chicken, I began to inquire for the presiding elder, who lived in the city. I soon found him, and was instantly drawn to him by that strong fraternal cord which binds the hearts of Methodist preachers so closely together.

I thought that there would be nothing to do but to get the "plan" and go to work; but the presiding elder informed me, to my great astonishment, that the church there had been supplied. Bishop Pierce had sent a preacher there, who was already at work as pastor of the church. It was very clear to my mind that I was in a curious dilemma. There I was, a stranger in a strange land, surrounded by numerous difficulties. I knew not what to do nor where to go. My "appointment" this time had a dis before it.

Well, I knew there was plenty of work to do in this broad Western field; so I prayerfully committed myself into the hands of God, and took up the St. Louis Christian Advocate, and the first thing my eyes fell upon was a notice that Bishop McTyeire was to be in St. Louis on the twelfth of January. So I made no tarriance, but soon started to meet the Bishop! I met him on Sunday morning, and sheltered myself under his broad episcopal wings. It was ten days before he gave me another appointment, and during those ten days I felt completely out of my own hands. In this there was something pleasant.

The Bishop assigned me as junior preacher on the St. Louis circuit, in the St. Louis Conference. A good brother mounted me as soon as I came to the circuit, and I entered at once into the work with my excellent colleague (Bro. Godbey.) I was initiated into the work here in a warm revival meeting, which continued several weeks with glorious results.

The sentiment of this country is generally Southern. Our church is the church for this country.

Now I will say to the members of the Alabama Conference: Brethren, if any of you are inclined westward, this is the field. This country is the Lord's; come, and let us claim it. We hear the Macedonian cry in Kansas and Montana; more preachers are wanted all over the Western country. We hope soon to see Methodism casting her dazzling rays throughout all the channels of society, spreading scriptural holiness all over these lands.

Yours truly,

MILLARD J. LAW.

A very curious mode of trying the title to land is practiced in Hindostan. Two holes are dug in the disputed spot, in each of which the plaintiff's and defendant's lawyers put one of their legs, and remain there until one of them is tired, in which case his client is defeated. In this country it is the client, and not the lawyer, who puts his foot in it.

Ninety-seven out of every hundred Swedish children between five and fifteen years of age attend school. This percentage is reached by no other country in the world, not excepting Prussia, where education, if not so general, is of a higher

EAST ALABAMA COLLEGE.

Mr. Editor: As a matter of interest, as an example worthy of imitation, showing what can be done if the disposition of the friends of this college were only favorable to its success and firm establishment, I inclose herewith a letter from a lady of this State, who inclosed fifty cents for college repairs, without signing her name. She will not object to the publication of this letter, if it will only induce others to follow her example and send fifty cents or a larger amount for college repairs. It is with this view I take the liberty to transcribe the letter, as follows:

CAMDEN, ALA., April 3, 1871.

PROFESSOR: Inclosed you will find fifty cents, sent in response to your appeal for means to repair the college building. Were my purse as large as my heart I should send a much larger sum. I have little means to spare, but felt that I would rather forego some little luxury than not to be one of the two thousand to contribute to so worthy an object. Surely there are two thousand persons in our church who will spare the small sum of fifty cents, and I trust they will respond so readily that you will soon be enabled to begin the so much needed repairs.

Very respectfully,

This is the right spirit. With our country full of such ladies how prosperously our institutions would flourish! I hope our brethren will read this letter to every person who can be reached, and that the remaining one thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine friends of this institution will be induced by the example and disposition of this noble lady to contribute at once to this great and worthy object. We do not desire to confine this plan to the State and Conference of Alabama. Let the friends of education everywhere remember us. The writer has just given an "Evening of Sacred Song" here for this purpose, and realized some $40. The workmen will be employed on the dilapidated fences this week. Friends of Auburn! help us. Young ladies of Alabama! give us the benefit of your concerts, festivals, etc. To praying men and women of the church! give us an interest in your prayers, that God may help us to train your sons aright.

A. D. McVOY.

AUBURN, April 12, 1871.

BEFRIENDING YOUNG PEOPLE.

When John Wesley saw a young man in danger of falling into the snare of evil associates he did not watch him sharply at a distance, and speak of his shortcomings to others, predicting that he was "on the high road to ruin."

He invited him to his table, and by a genial, affable manner, sought to give him good subjects for thought, or hints for conduct. Advice thus hospitably enforced was very impressive. He would draw out a young man in conversation, and learn what studies he was most proficient in, which were essential to his success, and then assist him to acquire the mastery of them.

Another most valuable way of aiding young men whom social danger threatened, was to make them acquainted with well disposed, religious young men, who would lead them into good paths. Then he watched over their future career with a father's interest and tenderness. Thus in a very simple manner he accomplished a vast amount of good, besides preventing a world of evil.

The Christian duty of hospitality is too much neglected by Christians. They lose by inhospitality many precious opportunities of doing good and of getting good. There is nothing that endears the heart of the young and of the stranger more than a warm home welcome from those on whom they have no claim. It opens the heart's door wide to receive impressions of good, and fills the memory with grateful remembrances.

"That woman is a Christian, if ever there was one," said a poor painter boy to me about a kind old lady who had befriended him in his loneliness and poverty. She had given him many a meal when hungry, or called him in her pleasant door-way to receive a pocketful of cakes, and once, when sick, had taken him home and nursed him with a mother's tenderness. The boy is a man now, but the memory of those little kindnesses will never fade from his heart.

If you wish to be good to the young, prove yourself, indeed, a generous, loving friend to them.

All our purposes should be formed in subordination to divine Providence.

FATHER TAYLOR GONE!

Father Taylor dead! Impossible, one might almost say. So live a man as he cannot die. That face, where every wrinkle was full of life, to be frozen; that eye, flashing with power, to be shrouded; that form, like the waves of the sea, ceaseless in motion, to be immovable. Such a miracle of anti-nature cannot be! Yet it is. We saw it so on Good Friday, under the pulpit where he had so often and so mightily preached the gospel. There he lay, like a warrior taking his rest on the field of his victories, dead, most certainly dead!

On Wednesday morning, between twelve and one, in the first quarter of the ebb tide, on which ebb the sailors say every naturally-dying person dies, he floated out into eternity, conforming in this particular to the peculiarities of the sailors, in whom he so delighted. He has been breaking in powers for a year or two, and his mind was entering the fog that lay along the bank of the ocean river of his life. Out of the midst of it occasionally flashes of that rare genius burst forth—the sun struggling through heavy clouds. These grew denser and denser; nature struggled less and less against them, until he dropped quietly asleep on that last Wednesday midnight morning.

On Good Friday his church was filled with a great multitude, met to do him honor. Large, fragrant lilies stood on either side of the pulpit; an anchor of roses hung over his coffin; a wreath of evergreens lay at his feet. His strong features, fixed in serene sleep, reposed on their pillow; a white cashmere dressing-gown gave the gentlemanly air that ever marked his dress and manners. Rev. Dr. William R. Clark conducted the exercises with rare propriety. Rev. Dr. Lincoln, of Hingham, read the Scriptures. Solomon's poem on Life, in the last of Ecclesiastes, Paul's poem on his own life, in the last of Timothy, and his greater paean of the resurrection, in the last of Corinthians. Father Merrill made a fervent and effectual prayer. Rev. Dr. Upham gave some facts of the early life of Father Taylor. He knew him in 1815, when he received a license to exhort, and drew great crowds by his remarkable oratory. He joined Conference in 1819, and was stationed on Scituate circuit, comprising all the towns on the south shore, and which had not in it a single Methodist church. His fame fills all that region unto this day. He was stationed at New Bedford, Cape Cod and the Vineyard, ever hugging the shore, until in 1829 he was read off to Mariner's church, Boston, where his name has ever since been announced by the Bishop, until the last session. Rev. Dr. Waterston described his earliest knowledge of him, first in the little chapel in Methodist alley, when, unknown to fame, he was thronged by great crowds of sailors, and of the poorest poor. The first sermon he heard him preach was remarkable in its oratory, poetry and piety. Often since had he listened to him, and always with amazement at the fertility of his fancy and the scope of his thought. He said that when he was begging money for this church, in a rich congregation, he said he "wished for no pillared temple, but only for the chips and shavings that fell from their Corinthian carvings;" that "if they dropped a dollar into this ocean it would raise a wave that would strike the shores of Europe, rebound to the Spice islands of the South, and return thence to your Northwestern coasts." He portrayed his character and capacity, his breadth and tenderness of heart, with a warmth of words that showed how ardent were his affections, declaring him the Jeremy Taylor and the John Bunyan of America.

Rev. Mark Trafton was alike felicitous. Not a sad, but a smiling day was this. He described him in the early morning, with the doves from his belfry lighting on head, and arms, and hands, and feet, as they receive their breakfast from his loving hands; portrayed his wife, the stately lady, who, he said, was as much and as perfectly created for him as Eve was for Adam, to whom he always deferred, and yet never yielded the quarter-deck. He preferred that he should have disappeared with a broadside which had riven him from keelson to truck, or his magazine had been touched with a spark that had sent him up in a shout of glory, instead of drifting a mere hulk at the mercy of the tide, watched by loving eyes, catching at last on the sands and resting.

The benediction was pronounced by Father Taylor, now eighty years old, who, when a lad of nineteen, saw this rough sailor youth of two or three and twenty, in the audience at Bromfield Lane, broken by the preaching of Hedding, "the seventy-four," and took him in his arms, and led him to the altar and to Christ.

The most notable incident of the funeral was an old woman, with her poor soiled dress, with her basket of oranges and apples on her arm, walking up the aisle in the midst of the services, looking into his face, and going out, paying no attention to the audience or the exercises. It was such a gem of independence and characterization that it seemed as if Father Taylor would almost himself rise and commend it. Mount Hope received his body—a happy name for him, for no Christian ever lived who dwelt more constantly on that mountain-top. A few of his famous mots were given by the speakers. Mr. Trafton said that once demanding support for superannuates, he said: "They deserve to be fed on preserved diamonds." Dr. Waterston said he told him once, in order to encourage him to work and wait: "Not to carry the seed-basket and sickle into the field at the same time."—Zion's Herald.

The Young Soldier.—Some years ago a young soldier, a recruit, called upon the chaplain-general. Entering into conversation with him, the chaplain-general asked the recruit how he liked his profession. He replied: "'Oh! sir, I like it very much, but there is one great drawback. I never can find an opportunity to pray."

He was naturally asked how it was. "Oh, sir! if you only knew what takes place in the barrack-room. When I first joined I tried to pray; I knelt down by my bedside as I had been used to do at home; but there were such pelts and abuse, such throwing of boots at me, that I don't know how I was able to stand it."

The chaplain-general said: "My poor lad, I do know it; but don't expose yourself to such treatment; wait until the lights are out, and then commune yourself to your heavenly Father." The young recruit seemed to have followed the advice given; but at the end of the fortnight confessed, "It won't do."

"Why?" asked the chaplain-general.

"Because, sir," was the manly reply, "it seems like being ashamed of my Saviour."

The chaplain, an old man, felt ashamed, as he confesses, in the presence of this young lad of nineteen, and urged him to perseverance in his brave conduct, since God would most certainly bless it. What was the result? The soldiers, one after another, were ashamed of their conduct and admired the lad's holy bravery; then one began to kneel down with him, then another, until each of the sixteen men did so regularly. Would that all soldiers of the cross were as persistent and faithful! Then might we expect larger accessions to the Christian service.—Sword and Trowel.

Scolding Power.—It is a very common mistake of those who would abate faults to rely chiefly upon scolding power. Because it requires no self-control, no patience, no careful adaptation to the rights and feelings of others, it is far more popular than any other display of energy. Nothing so easy as to find fault, for the scolder's weapons are always within convenient reach.

Does a boy "look around" during the Sunday school session? Scold him. Does a girl whisper? Scold. Does the librarian make some mistake or interruption? Look daggers or speak drawn swords. Give the superintendent a sly scolding for putting in your class a pupil that don't match the others. Give each of the parents a piece of your mind (broken off short and sudden for not teaching their children the lesson. Snap at the other teachers for talking too loud. By these means Christian workers can make themselves and others as comfortable as it is possible to be—in a hornet's nest.—Christian at Work.

Occupation.—What a glorious thing it is for the human heart! Those who work hard seldom yield to fancied or real sorrow. When grief sits down, folds its hands, and mournfully feeds upon his own fears, weaving the dim shadows that a little exertion might sweep away, into a funeral pall, the strong spirit shorn of its might, and sorrow becomes our master. When troubles flow upon you dark and heavy, toil not with the waves, and wrestle not with the torrent; rather seek by occupation to divert the dark waters that threaten to overwhelm you into a thousand channels, which the duties of life always present. Before you dream of it, those waters will fertilize the present and give birth to fresh flowers, that will become pure and holy in the sunshine which penetrates to the path of duty in spite of every obstacle. Grief after all, is but a selfish feeling, and most selfish is the man who yields himself to the indulgence of any passion which brings no joy to his fellow-men.

Feeling a patient's pulse by telegraph is the latest achievement. The sick man was in Washington and the physician in New York. The beats of the pulse were transmitted by a doctor with one hand on the patient's wrist and the other on the telegraph key.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1871.

COUNSEL.

If thou dost bid thy friend farewell,
But for one night though that farewell may be,
Press thou his palm with thine. How canst thou tell
How far from thee

Fate or caprice may lead his feet
Ere that to-morrow comes? Men have been known
To lightly turn the corner of a street,
And days have grown

To months, and months to lagging years,
Before they looked in loving eyes again.
Parting at best is underlaid with tears—
With tears and pain.

Therefore, lest sudden death should come between,
Or time or distance, clasp with pressure true
The hand of him who goeth forth; unseen,
Fate goeth too!

Yea, find thou alway time to say
Some earnest word between the idle talk;
Lest with thee henceforth, ever, night and day,
Regret should walk.

Galaxy.

THE OLD EGYPTIANS.

The Egyptians who lived thousands of years ago have left traces of their ordinary life and customs. Their passion for inscribing and carving on stone the events of even ordinary importance has given us a fuller view of their manner of living and the state of their civilization than has been obtained of any other country. The antiquities of Egypt are numerous, so that their collocation and interpretation have developed the science of Egyptology, and made it a special study of archæologists. During the last year Blackwood's Magazine gathered together, in a series of articles, accounts of records Egyptians have left of themselves, "as they were once to be seen in their worship, processions, ceremonies, in battles and sieges, and in all the situations of domestic life. We may see for ourselves how they sacrificed, with what weapons they fought—how they sowed, reaped, bought and sold, slaughtered, cooked, wrought at trades, feasted, danced, gamed, rejoiced, mourned, died, were embalmed and buried; nay, more—we know in what manner they fancied that their souls were disposed of after death. We can study their features, dresses, implements; and so mightily has nature wrought with them to preserve the memorials, that 'their domestic habits, their social institutions, their very modes of thought, are disclosed to us, and so minutely that we know more of the men among whom Abram dwelt and conversed in Egypt than of our own British and Saxon ancestors.'"

The king was invested with absolute power, but was hedged about with certain guards, which he never overleaped.

"He could not be as other men were, but in all the acts of his daily life he conducted himself after a royal pattern, never forgetting that he belonged to the State. His toilet, exercise, meals, were settled by law; his amusements, both as to times and kinds, might be only such as became so distinguished a person, the very quantity of his wine being regulated to guard against the possibility of excess. His associates and attendants were all of the first families, and of high education. These were blamed and punished if their august master should ever allow his passions to influence him in the exercise of his office. The king could do no wrong, but his ministers were held strictly responsible if any wrong was done, it being held that impropriety or injustice could scarcely be a solitary failing, but a sign of general circumspection having been relaxed. From the very birth of an heir apparent to the throne, his future companions, nurslings of the same age as himself, were set apart and trained."

Their religion was of a complex nature. The number of their gods could not be counted. They were of every form of beast, bird, reptile and fish, and sometimes a union of man and animal. The gods were regularly graded in high and low orders, and represented evil as well as good spirits. The writer in Blackwood's concedes that no consistent theory of their religion has yet been formed, and the "whole subject remains a muddle."

"There were two sports," we are told in Blackwood's, "to which we cannot pretend to find parallels in our land and day—namely: Hippopotamus hunting, in which a harpoon and reel were used, making it to that extent like whaling and crocodile hunting. The Tentyrites are said to have been so bold in this latter pursuit that one of them would not hesitate to swim singly after a crocodile, jump on its back, and thrust a bar into its mouth, which, being used as a bit, the gallant rider made the crocodile carry him to shore. Herodotus, however, tells us that the way to catch a crocodile in his time was to bait a hook with a piece of pork, then to set a pig screaming on the bank. The crocodile, running to look after the pig, would observe the pork, and swallow it en passant, whereupon he was hauled ashore and blinded with mud, so that he could offer but little resistance to his fate.

"When our bucolic Egyptian got home after being afield, he took his bath, and was ready then for some refreshment, which was brought him in separate dishes, and served upon a small round table with one leg, at which he sat on a high or low stool, but did not recline. His meal, the history of which may be read on the sculptures, from the slaughter of the animal, or the gathering of the vegetable or fruit up to the moment of serving, was tolerably luxurious.

"Town-houses, when small, touched each other, and formed the sides of a narrow street. Large houses were detached, and stood each in its own area, with entrance doors on two or three of its sides. The plan of these detached houses was rectangular, and either the apartments ran round three sides of an inner quadraugle, or a spacious court was reserved on one side of the buildings, joining them to the boundary wall. Low houses appear to have been the fashion, except in splendid Thebes, where Diodorus says the houses were four or five stories in height. 'They had a portico or porch before the front door (Janua,) supported on two columns, below whose capitals were attached ribbons or banners, the name of the person who lived there being occasionally painted within, on the lintel or imposts of the door; and sometimes the portico consisted of a double row of columns, between which stood colossal statues of the king.

How curious were their customs respecting the dead and mummies! Upon the death of a friend or relation great lamentations would be kept up for seventy days. During this period the process of embalming was completed, and then came a new set of ceremonies. For a period ranging from a month to a year, the mummy was kept in the house, and sacrifices were offered to the gods in its behalf. Then came a magnificent funeral procession, which "wound up with the male relations and friends, leaning on long sticks, and either beating their breasts or walking in solemn silence."

There remains yet one other ceremony to complete the obsequies:

"Between the road over which the mummy traveled as above and the tomb which had been prepared for it, there intervened an obstacle. Every nome (or Egyptian province) had its sacred lake barring the passage to the tomb, until he whose mummy sought to be at rest had established his character as one deserving to lie among the worthies of Egypt who had gone before him. There was a sacred boat and a boatman (the Egyptian word for which is Charon,) but before the mummy could be embarked or the boatman would pull a stroke, the permit of forty-two assessors, who had been expressly summoned, and who stood in a grave semicirele on the bank, had to be obtained. There might or might not be an accuser or accusers present. If there were, he or they were bound to prove that the deceased had led an evil life, on pain of the severest punishment in case of failure. If there were no accuser, still the character of the dead had to be examined on every point seriatim of Egyptian morality. His acts, his omissions, his example, were rigidly passed in review, and it was not until the assessors had decided that he was altogether worthy that his mummy could be lowered into the sacred ark. Should the sentence be against the dead, or should he be proven to be heavily in debt, the body had to be returned by the way it came, amid the confusion and grief of all the family, and kept concealed, until the production of further evidence, the expiation of any offenses that admitted of being cancelled." If the inspection resulted favorably the assembled people broke forth in loud acclamations of joy, and the mummy was deposited in its royal receptacle.

Here are presented but a few views of a people of whom, says Mr. Kenrick, "we possess means for ascertaining the form, physiognomy and color of the ancient Egyptians, such as no other people has bequeathed to us. We find in Greek, Roman or British sepulchers only the ashes, or, at most, the skeleton of the occupant; but the Egyptian reappears from his grotto, after the lapse of three thousand years, with every circumstance of life, except life itself."

A School Master tells the following good one: "I was one day teaching in a quiet country village. The second morning of the session I had time to survey my surroundings, and among the scanty furniture I espied a three-legged stool. 'Is this the dunce block?' I asked a little girl of five. The dark eyes sparkled, the curls nodded assent, and the lips rippled out: 'I guess so; the teacher always sits on it.'"

The title of doctor was invented in the twelfth century.

THE FEAR OF DEATH.

Men fear death, as children fear to go in the dark; and as that natural fear in children is increased with tales, so is the other. Certainly the contemplation of death, as the wages of sin and the passage to another world, is holy and religious; but the fear of it, as a tribute due unto nature, is weak. Yet in religious meditations there is sometimes a mixture of vanity and of superstition. You shall read in some of the friars' books of mortification, that a man should think with himself what the pain is if he have but his fingers' ends pressed or tortured, and thereby imagine what the pains of death are when the whole body is corrupted and dissolved; when many times death passeth with less pain than the torture of a limb; for the most vital parts are not the quickest of sense. And by him that spake only as a philosopher and natural man, it was well said: "The pomp of death is more feared than death itself." Groans and convulsions, and a discolored face, and friends weeping, and blacks, and obsequies, and the like, show death terrible.

It is worthy the observing that there is no passion in the mind of man so weak but it mates and masters the fear of death; and therefore death is no such terrible enemy, when a man hath so many attendants about him that can win the combat of him. Revenge triumphs over death; love slights it; honor aspireth to it; grief flieth to it; fear preoccupieth it; nay, we read, after Otho the Emperor had slain himself, pity, which is the tenderest of affections, provoked many to die, out of mere compassion to their sovereign, and as the truest sort of followers. * * * It is as natural to die as to be born; and to a little infant, perhaps, the one is as painful as the other. He that dies in an earnest pursuit is like one that is wounded in hot blood; who, for the time, scarce feels the hurt; and therefore a mind fixed and bent upon somewhat that is good doth avert the dolors of death; but, above all, believe it, the sweetest canticle is: "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace."—Lord Bacon.

Silhouettes.—Although these pretty black pictures, especially those by Konewka, are at present so popular, we doubt if many persons understand the meaning of the term silhouette. This word is a proper name, and was first used in connection with shadow-pictures, in France, about the middle of the last century. In 1759 Etienne de Silhouette was the French minister of finance, and his administration was severely economical. Owing to his example, the fashions became plain and simple. To be stylish, people were obliged to dress cheaply. Coats were worn without collars; all unnecessary adornments and trimmings were dispensed with; snuff-boxes, instead of being made of costly materials, and adorned with diamonds and paintings, were of the very plainest wood; and portraits, instead of being painted, were drawn in outline and filled up with India ink. All these various economies were called a la Silhouette, in honor of the illustrious minister who set the fashion of being economical. At the present day our fashionable gentlemen wear silhouette vests (though probably not from motives of economy,) but the term has long ceased to be applied to anything but the black pictures with which we are all familiar. This style used to be confined almost exclusively to portraits, and to save trouble in filling up the outlines the picture was often cut out of black paper, and pasted on a sheet of lighter color. Hence they were sometimes called scissors pictures. But now the silhouette has taken many steps forward, and we have the most delightful little figure pieces in our illustrated books. To Paul Konewka, the German artist already alluded to, this revival, or rather advance, in silhouette art appears to be due.

Anecdote of Dr. Young.—Dr. Colton, who was intimate with Dr. Young, author of "Night Thoughts," paid him a visit about a fortnight before his last illness. The old man was then in perfect health. The antiquity of his person, the gravity of his utterance, and the earnestness with which he discoursed about religion, gave him, in Dr. C.'s eye, the appearance of a prophet. They had been delivering their sentiments upon Newton's Treatise on the Prophecies, when Young closed the conference thus: "My friend, there are two considerations upon which my faith in Christ is built as upon a rock. The fall of man, the redemption of man and the resurrection of man; the three cardinal articles of our religion, are such as human ingenuity could never have invented; therefore they must be divine. The other argument is this: if the prophecies have been fulfilled, of which there is abundant demonstration, the Scripture must be the word of God; and if the Scripture be the word of God, Christianity must be true."

A MEMORY OF SMITHFIELD.

A short time before the demise of Queen Anne, as Bishop Burnet was riding slowly in his coach round that part of Smithfield from whence so many blessed martyrs ascended to heaven, he observed a gentleman standing on the distinguished spot, in a musing, pensive attitude, seemingly quite absorbed in thought. His lordship ordered the carriage to stop, and sent his servant to the person with a request that he would come to his coach-side. He did so, and proved to be Dr. Evans, a very eminent dissenting minister, of whom the Bishop had some knowledge. "Bro. Evans," said the prelate, "give me your hand, and come up hither; I want to ask you a question." The doctor being seated, and the coachman ordered to continue driving round as before, the Bishop asked the doctor "what it was that directed his steps to Smithfield, and what he was thinking of while standing there?" "I was thinking," answered the other, "of the many servants of Christ who sealed the truth with their lives in this place. I came purposely to feast my eyes once more with a view of that precious spot of ground. And as public matters have at present a very threatening aspect, I was examining myself whether I had grace and strength enough to suffer for the gospel, if I should be called to it, and was praying to God that he would make me faithful even to death, if it should be his pleasure to let the old times come over again." "I myself came hither," replied the prelate, "on the same business. I am persuaded that, if God's providence does not interpose very speedily, and almost miraculously, these times will and must shortly return; in which case you and I shall probably be two of the first victims that are to suffer death at that place," pointing to the paved center. But it pleased God to disappoint their fears by giving a sudden turn to national affairs; within a few weeks Queen Anne was gathered to her fathers, and King George the First was proclaimed.

True to His Principles.—The Boston Journal tells this story of a temperance captain: An incident was recently related in the life of a sea captain, whose strong and earnest feelings respecting the use of intoxicating drink sometimes caused him to make any sacrifice of pecuniary profit than seemingly to favor, by any action of his, the destructive habit. He happened, a few years ago, to be at Santa Cruz, in the West Indies, with his vessel, when the season for shipping the products of that region was past, and nothing remained to go forward except a cargo of rum. He was offered the freight at a handsome price, but peremptorily declined it on the ground that his conscience would not permit him to accept it. The consequence was that he came to Boston in ballast.

On his arrival he estimated the loss to the vessel by his refusal, and informed the owners of the circumstances, adding that he was willing to pay them their proportion of the freight money which had been lost by his conduct. The respect in which the captain was held, however, prevented the acceptance of his offer, and he was continued in command, but care was taken that, if possible, his voyages should be thereafter so arranged as to avoid all rum ports. The captain is now in charge of a fine ship, which is on the way from Europe to this port, and although somewhat advanced in age, he still adheres to his old-time principles.

Slandering the Weather.—Very many diseases are laid at the door of "the weather." It is the want of weather which brings multitudes in our larger cities to an untimely grave. "The weather" refers to the state of the out-door air; it may be cold or hot, wet or dry, serene or stormy, but it is all weather, provided it is out of doors. Our wits are stimulated in winter to keep "the weather" out of doors; and we eat and sleep and lounge in an atmosphere of sixty, seventy and eighty degrees, and that atmosphere loaded with impurities of human exhalations, tainted breaths, coal-gas, furnace-heat and kitchen effluvia. It is not wonderful that, breathing all these from morning until night, and until the morning comes again, with short intervals of an hour or two, now and then, during all the weary months of winter, that our children pale and pine away, and by the coming of the beautiful spring-time have such little vitality, that croup, and scarlet fever, and putrid sore throats sweep them by multitudes into an untimely grave. The best health invigorator that can be taken, suitable for all classes and conditions, is two hours of "weather" daily, rain or shine.

In life's rosy morning, in manhood's fair pride,
Let this be your motto your footsteps to guide—
In storm and in sunshine, whatever assail,
We'll onward and conquer, and never say fail.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

A number of Southerners are to form a Presbyterian church in New York city.

Two hundred and twenty baptisms were reported in the Boston churches during February.

Since 1867 the Protestant Episcopal Board of Missions has distributed gratuitously seventy-two thousand six hundred and forty-five prayer books.

A remarkable work is reported in progress in the Methodist mission at Lucknow, India. About fifty conversions have taken place in two weeks, about half of them being natives.

Henry Melville, chaplain of Queen Victoria, died in London, February 10, aged seventy-six. He was author of a volume of sermons, several editions of which have been circulated in this country.

A new place of worship, called the Church of Jesus, and accommodating about seven hundred persons, has been opened at Madrid. This is the sixteenth place of Protestant worship already opened in the Spanish capital.

Though the Presbyterian Board has no formal missions in Europe, it has, within the last twenty-five years, expended $100,000 in France, Belgium and Italy. Besides this, it has invested $20,000 in this country for the benefit of the Waldensian school of theology at Florence.

The Newton Theological Seminary has just been endowed by a general subscription among the Baptists, with a fund of $200,000, making a total of $350,000 in endowments. This money has all been collected within the last eighteen months.

The Kentucky Methodist Episcopal Conference, in recent session, passed the following resolution in regard to the use of tobacco:

"Resolved, That we urge all our members and people to abstain from the very useless, expensive and pernicious use of tobacco—chewing, smoking, snuffing and dipping."

Rev. J. B. Dunn's Presbyterian church in Boston, Massachusetts, has been blessed with the outpouring of the Spirit. Within two months one hundred and fifty new members have been received into it, most of them on profession of faith. The membership is now over seven hundred; a little over two years ago it was less than two hundred.

The Chinese outrages at Tien-Tsin, at which the Christian world was horrified not long ago, have been followed by similar brutal demonstrations against Protestant and Catholic missionaries in other parts of the kingdom. At Sin Chow, for example, a Protestant chapel was sacked, and several Chinese converts murdered; a Catholic mission at Ta Tsuang shared the same fate, and one or more chapels between Pekin and Tien-Tsin are also reported to have been plundered and burned.

In Buchanan, Virginia, the house of the Rev. S. C. Thresher, a Baptist clergyman, has for several months past been haunted by a ghost whose antics were as singular as they were mysterious. A church council sat upon the case for some weeks, and finally came to the conclusion that the agency was by no means supernatural. A little girl who belonged to the pastor's household, and was also a church member, rests under the suspicion of being closely connected with the witcheries, and has on this account been refused a letter of dismission from the church.

It is now more than three hundred years since the first Jesuit missionaries entered China. In the course of a century the number of converts had reached two hundred and fifty thousand, and in half a century more, five hundred thousand. Since then, by persecution and the neglect of the field, the number has greatly diminished, though it is again increasing. The whole country is divided into twenty vicarates, each having its bishop, missionaries and native priests. Doubtless the recent persecutions will greatly stimulate the zeal of the faithful and help swell the ranks of the church.

We do not yet hear that Queen Victoria had any difficulty in securing a minister to marry her daughter to the Scotch marquis, even though the marriage happened to occur some time within the forty days during which we have no authority for saying that our Saviour was fasting in the wilderness and tempted of the devil. But Chief Justice Chase was less fortunate. Dr. Lewis, of St. John's church, Washington, refused to solemnize the marriage of the daughter of the chief justice during the Lenten season; and the resolute father, himself the nephew of Bishop Chase, called in Bishop McIlvaine, the oldest in office but one of the Episcopal bench, who had no sort of objection to making the young people happy.—The Standard.

The multiplication of hymn books alarms the Christian Era. It intimates that there will shortly be three in use among the Baptists—one from Philadelphia, another from New York, and a third from Boston. "And thus we shall have in Pennsylvania and the West one book; in New York and the South another; and in New England another. And we happen to know of two or three good and able brethren, as well qualified as any who are now engaged in the work, who have in their desks or on their tables huge compilations of hymns that may, sooner or later, go through the open door and be precipitated upon the unfortunate denomination." It adds: "We do not want a bishop nor a synod, but we do wish we had in our denomination some central organization to save us from the irresponsible acts of authors and publishers.—Christian Union.

WILL HE SUCCEED?

In nine cases out of ten, says the Hearth and Home, no man's life will be a success unless he bears burdens in his childhood. If the fondness or vanity of the father or mother keep him from hard work; if another always helped him out at the end of his row; if instead of taking his turn at pitching off, he moved away all of the time—in short, if what was light always fell on him, and what was heavy about the same work to some one else; if he has been permitted to shirk until shirking has become a habit—unless a miracle is wrought, his life will be a failure, and the blame will not be half as much his as that of poor, weak, foolish parents.

On the other hand, if a boy has been brought to do his part, never allowed to shirk any legitimate responsibility, or permitted to dodge work, whether or not it makes his back ache or soiled his hands, until heavy burdens became a matter of pride, the heavy end of the wood is his from choice—parents, as they bid good by, may dismiss their fears. His life will not be a business failure. The elements of success are his, and at some time and in some way the world will recognize his business capacity.

When a country-bred boy leaves home it is generally to enter upon some business, the end of which is to acquire property, and he will succeed just in proportion as he has been made to earn and save in childhood.

If all the money he had has come of planting a little patch in the spring, and selling its produce after months of watching and toil in the fall, or from killing woodchucks at six cents per head, or from trapping muskrats and selling their skins at a shilling, setting snares in the fall for game, and walking miles to see them before the old folks were up; husking corn for a neighbor moonlight evenings at two cents a bushel; working out an occasional day that hard work at home has made possible—he is good to make his pile in the world.

On the contrary, if the boy has never earned a dollar, if parents and friends always kept him in spending money—pennies to buy candy and fish-hooks, and satisfy his imagined wants—and he has grown to manhood in the expectancy that the world will generally treat him with a similar consideration, he will always be a make-shift; and the fault is not so much his as those about him, who never made him wait six months to get money to replace a lost jack-knife.

Everybody has to rough it at one time or another. If the roughing comes in boyhood it does good; later, when habits are formed, it is equally tough, but not being educational is entirely useless. And the question whether a young man will succeed depends not upon where he goes or what he does, but upon his willingness to do "his part," and upon his having earned money, and so gained a knowledge of its worth. Not a little of this valuable experience and knowledge the country boy gets on the old farm, under the tutelage of parents shrewd enough to see the end from the beginning, and to make the labor and grief of children contribute to the success of subsequent life.

The Difference.—An anecdote is reported to us as authentic, relating to the time of the old battle between the Princeton and New Haven theologians. The story is that at an examination of a Princeton class in theology, by Dr. Hodge, the professor said: "Tell us what we think here to be a correct view of the atonement." "Our doctrine," replied the student, "is that Christ had a specific end in view in making an atonement, and that he died only for the elect." "Well, what do they teach, on this point, at New Haven?" "Oh, Dr. Taylor holds quite a different view; he teaches that God so loved the whole world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life!" It has never been decided which was the greater, the consternation of Dr. Hodge at such an unfortunate answer, or the amusement of Dr. Taylor when the story reached his ear.—Advance.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1871.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

BISHOP MARVIN.

Bishop Marvin, accompanied by his daughter, arrived from Texas on Saturday evening, the twenty-second instant. He preached on Sunday morning at the Carondelet Street church, and left on Monday for St. Louis. Bro. Littlepage, of Texas, came with the Bishop, and preached at night to the Carondelet Street congregation.

Fair for the Felicity Street Church.

This fair will open at Odd Fellows' Hall on Monday night, the first of May, and continue for four nights. The ladies are making extensive preparations, and are working with characteristic enthusiasm to achieve success. It will doubtless be one of the most interesting festival entertainments of the season, and worthy of being seen, enjoyed and patronized. The object is a commendable one, and we bespeak for the enterprise the generous support and encouragement of all who are friendly to the promotion of morality and religion. We tender thanks for a complimentary ticket.

TO THOSE WHO ADVERTISE.

William J. Carlton, 39 Park Row, New York, the great advertising agent, in his circular, thus speaks of the advantages of advertising in the religious press:

The superior advantages offered to advertisers by the religious paper over that of any other class of publications are too generally admitted to require a lengthy rehearsal of them here. In brief, its character, influence and generally large circulation give it the first position in value and worth as an advertising medium. The fact that it is frequently the only paper taken by the family should not be overlooked in estimating its claims. It is also carefully preserved when the secular paper is destroyed, showing how highly it is valued by its owner. Hence such a paper is of more value to the advertiser than a score of publications that have no hold upon the interest or regard of their readers.

Religious papers are circulated among the best class of people—best in being the most reliable and enterprising, and therefore the most desirable class to be reached by advertising.

KURSHEENT & BIENVENU.—We take pleasure in announcing the appearance in our columns of the advertisement of the above firm. For more than five years we have done business as next-door neighbors, and we do them no more than justice when we say that we have never had more clever and obliging neighbors than they are. They have a choice stock, equal to any we have seen in their line in the country. Their marble mantles are not surpassed anywhere, and we advise our friends wishing to purchase to call at 114 Camp street and examine for themselves.

Columbus District, North Mississippi Conference.

The District Conference for Columbus district will convene in Aberdeen, June 8.

All members of the Quarterly Conference are members of the District Conference. I hope to see a full representation from each charge.

THOMAS Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

A BILL has passed the Mississippi Legislature authorizing the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad Company to extend their road to Kosciusko and Aberdeen.

THE HYPOCRISY OF AVARICE.

This sin is most impressively exhibited in the inspired paragraph which relates the case of Ananias and Sapphira. Here in the beginning of the Christian Church we are met with this singular manifestation of covetousness. Here is an attempt to make a false impression in reference to the measure of religious giving. The crime consisted in giving less than they claimed to have given, and in secretly withholding what they had pledged to bestow. What the extent of the obligation was before any declaration was made we do not know, but it is clear that there was no imperative requisition for any specific amount. They were at liberty to give or to retain in this instance, and their sin was in the lie. The obligation to consecrate property is abundantly recognized in Scripture, but it is not brought out prominently in the present connection. The object of the contributions laid at the feet of the apostles was a worthy one, and the course of the disciples, who sold their property for the common benefit, was under the circumstances commendable, but it was not a matter of absolute requirement. It was right and generous; but the sale of the land was left to the voluntary determination of its owner. Even after the sale the proceeds might have been retained without incurring special condemnation. The sin was in the attempt at deception, and in proclaiming an act of liberality which was not performed; it consisted in retaining what had been solemnly and publicly devoted to religious uses.

A notable instance it was of avarice in the church, and of the peculiar temptation to hypocrisy which avarice always creates. Men desire to be thought generous when they are not, and claim a measure of liberality which they are conscious of never reaching. It is not necessary to suppose that Ananias was insincere from the beginning. Covetousness may have triumphed after the land was sold; and when he laid "a certain part" at the apostles' feet he may have persuaded himself that duty and interest were but justly and fairly compromised. As he is charged with lying unto God and to the Holy Ghost, we may suppose that at some stage of the transaction he had pledged all to his Master, and that in the last point of fulfillment the love of money had turned him aside from the performance of his vow. His lie was to men, doubtless, and he intended to deceive the church; but his crime in lying to God was so heinous as to overshadow every other aspect of guilt. So extraordinary is this circumstance that diabolical influence is recognized. Avarice is a combination of the worldly and the devilish, and it was Satan which filled his heart "to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land."

So far from concluding against the genuineness of his previous Christian profession, the history rather shows what havoc this passion, under the instigation of Satan, may make of the enlightened conscience. It exhibits the workings of this "root of all evil" not only in the profession, but also in the experience, by which the sincere soul has been perverted and led into the basest falsehood toward God and man. Whether husband or wife was first in guilt we cannot tell; but they had attained to complete unanimity in the execution of a sordid purpose. They had "agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord," and were united in their hypocrisy. The casuistry of the subject had been discussed between them, and had been settled to their mutual satisfaction. The love of gain was the blinding enticement and source of delusion, and so potent as to silence, if it did not satisfy, the consciences of both. It was this that led them to keep back a part of what had been promised to God, and to conceal from man what they may have thought would be overlooked by the All-Seeing Eye. Contracts and obligations sincerely made in business matters are often broken through the seductions of avarice, and religious pledges are even more commonly violated from the same cause. Satan has no more congenial field than the avaricious heart, and there is no other passion that he wields with so disastrous effect. Men release themselves from specific pledges, and from the obligations embraced in their religious profession, under its perverting influence, while they are careful to vindicate their claims to the standard of Christian liberality.

Covetousness has this baneful power of deadening the sense of obligation in the consecration of property to God, while it seeks to hide the delinquency from the judgment of the world. Hypocrisy in giving exists where other forms of deception are comparatively rare. Shortcomings in any other duty are more readily admitted than in this. Christians profess to believe that God has a rightful claim to all, and that they are merely stewards administering the blessings of Providence for the glory of the giver; and yet where this measure of devotion is professed is it not the rule rather than the exception that "part of the price" is kept back? How many redeem their most sacred pledges, or come up to the standard by which they claim to be governed? The temptation to hypocrisy on this subject would seem to be greater than upon any other, while the criminality of it is held at a lower estimate. To make the impression of faithfulness is to many of far more importance than fidelity itself. The obligation of giving is regarded as more relative than absolute, and there is more concern to satisfy the opinions of men than to meet the requirements of heaven. They present themselves before the church as giving to the extent of their religious obligations, while they are enacting a falsehood before God and men. The measure of profession is to the uttermost of ability as God has prospered them, while the Searcher of Hearts penetrates and condemns the thin disguise.

While avarice leads to the attempt to deceive others, it also leads men to deceive themselves, and those who, in the beginning, were conscious of condemnation, come at length to believe that they are right. Hence the difficulty of convincing men of this phase of guilt, and of the enormity of their crime. And hence also the significance of this exhibition and punishment of covetousness in religion. Judgment in this case begins at the house of God, and the divine estimate is thus awfully stamped upon this first manifestation of the hypocrisy of avarice in the Christian church. The love of money is displayed in its most repulsive fruits, and here, in the very buddings of the New Testament dispensation, God has put upon it the mark of his most fearful displeasure. The sin of Ananias is still in the church. Thousands are deceiving and being deceived under the misleading and perverting passion which caused this first defection from the gospel after the day of Pentecost. It has been the ruin of more believers than any other vice whatever, and is to-day the darkest stain upon the church of the Redeemer. And here, amid the first hours of her baptism into life, and upon the threshold of her growing temple, we have a warning example, which for solemnity and terribleness is exceeded by none in the divine record.

JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., OF BOSTON. The long-established reputation and extensive patronage of the articles manufactured by the above named firm are the best evidences of the confidence of the public in the purity of their flavoring extracts, and their freedom from those deleterious ingredients so obnoxious to the just prejudices of physicians. In addition to their flavoring extracts they manufacture the Cocoaine for the hair, the delightful Florimel for the handkerchief, the Kalliston for the skin, the Oriental Tooth Wash and Jonas Whitcomb's Remedy for Asthma. Mr. E. W. Whiting, the gentlemanly representative of the above firm, is now on a tour through the Southern States.

BISHOP PAINE, says the Western Methodist, called at this office on Monday last, en route to Jackson, Tennessee, where he is to hold a District Conference, commencing on Friday, April 21. He was in good health and spirits.

BISHOP ANDREW'S LAST LETTER.

The Rev. J. W. Rush sends us a letter written for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, by Bishop Andrew, just before he was stricken with paralysis. The letter covers four pages of letter sheet, and is in the Bishop's characteristic chirography, only indicating a hand more trembling and nervous than usual. The labor of writing with a pen seems to have been exceedingly difficult, and the fourth page is written with a pencil. Bro. Rush, in a note accompanying the letter, says: "I herewith send you the piece on Levity in the Ministry, written by Bishop Andrew while at the house of his dear friend, Dr. Moss, in New Orleans. It is the last piece he ever wrote for the public. I found it in his pocket, and put it away so carefully that it seemed I would never find it again. I regret that it did not sooner occur to me where I had put it. The letter was written for the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and is at your service."

LEVITY IN THE MINISTRY.

Is there not too much levity in the ministry and in the church generally? The apostle, I think, warns us against foolish talking and jesting, which, he says, are not convenient, but rather giving of thanks; and our Discipline says: "Be serious; let your motto be, Holiness." Now from these important teachings I infer that the apostle did not believe this levity of speech did well agree with the Christian's proper spirit of thanksgiving. We think that for Christian ministers it is of the first importance that they cultivate a spirit of seriousness. It seems to me that every circumstance connected with their work demands that it be done seriously. They stand as God's embassadors to a world of lost and helpless sinners. God's character and his word to these sinners must form the theme of their ministrations. Does it become them to laugh and joke when they are addressing the mighty God in prayer? Or is it appropriate that when we are addressing a poor, lost and wandering sinner, and endeavoring earnestly to persuade him to come to the Good Shepherd in view of his imminent danger as a sinner wandering from God, and to urge him to the mercy seat in view of the agony of the cross and the glorious resurrection, and invitations and promises of an ascended and glorified Redeemer—when the sinner is seeking mercy and comes to you for help—would it seem appropriate for you, as God's servant, when the guilty sinner asks what he must do to be saved, that you tell him in reply some pleasant story, and accompany it with loud laughter? Would not this seem wretchedly out of joint for a Christian pastor? And yet how many Christian pastors do this very thing substantially? Oh! Christian brother, can you look at the dying thousands around you, and fail to feel serious in view of their present condition and future prospects?

Now a few words to the preachers before we close these desultory remarks. I ask you, my brethren, can you look to the future of the precious souls around you and not feel your soul moved for them? And will you not resolve, by God's help, to do all in your power to save them? Now if these people daily associate with you, and the best judgment which they can form of you is that you are a good fellow, can crack a good joke, tell a good story, and can set the table in a roar, are you likely to win them to Jesus? I know some preachers who are not remarkable for anything except that they can tell a good story and manufacture all the necessary trimmings to pass well. The Rev. Dr. Olin is reported to have said that he never knew a man who could tell a good story who did not lie. This may seem rather a hard judgment, yet I think there is more truth than poetry in it.

We have certainly no objection to a proper amount of cheerfulness and a chastened wit and humor in the social intercourse of friends, but let it be properly regulated both as to quality and quantity, both as to time and place. I fear that many of the people look quite too much to amusement for happiness. See what a tendency in the church to the light and trifling amusements which ungodly people delight to indulge in. And this is seen not only in their conversations and associations, but in the books which they delight to read. Perhaps I have said quite too much. May be so; but my soul has often been pained in looking at this thing. I love the church and seek her welfare, or I had not written these things. May God bless them to the good of all concerned. JAMES O. ANDREW.

AN ART CRITIC, writing from the Eternal City, says: "Rome is a mass of humbug, and bad cameos belong to the category."

Death of Another Aged Minister.

Rev. Alfred Griffith, the oldest preacher on the roll of the Baltimore Annual Conference, passed away about nine o'clock on Saturday evening last, in the eighty-eighth year of his age. For several years past the venerable man had resided with his son-in-law, Mr. Uhler, of Alexandria, and from that devoted family circle departed full of Christian triumph. The funeral services took place on Tuesday morning last, and at the desire of the deceased Rev. John Bear and Rev. William Hamilton, D. D., the next oldest members of the Conference now living, officiated. Rev. Alfred Griffith entered the Baltimore Conference in 1806; his first circuit was the Wyoming, about three hundred miles in length, and through forests so dense that single pathways to various points were penetrated with skill, fortitude and perseverance such as characterized the Methodist preachers of that early period. The Rev. Christopher Frye was his first presiding elder. The life and pulpit labors of the departed preacher are as "household words" throughout Maryland, the District of Columbia and Virginia, universally remembered with the highest gratification. By the way, this is the second triumphant exit from the Baltimore Conference since its adjournment at Broadway less than six weeks ago. Rev. Jacob L. Bromwell died happily on the very day after the closing of that session. Baltimore Episcopal Methodist.

FROM DR. McFERRIN.

MISSION ROOMS, NASHVILLE, April 15, 1871.

REV. J. B. A. ANDREWS — Dear Brother: Your note to Dr. Redford, our missionary treasurer, inclosing $6.60, contributed by the Juvenile Missionary Society of Craps Street German church, has been received. Please to tender to the dear children the thanks of the secretary. Tell them that he appreciates such gifts coming from the children of the church. Say to them further that he has not forgotten their beautiful singing at the meeting during the Conference last winter. May the Lord bless you and your flock. In your late revival I have no doubt some of the children were converted.

Truly,

J. B. MCFERRIN, Sec.

MISSIONARY DEBT.

The following amounts are acknowledged in payment of subscriptions made at the Mississippi Conference for the payment of the missionary debt, viz: Rev. A. B. Stewart, $50; Rev. W. Harrington, $50. C. G. ANDREWS.

The above reached us too late to be added to the other acknowledgments, as desired by Bro. Andrews.

DEATH OF DR. THOMAS. — The Christian Sun, says the Richmond Christian Advocate, gives the following notice of this gentleman, who was recognized as the head of a singular sect known as "Thomasites." He was a man of some learning, and devoted himself with much zeal to the interpretation of the prophecies as he understood them. We believe a few churches of his faith still exist in this State.

"Rev. John Thomas, M. D., the founder of a religious organization, who are still known in many places as 'Thomasites,' but are properly 'Christadelphians' by name, died on the fourth instant, at Hoboken, New Jersey. Dr. Thomas lived a number of years in Richmond. He was at one time in co-operation with Alexander Campbell, but separated from the Campbell reformation, and set up an organization of his own. He acquired considerable prominence in the religious world for a time; but for several years he has rarely appeared prominently before the public. He was the author of 'Elpis Israel,' and several other religious or theological publications."

A WITHDRAWAL FROM THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Rev. W. H. Cooper, D. D., once rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Lockport, Illinois, and more recently incumbent at Mount Pleasant, Iowa, has withdrawn from that church and ministry. At the latter place, on Sunday, second instant, Dr. Cooper made an address in which he stated his reasons for withdrawing from that church. He was a Low Churchman, and took direct issue in matters pertaining to existing canons and doctrine. His position is substantially that assumed by Stephen H. Tyng and Charles Edward Cheney. The formal statement of his dissent was made on the thirty-first of March, in a letter to the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Iowa. Dr. Cooper will now organize in Chicago a new church, which will be Protestant Episcopal in doctrine, save in the particulars wherein Dr. Cooper and his friends demur, and it will have a modified liturgy.—Northwestern Christian Advocate.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE LIFE OF OUR LORD. By Rev. William Hanna, D. D., LL. D. Robert Carter & Brothers, New York.

We are indebted to R. J. Harp, of the Methodist Book Depository, 112 Camp street, for the first three volumes of this valuable work, to wit: The Earlier Years of our Lord's Life on Earth, the Ministry in Galilee, and the Close of the Ministry. The series comprises three additional volumes, entitled: The Passion Week, the Last Days of our Lord's Passion, and the Forty Days after the Resurrection. It is not necessary for us to give an extended and critical notice of these volumes. Of all the attempts of the kind, we think this the most successful effort to give us a life of Christ. The style is lively and crystalline, and divested of learned and critical terms. The method is just and comprehensive, and the spirit thoroughly evangelical, although marked by occasional traces of Calvinistic thought. There are no theological or metaphysical discussions, but a perspicuous narration of the events, and a practical exhibition of the words and teachings of the Saviour. We can think of no class of readers to which this work would not prove both entertaining and instructive. The entire series should be on the book shelves of every religious family. Ministers, teachers and parents will find the volumes eminently helpful in comprehending and expounding this grandest and most wonderful life. The entire work can be obtained at the Depository, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE REIGN OF LAW. By the Duke of Argyle. First American from the fifth London edition. New York: De Witt C. Lent & Co.

The noble author has won a title to nobility by this great work of extensive research and acute and vigorous thought. In the discussion and illustration of the subject there is scarcely a living question in science, philosophy or religion that is not touched at some point. Phrenology, positivism, the theories of Darwin, Mill and Huxley, and the politics and speculations of the ancients, are all brought more or less in review. "The Reign of Law in the Realm of Mind" brings the author face to face with the problem of the will. The subject is discussed philosophically rather than theologically, and reaches conclusions widely separated from the old necessitarian notions, but still less clear and consistent than the handling of this subject by Dr. Bledsoe. The work is written in the interest and defense of Christianity, and the author's large use of natural history and science, for purposes of argument and illustration, imparts to it a peculiar and popular interest. For sale by R. J. Harp, of the Methodist Depository, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

WONDERS OF ACOUSTICS, OR THE PHENOMENA OF SOUND. From the French of Rodolphe Radau. The English revised by Robert Ball, M. A. New York: Charles Scribner.

This little volume is on cream-tinted paper and handsomely illustrated. The author enlivens the subject with anecdotes and historical events, and has made a most interesting as well as instructive book. The chapters on the Voice, the Ear and Music and Science are of special practical value. This delightful volume can be obtained of R. J. Harp, of the Methodist Depository, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE MUTINEERS OF THE BOUNTY, AND THEIR DESCENDANTS IN PITCAIRN AND NORFOLK ISLANDS. By Lady Belcher. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers, 1871.

Nearly forty years ago a small volume was published, entitled "The Mutiny of the Bounty." The present work is much more complete, and brings down the history of the colonies on Pitcairn and Norfolk islands to the present time. The story is one of surpassing interest, and reads like a romance. The religious development which took place in these adventurers is the most wonderful and instructive feature of the history. The maps and illustrations add much to the value of the work. For sale by G. Ellis & Brother, 82 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE PRINCE OF PULPIT ORATORS: A Portraiture of Rev. George Whitefield, M. A., illustrated by anecdotes and incidents. By Rev. J. B. Wakely. New York: Carlton & Lanahan. San Francisco: E. Thomas. Cincinnati: Hitchcock & Walden, 1871.

The author of "The Lost Chapters" has a talent for collecting everything of popular interest appertaining to his subject, and he has the art of presenting his materials in a most popular form. This volume of four hundred pages is mostly filled with anecdotes and illustrations. The biographical sketch is a brief and fair portraiture of this greatest of pulpit orators, but the value and chief interest of the book are in the anecdotes, illustrations and specimens of style.

WE HAVE RECEIVED from Ellis &

Brother, 82 Camp street, Local Taxation and Bred in the Bone, both published by Harper & Brothers, New York.

THE PROBLEM OF EVIL. Translated from the French of M. Ernest Naville. By John P. Lacroix. New York: Carlton & Lanahan.

We can say little more of this work than that we are indebted to the publishers for a copy. Author, translator and publishers are a commendation of it as to merit and orthodoxy. We like the stylo very much. It is clear, direct and simple, and is relieved of heaviness by sprightly thought and apposite illustrations. The solution, so far as we have read, is in the usual Arminian method, but the treatment is invested with unusual freshness and interest.

To the Alumni of Centenary College, La.

GENTLEMEN: Taking it for granted that you feel a profound interest in your "Alma Mater," and your "Alma Mater" being in great extremity, I, as agent to collect funds for the thorough repairs of her buildings, have concluded to address you a few lines of exhortation and comfort.

The words of comfort are that the college no longer groans beneath the burdenseme liabilities to the State of Louisiana, as in other days. The last General Assembly of the State of Louisiana passed (without a dissenting voice) "an act to relieve Centenary College from all liabilities whatever to the State." We are, therefore, no longer under the control of the State, no longer liable to have the college seized, sold and turned to other purposes, nor are we debarred the privilege of establishing such chairs as we may deem best for the well-being of the college; and still more, we are now under no obligations to educate, "free of cost," twenty-two young men to be selected by the Governor of the State. In other words, your "Alma Mater" is free, and what is there is ours. We have there about $200,000 worth of property. We have the only really promising prospect for a first-class college in the extreme Southwest. It is in a healthy region, easy of access, and thoroughly adapted for the great ends of educating our youth at home. But your dear old "Alma Mater" needs repairs—sadly needs repairs, immediate repairs—repairs which will cost $25,000. Some of your number, with others, have nobly responded to her call, and several thousand dollars have been subscribed for this work. There now being no danger of losing the college, or of being trammeled in its management, we want each one of you to raise, from your own means, together with what you may influence others to give, at least $250. We most earnestly beg you to do this immediately; as to leave the buildings as they are, longer, is to let them go to total ruin. Having confidence in the friends of the college to raise this amount, the Board of Trustees have employed mechanics, and they are already at work. Do not for a moment think that the other graduates and friends of the college will raise the means, and that you need not help; for if you think thus all others have a right to think so too, and the work will fail. Rev. C. G. Andrews has paid $400, William Nugent, $500.50; others of your number $100 and $200. Now follow these with a long, strong, united effort, and the work is done. B. F. WHITE, Agent,
No. 112 Camp St., New Orleans.

THE REV. THOMAS NIXON.

MR. EDITOR: The name of this venerable member of the Mississippi Conference is inadvertently omitted from the list of appointments in the pamphlet minutes of the last session. Such mistakes are deeply mortifying, but in spite of our feelings and care they do occur. Father Nixon was a member of the first regular session of the Mississippi Conference, held in 1816, and his name, of all others, should be retained among us—the connecting link to other days. His name should occur in the Vicksburg district, thus:

Cayuga circuit, Ira B. Robertson, Thomas Nixon.

A letter from Rev. J. A. B. Jones, the assistant secretary, informs me that Rev. Calvin C. Watkins was ordained as a local deacon by Bishop Doggett, in his room. Our minutes show the election to deacon's orders of Bro. Watkins, but I have never had any information, official or otherwise, of his ordination until now. His parchment is of course ample evidence of the fact of his ordination, though it is matter of regret that it was not officially reported to the secretary, that it might have appeared on the journal.

C. G. ANDREWS.
JACKSON, MISS., April 22, 1871.

Sunday School Notice.—Mississippi Conference.

YAZOO CITY, April 20, 1871.

TO THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE: My attention has been called to the omission of our Conference to provide for the traveling expenses of our delegates to the Sunday School Convention at Nashville, in May next. This was evidently an inadvertence. I request, therefore, that each and every Sunday school make a collection for this purpose at once, and remit the amount to Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, Sharon, or Rev. J. T. Heard, Vicksburg, or to myself at this place. The preachers and Sunday school superintendents will please see to this matter. R. ABBEY, S. S. Sec., Miss. Conference.

CELEBRATION.

WEBSTERIAN LITERARY SOCIETY.—Completion of New Hall.—Thursday evening, May 4, at half-past seven o'clock P. M.

President—R. O. Rounsavall. Orators—G. C. Spiguer, R. E. Rust. Presentation oration—Colonel William H. Barnes. Acceptation oration—L. V. Resser.

The friends of the society, the friends of the institution and the public generally are invited.

EAST ALABAMA COLLEGE, April 20, 1871.

COMMERCIAL.

THE SUPPLY OF TONNAGE.—The foreign freight market has completely broken down and engagements by sail have been made for Liverpool at ⅜d. on cotton. The extraordinary high rate of ¾d. had the effect, as we predicted it would, of bringing a superabundance of tonnage here, and putting rates below a paying figure.

There are now in port 146 vessels, of which 9 are steamships, 57 are ships, 62 barks, 14 brigs and 13 schooners. The carrying capacity of these vessels is as follows: Ships, 199,500 bales; barks, 99,000 bales; brigs, 11,000 bales; total, 309,500 bales.

There are on the way to this port, according to latest mail dates, 47 ships, 17 barks, 6 brigs, 7 steamships and 4 large schooners. These are estimated to carry 200,000 bales of cotton.

We have thus a total supply of tonnage in port and known to be on the way sufficient to carry 509,000 bales of cotton.

The stock of cotton on hand is 201,000 bales, and the receipts to September will be about 200,000 more, making a total of 401,000 bales to be moved, of which at least 50,000 bales will go coastwise by steamer.

GLEANINGS ON THE STREET.—As is usually the case on Saturday, business in almost every department was dull yesterday. Carondelet street was particularly bare of items of interest. Scarcely anything was done in stocks, except 400 shares Slaughterhouse at the reduced rate of $31. Sellers were offering Lottery at $70, but could find no buyers at this, and, indeed, few at any price.

Gold closed at 10⅞ in New York. The flurry is over. The recent advance must have been caused by a few liberal shipments of coin to pay the coupons on the 5-20s which fell due a short time since. There is no basis for any very formidable movement in the Gold Room, and so the premium is now sinking down to its previous level.—Picayune, April 23.

IMMIGRANT SETTLEMENT IN ST. LANDRY.—The Opelousas Courier of April 15 has the following:

Twenty-six immigrants passed through our town last Monday, direct from New Orleans, on their way to Mallet, about twenty miles from here, where a colony is being established under the auspices of Mr. Joseph Fabacher, a gentleman who has been successfully engaged in business in New Orleans for more than twenty years.

There are already at Mallet about forty immigrants, all Europeans, and some fifteen more are expected to arrive soon.

Mr. Fabacher has purchased eight hundred acres of land, and already constructed thereon some temporary buildings, including a saw mill in operation sawing lumber for the buildings, etc., for the colony; and a crop is already planted, which is a favorable evidence of Mr. Fabacher's enterprise and industry. Colonel Bridgman is assisting in the formation of this colony, and we have reason to believe the enterprise will be crowned with success.

We are informed that these hardy immigrants are families recently arrived from Europe (principally from Alsace and Lorraine.) May they prosper, and be an example to others who may come among us in the future.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of land in this parish that can be purchased cheap, and would yield rich harvests under the industrious labor of the European immigrant.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's father, in Leake county, Mississippi, April 13, 1871, by the Rev. S. D. Terry, Mr. THOMAS D. SCHROCK to Miss LOUISA A. RONY, both of Leake county, Miss.

Obituaries.

FRANCES ANN WARD, wife of Thomas Ward, near Springville, Louisiana, was born May 20, 1837, in Russell county, Alabama; professed religion and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Colquit church, Homer circuit, Louisiana Conference, in July, 1857, under the preaching of Rev. Daniel S. Watkins; was united in marriage with Thomas Ward, February 9, 1859; and died February 8, 1871, in full triumph of faith.

Just before the breath left her she was asked by her uncle what her prospects were at the time of her change. With her eyes turned upward, and with a smile, she said that her way was perfectly clear. She died without a struggle. Sister Ward leaves her dear husband and three lovely children behind, besides a large circle of relatives and friends. W. D. STAYTEN.

Nashville Advocate please copy.

MRS. CAROLINE C., wife of Joseph Wise, and daughter of Milton and Ellen Calhoon, was born in Linn county, Tennessee, January 19, 1832, and died at the residence of her husband, in Hancock county, Mississippi, October 24, 1870.

She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South when about fifteen years of age, and about the same time she professed saving faith in Christ. Her idea of the Christian went far beyond a formal attachment to the church. A few days before her death the writer was conversing with her on the subject of revivals on the circuit, when she spoke of the importance of conversion in connection with joining the church.

She leaves a husband, four children and an afflicted mother to mourn her loss. Two children had preceded her to the better land, where, she said only a few days before her death, she was prepared to go. One of these children died in infancy; the other, Rebecca Admonia, a little girl of six summers, preceded her only five or six days. May her husband and surviving children strive to meet her in the world of happiness. N. B. Y.

Died, very suddenly, at his residence in Lowndes county, Alabama, on the morning of the eleventh of December, 1870, Bro. DAVID E. LEMBETTER, a member of Tabernacle church, and a steward of Fort Deposit circuit, Alabama Conference.

He was born in Brunswick county, Virginia, on the twenty-second day of January, 1813; removed to Lowndes county, Alabama, in June, 1835, and was married to Miss Polly H. Smith on the twenty-seventh of April, 1837. He embraced religion in the fall of the same year of his marriage, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in December following, in whose communion and fellowship he continued a pious, devoted and most exemplary member until death.

He had suffered for a number of years from the effects of that distressing complaint, the asthma, which eventually brought on consumption, and hastened his departure to the better land above. Although the messenger came suddenly he did not come unexpectedly, nor find the good soldier of the cross unprepared for the solemn change. He had lived with death in view for a number of years, working faithfully in the Master's vineyard in his allotted sphere, and keeping his lamp trimmed and burning, that the light of Christian influence and example might shine upon all around him. In the somewhat difficult and delicate office of circuit steward he was, in some respects, a model man, working diligently and faithfully for him who had purchased with his own blood a place for him in his church, and for those whom the great Head of the Church had sent to labor in word and doctrine among the people. He heartily believed that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," and was not ashamed to ask his Lord's debtors for their dues to his treasury; and urged all to pay cheerfully what they owed to him who hath "ordained that they that preach the gospel should live of the gospel." He loved the church and her pastors, and while he had a home in her fold, and enjoyed the ministrations of those who fed the flock of Christ, he did not forget the preacher and his family, and merely say to them, "Be ye warmed and be ye filled," and then send them off to find what they needed wherever it might happen they could pick it up; but he worked for those who worked for him, and strove to bring the membership of the church fully up to the standard of their duty to the ministry of reconciliation. Will his loss ever be fully made up to Tabernacle church, his place as well filled by those he left behind him? May the mantle of the ascending prophet of the Lord fall upon the shoulders of his successors in office, that they may feel and exercise the same honest, earnest, liberal, cheerful spirit of both laboring for and giving into the treasury of the Lord which he manifested unto the end.

The deceased leaves a wife and two daughters to mourn the loss of a most affectionate husband and father. The ministers, who always found a hearty welcome in his hospitable home, the membership of the church to which he belonged, and the community around mingle their tears and regrets with the bereaved household. But we sorrow not as those without hope, for is it not written: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them?" He hath entered into that rest that remaineth for the people of God, and is forever at home with the angels in heaven.

F. L. B. SHAVER.

Richmond Christian Advocate please copy.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending April 24, 1871.

A—W F Alexander, R Abbey, J D Adams $25, American News Co.

B—F G Bromberg, E M Bounds $12, D P Bradford $3, Allan Barksdale, T S Berry & Co, R Burdette & Co, O H Brewster, Z W Barnes $5, J Bancroft $7.25.

C—Wm J Carlton, S H Cox $3, Julius T Curtiss, Merrill Calloway, H A Currie, Baxter Clegg $2.85, T C Carter, J L Caldwell, Kate M Carroll.

D—R Day, C L Dobbs $3, Angus Dowling $5.85, Dodd & Mead, W S Dodson, A S Douglass, Joel T Daves, H M Dunbar.

F—J M Franklin $3, E N Freshman, Flournoy & Millsaps $40.25.

G—Y W Graves, W W Graham, A F Graves, J Gorton, Geo Gaskin, H M Glass.

H—A Hawthorn $1, W W Hurst, H G Hall, C Hutchins $5.50, W C Haislip $40, W L C Huanicutt $16.

J—K A Jones $8.10, P A Johnston $3, A R James $3.25.

K—M J Kem, P H Kyes & Co.

L—W H Leith, Lyon & Healy, E J Loper, W E M Linfield $1.50.

M—W M Motley, J F Markham, R A Magin, J M McKee, Thos Mullen, C K Marshall, J W Martin $40, J H Mims, John A Miller $33.40, David Morris, O M Marsh $10, Eugene Miller, J W Medlock.

N—Thomas Nixon.

P—R M Powers $3, R T Parish $10.25, J Putnam, S A Pilly, Wm Price $11.50, S M Pettergill & Co, Isabella Phillips $1.50.

R—J S Roberts, W M Richardson $6, J K Randall, Fisher T Rawson.

S—C H Stuart, J Shanks $15, W A Sampey $6, N M Skipworth $6, F W Sharbrough $3, A J Smith 2 lots, H A Sumner, W W Sharpe & Co, W T Smithson, Smith Bro & Co, W N Smylie, J L Scales, Geo S Schofield, D S Snodgrass, Thos M Smith, Thos R Stewart, H R Singleton $2.85, S W Stebbins, E W Simmons $21.25.

T—W M Thomas $6, C M Tremaine & Co, Ennis W Taylor $50.

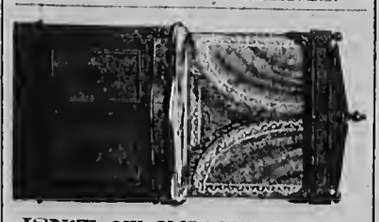
U—University Publishing Co, Thos J Upton $70.84.

V—W G Veal $150.

W—W L Weems, J O Woodward $2, Jas M Weems, A R Winfield 3 lots $15.

Y—N B Young.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.



ISN'T IT BEAUTIFUL?

WHITTEMORE'S

WASHSTAND CORNICE.

Patented September, 1870.

Designed to protect walls from the spattering of water while washing. It not only serves as a complete protection to the wall, but makes the washstand

A Beautiful Article of Furniture.

Attached to the Cornice are two arms swinging on a pivot, to which may be added a Lambrequin of either Muslin, Rep or Lace; or the arms can be swung out and used as a TOWEL RACK.

Elegant designs in Walnut and Ash, with mottled wood ornaments, hung with rich Lace Curtains,

Of Elaborate Patterns..... $3 00
Same, without Curtains..... 2 00

Sent to any part of the country on receipt of price. Address all orders to

LORD & TAYLOR, Sole Agents,
Cor. Broadway and Twentieth street,
ap27 4t New York.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS & ARMS.

DR. BLY'S PATENT ANATOMICAL LEGS have side motion at the ankle like the natural one, and are warranted for five years. A perfect fit guaranteed or no sale. Descriptive pamphlet sent free by mail. Address

DR. D. BLY,
ap27 1y No. 59 Camp st., New Orleans.

A LADY OF MUCH EXPERIENCE IN teaching, and qualified to teach the usual English branches, desires a situation in a family or school. References exchanged. Address MISS E. M. P., ap27 3t Cooksville, Noxubee Co., Miss.

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours, without drugs. Particulars, ten cts.
ap6 3m F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire-Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
up27 1y

THE NEW DISCOVERY

In Chemical and Medical Science.

DR. E. F. GARVIN'S

Solution and Compound Elixir of

TAR.

FIRST AND ONLY SOLUTION ever made in one mixture of ALL THE TWELVE valuable active principles of the well known curative agent,

PINE TREE TAR,

UNEQUALED in Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption.

CURES WITHOUT FAIL

A recent cold in three to six hours; and also by its VITALIZING, PURIFYING and STIMULATING effects upon the general system, is remarkably efficacious in all

DISEASES OF THE BLOOD,

including Scrofula and Eruptions of the skin, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, Heart Disease and General Debility.

ONE TRIAL CONVINCES!

ALSO A

VOLATILE SOLUTION of TAR

For INHALATION without application of HEAT. A remarkably VALUABLE discovery, as the whole apparatus can be carried in the vest pocket, ready at any time for the most effectual and positively curative use in All Diseases of the Nose, Throat and Lungs.

THE COMPOUND

TAR AND MANDRAKE PILL,

For use in connection with the ELIXIR TAR, is a combination of the TWO most valuable ALTERATIVE Medicines known in the Profession, and renders this Pill without exception the very best ever offered.

Send for Circular of POSITIVE CURES to your Druggist, or to

L. F. HYDE & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS,
110 East Twenty-Second St., New York.
ap27 3m

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE

KING OF HORSE BOOKS

The American Farmer's Horse Book: The acknowledged standard. Forty-first thousand now ready, and the demand as steady and sure as for wheat. Also for

OUR FAMILY PHYSICIAN

In both ENGLISH and GERMAN. Embracing the Allopathic, Homeopathic, Hydropathic, Eclectic and Herbal modes of treatment. Five hundred and forty-four closely printed pages. Price, only $2.50. The most complete compact, reliable and popular Family Medical Book out. Twenty-first thousand now ready. For circulars, with long lists of practical tests of both works, address

C. F. VENT, Publisher, ap27 1t 38 W. Fourth st., Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE PRACTICAL PLANTER.

A MONTHLY AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL, published by GEORGE W. GIFT, Memphis, Tennessee. TERMS—One copy, one year, $1.50; five copies, $6.25; ten copies, $10. MAKE UP CLUBS. ☞ Specimen copies free. ap27 1y

NEW IMPROVED SYSTEM

OF

TANNING LEATHER,

CALLED

The Dripping Process.

MAKES LEATHER in less than half the time of the old water-soaked system, and weighs ten to fifteen per cent. more, and if instructions are followed out to the letter the leather is bright and handsome.

Hides not required to be broken, as the compound puts them in a fine, velvet-like state to receive the liquor. No bloom can attach itself to the surface. Black and Red Oak Tanners, this will be of value to you. There is more than twenty-five per cent. of manual labor saved by working on this plan. The leather elevator is used for lime, and handling leather when it goes in tan. The bark stands in a strainer on low truck wheels, until the compound acid liquor compels it to give up its strength. No process ever tried can excel this. It is all done in a short time. When your bark is spent, put a horse to a strainer and haul it to the stock lot to make manure. The elevator will handle lime, and handles in one-tenth the time of the old plan. Full instructions given, from pool to dry house, in writing, to any one wishing to obtain a knowledge of tanning.

Models of the bark strainer and elevator can be seen at Mr. Sidway's, Leather Merchant, Jackson, Mississippi.

Apply to G. D. SIDWAY, or to
SAMUEL WILDBLOOD,
Jackson, Miss.

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that I have been foreman of some of the largest Tanneries in the State of Georgia, and have tried all the compounds and ingredients of any note. I have contested the field with the inventor of the above process, but he works it to the letter; so therefore I hand him the palm of victory. I think it an honor to sign my name to a certificate that will bear news to the poor laborer that the hard work in Tanneries is set aside by the DRIPPING PROCESS, and better stock produced in one-half the time; in short, it fills a want long desired.

PETER F. RAGAN,
Late of Americus, Georgia,
ap6 1m Now of Rankin Co., Miss.

Advertise! Advertise! Advertise!

SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE!

THE MOREHOUSE CONSERVATIVE.

A LIVE LOCAL JOURNAL; Independent and Conservative; devoted to general news and public interests. It is published weekly at Bastrop, Louisiana. Sent to any point out of the parish at $2. A twenty eight column sheet, printed on beautiful white paper, and in clear type. A large and almost daily increasing circulation. The official and only paper published in one of the richest parishes of this rich State, its columns offer superior inducements to advertisers. Orders solicited. Address

DAVES & SCHROEDER,
Bastrop, La.
REV. J. T. DAVES, Editor. ap6 2m

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de7 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS

THESE GINS are so constructed that any substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut but thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson, Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing. They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to.

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 51 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WHELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.

Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn
John L. Duanica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 tf Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3, 1864, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 tf

MURFEE'S SUBSOIL

AND ITS

CULTIVATING ATTACHMENTS.

Nearly Doubles Crops.

GREAT SUCCESS IN ALL SOILS.

FACTORY DEPOT:

E. H. MURFEE,

11 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

N. B.—Trade open to all merchants at liberal discount. For circular and further information send to the above address.

Planters everywhere supplied by their nearest city and country merchants. de3 3m

THE CHARM!

A NEW

Sunday School Singing Book,

BY P. P. BLISS.

(ISSUED APRIL FIFTEENTH.)

THIS BOOK is not intended to supersede the "PRIZE," which is selling so rapidly that the publishers are now printing it in editions of twenty thousand each, but is issued in deference to the wishes of thousands who have been charmed by Mr. Bliss' contributions to that standard work, and who demand more from the same gifted pen.

We do not hesitate to say that for these friends a great surprise is in store. Much as they may expect, they will be astonished at the wonderful versatility and power of this man, as shown in the words and music of "THE CHARM." We have seen the proof sheets of his pieces, as they have come from the printer, and with every new burst of thrilling poetry or fascinating melody have wondered where they could all come from. There is but one solution—his heart burns with love for his work. Being Superintendent of one of the finest Sunday schools in the country, that of the First Congregational Church of Chicago; being the helper and friend of Messrs. Moody, Jacobs, Whittle, Stearns and other leading Sunday school workers, he not only knows what is wanted, but is inspired with their enthusiasm. Pp. 160.

THE CHARM

WILL CERTAINLY BE

The Great Sunday School Singing Book

OF THE SEASON.

As above announced, "THE CHARM" will be ready April 15. Price, in boards, thirty-five cents, or $30 a hundred.

ap13 4tr ROOT & CADY, Chicago, Ill.

STEREOSCOPES,

VIEWS,

ALBUMS,

CHROMOS,

FRAMES.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,

591 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Invite the attention of the trade to their extensive assortment of the above goods, of their own publication, manufacture and importation. Also,

PHOTO LANTERN SLIDES

AND

GRAPHOSCOPES.

NEW VIEWS OF YOSEMITE.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,

591 Broadway, New York,

Opposite Metropolitan Hotel,

IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF

Photographic Materials.

ap13 1m

The Child's Corner.

STRAYED LAMB.

A giddy lamb, one afternoon,
Had from the fold departed;
The tender shepherd missed it soon,
And sought it broken-hearted.
Not all the flock that shared his love
Could from the search delay him,
Nor clouds of midnight darkness move,
Nor fears of suffering stay him.

But night and day he went his way,
In sorrow, till he found it;
And coming where it fainting lay,
He clasped his arms around it;
And closely sheltered in his breast,
From every ill to save it,
He bore it to his home of rest.
And pitied and forgave it.

And so the Saviour will receive
The little ones that fear him,
Their pains remove, their sins forgive,
And draw them gently near him.
Blest while they live; and when they die,
When soul and body sever,
Conduct them to his home on high,
To dwell with him forever.

THE BEST ORNAMENT.

"O, mother," said Johnny Reid, "next Wednesday will be the last day of school, and I am sure to get the prize. Sammy Jones is next me, but I don't intend to miss a single lesson, so he can't get ahead of me. Won't you be glad when I come home with the prize, mother?"

"I am always glad, my son, when you succeed in any right undertaking. You have certainly been studious this term, and glad as I shall be to see you come home with the medal on, yet there is another which I would much rather see you wear."

"What is it, mother?"

"The ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price."

Johnny dropped his head, for he knew how much pain he sometimes caused his mother by his fretfulness and impatience.

"I don't see what the medal has to do with that," he said at length.

"I should be glad to see you manifesting as much eagerness to overcome your wrong habits as to master the lessons given you at school," said his mother in reply.

Wednesday soon came, and Johnny won the coveted prize. He was delighted, and said to Sammy Jones, as they were leaving the school room together: "I wouldn't come so near getting the prize and then miss it."

This called forth an ill-natured reply from Sammy, which so irritated Johnny that he said hard things to his classmate. Words soon came to blows.

Johnny's fist was clenched, and he was just rushing forward to strike when a hand was laid on his shoulder, and turning, there stood his father and mother. They were surprised and grieved at what they saw—books and slate on the ground, and Johnny with flushed and angry face and hand raised to strike. In answer to his father's questioning look, he said:

"I couldn't help it, father. He said I cheated, and I wouldn't stand that."

"Pick up your books and hat and we will go home," was all the father said in reply.

The three walked home in silence. When they reached home Johnny took from his neck the medal he had expected to exhibit with so much pride, and, handing it to his mother, said:

"Take it, mother; I don't deserve it nor anything else,' and, laying his head in his mother's lap, he burst into tears.

His mother did not attempt to comfort him, for she felt it would be better to leave him for a time with his own thoughts.

At length she said: "I felt very sorry, my son, to see you as your father and I found you this afternoon."

"O, mother," sobbed Johnny, "I did not intend to be so naughty, and I see now that it was all my own fault, for I boasted, and that made Sammy angry, and almost before I know it we were fighting; but indeed I am very sorry." After a moment he added: "I would rather have a 'meek and quiet spirit' than all the medals in the world."

"That ornament may be yours, my son; but in your own strength you cannot obtain it. You understand me?"

"Yes, mother. You mean that I must ask God to give me this spirit."

"I mean just that. You know how easily you are led astray, and you need to look to Jesus for help when you are tempted. Will you do this, my son?"

"Yes, mother, for I see that unless I overcome my naughty temper all the prizes in the world can't make me happy; and then," he added in a softened tone, "I want to live so as to please Jesus."—Sunday School Visitor.

WORD TO GIRLS.—The woman who is indifferent to her looks is no true woman. God meant woman to be attractive, to look well, to please, and it is one of her duties to carry out this intention of her maker. But that dress is to do it all and to suffice is more than I can be brought to believe. Just because I do love to see girls look well, as well as live to some purpose, I would urge upon them such a course of reading and study as will confer such charms as no modiste can supply. N. P. Willis wrote once a very pretty paragraph on the power of education to beautify—that it absolutely chiseled the features; that he had seen many a clumsy nose and thick pair of lips so modified by thought awakened and active sentiment as to be unrecognizable. And he put it on that ground that we so often see people, homely and unattractive in youth, bloom in middle life into a soft Indian summer of good looks and mellow tones.—N. C. Presbyterian.

A MANLY ANSWER.

All honor to the boy who cannot be laughed out of doing right.

Five boys, pupils in the boarding school, were in the room. Four of them, contrary to the rules, engaged in a game of cards. The fifth was not standing and looking on, to see how the game would go, but engaged in work of his own. It so happened that one of the players was called out.

"Come," said the others to their companion, "it is too bad to have the game stop here in the middle. Come and take his place."

"I do not know one card from another."

"That makes no difference; we will teach you. Come, do not let our sport be spoiled."

The boy perceived that this was the decisive moment. Ah! just such are the critical points—sometimes the turning points in life.

His resolution was instantly taken. He made no more excuses, but at once planted himself square upon the principle:

"My father does not wish me to play cards, and I shall not act contrary to his wishes."

This ended the matter. It did more. It established his position among his companions. It compelled their respect, and preserved him from temptation in the future.

Such a boy inspires confidence. Such an incident may seem small in itself, but it gives promise for the future better than thousands of gold. These sterling qualities are manifested: a conscientious regard for the wishes of parents, superiority to the fear of the ridicule of his companions, and decision.

These qualities form a shield against all temptation. Happy is the boy who is possessed of them You would expect that his career would be honorable and successful.

Years have passed. That boy became a man. Various and trying have been the scenes through which he has passed; severe the temptations to which he has been exposed. But he has come forth as gold. No parent weeps, no friend blushes for him.

Are you a son, rich in youth, rich in hope, rich in a good conscience? Always regard the wishes of your parents.

WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?

"A farmer once saved a very poor boy from drowning. After his restoration he said to him: 'What can I do for you, my boy?'

"'Speak a kind word to me sometimes,' replied the boy, as the tears rushed from his eyes. 'I a'n't got a mother, like some of them.'"

Poor boy! No doubt he was often abused, and had no one to comfort him. His mother would have done this had she lived. Kind words cost nothing, but they do much good. They help to encourage many a poor soul that otherwise might faint and fall. This is a work in which all may help, and one which all may do well if they try.

"That reminds me," says Uncle Nat, "of

THE CHRISTIAN COBBLER.

"Some years ago I was brought in contact with a colored man. He was nothing but a cobbler—he said himself he was not a decent shoemaker, and I can testify to that from some experience of his work. But if not elegantly done, it was thoroughly done, and that was the point. He told me that when he became too old and crippled to work in the field and house he took to cobbling. I said to him:

"'My friend, after this cobbling on earth is done, how about that other world? Have you any hope for a better world?'

"'Ah! master,' said he, 'I am nothing, as I told you, but a poor cobbler; but I feel, when I sit here and work at my stool, that the good Master is looking at me; and when I take a stitch it is a stitch, and when I put on a heel-tap it is not paper, but good leather.'

"It is not the work we do upon earth that makes the whole of life, but it is the way in which we do that work—it is the motive. 'Thou, God, seest me.'"

Let us never forget that whatever is worth doing is worth doing well. Let all the little folks who gather around this table remember that.—Methodist.

The Farm and Garden.

Plowing Without Middle Furrows.

An ambitious plowman, who takes a commendable pride in plowing a piece of ground as neatly as the task can be done, will commence in the middle of the plot, especially when it is desirable to avoid middle furrows. On many farms the rule is to plow around a field, and turn the furrow slices outward at every plowing; the result of which is a ridge of earth on the margin of the plot, middle furrows from each corner to the middle of the field, and a plowed slip tramped firmly by the feet of the team at every angle of the plowing. In order to keep the surface smooth the furrow slices should be turned toward the middle of the plot, as often as the land is plowed, by throwing the furrow slices outward.

When a ten-acre plot is to be broken up by commencing at the middle, if the piece is as long as it is wide, set a stake at the center and turn a back furrow—two furrow slices together—from each corner to the stake. The back furrows will aid in turning the corners. The plowman, then, has only to plow around and around the center, exercising care to keep the furrows straight from corner to corner. Every day it will be well to measure from the outside of the field to the plowed land, on each side of the plot, for the purpose of determining whether one side is not being broken up faster than another. The team will always turn on unplowed ground when the furrow slices are turned toward the middle of the field. The plowman must be careful to cut every furrow straight out to the ridge, and to set his plow in so as to turn up a slice of uniform width clear to the ridge. A variation of only one inch, at the ends of each furrow slice, will make a crook one foot wide in plowing twelve furrows.

Our own practice has been to plow triangular plots and fields of irregular outline by commencing at the middle oftener than in narrow lands, or by turning the furrow slices outward. Even when plowing a triangular plot the sides would always run out with so much uniformity that there were never more than three furrow slices more on one side than on the other. It is particularly desirable to plow corn ground, and other land that is to be stocked down, without leaving middle furrows.—New York Observer.

GOOD ADVICE TO PLANTERS.—There is, says the Planters' Banner, no money in circulation in this State, and never will be, so long as those who make crops borrow millions from New Orleans merchants at high rates of interest, and spend millions yearly for Western produce, machinery, carts, plows and horses. How can an agricultural people be prosperous who pay double the conventional interest on large sums of money, and pay cash to distant farmers for nearly everything they consume?

And there never was much money in circulation in this country before the war. The crops were shipped to the cities, and drafts given for mules, horses, slaves, groceries and provisions; so but little of the proceeds of the crops ever came back to the parishes where they were made. And plantations were buried in mortgages.

The right way to have plenty of money in this country, the year round, is to raise all the provisions and horses, mules, hogs, cows and cattle we need at home, buy of our neighbors instead of Western farmers, stock raisers and mechanics, fill our villages with manufacturers and mechanics, and then our parishes will have an abundance of money in circulation, and our cultivators of the soil, merchants and mechanics will be money lenders, instead of borrowers of money at two per cent. a month interest.

Present arrangements keep people of all callings and professions poor, and hard up for greenbacks. But a change is coming over some of these parishes for the better. We hope for better things at a day not very distant.

GRAFTING GRAPE VINES.—At a recent meeting of the Horticultural Society of Western New York D. S. Wagener gave a description of the method he adopts in grafting the grape vine. He grafts from early spring until last of June. The grafts are cut early in the previous winter and packed in sawdust. He grafts a little below the ordinary surface of the ground and covers with earth. The moisture of the soil is preserved by two inches of mulching. The cleft is sawn in without splitting. He has set the Delaware and Isabella roots with good success, and in one instance had a crop of grapes the same year. A strong stock is desirable, such as Isabella, Catawba and Diana. The Rebecca does better on a strong stock than on its own roots.

VERY nice sugar has been made in Warren county, Iowa, from the sap of the box elder.

FARMERS' CREED.—We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation.

We believe the soil loves to eat as well as the owner, and ought, therefore, to be well manured.

We believe in going to the bottom of things, and therefore in deep plowing, and enough of it. All the better if it be a subsoil plow.

We believe in large crops which leave land better than they found it, making both the farm and farmer rich at once.

We believe that every farm should own a good farmer.

We believe the fertilizer of any soil is a spirit of industry, enterprise and intelligence—without these lime, gypsum and guano will be of little use.

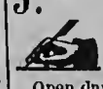
We believe in good fences, good farm houses, good orchards, and children enough to gather the fruit.

We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, a clean cupboard, a clean dairy and a clean conscience.

PRESERVING EGGS.—The French Journal de Pharmacie contains an account of various experiments made in France on the best method of preserving eggs—a subject of much importance there. Among the different processes the best, and at the same time one of the simplest, was found to consist in rubbing some vegetable oil—linseed especially—on the egg, this preventing any alteration for a sufficient time, and proving to be much more satisfactory than any other plan hitherto recommended.—Monthly Report.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S



COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address
J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

Soule's
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
The Commercial Atheneum of the South,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
STORY BUILDING,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

This is a chartered institution, a full course Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and Stores are connected, and business regularly transacted.

Sixty-two Premiums, Gold and Silver Medals, money prizes, Silver Plate, Diplomas, etc., from four States (Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama,) awarded over all competitors for all the branches of our Curriculum, attest the superior merits of Soule's College. Tuition fees low, and scholarships good in Forty-three Colleges.

For College Journal, containing full information, address
GEO. SOULE,
fe4 3m Principal and Proprietor.

FLORENCE WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY,
FLORENCE, ALABAMA.
W. H. ANDERSON, D. D., PRESIDENT.

This Institution of learning, so widely known through the South, will begin its next session on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1870.

The Faculty is composed of men of experience and ability. The course of study is comprised in the Literary Department, Law Department, Department of Biblical Literature and Commercial Department. The advantages of this University are seen in its healthful and attractive location, thorough course of study, excellent discipline, the character and success of its instructors, and the reasonable rates at which board and tuition are furnished.

Licentiates in the ministry and sons of ministers in the regular work are admitted to recitation on paying the incidental fees.

EXPENSES PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in the University classes	$30 00
Tuition in Grammar School	25 00
Tuition in Law Department	40 00
Incidental fee	2 00
(Tuition and incidental fee required in advance.)
Chemical fee, paid once	5 00

Boarding can be had in the best families at from $16 to $20 per month.

For particulars see circular, or apply to the president, Rev. Dr. Anderson, or to Hon. W. B. Wood. GEO. W. FOSTER, jy23 tf President Board of Trustees.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Cobb, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department	$25 00
Preparatory studies	$15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee	1 50

Board in private families, per month, $14. Board with room furnished, $15.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

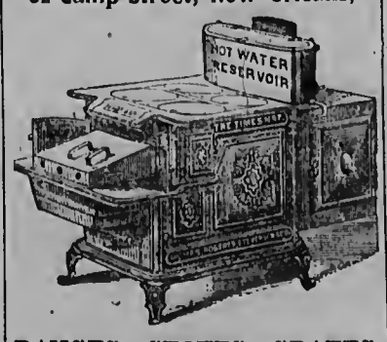
For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address
au20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,



RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of
Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s
Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentuckian and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the
Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves,
OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,
COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON
OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 1f

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

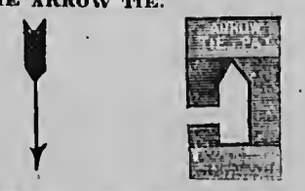
Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot,
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.



FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Press men everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English Iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
je18 1y 124 Carondelet St., New Orleans.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168..... CANAL STREET 168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings.	Curtain Damasks,
Lace Curtains,	Window Shades, etc.

—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe5 1y

THE BOTTOMS HORSE POWER GIN GEAR.

This Power is now put up in three different forms—stationary, movable and mounted on wheels—all having the same action and capacity, differing only in peculiar movements and arrangements, all of which are covered by patents and caveats. Models and Patents of the same may be seen by all interested by calling on me at the St. Charles Hotel; and to any one desiring to enter, with a small capital, a new business, which will yield a sure fortune, I will give undoubted and unparalleled inducements, if immediate application is made.

jy2 tf J. W. HUNTOON, M. D.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK,
Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,
Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,
Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILA
A Purely Vegetable Compo
FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF RHEUMATISM AND GO

THE SUBSCRIBER takes pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many of the medicines of the day have rendered considerable relief to sufferers from these affections, but experience has demonstrated that the relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. While it is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, that can do no injury, the unparalleled success of the proprietor in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, the localities, and especially to Fisher T. and James E. Bradley, he refers those who desire facts before trying it for themselves, justifies him in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. This is a broad assertion, but a fair trial will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will
1. From one to two bottles will immediately any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.
2. From two to twelve bottles, according to duration of disease, will cure perfectly any case of Rheumatism or Gout.
3. It will cure many cases of years standing from the simple fact that the original disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE

No charge made except for medicine. Full directions as to use and for further information address
N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW O
fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. BANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of BANGELL'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Knee Braces, and other appliances for the relief and cure of general debility, nervous weakness and derangements of the spinal system, spenkers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, general weakness and deformity, dyspepsia, nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and displacements of the womb, Rupture, prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the female system.

These light, cool and springy supports are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and simple in their action; supply a missing link in the human frame; place the above affections under control, and more hopeful light, and effect cures where medicine can only mitigate, more than it can cure a hernia or a broken joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the professional brethren. Where necessary the proper application of the above braces will be made under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are highly recommended by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe, and have been adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces have been adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Price moderate. Consultations free. Send for circular. It is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 Julia street, near Camp, New Orleans.

NOTICE.....

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian
FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism and all kinds of disease of the skin, from the worst variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the simplest Rash to the most inveterate Scrofula or Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Boils, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, Spinal Affections, Sore Throat, Ulcerated Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Consumption yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people, equal with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst cases, and a trial is demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S
Rocky Mountain Indian
FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AN

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications. Let the buyer will apply the salve three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at INDIAN'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner Bienville and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES, over the office of A. Bonehard, New Orleans.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet. Country orders promptly attended to.
je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR of Blind, Bleeding or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REM
fails to cure. It is prepared expressly for the Piles, and nothing else, and in cases of over twenty years' standing by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the Pure Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries

CONSUMPTION.

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Kidney and Bladder diseases, Dropsy, Female Afflictions, General Debility, complaints of the Urinary Organs, Female, producing Dyspepsia, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, generally terminate in Consumption. It purifies and enriches the blood, glandular and secretive system, strengthens the nervous and muscular. It acts like a charm on weak, debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland.

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than 20 years' practice in the treatment of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and safety, and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or institution in the South, without regard to the severity of the case, patient or length of time afflicted.

Also instruments for the cure of all deformities of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office 56 Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

J. H. MUSE AND
G. F. F. THOMP
Attorneys and Counselor
NO. 20 ST. CHARLES ST
fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

OKS AND STATIONERY.

DARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

LES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

4 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

el's Geographical Text-Books.

mparably superior to anything pub-—Agassiz.

uction to the Study of Geography.

mary Geography.

mediate Geography.

mon School Geography.

's System is approved and indorsed most distinguished literary and scien-n of our nation; such as Profs. Agasz, Tenney, Henry and others, celein science throughout Europe as well one.

act that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) co-the work are in use in the schools of ntry, at the present time, is proof of aralleled success attending the New
; for no other series of books ever pub-in America have ever secured so rapid tensive introduction. They are the oks in nearly all the colleges, semi-normal schools, etc., in the United in the public schools of the cities of rk, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of es and towns of the Eastern States;
all, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield,
Marietta, and most of the other Im-towns and cities, numbering nine ed schools in Ohio, and hundreds of and cities in the other Western States, the Southern States and California being extensively adopted.

wing that the publication of Professor eries has marked a new and better the presentation of geographical sci-that by it the pupils of this generation in a clearer, more definite and exowledge of the world on which they d that it is so systematized as to rent knowledge more valuable and pert, we commend it to the attention of ested in educational improvements gress.

ER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

Lessons, (Illustrated.)
ary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
llectual Arithmetic.
mediate Arithmetic.
mar School Arithmetic.
tical Arithmetic.

COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE.

ext-book of Chemistry.
ext-book of Natural Philosophy.

SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

ral History of Animals for the Young.
anual of Zoology.
ural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

roduction to the Study of English Liter-of Composition. of Discourse.
ments of Logic.
erican Speller.

SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

nual of Elementary Instruction.
sons on Objects.
st Reading Book.
atic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

glish's Grammatical Analysis.
per's Practical Composition.

M. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

ge Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list per set, $38 50. Common School Se-—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, , $45

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

e dozen Magnetic Objects, representing of different races, ships, steamers, light-es, and various animals, accompanying Globe, without additional cost.
sons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's netic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mary Howe Smith.
tra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes.
Animals of all Climates. 11. Nations
.

scriptive catalogues and mammoth cir-s of testimonials forwarded free of post-to any address. Most favorable terms aled to school boards or teachers desirous introducing the above Text-books.

ddress

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

my21 1y

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

H. SUTTON. J. H. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

UTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

..... COMMON STREET 180

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

se17 1y

L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

.....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.

oc22 1y

H. SEAMONT, Of Clarksville, Tenn. JOHN M. FAKES, Of New Orleans.
DR. B. R. FAKES, of Augusta, Ark.

BEAUMONT, FAKES & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, Forwarding and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET.....77

ja8 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.

oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.

Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.

The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish: with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE,

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.

fe23 3m

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching and in their teaching should not be offensive to the thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—are now issuing a complete series of School and College Text-books by the eminent Southern scholars and educators named below, which are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. mh2 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.

le23 1y

NEW STYLES..... REDUCED PRICES.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

For Parlors, Drawing-rooms, Libraries, Churches, Sunday Schools, Lodges, etc.

The most popular and widely used of large musical instruments. Elegant as furniture; suitable for secular and sacred music; not requiring tuning, or liable to get out of order.

FIFTY STYLES, at $50, $65, $100, $125, $150, $160, $175, $200 to $2,000 each.

The MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS are the ACKNOWLEDGED STANDARDS OF EXCELLENCE among instruments of the class, having been awarded

SEVENTY-FIVE MEDALS,

or other highest premiums, for DEMONSTRATED SUPERIORITY, in Europe and America, including the first class medal at

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

Nearly One Thousand Musicians,

including a majority of the most eminent in America, and many in Europe, have given written opinions that

THEY EXCEL ALL OTHERS.

(See Testimonial Circular—Sent Free.)

NEW STYLES AND REDUCED PRICES this month. An Illustrated Catalogue, with elegant Illustrations from photographs and full information, sent free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 596 Broadway, New York, or 154 Tremont street, Boston.

For sale in New Orleans by

de3 3m L. GRUNEWALD.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Boebe & Ruse,

DEALER IN

PORK, BACON, LARD, HAMS AND BULK MEAT,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALABAMA.

The schools of Moral Philosophy, Ancient Languages, Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry are in successful operation. The Faculty consists of gentlemen whose reputation is well established. The Preparatory School is taught by the Faculty. We offer the best facilities for thorough education.

The session is divided into two terms. It begins the first Wednesday in October, and closes the first Wednesday in July.

Tuition in University, per term $35 00
Tuition in Preparatory School, per term 30 00
Contingent fee, per term 2 50
Board in private families, per mo. $16 to 20 00

Students who wish to mess can be accommodated.

Fees must be paid in advance. Send for a circular.

an13 O. F. CASEY.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session... $60 00
Preparatory department, per session. 40 00
Incidental expenses..... 5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 13 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

fe11 1y

Scientific.

A COMPLETE skeleton of the ichthyosaurus, from the Wurtemburg shale, has been secured for the College of the City of New York.

THE solutions of chlorine salts are recommended as a substitute for water in watering streets. They do not dry entirely, but will continue to hold enough water to keep the dust laid. They have been tried in some districts of London with satisfaction, and with great saving of labor and expense. One of them, the deliquescent of chloride of aluminum, is an excellent antiseptic, is free from odor and perfectly harmless, and if added to the salts will act effectively as a disinfectant.

MR. W. S. JEVONS contributes to Nature the result of a series of experiments which he made to ascertain how many objects the human mind can count by an instantaneous and apparently single act of attention—that is, without being conscious of changing attention from one to another. He found that the estimate was infallible for as many as three objects; that failure was extremely rare with four objects; but that when five objects were taken into consideration the estimate became uncertain.

WITHIN a few years sulphate of lime has been used at the moment of fermentation of wine and cider, in order to prevent them from becoming acid. The wine or cider thus treated soon becomes clear and of agreeable taste. Those who drink it, however, after a short time complain of pains in the stomach, loss of appetite, etc.; this is natural, and may be thus explained: A certain quantity of sulphate of lime is dissolved by the wine or cider, and in a noticeable quantity.—Analyses recently made have yielded about thirty centigrammes of sulphate in a pint of cider.

THE manufacture of gun cotton has been so much improved that it is more and more used for quarrying, mining and military purposes. The cotton is now made in a compressed form, which can be handled and transported with safety, and can be exploded by detonation only. If set on fire without detonation it burns away harmlessly. This fact is greatly in favor of increasing its use. About one hundred tons of the cotton are now sold yearly for blasting in quarries and mines—a quantity equal at least to five hundred tons of gunpowder. In the slate quarries in Wales it is largely employed; and there, and in mines, the workmen find the advantage of having no smoke after a blast. In blasting rocks or wrecks under water gun cotton is far more effectual than gunpowder. Not unfrequently it will do its work if only laid on the surface.

MAGNETISM OF WATCH SPRINGS.—It has recently been discovered that the springs of chronometers, and watches which are constructed of steel, are frequently magnetic. Steel is at all times liable to become magnetized from causes beyond man's control. Watchmakers are advised to test their springs as to magnetism by placing them near to a very small and truly balanced mariner's compass. If the spring exhibits in none of its circumference any tendency to attract one pole of the compass more than the other, it may be considered free from magnetic influence; on the other hand, if the north pole moves to one part, and the south pole to the other, the spring is decidedly useless; for in whatever position the time-keeper may be placed, with such a spring, it will be affected by the earth's magnetism.

HOW DRINKING CAUSES APOPLEXY.—It is the essential nature of all wines and spirits to send an increased amount of blood to the brain; hence alcohol is said to stimulate the brain. The first effect of taking a glass of wine or stronger form of alcohol is to send the blood there faster than common; hence it quickens the circulation that gives the red face. It increases the activity of the brain, and it works faster, and so does the tongue. But as the blood goes to the brain faster than common, it returns faster, and no special permanent harm results. But suppose a man keeps on drinking—the blood is sent to the brain so fast, in such large quantities, that in order to make room for it the arteries have to enlarge themselves; they increase in size, and in so doing press against the more yielding thecid veins which carry the blood out of the brain, and thus diminish their size, their bores, the result being that the blood is not only carried to the arteries of the brain faster than is natural or healthful, but it is prevented from leaving it as fast as usual; hence a double set of causes of death are set in operation. Hence a man may drink enough brandy or other spirits in a few hours, or even minutes, to bring on a fatal attack of apoplexy. This is literally being dead drunk.—Dr. Hall.

THE English government has ordered that all of its employes shall be vaccinated.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has exhibited increased dullness since our last issue, nearly every branch of trade participating in the prevailing apathy. There are but few country merchants in town, and remittances from the interior are far from satisfactory. Sugar has been in fair request at about previous rates, and molasses at full prices. The sales of flour have been mostly confined to the local trade, and prices have ruled rather easier. Corn has been in good demand, especially for the Atlantic ports, and commanded stiffer rates. Provisions have continued dull and drooping.

Additional crevasses have been reported. Some of them previously referred to have been closed, but others have increased in width and volume, and the engineers have abandoned all hope of doing more to that at Bonnet Carre than preventing or rather checking its extension. The principal damage thus far has been to the sugar crop, but to what extent is yet uncertain. Otherwise the crop accounts of sugar are favorable, but cotton is evidently materially behind hand and must be late.

The river has fallen 11 inches since our last, and is now 1 foot 3 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-first instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales.	11,078
Lake	10
Florida	3
Mobile	433
Texas	286
Total	11,810

On Saturday the inquiry was fair, but the movement being checked by scant supplies of the kinds most wanted, and desirable lists being held above the ruling rates, the business did not exceed 4,500 bales. Prices were rather weaker, without any quotable reduction. On Monday the demand was checked by dark and rainy weather, and the advantage was again on the side of the buyer, in some cases showing a falling off of ⅛c., but not to a sufficient extent to require any change in quotations, while the sales were confined to 2,600 bales. On Tuesday the market opened with only a moderate inquiry and a tendency to easier prices, but owing to the course of the New York market, which was reported to have materially advanced under the demand to cover contracts, it soon exhibited renewed firmness, closing steady at previous rates. The sales summed up 7,100 bales.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 14,200 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,263,098 bales, against 1,005,057 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 969,001 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 503,075 bales to Great Britain, 237,190 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 244,201 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary	9¼ to 10
Good ordinary	12¼ to 12½
Low middling	13¼ to 13½
Middling	14½ to 14¾
Strict middling	15 to ..

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales		20,696
Arrived past three days...	11,810
Arrived previously	1,327,102	1,338,912
		1,359,608
Exported past three days.	22,151
Exported previously	1,145,830
Burned	950	1,168,931
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		190,677

SUGAR.—The supplies are light, and the demand is good, especially for the better descriptions of open kettle. Prices are ruling with an upward tendency. We quote 6¼ to 7c. per pound for inferior, 7¼ to 7¾c. for common, to. for good common, 8¼ to 8¾c. for fair, 9 to 9¼c. for good fair, 9½ to 9¾c. for fully fair, 9⅞ to 10¼c. for prime, 10½ to 10¾c. for choice, 11¾ to 12c. for yellow clarified, and 12½ to 13c. for white.

PORK.—The market has continued very dull, and prices are still lower. Mess was offering on Saturday and Monday at $19.50 per barrel, with only small sales at that price. On Tuesday 100 barrels original mess sold on the landing at $19, and 50 do. at $19.50 per barrel. It is retailing at $20 per barrel.

BACON.—On Tuesday small sales of shoulders were made on the spot at 7½c., clear rib sides 10c., clear sides 10½c. per pound; 5 casks clear rib sides sold on the spot at 10c., 5 do. clear sides at 10¼c.

MONETARY.—Gold, 110⅜ to 111⅛.

American silver half dollars, 107 to 108, and Mexican dollars at 2½ to 3 per cent. premium in gold.

The movement in stocks has been to a moderate extent, the sales including 400 shares Slaughterhouse on Saturday at $31, and 100 Mississippi Valley Navigation Company at $3.87½; 5 shares Mississippi and Mexican Gulf Ship Canal on Monday at $305; and 30 do. on Tuesday at $290, $295 and $300, 25 Crescent City Railroad at $74, and 24 St. Charles Street Railroad at $72.25.

Nothing has transpired in bonds except $3,000 old Consolidated City on Tuesday at 74¼.

The sales of warrants include $3,000 new Metropolitan Police on Saturday at 98½; $2,000 large State on Monday at 52, $500 do. at 52½, $2,000 medium at 54, and $500 large (resale) at 55; and a small amount of small on Tuesday at 60.

City Treasury notes are quoted at 24 per cent. discount.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hogs, per lb. gross	7 to 9c
Sheep, first quality, per head	$5 to 6
Sheep, second quality, per head	3 to 4
Sheep, third quality, per head	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head	50 to 100
Texas cows, with calves	.. to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 12
Yearlings, per head	9 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	21
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs	1 40	1 50
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	.. ..
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake	9 00	16 00
English fire	42 00	50 00
American fire	40 00	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	.. ..	42½
Tallow	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine	.. ..	.. ..
Star	11½	16¾
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel	10 00	.. ..
Anthracite	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl	50	.. ..
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	.. ..	21
Russia	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl	3 25	3 37½
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton	12 00	.. ..
In sacks	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	16	18
Feathers, ₩ lb	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod	1 40	.. ..
Herrings	60	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra	6 25	6 50
Superfine	5 62½	5 75
Fine	5 25	.. ..
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5½	6½
Currants, new	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer	3 10	3 15
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box	4 00	4 25
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats	62	65
Corn, shelled	73	75
Beans, ₩ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western	24 00	26 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto	.. ..	..
Dry salted	13½	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	9¼
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig	33 00	35 00
Country bar, ₩ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5½
Castings, American	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western	.. ..	1 60
Shell lime	.. ..	.. ..
Rockland, etc	.. ..	.. ..
Cement	2 75	.. ..
Plaster Paris	2 15	.. ..
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	.. ..
Scantling	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₩ M	4 00	4 25
Laths	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country	.. ..	.. ..
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gal.	60	65
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 05	.. ..
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	45	47½
Cotton seed, refined	52	70
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated	25 00	28 00
C. S., undecorticated	.. ..	23 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime	18 00	25 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess	20 50	.. ..
Pork, prime mess	.. ..	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb	15	15½
Hams, canvassed	16	16½
Shoulders	.. ..	.. ..
Green shoulders	8	8½
Lard, prime, in tierces	13	13½
Butter, Northern	25	42
Butter, Western	12½	25
Cheese, American	14	17
Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 50	2 00
Onions	.. ..	.. ..
Apples	.. ..	.. ..
Cabbages, ₩ crate	.. ..	.. ..
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana	7	8½
India, (gold, in bond)	7¾	.. ..
Carolina	8½	9¼
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white	13½	14
Havana, yellow	10	11½
Havana, brown	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DISTRICT.

Peachtree, at Airmount	May	6, 7
Suggsville, at Gosport		13, 14
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel		20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson		27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville	June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi		10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground		17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel	May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel		13, 14
Union Springs station		20, 21
Greenville station		27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's	June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground		10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove		17, 18

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

St. Francis street	May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard		13, 14
Milton		20, 21
Pensacola		27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river	June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel		10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Green circuit, at Holly Spring	May	6, 7
Eutaw		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel		27, 28
Demopolis	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland		10, 11

The Demopolis District Conference, Alabama Annual Conference, will be held at Livingston, Alabama, commencing April 28, at nine o'clock A. M. All the official members of the Quarterly Conferences in the district are members of the District Conference. Lay members of the Annual Conference will be elected.

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Covington, at West Pearl	May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo		13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel		20, 21
Arcola, at Amite City	June	3, 4
Holmesville, at Topsaw		10, 11
Livingston, at James' chapel		17, 18
Bogue Chitto		24, 25

My address is Magnolia, Mississippi.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Canton station	May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston		13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel		20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union		27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond	June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty		10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill		17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Brandywine circuit, at Nebo	May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church		13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehobeth		20, 21
Brookhaven station		27, 28
Wesson, at Beauregard	June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove		8, 9
Crystal Springs station		15, 16
Jackson circuit		22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	May	6, 7
North Warren, Mildale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland		13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga		20, 21
South Warren		27, 28
Clover Hill	June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek		10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Gainesville miss., at Pearlington	May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi		13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coalville		20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point		27, 28
Green circuit	June	3, 4
Enon circuit		10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HURST, P. E., Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon		19, 20
Meadville		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Wayne	May	6, 7
Clark		13, 14
Paulding		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

Moreau street and Algiers:
Quart. Conf. at Moreau st., 7½ P. M.	May	1
Preaching at Algiers	Apr.	23
Preaching at Moreau street		30
German charges:
Quart. Conf. at Dryades st., 7½ P. M.	May	5
Preaching		7
Carondelet street		21
Felicity street		28
Baton Rouge	June	3, 4
Louisiana avenue		11
Plaquemine and Grosso Tete, at Plaquemine		18
Cadiz street and Carrollton		25
Thibodaux	July	2
Quarterly Meeting at Houma		16

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit		27, 28
Shreveport station	June	3, 4
Anacoco		10, 11
Springville circuit		18, 19

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Lake Charles	May	13, 14
Calcasieu Pass		18, 19
Grand Cheniere		20, 21
Opelousas	June	3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee		10, 11
Bellevue		17, 18
Franklin and Pattersonville		24, 25
New Iberia	July	1, 2

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

South Bossier, at Harmony	May	6, 7
North Bossier, at Red Land		13, 14
North Bossier col. ct., at Red Land		13, 14
Mount Lebanon, at Arcadia		20, 21
Mount Lebanon col. ct., at Arcadia		20, 21
Lake Bisteneau, at Bruskwood		27, 28
Sparta	June	3, 4
Louisville		10, 11

S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Houston	May	13, 14
Chickasaw		20, 21
Line Creek		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Vaiden circuit	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon		13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory		27, 28
Lexington		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to.

no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras,

no1-9 NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

J. H. KELLER,

SOAP MANUFACTURER

COR. ST. ANDREW AND HOWARD STS.

Office and Depot—No. 110 Gravier St.,

fe12 0 1y NEW ORLEANS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

A. BROUSSEAU & CO.,

N.....CHARTRES STREET.....17

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

Importers and Dealers in

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,

China and Cocoa Matting, Table and Piano Covers, Window Shades, Crumb Cloths, Rugs, Mats, Carriage, Table and Enamel Oil Cloths.

CURTAIN MATERIALS, LACE, DAMASKS,

Reps, Cornices, Bands, Pins, Gimps, Loops and Tassels, Hair Cloth, Plush and Moquette.

mar14 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

$10 From 50 Cents.

SOMETHING urgently needed by everybody. Call and examine, or twelve samples sent (postage free) for fifty cents that retail readily for $10. R. L. WOLCOTT, unh30 6mecm 181 Chatham Square, N. Y.

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR O'HARA'S POCKET GIANT CORN-SHELLER. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address C. T. VAN SICKLEN, mh30 3m 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M. SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Vairin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.
Henry V. Ogden.

fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, fe4 6m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 tf

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall,

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING,

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe4 3m

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

OFFICE—254 CARONDELET ST., N. ORLEANS.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh12 0 1y

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address NATHANIEL MAYFAIR, fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple, concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics.

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book	30 cts
Progressive Primary Arithmetic	25 cts
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic	40 cts
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic	43 cts
Progressive Practical Arithmetic	94 cts
Progressive Higher Arithmetic	$1 00
New Elementary Algebra	1 50
New University Algebra	2 25
New Geometry and Trigonometry	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,

New Orleans.

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. fe23 tf

The Great Sewing Machine Mart.

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES.

The public have long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FINDINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

B. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, made and recommended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand

M. S. HEDRICK, Proprietor, 159 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.

Branch Office, 156 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent. Cash Agents wanted. fe15 6m

New Orleans Christian Advocate.

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions, and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are all, more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1871. NO. 16.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

St. Louis, April 27.—Colonel K. Taylor, of the United States army, returned to Fort Leavenworth on Tuesday, from Fort Sill. He says there are about three thousand Indians at Cheyenne agency, mostly Arrapahoes and Cheyennes. The former tribe is very well disposed, but among the latter there seems to be a feeling of discontent, probably growing out of the appearance of surveying parties in the interest of railroad corporations.

These Indians are very much opposed to the extension of railroads through their country. Ten chiefs, representing the principal tribes, have been invited to Washington, and it is likely the railroad question will be discussed. Little Raven will go on behalf of the Arrapahoes, and Little Rohe, or Wild Horse, for the Cheyennes. Should the chiefs refuse to attend the proposed conference in Washington, trouble is to be feared this summer.

San Francisco, April 29.—A million dollars' worth of silkworm eggs, recently imported here by Japanese merchants, were shipped overland yesterday, having been sold by telegraph to Italian and French dealers.

It is rumored the Central Pacific Railroad Company is negotiating for the purchase of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Panama line of steamers and franchises, which they will transfer to the North Pacific Transportation Company, when the fares overland and by sea will be immediately increased.

Tucson, Arizona, advices state that Captain Moore, with a few troops, killed thirty-four Indians in two fights. The troops have corraled the Apaches in the mountains, and hope to kill the whole band. The valley, for forty miles, is being deserted by the settlers avoiding the Apaches.

San Francisco, April 29.—Track-laying on the Southern Pacific railroad has commenced, and will progress one-half a mile per day.

Santa Fe, April 29.—Hartz, conductor of J. F. Bennett & Co.'s Santa Fe overland mail and express lines, has just reached Santa Fe, and gives the following information: He left La Messila on the evening of the twenty-fourth. News had then reached there that one of the coaches of the company had been found burned in the road between La Messila and Tucson, and that the body of the driver was horribly mutilated. It was found the breast was laid open, the heart removed, split and placed upon the face.

Four ranchmen on the route at San Pedro were killed; also six emigrants coming from Tucson to New Mexico. Some of the captured mail has been found, with the checks cut to pieces, and was brought into Messila by one of the conductors.

The Indians, a few days ago, killed two Mexicans and a German at Love mountain, and wounded an American near Silver City. Fourteen persons have been killed and one wounded, as reported by mail.

New York, May 1.—Rev. William Adams sails for Europe in the steamer Scotia, next Wednesday, as a delegate to two Presbyterian assemblies about to convene in Edinburg, also as a delegate to the Evangelical Alliance, which will assemble in St. Petersburg.

William E. Dodge, treasurer of the Presbyterian memorial fund, stated, at a public meeting last evening, that the whole amount of $5,000,000 will be made up before the next meeting of the General Assembly this month. Nearly $1,000,000 will be raised in this city.

New York, May 1.—Funeral honors were rendered to Admiral Tegetheff aboard the Austrian frigate Navara this morning. The quarter deck was covered with a tent, draped and decorated with shields and inscriptions, including legends of "Heliogoland and Lissa." The catafalque was surmounted with wreaths, and a crew of five hundred men ranged in double file, with reversed arms.

A requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Dantner, two Austrian priests assisting. The music was by the ship's band.

General McDowell and staff, Admirals Stringham and Smith, General Lee, most of the foreign consuls, many foreigners and citizens assisted.

During the funeral services of John F. Dickinson, the well known sporting man, at Williamsburg, yesterday, Rev. Mr. Johnson, officiating, alluded in severe terms to the life led by the deceased, upon which Dickinson's sister arose and in an excited manner commanded Mr. Johnson to stop his remarks, as they were altogether uncalled for and inappropriate. The affair created a great sensation in the church. Mr. Johnson apologized and sat down.

Memphis, May 2.—A hail storm yesterday did considerable damage in north Mississippi.

Memphis, May 2.—River rising. White and Arkansas rivers bank full. Weather cool and stormy.

Louisville, May 2.—River still rising; risen eighteen inches since last report, with five feet in the chute and seven feet in the canal.

New York, May 2.—The strike of the non-society men for the same wages demanded by the society men continues. A collision with the police has occurred, and a riot is proceeding in the northern part of the city. The police are all under marching orders.

New York, May 2.—Cotton is steady. Low middling sells at 14c. Sterling is dull. Brown draws at 10 net. Gold is quiet, at 11¼. Advices from Liverpool report cotton dull. Sales, 8,000 bales; imports, 5,000.—Picayune.

FOREIGN.

Shanghai, April 12, via London, April 26.—Advices from Pekin state that the imperial government has made a demand upon foreign embassadors that schools for the education of females be abolished.

Aspinwall, April 21.—Dates from Nicaragua to the twenty-fifth ultimo have been received.

The survey was completed of the railroad to connect Lake Nicaragua with Massaya.

News has been received from Punta Arenas of a terrible tragedy. The captain of the British ship Alexandria and boat's crew went ashore and came in conflict with the Indians, who murdered them. Indians then put off in a canoe and made for the vessel, but those on board alarmed by the yells of the natives, made sail, and saved themselves and the ship.

The body of the captain has been found. There were two wounds in the body and his legs were cut off. No trace of his companions found.

Dates from Baranquilla, of the seventeenth ultimo, announce the capture of the robbers who stopped the mail car at that place and took treasure. They confessed their guilt and informed the authorities where the treasure might be found.

The announcement is made from Valparaiso that the foot and mouth disease, which has prevailed so extensively lately, is disappearing.

The noise which generally precedes an earthquake was heard on the third. Thousands of people ran into the streets terror-stricken.

Versailles, April 27.—Thiers, in his speech to the Assembly, says the situation is painful and French blood still flows. It is consoling to know the denouement is near. Paris is completely invested, Fort d'Issy silenced, and Les Ment Miceaud captured. We are; continued Thiers, not assailants, but defenders of law and order. We wish conciliation, but also wish to save liberty from the despotism of unbridled license.

After eloquently defending the republicanism of the Assembly, Thiers concluded as follows:

The insurgents are isolated, and all France is with the government and the Assembly in its efforts to combine unity with liberty.

Paris, April 27.—The Masons have informed the Commune that having exhausted conciliation at Versailles, they have resolved to plant their banners on the ramparts of Paris, and, if struck, will march against the Versaillists and appeal to their brother Masons to join them.

Berlin, April 28.—A deputation of Catholics recently had an audience of the Emperor William, at which they prayed his majesty to intervene to prevent the occupation of Rome by the Italian government.

It has since been extensively circulated that the Emperor promised to take some action, but the Prussian Cross Gazette has been authorized to contradict this report, and adds that the reply which was given the deputation did not commit the government to any positive line of action, and that no promise of any kind was made.

Havana, April 28.—Valmaseda will leave Moran to-day to visit the military line.

Maximo Gomez, commanding seven thousand insurgents, invaded the jurisdiction of Gibrara. They were repulsed at Sama and Bariary.

The San Juan de la Puerca volunteers under Fray Benito attacked Gomez in Serra Verde mountains, captured his entrenchments and killed nine men. Three volunteers were killed.

The insurgents in the central department make a practice of filling drinking wells with the carcasses of dead animals.

The insurgent leaders, Colonel Marciar, Major Voga and Lieutenant Cordon, with a number of private soldiers, surrendered at Guarmoro.

It is reported that Bembita has left the island.

Aspinwall, April 25, via Jamaica. The survey of the Nappiti route for a ship canal, to connect the Atlantic with the Pacific, has been completed. The explorers assert that the line will be less than thirty miles from the Pacific to the Atlantic, and the elevation will be six and a half feet. Tunnels and locks will obviate the difficulty presented by the elevation. The cost of the work is estimated at eighty millions.

The suitability of the Guyera route is undetermined.

London, April 28.—The government has suspended the writ of hebeas corpus in one district of the county of Westmeath, Ireland.

Versailles, April 30.—The Park castle and cemetery of Issy were carried last night by the government forces. Eight cannon, a quantity of ammunition and one hundred prisoners fell into their hands. The advance is now within two hundred meters of Fort Issy, whose capture is momentarily expected.

Thiers granted an interview to the delegates from the Masons of Paris, who arrived last night. He told them the government desired to see an end to civil war, but that France could not capitulate in the presence of an armed insurrection. He referred them to the Commune for the restoration of order within the city, of which it had usurped the control.

Latest.—The successes of the Versaillists at Fort Issy were brilliant. The garrison abandoned the fort at daylight this morning. Its commandant is in Paris.

Paris, May 1.—The firing last night was fearful and apparently reckless. Nothing to compare with it has occurred since the commencement of the civil war.

The city is greatly excited and alarmed, groups of frightened people in every street discussing the state of affairs.

General Okolowitz's wound is a very severe one, and his recovery is very doubtful.

The delegates from the Masonic lodges of Paris have returned from Versailles, unable to accomplish anything. They report Thiers expressed the opinion that peaceable arrangements with the Paris Commune were impossible.

Florence, May 1.—The Italian Senate continues the discussion of the question of the papal guarantees.

An amendment to the bill abolishing the Pope's right of granting exequators to the consuls of foreign powers has been rejected.

The demonstration planned to celebrate the events of 1849, in Rome, proved a failure, the government having been warned that a disturbance was intended.

Berlin, May 2.—The imperial council considered French affairs, and have decided to allow a further but limited period to the Versaillists to restore order and fulfill treaty stipulations, when Germany will take independent action to establish order in Paris. A dispatch to the Versailles government, granting a limited extension of time, adds: "The revolution is characterized by disgraceful excesses, which cannot any longer be tolerated, for the moral and material interests of Germany and the whole of Europe are suffering. Prince Bismarck was present at the council.

Private but reliable information intimates that it is the intention of the Germans to restore a regency.

London, May 2.—Napoleon has the rheumatism. He declared yesterday that he would not listen to any proposition for his return to France.

Thiers has determined upon a coup de main upon entering Paris, making himself and McMahon joint regents with Eugenie.

Paris, May 2.—The Commune appointed a committee of safety.

There is an immense concentration of Communist troops in and around Fort Issy.

The Free Masons have been ordered to take their banners from the ramparts, the Versaillists failing to respect them.

Versailles, May 2.—Clamart railway station was captured by the chasseurs at the point of the bayonet.

Three hundred insurgents were captured at d'Issy. General Vinoy has the credit for the exploits which resulted in the complete surrounding of d'Issy.

The reported disturbances at Lyons are officially denied. The elections are satisfactory to the government.

History of the Organization of the M. E. Church South.

BY A. H. REDFORD, D. D.

The necessity, together with the demand, for several years past, for a work giving a full and accurate account of the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, has induced the author to undertake the task of preparing this volume. It contains the action of the General Conference of 1844 in the cases of Francis A. Harding and Bishop Andrew, as well as the speeches delivered in the case of Mr. Harding by Dr. William A. Smith, of the Virginia, and John A. Collins, of the Baltimore Conference; also several of the speeches delivered while the case of Bishop Andrew was pending before that body.

The reader will also find in these pages the declaration of the Southern delegates, made subsequent to the extrajudicial legislation by which Bishop Andrew was virtually deposed from the episcopal office; the Plan of Separation; the protest of the minority; the address of the Southern delegates to the Annual Conferences in the slaveholding States; the action of primary meetings; the action of the Annual Conferences; an account of the convention held in the city of Louisville, Kentucky, in May, 1845; the report of the committee on the organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; the action of the Annual Conferences subsequent to the convention; an account of the first General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Petersburg, Virginia; the appointment of Dr. Lovick Pierce as fraternal messenger to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church (North,) in 1848; the refusal of that body to receive him in that relation; the correspondence between the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church (North) and the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in St. Louis, in May, 1869; the communication of Bishop Janes, of the Methodist Episcopal Church (North,) to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in Memphis, in May, 1870, and the action of the General Conference in reply; the repudiation of the claim of the Southern Church on any portion of the Book Concerns and chartered fund, by the General Conference of 1848; a history of the law suits in New York and Ohio for a pro rata of the Book Concerns in New York and Cincinnati; the decision of the courts, by which the rights of the South are protected; the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in favor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

This work has been prepared with much labor and care, and it is believed will supply an imperative demand in the church at the present time.

It is 12mo size, bound in muslin, beveled edges, printed on good paper, and contains six hundred and sixty pages. Price, $2. Usual discount to booksellers and preachers. Sent by mail to any address on receipt of retail price. Address

A. H. Redford, Agent.

The water from the Bonnet Carre crevasse has come down some thirty-seven miles, and is now encroaching on the small farms at the swamp end of Camp Parapet. The farmers have no fears, however, as the water will scarcely back up any further, the natural outlet being into Lake Pontchartrain.

The color of the water at Camp Parapet is nearly black, having washed its way through so many miles of swamp lands as to lose the yellow hue which characterizes the water of the Mississippi.—Picayune.

Mobile and Ohio Railroad Overflowed.—Reports the Mobile Evening Register of the twenty-eighth:

There was a heavy rain storm on the line of this road night before last. The track is flooded between Enterprise and Meridian, and the trains will, in consequence, be delayed several days. Yesterday's up train went no higher than Shubuta. No details have been received, and the extent of the damage done cannot be ascertained until the waters subside.

Henry Ward Beecher says it will never do "to preach cream and practice skim-milk."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The following is the order of exercises of the Sunday School Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, which meets in Nashville, Tennessee, on Thursday, May 11, 1871, at ten o'clock A. M.

THURSDAY.

Morning Session.—1. Organization by the election of a president, a vice president from each Annual Conference, a secretary and two assistant secretaries, and a treasurer.

2. Essay: The Relation of the Pastor to the Sunday School, by Bishop McTyeire.

Afternoon Session.—1. One-half hour will be taken up in receiving reports from delegates, and other business.

2. Essay: The Importance of the Missionary Work in our Sunday Schools, by Rev. Charles H. Hall.

3. Discussion of the subject: The best Manner of Securing the Attendance of Sunday School Children at Public Worship.

Discussion to be opened by T. J. McCoy, Esq., of Louisville, Kentucky, and continued by Thomas E. Thompson, Esq., of Palmyra, Missouri.

Evening Session.—Sermon by Bishop Marvin.

FRIDAY.

On this day there will be held, in a grove near the city, a grand Sunday school jubilee and picnic of the Sunday schools of Nashville, and the surrounding country and neighboring towns—the programme of which will be arranged by the Sunday schools of Nashville.

Evening Session.—A general Sunday school experience meeting.

SATURDAY.

1. Reports of delegates, and other business.

2. Essay: The Proper Literature of Sunday School Libraries, by Dr. Landon C. Garland, of Mississippi.

3. The remainder of the session will be spent in discussing the subject of essay.

Afternoon Session.—1. Reports of delegates, and other business.

2. Address. Subject: The Uses and Practicability of Uniform Lessons in the Sunday Schools of our Church, by Rev. Atticus G. Haygood, D. D.

3. Discussion of the question: What are the Peculiar Difficulties Encountered by our Church in the Prosecution of her Sunday School Work, and What are the Remedies? Discussion to be opened by W. H. Foster, Esq., of New Orleans, and continued by Asa Snyder, Esq., of Richmond, Virginia.

Evening Session.—Public meeting, with short addresses by distinguished speakers.

SUNDAY.

On Sunday morning sermons on the subject of Sunday schools will be preached in the various churches. In the afternoon there will be a public meeting of the Sunday schools, which will be addressed by members of the convention.

MONDAY.

Morning Session.—1. One-half hour will be spent in devotional exercises.

2. The Work of Grace in the Hearts of Children, by Rev. L. D. Huston, D. D.

3. Discussion of the subject: The Importance of Vocal and Instrumental Music in our Sunday Schools. Discussion to be opened by Rev. W. M. Leftwich, D. D.

Afternoon Session.—1. Discussion of the subject: The Best Mode of Interesting the Parents of Sunday School Scholars in the Religious Education of their Children. Discussion to be opened by Rev. A. L. P. Green, D. D.

Evening Session.—Closing exercises of the convention, with short addresses by the members, expressive of their Christian sympathy and fellowship, and a fraternal interchange of words of encouragement and good will.

T. J. Magruder,
Chairman Com. of Arrangements.

Crop Prospects in the United States.—Says the New York Herald:

From every direction the cheering intelligence comes that there is promise of great abundance. The growing cereals look well, and the soil and labor have rarely been in better condition to produce better crops of cotton, tobacco and other things, while only a little south of us, and throughout the whole Southern country, the peach and other fruit trees are laden with promising blossoms. This gratifying news comes from all the Western and Southern States, and no doubt we shall have the same from the North and East as soon as the season is a little more advanced.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

HALF FARE ARRANGEMENT.

The following railroads have agreed to take delegates for one fare and return them free:

Nashville and Chattanooga; Nashville and Northwestern; Louisville and Nashville; Nashville and Decatur; Tennessee and Pacific; Alabama and Chattanooga; Louisville and Cincinnati Short Line; Ohio and Mississippi Railroad Company; Memphis and Charleston; Atlanta and West Point; Selma, Rome and Dalton; Richmond and Petersburg; South Carolina railroad; Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac; Memphis and St. Louis United States Mail Packet; Georgia railroad (Augusta and Atlanta.)

Application has been made to every general ticket agent in the South, requesting half fare arrangements, though up to this time but few of them have responded. As the railroads have so many forms of issuing half fare tickets, we would caution all delegates and visitors to comply strictly with the rules of the railroad company. In purchasing tickets, be certain to state that you are a delegate to the Sunday School Convention, and on the majority of the roads they will issue return certificates. Several of the roads will return delegates upon the certificate of the presiding officer of the convention, but this number is exceedingly small. Although a great many of the ticket agents have not responded, yet we have every reason to believe that all of the roads will cheerfully pass delegates and visitors for half fare, provided that parties interested will pay strict attention to the suggestions made in this article.

R. A. Young,
D. C. Kelley.

A New Beauty in the Income Tax. It has just been discovered that the act of Congress imposing the unconstitutional income tax practically makes it a lien on the land of every man against whom it is assessed. On default of payment, the collector of the district is empowered to collect the amount due by warrant, and from the moment this warrant is issued every foot of land belonging to the debtor within the district is liable to be sold under it. Consequently every person intending to purchase or lend money on land must, to protect himself, get a certificate from the collector that no warrant has been issued against the seller or mortgager; and one of our largest life insurance companies has directed this to be done in all future cases before making loans on real estate. The example will doubtless be followed by other money lenders, and thus an additional burden will be imposed on the already over-burdened industry of the country.

We have not the statistics by which to make an accurate computation, but the aggregate expense of searching in the various collectors' offices, against every seller and mortgager of real estate, will probably be not far from the entire amount which the government receives from the odious and unconstitutional tax! The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has already declared that the tax costs more to collect than it yields, and now we see that it indirectly is the source of another enormous exaction. And yet the Republican majority in Congress refuses to abolish it!—New York Sun.

He who has observed how throughout history, while man is continually misusing good, and turning it into evil, the overruling sway of God's providence out of evil is ever bringing forth good, will never be cast down, or led to despond, or to slacken his efforts, however untoward the immediate aspect of things may appear. For he will know that, whenever he is laboring in the cause of heaven, the powers of heaven are working with him; that, though the good he is aiming at may not be attainable in the very form he has in view, the ultimate result will assuredly be good; that, were man diligent in fulfilling his part, this result would be immediate; and that no one who is thus diligent shall lose his precious reward of seeing that every good deed is a part of the life of the world.

The Germans report officially of their losses in the war, 13,960 killed, and 88,924 wounded in action, or in all, 102,884. About 20,000 losses of Bavarians and Wurtembergers should be added, making the entire loss, exclusive of "missing," 120,000. The expenditure is estimated at £120,000,000, or £150,000,000 sterling.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1871.

For the Advocate.

OUR IDOLS.

BY L.

We clasp them fondly to our breast,
And proudly saying, Thou art mine.
We tremble while we worship, lest
Some ill, perchance, should mar the shrine.

As incense on the altar placed,
We cast our all and there adore;
No imperfections can we trace,
No fault in them can we deplore.

Immortal, though of earth composed,
Our love a mantle round them thrown;
Secure we sink to sweet repose,
But wake, alas! to find them gone.

We wake to find our idols clay;
The immortal part from earth hath fled;
The jem we prized was snatched away,
A ruin left to us instead.

Thus one by one our treasures fade,
And one by one our friends depart;
A deeper void within is made,
A void within the human heart.

But yet there is a healing balm
To soothe the wounds inflicted there;
For those who wildly weep a calm,
A sure relief from every tear.

Affairs in the Shreveport District.

MANSFIELD, LA., April 14, 1871.

MR. EDITOR: When we get the ADVOCATE the very first thing which we look for is "News from the Churches," and especially from those of our own Conference. This is not strange, as the Louisiana Conference is our inheritance. We were born in it and never saw any other, and getting news from its various parts is like a soldier getting news from the front. Supposing that we are not very dissimilar from others, we occasionally endeavor to give an account of our own department. Our district lies in the extreme northwestern portion of the Conference, some one hundred and eighty miles in length and fifty miles in width, including the parishes of Caddo, De Soto, Sabine, Natchitoches and a part of Calcasieu. There are eight circuits and one station in the Shreveport district supplied with preachers from the Conference.

We have closed our first round of quarterly meetings, and it is a matter of no small importance to go through with a first round of quarterly conferences. To do this in this country it requires a good deal of deep wading, some swimming, to encounter many a rainy day, and not unfrequently to miss the way, though the almost universal direction is: "Take such and such a fork and you can't miss it." The salaries of all the preachers are to be fixed at the first quarterly conferences. There are ten preachers on the district, including the presiding elder, and the aggregate amount of their salaries allowed for the year is $9,450, making an average of $945 to each preacher. One-fourth of this amount was due the first quarter, and only one-seventh was paid.

This item may be of service to the stewards. The financial aspect of the church is one of vital and momentous importance. To render to the Lord his due is to overcome human nature. There is no doubt with us that one design of the demand of the Lord, that every one should make an offering to him of a certain per cent. of all his increase, was to test his loyalty to the divine government; for there is nothing which comes more directly in contact with human nature than to give. This has ever been a vexed question, and always will be until the divine law is adopted as the rule of action. We propose to notice what we conceive to be the teaching of the divine law upon this subject. There never has been a time when such a law did not exist. There was a restraint put upon man in the use of the fruits of the earthly paradise. Stated offerings have ever been required of the people of every age. Wherever we have an account of the worship of God, we also have an account of offerings. Though the amount or per cent. required by the divine law is nowhere specified during the dispensation of the patriarchs, yet from fair and legitimate inference we conclude that a tithe of the increase of their lands was the law regulating their offerings. We do not suppose that when Abraham and Jacob gave a tenth that it was merely accidental, but the result of law. The offering of Cain, no doubt, was rejected because it did not meet the demands of the law, either in kind or amount. The law was traditionary up to the time it was given to Moses from Sinai. Then it was written and incorporated into a special statute, and reads: "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or the fruit of the tree, or of the herd of the fleck, it is holy unto the Lord." This was the law of the church. It is a moral precept, and is as necessary to-day as it was when first given. And does not Christ clearly adopt the law as a precept of the gospel dispensation when he says to the Pharisees who paid a tithe of mint and anise and cumin, and neglected the weightier matters of the law: "This ye ought to have done?" Ye ought to have paid a tithe even of the least consideration, for that was the law. Again, does not Paul adopt the same rule when he says: "It is written in the law, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn?" and adds: "For our sakes this was written." In the same connection he says: "It is ordained that they which preach the gospel shall live of the gospel." Christ does not enact a new law, but teaches the proper method of keeping the old one, for, as it was with the other precepts of the law, the spirit was lost in the letter. He says to his disciples: "When thou doest alms do not sound a trumpet before you, but let not your left hand know what your right hand doeth." His manner of treating this precept is exactly similar to his treatment of those other precepts of the law, the spirit of which had been lost. The minimum interest of the Lord in every man's temporal substance, according to this law, and which we have shewn has been adopted by Christ and his apostles, is a tenth of all the increase of the interest of the capital invested.

This, no doubt, was the portion Paul ordered to be set apart for the Lord, by the churches of Corinth and Galatia, on the first day of the week. Every successful business man has stated times of taking account of his stock, to test his plans and to ascertain his gains. This is the time he should set apart the Lord's portion. The Bible plan is strictly on the ad valorem principle, and it is just and equitable. If the church would adopt this plan nobody would be injured, but rather benefited, for the promise is to him that honoreth the Lord with his substance that his barns shall be filled with plenty. Then the treasury of the Lord would be supplied with an amount sufficient to accomplish all his purposes in feeding and caring for the poor, of sustaining and elevating the church to its designed sphere of action and usefulness, and of sending the gospel to the thousands of the heathen who are still sitting in the regions of darkness and shadow of death. In the economy of God's grace money occupies a prominent place as a means of converting the world, and the want of it perhaps is the greatest barrier in the way of the success of the church. Not that the Lord has not a sufficient interest in the increase of the land to accomplish all his work, but as in the days of yore he is robbed of his dues; they are withheld from him. Caesar too often gets the Lord's portion. Debt is often made a plea for not rendering to the Lord his portion; but that is no valid reason, since a large proportion of the people are in debt, and always will be as long as the credit system continues. If so, all that any one would have to do, to avoid contributing to the Lord's treasury, would be to get in debt and remain in debt, which is an exceedingly easy matter. The same precept which Christ gave to the lawyer still applies: "Render, therefore, to Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and to the Lord the things which are the Lord's." Now, lest any one should say, "Physician, heal thyself," we promise to practice what we preach.

The church is making some progress in the work of beneficence. We not unfrequently meet with those who give from principle, and give according to the divine precept. Some are setting apart a portion of land to be cultivated, the proceeds of which are to go into the Lord's treasury. Yet there is a very great deficiency. There is yet a very great improvement to be made. The great need of the church is uniform action upon the subject—to abound in the work of the Lord.

We believe that the spiritual condition of the church is improving throughout the district. The preachers are all at their work, and all the work is supplied, and well supplied.

We are having some good meetings. On Sunday night of the quarterly meeting at Pleasant Hill there were not less than forty penitents at the altar for the prayers of the church. Bros. Parvin and Allen are on this circuit. Bro. Parvin has already appointments for three camp meetings. He has taken into his work Natchitoches and Manuy mission. His transfer to Arkansas did not take any of the expansion out of his composition.

The cause of temperance receives due attention. Every preacher appointed to the Shreveport district is thoroughly temperance, advocating the principle that total abstinence from all intoxicating liquors as a beverage is the only safe ground to occupy upon the subject. They do not hesitate to condemn the evil of intemperance, and are not afraid of being called schismatics because they sign a temperance pledge or organize a temperance society. We hope to have an unusually prosperous year. All nature is abundantly blessed. Everything which grows, from the strawberry plant to the sturdy oak, is loaded with its fruits, and we know that the Lord is able, willing and waiting to make his grace abound in like manner, that we may have times of refreshing from his presence. J. P.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Sunday School Convention of the Union Springs district, Alabama Conference, will be held in Union Springs, Alabama, May 18-21, 1871.

PROGRAMME OF EXERCISES.

Thursday night—Sermon by Rev. M. M. Graham.

Friday, 9 o'clock A. M.—Devotional exercises and organization. 10 o'clock A. M.—Reports, etc. 11 o'clock A. M.—Discussion of the subject, The Practicability and Utility of Uniform Lessons, by Prof. —— Reyall, Colonel R. H. Powell and ——. 3 o'clock P. M.—Devotional exercises. 3¼ o'clock P. M.—Discussion of the subject, The Importance of Sunday School Libraries for the Diffusion of General Information among Youth, by Rev. F. L. B. Shaver, W. Capers Menefee, Esq., and ——. 7½ o'clock P. M.—Devotional exercises. 8 o'clock P. M.—Discussion of the question, How can Music be made to Subserve the aims of the Sunday School? by Revs. C. L. McCartha and W. F. Norton.

Saturday, 8¾ o'clock A. M.—Devotional exercises. 9 o'clock A. M.—Discussion of the subject, The Relation of the Sunday School to the Missionary Work and the Finances of the Church, by Rev. W. M. Motley and Colonel E. B. Wilkerson. 10½ o'clock A. M.—Discussion of the subject, The Relation of the Family to the Sunday School, by Rev. W. H. Ellison, D. D., and W. H. Parks, Esq. 3 o'clock P. M.—Devotional exercises. 3¼ o'clock P. M.—Discussion of the subject, The Relation of the Pastor to the Sunday School, by Revs. J. W. Sheres, B. L. Selman and ——. 7½ o'clock P. M.—Devotional exercises. 8 o'clock P. M.—Discussion of the question, How can the Sunday School be made a Means of the Spiritual Well-Being of the Young? by Revs. W. A. Sampey and W. W. Graham.

Sunday—Preaching at 10½ A. M. and 8 P. M. At 3 P. M. the Sunday schools of the Presbyterian and Baptist churches are invited to attend the Sunday school of the Methodist church, when they will be addressed by members of the convention. The pastor and Sunday school superintendent will please arrange with the organist and choir to furnish the convention with music during its exercises.

Sunday school workers and friends in adjacent districts are invited to attend.

By order of the Board of Directors.

J. W. SHORES, Chairman.
W. C. MENEFEE, Secretary.

THE Rothschilds, by controlling the leading mines, now have the monopoly of the quicksilver market of the world.

A GOOD LAW VIOLATED.

MR. EDITOR: I wish, through the columns of your paper, to call attention to a violation of law which obtains rather largely in our church at present. The law referred to is that which relates to the literary qualifications of candidates for ordination. No man "shall be * * * recommended to the Annual Conference for * * * ordination without * * * giving satisfactory evidence of his knowledge of the ordinary branches of an English education." Some of our quarterly conferences virtually ignore this law. If satisfied with regard to the moral qualifications of a candidate for ordination, they make no inquiry as to his literary attainments, arguing that if a man's education is sufficient to enable him to perform the most important work pertaining to the ministerial office, viz, the preaching of the gospel, it is surely sufficient to enable him to perform works of minor importance, such as administering the sacraments and solemnizing the rites of matrimony; and accordingly Annual Conferences are frequently asked to ordain men who are entirely illiterate, men who are barely able to read the word of God intelligibly, and who "murder the King's English" on every occasion. And the Annual Conference, with a full knowledge of all the facts in the case, generally elects the candidate to ordination without any condemnatory notice of the lawless action of the quarterly conference, arguing that "an Annual Conference cannot go behind the action of a quarterly conference." Now, while we admit the truth of the principle here stated, we deny its applicability to the case in question. Were an Annual Conference to attempt to deprive a local preacher of his credentials, it would then be transcending its authority and infringing upon the rights of the quarterly conference; but for the Annual Conference to reject a candidate for ordination on the ground that he is an improper person in the eyes of the law to be ordained, is not in any sense of the word an encroachment upon the rights of the quarterly conference, or a "going behind" its action. And Annual Conferences invariably act upon this principle so far as moral qualifications are concerned; they often reject candidates for ordination on account of moral deficiencies, which were duly considered in the quarterly conference prior to recommendation. To refer to a case in point: The writer was present, not long since, when the application of a local deacon for ordination was presented to an Annual Conference. The candidate had been known frequently to indulge too freely in the use of ardent spirits. Now, although it was shown that the quarterly conference, prior to his recommendation, had thoroughly investigated the matter and were fully satisfied as to his reformation, yet the Annual Conference refused to elect him. Now, in this case, no one will contend that the Annual Conference transcended its authority or invaded the jurisdiction of the quarterly conference; all will admit that it simply exercised its own proper prerogative. And if an Annual Conference has the right to reject a candidate who lacks moral qualifications, has it not an equal right to reject one who lacks the literary qualifications which the law requires? Moreover, we hold that it is not only the privilege but also the duty of the Annual Conference to reject such candidates. The intent of the law evidently is that no man shall be elected to ordination until he shall have acquired certain specified literary attainments; but instead of burdening the Annual Conference with the examination of such candidates, the law imposes that duty on the quarterly conference. The transference of this duty of examination from the Annual Conference to the quarterly conference does not, however, in my estimation, release the Annual Conference from its obligation to exact such examination as a prerequisite to election. To elect a man to ordination, knowing that he is legally disqualified, is to sanction a flagrant and palpable violation of law; to refuse to elect him is simply to carry out the intent of the law, and is not an infringement upon the rights of the quarterly conference. These hints are thrown out with a view to the correction of the evil alluded to. Observe, the writer expresses no opinion as to the expediency of the law itself. If the law is an unwise one, let it be repealed; but while it exists, let it be observed.

BETA.

DR. PIERCE AND BISHOP ANDREW.

We append some extracts from Dr. Levick Pierce's address, delivered at Macon, Georgia. The address exhibits all the best elements of the author's style, as compared with his earlier ministry. He pays the following tribute to the Bishop's mother:

Bishop Andrew's mother was one of nature's noble women—ennobled by the charms of a pure, rational, fervent piety—a woman of fine practical common sense—a mother whose speech was always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ministered grace to the hearer. Her maternal, domestic piety issued from her sanctified life like fragrance from a rose, until all that could inhale or absorb its nature became imbued with it. The beautiful imprint of all that was lovely in the moral and intellectual character of the mother was made upon her son. One familiar with Paul's allusion to the grandmother and mother of Timothy will see that in this case the same medium of conveying the faith of grandmothers and mothers to the Timothys of this generation remains open, and furnishes to the church their moral and spiritual duplicates in copies of genuine stamp.

The Bishop's first wife comes in for a graceful and discriminative notice.

He married the mother of all his children in the city of Charleston at an earlier time of life than it had been usual for the preachers to marry; and he was one of two or three who broke the spell of location, as a necessity, upon marriage; which was, in my opinion, an epoch in the onward movement of Methodist itinerancy.

I trust that it will not be looked upon as irrelevant to the object of this memorial for me to say, in behalf of the first Mrs. Andrew, and of many others of the wives of Methodist preachers, that the church and the world owe to their memory a debt of honor that never has been and never will be paid off. Talk as you will about moral heroism, its finest specimens will be found among the wives of our noble pioneer itinerant preachers of the old South Carolina Conference. I think myself safe in saying that even your revered Bishop would have been compelled to give up itineracy in these, the mighty years of his manhood, if it had not been that Mrs. Andrew preferred to supplement the meager income of her husband by the earnings of her needle at midnight's weary watch, rather than see him leave his Master's work to earn in some other vocation a living for her and their little ones. Well might Solomon say in eulogy on great womanhood: "Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all." In the galaxy of noble women stood Mrs. Andrew; and by her self-sacrificing spirit and deep devotion to Christ and his church she saved her great-souled husband to the church as one of its chief pastors. What I say I know; and I cannot parade the labors of the Bishop before you to-day for memorial eulogy, and leave his faithful Amelia out; for I am satisfied that this great woman had much to do in giving us at last a good Bishop.

Our readers will pardon the long extract which relates Bishop Andrew's connection with the separation in 1844. It places the matter in so clear and just a light that we desire all to read it.

For twelve years after his consecration Bishop Andrew circulated as an active Bishop—presiding over conferences from Maine to Louisiana, from Georgia to Missouri, from Canada to Florida. Not only was he tolerated, but loved and lauded as a Bishop. But in 1844, when the last General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church met in New York city, he having married his second wife—a lady owning a few slaves, the proprietary right to whom he left in her—the anti-slavery party at an early day, after having ascertained its strength, introduced a resolution declaring it to be the sense of that body that Bishop Andrew should cease to exercise the office of a Bishop in the Methodist Episcopal Church until such time as he should free himself from slavery. This was effecting deposition from office without calling it deposition; because such an act would have required some charge of capital offense. This was known to be outside of every chance, but by subornation. This they were as ready to shun as we ourselves were. Indeed, it seemed to be the pleasure of his prosecuters to deck their noble victim with the ribbons and flowers of his moral excellence, just to magnify the propriety of so noble an offering to the Moloch of abolitionism. Of course—as all must see—the debate that followed was on the constitutional right of the General Conference to depose a Bishop by the adoption, by a majority, of a simple resolution, determining that result as its sole design—without impeachment of delinquency in duty or of immorality in life—they taking the affirmative and we the negative of the question. They took the ground that a Methodist Bishop was only a creature of the General Conference, and could be deposed at any time from the episcopacy by resolution, adopted by the majority of the body which had consecrated him aforetime to this order and office; and that without charge of forfeiture of position by any specified crime or malfeasance. This unjust latitudinarian view—which looked then, and to us looks now, as a rule of action assumed by that body on purpose to meet and sustain party prejudices and purposes—we denounced. The right assumed could have been as easily applied to Bishop Andrew's wearing a blue, instead of a black, coat, if the pretense had been that such style of dress was unacceptable to many of the Conferences over which he must preside.

At this solemn hour it is no part of my purpose to ridicule the policy of Bishop Andrew's opponents in this disastrous action. I only wish to reaffirm my opinion and the opinion of the whole Southern delegations—both of the living and the dead—that the action of the majority in the deposition of Bishop Andrew was wholly arbitrary and unauthorized by any precedent acts ever known in any Protestant ecclesiastical court in America; and that, as our protest declares, our cause of complaint, calling for another organization of Methodism, was neither in whole nor in part on account of slavery as slavery, but wholly on account of that great principle, to wit: Whether a Bishop, after being consecrated to his sacred office, remains such an insignificant agent of the General Conference as to be deposed from office at their capricious will, at any time when it might please them to do so, without impeachment of any kind and proper trial for specific accusation, as cases under legal process are treated.

I now state in my place that the church was divided, not upon slavery—except as the accidental occasion—but upon this constitutional question of the power of a General Conference over the committed trust of this sacred office into the hands of a man elected by them, and solemnly ordained thereunto by their order. This—original and absolute—power we affirm they did not have, so as to wrest from a Bishop a vested right of this sort without charges of crime or defeasance of any sort, merely by a resolution to do it; we denied their right—protested against it, and applied to be set off as a separate jurisdictional portion of American Methodism. This they agreed to, and in good faith at that time the church was divided.

That prince among men, Bishop Soule, although born and brought up and educated under anti-slavery opinions, and while still no pro-slavery man, adhered South—not on account of slavery, but on account of this great principle—the rights and powers claimed and acted upon by a General Conference to depose a Bishop at will, without charge or trial, on the ground of ecclesiastical complaints.

As soon as the vote of deposition was registered Bishop Andrew left for home, that he might find in the bosom of his beloved household the happiness so wantonly wrested from him by this usurpation of power. The Southern Conferences, thus empowered by the articles of separation, proceeded by convention, held in Louisville, Kentucky, in May, 1845, to organize the Methodist Episcopal Church South—which organization was consummated by calling a General Conference in May, 1846, when Bishop Soule formally adhered South—Bishop Andrew having done so at our invitation at the convention. Thus we testified to him our sacred sense of the injustice done him in the vote of deposition a year before, and of our unabated confidence in his episcopal rights. Thus it will be seen that for nearly twenty-six years he has been our own Bishop.

A CITIZEN of Jeffersonville, Indiana, who some years ago bought a piece of ground in Chicago, for which he paid a mule and $15 in money, sold the property a short time afterward, and it is to-day worth $1,000,000, while the aforesaid gentleman ain't worth a cent.

A HIT.—An old farmer's description of a pointless preacher was: "A good man, likely, but he rakes with the teeth up."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1871.

THE MUSIC OF THE SEA.

The gray, unresting sea,
Adown the bright and belting shore,
Breaking in untold melody,
Makes music evermore.

Centuries of vanished time,
Since this glad earth's primeval morn,
Have heard the grand unpausing chime,
Momently new-born.

Like as in cloistered piles
Rich bursts of massive sounds upswell,
Ringing along dim-lighted aisles
With a spirit-trancing spell,

So on the surf-white strand
Chants of deep peal the sea-waves raise,
Like voices from a viewless land
Hymning a hymn of praise.

By times in thunder notes
The booming billows shoreward surge;
By times a silver laugh it floats,
By times a low soft dirge.

Souls more ennobled grow,
Listing the worldly anthem rise;
Discords are drowned in the great flow
Of Nature's harmonies.

Men change and "cease to be,"
And empires rise and grow and fall;
But the weird music of the sea
Lives, and outlives them all.

The mystic song shall last
Till time itself no more shall be;
Till seas and shores have pass'd,
Lost in eternity. Once a Week.

PULPIT MANNERS.

Ambrose, a contributor to the Interior, furnishes that journal with a good article on pulpit work. We give that part which relates to pulpit manners.

When a minister has settled the question, what he shall preach, the other question comes: How shall I preach?

That word how takes hold on a great many particulars, with most of which I do not care now to meddle. But there are two or three, at times a good deal discussed and differed about, upon which a word more may now—perhaps always—be said.

One of these, though discussed under different titles, may be called Pulpit Manners. Some perhaps think such a subject not worth talking about. But I have concluded, after considerable looking, that no one thing has more to do with ministerial success than this. It elects and dismisses ministers all the while. You may think that it ought not to enter into the question of the acceptableness of an embassador of Christ; but it does. You may say that earnestness and power will cause people to forget minor matters; very likely. You may say that an abundant unction of the Holy Ghost will lift a man out of his defects, and so impress his hearers that they are not offended by familiarity or coarseness, or by a thousand things that would be otherwise offensive. True in part. But the Holy Ghost does not offend a true taste, nor does violence to a healthful common sense. On the contrary, he irradiates and eulogizes all the normal faculties; and the man is never so truly himself as when full of the Holy Ghost.

A friend once called my attention, in a revival, to the fact that certain gross things were seemingly more offensive than usual to himself and a number of friends, all absorbingly interested in the matter of personal salvation, and wondered at it, because he thought their religious interest would of course lift them above all such matters. Revivalists are very apt, sometimes, to commit my friend's mistake. "Anything will pass in a revival." Well, it may pass; but coarseness and rudeness will not win the cultured people. Nothing may be said at the time by saint or sinner; but these things of which nothing is said, but of which a great deal is thought, often work intense and prolonged mischief.

It seems to me that a minister of Christ ought to be personally agreeable to his congregation so far as he well can be. They have to look at him. Why needlessly offend their eyes? They all are expected to hear him. Why gratuitously rasp their ears?

True, a man does not wholly make himself; but he does in part. His dress and much of his appearance are of his provision. Yet I have seen a man take off his coat in the pulpit. I have seen another—and a D. D. at that—go before a congregation in a very mean brown linen coat; and that in a city where people thought they amounted to something. Of course, in the woods, where people do as they can, no special fastidiousness is perhaps required. I have seen a man, too, in the pulpit, habited in one of those modern short coats—lineal descendants of those which Hanun, son of Nahash, provided for David's men—and which, if not invented by the devil, are certainly in his line of things. But to my relief he kept his face to the audience.

But dress is not all. I have known a man begin his pulpit exercises, habitually, with a series of terrific hawkings and nose exorcises; the results of which are unmentionable. Less faults sometimes give good hearers a chronic uneasiness.

"Cannot you get our minister to stand square on his feet?" said a man of piety and ability to me. "He has a way of standing as if he were liable to tumble down; and it so annoys me that I cannot take comfort in hearing him."

That was said concerning a D. D. not only, but of one of the princes of Israel. Some such things are "dead flies in the ointment;" but some of them are good sized bugs, and some fair sized mice. And that ointment is sometimes very bad.

It seems, too, that with a number of ministers in this day a great deal of familiarity is occasionally exhibited in the pulpit. I have heard a D. D.—I select the big men, you observe—call out to a person in the audience, in a joking way, and by name, in the midst of his address. Such things were not rare in the Scotch pulpit fifty years ago, but probably are not now much known there. Our pulpit had, perhaps, at least in the opinion of Young America, become a little stiff; and, perhaps, by the example of some men of enterprise—say in Brooklyn—this is only a suitable limbering up. But it certainly shocks some good people.

But to conclude this topic: a pleasant pulpit address—of which dress, with no ad, is a part—enables the preacher to say what he finds necessary to say. People will receive from a man agreeable to them very unpalatable truths; while they will associate the disagreeable man with his disagreeable message, and put it all over upon him, refusing to receive for themselves any part of it.

A SPANISH PROTESTANT CHURCH IN NEW YORK.—We have received notice of a lecture to be delivered by Dr. Lord, in Association Hall, on the thirteenth of April, at eight o'clock, for the benefit of the Spanish Protestant church in this city. We gladly take this occasion to notice an enterprise which appears to us to deserve the heartiest sympathy and support. The church in question finds its special work among the Cubans. Organized four years ago by twelve Spanish American gentlemen, it now gathers weekly a congregation of one hundred and fifty to two hundred; in addition to which the pastor, the Rev. J. De Palma, has established a weekly service in Brooklyn, and a class for Bible instruction to ladies. The presence of an unusually large number of Cubans in New York, owing to the disturbances at home, gives a most favorable opportunity for reaching those who at another time might be inaccessible, and for laying through them the foundation of a future good work in Cuba itself. The church employs in its worship a translation of the Protestant Episcopal prayer book—a service especially adapted to meet the tastes and feelings of those previously accustomed to a liturgical service. No appeal is made to the congregation for contributions, because, as Mr. De Palma said to us, it is important that these people, too much accustomed to see religious matters compounded on the basis of money, should feel that in this case there is not the shadow of an interested design. We hope not only that on the present occasion a liberal patronage will be given to Dr. Lord's lecture—whose intrinsic interest is sure to be great—but that there may be constant and cordial manifestations of sympathy with this good work on the part of all our churches.—Christian Union.

SINCE the failure of the sub-committee to obtain the services of experts to examine the books of the New York Book Concern, Rev. Dr. Carlton, the agent, has himself selected and employed three gentlemen of high character and eminent qualification, and set them to work. Dr. Carlton has from the first urged the fullest and fairest investigation. No failure in this regard can be charged upon him. One of the gentlemen employed is a Methodist, one is a Presbyterian and the other is a Baptist. The business public will have the utmost confidence in their report. But an unpleasant controversy is likely to spring from this movement. It seems impossible to do anything without exciting a new strife. The New York Advocate of last week contained a full statement of the facts, and also a very satisfactory reply to Judge Reynold's exposition of the affair, as published in the New York secular papers. The judge will discover that he has been grossly misinformed.—Western Christian Advocate.

"MOTHER," said a four-year old, "what season of the year was it when Adam and Eve were in the garden of Eden?" "I don't know, my dear, unless it was summer—a perpetual summer." "Oh no, mamma, it must have been in the fall, for you know apples were ripe."

MORE bricks are manufactured at Haverstraw, on the Hudson, than in any other place in America or Europe.

LIVING OF THE GOSPEL.

We clip the following from the proceedings of the San Francisco District Conference, as related in the Spectator:

The interest of the day centered in the discussion of the report on finance. An admirable system was recommended by the committee—one which is as near the system St. Paul, in his wisdom, advised as is possible for the church in the rural districts. The discussion on the report took a wide range, and was the most profitable that we ever listened to. A preacher stated that his experience had confirmed his faith in God's word that "they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel." Another brother (preacher) rejoined that the manner in which the word was quoted implied that "they which preach the gospel do live of the gospel," and he was tired of that interpretation, as it seemed to suggest an imputation on some faithful workmen, who, notwithstanding their earnest labors and holy living, were often in want and agony of spirit. Another preacher arose to defend the Scripture, and a more impassioned, earnest, powerful appeal to the servants of God to believe the truth of this Scripture we have never heard. He told of his years of trust in God, and how in the moment when his feet had reached the brink of despair the succor came. His streaming eyes, fervid manner and eloquent speech had an effect on the audience which will not soon be forgotten. The brother who seemed (for it was only seeming) to question the propriety of relying on this assertion made by St. Paul, then told an incident in the life of Father Cox, than whom none were more worthy of a liberal support for his work's sake, which was strong evidence that labors abundant were not always rewarded by temporal comfort. He reminded the audience of a fact, with which many were acquainted, that while Father Cox was preaching in the Santa Clara Valley, many years ago, there was a time when his barrel of meal and cruse of oil were empty, and he and his family subsisted on potatoes alone—no meat, no bread.

This sad recollection oppressed the audience, and the chairman was about to call the question, when a lay brother arose and asked permission to make a few remarks upon the subject under consideration. He said he wished to tell the blessed sequel of the extreme poverty borne by Father Cox. At that time he was a wicked man, with prejudices against religion, and especially strong prejudices against Methodist preachers, whom he had sworn in his heart never to aid even in the slightest degree; but one day a steward of the church, who knew of his abundant means, came to him and told him the story of this good man, how his wife and little ones were hungry and ill-clad, and his heart was softened toward him and he gave a liberal donation of provisions for his support. That act led him to seek his society, and in a short time he was rejoicing through the regeneration grace of Jesus Christ. With quivering lips he gave praise to God that through the suffering of Father Cox he was made rich. We have but faintly detailed the occasion, though we were never more profoundly impressed with the thought that though God's providence is often mysterious and severe, yet it may be to accomplish a result of such infinite importance as the salvation of a human soul.

TRIAL BY FIRE.—The Rev. George Whitfield, in a sermon from Isaiah xxiv, 15, "Wherefore glorify ye the Lord in the fires," introduced the following illustration: "When I was some years ago at Shields I went into a glass house, and, standing very attentive, I saw several masses of burning glass of various forms. The workman took one piece of glass and put it into one furnace, then he put it into a second, and then into a third. I asked him, 'Why do you put it into so many fires?' He answered me: 'Oh, sir, the first was not hot enough, nor the second, and therefore we put it into the third, and that will make it transparent.' 'Oh,' thought I, 'does this man put this glass into one furnace after another, that it may be rendered perfect? Oh, my God, put me into one furnace after another, that my soul may be transparent; that I may see God as he is.'"

The workman might have added that it was necessary the fires should be applied in the order in which they were; that if the greater heat had been first applied it would have destroyed the article which was in the course of being made perfect; that a moderate fire prepared it for one still hotter, and that again for one more fierce. And so it is sometimes with the dispensations of divine Providence.

PAPISTS IN THE UNITED STATES.—According to the Catholic Telegraph there are 5,250,000 communicants of its denomination in the United States, 5,233 churches, chapels and stations, and 4,141 priests.

Strengthening the Episcopacy.

The following, from the Western Christian Advocate and the Northwestern, contains some interesting and suggestive statements:

STRENGTHENING THE EPISCOPACY.—The Northwestern of April 5 has a paper with this caption, taking the position that from our earliest and most heroic days episcopal supervision has continually diminished. It furnishes two tables, beginning with the election of Bishop McKendree in 1808, the first giving the number of members, preachers and Bishops, and the second the number of members and preachers to each Bishop, as follows:

Year.	Members.	Preach's.	Bish'p's.
1808	151,995	540	2
1816	214,235	695	3
1824	328,523	1,272	5
1832	548,593	2,200	6
1836	650,668	2,929	7
1844	1,179,443	4,621	6
1852	728,700	4,513	7
1864	928,320	6,821	9
1870	1,367,134	9,193	..

Wilbur Fisk, elected in 1836, was never ordained, deciding that it was his duty to remain president of the Wesleyan University, and Joshua Soule acceded in 1844.

		Members.		Preachers.
1808	one Bishop to	75,937	and	270
1816	..	71,412	..	232
1824	..	65,725	..	254
1832	..	91,432	..	366
1836	..	92,952	..	418
1844	..	196,574	..	770
1852	..	104,100	..	645
1864	..	103,143	..	758

The Northwestern claims that as our membership to-day is nine times what it was in 1808, that we should have at least eighteen Bishops. It says:

The Church South confessedly feels the power of her increased superintendency, and our laborers on the border and in the South are lavish in their presentations of the ever-present and tireless energy of their episcopacy. If in any place the Church South outstrips us, it is through this power. To a membership of 568,595 they have ten Bishops—about the proportion we had in 1808. They have 2,646 preachers, we four times as many; and with Bishops in equal proportion with them we should have 40. The Episcopal Church, with a membership of 220,000, has 51 Bishops. Had we them in the same proportion we should be able to count 300.

There must be a change in the mode of supporting the Bishops, and some method of retiring disabled Bishops, and, possibly, not necessarily as we think, the work must be districted.

METHODIST UNION IN CANADA.

The Joint Union Committee, made up of representatives of the several Methodist bodies in Canada, held a second meeting in Mechanics' Institute, Toronto, March 28, to consider further the question of a basis of union. The meeting continued two days, and was characterized by the most fraternal and Christian courtesy. A series of resolutions forming substantially a basis of union was adopted, and will be submitted to the forthcoming Annual Conferences of the several Methodist denominations in the Dominion. The Canada Christian Advocate prints from memory the following outline of the general basis agreed to:

1. A General Conference for making rules and regulations, to meet at intervals of four or six years—ministers and laymen in equal numbers.

2. Annual Conferences, for ministerial and executive general administration—only ministers.

3. District Meetings—ministers, preachers and laymen.

4. Quarterly Meeting Conferences—about as they now exist in our church.

5. The order of deacons is not provided for, except in the exercise of their functions, until ordained to the higher order.

6. The ordination of local preachers failed to secure favorable action before the committees, while local preachers' meetings in the circuits or districts are to be continued.

7. The chief office to be filled by persons elected by the General Conference, and to be set apart by some service to be provided, and to hold office for a term of years corresponding to the times of its meetings.—New York Christian Advocate.

THE explorations of the geological survey in Berar have resulted (says an Indian paper) in the discovery of 121 square miles of coal strata, averaging in thickness 40 feet, and representing the enormous quantity of 4,840,000,000 tons of the mineral.

RECENT dredgings have added much to the knowledge of the creatures which inhabit the Canadian seas. The number of mollusca has been increased from sixty or seventy to nearly one hundred and thirty species.

A TIGRESS was recently killed in India, the fame of which was that it had killed during seven years one hundred and forty persons in several villages, and caused a substantial depopulation of the district.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

THERE are six places of Protestant public worship in Madrid, Spain.

THE new Baptist church in Rome is not only for Italians, but is composed of Italians, and is in the heart of the city.

SEVERAL native Christians are daily visiting the houses of Europeans in Calcutta as Bible readers to the servants. Some six hundred of that class are reached every week.

THE American Episcopal Board has established a mission in Japan. Rev. A. R. Morris, of New Jersey, goes out for the first two years' labor, entirely at his own charges.

THE Bishop of Winchester has presented his son—Rev. Basil Wilberforce—to a living which is worth £1,000, per annum. An English ecclesiastical wag calls this Wilberforce's "practical view."

THE Rev. Dr. Stevens, of the Burmah mission, reports the baptism, about the close of the year, of ten Burmans, and says that "less opposition to the gospel is manifested, and a growing conviction of the truth of Christianity."

THE familiar hymns beginning "My days are gliding swiftly by" and "The world is poor from shore to shore" were written by the late Rev. Dr. Nelson, of Quiney, Illinois, author of the treatise on infidelity which bears his name.

THROUGHOUT the Southern Presbyterian Church there is a deep revival feeling, and many are being converted. We notice that there have been about 150 at Bristol, East Tennessee; 40 at Anchorage, Kentucky; 38 at Norfolk, Virginia; 21 at Micanopy, Florida, and smaller numbers at various other places.

DR. DOLLINGER, the eminent German Catholic professor, is preparing a work against the dogma of infallibility. Per contra, the Archbishops of Paris and Orleans, Darboy and Dupanloup, who long refused their assent to the dogma, have finally yielded it. Is it the result of the war that has stiffened the backbone of the German and broken that of the Frenchman?

THE Religious Telescope refers to an impression that the denomination called United Brethren in Christ, in this country, are a split from the Methodists. It says: "We never were a part of the Methodist Church, though the ministers and people of the two denominations heartily cooperated, but as distinct organizations, in the days of Otterbein and Ashury, who were intimate personal friends."

THE Moravian statistics for 1870 show that the United Brethren have 16 mission provinces, 293 male and female missionaries, with 35,000 baptized adults, 25,288 baptized infants, and 68,751 under instruction. This earnest though small body of Christians has pushed its missions into every clime and to every race; but, as "Reports" show, its largest successes have been gained within the tropics.

MANY new places in all the New England Conferences, says the Methodist, are opening for Methodist preaching. Some twenty or thirty new places could be occupied at once if we had the men to spare for them. There is a great scarcity of men to fill the appointments already on the minutes. About forty places in the Providence Conference are now "supplied" by preachers not connected with the Conference.

THE Southern Baptist Convention, composed of delegates representing the Baptist churches in the Southern States, will meet at the Third Baptist church, St. Louis, on the eleventh of May. It is anticipated that from three hundred to four hundred delegates will be in attendance. The convention was held last year in Louisville, Kentucky. Rev. Dr. Mell, of Georgia, the former presiding officer, will preside at the opening of the convention.

UNDER the auspices of the Woman's Union Mission, though mainly at her own charges, an eminent and wealthy Christian woman of Albany proposes a five years' residence and labor at Yokahama, Japan, to establish there an asylum for orphans and outcast children. Another lady, Miss West, missionary in Turkey, has now trained, during ten years, two hundred young women, who are themselves to-day, for the most part, engaged in teaching Christian truth to others.

THE venerable Titus Coan, who has perhaps brought more souls into the church of Christ on earth than any man in these or other days, has been in the United States for a few months past, with Mrs. Coan, their first home visit from their field of labor in the Sandwich Islands in thirty-six years. About to go back without expectation of another return to his native land, he prints a most touching farewell letter to American churches and Christians.

WE FIND in the Church Journal the following deliverance on the use of the burial service in the case of unbaptized persons: "The want of baptism is a fact that no mantle of charity can cover. The party has died without that sacrament appointed for his regeneration. The church, in her catechism, teaches the necessity of this sacrament to salvation. The party has died unregenerate. For the church to use this service in his case, then, would be to stultify itself by contradicting its own teaching."

THE Philadelphia Press states that strong inducements are being offered to the Jews by the Sultan of Turkey to emigrate to Palestine, and that he has expressed a willingness to sell to them the Mosque of Omar, which occupies the site on Mount Moriah of the ancient temple. Already some of the hills around Jerusalem have become Jewish property, and the Press thinks it not improbable that some of the present generation will see the entire city in the hands of its ancient owners.

REJECTING Roman Catholicism, with what is possibly a hereditary dislike, the Japanese seem inclined to get an introduction to the new civilization through Protestant channels. To say nothing of our schools there, more than one hundred students from that people are now in this country at Protestant institutions. They were sent to get and they will carry back intelligent and decided views as to the contrasted practical workings of these two great antagonisms dividing the Christian world.

THE Associate Reformed Presbyterian of the sixth ultimo comes to us with the announcement of the deaths of two of the most distinguished ministers of the Associate Reformed Church of the South—Dr. Robert C. Greer and Rev. N. M. Gordon, the former on the twenty-third and the latter on the nineteenth of March. Dr. Greer was president of Erskine College, and was distinguished not only as a preacher, but as a man of ripe scholarship and high culture. Mr. Gordon was an able and eloquent preacher.

THE Canada Christian Advocate, organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada, has the following editorial note in its issue of April 5: "The General Conference at Ingersoll voted that it is expedient to secure a candidate for the episcopacy from the United States. The Annual Conference would do well to consider that question, and, if concurring, provide for a special General Conference. We need an active Bishop moving in our work, and the age, experience and wisdom of Bishop Richardson would contribute much to direct him in his duties."

THE Philadelphia Episcopalian, speaking of the increased expenditures for church music, thinks the largest appropriation for this purpose is by Christ church, New York—$7,500. The new St. Thomas, in Fifth avenue, is nearly equal. Trinity and its several chapels average $7,000, Grace church about $5,500, and St. Ann's $6,000. The paper ventures the wish that in some prominent church the music committee would arrange to have the people do their own singing, and apply the $7,000 to provide as many free pews as possible, "just by way of experiment."

THE London Missionary Society's reports from Madagascar continue to be satisfactory. At the Congregational Union, December 17, the Queen's prime minister was present, and told the Union that he had come not in his official capacity, but as "a deputation from the Church in the Palace, to consult with them as to the best means of promoting education and of spreading the kingdom of Jesus Christ. He told them that neither the Queen nor the Church in the Palace has any desire to rule or command the people in respect to religion, and if any one said they did so he was a liar."

THE promised reply of Dr. Dollinger to the Archbishop of Munich, justifying his resistance to the dogma of infallibility, has just been published. He asks leave to maintain his position before the forthcoming Assembly of Bishops at Fulda; maintaining that the dogma is opposed to Scripture, to the pastoral letters of many bishops from the earliest times, and to the decisions of councils, and that it is contrary to the constitutions of most European states. To which Pio Nono will simply reply: So much the worse for the Bible, and the bishops, and the councils, and the constitutions.

THE Rev. Dr. Moffatt has made an appeal in behalf of the French Protestant Basute Mission, which has suffered much on account of the war. Twelve clergymen are laboring there. They have established churches and schools "throughout a country which was one of the dark places of the earth, its caverns the abode of cannibals;" have circulated a large portion of the Scriptures and elementary works, and have commenced a school for training evangelists and preachers. The attendance on their preaching services is numbered by thousands. Now their resources for support have been for some time virtually closed by the war.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1871.

OFFICE—No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, in Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. Hamr, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. Linus Parker, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Agents—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of our Methodist Sabbath School Union was celebrated on Sunday, the thirtieth of April. The exercises took place at the Carondelet Street church at four o'clock P. M. Addresses were delivered by William Walker, Esq., the son of Rev. Dr. Walker, by Rev. J. A. G. Rabe, pastor of the Dryades Street German church, by Rev. John Mathews, of the Felicity Street church, and by Rev. William V. Tudor, of the Carondelet Street church. The addresses were all appropriate, and kept the hearers, old and young, wide awake to the end. Between the speeches came singing, spirited and sweet, by the children and teachers. The Methodist schools of the city were represented in the vast audience. The German schools sang a hymn in German, in a very superior manner. The occasion derived additional interest from the circumstance that this was the twenty-fifth anniversary. A quarter of a century has passed since the first gathering of all our schools. The president of the Union and conductor of the exercises then was W. H. Foster, and he is still in the same position, and presided over the meeting of last Sunday, as he has done over nearly all of them from the beginning, and bidding fair to be hale and young at the semi-centennial, twenty-five years hence. Among others who were present at the first anniversary, we observed Captain R. L. Robertson and William G. Sherry. Since the last celebration, one who was never absent before has passed to his heavenly reward. If the blessed are permitted to visit the scenes and occasions of earth which once most interested them, we are sure that the spirit of Richard Keen was hovering about the congregation. The address of Bro. Walker contained some interesting historical facts concerning the Union. We hope to be furnished with the entire address for publication, and therefore refrain from quotations from memory. Our Sunday schools in the city are generally improving, and the display of such a multitude of children on Sunday, under religious training, was calculated to inspire every heart with gratitude and hope.

TO THOSE WHO ADVERTISE.

William J. Carlton, 39 Park Row, New York, the great advertising agent, in his circular, thus speaks of the advantages of advertising in the religious press:

The superior advantages offered to advertisers by the religious paper over that of any other class of publications are too generally admitted to require a lengthy rehearsal of them here. In brief, its character, influence and generally large circulation give it the first position in value and worth as an advertising medium. The fact that it is frequently the only paper taken by the family should not be overlooked in estimating its claims. It is also carefully preserved when the secular paper is destroyed, showing how highly it is valued by its owner. Hence such a paper is of more value to the advertiser than a score of publications that have no hold upon the interest or regard of their readers.

Religious papers are circulated among the best class of people—just so being the most reliable and enterprising, and therefore the most desirable class to be reached by advertising.

Boston has appropriated $32,000 for music in her public schools.

IMPROVIDENCE IN MINISTERS.

There are no adequate provisions in our church for the comfortable support of disabled preachers, nor for the families of the deceased. The case is the same in other Protestant churches, and is likely to be so in all for a long time to come. Aged men and dependent families are left in circumstances of actual destitution, and this is the probable fate of the great majority of those who, while effective, are receiving a living compensation for their labors. What has been, and is the experience of others who were once situated as they are, will probably be theirs after awhile. There is no reason to suppose that they will be exceptions to the homeless penury which has marked the lot of many faithful servants of the gospel in the decay of age. In view of these facts a prudent foresight is an imperative duty which ministers owe to themselves and to those who are dependent upon them for subsistence. The language of our founder will hardly do for his successors when he says: "If I leave behind me ten pounds above my debts and my books, or what may happen to be due on account of them, you and all mankind bear witness against me that I lived and died a thief and a robber." The words which he directed to be inserted in his epitaph might, however, truthfully close the obituary record of the most of them: "Not leaving, after his debts are paid, ten pounds behind him." If Wesley had not ceased at once to work and live the wants of helpless age were abundantly secured, and there was no family to be provided for. His self-imposed rule of living on twenty-eight pounds, and of giving away the rest of his income, would be a grievous wrong and a sin to others under different circumstances.

The life of trust to which preachers are called does not justify the utter neglect of their temporal interests, so far as these can be subserved without damage to their spiritual vocation. Large sacrifices ordinarily are inevitable, and an abiding confidence in God must take the place of anxious thought. The widowhood, orphanage and old age of the future are in his hands. The possibilities of poverty and suffering are to be accepted with a calm reliance upon the divine care which is illustrated in the fall of the sparrow. It is in the order of the divine economy that the gospel should be preached at the expense of pain, humiliation and want on the part, it may be, of wives and children, as well as of the preachers themselves. They give themselves, their families and their all to Christ, with whatever of necessary sacrifice may be involved in the solemn transaction. So long as they are faithful they have the right to trust God for temporal things, and a peculiar and special warrant to commit the whole matter to the disposal of him who has said: "And lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

No conceivable loss in earthly goods, no ordinary amount of sufferings, whether in the present or the future, should cause the embassador of Christ to swerve from the path of duty. He must accept his calling, and bravely meet such trials as may legitimately attach to it. God will care for him and his, and very much as he has cared and provided for others under like circumstances. But this course of thought does not release from the employment of all available means to secure the coming years against embarrassment and destitution. Economy and frugality and judicious investments are perfectly consistent with trust, and have a substantial value in the dispensations of Providence. The church should make competent provisions for her disabled ministers and for their families, or she should put it in their power to insure their lives and to guard against the day of want. This, however, is rarely done, and it becomes the duty of every one to use all consistent means to compass these important ends, not by compromising or abandoning his ministry, but by a provident course while continuing in it.

The means of accumulating are usually limited, but the example of some of our most devoted and honored itinerants proves that something can be saved. In many instances careful management and rigid economy, if begun at the start of the young preacher's career, would secure an investment for family and old age equal to a very respectable support. In some cases it may be quite impracticable, but in others the failure is owing rather to improvidence than to any absolute impossibility. There are a good many instances in which small amounts could be laid aside from year to year, and which in the end would place the itinerant's family above absolute dependence and want. To reach this result much self-denial might be required in his earlier and effective years, but better so than to be stinted in every comfort when the once popular and perhaps petted pastor sinks into the retirement and forgetfulness of feebleness and age. It is only when "the evil days" draw nigh that the preacher realizes the fact and consequences of his improvidence. He has not been well paid, he has not been really wasteful, he has scarcely lived in decency and comfort; and yet under the pressure of a harder condition he can see how something might have been saved to alleviate it.

It is a false view of the subject which casts suspicion upon the efforts of ministers to secure the temporal welfare of themselves and families. It is their bounden duty to give earnest attention to it, and to assert the principle as entirely legitimate to their sacred work as preachers of the gospel. It is a perverted sentiment in the church which denies them the means of providing for their temporal comfort, and it is reckless presumption in them to make no endeavor toward so important an end. Neither preacher nor congregation should be satisfied with a state of things in which the ministry is hopelessly precluded from all provisions for the future. Where better things are possible, "a bare support" is a sin and a gross injustice. The preacher should save all that the most stringent economy will allow, both for the purpose of giving and to provide for the future. When this is done he has reached the measure of obligation, and can leave all to God. We do not see why, within the limits of this qualification, he does not come within the range of Paul's declaration when he affirms: "But if any provide not for his own, and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel." It is not uncommon for ministers, with dependent families, to spend in the ministry the patrimony which should have been sacredly guarded. Instead of making provision "for those of their own house" they squander what they have, and reduce them to beggary. The best of motives can hardly redeem such transactions from the charge of guilt. Improvidence is doubtless better than covetousness, and even better than riches in the Christian ministry; but a prudent and judicious forecast, as far removed from avarice as it is from recklessness, indicates what is both expedient and right.

In these observations we do not mean to reflect unfavorably upon those many faithful men whose scanty receipts and large expenses have hindered them from saving anything. The fact speaks well for their zeal and devotion, and the blame rests not upon them. We cannot say that they erred in thus sacrificing themselves and their families. They have done the best they could, and great is their reward in heaven. We only insist that preachers should not be negligent nor indifferent about their temporal affairs; and that the aim and effort to provide for their own is not only allowable, but an imperative obligation. It is to a minister's credit, and not to his disparagement, that while faithful to his ordination vows, the fruits of a thrifty and economical management appear in his temporal concerns. We have known instances in which preachers with considerable families, and receiving small salaries, have given a tenth to benevolent purposes, and have laid up something year by year. Such thrift is not against but highly favorable to their character, and should be so regarded by those whom they serve. The subject, indeed, has an important bearing in reference to public sentiment in the church. If it is the duty of preachers to make what provision they can, it is the duty of the church to enable them to meet the obligation. No preacher is fairly supported who is not furnished with means to insure his life, or to save something annually against the time of need. We repeat that a bare support, which leaves nothing for this object, is a wrong of the gravest character, where the congregation or work is able to do more. The greatest burden upon the preacher's mind is upon this point, and anxiety is accompanied with doubt as to the right—whether it is not temerity and presumption in him to place himself where an unlifted cloud ever hangs over his earthly future. Relieve him of this load, and the effects will be seen in the greater freedom and power of his spiritual ministrations.

MISSIONARY DEBT.

The following amounts have been received since our last acknowledgment, viz: J. V. Pointer, $25; J. W. Medlock, $25; T. J. Upton, $12.50: R. T. Parish, $25; J. D. Adams, $25; N. A. Cravens, $12.50; Joel T. Daves, $50.

Robt. J. Harp.

Summit District Conference.

The conference for Summit district, Mississippi Conference, will meet at Magnolia, Mississippi, on the twenty-eighth of July, to continue over Sunday. Ministers and people are cordially invited. A full attendance of members and delegates is earnestly requested.

J. Nicholson, P. E.

We have received a beautifully printed programme of the anniversary celebration of the Websterian Society of East Alabama College, which takes place this day, May 4. Thanks to the young gentlemen for their complimentary attention.

New Advertisements.—We are compelled, for want of time, to omit full and satisfactory notices of the advertisements inserted this week. Will attend to it in next issue. Don't fail to look over this department.

Rev. Dr. Tyng and Extempore Preaching.—Dr. Tyng's special talent is extempore speaking, in which he has scarcely a superior in the American pulpit. He cultivated the habit with great care and perseverance, and succeeded in spite of many discouragements. During the second year of his settlement at Georgetown he was preaching extempore with several distinguished members of Congress present, when he became so confused as to break down completely. This was a hard experience for a young man, and on his way home the oppressive silence was broken by his wife saying: "Now, husband, is it not clear that you should give up preaching without notes?" Those words roused Dr. Tyng's whole nature. "Give up," he exclaimed; "no, never, with God's help!" and he persevered and succeeded. Yet it is said that, fluent and self-reliant as he is, he never goes into the pulpit without painful apprehensions of failure. He has, however, a genius for unpremeditated speech, and his command of language, power of denunciation and satire, force of gesture and climaxes of eloquence, are remarkable. He believes that the pulpit is the place for inspiration, and in the whole course of his life-time he has written but few sermons.—New York Mail.

General Lee's Deep Interest in Proper Books for Southern Schools. In a letter written some time before his death, to the publishers of the "University Series" of school books, General Lee said;

"I am glad you are engaged in furnishing suitable text books for our schools and colleges. I have rejoiced at the commendations bestowed by competent judges on the books that have been published. * * * They should be acceptable to parents and pupils."

We are glad to learn of the great success of this admirable series of books. All teachers and school officers should examine them.

New Orleans District Conference.

This body met on Wednesday, the twenty-sixth of April, and adjourned on Friday night, the twenty-eighth. All the pastoral charges, with the exception of Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, were represented, and reports received from them. Over two hundred members have been received by all the charges since the beginning of the year. The German churches are quite prosperous. The debt on the Mereau Street parsonage has been paid, and the remaining incumbrance on the Baton Rouge church has been recently discharged. The Sunday school interest was represented as in a healthy and prosperous condition.

Lay delegates to the Annual Conference: John H. Keller, W. H. Foster, J. L. Dunnica and Rev. R. L. Walker. Reserve delegates: Dr. J. J. Lyons, J. O. Fuqua, Richard Jones and J. C. Huey.

Felicity Street church was appointed as the place for the meeting of the next District Conference. The following Committee on Education was continued for another year, and to be governed by the instructions given at the time it was constituted: John G. Parham, John L. Dunnica, Dr. J. J. Lyons, John C. Miller, W. H. Foster, W. R. Stuart and Richard Jones.

A Union Camp Meeting.

The following resolutions were adopted on this subject:

Resolved, 1. That this district unite with the Mobile district in the purchase and establishment of a permanent camp ground on the line of the New Orleans and Mobile railroad, at some suitable place between the two cities, to be known as the Union Camp Ground of the New Orleans and Mobile districts of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

2. That a committee of five be appointed, who, in conjunction with a committee appointed by the church in Mobile, shall be authorized to select and purchase grounds suitable for a permanent camp ground.

3. That said committee shall be authorized to arrange with the committee from Mobile the proportion of cost and expense which shall be borne by each district respectively.

4. That this committee shall be authorized, after purchasing the property for a camp ground, in conjunction with the committee from Mobile, to take all necessary steps and employ all necessary means, and expend all necessary money to prepare the ground for holding a camp meeting of the two districts.

5. The said committee shall be authorized to obtain a regular incorporation of a Board of Trustees of the Union Camp Ground of the New Orleans and Mobile districts; and they shall be authorized, in conjunction with the Mobile committee, to fix the time of holding the first camp meeting, and to make and adopt all necessary rules and regulations for the government of the camp meeting first to be held.

6 That a committee of ways and means shall be appointed by the committee of five heretofore mentioned, consisting of one person from each pastoral charge of the district, whose duty it shall be to raise the funds necessary to carry out the objects of the foregoing resolutions, which they shall pay to the treasurer of the Camp Meeting Committee.

7. That a public meeting of all parties throughout the district, interested in the camp meeting question, and desirous to take part in or be present at the camp meeting to be held, be convened at Carondelet Street church, at such time as the committee may appoint, for the purpose of providing for and making arrangements for holding a camp meeting the present season.

8. That the presiding elders and preachers of the two districts be requested to make all proper arrangements for superintending and conducting the exercises of the camp meeting.

The committee of five was filled by the appointment of W. H. Foster, chairman, John H. Keller, Drury A. Harris, C. J. Shepherd and Dr. J. J. Lyons.

Death of Rev. Stephen A. Blakey. The announcement of the death of Rev. Stephen A. Blakey, of the West St. Louis Conference, reaches us through the memorial resolutions of the Masonic lodge of which he was a member, printed in our obituary column. This is the first and only information we have had of this mournful event. Bro. Blakey was an excellent Christian man and a useful itinerant preacher. His appointment at the last Conference was to the Osceola circuit. We shall expect to be furnished with a biographical sketch.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A Copious and Critical English-Latin Dictionary. By William Smith, LL. D., and Theophilus D. Hall, M. A. To which is added a dictionary of proper names. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers, 1871.

This volume is a large octavo, bound substantially in leather, and contains over seven hundred and fifty three-column pages of closely printed matter. It is purely an English-Latin dictionary, and contains no English definitions of the Latin. It is far more complete than the same department which usually accompanies our Latin-English lexicons, being more than twice as voluminous as that which is published with Freund's Leverett, and every way more accurate and satisfactory. The author states that fifteen years of toil have been spent upon the work by himself and competent assistants. Great pains have been taken to classify the different senses of the English words, and the work is, to a large extent, a dictionary of the English language proper, as well as an English-Latin dictionary. The immense labor and learning bestowed upon it are evident enough, and the results achieved are of the greatest value to students and scholars. It far excels anything of the kind hitherto in use, and will be prized by all who have occasion to consult a work of this character. For sale by George Ellis & Brother, New Orleans.

Notes, Explanatory and Practical, on the Epistle to the Romans. By Albert Barnes. Tenth edition, revised and corrected. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers, 1871.

This volume, in size and binding is uniform with those we have recently noticed, by the same author on the Gospels and Acts. Mr. Barnes' exposition of the "things hard to be understood" in the Romans is of course Calvinistic throughout. The practical parts are handled with his usual simplicity and instructiveness. The doctrinal portions exhibit his theological views fairly and without disguise. For sale by George Ellis & Brother, New Orleans.

New Monthly Magazine. W. P. Harrison, D. D., editor. Nashville, Tennessee: Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. May, 1871.

This number has more outward comeliness than any of its predecessors. The leaves are cut and trimmed, and the cover is a decided improvement on the past. For frontispiece we have an excellent portrait of one of the handsomest men in the connection—Logan D. Dameron, Esq., the well known and popular business manager of the Southwestern Book and Publishing Company of St. Louis, and who has charge of the business department of the St. Louis Christian Advocate. The editor and contributors have provided an excellent table of contents, to wit: Nothing but a Woman; Astronomical Notes for May, 1871; God—from the Russian of Derzhavin; A Remarkable Circumstance; To Lucy; Biographical Sketch of Rev. Thomas Crowder; A Fragment; The Best Policy; Book Binding; Reproduction; To China and Back; The Citizen's Vision; Somebody's Wife; Wonders of the Sea; David Hume and his Mother; Celebrities that I have Seen; Navigation of the Mississippi Sixty Years Ago; Historical Sketches, No. 3—William of Orange; Soap Making in Europe; Modern Wedding Rites; Editor's Round Table.

From George Ellis & Brother, Camp street, we have received Diary of the Besieged Resident of Paris, a small volume bound in paper, and published by Harper & Brothers. The work is composed of letters written to the London Daily News. From Ellis & Brother we have also Fenton's Quest, also published by the Harpers.

The Methodist Quarterly Review for April contains the following table of contents: Edmond de Pressense; Spectrum Analysis; Wesley and Methodism; General Conference of 1844; The Modern Theology of Holland; Ezekiel's Vision; Topography of Ephesus. In the editorial department we have: Synopsis of the Quarterlies; Foreign Religious Intelligence; Quarterly Book Table.

Good Words for the Young.—The April part has more beautiful illustrations than any of our magazines for the young. The goblin literature occupies, as usual, too much space, but such articles as Night in the Tropics, The Weaver's Story, When I was Young, are instructive and entertaining. Edited by George MacDonald. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

We are indebted to Eyrich, Camp Canal street, for a copy of the Southern Magazine for May. The articles are able and fresh; and this number is one of the best. Published by Murdoch, Browne & Hill, Baltimore, at $4 a year.

The Little Corporal for May has a good number, containing many charming pictures and a large riety of original contributions in prose and in verse. John E. Miller, publisher, Chicago, Illinois. Terms, $1.50 a year.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY for May is an attractive number. The opening article, The Wonders of the Yellow Stone, is finely illustrated. Where all the articles are good it is difficult to designate those of greatest merit. There is the Moabite Stone, with a fac-simile of the remarkable inscription. The Aye-Aye is an excellent article on natural history. Our Labor System and the Chinese is favorable to the employment of the celestials.

No. 1402 OF LITTELL'S LIVING AGE, for April 15, 1871, contains: Ocean Currents; Seed Time and Harvest; Spain and her Revolution; King's Translation of Ovid's Metamorphoses; Tales of Old Japan, and other articles. Published weekly by Littell & Gay, Boston.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for May has an article on the Descent of Fire; others on Organization of Labor—its Aggressive Phases; Castilian Days; Mountaineering in the Sierra Nevada; Our Eyes, and How to Take Care of Them; Our Whispering Gallery, and Recent Literature.

THE YOUNG PILOT is an original monthly for young people, published by the Young Pilot Publishing Company, Chicago, Illinois, at $1 per annum. It is handsomely illustrated, and contains some readable articles.

PETERS' MUSICAL MONTHLY for May contains the usual large amount of fresh music. Several choice songs and hymns are published with the music. J. L. Peters, publisher, New York, at $3 per annum.

HEARTH AND HOME, published by Orange Judd & Co., New York, maintains its well merited reputation as a most valuable illustrated weekly. As a domestic journal for home and family reading it would be difficult to find its superior.

EVERY SATURDAY is a marvel in the way of illustrations. The number for April 22 is very fine indeed. This illustrated weekly is unequaled by any publication of the kind in America.

THE May number of our Sunday School Magazine has been received. It is a capital magazine, and we trust that it has already found its way into all our schools and families.

THE OLIVE CROP OF CALIFORNIA.—The Santa Barbara (California) Press of April 1 says: The olive crop of this county promises to be far the largest crop ever raised. The trees are loaded with blossoms and young fruit, and are growing very thriftily, while many hundred are coming into bearing from the cuttings recently set out. This may be said in favor of the olive and almond likewise, that it is a never-failing crop. In a very few years we shall begin to ship the products of these two trees—the olive and the almond—in quantities which will relieve the constant drain upon the currency of the community. Olives make a fine growth in this county. In no case of which we have learned are they irrigated. On the fine hillside, a southeastern slope, lying in plain view of town on the north, is the young olive orchard of Messrs. Fernald, Blanchard & Towle. Although so much exposed to the sun, none of the trees are irrigated. The plow does the work. Results are gratifying. They have trees four years from the cutting which are twenty-four inches in circumference. They have some five hundred, bearing almond trees; next year they will have two thousand five hundred. They have likewise two hundred English walnut and ten thousand vines of choice table grape varieties. All are doing well and are without irrigation. So we said last year, and the trees are doing even better than we stated.

THE institution of benefit societies and mutual insurance cannot be too much commended for the good they accomplish. Their advantages, however, usually are limited to this life, and do not look beyond it. We are glad, therefore, to find one society that extends its benefits into the next world, and on the most reasonable terms. It is called the Purgatorian Society of the Church of St. Nicholas of Myra, in Dublin, which for the small premium of one penny a week makes the following ample returns: Ten masses a week for the relief of the souls of deceased parents, relatives and friends in purgatory, for members themselves when they find themselves there, and for souls in general in that intermediate state; one mass weekly for the temporal and spiritual welfare of living members; three masses at the death of each member; the solemn office for the dead and high mass on the Monday after All Souls' day; the office for the dead every Monday evening. These terms are certainly anything rather than exorbitant, in view of the advantages promised, and a good turn to a departed friend could hardly be given at a cheaper rate.—Independent.

THE lower house of the English Parliament debated for five mortal hours the other day on a bill to allow persons not members of the Church of England to bury their dead with their own rites in the parish churchyards. As the case now stands, no form of burial service, except that of the Established Church, can be used in these "consecrated" grounds, and only a regular clergyman can officiate. No ceremony whatever is allowed in the case of an unbaptized person, whether infant or adult. Mr. Osborne Morgan, who introduced the burial bill, mentioned a case in which a clergyman, on finding that a coffin contained the bodies of two infants, one of which had been baptized and the other had not, caused the coffin to be opened, and the unbaptized child to be removed from it, before he would proceed with the service. Earl Percy, in objecting to the bill, averred that he had always understood consecrated ground to be ground set apart for the use of the Established Church. It was what was sometimes called "God's acre," and he should have thought that was the place where members of the Church of England might be separated from Nonconformists in their death, as they were in life. Certainly there seems to be force in the noble Earl's objection. The power to exclude living men from the fellowship of the church implies the power to exclude dead men from the repose of the churchyard. These antiquated fossils who stand haggling over an act of simple decency like this ought to have the exclusive privilege of lying in this consecrated ground—the sooner the better for church and state.—Independent.

THEODICY.

BY PROF. A. T. BLEDSOE, LL. D., EDITOR OF THE SOUTHERN REVIEW.

One of our most intelligent friends writes as follows:

"How comes it to pass that so little has been said of Bledsoe's Theodicy, both in the church and literary papers? Am I so far behind or ahead of the times that I am all to myself with Bledsoe's Theodicy? I never heard of it till a short time ago. It has been a puzzle to me, since I read a very small portion of the work, why so little is said about it in conversation, so little in print. Can it be because it so relentlessly undermines and explodes errors in metaphysics and theology? Surely every lover of truth and admirer of correct reasoning must be impressed with its immense value in progressive thought. Have you ever read it? Why did you not tell your fellow-laborers what a treasury of thought is in the work? What an upheaving of errors, clearing away rubbish and laying bare the foundation for explaining the order and relations of objects? It is the noblest, clearest and most consistent exposition of the relations in the physical and moral world that I have seen. None who think can read the work without benefit."

We have had Theodicy here for sale all the time, and agree with the above opinion. Price, $3.

ROBT. J. HARP, Agent,
112 Camp street.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending May 1, 1871.

A—W T Ashford, H T Applewhite $3. J D Adams, Alley & Cook $12.10, Adams, Blackmar & Lyon.

B—J G Bell, A J Briggs, J M Brown $12, E M Bounds, J Lane Borden $30, Horace Bishop, W Buchanan $23.28, H Baldridge, E G Banks $5, Henry P Bowen, Barnes & Wilkinson 2 lets, J Bancroft.

C—W L Clifton $3.50, Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger 2 lets, N A Cravens $12.50, A W Campbell $5.25, E H Cushing, Carson & Lewis $2.25, G W Chatfield, W J Carlton 2 lets.

D—R Day, J B Deaton, A Dubuclet, R A Davis, R B Downor 2 lets 10 cts, Wesley B Dennis $26.50, Joel T Daves $50.

E—C F Evans $3, Wm A Edwards $3.

F—T W Flowers 2 lets $16, Letitia C Fenn.

G—C B Galloway, T & S Gibbs, C LeG Goodrich, J D Giddings, Geo W Gift.

H—A L Harper $3, A C Harper, J D Hays 2 lets, M J Kent, J E Hawkins, W C Haislip $10, John Howard 75 cts, Bradley R Hard, Mrs C J Hallberg $50.

J—W C Jeffries $4.25, Benj Jones.

K—M Kreisle $5, J C Kittrell.

L—W B Lewis $11.85.

M—J W Medlock, L P Meader $9.80, J W Martin, Eugene Miller $10, T Mullett.

N—Evan Nicholson $5.75, J A Norsworthy 2 lets.

P—Mrs L Pipers, J A Pace 2 lets, R Parvin, Henry N Phillips, John Pinman $2, G R Parks 50 cts, G C Pastell $10, Joe W Prescott.

R—A Riser $12, J H Redding $7, M B Rankin, B L Rice, Reddington & Co, Rockwood & Co.

S—J W Sandell, G S Scofield 2 lets, A Smith, H L Smith 2 lets $14.70, C S Stewart $30, G S Sandells $12, W B Smith $8, W R D Stockton, J L Scales 2 lets, S P Stringer $7 55, W T Smithson 2 lets, Robert J Sampter $4.

T—A T Tidwell $2, Thos Tardrow & Co.

U—University Publishing Co.

W—J H Winborne $4. W L Weems, A R Winfield $11, Fred White $7, A B Winfield $1.25, J B Walker, Woodworth, Ainsworth & Co, Geo Wood & Co, S Wildblood.

Married.

At Brandon, Mississippi, on the twenty-seventh of April, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. G. W. Chatfield, Mr. WILLIAM HENRY, of Leake, Mississippi, and Miss ENDORA, eldest daughter of Gen. Robert Lowry.

At the residence of the bride's father, near Pittsburg, Upshur county, Texas, by the Rev. Richard Lane, on Wednesday, the nineteenth of April, A. D. 1871, Dr. CHARLES M. BLECKER and Miss MARY E. CLARK.

Obituaries.

Sister MARY ELIZA BARBER, daughter of James and Gatsy Morris, was born in Duplin county, North Carolina, November 25, 1818. She was married to J. P. Barber, February 14, 1837; was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in September following, at the Thomasville camp ground, in Georgia, and remained a consistent member of the same until her death, which occurred at her home in Rutledge, Alabama, January 23, 1871.

For the period of thirty-four years she was a most devoted wife and mother. Her piety was of a practical character. Her influence was emphatically felt for good. She was in full sympathy with every movement that was made for the promotion of the good cause, being very much attached to her church, with all its peculiarities. She always loved her pastor, and was more than willing to extend to him the hospitalities of her home. She was afflicted for some time, but bore it all with Christian meekness. Her death was a complete triumph. As the hour of her departure approached her weeping husband asked her if she was ready and willing to die. She replied: "Why, yes; let me arise and praise my God." She died perfectly happy. The last words that she was heard to utter were: "Heaven" and "glory."

She leaves a husband, two sons and many relatives and friends to mourn her loss. May they all follow her as she followed Christ.

W. W. GRAHAM.

Southern Christian Advocate please copy.

Died, on Thursday, March 23, 1871, at the residence of M. DuBose, at Lake Providence, after a prolonged and painful illness, IRENE POWELL, eldest daughter of the late Major James Powell, of this parish, and the beloved wife of Edmond F. Newman, Esq., aged twenty-four years.

Young, handsome and amiable, intellectual and cultivated, nature seemed to have blended in her person and character with harmonic exactitude all the higher virtues which constitute and adorn the perfect woman.

But "death loves a shining mark." Educated in the Sabbath school from her earliest childhood, religiously trained at home by precept and example, it is not surprising that when disease forewarned her of approaching dissolution she was found prepared and ready—that death had no terrors for her. Faith in her Saviour, whom she had learned and trusted from her infancy, had destroyed the sting of death, and calmly and quietly she informed her mother and husband and friends that she was going to die; begged them not to weep; assured them she was reconciled to God; was perfectly happy, and satisfied she was going to heaven. She then called every member of the family and the friends present to her bedside, affectionately embraced each one, and requested them to meet her in heaven; committed her two little children to her mother and her husband, with the charge to raise them for heaven, and then left a message for her physician of kindly appreciation of his faithful attentions during her illness. Some time afterward she observed: "All I have to do now is to be patient and wait." The last words this precious child of grace was heard to utter were, "I am safe;" and with this blessed assurance upon her lips, in the full exercise of a sound reason, she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

M. D.

PROVIDENCE, LA., March 28, 1871.

ELEANOR MASSINGALE died in Macon, Mississippi, on the night of the thirtieth of March, 1871, in the fifty-ninth year of her age.

She was the daughter of that good old man, Obed Lovelady, whose teachings and godly walk as a Methodist preacher will be kindly remembered as long as those live who knew him. Sister Massingale was born in Sevier county, Tennessee. While young her parents moved to Alabama, then a Territory. At a camp meeting near the Falls of Cahaba, Oakmulgee circuit, when about fourteen years old, she professed faith in the doctrines of Christ and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In the fall of the year 1829 she was married to Leroy Massingale, now a member of the North Mississippi Conference, but almost a whole life-time member of the good old Alabama Conference. To say that Bro. Massingale has lost his wife does not tell the half of his great affliction. In his moments of weakness and gloom she was his strength and help. When worn down with the cares and anxieties of the itinerant's life she never failed to be his support and cheer. But her Christian life was not confined to her own family—a large circle of friends, of every faith and order, knew her as a disciple of Christ, seeking ever to promote his cause and comfort all around her. She never murmured at any appointment given her husband, but stood ready to go where he authorities of the church she loved called him, and share with him his joy, or bear the heaviest of his burdens, almost leading the way with her words of encouragement and cheer; and she went not as an idler, but strong in faith and hope. It was cheering, in the holier days of Methodism, to meet this good sister in the class room, at the love-feast, at the prayer meeting, where she was accustomed to plead with great earnestness and faith, in the tented grove; in every sphere she was truly a bright light in the church of God.

When but a girl, in her father's absence, she would conduct the family religion, in reading, singing and praying to the Redeemer, and in her married life her family altar was not neglected. While her husband was away, feeding the flock of his Master, she was in the domestic circle, nursing and caring for the lambs around her. She lived long enough to see six of her grown-up children buried, leaving only one, a boy about fourteen years, behind her.

A short time before she left us her almost heart-broken husband asked the writer to talk with her, if she still knew me. She feebly but unmistakably lisped the name, and tried to speak of her confidence and joy. When I spoke of the sainted ones who had passed on before her, and told of the rejoicing over her entrance into heaven, we could read in her placid face the evidences of a life well spent. She is gone; but to die was gain. H. W. FOOTE.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED.—Occupants for several elegant Rooms, furnished or unfurnished. Apply at THIS OFFICE.
my1 1t 112 Camp street.

BATH ALUM SPRINGS, VA.

THIS favorite and healthy Summer Resort will be open JUNE 1. Buildings and grounds extensive. Access easy by Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, ten miles from Millboro Depot. Board, $15 per month—four weeks. Send for circulars. Post office at the Springs.
JOSEPH BAXTER, Proprietor,
my4 3t Bath Alum Springs, Va.

fe11 1y

FREE TO BOOK AGENTS.

WE WILL SEND a handsome Prospectus of our New Illustrated Family Bible, containing over 200 fine Scripture Illustrations, to any Book Agent free of charge. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, Pa., Atlanta, Ga., or St. Louis, Mo.
my4 1m

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL MUSIC.

THE PEARL.

The Latest, Best and Most Popular collection of Sabbath School Songs. No old or worn out tunes, but everything New, Bright and Attractive. Don't fail to send for a specimen copy. Price, bound in boards, 35 cents; $3.60 per dozen. Sold by all Booksellers, or a copy mailed to any address on receipt of 35 cents. Address

S. BRAINARD & SONS,
my4 4t Publishers, Cleveland, Ohio.

A Few More Agents Wanted for
THE LIGHT OF THE WORD.

A NEW RELIGIOUS WORK of unsurpassed interest and value. For terms address W. FLINT & CO., No. 26 S. Seventh st., Philadelphia; 5 Custom House Place, Chicago, and 176 West Fourth st., Cincinnati. my4 3m

AGENTS WANTED FOR
BELDEN THE WHITE CHIEF.
Twelve Years Among the Wild Indians of the Plains.

The most popular book out. SELLS AT SIGHT. But recently issued and the Seventeenth Thousand now in press. Send for circulars with liberal extracts, twenty sample engravings, and several interesting letters from those who have been associated with Belden in some of his wonderful frontier exploits, clearly proving that he "is no myth, but a real flesh-and-blood personage." The work is a record of an actual experience, and, as an exchange says, we get from it "a better and more animated knowledge of Indian life than from all the novels of Cooper or turgid works of Schoolcraft."
C. F. VENT, Publisher,
my4 1t Cincinnati, Ohio.

FREE TO BOOK AGENTS.

A POCKET PROSPECTUS of the best Illustrated Family Bible, published in both English and German, containing Bible History, Dictionary, Analysis, Harmony and History of Religions, sent free on application.
W. FLINT & CO.,
my4 3m 26 S. Seventh st., Phila., Pa.

J. H. MUSE AND
G. F. F. THOMPSON,
Attorneys and Counselors at Law,
NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,
fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Illustrated Christian Weekly.
A PAPER FOR THE FAMILY.

PURE AND EVANGELICAL. Undenominational, beautifully illustrated and printed, and very cheap.

PUBLISHED BY THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,
Weekly, at $2 per annum.
For specimen copy address
T. L. D. WALFORD, Agent,
my4 3t 911 Main st., Richmond, Va.

Dolbear Commercial College

A CARD.

All who wish a cash-paying education for themselves or sons can obtain it in the shortest possible time, and with the least possible expense, at
DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
Nos. 164 and 166 Canal St., New Orleans.

This College, founded in 1852, and chartered by the Legislature of Louisiana, has a full and able Faculty, and separate professors for each branch of study, so as to save the time and money of students, and fit them at once for business. They can take the Commercial Course, or the modern or ancient languages or mathematics, Book-keeping or Penmanship alone, or the whole course of the College. They have a LIFE SCHOLARSHIP in all the departments they enter and never pay but once. Persons from twelve to sixty years of age attend.

N. B.—Of all our numerous graduates for the past thirty-nine years, not one is now out of profitable employment, so far as known. Those of last year are now receiving from $1,000 to $3,000 per annum. We have ample arrangements for board, from $25 to $30 a month. When Clubs of three or more enter at the same time ten per cent. deduction is made.

There are no vacations. Students can begin at any time. Those who begin soon will be able to fill good situations in the summer, when Merchants make their changes. Liberal deduction for sons of clergymen and crippled soldiers. For catalogues address my1 1y RUFUS DOLBEAR, President.

AGENTS WANTED for the People's History of the United States. Agents WANTED for the Illustrated Edition of D'Aubigne's Great Work, HISTORY OF THE Great Reformation.
New edition, complete in one volume, at popular prices. Buy it, read and learn what INFALLIBILITY means. It should be in every Protestant family throughout the land. Send for sample circular, with Illustrations. Unusual commissions to Ministers and experienced Agents.
WM. FLINT & CO.,
my4 3m No. 26 S. Seventh st., Phila. Pa.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STAINDER.
ELKIN & CO.,
168 ..... CANAL STREET 168
Near Baronne, New Orleans,
IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.
—ALSO—
Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.,
—AND A—
Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.
fe4 1y

PRICES OF THE MASON & HAMLIN
CABINET ORGANS.

Having vastly increased their facilities for manufacture, the

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

are now enabled to offer their well known Organs, which are the

Acknowledged Standard of Excellence

among instruments of the class, at prices of inferior work. They print their lowest prices, which are, therefore, alike to all, invariable. The following are illustrations:

Four-Octave Organs	$50
The same, Double Reed	65
Five-Octave Organs, with Tremulant, Carved and Ornamented	100
The same, Double Reed, with Five Stops	125
Forty other styles, up to	1,000

All in solid Black Walnut. All the Organs made by this Company are thoroughly first-class in every respect. They will not make the so-called cheap Organs at any price. The comparative superiority of their instruments is now greater than ever before, as every competent judge who will carefully examine and compare must perceive.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES,

with Wood Cuts from Photographs of the different styles, full information and lowest prices; also Testimonial Circular will be sent free to any address.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO.,
Warerooms, 596 Broadway, New York.
For sale in New Orleans by
de3 6m L. GRUNEWALD.

ISN'T IT BEAUTIFUL?
WHITTEMORE'S
WASHSTAND CORNICE.
Patented September, 1870.

Designed to protect walls from the spattering of water while washing. It not only serves as a complete protection to the wall, but makes the washstand
A Beautiful Article of Furniture.

Attached to the Cornice are two arms swinging on a pivot, to which may be added a Lambrequin of either Muslin, Rep or Lace; or the arms can be swung out and used as a TOWEL RACK.

Elegant designs in Walnut and Ash, with mottled wood ornaments, hung with rich Lace Curtains.

Of Elaborate Patterns	$2 00
Same, without Curtains	2 05

Sent to any part of the country on receipt of price. Address all orders to LORD & TAYLOR, Sole Agents,
Cor. Broadway and Twentieth street,
ap27 1t New York.

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,
37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston,
are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canadas. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers. de1 1y

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE NEW DISCOVERY
In Chemical and Medical Science.

DR. E. F. GARVIN'S
Solution and Compound Elixir of TAR.

FIRST AND ONLY SOLUTION ever made in one mixture of ALL THE TWELVE volatile active principles of the well known curative agent,

PINE TREE TAR,

UNEQUALED in Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption.

CURES WITHOUT FAIL

A recent cold in three to six hours; and also by its VITALIZING, PURIFYING and STIMULATING effects upon the general system, is remarkably efficacious in all

DISEASES OF THE BLOOD,

including Scrofula and Eruptions of the skin, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, Heart Disease and General Debility.

ONE TRIAL CONVINCES!

ALSO A

VOLATILE SOLUTION of TAR

For INHALATION without application of HEAT. A remarkably VALUABLE discovery, as the whole apparatus can be carried in the vest pocket, ready at any time for the most effectual and positively curative use in All Diseases of the Nose, Throat and Lungs.

THE COMPOUND
TAR AND MANDRAKE PILL,

For use in connection with the ELIXIR TAR, is a combination of the TWO most valuable ALTERATIVE Medicines known in the Profession, and renders this Pill without exception the very best ever offered.

Send for Circular of POSITIVE CURES to your Druggist, or to

L. F. HYDE & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS,
110 East Twenty-Second St., New York.
ap27 3m

New Orleans National Bank.

THIS BANK OPENED FOR BUSINESS on THURSDAY, February 9, at the Banking House, No. 51 Camp street, under the management of the following

Board of Directors:

ALEX. WBELESS, President.
JAMES N. BEADLES, Vice President.
Jesse K. Bell.	Thomas Henderson.
Henry Block.	Jerome B. Vanhorn.
John L. Dunnica.	James B. Woods.
Samuel Delgado.	Albert Chapsky.
Edward C. Palmer.	George D. Fisher.

RICHARD JONES,
fe11 1f Cashier.

NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK

NEW ORLEANS, February 6, 1871.

In compliance with the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds," approved June 3 1861, and of the eighteenth section thereof, I publish herewith the certificate of authority issued to the New Orleans National Bank of New Orleans.

RICHARD JONES, Cashier.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Office of Controller of the Currency,
Washington, January 30, 1871.

WHEREAS, By satisfactory evidence presented to the undersigned, it has been made to appear that THE NEW ORLEANS NATIONAL BANK, in the city of New Orleans in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, has been duly organized under and according to the requirements of the act of Congress entitled "An act to provide a national currency secured by a pledge of United States bonds, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof," approved June 3, 1864, and has complied with all the provisions of said act required to be complied with before commencing the business of banking under said act.

Now, therefore, I, John J. Knox, Acting Controller of the Currency, do hereby certify that "The New Orleans National Bank, in the city of New Orleans, in the county of Orleans, and State of Louisiana, is authorized to commence the business of banking under the act aforesaid.

In testimony whereof, witness my hand and seal of office this thirtieth day of January, 1871. JOHN JAY KNOX, Acting Controller Currency.
No. 1773. fe11 1t

THE CHARM!
A NEW Sunday School Singing Book,
BY P. P. BLISS.
(ISSUED APRIL FIFTEENTH.)

THIS BOOK is not intended to supersede the "PRIZE," which is selling so rapidly that the publishers are now printing it in editions of twenty thousand each, but is issued in deference to the wishes of thousands who have been charmed by Mr. Bliss' contributions to that standard work, and who demand more from the same gifted pen.

We do not hesitate to say that for these friends a great surprise is in store. Much as they may expect, they will be astonished at the wonderful versatility and power of this man, as shown in the words and music of "THE CHARM." We have seen the proof sheets of his pieces, as they have come from the printer, and with every new burst of thrilling poetry or fascinating melody have wondered where they could all come from. There is but one solution—his heart burns with love for his work. Being Superintendent of one of the finest Sunday schools in the country, that of the First Congregational Church of Chicago; being the helper and friend of Messrs. Moody, Jacobs, Whittle Stearns and other leading Sunday school workers, he not only knows what is wanted but is inspired with their enthusiasm. Pp. 160

THE CHARM
WILL CERTAINLY BE
The Great Sunday School Singing Book OF THE SEASON.

As above announced, "THE CHARM" will be ready April 15. Price, in boards, thirty five cents, or $30 a hundred.
ap13 4tp ROOT & CADY, Chicago, Ill.

STEREOSCOPES,
VIEWS,
ALBUMS, CHROMOS,
FRAMES.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

Invite the attention of the trade to their extensive assortment of the above goods, of their own publication, manufacture and importation. Also,

PHOTO LANTERN SLIDES
AND GRAPHOSCOPES
NEW VIEWS OF YOSEMITE.

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & CO.,
591 Broadway, New York,
Opposite Metropolitan Hotel.
IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF Photographic Materials.
ap15 1m

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has continued quiet since our last issue, and from several branches of the wholesale trade we hear complaints of increasing dullness. With light receipts and a fair demand sugar and molasses have been firm at previous rates. Flour has ruled in favor of sellers, without any quotable variation. Corn has come forward more freely and shown increased animation, but at weaker prices. Pork and bacon have rallied, and are held at stiffer rates, but continue in only moderate request.

The weather has been generally clear and warm, but with a light shower early on Monday morning. Several of the crevasses previously reported have been closed, but that at Bonnet Carre has increased in width, and the efforts of the engineers have been unsuccessfully confined to preventing its further extension. The plantations in the vicinity are submerged. Cotton is evidently materially behind hand and must be late. The reports as to the extent of planting are conflicting, but all indicate a diminished acreage.

The river has risen 7 inches since our last, and is now 2 feet below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the twenty-eighth ultimo:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	8,662
Lake.....	13
Mobile.....	149
Texas.....	514
Total.....	9,338

On Saturday the supply, having been materially reduced, offered less scope to buyers, and with discouraging telegrams from Liverpool, factors were compelled to make some concessions, but, nevertheless, failed to impart any spirit to the demand, and the business did not exceed 4,150 bales, while the closing quotations showed a partial reduction of ⅛c. On Monday the movement presented still less animation, commencing under the depressing influence of a decline of 1-16d. at Liverpool, and, notwithstanding its subsequent recovery, closing dull at about previous rates, with the sales confined to 2,650 bales. On Tuesday the market opened with a fair inquiry but only a moderate supply, and factors asking full prices. Later in the day, however, additional samples having been opened, more scope was offered to buyers, who came forward with increased spirit, and for the rest of the day the demand was quite animated, resulting in sales of 5,300 bales. All clean white cottons commanded full prices. Other descriptions were rather easier, but without requiring any change in quotations except a reduction of ⅛c. in the inside figures for low middling.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 12,100 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,284,585 bales, against 1,032,621 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 972,321 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 840,709 bales to Great Britain, 247,423 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 242,606 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary.....	10½ to 11
Good ordinary.....	12½ to 13
Low middling.....	13½ to 13⅞
Middling.....	14½ to 14¾
Strict middling.....	.. to 15

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.		20,696
Arrived past three days...	9,338
Arrived previously.....1,347,312—		1,356,650
		1,377,346
Exported past three days.	18,110
Exported previously.....1,196,039
Burned.....	950—	1,215,099
Stock on hand and on shipboard..		162,247

SUGAR.—The supplies are light, and the demand is good, especially for the better descriptions of open kettle. Prices are ruling with an upward tendency. We quote inferior 6¼ to 7c., common 7¼ to 7¾c., low fair 8 to 8¼c., good fair 8 to 9c., fully fair 9½ to 9¾c., prime, not refilled, 9⅞c., prime, refilled, 10 to 10¼c., choice 10¾c., yellow clarified 11¾ to 11⅞c., white 12 to 12¾c.

MOLASSES.—The supplies are light and are sold readily, there being a good demand, especially for good fermenting and plantation reboiled. We quote 35 to 40c. for centrifugal, 25 to 30c. for common fermenting, 35 to 45c. for good to prime fermenting, 40 to 55c. for plantation reboiled, as in quality, 50 to 60c. for cistern bottoms, 30 to 60c. for city refinery reboiled, and 90c. to $1 for golden sirup.

PORK.—On Monday the market was quiet, with holders asking $19.25 to $19.50 per barrel, and no sales. On Tuesday mess was offering at $19, and a lot of 75 barrels sold at that price. It is retailing at $19.50 per barrel.

BACON has been in better demand, and prices have ruled firmer since our last review. Shoulders are now quoted at 7½ to 7¾c., clear rib sides 10 to 10¼c., clear sides 10⅝ to 10¾c., sugar-cured hams 14 to 15c. per pound, with small sales at these prices.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111 to 111¼.

The sales of warrants include $500 new Metropolitan Police on Saturday at 98¾, and $1,000 large State warrants at 52½; $500 do., of 1870, on Monday at 60, and $1,800 large at 52. Some of the dealers reported counter-buying rates for State warrants at 50 to 52 for large, and 60 to 62 for small, and selling at 51 to 53 for the former, and 62 to 64 for the latter. Metropolitan Police (new) are quoted at 98 to 99.

City Treasury notes are nominal.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head.....$40	to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
...s, per lb. gross.....	7 to 9c
...ep, first quality, per head..... $5	to 6
...ep, second quality, per head... 3	to 4
...p, third quality, per head.... 2	to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head..... 100	to 110
Milch cows, per head..... 50	to 100
Texas cows, with calves.....	to 80
Calves, per head 8	to 12
Yearlings, per head..... 9	to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking	40 00	50 00
Shovels	8 00	16 00
Spades	9 00	17 00
Axes	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky	22½	23
East India	20	21
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs	1 60	1 75
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot	5 00	.. ..
Crackers	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake	9 00	16 00
English fire	42 00	50 00
American fire	40 00	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford	.. ..	42½
Tallow	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine	.. ..	.. ..
Star	11½	16¾
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1	38	55
Sweet and spiced	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western	16 00	17 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cannel	10 00	.. ..
Anthracite	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl	50	.. ..
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency)	25	26
Java	26	28
Cordova	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'	30	33
Sheathing	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts	33	35
Yellow metal	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla	22	23
Tarred, American	.. ..	21
Russia	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl	3 25	3 37½
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton	12 00	.. ..
In sacks	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo	4¼	4½
Fustic, Tampico	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb	1 75	1 85
Madder	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	17	19
Feathers, ₩ lb	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod	1 40	.. ..
Herrings	60	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra	6 37½	6 62½
Superfine	5 75	6 00
Fine	5 50	.. ..
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes	12	13
Figs, drum	14	18
Dried apples	5½	6½
Currants, new	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer	3 10	3 15
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box	4 00	4 25
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats	62	65
Corn, shelled	70	75
Beans, ₩ bbl	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western	22 00	24 00
Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted	13½	14
Wet salted, city slaughter	8½	9¼
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig	35 00	.. ..
Country bar, ₩ lb	4	5
English	3½	4½
Swedes, assorted	7	8
Hoop	5½	8
Sheet	5	8½
Boiler	7½	8
Nail rods	10	12½
Cotton ties	5	5¼
Castings, American	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western	1 20	1 30
Shell lime	.. ..	.. ..
Rockland, etc	.. ..	.. ..
Cement	2 75	.. ..
Plaster Paris	2 15	.. ..
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough	16 00	.. ..
Scantling	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₩ M	4 00	4 25
Laths	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country	.. ..	.. ..
Black country	6	6½
Select water-rotted	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German	14	16
Wrought, English	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gal	60	65
Varnish, bright	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon	1 05	.. ..
Coal oil, in barrels	28	29
Coal oil, in cases	30	35
Linseed, raw	95	1 10
Sperm	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude	45	47½
Cotton seed, refined	52	70
Castor	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon	90	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated	25 00	28 00
C. S., undecorticated	.. ..	23 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime	18 00	21 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess	20 50	.. ..
Pork, prime mess	.. ..	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb	15	15½
Hams, canvassed	16	16¾
Shoulders	.. ..	.. ..
Green shoulders	8	8¼
Lard, prime, in tierces	13	13½
Butter, Northern	25	42
Butter, Western	12½	25
Cheese, American	14	17
Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 50	3 00
Onions	4 50	.. ..
Apples	.. ..	.. ..
Cabbages, ₩ crate	.. ..	.. ..
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana	7	8¼
India, (gold, in bond)	7¾	.. ..
Carolina	8¼	8¾
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white	.. ..	.. ..
Havana, yellow	10	11¼
Havana, brown	10	10¾

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DISTRICT.

Peachtree, at Altmount	May	6, 7
Suggsville, at Gosport		13, 14
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel		20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson		27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville	June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi		10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground		17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel	May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel		13, 14
Union Springs station		20, 21
Greenville station		27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's	June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground		10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove		17, 18

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

St. Francis street	May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard		13, 14
Milton		20, 21
Pensacola		27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river	June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel		10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Green circuit, at Holly Spring	May	6, 7
Eutaw		13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station		20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel		27, 28
Demopolis	June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland		10, 11

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Covington, at West Pearl	May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo		13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel		20, 21
Arcola, at Amite City	June	3, 4
Holmesville, at Topsaw		10, 11
Livingston, at James' chapel		17, 18
Bogue Chitto		24, 25

My address is Magnolia, Mississippi.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Canton station	May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston		13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel		20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union		27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond	June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty		10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill		17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Brandywine circuit, at Nebo	May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church		13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehobeth		20, 21
Brookhaven station		27, 28
Wesson, at Beauregard	June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove		8, 9
Crystal Springs station		15, 16
Jackson circuit		22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Rocky Springs, at Steele chapel	May	6, 7
North Warren, Milldale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland		13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga		20, 21
South Warren		27, 28
Clover Hill	June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek		10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Gainesville miss., at Pearlington	May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi		13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coalville		20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point		27, 28
Green circuit	June	3, 4
Enon circuit		10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HURST, P. E., Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater	May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon		19, 20
Meadville		26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Wynne	May	6, 7
Clark		13, 14
Paulding		20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion		27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night		31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1–4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside.

WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Alexandria station	May	20, 21
Evergreen and Big Cane		27, 28
Rapides circuit	June	3, 4
Spring Creek circuit		10, 11
Atlanta circuit		17, 18
Simsport circuit		24, 25
Harrisonburg and Centerville	July	1, 2
Columbia circuit		8, 9

F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

Morean street and Algiers:
Quart. Conf. at Morean st., 7½ P. M.	May	1
Preaching at Algiers	Apr.	23
Preaching at Morean street		30
German charges:
Quart. Conf. at Dryades st., 7½ P. M.	May	5
Preaching		7
Carondelet street		21
Felicity street		28
Baton Rouge	June	3, 4
Louisiana avenue		11
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, at Plaquemine		18
Cadiz street and Carrollton		25
Thibodaux	July	2
Quarterly Meeting at Houma		16

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower	May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel		13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship		20, 21
Mooringsport circuit		27, 28
Shreveport station	June	3, 4
Anacoco		10, 11
Springville circuit		18, 19

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Lake Charles	May	13, 14
Calcasieu Pass		18, 19
Grand Chenlere		20, 21
Opelousas	June	3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee		10, 11
Bellevue		17, 18
Franklin and Pattersonville		24, 25
New Iberia	July	1, 2

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

South Bossier, at Harmony	May	6, 7
North Bossier, at Red Land		13, 14
North Bossier col. ct., at Red Land		13, 14
Mount Lebanon, at Arcadia		20, 21
Mount Lebanon col. ct., at Arcadia		20, 21
Lake Bisteneau, at Brushwood		27, 28
Sparta	June	3, 4
Lousville		10, 11

S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Houston	May	13, 14
Chickasaw		20, 21
Line Creek		27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

VAZOO DISTRICT.

Vaiden circuit	May	6, 7
Bellfontaine circuit, at Lebanon		13, 14
Wiaona circuit, at Bethesda		20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory		27, 28
Lexington		29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE

AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

ap27 1y

ARTIFICIAL LEGS & ARMS.

DR. BLY'S PATENT ANATOMICAL LEGS have side motion at the ankle like the natural one, and are warranted for five years. A perfect fit guaranteed or no sale. Descriptive pamphlet sent free by mail. Address

DR. D. BLY,

ap27 1y No. 59 Camp st., New Orleans.

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

Office—204 St. Joseph St., New Orleans.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh11 1y

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to. no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Peydras,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel,

no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y.

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours, without drugs. Particulars, ten cts.

ap6 3m F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen. Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood,	John Williams,
L. F. Generes,	Wm. M. Perkins,
Charles Baquie,	Julius Valrin,
E. H. Summers,	Richard Pritchard,
Thomas H. Hunt,	Michael Musson,
John Chaffe,	Joseph Hoy,
William S. Pike,	James T. Pace,
Henry V. Ogden.

fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND,

fe4 6m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

☞ Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,

113 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 tf

MRS. J. C. McALLISTER,

BOARDING.

CORNER JULIA AND CARONDELET STS.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Transient boarders, $2 to $3 per day.

fe4 3m

THE PRACTICAL PLANTER.

A MONTHLY AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL, published by GEORGE W. GIFT, Memphis, Tennessee. TERMS—One copy, one year, $1.50; five copies, $6.25; ten copies, $10. MAKE UP CLUBS. ☞ Specimen copies free. ap27 1y

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR O'HARA'S 'POCKET GIANT CORN-SHELLER.' Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address

C. T. VAN SICKLEN,

mh30 3m 143 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR,

fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

A LADY OF MUCH EXPERIENCE IN teaching, and qualified to teach the usual English branches, desires a situation in a family or school. References exchanged. Address MISS E. M. P., ap27 3t Cocksville, Nexubee Co., Miss.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporancons writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in College of the City of New York. By J. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only a text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a short, concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna Randall. This book contains 450 pages, printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marbled edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S

Progressive Table Book.....30
Progressive Primary Arithmetic.....35
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic.....40
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic.....45
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic.....45
Progressive Practical Arithmetic.....90
Progressive Higher Arithmetic.....$1
New Elementary Algebra.....1
New University Algebra.....2
New Geometry and Trigonometry.....2
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate 1

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, etc., etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A series founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

☞ Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire to have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders will receive prompt and careful attention. Address

T. MORONEY,

New Orleans.

General Agent for Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas. fe23 1y

The Great Sewing Machine Mart

A GREAT REDUCTION IN THE

PRICE OF MACHINES and NEEDLES

The public has long desired the establishment of a MART where all kinds of SEWING MACHINE FIXINGS could be had—where they could see and compare the working of one Machine, with another, and select from the different makes the Machine best suited to the use to which they desire to apply it. Our stock is as follows:

H. P. HOWE'S Sewing Machine—the first invented.

WILLCOX & GIBBS' Noiseless Sewing Machine.

ELLIPTIC Sewing Machine, unadorned, but commended by the Wheeler & Wilson Co.

The ÆTNA Improved Shuttle Machine.

The $18 Common Sense Machine.

A large supply of Threads and Silks. Machine Needles of all kinds constantly on hand.

M. S. HEDRICK, Proprietor,

159 and 118 Canal St., New Orleans.

Branch Office, 156 Market street, Galveston, Texas. T. C. CLARK, Agent.

Cash Agents wanted. fe18 6m

New Orleans Christian Advocate

This paper has always been well known in this community as

The Very Best Advertising Medium

by which the business men of the city could bring their merchandise, trades, professions and the like, before country readers. This is easily understood when it is remembered that FOUR HUNDRED PREACHERS, scattered throughout the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana Methodist Conferences, are more or less active agents for the paper; and when it is also remembered that our paper circulates among a large class of people who seldom see any other New Orleans paper.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1871. NO. 17.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

New York, May 3.—It will re-ire a month to repair the great eak in the Erie canal. The ex-nse and loss by the detention of erchandise will be $1,000,000.

Washington, May 3.—In regard the Ku-Klux law nothing has en done. The question is whether initiatory belongs to the law or r Department.

Both departments seem loth to ch it, whereas departments gen-lly are jealous of jurisdiction.

St. Louis, May 3.—A movement rganizing among the prominent chants, bankers and capitalists orm an association in the inter-s of the cotton and sugar pro-er, with the design of controlling t portion of the trade. The vement contemplates the estab-ment of a bank in that direct rest, with $500,000 capital, a e cotton press, with warehouses sugar sheds on the levee, with angements for freight, which l give St. Louis the advantage competing points. $100,000 is ready for the inauguration of enterprise, and it is said no dif-lty will be experienced in speed raising $1,000,000 capital. This eet, which has been talked of e time, has now assumed a defi-shape, and will be undoubtedly ried out soon.

Washington, May 4.—A Proclamation.—The act of Congress en-d "An act to enforce the provi-s of the fourteenth amendment he constitution of the United es, and for other purposes," ap-ved April 20, A. D. 1871, being w of extraordinary public im-tance, I consider it my duty to this my proclamation, calling attention of the people of the ed States thereto, enjoining all good citizens, and espe-y upon all public officers, to be ns in the enforcement thereof, warning all persons to abstain committing any of the acts by prohibited.

is law of Congress applies to arts of the United States, and be enforced everywhere to the t of the powers vested in the utive; but inasmuch as the sity therefor is well known to been caused chiefly by per-t violations of the rights of ns of the United States by inations of lawless and dis-ted persons in certain localities, the theater of insurrection and ry conflict, I do particularly rt the people of those parts of country to suppress all such inations by their own volun-efforts through the agency of cal laws, and to maintain the of all citizens of the United s, and to secure to all such ns the equal protection of the lly sensible of the responsibility ed upon the executive by the Congress to which public at-n is now called, and reluctant ll into exercise any of the ex-dinary powers thereby con-l upon me, except in cases of rative necessity, I do neverthe-deem it my duty to make known I will not hesitate to exhaust owers thus vested in the ex-ve whenever and wherever it become necessary to do so for rpose of securing to all citi-of the United States the peace-joyment of the rights guaran-to them by the constitution and is my earnest wish that peace cheerful obedience to law may il throughout the land, and all traces of our late unhappy strife may be speedily removed. ends can be easily reached by escence in the results of the ct now written in our constitu-and by the due and proper en-ment of equal, just and impar-ws in every part of our country. failure of local communities nish such means for the at-ment of the results so earnestly ed, imposes upon the national nment the duty of putting all its energies for the protec-of its citizens of every race and and for the restoration of and order throughout the en-country.

testimony whereof, I have nto set my hand and caused eal of the United States to be d. Done at the city of Wash-n this third day of May, in the of our Lord one thousand hundred and seventy-one, and e independence of the United s the ninety-fifth.

U. S. Grant, President.

ton, Mass., May 4.—Nearly town in Massachusetts voted no on the question of licensing the sale of beer and ale.

Hartford, May 4.—The legislative committee find that a package of Democratic tickets, marked seventy-six, turned upside down, the seven on which being rounded was read ninety-six, whereby English loses twenty votes, which defeats his majority.

Fort Niagara, N. Y., May 5.—During the gale yesterday morning, as briefly reported, the lifeboat belonging to Fort Niagara, New York, got adrift overboard; the boat immediately fell into the trough of the sea and was capsized; five men succeeded in getting on the bottom of the boat, but were almost as soon washed off. The accident was witnessed by many people, but the sea was running so high it was impossible to launch a boat and give assistance.

About two hours afterward Lieutenant Ashbury, Sergeant —— and Lieutenant Morrison, United States army, with a crew of six men, started after it. Finding the sea running too high to save it, they attempted to make a landing on the Canada shore. When within one hundred yards the boat was struck by the sea, and Lieutenant Morrison, who was steering, was washed overboard.

The bodies of five men were picked up during the evening. The body of Lieutenant Morrison was not found till this morning.

New York, May 6.—John Orvis, of Boston, presided at the opening session of the Labor Convention today at the Cooper Institute, at which there was a very slim attendance. William West, a workingman of this city, submitted a series of resolutions calling for political organization of the workingmen classes, providing for municipal, State and national assemblies, and primary meetings in schools and court houses of the people. No vote was taken on the resolutions.

Horace Ploy, of the New England Reform Union, declared that the workingmen of New England would run candidates for president and vice president at the next election.

San Francisco, May 6.—The Medical Association, after two days' angry discussion, indefinitely postponed the female delegate question and adjourned sine die.

San Francisco, May 7.—Dr. Patie, a celebrated Chinese doctor, has sued a white man for a bill of $230, in the Justice's Court, where he will offer his own testimony, and if refused will apply to the United States courts for a warrant under the Ku-Klux bill.

Washington, May 8.—The treaty was signed to-day by the high commission at the State Department. The gentlemen, after this was done, exchanged congratulations on the result of their labors, expressing the belief that they had done the most they possibly could for the peace and honor of the two countries. Although the commissions have been cautious in talking to persons outside of their own circle, the following points will be found to be correct:

1. There are to be two boards of arbitration or commissioners. To the one will be referred the Alabama and to the other similar claims, which are recognized as national, and to be settled on the principle of responsibility for such depredations, where the government has exercised the utmost diligence and possible precaution to prevent privateers from being fitted out in its ports to prey upon the commerce of a power with whom it is at peace. The other board is to take cognizance of miscellaneous claims, British and American, confined principally to the period from the commencement to the close of our late civil war. Among these are the St. Albans claims, for damage to property in that town by the Canadians, but no claims for the Fenian invasion of Canada are to be admitted. As to the claims of British subjects for seizures of their cotton, Great Britain, through its commissioners, does not recognize them in cases where such subjects took up their domicile in the South, as thereby they subjected themselves to all the risks and contingencies of war. All legitimate claims for cotton will be considered. It has been reported that they will amount to thirteen or more millions, but this is considered to be a great exaggeration. They will probably not amount to $1,000,000. There will be no difficulty in ascertaining all the particulars, as the Treasury Department has full data of all the seizures of cotton, the names of the owners thereof, and all the particulars concerning the seizures. Among the claims which will also come before the board will be that of our government, growing out of the purchase of saltpeter in the East Indies during the war, and which was seized by the British authorities. This government is aware that a full list of British claims was recently published in that country, and it also has information that many of them have already been adjusted, while others will not come within the provisions of the treaty. There are other claims which will come before this second board. The San Juan question will be referred to the arbitration of a friendly sovereign—probably the Emperor of Brazil. From one of the documents, which will accompany the submission, it is believed that the decision cannot fail to be in favor of the United States. The treaty provides for the free navigation of the St. Lawrence by vessels of the United States, and for the use of the Canadian canals, upon the payment of regular tolls. There are also provisions regulating the privilege to fish in Canadian waters, but these have not been ascertained in sufficient accuracy to justify their statement. The London Times of to-day mistakes in saying that the treaty must be ratified by both houses of Parliament. Legislation will, however, be required only to carry some of its provisions into effect.

Washington, May 9.—The extra session of the Senate convenes tomorrow.

That confidence is felt in official circles of a speedy ratification of the treaty is shown by the fact that Mr. Schenck and the English members of the high commission have engaged passage on the steamer leaving New York on the twenty-fourth instant.

New Haven, Conn., May 9.—The legislative committee, which is examining the votes of the fourth ward, spent the day in taking affidavits of men who voted for Jewell. At nine o'clock this evening, the time of adjournment, the number of affidavits had reached five hundred and sixty, wanting only nineteen of the number claimed for Jewell in that ward. It is generally conceded that this practically settles the dispute, and the Legislature will find, on the report of the committee, that Jewell was legally elected.

Scranton, Pa., May 9.—A laborers' meeting, at which six hundred were present, were assailed by about an equal number, including one hundred women.

The riot did not result in any loss of life, although several persons were beaten and one shot in the head. Many were badly injured by stones, and others brutally beaten. Some will probably die. The military was ordered to the scene of the disturbance, but arrived too late to do any good.

Vicksburg, May 9.—Weather warm and clear. River stationary.

Memphis, May 9.—Heavy rain storm this afternoon. River stationary.

New York, May 9.—Cotton quiet; sales of 3,674 bales at 15¼c.; Southern flour quiet.

FOREIGN.

London, May 3.—A dispatch says the column in the Place Vendome and other memorials of monarchical regime will be destroyed on the eighth of May.

McMahon's resignation is contradicted.

Female suffrage was defeated in the House of Commons by sixty-nine majority.

Paris, May 3.—The Versaillists were repulsed in a heavy infantry fight before d'Issy. Minor fights have occurred at Neuilly, where the situation is unchanged.

The Commune is silent regarding the fight at Clamart.

Brussels, May 3.—The Belgian Catholics petition Thiers for intervention in favor of the temporal power of the Pope.

Madrid, May 3.—The financial scheme of the minister for the colonies is unanimously approved by the council.

Florence, May 3.—The Senate passed the papal guarantee bill by a vote of 105 to 20, but, being slightly amended, the bill returns to the deputies.

Vienna, May 3.—The government favors the abolition of the concordat with Rome, and is now considering the practical consequences of the infallibility dogma to the empire and people.

Versailles, May 5.—The Island of St. Germain, in the Seine, between Ballancourt and d'Issy, has been occupied by the Versaillists with batteries, to shell the gunboats in the Seine. A naval combat is expected.

London, May 5.—The Free Masons of Havre and Fecamp have agreed to make a joint entreaty to the Versailles government and the Commune.

Paris, May 5.—The Commune issued a decree abolishing professional and political oaths.

The official journal of the Commune says the position at Moulin, within the department of Sagent, was surprised by the treachery of some of the garrison, who sold the password to the Versaillists. The journal adds the place has been recaptured; also the railway station at Clamart has been recaptured.

The same journal admits serious losses of men and cannon; also admits that the Versaillists advanced to and constructed batteries in Neuilly.

Versailles, May 5.—The Communists' statement about their reoccupying Clamart is false.

Favre and Poniger Quertier have gone to Frankfort to hasten the signing of the treaty and arrange the difficulties in completion of peace.

The firing continues along the lines to-day, but there is no change in the situation of the belligerents.

London, May 5.—Earl Granville announced to-night, in the House of Lords, that the government had received official dispatches confirming the safety of Dr. Livingstone, giving assurances that his immediate wants had been provided for.

The House of Lords passed the bill for protection of life in Ireland.

In the House of Commons Viscount Enfield stated that the government was not aware that any correspondence passed between Paris and Berlin relative to the alleged demand of Napoleon for the cession of Mayence.

In reply to a question regarding the progress made by the joint high commission at Washington, Enfield said the convention has not yet been signed, but he was enabled to state that it had been agreed that the British claims should be heard by a special commissioner.

London, May 5.—Hopes of peace abandoned. Delegations of Free Masons have gone to the provinces to agitate in favor of the Commune.

The fire was heavy and constant yesterday.

The Prussians allow provisions to enter Paris; this occasions uneasiness at Versailles. The castle of d'Issy has been burned.

The insurgents have lost two thousand since Friday last in killed and prisoners.

Vienna, May 5.—Archduchess Maria Annnnziada, daughter of ex-King Ferdinand the Second, of Naples and Sicily, and wife of Archduke Charles, of Austria, died at her residence in this city yesterday.

Versailles, May 6.—At noon today a sharp engagement took place in the trenches in front of Forts Issy and Vanvres.

The Versailles troops carried by assault a small redan defended by the forces of the Communists, who were taken prisoners.

The work was, however, evacuated. The Versailles troops were in consequence exposed to the fire of Fort Vanvres.

Frankfort, May 6.—Bismarck and Favre had two meetings. Favre asked concessions, but Bismarck insisted upon the strict and immediate compliance with the preliminary treaty. Another consultation will occur on Monday.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, May 6. Bismarck, attended by Ponyer Aremein, has had two interviews with Favre and Power Quertier. The latter declared that the payment by Favre of the contributions in accordance with the preliminaries of peace was impossible, and asked for a concession, offering as an equivalent the prolongation of the commercial treaty and an advantageous arrangement with the Eastern railroad.

Favre asked for the possession of the forts of Charenton, Nogent, Prosney and Noissy by the Versailles forces, also the return of all captured arms and munitions, and the prompt return of all prisoners of war.

Prince Bismarck insists upon the strict and immediate compliance with the preliminaries of the peace convention, and suggested that a loan be obtained from the English, French and German banks, and stated further that protraction in the payment of the indemnity will entail serious results upon the Versailles government.

At noon to-day Bismarck held a conference with Baron Rothschild. Bismarck remains till Monday night.

Versailles, May 8.—Thiers, in a proclamation to the people of Paris, says the Germans declare they will mercilessly resume war unless the insurrection is at once suppressed. The proclamation closes as follows: "Reunite and open the gates to us. The work of cannon will then cease and tranquillity and abundance take its place. All are marching to deliver you and will be among you in a few days. You can aid us."

London, May 8.—A dispatch from Lyons states that M. Gambetta was arrested in that city, on Saturday, by order of the Versailles government.

A rumor comes from Brussels that a formal treaty of peace has been signed at Frankfort. Bismarck is expected at Berlin to-morrow.

Berlin, May 8.—It is officially reported that Bismarck is going to Compeigne, the headquarters of the Prince of Saxony, to confer with Thiers.

Berlin, May 9.—The incorporation of Alsace and Lorraine is being considered in the Reichstag. An article conferring immediate citizenship upon the inhabitants had already been adopted.

Versailles, May 9.—Fort Issy has been captured and is now in possession of the Versaillists.

The Algerian insurrection is spreading.

Havana, May 9.—The insurgents laid a trap to capture or kill Valmaseda at Canto del Embarcadero, while he was returning from Manzanillo, accompanied by only a few staff officers. The insurgents attempted first to surprise a Spanish detachment of twenty-five men entrenched at the mouth of the Canto. The lieutenant in command saw the insurgents coming, and divined their purpose. He waited until they came close to his position, when he fired a few volleys into them, killing over fifty. The remainder retreated.

The insurgents, being defeated in their attempt to take the post, abandoned their plan against General Valmaseda, who came later in a little steamer.

Valmaseda promoted the lieutenant to a captaincy for his conduct.

CHURCH NEWS.

Copenhagen, La., May 3, 1871.

Mr. Editor: Our first quarterly meeting for the Columbia circuit, Alexandria district, Louisiana Conference, convened on the fifteenth of April, 1871. The presiding elder was not present; but the blessed Saviour was with us in convicting and converting power. Bro. C. R. Godfrey assisted both in preaching with power and in altar exercises. My father, Rev. J. S. Davis, was also with us when school duties and health would permit. The meeting was protracted fourteen days. The result was eighteen conversions and seventeen accessions. On the evening of the fourth Sabbath the presence of the Lord was so powerful that five were carried from the church in an unconscious state. On the night of the fourteenth day of the meeting we closed the services at Little Star church. We transferred the next day to this place, where the blessed Lord continued to bless us with his presence. The meeting continued three days at this place. There were four conversions and six accessions. May Zion continue to prosper "until every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that the Lord Jesus is Christ."

Yours fraternally,

R. A. Davis, P. C.

Dodd & Mead are shortly to publish a novel by an eminent evangelical Episcopalian, entitled "The American Cardinal," which is to deal with the conflict between popery and Protestantism in a way likely to make some stir.—Boston Congregationalist.

A new volume by Rev. John Hall, D. D., of the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church, entitled "Plain Papers for Home Reading," will be issued by Dodd & Mead in the coming month. It will be warmly welcomed by thousands who have been profited by the preaching and the writings of the distinguished author.—New York Observer.

Black Caterpillars have appeared in immense numbers in the bottoms around Memphis.

The Queen of Denmark spends annually only $100,000 for new dresses.

LETTER FROM TERREBONNE.

Houma, Terrebonne Parish, La., May 3, 1871.

Mr. Editor: Believing that a letter from the country occasionally, giving the prospects and condition of the crops, etc., would not be uninteresting to your numerous readers, I have concluded to report the condition and prospects of our parish. Last night we had a very copious and refreshing rain—the first in about four weeks. Crops were beginning to suffer for want of rain, especially the late plant cane and old stubble; also the recently planted corn. This rain has put the planters in fine spirits, and there is every prospect of a good crop. The plant cane hardly ever looked better at this season of the year than now. The first year's stubble is looking remarkably well. The older stubble, within a few days, has improved beyond all expectations. Several of our planters will commence laying by their best plant cane this week. The corn crop is large and unusually promising at this time.

Should the season continue favorable, we have every reason to expect large crops, and an abundant yield of sugar and all other produce raised here. Our planters here have profited by the experience of last year. They are economizing in everything and will realize larger profits for themselves, and will actually get more money that they can call their own than they did when they made those large crops at such heavy expense. Financially our prospects are brightening for the future; but money was never harder to get than at present, and it will probably remain so during this year.

A. S. H.

Centenary College of Louisiana.

A meeting of the alumni, former students and friends of Centenary College, situated at Jackson, Louisiana, met last night at Parlor R, St. Charles hotel, for the purpose of devising means and taking steps to assist in the reopening of the college.

On motion, Judge William L. Sharkey, of Mississippi, was called to the chair, and Anthony Sambola appointed secretary.

Rev. B. F. White, agent of the college, now in this city in the interest of this institution, after alluding to the wants of the college, reported that it was contemplated to open the college in October next; that the buildings, which had been considerably damaged during the war by both armies, were now being repaired; that the board of trustees had employed builders to do the entire work at a cost of $19,000. He stated that during the last year Bishop Keener had secured subscriptions to the amount of about $10,000; that since his agency began he had secured the passage of an act to relieve the college from all liabilities to the State, and had raised subscriptions to the amount of $1,600.

We called attention to the fact that during a period of twenty-six years over $200,000 had been expended on the college and its appliances, and that the city of New Orleans had only had the privilege of contributing about $1,000; that the college sent forth already one hundred and five graduates, who were prominent in this State.

It was then resolved that a committee be appointed to prepare an address or circular to the alumni and former students of the college.

The chair appointed the following gentlemen on the committee: Messrs. T. W. C. Ellis, H. H. Walsh, J. G. Parham, William Nugent and A. Sambola.

The subject of presenting a claim to the government for the damages done to the buildings, library, apparatus, etc., by the United States forces during the war, was discussed, but no action taken.

On motion, the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman of the committee.

A secret political society, mostly composed of workingmen, has been discovered in New York. It has been in existence only two months, and has a membership in that city of nearly fifty thousand. It has branches in all the large cities, known as "Raft."

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1871.

MY JOY IS NOT IN ME.

BY FANNY M. BARTON.

A rosebud, in June weather,
Opened its fragrant heart;
And softly sighed and wondered
As its pink leaves fell apart;
Then looking to the sun,
It said, this lovely one:
"My life is not in me—
It cometh down from thee."

A violet on the hill
Awoke in sweet surprise,
Won into happy life
By tender April skies;
And thrilled with love, it said,
Bowing its gentle head:
"My joy is not in me—
It comes, O sun, from thee."

Thus like the violet,
And like the rose, my heart—
Beneath the Sun divine,
Its petals fall apart.
Warmed by the streaming rays
To life and love, it says:
"My joy is not in me—
It comes, O God, from thee."

Memoir of Rev. John Ira Ellis Byrd, Late of the Mississippi Conference.

When I saw the death of this venerable minister of "the gospel of the grace of God" announced in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, I impulsively looked heavenward and exclaimed, "My father, my father, the chariot of Israel, and the horsemen thereof!" for I felt that my Elijah had gone up into heaven. I loved Bro. Byrd as I could love no other man, for he it was who, early in 1824, first taught "my hands to war and my fingers to fight" in the great battle-field of the itinerancy. From that day to this no shadow of alienation ever passed between us. We loved as David and Jonathan. He requested me, long years ago, and finally committed the request to writing, that if I outlived him I must write his memoir for the printed minutes. This will, of course, have to receive the approval of the Committee on Memoirs at the next session of the North Mississippi Conference; but I propose to furnish them with authentic materials from which they may write a memoir of suitable length to be published in the printed minutes.

Rev. John Ira Ellis Byrd was born on Lynch's Creek, in Sumpter district, South Carolina, May 15, 1791, and died at the residence of his son, in Black Hawk, Carroll county, Mississippi, April 6, 1871, lacking only one month and nine days of being eighty years old. His father's name was Redden Byrd, and his mother's maiden name was Ann Huggins. His parents were members of the Methodist Episcopal Church before he was born, and hence they conferred on him the name of Ira Ellis, one of the most noted Methodist ministers of their day, whose name will go down to posterity with the history of the church. His father died when Ira was about ten years old, and left a request with his mother to place him, at a suitable age, under the guardianship of some good man who would agree to learn him some safe and profitable trade. She accordingly put him in charge of Paul Severance, his uncle by marriage, who learned him the shoemaker's trade. In his boyhood he was often the subject of deep and lasting religious impressions, but was not converted until July 7, 1810, when about nineteen years old. Soon after his accession to the household of faith he began to take an active part in all the social meetings of the church, and such was his fervency, zeal and usefulness that the impression soon became general among his classmates that he was designated by the Holy Ghost for the ministry. At the next session of the South Carolina Conference he was admitted on trial, and early in 1811 he had commenced that laborious and successful career as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which only terminated with his life at the end of sixty years. And now, before we proceed any further with this memoir, let us look somewhat into the early Christian experience and literary attainments of our dear departed brother. Bro. Byrd understood the doctrine of entire sanctification as it is explained by Wesley, Fletcher, Watson and other standard writers among the fathers of the church, and early in his ministerial life he sought and obtained the blessing of perfect love; and though after this he often felt deeply humiliated with a sense of his shortcomings, both in experience and practice, he never lost sight of the glorious vision of full salvation from all sin, and the all-pervading influence of love made perfect.

His literary attainments were very limited at the start, but as soon as he entered upon the work of the ministry he became a constant reader and close student, especially of the standard works of his own church. He not only read by lamp and pine-knot light, but was constantly in the habit of reading on horseback—a practice, though common in those days, of very doubtful utility. This close application to books under all circumstances brought on, when he was about twenty-nine years old, a chronic inflammation of his eyes, which terminated in a life-long dimness of vision, so that he never could read afterward. By repeated tests when I traveled with him, I ascertained that he could see about as well in daylight as most people can by moonlight. This partial but permanent loss of sight was to him the great affliction of his life. I have often seen him take up and open the Bible, and look in it with strong emotion at the fact that he could no longer read its heaven-inspired pages. But he was still a close student of all that pertained to his duty or success as a minister. He loved to converse with the intelligent; he often had the members of his family and others to read for him, and he was a good listener when any one was preaching. If he heard a word or an idea that he thought could be turned to good account he would immediately repeat it over and over in his mind until he memorized it. In traveling his circuits he was constantly in the habit, at all difficult points, of noticing the shape of the ground, the position of stumps, logs, trees, etc., that he might not be misled on his next round, and such was his recollection of his landmarks that he seldom missed his way. So far as we are able to judge, had it not been for the loss of his sight, which deprived him of the use of his books and pen, he would have taken rank with the highest order of talent in the church.

Bro. Byrd was married three times. On the twenty-first of January, 1816, he married Miss Margaret McRae, by which marriage he had seven children. His wife having died, he was again married in 1830, to Miss Atalino C. Terry, of Claiborne county, Mississippi. By his second marriage he had twelve children. Of these nineteen children, thirteen had proceded him to the home of the blest. After the death of his second wife he married Mrs. Rachel Marshall, a lady of suitable age and every way qualified to make him an agreeable companion in the evening of life. I have never known any man to persevere in the work of the ministry under more discouragements, from personal and domestic afflictions and pecuniary pressure, than Ira Byrd; and yet, under the influence of grace, he was nearly always resigned, cheerful and hopeful to the end. Of the sixty-one years he spent in the gospel ministry, the first two were spent in the South Carolina Conference, and fifty-nine in what has since been the Mississippi Conference. Of these numerous years he was twenty-nine on the effective roll, local four, supernumerary one, without an appointment at his own request two, and superannuated twenty-five. Until within the last few years his superannuation was not from any want of physical ability to preach the gospel, but was the result of long-continued domestic afflictions and the dimness of his vision, with chronic inflammation of his eyes. Otherwise he was a remarkably stout man. In person he was not tall, but square-built, heavy and unusually muscular. His head was large and well balanced, his nose aquiline, and the contour of his face indicated great energy and perseverance, but withal his countenance was the reflected image of universal benevolence. Bro. Byrd was truly an apostolic preacher. He was sound in doctrine; systematic in the arrangement of his sermons, his ideas presented themselves to the mind of the hearer like mountain scenery to the eye; his language was chaste and appropriate, his voice natural, but full and strong; and above all, his heart, filled with the love of God and the souls of men, and all alive to the vast interests of both time and eternity, made many of his sermons truly overwhelming. I have said we loved as David and Jonathan, and so we did; and two more congenial spirits never met on a camp ground than ours, as was often the case in the prime of our manhood. On those never-to-be-forgotten occasions we partook largely of the same Spirit, and labored side by side in the pulpit and altar, in the tent and adjacent grove, and nothing added more to our joy and triumph than to find ourselves in the highest state of religious excitement, produced by the cries of heart-broken penitents and the hosannas of new-born souls. About ten or twelve years ago we met at a Conference in Canton. I felt a desire to hear my old friend and patron tell somewhat of his present experience. After referring to his advanced age I inquired: "Bro. Byrd, what are your present prospects of getting safely home to heaven?" After a moment's pause he replied: "John, the further I go the brighter the road becomes, and the clearer my way appears. I confidently expect to reach my home beyond this vale of sorrow." Precious words of cheer were these from the lips of the dear old saint. For several years past it was evident that he was gracefully and hopefully descending to the tomb. He became afflicted with asthma and dropsy of the chest. Within the last year he suffered immensely at times, especially from paroxysms of asthma. On one occasion last year, as he lay gasping for breath, and himself and all around thought him dying, it flashed on his mind like a flood of glory that here his long pilgrimage would end—that the final hour had come, and he would soon realize the hopes of more than sixty years. The thought was overpowering. He felt that his triumph in death was complete. He began to praise God aloud, when the excitement of the moment and the exertion of loudly praising God for final victory dissolved the deadly stricture on his lungs, and he was soon on his feet again. For the last five months he was mostly confined to his room, and needed constant attention.

During this long and painful confinement he was often very happy, and had many seasons of holy joy and triumph. At his request Rev. K. A. Jones, the pastor of his church, with a few friends, kept up a weekly prayer meeting in his room, at which the venerable patriarch and his aged wife were often filled with ecstatic joy. In all this terrible conflict with dissolving nature Bro. Byrd was still a faithful minister of Jesus Christ; being instant, in season and out of season, with all who visited or waited about him, and this his last labor was evidently not in vain in the Lord. A few days before his death there was a dropsical deposit on the brain, which to some extent paralyzed his mental faculties, but whenever aroused he would exclaim: "Come, Lord Jesus, and come quickly!" Often during his long and painful illness he expressed a fear that he might become too anxious to depart and be with Christ, to be consistent with perfect patience and resignation to the will of God. But, notwithstanding these occasional fears, his patience seemed to have become perfect. It was a beautiful afternoon, when, in the presence of Rev. William P. Barton, his presiding elder, and another friend, he quietly breathed his last, and his spirit departed to be ever with the Lord. On the following day his funeral was preached to weeping hundreds, who mourned as for a father dead, by Bro. Barton, and his remains were deposited in the village cemetery to await the resurrection of the just.

I fear, Mr. Editor, that both yourself and your readers may think this memoir inconveniently long; but how could I make it shorter, and write a moiety of what ought to be said about such a holy and useful minister as Ira Byrd? Like Job's young friend, I am full of matter. The half has not been told. May I write a series of "Reminiscences of Rev. J. I. E. Byrd" for the ADVOCATE? I entertain the hope that I might make them both entertaining and profitable to a younger generation of preachers.

J. G. JONES.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., April 24, 1871.

Transfers and Preferred Appointments.

MR. EDITOR: I thank Cincinnatus for his article in the ADVOCATE of the twenty-seventh of April. It saves me a serious mistake. I had read with much interest the article of J. W.; had seen the Louisiana Conference "fast-day resolutions;" you, I believe, had lamented, editorially, the scarcity of laborers in the field occupied by the Louisiana Conference—in a word, I thought I heard the Macedonian cry coming from that quarter. Being greatly exercised thereby, I was about deciding to ask the Bishop to transfer me at the next session of my own Conference. But Cincinnatus reveals a state of things in the Louisiana Conference (unless he is mistaken) that I cannot encounter. I don't know whether I fill "preferred appointments" or not—for it is a new term in Methodist parlance. My appointments are generally good ones, where I have plenty to do, am loved by my flock, and decently supported. I am a little known to the appointing power, and, were I to transfer to the Louisiana Conference, may be I would get one of the "preferred appointments." What then? The Conference might vote me welcome unanimously; but, according to Cincinnatus, it would be a shallow, meaningless compliment! In their hearts their feelings toward me would be akin to those they have for carpet-baggers! The least that I could expect would be to encounter "feelings of opposition to transfers;" for, despite resolutions to the contrary, "like pent-up volcanic fires they burn, and the Conference trembles over a crater which threatens" it "with another such unfortunate eruption as" it has "experienced more than once before in its history." So the "feelings" are chronic, as well as violent.

May be I might cause some brother, "of unsurpassed ability as a preacher," to quit the Conference, for whose loss my slender abilities would be a poor compensation.

No! I will not transfer to that field. I am afraid of those "preferred appointments," whatever they are. The consequences of filling them are too terrible for the risk.

Seriously, Bro. Cincinnatus, it is just possible—is it not?—that the Bishops were not parties to any "negotiations" respecting the appointments in question. Possibly they had the fear of God before them when they filled those appointments from other Conferences, rather than from among the preachers "to the manor born or adopted." Charity to the Bishops, brother! Ought they, in such case, to sacrifice souls to "feelings" so unbecoming a body of Christian ministers as you would lead us to believe surge with volcanic force in your Conference? In the name of Christ, I protest against such "feelings," if they exist; if they do not, I protest against your article. Charity demands that such "feelings" should be rebuked plainly.

SIGMA.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

HERE is a recipe for making tattlers: Take a handful of the weed called Run-about, the same quantity of root called Nimble-tongue, a sprig of the herb Backbite (either before or after dog-days,) a tablespoonful of Don't-you-tell-it, six drachms of Malice, a few drops of Envy, which can be purchased at the shops of Miss Tabitha Tea-Table and Miss Nancy Night-walker. Stir them well together, and simmer them half an hour over the fire of Discontent, kindled with a little Jealousy; then strain it through the rag of Misconception, cork it up in the bottle of Malevolence, and hang it upon a skein of Street Yarn; shake it occasionally for a few days, and it will be fit for use. Let a few drops be taken before walking out, and the subject will be able to speak all manner of evil, and that continually.

GERMAN SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

MR. EDITOR: German Methodism in the South need no longer be considered an experiment; it is a fact. After having passed through various vicissitudes, after repeated decimation of its members, both lay and clerical, by causes too numerous and complicated here to mention, it is at last established upon a sure and permanent basis. From a puny infant, struggling for mere existence, it has grown to be a ruddy youth, giving promise of a strong, vigorous manhood.

One of the most pleasing features of German Methodism is its Sunday schools. They are emphatically the hope of the church, as regards its future increase and prosperity. Children, when trained under religious influences, are generally very ready to embrace religion; but if this is true of children in general, it is eminently true of German children. The German is of a very emotional character, and of course his children inherit his nature, in part, at least. Sunday school instruction, as carried on in our schools, addressing itself with its themes, full of beautiful tenderness and of ineffable grandeur, directly to the emotions, finds in the hearts of these children a soil fruitful beyond comparison. It requires all the eloquence and grace and address and power of persuasion that a preacher may possess to induce a German, coming from the old country, filled with prejudice and wrong notions concerning Methodists, and clinging firmly, yea, frantically, to the forms and ceremonies and creed of his church, as practiced and believed in by his father, grandfather and great-grandfather, to cast away that empty shell, and receive the pure gospel as preached in our church. And yet of such is German Methodism composed. The power of God, manifested in the preaching of the gospel, has cast down the walls of church prejudice, and has made its way into the hearts of many, who are now joining in our form of worship, and have savingly embraced Christ as their Redeemer. But how much more readily will the gospel conquer and triumph when presented in its beauty and simplicity to the minds of those who are not fortified by animosities and intrenched with prejudices, who are untrammeled with a system of soulless and meaningless ceremonies and creeds, but are like the budding rose, waiting to open upon the morning dew and the first rays of the rising sun! Yea, and it does conquer; and its conquests upon this field are glorious. I look around me, and my heart beats high with the pulsations of hope and joy as I contemplate this beautiful array of happy faces, many of whom reflect the beams of the Sun of Righteousness that has arisen in their hearts. And my memory goes back to Texas, my home, and I think of the number of happy Sunday scholars there—the fruit of years of labor and toil, but also the most glorious promise of a harvest of souls saved for the church—saved for Jesus.

The day will dawn when, from this youthful throng, there will go forth one and another, and numbers, who shall bear Immanuel's banners and proclaim the gospel of peace to their countrymen, scattered in vast numbers over this land of ours. Our Sunday schools are yielding, and will in future still more abundantly yield, the material for recruiting our ministerial ranks.

High hopes, then, attach to each one of the German Sunday schools of the Methodist Church South. Teachers and superintendents, you are working for eternal issues; weary not, nor be dismayed, but keep steadfastly on, and your reward will be great in heaven. Friends of German Methodism, I commend to you the cause of our Sunday schools, and would say to you: The future of German Methodism in this country is bright with the promise of great and glorious results—results that will redound to the glory of God, and promote his cause on earth.

J. A. G. R.

WHALEBONE bonnets are fashionable at Honolulu.

To the Preachers and Sunday Schools of the Mississippi Conference.

I regret to inform you that for the last two months or so my health has been such that I have not been able to travel and preach; though I still think my sickness is slight and incidental. This will give those who expected to see me the reason why they did not.

I requested the preachers to take collections for Sunday school purposes and remit to me. This request has not received the attention that was expected. I hope it will. My appointment as Sunday school agent implies reciprocal duties between the preachers and myself. The Conference expects us to co-operate, and each to do his duty. If I ask anything unreasonable, the Conference must judge between us.

I have been asked what this money is for. It is the same as in other Conferences—to be expended for Sunday school extension in the bounds of the Conference; all to be reported to and approved by the Conference. Several thousand dollars could be used to great profit and advantage if we had it. Not one-fifth of the children in our reach go to Sunday school. In thinly settled parts we have almost none. Secondly, these collections are to enable you the better to make your other collections.

I asked the preachers also to inform me of their union schools, their condition, character, etc., and also of places where new schools ought to be established. I cannot perform my duty unless you do yours. I suppose my notices in this paper reach you all. Surely you cannot expect to do your duty as pastors unless both you and your Sunday school folks take and read our official paper. Brethren, let us all go up to Conference, if we live so long, and there see what we have done in this behalf.

R. ANNEY, S. S. Agent.

WHAT THE DEVIL CANNOT DO.—Glasgow has a Wesleyan Visitor. A late issue discourses upon Methodism in that city. After narrating the circumstances which preceded the erection of the first chapel, the account says: "Mr. Atmore laid the foundation stone of the new building on the tenth of October, 1786, and opened the chapel on the twenty-seventh of May, 1787. The work progressed so favorably that in the course of a few months the addition of galleries became necessary. Ho at the same time met with considerable opposition and annoyance, some of the people employing what little wit they had in composing and singing songs in the streets at the expense of the 'English laddie,' as they called him. All were not so intolerant, as the following singular conversation between an old woman and her former pastor will show: Pastor: 'Hoo's Janet woman, and where hae ye been gaugin'? It's lang sin I saw ye at kirk.' Woman: 'I hae been to hear the Methodists, sir.' Pastor: 'Eh, woman! dinna ye ken that they are a set o' deceivers?' Woman: 'I dinna ken that; I got a lang time under your ministry and gat nae gude; but sin I hae been wi' the Methodists my heart has been warm wi' hearin' them.' Pastor: 'Eh, Janet woman! dinna ye ken that the deil can transform himself into an angel o' leet?' Woman: 'I ken that the deil can do muckle, but there's a'e thing he canna do—he canna shed abroad the love of God in ane's heart; and I ken I have here.' Pastor: 'Aweel, aweel, woman, an ye hae gat it, tak care that ye keep it.'"

INSTRUCTION OF CHINESE WOMEN.—I have had this morning the privilege of meeting with a class of Chinese women under the instruction of Mrs. Talmage, and of hearing them read and explain the third chapter of Mark. This, with some other portions of the New Testament, is printed in the Roman letters so as to represent the colloquial sounds of the Fokien dialect, and it is said that a girl of good intellect may learn in a few weeks to read understandingly. Some of the class of this morning had been under instruction two years, and others but a few weeks. The former answered accurately questions about what they had read. They have a class of thirty women in Amoy, who meet weekly for reading the Scriptures and exhibit much promise. Some of the class this morning were girls of ten or twelve years. Some mothers brought their infants with them. Others were old women of sixty or seventy, who seemed to understand what was read."—Missionary Magazine.

CONSCIENCE talks much less than it is talked about.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1871.

IN THE COUNTRY.

Here Nature speaks,
From buds and beaks.
The lesson wisely taught her;
Beyond the bars,
Like silver stars,
Are lilies on the water.

Through seas of grass
The mowers pass,
And bend to tasks of duty;
On mead and bush
The berries blush,
Red as the lips of beauty.

I love to sit
Where gay birds flit,
Or soar in song above me;
Where wild bees hum,
And wood flowers bloom,
And friends are near that love me.

Here hope will be
Green as the tree
Which nods upon the mountain;
And love will glow
Like streams that flow
In sunlight from the fountain.

In smoke and dust
Let others trust,
In cities with their money;
The happy dell
In which I dwell
O'erflows with milk and honey.

This clover nook,
This running brook,
This meadow white with daisies—
This rural scene
Of gold and green—
Inspire my lips with praises.

The Death of Fletcher of Madsley.

BY HEZEKIAH BUTTERWORTH.

Volumes have been written, narrating the triumphant death of persons eminent for piety, and Addison, in the Spectator, well remarks that few narratives affect us in so sensible a manner. A beautiful illustration of the triumphs of dying grace occurs in the life of Fletcher of Madeley.

Some time before his last illness he had a presentiment that the wheels of his life were hurrying, and that there were few removes between him and the tomb. Once, while praying for direction as to whether or not he should go to London, the answer seemed to be: "Not to London, but to thy grave."

In August, 1785, he was attacked by fever. Notwithstanding his indisposition, he declared that it was the will of the Lord that he should preach on the Sabbath, and assured his friends that God would strengthen him to perform the duties of the day. Accordingly, on the Sabbath, he left his sick room, and repaired to the church where he had so long and triumphantly labored. He opened the service. Suddenly his voice faltered and his countenance changed. The hue of death was on his cheek, and every eye was riveted upon him, expecting to see him expire. But his strong spirit overcame the faintness and languor, and rallied his faltering powers. The windows of the church were raised, and the dying vicar continued the service. His sermon was one of marvelous pathos and power, and as he waxed eloquent he appeared to the awe-struck audience more like a celestial messenger than a being of earth.

A sublime scene followed the discourse. The dying man approached the communion table, uttering these words: "I am going to throw myself under the wings of the cherubim, before the mercy seat." With his own hands he distributed the love-memorials of his dying Lord. Again and again he sunk exhausted on the sacramental table, amid the tears and groans of his spiritual children, whom he was so soon to leave forever. But he completed the service, and then was supported back to his chamber, never more to mingle in the assemblies of Christians on earth.

Life ebbed slowly. Day after day he seemed about to depart. At times his soul was filled with rapture, and he would break forth in jubilant exclamations of praise. "God is love!" he said on one occasion; "it fills my heart every moment. I want a gust of praise to go to the ends of the earth."

On the following Sabbath, at the close of the evening service, it was evident that his spirit, so long and marvelously detained by the loose fetter of mortality, was about to take its flight. Many of the poor who had come from a distance to church, and were lingering about the house, anxious to behold once more their beloved pastor, were allowed to pass by the chamber of death, and to gaze through the open door upon the serene and holy countenance of the expiring man. The scene was most affecting. Shortly after he breathed out his life so serenely and silently that none could tell the moment of his dismission.

So died Fletcher of Madeley, one of the brightest ornaments of the English Church, and concerning whom John Wesley remarked:

"Many exemplary men have I known, holy in heart and life, within fourscore years, but one equal to him I have not known; one so inwardly and outwardly devoted to God I have not found, nor do I expect to find on this side of eternity."

The celestial visions of Payson, the dying triumphs of Edwards and Brainard, the serene departure of the Wesleys, have their distinctive beauties; but few scenes will compare in sublimity to an exit like this. We love to recount the sayings of the dying, and none more than that of the sainted vicar of Madeley: "I am going to throw myself under the wings of the cherubim, before the mercy seat."—Advance.

RENAN'S LIFE OF JESUS.

The Rev. Dr. McCosh recently delivered a course of lectures in the Madison Square Presbyterian church, New York city, on the different phases of modern infidelity. In one of the lectures he is reported to have spoken as follows of the Life of Jesus, by Ernest Renan:

Passing to a review of Renan's Life of Jesus, and his contradiction of much of the historical and Christian truth contained in the Scripture, he proceeded to say that there were two ways in which an attack could be made on the life of Christ. The first was that it was a fable, or, if not, contained such a mixture of romance as to be impossible to eliminate the truth. But Jesus did not live in fabulous, but in historical times, when the effects of Grecian literature and Roman civilization would have dispelled all fabulous or exaggerated teachings. The writings of the evangelists bear undoubted evidence that the authors were eye-witnesses of the facts they record, and that they existed in less than sixty years after the death of Jesus. If these historical facts were denied with equal truth, we could refute the existence of Alexander and the assassination of Cæsar. Renan held that the four gospels are in substance supported by history, but he claimed to take so much and avoid the rest. He drew a superficial biography, which he called the fifth gospel, but he has only destroyed all historical facts and precedents, and he has given us a history utterly incongruous and incredible. He held that Matthew was an eye-witness of the life of Jesus, and his report of his discourses could be relied upon as correct. But he says they underwent a change from intercourse with the teachings of others; yet, if this theory were true, we would not have four gospels, but could count them by the thousands. Luke, Renan also admits, lived before the siege of Jerusalem, but he adopted traditions. He asserted that there was no opportunity for stirring up traditions, for there were those living inimical and friendly to Jesus, and who would make an expose of any erroneous statement he put forward. John was an illiterate fisherman and could not have written those discourses, which have never been surpassed, and which reveal the mind of divinity itself. Again, Renan admitted the intellectual capacity of Jesus, his fervor, tenderness, piety; but he denied he possessed any supernatural power. He maintains that Jesus was at first a moralist and civil reformer; secondly, he fancied himself the son of a prophet, with romance in his character; and thirdly, he becomes disappointed and embittered—uses artifice, and in a vague, undefinable confidence looks forward to some new spirit to help him. This was one of the most baseless historical theories ever put forward by perverted imagination. Jesus' sermon on the mount emanated from God. It conveyed a morality too pure, too profound and too good for earth, and his teachings and predictions clearly indicated his divine origin. The kingdom he was to establish, the Scriptures clearly showed, was not of this earth, for it was to be laid by the scattering of men. The third period referred to by Renan was so utterly false and repulsive that he almost shrunk from its discussion. If Jesus deserved the character accorded to him by Renan himself, he would not stoop to an artifice like that of raising Lazarus from the dead by a preconceived plot. But this was palpably untrue. He had commenced to work miracles three years before his death; of this there was undeniable testimony, and the theory adduced to controvert it was monstrous and incredible. In conclusion he pointed to the closing incidents in the life of Jesus to sustain his argument on the divinity, and remarked that his crucifixion was a fitting termination to a life devoted to the salvation of man, and the manifestation of the glory of God.

THE State geologist of Indiana, Prof. Cox, estimates the area of the coal measures of his State as approximating very closely to six thousand five hundred miles, being more than one-half the size of the entire coal area of Great Britain and Ireland, and underlying one-fifth of the entire State.

AN AMERICAN SHIP has reached Boston from Muscat, Arabia, with a cargo of ivory and aloes.

GRANDCHILDREN.

Gather together, you great and goodly company who are interested in the grandchild in your own house, and let us help each to a better understanding of the meaning and the richness of this relation. We shall not begin with the creation or the deluge, nor undertake to give a history of grandfathers and grandchildren since the day of Enoch; nor will we go into the philosophy of the parental love, that is the key to the whole matter. We know that we love our children, first of all, from a certain instinct, because they are ours; and we know that while with the lower animals this love ceases with the dependence of the young animal upon the parent for aliment, with the human being the love deepens as the relation of parent and child is ripened and strengthened by growing sympathy and mutual service. Now this very affection that we have for our own children does not rest in them alone, as they grow in years and knowledge, and as they grow older and rise into youth and maturity. We still yearn for a little child to love, and there is a void in the house where there is none. Good Providence has benignly sent this need of our nature by ordaining that when our children shall grow up their place shall be supplied, or rather truly filled, by children of theirs; and so the child is not set aside, but rather restored in the grandchild.

I do not exactly know how to analyze the kind of affection that is so ready to cling to a grandchild. We love that little fellow at once, without waiting for moralist or theologian to define the feeling or urge the duty. He is blood of our blood, and bone of our bone, and in the form that most expresses dependence and wins protection. He is the child of our child, and we love him for our sake, for his mother's or father's sake, as well as for his own sake. We see in him not only himself, but the whole world of affection with which he is related. In that boy or girl, in our daughter's arms, we see as in a mirror the face of our daughter when she was in her mother's arms, and that mother's face smiles again upon us with new grace, whether from the earthly home or from the heavenly mansion.

Then this child is nearer our heart from being an interpreter of the plan of God for our human life. He shows us how that God is ever educating us for himself, and calling us to live in fresh and undying affection by ever setting, like Jesus, a little child in the midst of us. If we have only our own children to love, the time will come when they will grow up and be full of new interests and cares that may come between them and our hearts. When these children of ours have children their affections are softened, and their hearts are quickened toward us, and ours toward them by this new attraction, that sends a child into the family, not to be the rival of any, but the friend of all.—Rev. Samuel Osgood.

A NEW VERSION of the raising of Lazarus comes from Germany, which we commend to the Golden Age. It is a good catechism for free religionists:

"Do you regard this chapter as narrating an actual fact?" "No, no; truly not." "What, then, is it?" "A parable, or myth, shadowing out great truths." "Very good. Now, what, in a word or two, is the thing shadowed out in this beautiful myth?" "The restoration of learning in the fourteenth century." "Good, again; but how do you suppose that a chapter written long before that event could have any reference to it?" "It is a fable of humanity, true for all times. It sets forth the inevitable law of reaction." "Is it true of this age?" "Yes; once again has the in-our-fathers'-times dead Lazarus come forth from the grave." "And what is figured under the name of Jesus?" "The spirit of philosophical inquiry, which energizes the dead public heart." "And of what are the grave-clothes emblematic?" "Of clinging-closely, but to-be-got-rid-of superstitions."

A DESERVED REBUKE.—It is related of a clergyman from northern Vermont, who years ago paid a visit to New York, and was invited to fill a city pulpit during the time of dog-day pastoral vacations, that he had never had the privilege of listening to a church organ, and was totally unacquainted with the fashion of hiring a few vocalists to do the singing for the congregation. Giving out his first hymn, the organist played a fancy prelude, and in the highest style of the art the choir rendered the four verses. Addressing the throne of grace in a fervent invocation, which stamped him as a man of intellect and power with his audience, he coolly reopened the hymn book, and, turning to a page, exclaimed: "The audience will now join with me in singing a good old Methodist hymn, and those persons running that bag of wind in the gallery will please not interrupt."

MINISTERIAL BLUES.

A young clergyman, while on a visit to his brother, also a clergyman, agreed to preach for him in the evening. Neither had been long in the ministry, and they had never heard each other preach. The pastor preached in the morning, and on returning from church his brother said to his wife: "Kate, I cannot preach this evening. While listening to my brother I felt that I had mistaken my calling. I ought never to preach anywhere. I cannot preach here to-night."

His wife tried to cheer and comfort him, but all through the afternoon he was much depressed; and, grieving over her husband's distress, she made known the cause to her sister. Rising above this despondency, however, in the evening he delivered a most excellent discourse—all the better, doubtless, for his sojourn in "the valley of humiliation" during the afternoon. But on the way home, after the evening service was ended, the host, who had listened, in his turn, to his brother, was evidently suffering from a severe attack of ministerial blues—and it takes a young clergyman to have the genuine article. At last, unable to remain silent longer, he said to his wife: "Mary, I think I must give up preaching altogether, and go off somewhere into the backwoods out of sight, and become a farmer. After hearing my brother preach this evening, I don't think I can open my mouth in public again as a teacher." Can you wonder that his wife, who had heard the other side, responded to her husband's Jeremiad with a merry laugh, instead of the sympathy he had a right to expect? Even a woman, with all her proverbial reticence, could not be expected to enjoy so rich a treat alone. She repeated the story at the supper table, and for that time, at least, banished the blues from both parties.—Christian Union.

CUT OFF THE RUNNERS.—While passing by a garden we saw some promising strawberry vines. We said to the gardener: "The strawberry is excellent fruit, and with suitable soil and culture, together with sunshine and showers, which God gives, you may expect a good crop."

"Yes," replied the gardener, "yet one thing more is necessary."

"What is that?"

"You must cut off the runners, for these absorb a large portion of the nutriment from mother earth, which is needed to promote the growth of the fruit."

From this, we thought, professed Christians may deduce a valuable lesson. These runners aptly represent worldly cares, which, if allowed to grow beyond a proper limit, so absorb the virtues of piety as greatly to diminish its fruits. Like strawberry runners, one care leads this way, another that, and a third another; and hereby so great a proportion of that spiritual nourishment, which God has prepared for his people, is absorbed by the runners, that the fruits of piety are rendered dwarfish and unripe, like the small green strawberries, and the garden of the great Master fails in fruitfulness. The Christian, therefore, has occasion to watch; and when he sees the runners pushing out in one direction or another, and interfering with the fruits of obedience to Christ, to apply the knife of resolution promptly, that by a seasonable excision the fruits of holiness may not fail to become ripe and abundant in the soul of the believer in Jesus.—Congregationalist.

KINDNESS REWARDED.—Once, during winter, two children went to mill, each carrying a little bag of grain on the head. In passing the miller's garden Bertha was filled with compassion at the sight of some little yellow birds perched upon the fence, who were dying with hunger. She opened her bag and threw some handfuls of grain to them.

Her brother Robert grumbled at this and said: "You are very foolish to have such tender feelings. Remember, you will certainly have less flour, and our parents will punish you."

Bertha, a little frightened, replied: "It is true I am not obliged to take pity on these birds; but our good parents will not scold me for doing so, and perhaps God will make amends for it in another way."

When the two children came again to the mill to get their flour they found that Bertha's bag had more in it than Robert's. The boy did not know what to make of it, and his sister was very much inclined to regard it as a miracle.

But the good miller, who had heard the conversation of the children near the hedge, said to Bertha: "Your pity for the little hungry birds gave me so much pleasure that I have doubled your quantity. Though I have only put in some flour, you ought certainly to consider this favor as coming from God to reward you for your goodness of heart."—Young Folks' News.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

ALL CHURCHES will sympathize with the Scotch Established in the death of Dr. Ogilvie, one of its ablest and most honored missionaries in India. At the time of his death, after a quarter of a century of work, he was head of the institute at Calcutta. There are few men whose loss will be more widely felt in the field.

THE attempt to restore to the bishopric of New York Benjamin T. Onderdonk, who died several years since while under suspension for immoralities, which were abundantly proven in court, and for which he never expressed penitence, is most strangely persisted in. The Church Weekly devoted six entire columns to the matter last week.

A PARIS correspondent of the Churchman claims for the American Episcopal Church in that city that its doors were not closed or its service omitted for a single Sunday during the siege. The Rev. Mr. Lamson, alone of the resident English-speaking clergy of Paris, remained at his post during this period, and acted as chief director of the American Ambulance Corps.

THE three years' rule, says the Methodist, works well in New England. Twenty-two members of the New England Conference who had served in their respective charges two years were returned to the same charges for the third year. Thirteen members of the Conference closed their third year's pastorate, and most of them found the third year the most successful of the three.

THERE are now three Baptist missionaries in Italy—Mr. Watt and Dr. Coate in Rome, and Mr. Clarke in La Spezia. Mr. Clarke writes that he has commenced a day school in La Spezia, and that the village station commenced near the city is progressing very nicely. The mission is not sustained by any committee, but is dependent for support upon individual contributions, which have thus far not been wanting.

JOHN G. HORTON, of New Rochelle, lately deceased, was well known and beloved by the old Methodists of New York city. He was not only, perhaps, the first superintendent of the old John street Sunday school, taught in Tryon Row, but was also an early member of the Board of Managers of the Missionary Society, though not of the first board, as we have somewhere seen it stated. His relation to the church as a class leader must have covered a period of nearly or quite fifty years, and he literally died in the harness.—Methodist.

THE Roman Catholic party has returned more candidates to the new German Parliament than formerly to the Prussian and North German Assemblies. Perhaps it was on account of the influence of the priests, who instructed their people to vote as far as possible for Roman Catholic members. In Rome itself, however, very little confidence is felt in these results. The Parliament will, after all, only number about seventy of such Roman Catholic members as make their religion part of their political creed; and this is a small minority. Germany is in all her institutions essentially Protestant; though, in a truly Protestant spirit, she grants perfect liberty and equality to her Roman Catholic subjects.

MR. SPURGEON reports that during the six years in which the statistics of his college have been kept the gentlemen of the college have baptized eleven thousand two hundred and sixty-one persons. There are now forty more Baptist churches in London, commenced and carried on by the college, than there were when he began; and most of them are in a sound, healthy state. Mr. Spurgeon shows excellent sense in his training of these young men. He means that they shall be thoroughly seasoned for their work. They are taught in the rooms connected with the Tabernacle, and, as there are no dormitories, they board in the houses around. "Sometimes," Mr. Spurgeon says, "their studies are disturbed—a baby cries; that occurs in after life also."

MEXICO.—A laborer in this promising field writes: "Never has there been a time when our congregations have been so much influenced by the truth as the past few months. Many souls have let go their grasp of Romanism, and embraced the true gospel of salvation." Considerable numbers have become true converts and united with the churches, and many more are expressing their desire to be united with the people of God. There are fifty-three evangelical congregations in a not very large district embracing the City of Mexico. "The gospel is moving on with marvelous rapidity and power," and new congregations are being formed. The labor has originated from within rather than from without, and the work of the missionary has been chiefly to bring the bread of life to prepared hearts.

DEATH OF MISSIONARIES.—The American Board has recently lost two missionaries of rare excellence. Rev. Horace S. Taylor, of the Madura mission, died on the third of February, at the age of fifty-seven, having gathered into different Christian churches nearly three hundred persons. His decease is deeply deplored by his associates, and still more by those whom he has led forth from the darkness of heathenism to the blessings of Christianity. Rev. W. Frederick Williams, of the Eastern Turkey mission, died at Mardin, on the fourteenth of February, aged fifty-three. He was a brother of S. Wells Williams, LL. D., author of "The Middle Kingdom"—one of the best works ever published on China—and possessed himself a mind of unusual clearness and penetration. He was greatly honored and beloved by his friends and fellow-laborers.

THE BIBLE IN ST. PETER'S, ROME. A son of Dr. Cote, the well known missionary in Canada, has written to his sister in this city that he lately read and distributed copies of the New Testament beneath the dome of St. Peter's, at Rome, and that the people eagerly took them. The prelates of the church came forth and unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the distribution. The police were called upon to drive the heretics from the "sacred" place, but when they found that Mr. Cote and friends were doing nothing more than scattering the word of God they not only refused to arrest them, but asked for copies themselves, saying: "This is what we have long wanted." Truly a wide and effectual door is now opened in Italy for the triumphal entrance of the truth.—Christian World.

THE venerable Dr. Tyng, says the Methodist of April 16, has had a fruitful ministry. On Sunday he completed fifty years of pulpit and pastoral labor. In his semi-centennial sermon he stated that he had in the half century delivered ten thousand sermons and addresses, had received three thousand persons by profession into the church, and had had twenty-five thousand children under instruction in his Sabbath schools. Fifty young men had been prepared under his instruction for the ministry. His congregations have contributed over $3,000,000 for benevolent objects, and had besides raised over $600,000 for the building of four churches and six chapels—ten places of worship in all. A very pleasant feature of the day was the presence of Dr. Tyng's Sabbath schools, numbering in all two thousand children and youth.

THIS COLUMN contained a notice, a few weeks since, of the Swedish mission in Abyssinia and Nubia; where of twelve missionaries sent out eight had perished, of the climate mostly, and the rest had returned home to recruit within four years of their sending. But the Swedes are not daunted. The president of the mission training college, when last heard from, was expecting to open this session with thirty students. We wish them a field better suited to their northern constitutions. Equatorial Africa is unfriendly to them. It has been a valley of the shadow of death to white men. But that need be no bar to its evangelization. One of the most, if not the most, promising missions on the Western coast is that of the Church Missionary Society, on the river Niger; purely African in its personnel, and under charge of the Rev. Dr. Crowther, who was taken from the hold of a slave-ship when a boy, brought to Sierra Leone, educated there and in England, and is now one of the most efficient, and honored, and real successors of the apostles in the regions beyond.—Independent.

CHURCHES IN THE UNITED STATES. The evangelical churches of the United States reported last year that they had on their rolls about 5,400,000 communicants. According to the national census, the whole population of the country was 38,535,153. Very nearly one-seventh of the inhabitants of the land, therefore, are voluntarily enlisted soldiers in the army of the great Captain of our salvation. To get a still clearer and more definite idea of this strength, another element must be introduced into the proportion. In the Compendium of the Census of 1850 it was stated that more than one-half of the population of the land were under twenty years of age. Or, descending a little lower, forty per cent. of them were under fifteen years of age. That rate will still hold good. Now, the proportion of evangelical communicants who have not reached the age of fifteen years is very small. The great mass of them are older than that. Thus it is safe to say that of the 23,000,000 of the people who are above fifteen years old, almost one-fourth are members of these churches. Certainly that is a leaven that ought rapidly to work.—Northern Christian Advocate.

IT IS WITH nations as with individuals: those who know the least of others think the highest of themselves; for the whole family of Pride and Ignorance are incestuous, and mutually beget each other.—Colton.

The Christian Advocate.

Organ of the Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1871.

OFFICE--No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Three Dollars per Annum, In Advance.

Address, on all matters of business, Rev. R. J. HARP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication to Rev. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR ALABAMA CONFERENCE:
REV. J. HAMILTON, D. D.
REV. A. H. MITCHELL, D. D.
REV. A. S. ANDREWS, D. D.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
REV. WILLIAM V. TUDOR.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.

CONSOLIDATION.

The paragraph below, from the St. Louis Christian Advocate of the third instant, announces the consolidation of the Baltimore with the St. Louis paper. We shall miss the Baltimore from our list of exchanges, but we are glad to know that Dr. Bond becomes co-editor of the St. Louis Advocate, and that this ably conducted paper has secured the services of so competent a writer.

The Advocate appears this week under new auspices, the Baltimore Christian Advocate having been consolidated with it, and Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Bond being associated with Rev. Thomas M. Finney in the editorship.

Mr. Finney, resident in this city, will, of course, be in charge of the office, and be the managing editor. He will abate nothing of his former labors in any particular. His pen will be no less in requisition than formerly. The paper will be made up under his eye. It will be, no less than formerly, the immediate organ of the patronizing Conferences in the West.

Dr. Bond will keep his office at the old place in the city of Baltimore, and supply a full proportion of editorial matter, and also assist in providing selected articles.

All the obligations and franchises of the Baltimore Advocate are made over to us. All unexpired subscriptions to that paper will be supplied by us. All matters of interest to the Baltimore Conference represented by that paper we will be ready to represent. Communications of every class from the preachers of that Conference may be made to Dr. Bond as formerly, or sent immediately to our office here. A department for presiding elders' and other notices will be provided for their benefit.

BISHOP KEENER'S APPOINTMENTS.

I will be at the following district meetings:

District meeting of Mississippi district, at Osceola, May 19.

District meeting of Helena district, at Helena, May 26.

District meeting of Fayetteville district, at Center Point, June 8.

Brother Dawne will please meet me at Springfield, Missouri, on June 6, or at the railroad terminus, wherever it is. J. C. KEENER.

BISHOP PAINE'S APPOINTMENTS.

DISTRICT CONFERENCES.

Woodburn, Ky., May 12.
Louisville district, Ky., May 16.
Enterprise, Miss., June 1.
Tuskaloosa, Ala., June 8.
Cherokee, Ala., June 30.
Okolona, Miss., July 8.
Madisonville, Ky., July 14.
Princeton, Ky., July 27.
Elizabethtown, Ky., August 3.

WE HAVE RECEIVED the catalogue of the University of Virginia, forty-seventh session, 1870-71. We notice that on the roll of four hundred and forty-seven students now in attendance there are representatives from nineteen States, besides several from the District of Columbia, and one from South America.

MRS. ALLEN and her family, says the Nashville Christian Advocate of April 22, including her sister, Miss Houston, spent a day or two in Nashville this week, en route for Shanghai. They were in fine health and spirits. They return to their field of missionary toil, reconsecrated to their holy work, and followed by the prayers of the church. May they reach their distant home in peace and safety!

VERY STOUT.—A faithful brother once remarked: "Whenever I go to the house of God praying for the preacher I always get a good sermon."

THE COMMUNION OF SAINTS.

The earthly fellowship of believers is a fact which grows out of a common experience. If truly born of the Spirit, they are one in the great essentials of character, and are at once invested with a peculiar relationship to each other. There may be divergences in the formulas of doctrine, and even in the statement of experience, but there is agreement in the realization of a new spiritual life, and in the possession of sanctified affections. With regenerated souls there is substantially "one Lord, one faith and one baptism," however much they may differ about modes and symbols. Without charity they are nothing, and they sustain no vital relation "to the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are written in heaven;" but with it they are united to the commonwealth of Israel, and are a part of the great congregation of the redeemed. Outward conformity, in the matter of ordinances and of dogmatic conceptions, is not essential to this communion. The only outward manifestation, common to all Christians, lies in their upright and holy living, and in the practical fruits of grace in the conversation. All division lines and partition walls are broken asunder and overflowed by a spirituality which predominates in the regenerated heart, and leavens the entire nature.

The communion of regenerated souls is a fact which no merely outward differences destroy, and where the inward principle is recognized it will attract and awaken sympathy and love. The Christian, when once convinced that his neighbor is a child of God, can pass over many grounds of disagreement and overlook many imperfections, while his soul flows toward the common center of life in Christ. God's people are really one in the highest and best sense of unity: "There is one body and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling." They are united in Christ, sanctified by the one Spirit, and their calling and hope are the same. Communion rests upon the single principle of a divine and gracious change, and where this takes place the subject of it enters at once into the company of the elect; and in the recognition of this fellowship nothing more should be asked for than the profession and satisfactory evidences of scriptural conversion. If converted there is communion with God, and a rightful claim to the recognition of all believers. Saintly communion is marred by the infirmities of true Christians, and is discredited by the perversions of bigotry and hypocrisy, but it is still a reality felt and conceded by the spiritual part of the visible church. The strongest sectarian convictions, with the spiritually-minded, do not destroy it; nor do the most earnest polemics extinguish it. Amidst all their contentions and differences there is still the consciousness of something which they have in common, more important and enduring than anything that has kindled the fire of religious controversy. The river, whose streams "make glad the city of our God," pervades and refreshes all believing hearts, whatever may be the distinctions which characterize their opinions and worship. The good of earth, with their mistakes, errors and prejudices, are one household in Christ.

The communion of saints embraces the fellowship of the saints on earth with those in heaven. "The whole family in heaven and earth" is named of Christ. The militant and triumphant are divisions of the one great army of grace. The greatest of the graces animates the sanctified here, and the glorified there. The sympathies of the crowned are with those who are yet in the arena of conflict, while the thoughts of the toiling and tempted dwell with tenderness and desire upon the state and memory of the blessed. The kingdom of God is a unit, composed of the good of all time, of all places, and of all that are above and below. The earthly and the heavenly are the accidental phases of this grand whole. A part has already reached the luminous realms of paradise, and a part is moving out of shadow into the same atmosphere of light. The head of the grand army has emerged into the open and sunlit plain, while the rear is still enveloped in the perilous defiles and dark gorges of more than alpine desolation. One banner waves over the mighty host, one Captain leads, while the voices of victory and hope are blent in a common praise.

Thee, in thy glorious realm, they praise,
And bow before thy throne—
We in the kingdom of thy grace:
The kingdoms are but one.

We know not that the spirits of the just have any ministering connection with the pious of earth, and we are sure that they are beyond our prayers and offices of affection, but still there is communion. Though separated by death, and by the distinctions of time and eternity, the sanctified form one vast brotherhood—a company bound together by the ties of redemption and of love in Jesus Christ. They are near to each other, though the river of death rolls between; and ever mingling more closely and perfectly, as we have a stronger faith and a deeper spirituality.

The fellowship of saints remains to be realized in its completest form when all shall be received and crowned in heaven. This aspect of the subject is the most satisfying to the Christian heart. It will be divested of everything that now separates the friends of the Redeemer. The prejudice and errors of ignorance will not then stain the Christian profession. Believers will not be kept asunder by misunderstandings and infirmities of judgment. Now God's children see each other through a glass darkly; a perfect acquaintanceship seems to be impossible here, but in heaven they shall see "face to face." The highest conceivable union on earth must ever be connected with disagreement in opinions and doctrines. In heaven alone we shall have the end of controversy. Death does not dissolve the fellowship of saints, but it suspends the intercourse of congenial hearts. Now they are on opposite shores, and concealed from each other by the impenetrable barrier. In heaven there will be no obstruction to the nearest and most intimate personal converse. Death, error and sin are all swept away, and the communion of pure and holy natures will be perfect.

Fellowship with God will then be fully realized, and conscious intercourse with the angels will begin. Saintship will be the condition of the heavenly communion, and the only tie which shall survive the resurrection. All other love, growing out of our earthly relations, may perish, or only live in connection with this higher and broader principle of Christian love. The fellowship of the skies is not that of earthly kindred, nor of the natural affections, but of the saints. This relationship, above all, must be sustained to the immortal company, or its communion is forever an impossibility. The sweep of this communion will be as wide as the circle of holy intelligences, embracing the divine, the angelic and the human, and so that all sanctified humanity shall be grouped in eternal companionship. Its grand principle from first to last is love—love flowing from regenerated hearts, and finding its highest object in all holy natures. It is the one imperishable tie that unites all believers on earth and in heaven.

BAD NEWSPAPERS.

The best remedy for the evil is to replace the bad with the good. Every effort to increase the circulation of the religious journal is something in the direction of overcoming the evil with the good. No Christian who reads our secular papers can fail to see that they are the chief promoters of such recreations and diversions as nearly all religious bodies have condemned. Theaters, coffeehouses, balls, horse races and Sunday amusements are indiscriminately advertised and puffed. Lotteries are extravagantly eulogized in the shape of advertisements and special notices. Scarcely a morning paper can be taken up that does not thrust these offensive and vicious objects upon the attention of the reader. Some of them are doubtless condemned by the proprietors and conductors of the press, and are admitted as a matter of profit or business necessity. Others are held to be right, and are advocated and commended as consistent with the good of society. While the tone and conduct of the secular press generally are opposed to the gospel standard of spirituality and holy living, the corrective must be found in the religious newspaper. There are secular papers conducted upon religious principles, and in the interest of a healthful morality, but we fear they are exceptions to the general rule, and for the reason, in many cases, that papers so conducted will not pay. We should like to see daily papers in our large cities from whose columns all objectionable literature and advertisements should be excluded; but where are the capitalists who would put their money into such undertakings? The reading of the present day is chiefly confined to newspapers, and the real education of the masses is derived from this source. The baneful influence of irreligious, not to say lying newspapers, cannot well be measured. The following telling paragraphs are from a sermon by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, published in the Methodist:

O ye reckless souls! GET MONEY—though morality dies, and society is dishonored, and God defied, and the doom of the destroyed opens before you—GET MONEY! Though the melted gold be poured upon your naked, blistered and consuming soul—GET MONEY! GET MONEY! It will do you good when it begins to eat like a canker! It will solace the pillow of death, and soothe the pangs of an agonized eternity! Though in the game thou dost stake thy soul, and lose it forever—get money!

The bad newspaper hesitates not to assault Christianity and its disciples. With what exhilaration it puts in capitals, that fill one-fourth of a column, the defalcation of some agent of a benevolent society! There is enough meat in such a carcass of reputation to gorge all the carrion-crows of an iniquitous printing press. They put upon the back of the church all the inconsistencies of hypocrites—as though a banker were responsible for all the counterfeits upon his institution. They jeer at religion, and lift up their voices until all the caverns of the lost resound with the howl of their derision. They forget that Christianity is the only hope for the world, and that but for its enlightenment they would now be like the Hottentots, living in mud hovels, or like the Chinese, eating rats. What would you think of a wretch who, during a great storm, while the ship was being tossed to and fro on the angry waves, should climb up into the lighthouse and blow out the light? And what do you think of these men, who, while all the Christian and the glorious institutions of the world are being tossed and driven hither and thither, are trying to climb up and put out the only light of a lost world?

The bad newspaper stops not at publishing the most damaging and unclean story. The only question is: "Will it pay?" And there are scores of men who, day by day, bring into the newspaper offices manuscripts for publication which unite all that is pernicious; and before the ink is fairly dry tens of thousands are devouring with avidity the impure issue.

Their sensibilities deadened, their sense of right perverted, their purity of thought tarnished, their taste for plain life despoiled—the printing press, with its iron foot, hath dashed their life out! While I speak there are many people, with feet on the ottoman and the gas turned on, looking down on the page, submerged, mind and soul, in the perusal of this God-forsaken periodical literature; and the Sabbath hours will be gone, and the last church psalm float into the skies, and the last Christian mother have put the hands of the little child under the coverlet for the night, before they will rouse up, as the city clock strikes the hour of midnight, to go death-struck to their prayerless pillows. One of the proprietors of a great paper in this country gave his advice to a young man then about to start a paper: "If you want to succeed," said he, "make your paper 'trashy,' intensely 'trashy'—make it all 'trash!'" Brilliant advice to a young man just entering business! It is very often that, as a paper purifies itself, its circulation decreases, and sometimes when a paper becomes positively religious it becomes bankrupt, unless some benevolent and Christian men come up to sustain it by contributions of money and means. Not more than five or six religious newspapers in this country are self-supporting. The reason is, the country cannot stand so much religion. Hear it! Christian men and philanthropists!

Many papers that are most rapidly increasing to-day are unscrupulous. The facts are momentous and appalling. And to-day I put young men and women, and Christian parents and guardians, on the lookout. This stuff cannot be handled without pollution. Away with it from parlor and shop and store! There is so much newspaper literature that is pure and cheap and elegant; shove back this leprosy from your door. Mark it well: A man is no better than the newspaper he habitually reads. You may think it a bold thing thus to arraign an unprincipled printing press, but I know there are those here who will take my counsel, and, in the discharge of my duty to God and this people, I defy all the hostilities of earth and hell!

DEATH OF DR. JENKINS.

The Rev. J. W. Lambuth writes us, Shanghai, China, March 13: "Dr. B. Jenkins died this morning at four A. M., deeply regretted by all who knew him." We see this sad event, which took place suddenly, noticed in the papers. Dr. Jenkins was for several years printer of the Southern Christian Advocate in Charleston. We became well acquainted with him, of course, when we were associated with Dr. Wightman in conducting that journal. He had a great facility in the acquisition of languages. A rabbi, under whom he had studied, informed us that he was one of the most successful students of Hebrew that he ever knew. When our China mission was founded Bishop Andrew appointed him as one of the first missionaries sent by our church to that distant field. His wife dying, he returned to this country with his two youngest children—one of them, being of the age of our son, and like him bearing our name, remained in our family for some time. Dr. Jenkins married again, and returned to China, where he labored for some years more in connection with the mission. He afterward became connected as interpreter with the American consulate, and during the American war we knew but little of him. He has not since been formally connected with the mission. Bro. Allen forwarded us a note from him some time since, in which he expressed the great interest he had felt in perusing the journal of our late General Conference; and Mrs. Allen has given us general information concerning him and his family—especially of our namesake, who has grown up to be a fine young man. We hope that he and the other members of the family will be sustained under their sad bereavement, and that the great Head of the Church will make them useful to his cause in the important field where their lot has been cast.—Nashville Christian Advocate.

The University Series of School and College Text Books.

These books are advertised in our columns, and are for sale by R. J. Harp, at the Depository, 112 Camp street. We have been at some pains to go through the list of books, copies of which have been furnished us, and have given them as thorough an examination as time permits. They are generally well bound, and in paper, typography and illustrations are equal to any series now in use. The various text books are by able and well known authors, distinguished for their learning, and of wide celebrity as practical teachers. The geographical series, by Commodore M. F. Maury, is, we think, greatly superior to any that we have met in their method, style and matter. Holmes' Readers and Spellers are gotten up in beautiful style, and their plan will generally be recognized as judicious and well adapted to the ends in view. The French text books are by Prof. De Vers, of the University of Virginia, and so generally in use as scarcely to need mention here. Text books are to be judged by their adaptation to develop and educate the mind, by their moral and religious tendencies, and by the truthfulness of their teachings in history and science. In these respects the University series are, as a whole, more desirable than most of the school books now in use. For further information we advise our readers to send for descriptive catalogue, University Publishing Company, New York, or to R. J. Harp, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

PROF. BUCK says wrinkles are produced by the want of a variety of food.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

HISTORY OF THE ORGANIZATION OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH. By A. H. Redford, D. D. Nashville, Tennessee: Published by A. H. Redford, agent, for the Methodist Episcopal Church South, 1871.

This volume is a duodecimo of six hundred and sixty pages, large and clear type, and handsomely bound in muslin. It is more complete than the old work bearing the same title, and which is out of print. So far as we can judge from a rather hasty examination, Dr. Redford has performed his task with thoroughness and fidelity, and in a temperate and candid spirit. In times that our people should refer to their memories in reference to the organization, and that the young members of our church should acquaint themselves with the facts narrated in this work. It has, we think, appeared at an opportune time, and is of immense practical value. No book has been recently issued from our Publishing House which we more heartily commend, or for which we wish a wider circulation.

THE STORY OF MY LIFE. By Hans Christian Andersen. Author's edition. New York: Published by Hurd & Houghton, 1871.

A 12mo of five hundred and six pages—pages, containing the autobiography of the great story-teller. It is long but full of incident, and calculated to awaken and sustain the reader's attention. Andersen has been a great traveler, and gives lively descriptions of places and people. For sale by J. Gresham, New Orleans.

HEAT. By Jacob Abbott. New York: Harper & Brothers, Publishers, 1871.

A beautifully bound and finely illustrated volume of over two hundred pages, 12mo. It is written, for the most part, in narrative form, and is eminently adapted to the instruction of the young. It is "science for the young," and presented in a most striking and attractive manner. For sale by Ellis & Bro., New Orleans.

QUESTIONS OF MODERN THOUGHT, LECTURES ON THE BIBLE AND FIDELITY. Philadelphia: Ziegler & McCurdy, 1871.

This volume contains six lectures by six well known divines, as follows: Rev. James McCosh, D. D., LL. D.—subject, "Renan's Life of Jesus;" Rev. J. P. Thompson, D. D., LL. D.—subject, "Unity of the Bible;" Rev. William Adams, D. D.—subject, "Advantages of a Written Revelation;" Rev. Philip Schaff, D. D.—subject, "Testimony of Christ to Christianity;" Rev. William Hague, D. D.—subject, "The Self-Witnessing Character of the New Testament Christianity;" Rev. E. Haven, D. D., LL. D.—subject, "Soul—A Positive Entity."

THE SOUTHERN REVIEW for April has been lying on our table several days, and as yet we have only had time to cut the leaves and examine the several articles.

In the article on The Salvation and Salvation of Infants Dr. Bledsoe considers the various hypotheses which have been put forth in vindication of the doctrine of the damnation of infants. We need not say that the doctor's exposition of the subject is thorough and convincing. In the next issue of the Review the duty of all Christian men, and especially of all Christian ministers, in relation to this dogma will be discussed.

Whedon on the Will is, we suppose, by the editor also. We like Dr. Whedon's commentaries, as like them, and we read his deparments in the Methodist Quarterly usually with pleasure. When he gets on to Southern matters, and especially Southern church matters he seems always to be possessed by an evil spirit of the most malignant lying sort. If Dr. Bledsoe is to be credited, Whedon on the Will is most barbarous in style, and utterly and radically false in its metaphysics. In this article the editor has done valuable service to literature and philosophy.

The Reviewers Reviewed is continued in the present number, and is a further vindication of Bledsoe. Theodicy, with reference to an unfavorable criticism published in the Athenæum of London. The article is of course by the editor, and marked by his clearness and searching analysis.

Beware of the Tropics has for its text Carl Schurz's speech in the United States Senate on the annexation of St. Domingo. In its way this article is the most instructive in the present number of the Review—an article that ought to be written, and should be carefully read. Exceptions may be taken to its place in a periodical published under the auspices of the church, but its broad generalizations and philosophical spirit will, we hope, satisfy the most fastidious. We are thankful for the article, and content to read it where it is. For the rest our readers will judge for themselves, not failing to ponder Thoughts Suggested by Recent Events and to give a fresh and careful consider-tion to Notices of Books. We give the contents in their order: 1. The Suffering and the Salvation of Infants; 2. Americanisms; 3. The Latin Races in America; 4. Whedon on the Will; 5. Volcanoes and Earthquakes; 6. Beware of the Tropics; 7. The Reviewers Reviewed; 8. Thoughts Suggested by Recent Events; 9. Notices of Books.

THE SOUTHERN FARMER for May is a good number. Published by the Southwestern Publishing Company, Memphis, Tennessee.

THE SUNDAY MAGAZINE for April is a good number even for this best of all the foreign monthlies.

The General Conference Picture.

This splendid work of art, gotten up at so much expense and with so laudable a design, ought to be more generally in the hands of our people than it is. It was brought out so short a time before the war that there had not been time to furnish it to thousands who would have been glad to possess it. The price, too, at which it was sold retarded its circulation. But it is a work which ought to be in every Methodist house. It would be an ornament to any pastor. It is a historical and memorial picture. It contains the striking likenesses of many of the prominent men of the church who have since gone hence—men whose virtues and characters we should delight to place and keep before our children as models. All such works have an educating and refining influence upon the family, and no one who is able to possess it—and who is not?—should be without it.

I am glad to learn that this picture can still be had, and at a greatly reduced price. A single copy can be had for $5, and if five be ordered together they can be had for $3.50 each. What preacher is there in all our bounds who could not get five purchasers for such a work, and thus secure one for himself gratis? There should be five thousand sold this year. I would recommend that Bro. Harp order a supply of the work, and keep it on hand. I hope editors of our papers will call attention to this matter.

J. HAMILTON.

Protestant Episcopal Pretensions.

On referring to the statistics of that church, as reported in the Year Book of the New York Observer, which we presume to be accurate, we find the whole number of communicants set down at 176,686. There are—Bishops, 52; priests and deacons, 2,711; making in all 179,448 as the grand total of members in this church.

From the first colony planted at Jamestown in 1607 to the present year this church has been in the field, a period of 264 years, and has not yet reached a membership of 200,000.

We wish to do every person and every church entire justice, and for this reason we correct the misstatements of our former article.

In this connection we will give the numbers claimed by the other leading churches, which will show that they possess an adaptation to the religious wants of this country which the Protestant Episcopal Church can never hope to reach.

Northern and Southern Methodists, 1,685,953; Baptists, 1,221,349; Presbyterians, 650,349; Congregationalists, 300,362.

Now the reader can judge of the spirit which proudly presumes to unchurch the churches which have gathered these hosts of believers from the world and brought them into the fellowship of the saints. The "clubs" have done a noble work, and they have a goodly record. Let those who look down upon them from the upper seats in the high-church synagogue come down and go out among sinful men and make proof of their boasted apostolic ministry.

As a fact of much significance, we may here mention a statement by a writer in one of our quarterly reviews, namely, that of all the Episcopal ministers in this country nearly two-thirds have been obtained by drafts upon the ministry of the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and other churches. So it appears that while the "clubs" have kept their own ministerial ranks full, they have supplied nearly two-thirds of the ministers of the church. Surely that body ought to have great respect for the "clubs." There ought at least to be some show of gratitude to the "clubs."—Richmond Christian Advocate.

Envy deserves more pity than anger, for it hurts nobody so much as itself. It is a distemper rather than a vice, for nobody would feel envy if he could help it. Whoever envies another secretly allows that person's superiority.

IMPORTANT CONVERSION.

The following statements and extracts are from the Northwestern Christian Advocate. The great revival in India is a most significant event in the history of missions.

Never before had we tidings so glorious from India. The great Baboo Hem Chunder Singhu has laid caste, rank, learning—all at the feet of Jesus, and is perhaps by this time a Methodist local preacher. A line from Rev. J. M. Theburn, D. D., to this office, dated Lucknow, March 2, contains the following cheering words:

"We are in the midst of a glorious work of revival. We have no extra services, and yet conversions are occurring daily. I never saw a work so satisfactory in all its aspects in America. Last night the preacher of the Lucknow Semaj, the church of Indian theists, was baptized. He is a leading man, and we hope for much good from him. Bro. Taylor is doing a good work in Robilcund. God is setting an open door before us, which no man shall shut."

Our mission slip contains the following also from India:

"I am glad to have good news to write you. Baboo Hem Chunder Singha, preacher to the Lucknow Somaj (a religious body, the Reformed Hindoo Church,) was baptized last night in the chapel, and, better than this, he was baptized from on high a week ago yesterday. He is a truly and happily converted man; it is worth coming to India to hear his experience. The Brahmos immediately after his conversion telegraphed to Calcutta to Kuhab Chandar, who sent them a missionary by the first train. They bent all their energies to prevent Baboo's baptism, and for some days we had fears that they would win. It was a hard battle, but the victory was on the Lord's side. Many natives came to witness the baptism; but though the Baboo sent special written invitations to all his Brahmo friends, not one was present. After having tried guile, strategy and argument, they finally came some thirty strong, and with tears and embraces and other tragic demonstrations they made one last effort to take him back. He is full of love and zeal for them all, and we hope much that he will not long stand alone in his Christian profession. Joya, a female teacher, has been the chief instrument or agent, Mr. Taylor would say, in his conversion. She is a happy girl to-day, though her zeal will most certainly cost her her situation."

Rev. H. Mansell, presiding elder of the Moradabad district, India, writes: "Bro. Taylor is now in our district, and God is working here with him. The work is rapidly advancing in every substantial particular. All our helpers are coming out in the clear light and liberty of Christian experience, and all our native Christians who were only nominally so are being converted. Over twenty have been happily converted in this district from sin to God, while in the other districts where Bro. Taylor wrought, namely, at Cawnpore, Lucknow, Seetapore, Shahjehanpore, Bareilly and Budaon, the good work still goes on gloriously. People are getting converted all the time."

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.—In another column will be found the advertisement of the long-established and well known Commercial College presided over by President Dolbear. This is one of the oldest and most popular institutions of its kind in the Southwest. Mr. Dolbear has obtained a national reputation as an instructor of young men in commercial knowledge, which is certainly of the highest importance to those who calculate to devote themselves to business pursuits. We invite the special attention of our readers to the advertisement.

CARPET AND OIL CLOTH WAREHOUSE.—The house of Elkin & Co. has been known to us for many years. We have had good opportunity of forming a correct estimate of their character through frequent business intercourse; and it gives us pleasure to recommend them as reliable, prompt, practical and obliging. We could not recommend our readers to a firm more worthy of their patronage. Their assortment is very large. See advertisement.

J. H. KELLER is the man who makes good soap, cheap soap, beautiful soap. Call at 110 Gravier street, and find an honest man and a manufacturer who has few rivals in the excellence of the article manufactured. We call attention to his advertisement.

INDIGESTION and industry are two things seldom found united.

Married.

On Wednesday evening, May 3, by the Rev. Dr. Parker, at the Carondelet Street Methodist church, Rev. JOHN WILKINSON, of the Louisiana Conference, to Miss MARY ANNA KEENER, daughter of Bishop J. C. Keener, of New Orleans. No cards.

By Rev. John A. B. Jones, May 1, 1871, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. JAMES B. ANDERSON, of Issaquena county, and Miss ELIZA R. POWELL, of Warren county, Mississippi.

On the eighteenth of April, by the Rev. T. H. McClendon, at the residence of the bride's father, in Franklin parish, Louisiana, Mr. JOHN G. SCOTT to Miss JULIA E. ADAMS, of this parish, formerly of Maryland.

New Orleans Picayune and Baltimore Episcopal Methodist will please copy.

On the twentieth of April, by the same, at the residence of the bride's father, in Franklin parish, Louisiana, Mr. L. D. FOLSE to Miss R. L. FARNHAM, all of this parish.

Obituaries.

Died, of pulmonary consumption, at the residence of his father-in-law (Rev. D. A. J. Parker,) JOHN A. COLTHARP, aged about thirty-three years. Mr. Coltharp contracted the disease which terminated his earthly career during the late war, while in active service in the Confederate army.

On the eleventh of October, 1866, he was married to Miss Eugenia B. Parker. After much suffering he closed his eyes on all earthly things on the thirty-first of March, 1871; but, we trust, opened the spiritual eye on things far more beautiful in the bright fields of Eden.

His only surviving child—little Albert—preceded him to the grave only a few days. There now remains nothing of his family save his weeping, sorrowing widow. May God sustain her in this severe affliction!

Mr. Coltharp was a young man of remarkable energy and business habits, a good citizen, a kind and affectionate husband and father.

D. A. J. PARKER.

JOSHUA F. ARMSTRONG was born in Wilcox county, Alabama, March 5, 1842, and departed this life December 30, 1870.

One of his leading traits of character from infancy until death was a love of his mother. It was the greatest enjoyment of his life to be with her and do as she bid. His early advantages were limited on account of the indigent circumstances of our parents; but owing to a good memory, aided by great application and his own personal efforts to get knowledge, he obtained an education which was an honor to him, and enabled him to teach some of the best schools of the country with almost unequaled success and satisfaction to his patrons.

He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church South in the year 1858 or 1859. He was a lover of the Sabbath school, and superintended several schools with ability and success. His end was peaceful. He said: "I am willing to die. I know that I am going to heaven. I am resigned." His last words on earth were: "I am happy!"

WALTER ARMSTRONG.

Sister VIRGINIA H. NELMS, wife of Bro. T. L. Nelms, died in Smithower county, Mississippi, March 29, 1871, in her twenty-third year.

She had long lived the life of a pious and consistent Christian. She had the advantage of early religious instruction by a praying mother, now left to mourn her loss. Sister Nelms joined the Methodist Church in her fourteenth year, at Eanon, on the Vaiden circuit—now North Mississippi Conference. Since then her life has been one of exemplary piety. She was a dutiful daughter and an affectionate and kind wife. Although she suffered greatly during her brief illness, she greeted all with a smile. When told that she could not recover, she replied that all was well—"I am not afraid to die." She thanked those around her for their kind attention, and asked them to meet her in heaven. May they all die as she did, with the full assurance of heaven and eternal glory. God grant comfort to the bereaved husband and mother, and may they see in this affliction the hand of Love, and be assured he doeth all things well. God is love.

J. M. BOON.

Died, on the fourth of April, at the residence of her mother, in Amite county, Mississippi, Miss COURTNEY ANN MCNEIL, in the twenty-fourth year of her age.

She was a member of the Methodist Church for years, at Sharon, Amite county, Mississippi beloved by all who knew her. Among the rare combination of her shining qualities was truth. From childhood I have heard her spoken of as the standard of truth—at schools, at home, at all times and under all circumstances. She was the only daughter of her mother. She died at sunset, to commence a new and higher style of life in the upper world of glory. That happy home of the Methodist preachers, so well remembered by many with increasing gratitude, is in mourning. The property willed to her by her precious father before his death, and the toils of her anxious, kind mother to provide a large and lasting legacy of precious things to her only daughter, are of no avail to our dear sister. We all hope and trust that she has gone to an "inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that fadeth not away."

Her pastor, E. R. STRICKLAND.

Departed this life, February 17, A. D. 1871, Mrs. AMANDA C. SIMPSON, wife of F. M. Simpson, aged twenty-four years and eight days. She was the youngest daughter of John and Mary Johnsen, deceased, and was born in Winston county, Mississippi, February 9, 1847, where she resided until the year 1866. Then she moved to Leake county, Mississippi, and on the sixteenth day of December, 1869, was united in the holy estate of matrimony to F. M. Simpson, a resident of the same county. At the age of sixteen she made a profession of the Christian religion, and united herself with the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at a protracted meeting held at Pleasant Hill, Winston county, Mississippi, under the preaching of the Rev. Mr. Townson. From the time of her conversion until her death she remained a true, consistent and faithful follower of Christ.

On the fourteenth of February, three days before her death, she was attacked with violent fits, from which time she knew nothing of surrounding objects; yet her countenance seemed to wear a bright smile, as if asleep in Jesus.

May the great God of heaven and earth sanctify this sad affliction to the good of her bereaved husband, relatives and friends. Though her mortal body lies moldering in the cold, silent grave, her pilgrimage through this vale of tears has given us sufficient surety that her immortal spirit has gone to God, who gave it.

A FRIEND.

MRS. ELIZABETH LOWTHER fell asleep in Jesus, in Montgomery, Alabama, March 29, 1871, in the eighty-third year of her age and the fifty-second year of her Christian life.

Sister Lowther passed the greater part of a long and useful life in Clinton, Georgia. A woman of unusual ability, of strong and vigorous intellect, the care and training of a large family, and the accumulation and control of much property, developed her natural characteristics in a remarkable degree. Her firmness and decision were nowhere more marked than in her devotion to the Master's cause. Early dedication to the Lord was followed by a long life of faith—a preparation for a blessed old age, when, surrounded by children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, she enjoyed their love and veneration, and all the spiritual comfort bestowed on those whose religion has grown from duty to delight. No doubts or fears troubled her in the valley of the shadow of death. Her faith made the future more glorious, and as actual as the present. The morning before her departure, upon waking, she said: "I have had such a blessed night—I have been with Jesus and the angels, and will soon dwell with them forever. It was no dream, but a reality." And while sitting in her chair she requested them to lay her down, saying: "Death has struck me."

Retaining her consciousness until within fifteen minutes of her departure, she with perfect composure expressed her readiness and anxiety to go, saying there was no obstacle between her soul and her Maker, and entreated her children to meet her in heaven.

Thus calmly passed away this venerable Christian woman, leaving to her family as the richest legacy her dying testimony of a religion which was the chief charm and crowning excellence of her life.

A constant, faithful, earnest witness for Christ through life, may her dying words be as profitable as they are precious.

"Useful life, with gentlest closing;
Could ye wish for aught more blest?
Could ye ask more sweet transition
To the promised land of rest?" M.

Agent's and Publisher's Department.

LETTERS AND FUNDS

Received by mail at the Branch of the Southern M. E. Publishing House, 112 Camp st., for the week ending May 8, 1871.

A—B F Alexander, A W Ayer & Son, D Appleton & Co, American News Co.

B—J M Boon, Henry P Bowen, M Bell, J W Burke, W C Black, B M Brown, W E Ballard $3, J H Bonll, Mrs M A Buckalew, Geo W Brown $3.

C—W J Carnes, R Crawford $20, E H Cushing, A F Cox.

D—Joel T Daves, R A Davis, Dodd & Mead, D M Dunlap, Augus Bowling $5.75.

F—E N Freshman.

G—Joseph Gorton, H M Gillis.

H—W C Halsllp $50, W S Hale 30 cts, R H Howe, S J Hawkins, Morgan Hall, J T Heard $6.

J—J W Jones.

K—H J Kane $5, Joseph S King.

L—W H Leith.

M—J M McKee 2 lots $10, G W McFee, Geo W Matthews $1, G W McClanahan $ 1.90, S C McCornick, John S Moore, J W McIntyre, J H Mims, A H Mitchell $8.30, A W Mitchell $9, Sallie Millsaps.

N—J L Nabors $ 3.85.

P—J S Parker, Arthur W Peabody, S M Pettengill & Co, Isaac Pipes.

R—M H Rankin, H C Rice, Reddington & Co, Ira B Robertson $1.

S—V B Stewart, Thos B Stewart $120.35, Tom C Smith 40 cts, Chas Scribner & Co, A H Sutherland, D G Stubbs, Robt J Sampler, E S Smith, J L Skipper.

T—E M Turner $3, Tillson & Co, Thos Tardrew & Co.

V—F Vordenhammen.

W—T L D Walford, Woolworth, Ainsworth & Co.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Shoe Manufacturers' Goods,

LEATHER & FINDINGS.

Manufacturers, dealers and custom workmen supplied with everything requisite for

The Manufacture of Boots and Shoes,

AT LOWEST MARKET PRICES.

Orders promptly attended to.

TILLSON & CO.,
my11 3m Boston, Mass.

MONTVALE SPRINGS,

BLOUNT COUNTY, TENNESSEE.

THIS FAVORITE SUMMER RESORT will be opened for the reception of guests on

THE FIFTEENTH OF MAY.

Tickets to the Springs and return can be obtained at all prominent points. Board per month: For May and June, $10; for July and August, $60; for September, $50.

Address, for descriptive pamphlets, etc.,
JOS. L. KING, Proprietor, my11 4t Montvale Springs.

AGENTS WANTED — For Prof. PARSONS'

Laws of Business

With full directions and forms for all transactions in every State of the Union. By THEOPHILUS PARSONS, LL. D.

A correct, economical and safe Counselor and Adviser. So plain, full, accurate and complete that no person can afford to be without it. Embodying the results of the labor and study of the most popular and successful writer of law books in the country.

Send for circulars with terms, etc. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO.,
my11 2m 1&4ms Memphis, Tenn.

DUTCHER'S LIGHTNING

FLY KILLER

AND DEAD SHOT

FOR BED BUGS.

Try them, and Sleep in Peace!
my11 4t

New Hymns and Tunes

FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

YOU WILL FIND THEM

Pure,	Good,
Useful,	Original,
Refined,	Lively and
Excellent,	Devotional,

IN THE LATEST AND BEST SUNDAY SCHOOL SONG BOOK.

"PURE GOLD."

By Rev. Robt. Lowry and W. Howard Doane.

THE FACT THAT

OVER 62,000 COPIES were ordered in advance of publication, and that orders are being received for from 1,000 to 2,000 Copies Daily, indicates that

"PURE GOLD"

Will be the Leading Sunday School Singing Book this Year.

Don't purchase until you have examined "PURE GOLD," "BRIGHT JEWELS," "FRESH LAURELS," "GOLDEN CENSER," "GOLDEN SHOWER" or "GOLDEN CHAIN," either of which is unequaled by the publications of any other house.

One copy (paper cover) of either sent for examination on receipt of twenty-five cents.

BIGLOW & MAIN, 425 Broome Street, N. Y.
Successors to WM. B. BRADBURY.
my11 4t

Agents Wanted for BINGLEY'S NATURAL HISTORY.

Giving a clear and intensely interesting account of the infinite variety of habits and modes of life of nearly every known species of beasts, birds, fishes, insects, reptiles, mollusca and animalculæ of the globe. From the famous London four volume edition, with large additions from the most celebrated naturalists of the age. Complete in one large handsome volume of 1,040 pages, with over 1,000 spirited and accurate engravings. Price, only $4.50. The cheapest book ever offered, and one of the most desirable. C. F. VENT, Publisher, Cincinnati, Ohio. my11 1t

Illustrated Christian Weekly.

A PAPER FOR THE FAMILY.

PURE AND EVANGELICAL. Undenominational, beautifully illustrated and printed, and very cheap.

PUBLISHED BY

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY,

Weekly, at $2 per annum.

For specimen copy address
T. L. H. WALFORD, Agent,
my4 3t 914 Main st., Richmond, Va.

BATH ALUM SPRINGS, VA.

THIS favorite and healthy Summer Resort will be open JUNE 1. Buildings and grounds extensive. Access easy by Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, ten miles from Millboro Depot. Board, $45 per month—four weeks. Send for circulars. Post office at the Springs.

JOSEPH BAXTER, Proprietor,
my4 3t Bath Alum Springs, Va.

fe11 1y

A Few More Agents Wanted for

THE LIGHT OF THE WORD.

A NEW RELIGIOUS WORK of unsurpassed interest and value. For terms address W. FLINT & CO., No. 26 S. Seventh st., Philadelphia; 5 Custom-house Place, Chicago, and 176 West Fourth st., Cincinnati. my4 3t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE NEW DISCOVERY

In Chemical and Medical Science.

DR. E. F. GARVIN'S

Solution and Compound Elixir of

TAR.

FIRST AND ONLY SOLUTION ever made in one mixture of ALL THE TWELVE valuable active principles of the well known curative agent,

PINE TREE TAR,

UNEQUALED in Coughs, Colds, Catarrh Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption.

CURES WITHOUT FAIL

A recent cold in three to six hours; and also by its VITALIZING, PURIFYING and STIMULATING effects upon the general system is remarkably efficacious in all

DISEASES OF THE BLOOD,

including Scrofula and Eruptions of the skin Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, Heart Disease and General Debility.

ONE TRIAL CONVINCES!

ALSO A

VOLATILE SOLUTION of TAR

For INHALATION without application of HEAT. A remarkably VALUABLE discovery, as the whole apparatus can be carried in the vest pocket, ready at any time for the most effectual and positively curative use in All Diseases of the Nose, Throat and Lungs

THE COMPOUND

TAR AND MANDRAKE PILL,

For use in connection with the ELIXIR TAR is a combination of the TWO most valuable ALTERATIVE Medicines known in the Profession, and renders this Pill without exception the very best ever offered.

Send for Circular of POSITIVE CURES to your Druggist, or to

L. F. HYDE & CO.,
SOLE PROPRIETORS,
110 East Twenty-Second St., New York
ap27 3m

PRICES OF THE

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

Having vastly increased their facilities for manufacture, the

Mason & Hamlin Organ Company

are now enabled to offer their well-known Organs, which are the

Acknowledged Standard of Excellence

among Instruments of the class, at prices of inferior work. They print their lowest prices which are, therefore, alike to all, invariable. The following are illustrations:

Four-Octave Organs	$50
The same, Double Reed	65
Five-octave Organs, with Tremolant, Carved and Ornamented	100
The same, Double Reed, with Five Stops	125
Forty other styles, up to	1,000

All in solid Black Walnut. All the Organs made by this Company are thoroughly first-class in every respect. They will not make the so-called cheap Organs at any price. The comparative superiority of their instruments is now greater than ever before, as every competent judge who will carefully examine and compare must perceive.

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUES,

with Wood Cuts from Photographs of the different styles, full information and lowest prices; also Testimonial Circular will be sent free to any address.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO.,
Warerooms, 596 Broadway, New York

For sale in New Orleans by
de3 3m L. GRUNEWALD.

ISN'T IT BEAUTIFUL?

WHITTEMORE'S

WASHSTAND CORNICE.

Patented September, 1870.

Designed to protect walls from the spattering of water while washing. It not only serves as a complete protection to the wall but makes the washstand

A Beautiful Article of Furniture.

Attached to the Cornice are two arms swinging on a pivot, to which may be added a Lambrequin of either Muslin, Rep or Lace or the arms can be swung out and used as a TOWEL RACK.

Elegant designs in Walnut and Ash, with mottled wood ornaments, hung with rich Lace Curtains.

Of Elaborate Patterns	$3 00
Same, without Curtains	2 00

Sent to any part of the country on receip of price. Address all orders to

LORD & TAYLOR, Sole Agents,
Cor. Broadway and Twentieth street,
ap27 4t New York.

Carpet and Oil Cloth Warehouse.

J. M. ELKIN. F. STRINGER.

ELKIN & CO.,

168 ..... CANAL STREET 168

Near Baronne, New Orleans,

IMPORTERS OF ALL VARIETIES OF ENGLISH CARPETINGS, RUGS, Etc.

—ALSO—

Oil Cloths, Mattings,
Lace and Damask Curtains,
Window Shades, etc.

—AND A—

Complete Assortment of Upholstery Goods.

fe4 1y

AGENTS WANTED for the People's History of D'Aubigne's Great Work,

HISTORY OF THE Great Reformation.

New edition, complete in one volume, at popular prices. Buy it, read and learn what INFALLIBILITY means. It should be in every Protestant family throughout the land.—Send for sample circular, with illustrations. ☞Unusual commissions to Ministers and experienced Agents. WM. FLINT & CO.,
my4 3m No. 26 S. Seventh st., Phila., Pa.

FREE TO BOOK AGENTS.

WE WILL SEND a handsome Prospectus of our New Illustrated Family Bible, containing over 200 fine Scripture Illustrations, to any Book Agent free of charge. Address NATIONAL PUBLISHING CO., Philadelphia, Pa., Atlanta, Ga., or St. Louis, Mo.
my4 1m

S. M. PETTENGILL & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York, and 10 State Street, Boston.

are Agents for all the Newspapers in the United States and Canada. They have special arrangements with the Religious, Agricultural and other Newspapers, de7 1y

The Child's Corner.

THE BABY.

BY ASHTON CURRIER.

The baby sits in her cradle,
Watching the world go round,
Enwrapt in a mystical silence
Amid all the tumult of sound.
She must be akin to the flowers.
For no one has heard
A whispered word
From this silent baby of ours.

Wondering, she looks at the children.
As they merrily laughing pass,
And smiles o'er her face go rippling,
Like sunshine over the grass,
And into the heart of the flowers:
But never a word
Has yet been heard
From this silent darling of ours.

Has she a wonderful wisdom,
Of unspoken knowledge a store,
Hid away from all curious eyes,
Like the mysterious lore
Of the birds and the bees and the flowers?
Is this why no word
Has ever been heard
From this silent baby of ours?

Often she seems to listen
To something we never can know;
Perhaps to the voices of angels,
Who silently come and go;
Making brighter her golden hours
With many a word
That will never be heard
From this silent baby of ours.

Ah, baby, from out your blue eyes
The angel of silence is smiling—
Though silvers hereafter your speech,
Your silence is golden—beguiling
All hearts to this darling of ours,
Who speaks not a word
Of all she has heard,
Like the birds, the bees and the flowers.

IN THE DARK.

There come seasons of darkness all our lives. Who has not known them? Times when there are neither sun nor moon nor stars in the sky, and we stand still in fear, or grope onward in trembling uncertainty. A few years ago there fell upon my life one of these seasons, in which I could see neither to the right hand nor to the left. A terror of darkness was upon me.

One night I lay awake, thinking, thinking until my brain grew wild with uncertainty. I could not see even a step in advance, and feared to move onward, lest, with the next footfall, I should plunge into hopeless ruin. Very strongly was I tempted to turn aside from the way in which I was going—a way reason and conscience approved as right; but something held me back.

Again and again I took up and considered the difficulties of my situation, looking to the right hand and the left for ways of extrication; now resolving to go in this direction, and now in that; yet always held away from resolve by inner convictions of right and duty that grew clear at the moment when I was ready to give up my hold on integrity.

So the hours went heavy-footed until past midnight. My little daughter was sleeping in the crib beside my bed. But now she began to move uneasily, and presently her timid voice broke faintly on the still air.

"Papa! papa!" she cried.

"What is it, darling?" I asked.

"Oh, papa! It is dark! Take Nellie's hand!"

I reached out my hand and took her tiny one in my own, clasping it firmly.

A sigh of relief came up from her little heart. All her loneliness and fear were gone, and in a few moments she was sound asleep again.

"O my Father in heaven!" I cried, in a sudden, almost wild outburst of feeling; "it is dark, very dark. Take my hand!"

A great peace fell upon me. The terror of darkness was gone. "Keep hold of my hand, O my Father!" I prayed fervently; "and though I should be called to walk through the valley and the shadow of death, I will fear no evil. Let not my feet wander to the right or to the left."

"Sleep, that knits up the raveled sleeve of care," fell softly on my eyelids, and morning broke with scarce a seeming interval of time.

I felt calm and strong. The day was to be one of severe trial. A dark cloud of uncertainty rested over it. But I was resolved to walk steadily through its trials and its pains, holding tightly the hand of my Father.

Oh! is not the Lord better to us, if we will trust him, than all our fears? There came fierce assaults upon my integrity.

I was lured by golden promises, I was threatened with disease and disgrace; but my hand lay in the firm clasp of one who sticketh closer than a brother, and who is strong to save.

In my rectitude I found safety. Had I swerved I would have gone down to hopeless ruin. Even my tempters, who had hoped to gain through my defections from honor, bore witness to my integrity. And now, having escaped the perils of this difficult and dangerous pass, a goodly land opened to view, and I found possessions therein which are held in peace and honor unto this day. But the highest and dearest of all my possessions is mine integrity, which, but for the hand of my Father, grasped in darkness, I should have lost.—Arthur's Home Magazine.

THEY WILL LAUGH AT ME.

"Yes, I know I ought to be a Christian, and I want to be, some time."

"Why not be one now? What hinders?"

"I am ashamed to tell you, and yet I will; I am afraid of the laugh of my companions."

"Perhaps they would not laugh at you, and if they did, it would not hurt you. I remember what a bug-bear the fear of one of my companions used to be. I had made known my desire to be a Christian, but couldn't. I saw this friend and tried to shun him, but couldn't. He came to me, and said: 'Haloo, Charlie! I hear you are going to be a Christian. How is it?'"

"It is so," said I, and then left him. In a little while he came back and asked me other questions about it. I answered them, and then said: "To tell the truth, William, I've been dreading to see you. I expected you would laugh at me."

"Well, you are mistaken," he exclaimed quickly. "I'm bad enough myself, I know, but if I see any one else trying to be good, I'm not bad enough to laugh at him. Go ahead, Will, and don't be afraid to show your colors."

"Thus it has often happened. All these crosses look heavier and uglier in the distance than when you take them up."

"Yet the sneer and laugh often do come."

"So they do; but if you are really in earnest, and ask Christ to help, these little things will not harm you."

"A young friend of mine was ridiculed for being a Christian. It was some months after he had set out for the heavenly city, and he said: 'Have you just found it out? I'm sorry you did not discover it by my conduct long before this!'"

"Yes, that is the best, the manliest way. Do right, and if the wicked laugh at you, look up and let them laugh."—Sunday School Times.

JESUS WHISPERING.—"What is conscience?" said a Sabbath school teacher one day to the little flock that gathered around to learn the words of life.

Several of the children answered, one saying one thing, and another another, until a little timid child spoke out:

"It is Jesus whispering in our hearts."

Does Jesus whisper in your heart?

When you do right does he approve? When you do wrong does he rebuke? Does he make your heart sad when you have sinned, and happy when you have done right? Be thankful, then, for this, and remember always to heed the Saviour's whisper, and study his word, and pray to know his will, and then you will be safely guided to his heavenly home at last.—Well-Spring.

KNEW TOO MUCH.—Billy was employed in a coal yard, and as both employer and men were the possessors of more or less irascibility, Billy was discharged at least once a day; but, though frequently discharged, he never went off. One day the employer, during one of these passages, burst out: "It's no sort of use, Billy; I can't learn you anything at all, and have been trying for years." "Shure, an yez have learnt me wan thing," said Billy. "What is that?" was asked; "I shall be glad to hear of anything you've learned." "Shure, sir, yez have lairned me that fifteen hundred makes a ton." Billy knew too much to be spared.

JESTING UPON SCRIPTURE.—The evils arising from this practice are greater than appear at first. It leads in general to irreverence for Scripture. No man would jest with the dying words of his father or mother; yet the words of God are quite as solemn. When we have heard a comic or vulgar tale connected with a text of Scripture, such is the power of association that we never hear the texts afterward without thinking of the jest. The effect of this is obvious. He who is much engaged in this kind of false wit will come at length to have a large portion of Holy Scripture spotted over by his unholy fancy.

THERE are now three separate state temperance organizations in Massachusetts, besides the secret societies. One confines itself to moral and educational efforts, the next adds legal measures, and the third uses political movements, in addition to all the others.

LET a man begin in earnest with "I ought," and he will end, by God's grace, if he persevere, with "I will." Let him force himself to abound in all small offices of kindliness, attention, affectionateness, and all those for God's sake. By and by they will become the habit of his soul.

The Farm and Garden.

SUMAC.

The trade in this plant in Virginia is becoming greater and greater every year. The Essex Gazette says that a firm in Rappahannock bought forty tons of sumac in one week, and the Petersburg Index informs us that the trade in that section is becoming very important. Large quantities are brought to market, and one firm alone in Petersburg bought a ton in one day, the purchases on that day running up to five tons.

At the present prices paid for sumac this amount realized quite a large sum, and the gathering of the plant must be very remunerative and give employment to many people.

Sumac now grows wild in old fields, along the road, and in the locks of the fences of cultivated farms. Of course, as it is wild, the yield must be inferior both in quantity and quality to what it would be if it were cultivated like other crops.

It is our belief that if sumac were planted and attended to it would yield a very handsome return, equal to that of any other crop that could be raised. Our people should turn their attention to it.

We advise our farmers to try this experiment: Let them collect the seeds of some of the most luxuriant wild sumac and plant them next season in good land; let them attend to the crop as they would any other, and we have no doubt that the yield would surprise them. It would also be far superior to the wild plant, and would bring a much higher price.

As the cultivation would be a new enterprise some might be somewhat doubtful about trying it, as the planting of sumac has not the sanction of the customs of our forefathers to recommend it. We therefore advise our farmers to try it on a small scale at first—say an acre. If the cultivation does not pay, why, there cannot be much harm done; but we have no doubt that the profits of one acre will be so great that the next year the experimenter will plant many acres. Anyhow, the trial is well worthy of being made.

We have written several articles before on this subject; but we have not heard that they produced any effect, as we are not aware that an acre of sumac has been planted. We hope, however, that our constant efforts will result in the cultivation of a plant that will be most remunerative to the farmer, and which, being hardy and not liable to disease, may be relied upon in all seasons.

Farmers, try it, and you will be richly rewarded.—Norfolk Journal.

SOMEBODY has been inquiring into the philosophy of chicken breeding, and found that for every hundred fowls you must give at least an acre. But rough land is as good as any. Hens naturally love the bush, and I lop young trees, but leave a shred by which they live a year or more. These form hiding places and retreats for them. In such places they prefer to lay. I have great success, and it depends upon three or four rules, by observing which I believe a good living can be made by hens and turkeys. I give my fowls great range—eighteen acres belong to them exclusively. Then the broods have the range of the lot, and the turkeys go half a mile from the house. The eighteen acres of poultry yard is rough land of little use for tillage. It has a pond in it, and many rocks and bushes and weeds, and sandy places and ash-heaps, and lime and bones and grass, and a place which I plow up to give them worms. When a hen has set I take her box, throw out the straw and earth, let it be out in the sun and rain for a few days, and give it a good coat of whitewash on both sides. In winter, when it is very cold, I have an old stove in their house, and keep them from freezing. There is also an open fireplace, where I build a fire in cool, wet days. They dry themselves, and when the fire goes out there is a bed of ashes for them to wallow in. Summer and winter my hens have all the lime, ashes and sand they want. Another reason why I have such luck is because my poultry yard receives all the scraps from the Metropolitan hotel. Egg-making is no easy work, and hens will not do much of it without high feed. They need just what a man who works requires—wheat bread and meat. Even when wheat costs $2, I believe in feeding it to hens. As to breeds, I prefer the Brahmas, light and dark. I change roosters every spring, and a man on the farm has no other duty than to take care of my poultry. I frequently turn off three thousand spring chickens in a single season.—Practical Planter.

ONIONS FOR POULTRY.—It is a well known fact to owners of poultry that the occasional use of onions, mixed and fed to poultry with their other food, is one of the best ways of keeping a yard of poultry in health. I am afraid it has not received the attention and use that its merits really demand. I am satisfied that the use of this vegetable would prevent three-fourths of the disease that a poultry yard is subject to. Not that it is a cure-all after disease has once secured a hold, but I know that I have cured cases of most severe roup by its use after standard remedies had failed. I became convinced that if an article like this would cure, the occasional use of it would be a preventive, and such I have found it to be not only in roup, but in all those diseases that poultry are liable to under carelessness and mismanagement. Fowls will readily eat it if it is sliced fine and mixed with their food. Give it as often as once a week—oftener if you choose; it will do them good. Make a trial of this vegetable, breeders of poultry, and then you will know for a certainty how to appreciate it.

FENCE POSTS.—The following experience on the mooted question whether fence posts will last longer when set in the same position in which they grew, or vice versa, is given by a writer: Some twenty-three or four years since I set a fence inclosing house and door yard—a rail and banister fence. The posts were sawed from good sized first-growth red chestnut logs. To saw them tapering, one-half of them must be sawed to set in the ground top down, and the other half bottom down. The posts were set promiscuously, and to this day there has been no distinguishable difference in their lasting quality, unless it be where some of them had more sap in them than others, and these gave out first, without regard to which end was set down.

AS THE spokes of a carriage wheel approach their center they approach each other; so, also, when men are brought to Jesus Christ, the center of life and hope, they are drawn toward each other in brotherly relationship, and stand side by side journeying to their heavenly home. Rev. F. J. Sergeant.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

Dolbear Commercial College

A CARD.

All who wish a cash-paying education for themselves or sons can obtain it in the shortest possible time, and with the least possible expense, at

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
Nos. 164 and 166 Canal St., New Orleans.

This College, founded in 1832, and chartered by the Legislature of Louisiana, has a full and able Faculty, and separate professors for each branch of study, so as to save the time and money of students, and fit them at once for business. They can take the Commercial Course, or the modern or ancient languages or mathematics, Book-keeping or Penmanship alone, or the whole course of the College. They have a LIFE SCHOLARSHIP in all the departments they enter and never pay but once. Persons from twelve to sixty years of age attend.

N. B.—Of all our numerous graduates for the past thirty-nine years, not one is now out of profitable employment, so far as known. Those of last year are now receiving from $1,000 to $3,000 per annum. We have ample arrangements for board, from $25 to $30 a month. When Clubs of three or more enter at the same time ten per cent. deduction is made.

There are no vacations. Students can begin at any time. Those who begin soon will be able to fill good situations in the summer, when Merchants make their changes. Liberal deduction for sons of clergymen and crippled soldiers. For catalogues address my4 1y RUFUS DOLBEAR, President.

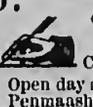
J. W. BLACKMAN'S



COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
61 CAMP STREET,
Corner Commercial Place, N. O.

Open day and evening the entire year.

Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics and Languages are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from fifteen to fifty years of age attend. Instruction given privately to each student, who has a separate desk to himself, and is put through a thorough and systematic course of study to qualify him for the situation he intends to fill. Persons who have neglected their education are here speedily prepared for business. Students from the country may obtain board in the family of the principal.

TERMS—Twenty per cent. less than other Commercial Colleges in this city. Cost of full Commercial Course only $100. Average time, three to four months.

The principal has been a professional teacher in New Orleans since 1851.

For circulars address

J. W. BLACKMAN,
se10 1y New Orleans.

HOMER COLLEGE.

The scholastic exercises of the Fall Session of this College, located at Homer, Louisiana, under the care of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will begin on the FIRST TUESDAY of September next.

FACULTY.

Rev. J. E. Conn, President and Professor of Mental and Moral Science, Greek Language and Literature.

J. W. NICHOLSON, Professor of Pure and Mixed Mathematics, and Natural Science.

——, Professor of Civil Engineering.

A. C. CALHOUN, A. B., Adjunct Professor of Languages and English Literature.

The Preparatory Department is under the care of all the Faculty.

TERMS PER SESSION OF FIVE MONTHS.

Tuition in Collegiate Department.... $25 00
Preparatory studies..... $15 00 and 20 00
Contingent fee 1 50

Board in private families per month, $11. Board with room furnished, $13.

Total expenses for board and tuition will range from $85 to $105 per session, while the course of studies is as full and thorough as that of any college in the land.

Active measures have been taken for a full and permanent endowment.

For health and association it is believed that the location cannot be surpassed.

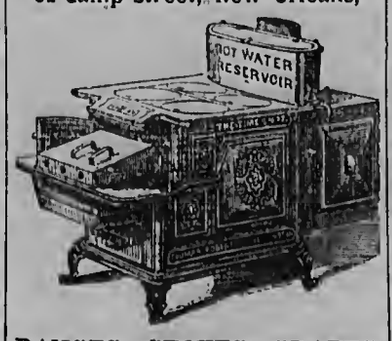
It is the aim of the Trustees to place Homer College in the front rank.

For further particulars address

au20 1y W. F. MORELAND.

STOVES AND TINWARE.

ZABLE & DALTON,
62 Camp Street, New Orleans,



RANGES, STOVES, GRATES,
HOLLOW WARE, CROCKERY,
PLATED WARE,
AND HOUSE-FURNISHING GOODS.

Manufacturers of all kinds of

Tin & Premium Japanned Ware,
OIL CANS, LARGE AND SMALL.

Southern Agents for W. C. Davis & Co.'s

Black Oak, Favorite, Creole, Kentucklan and Paragon Stoves.

The Paragon is the only Stove equal to a Range. The Favorite reached a sale of 12,000 in the third year of its existence.

We are also Agents for the Times, Peerless, Home Comfort and Other Cooking Stoves.

OSBORN BIRD AND ANIMAL CAGES,

The celebrated Arbestos Roofing and Roof Coating, Barstow's beautiful Elevated Oven Ranges, French and European Ranges and Broilers. Our

Bath Tubs, Toilet Sets, Water Coolers,

COAL HODS AND BIRD CAGES

Challenge competition in price and appearance.

ZABLE & DALTON

OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO THE TRADE.
fe18 tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves!

THESE are not the best the world ever saw, nor do I pretend to say that they will last for ages and generations to come; neither will they bake bread or warm rooms without some little wood or coal, and just the least bit of fire, judiciously applied. But I do believe they are just as good as any now in use, and with the same care in using and skill in managing will perform as well, and prove as durable and economical as the most approved pattern. For sale by

G. W. W. GOODWYN,

Manufacturer and dealer in all kinds of plain Tinware, Japanned Ware, Stamped Tinware, both plain and retinned, Tinners' Furnishing Goods; Banker's Patent Safety Cans, for shipping oils, turpentine, alcohol, benzine, and all kinds of liquids which require safety in packing.

Also JOB WORK of all kinds, in Tin and Sheet Iron, promptly attended to. Stoves and Stove Pipe repaired and fitted up to order on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms, at my new store,

No. 52 Gravier Street,
Sign of the old, old Coffee Pot.
no26 1y

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ARROW TIE.

FOR BALING COTTON THE ARROW TIE is the most popular, being the best Cotton Tie in use.

Planters and Cotton Pressmen everywhere prefer it to all others.

THE ARROW TIE

was used to cover MORE THAN HALF THE CROP OF 1869, giving entire satisfaction.

The patentee and manufacturer of the celebrated ARROW TIE, J. J. McComb, formerly of New Orleans, now residing in Liverpool, having control of the best and most extensive Rolling Mills in Europe, is constantly importing large stocks of this popular Tie, manufactured of the very best quality of English iron, to meet the increasing demand for it throughout all the Cotton States.

Planters can buy or order the ARROW TIE of all dealers in Iron Ties, and of country merchants generally, at the lowest market price; and we respectfully solicit the patronage of Planters and Factors everywhere.

H. T. BARTLETTE AND
R. W. RAYNE,
General Agents for the Arrow Tie,
Je18 1y 124 Caroadelet St., New Orleans.

Advertise! Advertise! Advertise!

SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE! SUBSCRIBE!

THE MOREHOUSE CONSERVATIVE.

A LIVE LOCAL JOURNAL; Independent and Conservative; devoted to general news and public interests. It is published weekly at Bastrop, Louisiana. Sent to any point out of the parish at $2. A twenty eight column sheet, printed on beautiful white paper, and in clear type. A large and almost daily increasing circulation. The official and only paper published in one of the richest parishes of this rich State, its columns offer superior inducements to advertisers. Orders solicited. Address

DAVES & SCHROEDER,
Bastrop, La.
REV. J. T. DAVES, Editor. aju6 2m

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL MUSIC.

THE PEARL.

The Latest, Best and Most Popular collection of Sabbath School Songs. No old or worn out tunes, but everything New, Bright and Attractive. Don't fail to send for a specimen copy. Price, bound in boards, 35 cents; $3.60 per dozen. Sold by all Booksellers, or a copy mailed to any address on receipt of 35 cents. Address

S. BRAINARD & SONS,
my14 4t Publishers, Cleveland, Ohio.

G. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK,
Former Ch. Jus. La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys, Counselors and Solicitors,

Cor. of Camp street and Commercial Place,
se25 NEW ORLEANS.

MEDICAL.

N. JENKINS' ANNIHILATOR,

A Purely Vegetable Compound

FOR THE PERMANENT CURE OF

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

THE SUBSCRIBER takes pleasure in being able to announce to the public that the above mentioned painful diseases can be entirely and permanently cured. Many popular medicines of the day have rendered inestimable relief to sufferers from these affections. But experience has demonstrated that such relief is only temporary, and that the patient is not cured through their instrumentality.

The remedy now offered eradicates every vestige of the diseases of which it claims to be the "Annihilator," and there can be no relapse. While it is a simple preparation of purely vegetable substances, that can do no injury, the unparalleled success of the proprietor in the use of it in the southern and southwestern parts of this State, (to which localities, and especially to Fisher T. Rawson and James E. Bradley, he refers those who desire facts before trying it for themselves) justifies him in offering the Annihilator as a positive cure for Rheumatism and Gout. It is a broad assertion, but a fair trial of it will certainly convince the most skeptical that it is not an exaggerated one.

What the Annihilator Will Do.

1. From one to two bottles will cure permanently any first attack of Rheumatism or Gout.

2. From two to twelve bottles, according to durat on of disease, will cure permanently any case of Rheumatism or Gout.

3. It will cure many cases of Neuralgia from the simple fact that the origin of the disease has been of rheumatic character.

PRICE, $5 PER BOTTLE.

No charge made except for medicine. Full directions as to use and for further information address

N. JENKINS,
100 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
fe18 1y

BRACES AND TRUSSES.—DR. JOHN D'ANGELL informs the medical profession and others that he has constantly on hand and for sale a complete assortment of BENNING'S TRUSSES, Spinal and Shoulder Braces, and other appliances for the prevention, relief and cure of general debility, physical weakness and derangements of public speakers and singers, palpitation of the heart, bronchitis and weakness of the lungs, spinal weakness and deformity, dyspepsia and nervous affections, constipation and chronic diarrhea, female derangements and extreme displacements of the womb, RUPTURE, Prolapsus-ani, and weakness of the male and female system.

These light, cool and springy auxiliaries are the special favorites of the profession, are intensely common-sense and rational in their action; supply a missing link in treatment; place the above affections in a safe and more hopeful light, and often effect cures where medicine can only palliate, more than it can cure a hernia or a dislocated joint.

He specially desires an examination of these appliances by the profession and sufferers. Where necessary the professional application of the above braces will be made under our supervision or that of the family physician.

These valuable appliances are sanctioned by a large number of the medical profession in the United States and Europe as the best adapted to fulfill the purpose for which they are intended, and the Trusses and Braces are adopted by the United States government for the use of the army and navy. Terms cash. Consultations free. Send for their pamphlet. It is better to call.

Office and residence, 152 JULIA STREET, near Camp, New Orleans. je11 1y

NOTICE.....NOTICE.....NOTICE.....

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Remedy

FOR THE BLOOD.

This remedy will cure Rheumatism, Gout and all kinds of disease of the skin, and every variety of Cutaneous Eruption, from the slightest flush to the most inveterate superficial Leprosy. Blotches, Piles, Pimples, Boils, Discolorations, Scaly Rash, Tetter, Ringworms, Itch, Liver Complaints, Kidney and Spinal Affections, Sore Throat and Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Scrofula and Cancers yield to its influence in a few applications.

PRICE, $1 PER BOTTLE.

Within two months this remedy has created a sensation among the people afflicted with the above diseases. It never fails to cure radically the very worst case; and the demand for the medicine is very great.

DR. IDAHOE'S

Rocky Mountain Indian Salve,

FOR CORNS, BUNIONS AND PILES.

This Indian Salve cures Corns, Bunions and Piles in a few applications, radically. The buyer will apply the Salve but two or three times, when the inflammation will be removed at once. It is never known to fail. Price, Fifty Cents a box.

For sale by all Druggists, and at FLEMING'S Patent Medicine Depot, corner of Bienville and Magazine streets.

General Depot, 25 ST. CHARLES STREET, the office of A. Bouchard, New Orleans.

For testimonials refer to our pamphlet.

Country orders promptly attended to.

Je4 1y

$1.000 REWARD FOR ANY CASE of Blind, Bleeding, Itching or Ulcerated Piles that

DE BING'S PILE REMEDY

fails to cure. It is prepared expressly to cure the Piles, and nothing else, and has cured cases of over twenty years' standing. Sold by all Druggists.

VIA FUGA.

De Bing's Via Fuga is the pure juice of Barks, Herbs, Roots and Berries, for

CONSUMPTION,

Inflammation of the Lungs; all Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases, Organic Weakness, Female Afflictions, General Debility, and all complaints of the Urinary Organs in male or female; producing Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Gravel, Dropsy and Scrofula, which in time generally terminate in Consumptive decay. It purifies and enriches the blood, the life of glandular and secretive system; corrects and strengthens the nervous and muscular forces; it acts like a charm on weak, nervous and debilitated females, both young and old. None should be without it. Sold everywhere.

LABORATORY—142 Franklin street, Baltimore, Maryland. jy30 1y

RUPTURE CURED.

With an experience of more than two years' practice in the treatment and cure of RUPTURE and HERNIA, I will guarantee more perfect relief, comfort and security and a more rapid improvement than can be obtained of any other person or appliance in the South, without regard to the age of the patient or length of time afflicted.

Also Instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity on hand or made to order.

Call on or address, with stamp for circular, Dr. T. ST. C. FERRISS, office No. 16 St. Charles street, up stairs. Hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. my21 1y

J. H. RUSE AND

G. F. F. THOMPSON,

Attorneys and Counselors at Law

NO. 20 ST. CHARLES STREET,

fe18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

STANDARD EDUCATIONAL WORKS

PUBLISHED BY

CHARLES SCRIBNER & COMPANY,

654 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Guyot's Geographical Text-Books.

"Incomparably superior to anything published."—Agassiz.

Introduction to the Study of Geography.
Elementary Geography.
Intermediate Geography.
Common School Geography.

Guyot's System is approved and indorsed by the most distinguished literary and scientific men of our nation; such as Profs. Agassiz, Dana, Tenney, Henry and others, celebrated in science throughout Europe as well as at home.

The fact that ONE MILLION (1,000,000) copies of the work are in use in the schools of our country, at the present time, is proof of its unparalleled success attending the New System, for no other series of books ever published in America have ever secured so rapid and extensive introduction. They are the text-books in nearly all the colleges, seminaries, normal schools, etc., in the United States; in the public schools of the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Rochester, and most of the cities and towns of the Eastern States; Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta, and most of the other important towns and cities, numbering nine thousand schools in Ohio, and hundreds of towns and cities in the other Western States, while in the Southern States and California they are being extensively adopted.

Believing that the publication of Professor Guyot's series has marked a new and better era in the presentation of geographical science, that by it the pupils of this generation will obtain a clearer, more definite and extended knowledge of the world on which they live, and that it is so systematized as to render that knowledge more valuable and permanent, we commend it to the attention of all interested in educational improvements and progress.

FELTER'S POPULAR SCHOOL ARITHMETICS.

First Lessons, (Illustrated.)
Primary Arithmetic, (Illustrated.)
Intellectual Arithmetic.
Intermediate Arithmetic.
Grammar School Arithmetic.
Practical Arithmetic.

PROF. COOLEY'S WORKS ON NATURAL SCIENCE

A Text-book of Chemistry.
A Text-book of Natural Philosophy.

PROF. SANBORN TENNEY'S NATURAL HISTORIES.

Natural History of Animals for the Young.
A Manual of Zoology.
Natural History Tablets.

PROF. HENRY N. DAY'S WORKS.

Introduction to the Study of English Literature.
Art of Composition.
Art of Discourse.
Elements of Logic.
American Speller.

PROF. SHELDON'S WORKS ON OBJECT-TEACHING.

Manual of Elementary Instruction.
Lessons on Objects.
First Reading Book.
Phonic Reading Charts.

GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION.

Dalgleish's Grammatical Analysis.
Harper's Practical Composition.

PROF. GUYOT'S WALL MAPS FOR SCHOOLS.

Large Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $75. Intermediate Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $18 50. Common School Series.—Price, $25. Primary Series.—Price, $15. Classical Series.—Wholesale list price, per set, $45

PERCE'S MAGNETIC GLOBES.

One dozen Magnetic Objects, representing men of different races, ships, steamers, lighthouses, and various animals, accompanying each Globe, without additional cost.

Lessons on the Globe. Illustrated by Perce's Magnetic Globe and Magnetic Objects. By Mrs. Mary Howe Smith.

Extra Magnetic Objects for Perce's Globes. I. Animals of all Climates. II. National Flags.

Descriptive catalogues and mammoth circulars of testimonials forwarded free of postage to any address. Most favorable terms afforded to school boards or teachers desirous of introducing the above Text-books.

Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,
my21 1y 112 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

W. H. SUTTON. J. R. POWELL. J. K. HUEY.

SUTTON, POWELL & HUEY,

COTTON FACTORS

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

186 ..... COMMON STREET 186

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
se17 1y

J. L. DUNNICA, New Orleans. T. A. HAMILTON, Memphis.
O. P. HARRISON, New Orleans.

J. L. DUNNICA & CO.,

FLOUR, PRODUCE AND PROVISION

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

50 .....TCHOUPITOULAS ST.....50

NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA.
oc22 1y

ANDREW J. AIKEN. JOHN W. WATT.

AIKEN & WATT,

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants,

60.....CARONDELET STREET..... 60

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention given to orders for the purchase of all descriptions of Produce, Agricultural Implements and Plantation Supplies. oc30 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants,

31.....PERDIDO STREET.....31

oc3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ALEX. BRITTON. RICH. F. BRITTON.

A. BRITTON & CO.,

GENERAL STEAMBOAT AGENTS,

COMMISSION & FORWARDING MERCHANTS,

No. 90 Common street, New Orleans.
oc3 1y

H. F. GIVEN,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTOR,

—AND—

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANT,

No. 11 Union street,

se18 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. PERKINS,

DEALER IN

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

CANES, UMBRELLAS

AND FANCY ARTICLES,

120.....CANAL STREET.....120

Under Crescent Billiard Hall.

oc29 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

PIANO FORTE, ORGAN AND MUSIC DEALER,

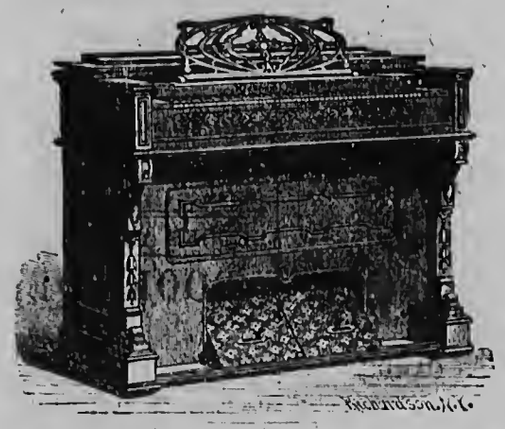
80 AND 82 BARONNE STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

SOLE SOUTHERN AGENT FOR THE UNRIVALED PIANOS MANUFACTURED BY

Dunham & Sons, Marschall & Mittauer, and J. P. Hale,

Which for brilliancy, purity and sweetness of tone, durability of workmanship and beauty of exterior polish,

CHALLENGE COMPARISON.



Sole Southern Agent for E. P. Needham & Son's

CELEBRATED ORGANS AND MELODEONS,

FOR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS, PARLORS, LODGES, Etc.,

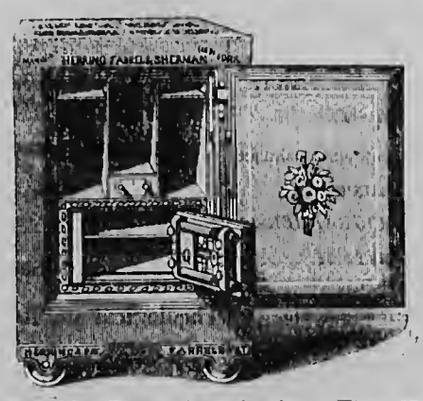
Which any impartial mind would declare superior to any Reed Organs manufactured either in this country or Europe.

PRICE LISTS OF PIANOS AND ORGANS will be mailed to any applicant, who can make their selection and order with confidence. Any instrument failing to come up to expectation may be exchanged for another. Every instrument is inspected and carefully tuned before being shipped, and satisfaction and worth of money are guaranteed to all purchasers. Liberal terms of sale are made with responsible persons, who can pay so much monthly until the total amount has been paid. The patronage of the Methodist Church and brethren is solicited. Reference is made to Bishop Keener, Rev. Linus Parker, D. D., and Rev. R. J. Harp, who have bought Pianos from this house.

PHILIP WERLEIN, 80 AND 82 BARONNE ST.

☞ Second-hand Pianos from $150 to $250. PIANOS REPAIRED AND TUNED at short notice. fe18 1y

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION SAFES.



The Most Reliable Protection Against Fire Now Known.

WINNER OF THE WAGER OF 30,000 FRANCS ($6000 in Gold!)

AT THE GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONTEST,

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE, PARIS.

GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS AND DIPLOMAS

Have also been awarded the subscribers for

THEIR SAFES AND LOCKS

By the following Societies and Institutions:

American Institute, New York.
Metropolitan Mechanics' Institute, Washington, D. C.
Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.
Pennsylvania State Fair.
Virginia State Fair.
Missouri State Fair.
Louisiana State Fair, 1869 and 1870, and many others.

Every Merchant, Public Officer and Planter should have a Safe. All can appreciate the inestimable value of a Safe in which they can place books, papers and important documents, confident that they are beyond the reach of the most disastrous Fire. Such are HERRING'S SAFES. Nearly 700 have been tested by accidental Fires, always preserving their contents, the aggregate value of which amounts to Millions of Dollars.

In use in every State and Territory of this country, and more than thirty different Foreign Nations. They are acknowledged to be the best article of the kind manufactured.

DWELLING HOUSE SAFES,

For Silver Plate, valuable Papers, Ladies' Jewelry, etc.

ALSO, SIDEBOARD AND PARLOR SAFES,

Of elegant workmanship and finish, with marble tops, grained oak, walnut, rosewood or any color desired to imitate furniture.

Jewelers' Safes, Made in any Style and Fitted to Order.

HERRING'S

NEW PATENT CHAMPION BANKERS' SAFE.

Made of Wrought Iron, Steel and Iron welded, and the new metal, "SPIEGEL EISEN," with Patent Rubber Flange protection against Powder or Nitro-Glycerine.

Not one of our first-class Bankers' Chests have as yet been robbed by burglars, though more are in use and more have resisted the attempts made upon them than any other kind.

Vault Doors, of any desired thickness or size, unsurpassed for security and style of workmanship, on hand or made to order.

Estimates for all kinds of Vault work and Bankers' Chests furnished on application.

☞ Old Safes taken in exchange or repaired.

Our Illustrated Price List, "Fighting Fire for Twenty-six Years," with testimonials, etc., sent free on application.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN,
53 Camp Street, New Orleans.

HERRING, FARREL & SHERMAN, 251 Broadway, New York.
Factory Block bounded by Hudson St. and Ninth Ave., and 13th and 14th Sts.
FARREL, HERRING & CO., 629 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.
Factory—Fifteenth and Willow Streets.
HERRING, FARREL & CO., 40 State Street, Chicago.
Factory—Fourteenth Street and Indiana Avenue.
fe23 3m

"Southern Books for Southern Schools."

School-Books which are Unsectional, Unpartisan, and Unpolitical.

PREPARED BY THE MOST EMINENT SOUTHERN SCHOLARS, AND

ENTIRELY ACCEPTABLE TO SOUTHERN TEACHERS AND PARENTS.

The University Publishing Co.,

An Association composed of many of the most eminent citizens of the several Southern States, feeling the necessity for a series of School Books which should be entirely unsectional, unpartisan, and unpolitical, and in their teaching and in their teaching thought and feeling of the Southern people—which should present only the facts of history and science—should not be offensive to the of School and College Text-books are now issuing a complete series and educators named below, which by the eminent Southern scholars are the

Cheapest, Best, and Most Beautiful School-Books

Now published. The "University Series" embraces

MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES,

By Commodore M. F. Maury, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark an era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach Geography as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts."

Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history.

Venable's Arithmetical Series,

By Charles S. Venable, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business education. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout.

Holmes' History of the United States,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is acceptable to Southern teachers and parents. It comes down to the present date.

THE "UNIVERSITY SERIES" OF SCHOOL-BOOKS

COMPRISES, ALSO,

De Vere's French Grammar, Readers, etc.,

By M. Schele DeVere, LL.D., Professor of Modern Languages in the University of Va.

Gildersleeve's Latin Series,

By B. L. Gildersleeve, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

Carter's Elements of General History,

By Rev. J. P. Carter, A.M., of Baltimore, Maryland.

Holmes' English Grammars,

By George F. Holmes, LL.D., of the University of Virginia.

LeConte's Scientific Series,

By the Professors LeConte, late of the University of South Carolina.

Johnston's English Classics,

By R. M. Johnston, A.M., late Professor of Rhetoric and Belles-Lettres in the University of Georgia.

To which list other books in other departments will early be added.

Send for our full ILLUSTRATED DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE, which will be mailed free to any teacher or school officer. Liberal terms given for introduction.

Address

UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY,

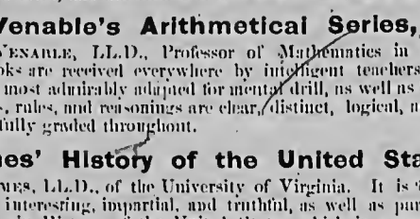
155 and 157 Crosby Street, New York.

☞ A full supply of "The University Series" always on hand, and teachers and schools supplied by

ROBERT J. HARP, Bookseller,
112 Camp Street, New Orleans,

And by all prominent booksellers throughout the South. dh2 1y

PIANOS AND ORGANS.



PIANOS AND ORGANS.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,

NO. 129 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

IMPORTER OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS & STRINGS,

And Publisher of Music.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT OF THE KIND IN THE SOUTH.

Parties needing or having an order for a Piano Forte, Organ, Melodeon, Violins, Guitars, Accordeons, Strings, Music, or any article in the Musical line, can be supplied with the same at Wholesale or Retail, with full guarantee that it shall be the best that can be purchased for the money.

My stock of Piano Fortes consists of the best Pianos made in the world. Of American Pianos the STEINWAY and KNABE; of German Pianos the upright BLAEDEL; of French Pianos the upright PLEYEL. Of low-priced Pianos, that can be conscientiously recommended, I have the HAINES PIANOS, which combine beauty of tone and durability with moderate prices. A full assortment of eight different styles constantly on hand.

Southern Wholesale Agent for the celebrated MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, these being the best and at the same time the cheapest Organs for church or parlor use made.

All my small Musical Instruments and Strings are imported direct from the best EUROPEAN MANUFACTURERS, and being purchased for cash, are sold below Northern prices.

Every article warranted to give satisfaction and to be as represented.

Persons at a distance can order with the full assurance that they will get as good bargains as if they were present to select in person.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Music Dealer, 129 Canal Street.
le23 1y

ADVOCATE CALENDAR, 1871.

Months	Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
JAN	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
FEB				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28
M'H				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30	31
APR							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30
M'Y		1	2	3	4	5	6
	7	8	9	10	11	12	13
	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
	21	22	23	24	25	26	27
	28	29	30	31
JE.					1	2	3
	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	11	12	13	14	15	16	17
	18	19	20	21	22	23	24
	25	26	27	28	29	30

Months	Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
JU.							1
	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
	9	10	11	12	13	14	15
	16	17	18	19	20	21	22
	23	24	25	26	27	28	29
	30	31
AU.			1	2	3	4	5
	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
	13	14	15	16	17	18	19
	20	21	22	23	24	25	26
	27	28	29	30	31
SEP						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
OCT	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
	8	9	10	11	12	13	14
	15	16	17	18	19	20	21
	22	23	24	25	26	27	28
	29	30	31
NOV				1	2	3	4
	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
	12	13	14	15	16	17	18
	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
	26	27	28	29	30
DEC						1	2
	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
	10	11	12	13	14	15	16
	17	18	19	20	21	22	23
	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
	31

W. H. PIERSON. E. L. HEWS.

PIERSON & HEWS,

DEALERS IN

Fine Clothing & Furnishing Goods,

NOS. 12 AND 15 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.
fe11 1y

THE DU BOIS

Patent Flange Rib Cotton Gin.

WILL NOT CUT STEMS OR HULLS.

THESE GINS are so constructed that hard substances getting into them will not injure the saws; and hulls will not be cut and thrown into the lint room to damage the sample. It would be well for persons wanting Gins to order at once, as we could not supply the demand for them last season. These Gins

Took the Premium

At the Orleans; Houston, Texas; Jackson, Mississippi, and Selma Fairs last year.

Mr. Du Bois, the inventor, is at the Factory, superintending the manufacturing.—They will gin at least thirty per cent. faster than other Gins. They will be on exhibition at the next annual State Fair in New Orleans, Louisiana. All orders strictly attended to

Address DU BOIS & CO.,
mh16 tf Demopolis, Ala.

CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA.

The session of this college will begin on the FIRST MONDAY in October next. The session embraces forty weeks.

EXPENSES.

Collegiate department, per session... $60 00
Preparatory department, per session. 40 00
Incidental expenses..... 5 00

Tuition for five months payable in advance.

Boarding can be had in good families at from $15 to $20 per month.

For further particulars address

PROF. A. R. HOLCOMBE,
se10 1y Jackson, La.

S. K. RUSS,
Successor to Hoobe & Russ,

DEALER IN

PORK, HACON, LARD, HAMS AND HULK MEATS,

NO. 47 TCHOUPITOULAS STREET,

de24 1y NEW ORLEANS.

Scientific.

THE Boston Journal of Chemistry thinks that the introduction of coal oils for lubricating purposes has diminished the danger of spontaneous combustion, inasmuch as these oils have not the property of absorbing oxygen, which is possessed by vegetable and animal oils.

THE Conchmakers' International Magazine is excellently adapted to the special wants of its patrons. Its various departments present information of the progress of the art and new suggestions in a business-like manner, which must commend it to the practical workman. J. D. Ware, Philadelphia.

A VALUABLE railroad train signal-light has been invented. In the center of the roof of the rear car of the train, over the rear axle, is placed a square lantern, with alternate panes of red and white glass. The lantern is connected by means of a shaft with one of the axles in such a manner that eight revolutions of the axle produce one of the lantern. When the car stops the lantern of course ceases to revolve. Upon each side of this main lantern are two others, also connected with the axle in such a way that when the train is moving forward a solid red light is displayed, and if backing a solid green light. The engineer of a train coming up in the rear can thus tell, by observing these lights, whether the train before him is moving or at a standstill; and if moving, in which direction.

ONE OF THE RINGS OF SATURN LOST. Prof. Struve, the distinguished astronomer of Poltowa, has been for years watching the rings of Saturn; and the inner one of the three rings, an obscure, partly transparent mass of what appeared to be vapor, has been seen to approach the body of the planet, and to widen its distance from the other rings, which seemed to be fluid in character, or perhaps made up of myriads of small bodies, moving together like the streams of meteors which supply the periodic showers. But during several months past this inner ring has fallen more rapidly, and finally the attraction of Saturn entirely overcame the centrifugal force, and it closed upon the body of the planet, forming a belt, which was gradually diffused over its surface, so that there is now no trace whatever of the ring left. Is this to be the fate also of the other rings? Or will they ultimately gather into satellites, as has more commonly been supposed?

VERY POOR GEOLOGY.—Some remarkable facts in confutation of Sir Charles Lyell's theories of the myriad ages of geological evolution are supplied by the investigations of Prof. Kjernulf, of Christiana, who is making the survey of the Norwegian coast for the government. He has examined the raised benches and terraces, and declares Sir Charles Lyell's theory (which requires two hundred and forty thousand years for their present elevation) to be utterly baseless. In the first place, he says, the uppermost limit of the sea action is only one-tenth as high as Lyell states, and consequently that this single correction would cut down his figures from two hundred and forty thousand to twenty-four thousand years. Secondly, he proves that the coast has not risen by a constant slow motion, but by a series of sudden elevations, separated by periods of perfect rest; and consequently that all calculations based upon a supposed uniform rate are worthless, and the total time spent in the elevation may have been very short. Finally, he says, the idea that the coast is now rising is entirely erroneous, this being a stationary period.

AT A RECENT MEETING of the Dartmouth Scientific Association a paper was read by Prof. C. H. Hitchcock, upon the "Geology of Mt. Washington," in which he showed that the mountain is an inverted anticlinal belonging apparently to a new geological period, since the force of elevation came from the northwest. The outlay of the notch is one of denudation, and the granite that has been excavated is softer than the flinty rocks on the rims of the valley; the excavated valley is of the same type as the granite valleys of the Yo Semite and of Willoughby, Vermont. The rocks on the flanks of Mt. Washington abound in andalusite, and belong to the Coos group, another new formation not far from the age of the St. John's slate. It was also shown that there had been two periods of elevation, the latter force coming from the south. The great height of the mountain seems to have resulted from this double lateral action. It was also stated that the summit of the mountain is above the limit of surface winds, and that there are no east winds on the summit, and there is consequently no danger of taking cold.

DURING 1869 no less than eleven thousand four hundred and sixteen persons in the Bengal Presidency died from snake-bites.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

The general market has exhibited rather more vitality since our last issue. A moderate business has been done in some branches of the wholesale trade. Sugar has been in good request at stiffer prices for the medium grades. The receipts of molasses have sold readily at about previous rates. Flour has been in fair demand, without any quotable varintion. Corn has sold to a liberal extent at about Friday's quotations. Provisions have ruled rather more in favor of sellers.

The wenther has been clear and fine, but our accounts from the country indicate that the heavy rains previously noticed have been followed by too low a temperature for the crops, which are manifestly backward, especially cotton. The gradual fall in the river has diminished the volume of water flowing through the Bonnet Carre crevasse, and the flood is stendily receding.

The river has fallen 2 inches since our last, and is now 2 feet 5 inches below high water mark.

COTTON.—The following are the arrivals since the fifth instant:

Louisiana and Mississippi.....bales..	9,035
Lake.....	11
Arkansas.....	1,413
Mobile.....	834
Texas.....	631
Total.....	11,924

On Saturday operations were restricted by the high pretensions of factors, but the sales nevertheless embraced 4,700 bales, mostly at previous rates, but partly at ⅛c. more for desirable lists than could have been realized on Saturday. On Monday buyers came forward with increased spirit, and although they were met by still more stringent pretensions on the part of factors, yet 5,350 bales changed hands at fuller prices, the closing quotations showing an advance of ⅛c. in middling and ¼c. in low middling and the lower grades. On Tuesday the market opened with considerable spirit, and the demand continuing active throughout the day, prices ruled still more in favor of factors, a part of the business being at previous rates, but the bulk of it at a further advance of ⅛c., and in some instances ¼c. The sales summed up 5,950 bales.

This makes an aggregate for the past three days of 16,000 bales.

The receipts at this port since the first of September (exclusive of the arrivals from Mobile, Florida and Texas) are 1,305,415 bales, against 1,053,865 bales to the same date last year, and the increase in the receipts at all the ports, up to the latest dates, as compared with last year, is 979,711 bales. In the exports from the United States to foreign countries, as compared with the same dates last year, there is an increase of 858,523 bales to Great Britain, 266,424 to other foreign ports, and a decrease of 247,322 to France.

Referring to our remarks above, we quote as follows:

Ordinary.....	11 to 12
Good ordinary.....	12¼ to 13¼
Low middling.....	14 to 14⅞
Middling.....	15 to 15⅞
Strict middling.....	15¼ to 15⅝

COTTON STATEMENT.

Stock on hand Sept. 1, 1870, bales.	20,696
Arrived past three days..	11,924
Arrived previously.....1,367,335
	1,379,259
	1,399,955
Exported past three days. 11,633
Exported previously.....1,230,158
Burned..... 950
	1,242,911
Stock on hand and on shipboard..	157,044

SUGAR.—The supplies are light, and the demand continues good, especially for the better descriptions of open kettle. The receipts are sold as they arrive, and the stock in the sheds on the landing is gradually diminishing. Prices are ruling with an upward tendency. We quote cistern bottoms at 5¾c.; inferior, 6 to 7c.; common, 8 to 8¾c.; fair, 9 to 9¼c.; fully fair, 9½ to 9⅞c.; prime, 10 to 10¼c.; choice, 10½ to 10¾c.; yellow clarified, 11½ to 12c.; white, 12½ to 13c. per pound.

MOLASSES.—The supplies are light and are sold readily, there being a good demand, especially for good fermenting and plantation reboiled. We quote 25 to 30c. for common fermenting, 35 to 45c. for good to prime fermenting, 38 to 55c. for plantation reboiled, as in quality, 50 to 60c. for cistern bottoms, 43 for centrifugal, 30 to 60c. for city refinery reboiled, and 90c. to $1 for golden sirup.

PORK.—The stock on hand is light. There has been more inquiry and the market is firmer. On Saturday 100 barrels even-weight mess sold at $18.25, 200 barrels even-weight, in two equal lots, at $18.50, and 100 do. at $19 per barrel. On Tuesday mess was held firmly at $19 per barrel. A lot of 150 barrels heavy mess sold at $19.25 per barrel. Mess is retailing at $19.50 to $20 per barrel.

BACON.—The business has been confined to a job and retail business at 7½ to 7¾c. for shoulders, 9½ to 9¾c. for clear rib sides, 10⅛ to 10½c. for clear sides, and 14 to 14½c. per pound for sugar-cured hams. On Tuesday 8 casks shoulders sold at 7¾c., and 2 tierces sugar-cured hams at 14¼c.

MONETARY.—Gold, 111¼ to 111⅜. American silver half dollars, 107¾ to 108½, and Mexican dollars at 2½ to 3 per cent. premium in gold.

Nothing has transpired in bonds except $2,000 City 7s on Tuesday at 70. A 7-30 City Certificate for $560, issued this month, sold on Saturday at 89½; $1,000, date not mentioned, on Monday at 90½, and $2,000 on Tuesday, issued in January, at 91.

The sales of warrants include $5,000 new Metropolitan Police on Saturday at 98½, $5,000 State at 52; $3,000 State on Monday at 52; and $5,000 medium and large State on Tuesday at 49, and $5,000 new Metropolitan Police at 98¾.

City Treasury notes are nominal.

CATTLE MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9, 1871.

Texas cattle, choice, per head....	$40 to 45
Texas cattle, second qual., per head	25 to 35
Texas cattle, third qual., per head	15 to 20
Hides, per lb. gross.....	7 to 9c
Sheep, first quality, per head.....	$5 to 6
Sheep, second quality, per head...	3 to 4
Sheep, third quality, per head....	2 to 2½
Milch cows, choice, per head.....	100 to 110
Milch cows, per head.....	50 to 100
Texas cows, with calves.....	.. to 80
Calves, per head	8 to 12
Yearlings, per head.....	9 to 14

N. ORLEANS WHOLESALE PRICES.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

Made up from Actual Sales as they Transpire.

ARTICLES.	FROM	TO
Agricultural Implements:
Cotton scrapers.....	5 00	7 00
Cotton sweeps.....	5 00	7 00
Cultivators, Diam. & shovel-tooth.....	7 50	10 00
Cultivators, riding.....	50 00	75 00
Cultivators, walking.....	40 00	50 00
Shovels.....	8 00	16 00
Spades.....	9 00	17 00
Axes.....	10 00	15 00
Bagging, ₩ yard:
Kentucky.....	22½	23
East India.....	20	22
Bale Rope, ₩ lb:
Kentucky.....	.. ..	.. ..
Bran, ₩ 100 lbs.....	1 25	1 30
Bread, ₩ 100 lbs:
Pilot.....	5 00	.. ..
Crackers.....	5 00	6 00
Bricks, ₩ M:
Lake.....	9 00	16 00
English fire.....	42 00	50 00
American fire.....	40 00	.. ..
Candles, ₩ lb:
Sperm, New Bedford.....	.. ..	42½
Tallow.....	.. ..	.. ..
Adamantine.....	.. ..	.. ..
Star.....	16½	16¾
Chocolate, ₩ lb:
No. 1.....	38	55
Sweet and spiced.....	35	67
Cider, ₩ bbl:
Western.....	10 00	17 00
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Coal, ₩ ton:
Cunnel.....	10 00	.. ..
Anthracite.....	.. ..	.. ..
Western, ₩ bbl.....	50	.. ..
Coffee, ₩ lb:
Havana (currency).....	25	26
Java.....	26	28
Cordova.....	24	28
Copper, ₩ lb:
Braziers'.....	30	33
Sheathing.....	.. ..	.. ..
Copper bolts.....	33	35
Yellow metal.....	25	26
Cordage, ₩ lb:
Manilla.....	22	23
Tarred, American.....	.. ..	21
Russia.....	30	.. ..
Corn meal, ₩ bbl.....	3 40	3 50
Cotton seed:
Rough, ₩ ton.....	12 00	.. ..
In sacks.....	14 00	15 00
Dyes, ₩ lb:
Logwood, Camp'y.....	4	4½
Logwood, St. Domingo...	4½	4½
Fustic, Tampico.....	5	.. ..
Indigo, ₩ lb.....	1 75	1 85
Madder.....	20	22
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western.....	16	17
Feathers, ₩ lb.....	90	95
Fish, ₩ box:
Cod.....	1 40	.. ..
Herrings.....	60	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 1, ₩ bbl....	21 00	27 00
Mackerel, No. 2.....	13 00	.. ..
Mackerel, No. 3.....	9 50	.. ..
Flaxseed, ₩ lb.....	4	6
Flour, ₩ bbl:
Double extra.....	6 65	6 75
Superfine.....	6 20	6 25
Fine.....	5 90	.. ..
Fruit, ₩ lb:
Prunes.....	12	13
Figs, drum.....	14	18
Dried apples.....	5½	6½
Currants, new.....	12½	.. ..
Almonds, soft shell.....	16	22
Raisins, M. R., ₩ box.....	.. ..	.. ..
Raisins, layer.....	3 10	3 15
Lemons, Palermo, ₩ box.	4 00	4 25
Lemons, Malaga, ₩ box..	.. ..	.. ..
Oranges, La., ₩ M.....	.. ..	.. ..
Glass, ₩ box of 50 feet:
French, 8 by 10.....	3 25	3 75
French, 10 by 12.....	3 50	4 00
French, 12 by 18.....	4 00	4 50
Grain, ₩ bushel:
Oats.....	62	05
Corn, shelled.....	70	75
Beans, ₩ bbl.....	8 50	9 00
Gunpowder, ₩ keg.....	8 50	9 50
Gunny bags, ₩ bag.....	19½	20
Hay, ₩ ton:
Western.....	23 00	25 00
Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hides, ₩ lb:
Mexican dry flint.....	.. ..	.. ..
Country dry flint.....	16	.. ..
Texas stretched ditto.....	.. ..	.. ..
Dry salted.....	13½	14
Wet salted, city slaughter.	8½	13
Iron, ₩ ton:
Pig.....	32 00	34 00
Country bar, ₩ lb.....	4	5
English.....	3½	4
Swedes, assorted.....	7	8
Hoop.....	5½	8
Sheet.....	5	8
Boiler.....	7½	8
Nail rods.....	10	12½
Cotton ties.....	5	5½
Castings, American.....	5½	.. ..
Lime, ₩ bbl:
Western.....	1 20	1 30
Shell lime.....	.. ..	.. ..
Rockland, etc.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cement.....	2 75	.. ..
Plaster Paris.....	2 15	.. ..
Lumber, ₩ M feet:
Boards, yellow pine.....	16 00	17 00
Boards, cypress.....	38 00	40 00
Oak lumber.....	.. ..	.. ..
Floor'g and ceil'g, dressed.	17 00	24 00
Floor'g and ceil'g, rough..	.. ..	18 00
Weatherboards, dressed..	18 00	20 00
Weatherboards, rough....	16 00	.. ..
Scantling.....	15 00	.. ..
Shingles, ₩ M.....	4 00	4 25
Laths.....	3 00	.. ..
Molasses, ₩ gallon:
Louisiana.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cuba.....	.. ..	.. ..
Moss, ₩ lb:
Gray country.....	.. ..	.. ..
Black country.....	6	6½
Select water-rotted.....	9½	10
Nails, ₩ lb:
American, 4@6d.....	4 75	4 90
Wrought, German.....	14	16
Wrought, English.....	14	16
Naval stores:
Tar, ₩ bbl.....	3 50	3 75
Pitch, ₩ bbl.....	2 75	3 00
Rosin, No. 1.....	2 25	2 50
Rosin, No. 2.....	2 00	2 25
Rosin, No. 3.....	1 75	1 80
Spirits Turpentine, ₩ gall.	60	65
Varnish, bright.....	50	85
Oils:
Lard, ₩ gallon.....	1 05	.. ..
Coal oil, in barrels.....	28	29
Coal oil, in cases.....	30	35
Linseed, raw.....	95	1 10
Sperm.....	1 75	2 00
Whale, refined.....	85	1 00
Cotton seed, crude.....	40	45
Cotton seed, refined.....	52	70
Castor.....	2 00	2 25
Tanners', ₩ gallon.....	00	1 00
Oil cake, ₩ ton:
C. S., decorticated.....	25 00	28 00
C. S., undecorticated.....	.. ..	23 00
Provisions, ₩ bbl:
Beef, mess, Northern.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef, prime.....	18 00	24 00
Beef, dried, ₩ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Beef tongues, ₩ dozen.....	.. ..	.. ..
Pork, mess.....	19 00	.. ..
Pork, prime mess.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hog, round, ₩ lb.....	.. ..	.. ..
Hams, ₩ lb.....	13	13½
Hams, canvassed.....	14	14½
Shoulders.....	.. ..	.. ..
Green shoulders.....	8	8½
Lard, prime, in tierces...	11½	12
Butter, Northern.....	25	40
Butter, Western.....	20	30
Cheese, American.....	14	18
Potatoes, ₩ bbl.....	2 50	3 00
Onions.....	4 00	4 50
Apples.....	.. ..	.. ..
Cabbages, ₩ crate.....	.. ..	.. ..
Rice, ₩ lb:
Louisiana.....	7	9
India, (gold, in bond).....	.. ..	.. ..
Carolina.....	8½	9¼
Sugar, ₩ lb:
Havana, white.....	.. ..	.. ..
Havana, yellow.....	10	11½
Havana, brown.....	10	10½

Special Notices.

Appointments for Quarterly Meetings.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

SELMA DISTRICT.

Peachtree, at Airmount.....May	6, 7
Suggsville, at Gosport.....	13, 14
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel	20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson.....	27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville.....June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi.....	10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground..	17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel. ..May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel.	13, 14
Union Springs station.....	20, 21
Greenville station.....	27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's..June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground.	10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove.....	17, 18

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

St. Francis street.....May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard.....	13, 14
Milton.....	20, 21
Pensacola.....	27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river.....June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel..	10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Green circuit, at Holly Spring.. May	6, 7
Eutaw.....	13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station...	20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel.....	27, 28
Demopolis.....June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland.....	10, 11

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Covington, at West Pearl.....May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo.....	13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel.....	20, 21
Marion Junction, at Asbury chapel	20, 21
Spring Hill, at Jefferson.....	27, 28
Jackson, at Coffeeville.....June	3, 4
Choctaw Corner, at Bashi.....	10, 11
Rembert Hills, at camp ground..	17, 18

M. S. ANDREWS, P. E.

UNION SPRINGS DISTRICT.

Troy circuit, at Wesley chapel. ..May	6, 7
Rocky Mount ct., at Hill's chapel.	13, 14
Union Springs station.....	20, 21
Greenville station.....	27, 28
Fort Deposit circuit, at Mason's..June	3, 4
Rutledge circuit, at camp ground.	10, 11
Elba mission, at Oak Grove.....	17, 18

J. W. SHORES, P. E., Orion, Ala.

MOBILE DISTRICT.

St. Francis street.....May	6, 7
Pollard circuit, at Pollard.....	13, 14
Milton.....	20, 21
Pensacola.....	27, 28
Eastern Shore, at Fish river.....June	3, 4
St. Stephen's, at Andrew chapel..	10, 11

The District Conference will be held at Pensacola, beginning May 25. All official members within the district are members of the District Conference.

H. URQUHART, P. E.

DEMOPOLIS DISTRICT.

Green circuit, at Holly Spring.. May	6, 7
Eutaw.....	13, 14
Gainesville, at Ramsey station...	20, 21
Belmont, at Wesley chapel.....	27, 28
Demopolis.....June	3, 4
Forkland, at Forkland.....	10, 11

S. H. COX, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SUMMIT DISTRICT.

Covington, at West Pearl.....May	6, 7
St. Helena, at Mount Nebo.....	13, 14
Tangipahoa, at Bethel.....	20, 21
Arcola, at Amite City.....June	3, 4
Holmesville, at Topsaw.....	10, 11
Livingston, at James' chapel....	17, 18
Bogue Chitto.....	24, 25

My address is Magnolia, Mississippi.

J. NICHOLSON, P. E.

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Canton station.....May	6, 7
Madison circuit, at Livingston...	13, 14
Camden circuit, at Soule chapel .	20, 21
Sulphur Springs ct., at Union....	27, 28
Raymond circuit, at Raymond....June	3, 4
Brownsville circuit, at Liberty....	10, 11
Carthage circuit, at Oak Hill.....	17, 18

At these Quarterly Conferences the lay delegates to the District Conference will be elected. Each Conference will elect four delegates; and we hope there will be a full attendance of the members.

H. H. MONTGOMERY, P. E.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Brandywine circuit, at Nebo... May	6, 7
Scotland ct., at Wright's church..	13, 14
Pleasant Valley ct., at Rehobeth.	20, 21
Brookhaven station.....	27, 28
Wesson, at Beauregard.....June	3, 4
Martinsville ct., at Pleasant Grove	8, 9
Crystal Springs station.....	15, 16
Jackson circuit.....	22, 23

GEO. F. THOMPSON, P. E.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Rooky Springs, at Steele chapel..May	6, 7
North Warren Milldale and Cane Ridge, at Beechland.....	13, 14
Cayuga, at Cayuga.....	20, 21
South Warren.....	27, 28
Clover Hill.....June	3, 4
Lower Deer Creek.....	10, 11

JOHN A. B. JONES, P. E., Port Gibson, Miss.

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Gainesville miss., at Pearlington. May	6, 7
Handsboro circuit, at Biloxi.....	13, 14
White Plains miss., at Coalville..	20, 21
East and West Pascagoula circuit, at Moss Point.....	27, 28
Green circuit.....June	3, 4
Enon circuit.....	10, 11

The brethren will please bear in mind that the election for delegates to the District Conference will take place at each Quarterly Meeting during the present round.

W. W. HURST, P. E., Brandon, Miss.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

East Baton Rouge, at Blackwater. May	5, 6
Liberty, at Sharon.....	19, 20
Meadville.....	26, 27

J. L. FORSYTH, P. E.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Wayne.....May	6, 7
Clark.....	13, 14
Paulding.....	20, 21
Toomsuba and Marion.....	27, 28
Enterprise station, Quarterly Conference at night.....	31

The District Conference meets at Enterprise, June 1-4. Bishop Paine is expected to preside. WM. B. HINES, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.

Alexandria station.....May	20, 21
Evergreen and Big Cane.....	27, 28
Rapides circuit.....June	3, 4
Spring Creek circuit.....	10, 11
Atlanta circuit.....	17, 18
Stumsport circuit.....	24, 25
Harrisonburg and Centerville....July	1, 2
Columbia circuit.....	8, 9

F. WHITE, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.

Morean street and Algiers:
Quart. Conf. at Morem st., 7½ P. M. May	1
Preaching at Algiers.....Apr.	23
Preaching at Morem street.....	30
German charges:
Quart. Conf. at Dryades st., 7½ P. M. May	5
Preaching.....	7
Carondelet street.....	21
Felicity street.....	28
Baton Rouge.....June	3, 4
Louisiana avenue.....	11
Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, at Plaquemine.....	18
Cadiz street and Carrollton.....	25
Thibodaux.....July	2
Quarterly Meeting at Houma.....	16

LINUS PARKER, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.

Keachie circuit, at Bell Bower. May	6, 7
Pleasant Hill and Manny circuit, at Bethel.....	13, 14
Caddo circuit, at Friendship.....	20, 21
Mooringsport circuit.....	27, 28
Shreveport station.....June	3, 4
Anacoco.....	10, 11
Springville circuit.....	18, 19

JOHN PIPES, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.

Lake Charles..... May	13, 14
Calcasieu Pass.....	18, 19
Grand Chenière.....	20, 21
Opelousas..... June	3, 4
Plaquemine Brulee.....	10, 11
Bellevue.....	17, 18
Franklin and Pattersonville.....	24, 25
New Iberia..... July	1, 2

J. D. ADAMS, P. E.

MINDEN DISTRICT.

South Bossier, at Harmony..... May	6, 7
North Bossier, at Red Land.....	13, 14
North Bossier col. ct., at Red Land	13, 14
Mount Lebanon, at Arcadia.....	20, 21
Mount Lebanon col. ct., at Arcadia	20, 21
Lake Bisteneau, at Brushwood...	27, 28
Sparta..... June	3, 4
Louisville.....	10, 11

S. S. SCOTT, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.

Houston.....May	13, 14
Chickasaw.....	20, 21
Line Creek.....	27, 28

The district stewards are earnestly requested to meet at West Point, March 18. My address is Gainesville, Alabama.

THOS. Y. RAMSEY, P. E.

YAZOO DISTRICT.

Valden circuit.....May	6, 7
Hollfontaine circuit, at Lebanon..	13, 14
Winona circuit, at Bethesda.....	20, 21
Black Hawk circuit, at Emory....	27, 28
Lexington.....	29

W. P. BARTON, P. E.

DRY GOODS.

DIRECT IMPORTATION

OF

EUROPEAN DRY GOODS.

D. H. HOLMES,

NO. 155 CANAL STREET

AND

NO. 15 BOURBON STREET,

New Orleans,

Have constantly on hand a General Assortment of

Fancy & Staple European Goods,

With a Complete Stock of

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES.

All which they offer at

Most Advantageous Prices.

fe11 6m

BUSINESS CARDS.

KURSHEEDT & BIENVENU,

IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN

Plantation and Builders' Hardware,

MARBLE, MARBLEIZED SLATE

AND IRON MANTLES,

Grates, Hearths and Fire Bricks,

NO. 114 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

np27 1y

ARTIFICIAL LEGS & ARMS.

DR. BLY'S PATENT ANATOMICAL LEGS have side motion at the ankle like the natural one, and are warranted for five years. A perfect fit guaranteed or no sale. Descriptive pamphlet sent free by mail. Address

DR. H. BLY.

ap27 1y No. 59 Camp st., New Orleans.

D. J. WASSON, BUILDER.

Office—204 St. Joseph St., New Orleans.

Will contract for or superintend the construction of Sugar Houses and other buildings in the country. Plans and specifications furnished if desired.

Refers to H. F. Given and C. L. Walmsley & Co. mh11 1y

BARRETT, SEYMOUR & CO.,

Mercantile, Commercial, Law and Insurance

STATIONERS, PRINTERS,

BINDERS AND LITHOGRAPHERS,

60.....CAMP STREET.....60

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Country orders promptly attended to. no26 1y

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

DENTAL SURGEON,

NO. 152 JULIA STREET, NEAR CAMP,

Over Homeopathic Pharmacy,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Nitrous Oxide Gas and other Anæsthetics for painless operations. oc31 9 1y

MAGIC PRESS.....MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

JOB PRINTER.....JOB PRINTER

77 Magazine street, corner of Poydras, no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. F. W. BACHMAN,

Successor to D. Tillotson, and C. E. Cate & Co.,

BOOTS AND SHOES, TRUNKS, VALISES, Etc.,

18.....CAMP STREET.....18

Under the City Hotel, no5 1y NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. W. H. DAMERON. H. M. PAYNE.

PAYNE, DAMERON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

64 & 66....BARONNE STREET....64 & 66

Between Union and Gravier streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

je19 1y

DR. C. J. HICKHAM,

Office—680 Magazine Street,

Between Philip and First sts., New Orleans.

Will call daily at College building, corner Common and Baronne streets, between eleven and twelve o'clock. je29 1y

PRICE WILLIAMS & SON,

Exchange and Real Estate Brokers

MOBILE, ALABAMA.

Dealers in Bills, Bonds, Notes and Stocks of every kind. Plantations, and lands unimproved, for sale in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. Also every class of Real Estate in Mobile, Alabama. Rent, and pay taxes and insurance on Real Estate in Mobile. Invest money on mortgages, etc., and collect claims.

REFERENCES.

Messrs. Baker, Lawler & Co., Mobile, Ala.
Moses Waring, Esq., Mobile, Ala.
Hon. Milton Brown, Jackson, Tenn.
Bishop J. C. Keener, New Orleans.
Bishop Paine, Mississippi.
Bishop McTyeire, Nashville, Tenn.
Messrs. John T. Farwell & Co., Chicago.
Dean, McGinnis & Co., N. Y. no26 1y

VINEGAR.—How made in ten hours, without drugs. Particulars, ten cts. ap6 3m F. SAGE, Cromwell, Conn.

INSURANCE.

Life Association of America.

Purely Mutual---No Stockholders

Annual Revenue from Policies in Force Dec. 1, 1870, $2,342,944.

LOUISIANA & TEXAS DEPARTMENT.

Premium Receipts Invested IN THE STATES WHERE RECEIVED.

OFFICE:

NO. 46 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Gen. J. B. HOOD, Prest. and Gen Manager.
L. F. GENERES, Vice President.
R. L. GIBSON, Attorney.
SAML. FLOWER, Secretary.
A. M SHANNON, Manager for Texas.
WM. STUART, Assistant Manager for Louisiana and Texas.

Directors.

J. B. Hood.	John Williams.
L. F. Generes.	Wm. M. Perkins.
Charles Baquie.	Julius Valrin.
E. H. Summers.	Richard Pritchard.
Thomas H. Hunt.	Michael Musson.
John Chaffe.	Joseph Hoy.
William S. Pike.	James T. Pace.
Henry V. Ogden.	fe11 6m

THE EQUITABLE

LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NEW YORK.

Assets, $13,000,000.—Income, $7,500,000.

Branch Office—61 CAMP ST.

A. P. CLEVELAND, fe4 0m General Agent.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

BOOK DEPOT

OF THE

Southern M. E. Publishing House,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

STANDARD WORKS,

SCHOOL BOOKS

AND

STATIONERY,

JUVENILE, FAMILY AND

SABBATH S. LIBRARIES

Globes, Maps and School Furniture,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES,

ALBUMS, ETC.

A General Assortment of

Theological and Religious Books

ALSO

THE CHOICEST BOOKS,

Selected with care from the Catalogues of more than

ONE HUNDRED PUBLISHERS

IN

Europe and America.

N. B.—Agency for Guyot's series of Geographies and Wall Maps; Day's Spellers and Felter's Arithmetics; Tenney's Natural Histories, Perce's Magnetic Globes and Appleton's New American Cyclopedia.

Wholesale and retail dealers will do well to call or send for our Price Lists before making purchases. Address

ROBERT J. HARP, Agent,

112 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS.

Catalogues mailed free to any address. fe18 tf

THE PRACTICAL PLANTER.

A MONTHLY AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL, published by GEORGE W. GIFT, Memphis, Tennessee. TERMS—One copy, one year, $1.50; five copies, $6.25; ten copies, $10. MAKE UP CLUBS. Specimen copies free. ap27 1y

EVERY FARMER

SHOULD SEND $1.50 FOR O'HARA'S POCKET GIANT CORN-SHELLER. Shells six bushels per hour; weighs only twelve ounces. A good Agent wanted in every county. Profits large. Send $1.50 for sample. Address

C. T. VAN SICKLEN, mh30 3m 113 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.

A NERVOUS INVALID has published for the benefit of young men and others who suffer from Nervousness, general Debility, etc., a treatise supplying the means of self-cure. Written by one who cured himself, and sent free on receiving a post-paid directed envelope. Address

NATHANIEL MAYFAIR, fe23 3m Brooklyn, N. Y.

FREE TO BOOK AGENTS.

A POCKET PROSPECTUS of the best Illustrated Family Bible, published in both English and German, containing Bible History, Dictionary, Analysis, Harmony and History of Religions, sent free on application.

W. FLINT & CO., my4 3m 26 S. Seventh st., Phila., Pa.

A LADY OF MUCH EXPERIENCE IN teaching, and qualified to teach the usual English branches, desires a situation in a family or school. References exchanged. Address MISS E. M. P., ap27 3t Cooksville, Noxubee Co., Miss.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS

ADDED TO THE

American Educational Series,

PUBLISHED BY

IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,

138 and 140 Grand St., New York.

Just Published:

LITERATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE; comprising representative selections from the best authors; also lists of cotemporaneous writers and their principal works. By E. Hunt, A. M. Price, $2.50.

Now Ready:

GREEK PRAXIS; OR GREEK FOR BEGINNERS. Adopted as a Text-book in the College of the City of New York. By J. A. Spencer, S. T. D., Professor of the Greek Language and Literature in the College of the City of New York.

A SHORTER COURSE IN ENGLISH GRAMMAR. By Simon Kerl, author of Common School Grammar, Comprehensive Grammar, Composition and Rhetoric, etc., etc. Adapted for use in schools where only one text-book in Grammar is intended to be used, and is undoubtedly one of the best works of this kind before the public. One volume of 240 pages. Price, 75 cents.

Recently Published:

ELEMENTS OF COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC. By Simon Kerl. One volume, 12mo, 400 pages. Price, $1.25. This is a simple concise, progressive, thorough and practical work on a new plan.

READING AND ELOCUTION. By Anna T. Randall. This book contains 450 pages; is printed on fine, delicately-tinted paper, bound handsomely in cloth, and is marble-edged. Sent by mail to any address for $1.40.

SPENCERIAN COPY BOOKS. Reduction in Price. The retail price of the Spencerian Copy Books has been reduced to 15 cents, with usual discounts to the trade.

PUBLISHERS OF

Robinson's Full Course of Mathematics,

The most complete and most popular series of Mathematical Text-books ever published, comprising

ROBINSON'S
Progressive Table Book.....	30 cts
Progressive Primary Arithmetic..	25 cts
First Lessons in Mental and Written Arithmetic.....	40 cts
Progressive Intellectual Arithmetic	40 cts
Rudiments of Written Arithmetic...	43 cts
Progressive Practical Arithmetic..	94 cts
Progressive Higher Arithmetic.....	$1 40
New Elementary Algebra.....	1 50
New University Algebra.....	2 20
New Geometry and Trigonometry...	2 25
Geometry or Trigonometry, separate	1 25

And several others.

FASQUELLE'S FRENCH SERIES. A series of Text-books unrivaled in this country, having passed through more than fifty editions, comprising Introductory Course, Larger Course, Colloquial Reader, Manual of Conversation, Telemaque, Napoleon, Racine, etc.

WOODBURY'S GERMAN SERIES. A course founded on similar principles with Fasquelle's system.

GRAY'S BOTANICAL SERIES.

WILLSON'S HISTORICAL SERIES.

WELLS' SCIENTIFIC SERIES.

COLTON'S GEOGRAPHIES, and many others.

Descriptive circulars, illustrated catalogues and the Educational Reporter mailed free on application.

First supplies of these books for introduction can be obtained at this office at one-half the retail price; and those who desire have their books packed with their goods ordered from Mr. Harp.

Correspondence relating to the introduction of our books is respectfully solicited, and all letters and orders

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED BY ROBT. J. HARP, FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. XVII. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1871. NO. 18.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Wilmington, N. C., May 10.—Last night Lowry and his band of outlaws went to Lumberton, in Robeson county, broke open the jail, released several of his followers, and retired without molestation, though a company of United States soldiers were quartered in the town.

Confederate memorial day was celebrated here to-day, and with great spirit. In the afternoon all business was suspended, and thousands visited the cemetery, where a coration of the graves took place. There was an imposing procession, and an eloquent address was delivered by Major Robert Strange.

Boston, May 10.—The national convention of the Grand Army of the Republic assembled here to-day, General Logan presiding, and one hundred and fifty delegates present. Nearly every Northern State is represented. The proceedings are in secret.

Scranton, May 10.—Three dead negroes were found in the swamp, beaten and kicked to death. Other outrages occurred.

The police and military are in strong force, but the irritation is great.

Harrisonburg, Va., May 10.—There was snow last night on North mountain, ten miles from here, three inches deep.

Washington, May 10.—The joint high commission treaty was read in executive session to-day. The reading required about one hour.

Mr. Cameron spoke in commendation of its provisions, and hoped it would be acceptable to the Senate and people. He moved that the treaty be given to the press, but withdrew the motion at the suggestion of Mr. Conkling.

Mr. Sherman spoke in deprecation of the treaty, suggesting amendments, which he hoped some one would suggest. Senate adjourned to Friday.

Galveston, May 11.—A special to the Galveston News from Austin, the tenth, says: By a resolution of the House, Speaker Evans was retained by a vote of 41 to 29.

Sinclair was elected speaker by a vote of 44 to 30.

New York, May 11.—The Tribune publishes the text of the treaty. The Alabama claims are to be referred to five arbitrators, the executives of Portugland, Brazil, Switzerland, Italy and the United States each naming one, to sit in Geneva. If, instead of making an award in bulk, the arbitrators only establish rules for the settlement, a board of assessors, one appointed by the Queen, one by the President, and a third chosen by the two, will meet in Washington to finish the work.

Three special rules of neutral obligations are laid down:

It shall be the duty of a neutral nation to use due diligence to prevent the building and fitting out, within its jurisdiction, of any vessel intended to make war upon another nation, with which it is at peace.

It shall be the duty of a nation within its territory to permit such vessels to enter any of its ports for repairs, munitions or supplies, or having entered, to permit their departure.

It shall be the duty of a nation to exercise due diligence to prevent the violation of any of these obligations or duties by any of its ports or waters.

Washington, May 12.—The census tables for Louisiana show 301,271 whites, 363,067 colored, 569 Indians and 2 Chinese, all born in the United States, and 61,827 of foreign birth, the latter nearly all white. The birth places of negroes in Louisiana are: Alabama 9,738, Arkansas 5, California 3, Connecticut 12, Delaware 30, Florida 826, Georgia 6, Illinois 69, Indiana 42, Iowa 1, Kansas 1, Kentucky 6,005, Louisiana 263,956; against 237,453 in 1860: Maine 23, Indiana 5,485, Massachusetts 60, Michigan 9, Minnesota 93, Mississippi 17,831, Missouri 1,613, New Hampshire 3, New Jersey 23, New York 178, North Carolina 5,237, Ohio 186, Pennsylvania 157, Rhode Island 8, South Carolina 7,048, Tennessee 4,127, Texas 2,335, Vermont 5, Virginia 108, West Virginia 65, Wisconsin 6, District of Columbia 459.

The number of citizens, white, born in Germany 18,933, France 12,336, Ireland 17,068, Italy 1,889, Spain 190.

Buffalo, May 12.—An emigrant train, bound West, collided with a freight train; five children were killed and fourteen adults killed and wounded. The Sisters of Charity cared for the wounded at their hospital.

New York, May 12.—The first anniversary meeting of the American Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews was held here to-day. The report shows that there are two hundred and fifty thousand Jews in the United States, and sixty-five thousand in New York.

Chicago, May 13.—Rev. J. Cotton Smith, of New York, will preach for Mr. Cheney to-morrow, and it is announced that upon subsequent Sabbaths Mr. Tyng, of New York, Rev. Mr. Sabine and other prominent Eastern clergymen will occupy Cheney's pulpit.

Washington, May 13.—The returns of the census office, with only four counties incomplete, and these estimated, show a colored population in all the States and Territories of 4,857,000, a gain of 9 35-100 per cent. since 1860. The States stand in the following order in respect to the colored population: Georgia, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Louisiana, Tennessee, Texas, Maryland, Arkansas, Missouri, Florida, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana, Delaware, West Virginia, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Connecticut, Iowa, Rhode Island, Colorado, Wisconsin, Maine, Vermont, Nebraska, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Nevada and Oregon.

Louisville, May 13.—At a meeting of the street railroad managers, held to-day, they agreed that it was useless to try to resist or evade the enforcement by the United States authorities of the right claimed by the negroes to ride in the street cars. The negroes having refused the offer of special cars, and determined to insist on riding with the whites, it was decided best to avoid serious collision by opening the cars to them. It is likely no further trouble will occur beyond occasional collisions with roughs.

Washington, May 15.—A territorial government for the District of Columbia was organized this morning. Officers all Republican.

New York, May 15.—Commodore James Glynn is dead.

In the Foster case, for the murder of a merchant while leaving a street car with a party of ladies, the panel was exhausted without obtaining a jury. Foster was brought into court handcuffed. The court was cleared of all but the jurors, counsel and reporters.

At the Methodist Preachers' Convention Dr. Curry held that the General Conference could control the bishops, and even abolish that office altogether. In reality there are only two classes of Christians—the laity and ministers. Bishops possessed no judicial power. A discussion followed, most of the speakers concurring with Dr. Curry.

Wilmington, N. C., May 15.—The statement made in Northern papers, based on a telegram of the Associated Press, sent from this point May 10, that the Robeson county outlaws are Ku-Klux, is erroneous. Lowry, Applewhite and Strong, the recognized leaders of the band, are all negroes, and it is not known that a single white man is connected with the band.

New York, May 15.—The North Louisiana and Texas railroad, running from Vicksburg to the Texas line, was purchased on Saturday by Colonel W. H. Roberts, of Louisiana, and Charles A. Dana, of this city, for $2,000,000. The purchasers propose to build through to Shreveport without delay.

Louisville, May 15.—The river has fallen two feet in the past twenty-four hours, leaving thirteen feet in the chute and fifteen feet in the canal. Weather clear and warm. Mercury eighty-five. Business dull.

Cincinnati, May 15.—River thirty-one feet in the channel and falling fast. Weather clear and warm.

Pittsburg, May 15.—Weather clear. Monongahela four feet ten inches in the canal and falling.

Memphis, May 15.—Weather cloudy; mercury eighty-two. River rising.

Washington, May 16.—Up to the last hour nothing definite has been received from Paris.

The pay of enlisted men in the army will, in accordance with an act of Congress, be reduced $3 per month after June 30 next. This will save a million and a half annually.

It is considered the President's proclamation covers all the necessary action at present under the Ku-Klux bill. Further action will follow emergencies.

It is expected the order remodeling the military districts will not be issued till full.

FOREIGN.

San Domingo, May 6.—The toe disease which prevails here is spreading, and over a thousand cases are in the hospitals.

Frankfort-on-the-Maine, May 10. A definite treaty of peace between France and Germany was signed at two o'clock to-day.

London, May 11.—The treaty of peace just concluded at Frankfort abrogates the commercial treaty between France and Germany, and gives to Prussia the control of railways in the ceded territory in consideration of a deduction from the war indemnity of three hundred and twenty-six millions of francs. One of the clauses of the treaty provides for the acquisition, by Prussia, of the railway from Thionville to Luxemburg.

Ponyer Quertier has gone to Mayence and Cologne to make arrangements for the speedy return of French prisoners to Versailles.

Versailles, May 11.—Important news has been received from Algeria, where the condition of affairs is decidedly improved. The Arab insurgents were defeated in an engagement, in which their leader was killed.

Paris, May 11.—Fort Vanvres was captured last night by the Versailles troops and held for a short time, when it was recaptured by the Communist forces. There has been desperate fighting there to-day. The fort is in a very dilapidated condition, and it will become imperative upon the forces of the Commune to evacuate. The government troops make daring attacks upon Neuilly and Asnieres.

Berlin, May 12.—In the German Parliament to-day Bismarck gave the particulars of his recent visit to Frankfort to confer with Favre and Ponyer Quertier. He said if the object sought had not been accomplished the Germans would have taken possession of Paris, and demanded the withdrawal of the Versailles forces behind the Loire.

The treaty which was concluded hastens the payment of the war indemnity to Germany. Half a milliard of it is to be paid by France thirty days after the entry of the Versailles army into Paris, and a milliard more before the end of December. Then only will the Germans evacuate the Paris forts. As to the abrogation of the commercial treaty, Bismarck stated the withdrawal of France from the maintenance of that instrument was merely for the purpose and hope of receipts and increased custom duties with which to liquidate her indebtedness. The ratification of the treaty will be exchanged on the twentieth instant.

London, May 12.—The Times of to-day is convinced that the basis and essential provisions of the treaty of Washington will certainly be adopted by the American Senate, and therefore believes the treaty virtually concluded.

As for the treaty itself, it is the result of mutual concession, and the Times finds in it nothing inconsistent with national honor, or that England is not ready to sacrifice to restore amity between the branches of the Anglo-Saxon family.

London, May 13.—Special dispatches from Paris say a levy en masse is expected. General La Creicila becomes generalissimo.

The Commune has made a demand upon the Bank of France for ten millions francs.

The residences of Favre and Thiers have been destroyed.

The furniture of the palaces of the Tuileries, Louvre and Elitzes was sold to-day.

Paris, May 13.—It is supposed an attempt to murder Dombrowski was made by a stranger, on whom a revolver was found. He asked for the general, and quarrelled with the sentinel upon his refusing to admit him. The sentinel killed the stranger with his bayonet.

Four members of the National Guard have been shot for treason.

San Francisco, May 13.—Advices from Japan state that three great clans there are united under the leadership of Prince Satsuma to maintain the Mikado in full powers against the Tycoon and party. Satsuma is now virtually dictator.

He has sent his father to Yeddo to take possession of the government in his name.

A Japanese mint has been established on the American plan at Osaka, and a naval arsenal at Takiska has been inaugurated with great ceremonies. A postal system has also been inaugurated, commencing with the route from Kioto to Yeddo.

Paris, May 14.—General Dombrowski has ordered that all officers refusing to obey superior officers be shot. He reviewed fifty thousand troops at Neuilly this morning.

It is said that seven young men and a number of young women, with ambulances bearing the red cross, were refused quarter by the Versaillists.

The committee on war has been abolished in consequence of differences with the central committee.

London, May 15.—A special to the Times says Pyat openly declares the fall of the Commune imminent. The National Guards decline to march, and talk of opening the gates to the Versaillists. General Dombrowski's orders are not obeyed.

The women of Paris interviewed the Commune and demanded arms to fight the Versaillists.

Paris, May 15.—Besloy, who has been called the father of the Commune, retires because the residence of Thiers was despoiled.

Versailles, May 15.—Sixty cannon found in Vanvres and Montretout continue to demolish the Paris walls and protect the approaches of the besiegers.

London, May 15.—The congress of municipal delegates called by the partisans of the Commune at Bordeaux is a failure.

Luxemburg is closed and occupied by the militia in anticipation of a rising on the part of the population.

The trial of Boulton and Park, implicated in the woman personating masquerade, resulted in their acquittal.

Versailles, May 15.—The bombardment continues. Several breaches have been made in the wall. Antequil gate has been entirely destroyed.

Paris, May 15, afternoon.—The Versaillists are under the walls of Paris, exchanging shots with the Communists, who line the ramparts from Porte de la Muette, in the arrondissement of Passy, to Porte d'Issy.

The insurgents have been expelled from the trenches between Fort Vanvres and d'Issy.

A battery has been erected in the Tuileries garden to pour a flank fire into the Champs Elysses.

Evidence is indubitable that a widespread conspiracy exists in Paris against the Commune.

St. Johns, May 15.—The Assembly is debating the Washington treaty, which meets with great opposition.

Toronto, May 15.—The government press here give rather equivocal support to the treaty of Washington, while the opposition papers, on the contrary, are very decided in their expressions of disapproval, holding that to grant to the citizens of the United States the right to fish in Canadian waters may make it necessary for the American government to adopt a policy of reciprocity.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and journals that represent the French-speaking population of Ontario, are in favor of rejecting all parts of the treaty affecting Canada. The Globe thinks self-interest should direct the people of Canada in any consideration of the treaty, while at the same time it recommends that a difference of opinion in the matter between Great Britain and the Dominion should be avoided.

Paris, May 16.—The Communists sortied last night and found the Versaillists strongly posted in the Bois du Boulogne, but were forced to retreat with heavy loss.

The Versaillists' fire continues around the ramparts from Pourt du Jour and the Porte Maillot. The Versaillists have bridged the Seine at Purtreux and brought over much artillery.

The Cri du Peuplo says chemicals have been prepared to annihilate the Versaillists when they assault the ramparts.

Versailles, May 16.—The bombardment of the Paris walls was uninterrupted to-day. No important results.

The Assembly have appointed a committee to report on the Frankfort treaty. The expected cession of territory provokes severe criticism.

Paris, May 16.—The latest attempts of the engineers to overthrow the column in the Place Vendome have been ineffectual.

Paris, May 16.—An organization of many thousands exists, ready to rise against the Commune immediately after the Versaillists assault the ramparts.

The Commune to-day split into two factions, each at open war with the other.

The Versaillists have effected three practicable breaches and massed a large number of troops within five hundred yards of the ramparts.

The destruction of life and property by the bombardment, in the American quarter to-day, was fearful.

Paris, May 16.—Immense crowds gathered this afternoon in the vicinity to witness the expected fall of the Column Vendome. Great efforts have been made by the Communist engineers to tear the column from its base, but it has yet withstood their utmost exertions. The engineers have not, however, given up hope of success, and are now renewing their attempts. The members of the Commune and battalions of the National Guards are on the ground.

New Orleans and the Cotton Crop.—Though there is plenty of money now lying idle in this city, and there are but few of our cotton factors or press owners or shipping agents or brokers who could not afford to invest a small amount of money in some enterprise to increase the cotton trade of New Orleans, we do not hear of a single movement in that direction. An iron barge line on the lower rivers has been talked of, but there is nothing to indicate the immediate organization of a company for that purpose. We are lying supinely upon our oars and permitting our trade to be taken away by more active cities.

Up to Friday night New Orleans had received 1,388,000 bales of cotton out of a total that had been marketed up to that date of about 3,760,000 bales, if we estimate the amount sent overland at 142,000 bales. Had we received all that we might have obtained with more energy on our part, this total would have been something like 1,750,000 bales. The cotton product of the Mississippi valley has increased, during the past two years, twice as fast as the receipts at New Orleans.

Some of our readers no doubt will be surprised to know that Memphis has received since the first of September up to the sixth ultimo 485,925 bales of cotton, against 265,987 during the same period last season—showing an increase of 219,938 bales during the year.—Picayune, May 11.

The Ammonia Motor.—Dr. Lamm made several trips from the halfway station to the Clay Statue yesterday with his car, propelled by the ammoniacal engine. Accompanying him upon one of these trips, we noted an increased facility of running on curves, stopping, slackening or starting. The machinery seems to be under the easy and ready control of the inventor, who manages his brakes and throttle valve with entire confidence and with but little exertion. The noiselessness of the car in motion makes it necessary to ring a bell constantly to notify persons crossing the track. This is now done by an attendant; but of course when the motor is adapted to general use the bell will be rung by some simple attachment to the machinery. The public should bear in mind that the engine employed is nothing more than the first rude extemporized model, applied to an old street car, where many mechanical difficulties of detail were to be overcome. Much of the machinery was made or adapted by the inventor, or under his direction, from such materials and resources as could be most readily commanded. The effect will be very different when newly constructed engines are fitted to cars of a better and more suitable character. The great and meritorious discovery and principle will be the same, but the practical use and exhibition will be attended with more pleasing effect and more eclat.—Picayune, May 11.

Comparisons.—The city of Chicago, with a population of about 300,000, runs her schools at an expense of $714,000 per annum and her police for $562,000 per annum.

St. Louis, with a population of about 300,000, runs her police force—which only consists of 350 men—at an expense of $350,000 per annum.

New Orleans, with a population of about 240,000 souls, spends annually for her schools $350,000, and for her metropolitan police force the enormous sum of $900,000.—Picayune.

Unsectional, unpartisan, unpolitical School Books are now the great need in all sections of the country. These requirements are fully met in the books of the "University Series," which are for sale by all our booksellers. It is a subject for special congratulation that these admirable books are the productions of our own Southern scholars and teachers, and therefore specially commend themselves to our people.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Hopeful Words for the Sick and Suffering is a beautiful little volume published by the Society for the Propagation of Evangelical Knowledge, in New York. It is made up of choice selections designed to comfort the afflicted.

The Silver Song is a collection of Sabbath school music, published by W. W. Whitney, Toledo, Ohio. It contains one hundred and fifty-four songs set to music, and many of them are very good. We are glad to notice the absence of national and religious doggerels.

Of the May Magazines, hitherto not noticed, we have received: The Old and New, a good number, bating its characteristic flaws of doctrine. The Manufacturer and Builder, published by Western & Co., New York, and unsurpassed by any similar publication. American Agriculturist, by Orange Judd & Co., New York, full of pictures and matters pertaining to spring husbandry. The Galaxy, ever improving, and all the better for dropping Mark Twain. Lippincott's Magazine, with a fine and varied table of contents, characterized by taste and enterprise. The Southern Farm and Home, published by J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, Georgia, handsomely illustrated and well edited, and adapted to our climate and soil. The Practical Planter, a comparatively young but well conducted agricultural journal, published at Memphis, Tennessee—George W. Gift, editor. The American Sunday School Worker, for parents and teachers, published at St. Louis. Sunday School Journal, for teachers and young people, published by the Methodist Episcopal Church and edited by Dr. Vincent. Wood's Household Magazine, Newburg, New York.

The Musical Bulletin, published by Charles W. Harris, New York, is a very desirable periodical for all who wish to keep themselves informed about what is going on in the musical world. The May number, besides reading matter, contains two superior pieces of music.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY.

The following action was taken by the Educational Convention which met at Waxahachie, Texas, April 6:

Resolved, 1. That the convention appoint a commission of location, consisting of two members of the delegation from each Conference, one lay and one clerical; and the representation of three Conferences shall constitute a quorum, who are hereby empowered to locate within the following limits, in the State of Texas: North of the thirty-first degree of north latitude, and between the nineteenth and twenty-second degrees west longitude from Washington, including also the counties of Bell, Williamson, Burnet and Travis.

2. That said commission are hereby instructed, if practicable, to locate the University upon a large body of land accessible to railroad.

3. That the chairman of this convention appoint agents to assist the traveling agents and the commissioners in procuring donations of land and cash subscriptions, to be deposited with Alford & Veal, at Galveston, subject to the draft of the chairman of the commission, and said commissioners shall be allowed a reasonable compensation for their services, traveling expenses, printing bills, etc.

4. That the commission be required to report from time to time to the chairman of the convention, and their final report shall be made to this convention at a session to be held at the time and place of the meeting of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference.

The fourth Thursday in June, 1871, was fixed as the time, and Waco the place, of the meeting of the commission.

Dr. J. W. P. McKenzie was elected president of the convention in the absence of the president, Bishop Marvin—provided for by the action of the Conferences.

On motion the name "Texas University," selected by the convention at Galveston, was confirmed.

Rev. Henry D. Green, a venerable minister of the Methodist Church in Sumter circuit, South Carolina Conference, died April 20, 1871. A good, wise, honored and heavenly-minded, this long-ready and waiting servant of Christ was gathered as a shock of ripe corn even to the garner above.—Christian Neighbor.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1871.

SERMON BY BISHOP PIERCE

ON

BISHOP JAMES O. ANDREW.

TEXT.—First Philippians, first chapter, twentieth to the twenty-sixth verses, inclusive: "According to my earnest expectation and my hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also, Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death. For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labor; yet what I shall choose I wot not. For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better; nevertheless, to abide in the flesh is more needful for you. And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all, for your furtherance and joy of faith; that your rejoicing may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me by my coming to you again."

By his own request, as well as by the appointment of my brethren, I am about to preach, as I may be able, the funeral of Bishop James O. Andrew. In the selection of a theme for this occasion I have been much perplexed; first, because memorial services have been held in well nigh all of the leading churches of our widespread connection; and while I do not aspire to originality, I would nevertheless avoid sameness; secondly, because in our church papers we have had editorial portraitures of the deceased, with sketches from other master hands, covering all the points upon which it would have been appropriate for me to dwell. Moreover, members of his own family, and loving friends here and there, have written and published facts and incidents of his private and public history, thus forcing me either to the necessity of omission or of repetition. Besides, while texts are common enough for an ordinary funeral, this funeral is uncommon in many of its aspects and relations. There gathers about it an extraordinary interest. More than two months have elapsed since the mortal body of our now sainted father in Israel was consigned to its last resting place. The virtues of the deceased have been commemorated in song and prayer and sermon. His surviving household have embalmed him in the tears of their affection, in the consolations of their faith, in the anticipations of a blessed hope—all more precious than the spices of the East. The church which loved and honored Bishop Andrew has bewailed his loss in the solemn assembly of her people, and, while sad under bereavement, has blessed God who gave him so graciously, spared him so long, and at last has taken him away so gloriously. And now his colleagues in office and his fellow laborers in the ministry have met to lay their offering upon his tomb, to catch afresh the inspiration of his example, to vow once more fidelity to the cause he loved, and to rejoice together in the prospect of renewed fellowship where there is no more death. Withal, I desired a subject which should embody some one of the great principles of our holy religion most strikingly illustrated in the experience and labors of our departed friend and brother. Here again the question arose, in a character so well balanced, so symmetrical, so composed of all that is just, and true, and good, and lovely: what feature, what attribute shall I select? Yet again, shall I avail myself of his example to make a specific address to his brethren in the ministry, or shall I magnify the grace of God in him by dwelling on those points of more general interest and common to all believers? With these questions all unsolved and insoluble in any way satisfactory to myself, I have read the passage announced, as a starting point.

It is proper to say, in the outset, that I do not propose an exegesis of the text after the manner of commentators, nor an exhaustive analysis, such as would be appropriate to a well digested sermon, but simply a presentation of the principal sentiment as it crops out in the successive phases of its development in this paragraph of apostolic history. Perhaps there never was a more unlikely convert to Christianity than Saul of Tarsus. His powerful intellect, his religion, his very conscience, all under the influence of wrong impressions, his education, his habits, his prospects as a Roman citizen, the implacable malignity of his spirit toward the disciples of Christ, the leadership in a fierce and fiery persecution assigned him by his own countrymen—all precluded the idea of such a change, and by the operation of merely natural causes rendered it morally impossible. That such a man could preach the faith which once he destroyed is an invincible demonstration of the supernatural force of gospel truth. This intrepid, ferocious man was not converted by the slow processes of thought, elaborating a conclusion by the examination of evidence, the balancing of arguments, the comparison of systems. He was not a pupil seeking light, agitated with doubt, swinging between hope and fear, willing to be persuaded, ready to be convinced; but a proud, confirmed self-satisfied Pharisee; a venomous blasphemer; a commissioned prosecutor, armed with the authority of church and state. His words were drawn swords, his breath threatening and slaughter; and now in the very pride of his power, when jubilant hate was panting to pounce upon its victim; when his fierce, vindictive zeal was running riot at the fancied overthrow of the new religion, suddenly, in the light of noon, on the highway, surrounded by his military escort, a voice from heaven articulates the startling question: "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" The terrified auditor, instantly conscious of a superhuman presence, at once responded: "Who art thou, Lord?"

The answer, instinct with power, authority and love, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest," disarms and subdues him. In a moment his commission, Jernsalem, Damascus, the crowd about him, are all forgotten. Gentle and submissive, confessing all, he poured his willing heart into the simple, significant question: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" Smitten blind by this glorious revelation, for three days and nights he was without light, and did neither eat nor drink. Obedient to the heavenly mission, he was led by the hand to Damascus. Ananias, previously instructed, went into the street which was called Straight, and entered into the house where this prisoner of Jesus was, laid his hands upon him and said: "Brother Saul, (sweet word; pity the world should cheat us out of it,) the Lord, even Jesus, who met thee in the way as thou camest, has sent me unto thee, that thou mightest receive thy sight and be filled with the Holy Ghost." Immediately the scales fell from his eyes, the Pharisee died out of his heart, the ravening wolf became gentle as a lamb, and he arose and was baptized, and stood forth a Christian and an apostle, and straightway preached Jesus that he was the Son of God. No man knew it better. He had the evidence in himself that the Crucified was alive and working wonders upon the earth.

Such was the process of conviction and conversion by which this eminent servant of Christ was translated into the kingdom. The revolution was brief, brilliant, but permanent. He was born again; a new heart was given unto him. He was endowed with gifts and grace; his work was mapped out before him, and he was forewarned by the suffering he should endure. The antecedent circumstances of this case were extraordinary miracles, if you please; but the great change was wrought not by the miracle, but by the influence of divine grace upon his heart. Miracles were addressed to the understanding of men, and sometimes compelled assent to truth by their overwhelming testimony, but they were never intended to convert sinners. This belongs to the grace of God. This is the office of the Spirit; so that Paul's conversion may be considered as a pattern and an example to those who shall hereafter believe.

Now, I wish you to observe that the very language of Scripture, in defining the great moral change, was verified in him. The figures which illustrate it were realized; the fruits it produces were brought forth; the evidences that authenticate it were all embodied in it, consciously to himself, visibly to others. He was a new creature. Old things did pass away, and all things became new. The whole current of his affections was changed; sin had no more dominion over him; he was crucified unto the world, and the world unto him. He denied himself; he bore the cross; he lived in the flesh by faith in the Son of God, who loved him and gave himself for him. True, the man did appear in the Christian. There was the same intellect, enterprise, resistless energy, heroism; but now exalted and refined, how changed in their use and development and appropriation!

This man makes his first appearance in history at a scene of blood, holding the raiment of them who slew the martyr Stephen. Look at him! Bold, stern, no pity in his eye, hate in his heart, his rancorous malignity gloating in the groans and wounds and death of his victim. Now, see this same man, and yet not the same, a prisoner on his defense before Agrippa, bold, fearless, upright. Converging his argument into one startling interrogatory, he said: "King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest;" and Agrippa, surprised and confounded, said: "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." Oh, how the grace of God beams and burns in the answer: "I would to God that not only thou, but all that hear me this day, were not only almost, but altogether such as I am, except these bonds." I ask no companionship in prisons and persecutions; the Lord spare you all these; but I would that you were partakers with me in the peace and comfort and hope of the gospel.

I have laid stress upon Paul's conversion, its depth, universality, entireness, not merely because it is a significant fact in the history of Christianity, but because it is the key to his whole character; its radiance spreads all over his apostleship. It gives tone and direction to his life, explains his principles, accounts for his firmness, and constitutes him a type and standard to the church to the end of time.

Fidelity to souls and to God compels me to say that, in these days, people get religion too easily—religion, so called. I am awfully afraid it is no religion at all; at least a religion outside of saving power, divine communion and Christ-likeness. Conversion never goes any deeper than conviction for sin. The heart may be punctured and not broken. The spirit may relent and stop short of contrition. A shallow repentance will lead to a superficial experience, irregular and unreliable, and even church membership under these circumstances will be merely a sentimental association sacred only by contrast, having no authority of law over the conscience, and no constraining sense of responsibility in view of its duties and its services. I would not take a single example even from the Scriptures and make it the standard of an arbitrary judgment. I concede great variety and diversity in the manner in which men are enlightened and renewed. I do not propose to measure the tears of penitence or count the sighs of godly sorrow, or define or regulate the expression of religious feeling. I do not mean to exaggerate the time, or the place, or the means, or the circumstances of conversion; but I do insist upon reality, and reality that verifies itself, harmonizing with the didactic teachings and pictorial representations of the Bible. There must be disgust with sin, the abnegation of self, separation from the world, an eye single to the glory of God, a thirst for religious knowledge, an absorbing desire for purity of heart, a yearning zeal for the salvation of mankind. These things are not the ornamental trappings, but the essential attributes of Christian character. They are not the monopoly of the favored few, but the common heritage of all true believers. They are not limited to the apostolic age, nor are they recorded of the early Christians as exceptional things. They inhere in the very nature of religion, identify its celestial origin, and were intended to be exemplified in every age, by every generation.

What estimate, then, shall we put upon that religious profession which leaves the subject unchanged in will and taste and affection and association, which allows unlimited community with the world in its fashionable follies, its pride and its pursuits, which sacrifices independence and principle and conscience upon the altar of the world's opinion, which subordinates the holy claims of our blessed Christianity to the behests of an artificial civilization, which would rather grieve the Spirit than brave the taunt of a class or a clique, which would rather forfeit the favor of God and compromise integrity than dare to be singular? The great blunder of modern times is that most people professing religion neither propose nor desire to be very religious or eminent in their usefulness and their labor, but satisfy themselves with such a variety of piety as may serve to pass them reputably through the world and perhaps safely into heaven at last. The premium on the policy of this mode of insurance is very cheap and liberal in the community; but I tell you to-day that it is as delusive as it is cheap; it is as ensnaring as it is liberal; it is as worthless as it is accommodating. Why, brethren, I am neither a croaker nor a fogy, but I fear me that the church is colluding and compromising with the world to the undoing of both parties. The world is courting the church to give respectability to her follies, and the church is abating her testimony and modifying her example, as though she too was ready for the uncongenial marriage. She is parting with her Christian liberty—the liberty to please God and to do good in defiance of times and seasons and maxims and customs, and all for a mess of pottage, and is becoming herself the victim of a debasing and galling servitude to that imperious Jezebel called fashion.

I tell you that our young people, and, alas! alas! our old people too, in many places, are getting away from the doctrines of the Bible and the experience of the fathers. Methodism is intended to be God's witness of a simple, hearty worship, a living, spiritual, felt experience, a holy, self-sacrificing, laborious activity. These things are vital to Christianity; they are never out of place, never unseasonable, never lose their adaptation, always necessary. Ah! I have heard about civilization and progress and changes in society and refinement, and the demands of the age, and perhaps these may modify, here and there, what is simply prudential in the policy of the church; but their unhallowed hands should never be allowed to touch the Ark of the Covenant, either to take out or to put in. The morals of Christianity never alter; the grace of God is essentially the same in its effects and design and demands. The principles of a soul-saving piety are immutable, and just as they wrought in Paul and in Andrew they must work in you and me, and our children and children's children. Now, the text assures us that the very life and soul of religion is absolute, universal, unreserved consecration to the glory of God. Devotion to duty, as the will of God, is the very sentiment of Christian life; it is the all-pervading, transforming, sanctifying element of character. This is the strait gate and the narrow way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it. Here lies the difference between the spiritual and the formal. Here is the secret of faith and assurance. There cannot be justifying faith save as by the process of a godly, sorrow-working repentance, not to be repented of; self-will, preferences, are eliminated, and the heart with full, undivided consent acquiesces in God's method of saving sinners; nor can this faith, and its concomitant evidence of divine favor, be maintained if this principle be either reconsidered or modified. Amid all vicissitudes and revolutions it must remain intact, dominant, presiding in sovereign majesty over heart and life, over our whole nature, material and immaterial. This is the very tap-root of piety, and if it be cut the laterals may serve to eke out a feeble, sickly life, but all vigorous growth and fruitfulness are forestalled, and instead of a tree planted by the rivers of water, with green leaves and laden boughs, we have at best a barren dwarf, most likely in the run of years a trunk barren and dead, and ready for the burning. This universal consecration of ourselves is the way—the highway where no uncleau can pass and no ravenous beast devour.

This, my friends, is the religion that simplifies life, and rids it of all complexity and embarrassment. There is no conflict of motives; there is no friction at any point. Most of the ensnaring temptations of the world are ruled out; there is a continuity of purpose, a steadiness of aim, one simple, intelligible rule of action which precludes all confusion and entanglement consequent upon irresolution. It is the solvent of all moral questions, indicating to the submissive, well educated, obedient conscience both the lawful and the expedient; and amidst demoralization and backsliding and corruption of truth, it projects an airline along which the resolute, cheerful pilgrim may travel without waste of time or fear of loss or hazard of departure. The meek will be teach his way. The work of righteousness is peace, and the effect of it, quietness and assurance forever. The style of religion of which I am now speaking Christianizes secular life and stretches far beyond the district of what is commonly included in what we call devotion. This idea of religion many clever professors seem never to have apprehended. With them, common life is regulated by one set of principles, and what they mean to be their religious life is controlled altogether by another. Perhaps, between the two, there are no downright antagonisms, no glaring inconsistencies, but then there is no mutual service, no co-operation. The common necessary duties of life are not exalted and refined, made sweet and healthful by the infusion of the religious element, but the religious element is diluted and corrupted with worldly admixtures. They seldom or never carry their religion into their business; well nigh always they bring their business into their religion, and their religion is mere patchwork. The scraps artistically combined form a coat of many colors, when it ought to have been a unit in its material, and seamless in its manufacture. If a man is with God and for God only when he sings and prays, or reads and hears, it is obvious that he can be but little with him. The larger portion of our time is demanded by bread and raiment—the toil and the struggle of life; and if there be no recognition of God, no reverence for his authority, oh, what a parenthesis is there in the biography of the Christian heart!

I confess I wonder that many of our people endure as long as they do—unfruitful, because the cares of this life and the deceitfulness of riches have choked the good seed—unhappy, because religion is a periodical visitor, a wayfaring man that turneth aside to tarry for a night, and not an inseparable companion, cleaving all through in the citizenship of the country and the union of the society, to the fellowship of the church—unthrifty, because the cheering signs of occasional promise have no depth of earth from which to draw the needed supplies. No wonder if, when temptation comes, they fall away. Ah, we want a religion which shall go to church with a man and go home with him, preside at his table, chasten his conversation, soothe his temper, plan his labors, regulate his business, dispense his charities, inspire his devotion. We want a religion which by a sanctified intention converts the natural into the moral, the civil into the religious, the place of business into the house of prayer, the field and the forest into holy ground, and the man of the world into the man of God. This, my brethren, is no mystical piety. These views are not strained, overwrought, impracticable; but if I could propagate, if the church would but adopt them, what carefulness they would work in them to avoid sin and please God; yea, what clearing of ourselves of all suspicion and reproach; yea, what indignation against evil, its occasions and instruments; yea, what vehement desire to attain and to illustrate holiness; yea, what zeal to do good and to glorify God; yea, what revenge against our follies; that we may redeem our life, repair damages and recover what we have lost.

Oh, that in all these things God may help us to approve ourselves, that we may be clear in this matter.

